102. Gariwal Jats of mauza Bhawar Thalli and Har Chandpur, Hissar district—Right of collaterals to object to alienation where the common ancestor did not hold the land in dispute.

Found that among Gariwal Jats in the Hissar district a childless proprietor is competent to make a gift of land to his daughter in the presence of remote collaterals, where the common ancestor had never held the land in dispute. BALKI v. BIBA.
43 P R 1890

103. Gift by a sonless proprietor of his self-acquired property to a daughter's sons—Chib Rajputs of mauza Chak Natha, district Gujrat.

Found, that no custom exists among Chib Rajputs of the Gujrat district which prevents a childless proprietor from making a valid gift of his self-acquired immovable property to his daughter's sons in the presence of near agnates. SHARAF ALI v. KARIMULLA.
125 P R 1890

104. Khandoya Rajputs of Jhelum district—Gift to daughters in presence of first cousins once removed.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd

Found, that no special custom exists among Khandoya Rajputs of mauza Jhobi, Jhelum district, rendering a gift by a father to his daughters in the presence of a first cousin once removed invalid. PEER BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT BANO. 132 P R 1890

105. Gift to married daughters by sonless proprietor of Taloka caste, tahsil Khushab, district Shahpur—Kuch Hakiat Construction.

In a suit the parties to which were Talokas of tahsil Khushab, district Shahpur, found that no well-established custom had been proved invalidating a gift of his ancestral lands by a sonless proprietor in favour of his married daughters. The words " Kuch Hakiat " in the Wajib-ul-arz relating to the tribe mean any kind of property rather than a portion of the estate. SHAH WALI v. MUSSAMMAT PANAH BIBI. 133 P R 1890

106. Gujars of Kharian tahsil—Resident son-in-law.

Found, that among Gujars of the Kharian tahsil gifts to daughters whose husband's are resident with the donor, are valid by custom. No. 39 P. R. 1887, referred to.

The fact of the daughter's dholi being taken to her father-in-law's house in another village after her marriage did not operate to render the gift invalid. MUHAMMAD v. MUSSAMMAT HAYAT BIBI. 109 P R 1891

107. Gift to daughter whose husband is a resident son in-law—Mussalman Jats of tahsil Phalian, Gujrat District.

The course of decisions that among Muhammadan Jats and Gujars of the Gujrat district—whose customs in this respect appear to be identical—gifts to daughters whose husbands are khanadamads, are permitted but not gifts to daughters whose husbands do not answer the above description, referred to and followed.

No. 30 P. R. 1887, and No. 109 P. R. 1891, referred to. KAMMA v. NATHU.
96 P R 1892

108. Aulak Jats (Hindu), tahsil Ajnala, Amritsar District—Gift to daughter's son.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Aulak Jats (Hindu) of the Ajnala tahsil, Amritsar district, that it was not proved that by the custom of the donor's tribe a gift to a daughter's son was invalid. MUSSAMMAT MAHTAB KOUR v. WADHAWA SINGH.
131 P R 1893

109. In a case the parties to which were Muhammadan Jats of the Gujrat district, found, that a gift followed by possession by a sonless proprietor to a grand-daughter living with him, whose husband was a gharjawai, entitled the said grand-daughter and her sons to succeed to the donor's estate upon his death. KHAN MUHAMMAD v. ALAM.
92 P R 1895

110. Gift by sonless proprietor to daughter or her husband—Gondals of Bhera tahsil, Shahpur district—Wajib-ul-arz and Riwaj-i-am.

Found that defendants had failed to prove that, by custom among Gondals of Shahpur district, a sonless proprietor is competent to gift ancestral land to a daugther or her husband agaisnt the will of his near agnates. FATTEH-UD-DIN v. JALLU. 70 P R 1896

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

111. Gift by sonless proprietor of entire estate to daughters—Validity of gift in presence of donor's nephews—Arains of Jullundur tahsil.

Found, that defendants, upon whom the burden of proof rested, has proved a special custom whereby, among Arains of the Jullundur district, a gift by a sonless proprietor of his entire estate in favour of his daughters is valid in the presence of the donor's nephews, (brother's sons). SADULLA v. HUSAIN. 2 P R 1897

112. Will in favour of daughter—Khalils of tahsil Peshawar.

In a case, the parties to which were Khalils of tahsil Peshawar, found that an alienation by way of will in favour of a daughter and her sons was valid by custom in the presence of collaterals related to the testator in the fourth degree. KALANDAR KHAN v. ATA-ULLA. 44 P R 1897

113. Among Awans of Khushab tahsil, in the Shahpur District, found, that by custom in the absence of lineal male descendants a male proprietor has an unrestricted power of gifting his immoveable property, whether ancestral or acquired, to his daughter, daughter's son, sister, sister's son, son-in-law, or to one of his agnates to the exclusion of the rest and without their consent. SHER MUHAMMAD v. PHULA.
9 P R 1899

114. Gift by sonless proprietor of ancestral property to daughter—Arains of Hoshiarpur district.

Found, that amongst Arains of Hoshiarpur district, gift by a sonless proprietor of ancestral property in favour of a daughter is valid by custom.

Mussammat Rajadan v. Umra und others (37 P. R. 1878), Nihal and others v. Palla and another (92 P. R. 1888), and Sadula and another v. Hussain and others (2 P. R. 1897), followed. GHAUSA AND ANOTHER v. NATHU. 82 P R 1900

115. Gift by sonless proprietor of entire estate to his daughter's son who was adopted by him previous to the gift—Validity of gift in presence of collaterals—Arains of the Phillour tahsil of the Jullundur District.

Found, that amongst Arains of the Jullundur District, a gift by a sonless proprietor of his entire estate in favour of his daughter's son in the presence of near collaterals is valid by custom.

Mussammat Rajadan and Dana v. Umra and others (37 P. R. 1878), Nihal and others v. Palla and others (92 P. R. 1888), and Sadula and another v. Hussain and others (2 P. R. 1897), considered and followed. ALLA DIA AND OTHERS v. NUR BAKHSH AND OTHERS.
83 P R 1900

116. Gift by sonless proprietor with the consent in accordance with custom of the nearest reversioner to his daughter—Suit by the sons of that reversioner.

In a suit to contest the validity of a gift made by a sonless proprietor in favour of his daughter which was acquiesced in (on a compromise) by the father of the plaintiffs who was the donor's heir and the only reversioner in that degree, the compromise being in accordance with the terms of the Riwaj-i-am, i. e., that a sonless proprietor might with the consent of the collaterals gift a certain amount of his land to a daughter.

Held, that when an alienation has been made good and valid by the consent of the next reversioner given reasonably and without collusion and in accordance with custom, there were no rights left to other more remote reversioners in respect of which they were entitled to contest the validity of the alienation. MUSSAMMAT FATTEH BIBI AND ANOTHER v. ALLAH BAKHSH AND OTHERS.

84 P R 1900

117. Gift by a sonless proprietor in favour of daughter—Ghuman Jats of Daska tahsil, Sialkot district.

Found, that a sonless Ghuman Jat of Daska tahsil could in the absence of custom to the contrary gift his self-acquired property to his daughter and daughter's son, and that a gift of ancestral property in favour of daughters to the extent of $\frac{1}{10}$th share is valid by custom. DEVI DITTA AND OTHERS v. MUSSAMMAT HUKMI AND OTHERS.

85 P R 1900

118. Will—Will in favour of daughter's son—Awans of Shahpur district—Competency of proprietor to make a will in favour of his daughter's son in the presence of his own brother.

Held, that the right to make a bequest by a will exists among the Awans of the Shahpur district, and that a bequest by a sonless proprietor in favour of his daughter's son is valid by custom in the presence of his own brother. ALI MUHAMMAD v. DULLA.

26 P R 1901

119. Ghakhars of Domeli, Jhelum district—Gifts of ancestral property to daughters or daughters and their husbands.

Found, that a gift by a sonless proprietor of his ancestral land to his daughters and their husbands in the presence of a first cousin, was valid by custom of Ghakhars of Domeli in the district of Jhelum.

Muhammad Khan v. Dulla (56 P. R. 1896) distinguished. Jowahir Singh v. Dial Singh (76 P. R. 1898), Ali Muhammad v. Dulla (26 P. R. 1901), Nura v. Tora (46 P. R. 1900), Fattu v. Bakhra (15 P. R. 1895), and Gujar v. Sham Das (107 P. R. 1887, F. B.), referred to. FEROZ KHAN v. AMRI MUHAMMAD KHAN.

53 P R 1902

120. Gift by sonless proprietor to daughters—Khanadamad—Waraich Jats of Shadiwal, Gujrat district.

In a suit the parties to which were Waraichs of Shadiwal in the Gujrat district, the plaintiffs who were nephews of the donor sued for a declaratory decree that the deed of gift executed by the donor in favour of his three daughters should not affect their reversionary rights after his death. During the trial it was proved that the husband of one of the daughters had been living with donor as a khanadamad, held, that the plaintiffs were not entitled to the relief claimed, as they had no right to challenge the gift in presence of the khanadamad who had by custom a title superior to theirs.

Mussammat Baggi v. Mamun (31 P. R. 1895) and Nathu v. Mussammat Karambhari (15 P. R. 1884), cited. HAYAT v. GAUHAR.

80 P R 1902

121. Gift by sonless proprietor to daughter's husband in presence of the first cousins—Koreshis of Bhera, Shahpur district.

Held, that although the Koreshis are agriculturists living by the produce of land for the most part and have in some matters adopted Punjab agricultural customs, in the matters of the power of male proprietors to gift to daughters or their husbands or issues the prevailing custom much more nearly follows Muhammadan Law than agricultural custom, and that a sonless proprietor is competent to make a gift of his property to his daughter's husband in presence of even first cousins.

Mussammat Ghulam Fatima v. Mussammat Maqsudan (69 P. R. 1890), distinguished. GHULAM SHAH v. ZAIN SHAH.

101 P R 1902

122. Gift by sonless proprietor—Awans of mauza Dhanal, Jullundur district—Competency of sonless proprietor to make a gift to his daughter and her son in the presence of his collaterals in the third degree.

In a case, the parties to which were Awans of mauza Dhanal, in the Jullundur tahsil, found, that a gift of ancestral land by a sonless proprietor in favour of his daughter and her son was valid by custom in the presence of agnates in the third degree.

Aulia v. Alu (49 P. R. 1898), Sher Muhammad v. Phula (9 P. R. 1899), Nura v. Tora (46 P. R. 1900), and Ali Muhammad v. Dulla (26 P. R. 1901) referred to. KHAIRU v. FATTU.

14 P R 1903

123 Muhammadan Mair Rajputs of Chakwal tahsil of the Jhelum district—Burden of proof.

Found that amongst Muhammadan Mair Rajputs of the Chakwal tahsil of the Jhelum district, a gift by a sonless proprietor of half of his ancestral land in favour of his daughter's son in presence of his agnatic heirs is valid by custom.

Although, the initial presumption throughout the province is against the power of alienation in respect of ancestral land in village communities and the burden of proof at the outset rests on the person asserting such a power, yet in case of Mahammadan tribes of the Jhelum district the presumption against the validity of a gift by a sonless proprietor to a daughter or daughter's son is not of great weight and may be easily shifted.

Sunder Singh v. Jhanda Singh (51 P. R. 1881), Niaz Ali v. Ahmad Din (109 P. R.

1882), Charagh v. Chamman (53 P. R. 1884), Sabalam v. Mussammat Sarfaraz (122 P. R. 1884), Jiwan v. Mahamad (131 P. R. 1884), Sultan Ahmad v. Muhammad Yar (59 P. R. 1885), Fazl v. Mussammat Bhagbari (93 P. R. 1885), Gujar v. Sham Das (107 P. R. 1887), Ramji Lal v. Tej Ram (73 P. R. 1895), Rala v. Budha (50 P. R. 1885), Fazl v. Alla Bakhsh (129 P. R. 1890), Pir Bakhsh v. Mussammat Bano (132 P. R. 1890), Sayad Rasul v. Fazal (7 P. R. 1891), Muhammad v. Sharf-ud-din (8 P. R. 1891), Sheikh Ghulam Hassan v. Gurmakh (24 P. R. 1891), Karm Bakhsh v. Fattu (108 P. R. 1891), Mussammat Mastur Bano (81 P. R. 1894), Narain Singh v. Gurmukh Singh (116 P. R. 1894), Lehn Singh v. Buta (135 P. R. 1894), Abdulla v. Muhammad (14 P. R. 1895), Fatta v. Bakiar (15 P. R. 1895), Karamdad v. Muhammad (59 P. R. 1895), Shera v. Saghar (83 P. R. 1895), Mussammat Bano v. Fateh Khan (48 P. R. 1903), Mukarrab v. Fatta (88 P. R. 1895), Chaughatta v. Ditta (93 P. R. 1895), Muhammad Beg v. Bahadur (23 P. R. 1896), Muhammad Khan v. Dulla (57 P. R. 1896), Mussammat Nur Bhari v. Dulla (56 P. R. 1899), Nura v. Tora (46 P. R. 1900), Atma Singh v. Naudh Singh (61 P. R. 1901), Haidar Khan v. Jahan Khan (50 P. R. 1902), Feroz Khan v. Amir Muhammad Khan (53 P. R. 1902), Arur Singh v. Mussammat Lachmi (75 P. R. 1898), Ali Muhammad v. Dullu (26 P. R. 1901), and Dilawar v. Mussammat Jatti (2 P. R. 1901), referred to. SHER JHANG, &c., v. GHULAM MOHI-UD-DIN.

22 P R 1904

124. Gift by sonless proprietor to his relations in the female line—Moghals, got Phapra, of Chakwal and Pind Dadan Khan tahsils, Jhelum district—Burden of proof.

Found, that by custom among Moghals, got Phapra, of the Chakwal and Pind Dadan Khan tahsils in the Jhelum district, a gift by a sonless proprietor of the whole or a substantial part of his ancestral immovable property to his relations in the female line is valid in the presence and without the consent of his male agnates.

The effect of Full Bench ruling in Gujar v. Sham Das (107 P. R. 1887), and other cases on the point of burden of proof as to free alienations considered and discussed by Chatterji, J.

Muhammad Beg v. Bahadur (23 P. R. 1896), Muhammad Khan v. Dulla (57 P. R. 1896), Allah Bakhsh v. Muhammad Bakhsh (56 P. R. 1881), Hayat Muhammad v. Fazal Ahmad (52 P. R. 1892), Hassan Ali v. Bahadur (32 P. R. 1893), Ralla v. Budha (50 P. R. 1893), Ramji Lal v. Tej Ram (73 P. R. 1895), Charag v. Chamman (53 P. R. 1884), Sabalam v. Mussammat Sarfaraz (122 P. R. 1884), Sultan Ahmad v. Muhammad Yar (59 P. R. 1885), Fazal v. Mussammat Bhagbari (93 P. R. 1885), Pir Bakhsh v. Bano (132 P. R. 1890), Karam Bakhsh v. Falla (108 P. R. 1891), Bakshi v. Rahim Dad (107 P. R. 1893), Bahadur v. Mussammat Bholi (103 P. R. 1893), Rasul Khan v. Mussammat Mastur Bano (81 P. R. 1894),

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

Shera v. Saghar (83 P. R. 1895), and Chaugatta v. Ditta (93 P. R. 1895), referred to. HASSAN AND OTHERS v. JAHANA.
71 P R 1904

125. Gift by male proprietor to daughter's son—Suit by donor's nephew—Awans of Talagang tahsil of the Jhelum district.

One 'F.', an Awan of mauza Pachnand in the Talagang tahsil of the Jhelum district, gifted certain land and a house to his daughter's son. Notwithstanding the fact that the donor had a son who raised no objection to the gift, the plaintiffs who were the donor's nephews, sued for a declaration that the gift made by 'F.' should not affect their reversionary rights after the death of the donor.

Found, without deciding the question whether or not the presence of the donor's son and his consent to the gift debarred the plaintiffs from contesting the alienation that by custom among Awans of the Talagang tahsil of the Jhelum district a male proprietor is competent in presence of nephews to make a gift of his property in favour of his daughter's son who had rendered him service.

Nura v. Tora (46 P. R. 1900), Bakhsha v. Mir Baz (79 P. R. 1896), Aulia v. Alu (49 P. R. 1898), Sher Muhammad v. Phula (9 P. R. 1898), and Devi Das v. Bhakra (53 P. R. 1899), cited and followed.

Hayat Muhammad v Fazl Ahmad (52 P. R. 1902), Jiwan v. Wazir (39 P. R. 1887), Kadman v. Amir Bibi (122 P. R. 1892), Ghulam Muhammad v. Abbas Khan (22 P. R. 1899), Fatta v. Bakhra (15 P. R. 1895), Ali Muhammad v. Dula (26 P. R. 1901), Bahadur v. Bohli (108 P. R. 1893), Rasul Khan v. Mastur Bano (81 P. R. 1894), and Chiragh v. Chamman (53 P. R. 1884), referred to. KHUDA YAR v. FATTEH.
8 P R 1906

126. Gift by sonless proprietor of ancestral estate to daughter—Validity of, in presence of donor's brother—Sohani Pathans of tahsil Shakargarh, District Gurdaspur.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Sohani Pathans of tahsil Shakargarh in the Gurdaspur district, that a gift of the whole of his ancestral land by a sonless proprietor to his daughter in the presence of a brother of the donor was valid by custom. AMIR KHAN v. RURI.
14 P R 1906

127. Gift by sonless proprietor to daughter's son in the presence of male collaterals—Gujars of mauza Bholiwal Qadim, Ludhiana district.

Found, that by custom among Gujars of mauza Bholiwal in the Ludhiana district, a gift by a sonless proprietor of his ancestral immovable property to his daughter's sons is valid without the consent of his male collaterals, the daughters having both married the same man, and their dolis never having left their father's house, and their husband having been a khanadamad. NIZAM v. GAUHARA.
17 P R 1906

128. Will—Bequest of ancestral property by sonless proprietor to daughter and daughter's son—Gujars of tahsil Gujar Khan, District Rawalpindi—Burden of proof.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

Found, that by custom among Gujars of the Gujar Khan tahsil, Rawalpindi district, a sonless proprietor is competent to bequest the whole of his ancestral immovable property to his daughter and daughter's son in the presence and to the prejudice of his near male collaterals.

Observations by Rattigan, J., as to initial presumption and burden of proof in cases of alienations by the members of Muhammadan endogamous tribes in favour of daughters and their sons.

Bano v. Fateh Khan (48 P. R. 1903 F. B.), Gujar v. Sham Das (107 P. R. 1887 F. B.), Ramji Lal v. Tej Ram (73 P. R. 1895 F. B.), Hassan v. Jahana (71 P. R. 1904), Hem Raj v. Sahiba (116 P. R. 1901), Sheran v. Sharman (117 P. R. 1901), discussed and considered.

Sadulla v. Husain (2 P. R. 1897), Ali Muhammad v. Jawahri (112 P. R. 1889), Sharaf v. Begam (88 P. R. 1890), Raj Bibi v. Kako (106 P. R. 1886), Muhammad v. Hayat Bibi (109 P. R. 1891), Mussammat Kirpi v. Solekh Singh (67 P. R. 1904), Ishar Singh v. Lehna Singh (86 P. R. 1903), Ahmad v. Jahana (52 P. R. 1905), Muhammad v. Sharf-ud-din (8 P. R. 1891), Abdulla Shah v. Kaim Shah (86 P. R. 1894) and Kadman v. Amir Bibi (122 P. R. 1892), referred to. BHOLI v. FAKIR.
62 P R 1906

129. Gift by sonless proprietor of ancestral property to his daughter's son and son's daughter—Arains of Nakodar tahsil, Jullundur district.

Found, that amongst Arains of Nakodar tahsil of the Jullundur district, a gift by a sonless proprietor of his ancestral property in favour of his daughter's son or son's daughter specially where she is married to his daughter's son is valid by custom. PALA v. NUR MUHAMMAD.
133 P R 1906

130. Will—Competency of a sonless proprietor to make a will in favour of his daughter in presence of brother—Awans of Rawalpindi tahsil.

Found, that by custom among the Awans of Rawalpindi tahsil a bequest of ancestral property by a sonless proprietor in favour of his daughter is valid in the presence of his own brother. AMIR ALI v. BAGGO.
15 P R 1907

131. Gift by daughter's son of ancestral maternal estate inherited by his mother from her father under a gift—Jats of Mathothial got of mauza Kulchpur, tahsil Kharian, Gujrat district.

Found, that among Jats of the Mathothial got of mauza Kulchpur, tahsil Kharian, in the Gujrat district, a daughter's son who had succeeded to the property which had been gifted to his mother by her father is competent by custom to gift the said property to his daughter. IMAM DIN v. MULLA.
104 P R 1907

132. Alienation by sonless proprietor of ancestral immovable property to daughter—Locus standi of the collaterals of the eighth

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

degree to contest such alienation—Rattal Jats of Jallo, tahsil Lahore.

In a suit the parties to which were Rattal Jats of mauza Jallo, tahsil Lahore, a sonless proprietor made a bequest of his entire estate, including the ancestral immovable property, to his daughter. The collaterals of the eighth degree contested the alienation. Held that the latter had failed to prove that by custom they were entitled to contest the alienation or to succeed in preference to the daughter. RAJO v. KARAM BAKHSH.
11 P R 1908

133. Gift by male proprietor to his daughter with the consent of his son—Locus standi of reversioners to contest such alienation—Arains of Jagraon tahsil, Ludhiana district.

Found, that by custom among Arains of the Jagraon tahsil in the Ludhiana district a gift by a male proprietor of his ancestral immovable property to his daughter with the consent of his son who is himself childless, is valid and cannot as such be questioned by his reversioners. SHADI v. KHEWNI.
58 P R 1908

134. Bequest of ancestral property by sonless proprietor to daughter—Bukhari Sayads of Gujrat district—Khanadamad—Future son-in-law.

Found, that by custom among Bukhari Sayads of Gujrat district a sonless proprietor is competent to bequeath the whole of his ancestral immovable property to his daughter in the presence of his near male collaterals, and the bequest is for the benefit of her and her issue. But the testator cannot nominate as khanadamad a man who has not married his daughter and come to live in his house up to the time of his (testator's) death. HAYAT SHAH v. FAZAL BEGAM.
70 P R 1908

135. Gift and will in favour of a daughter or daughter's son—Muhammadan Dab Jats of Jhang district.

Found, that the defendant failed to prove that among Muhammadan Dab Jats of Jhang district, a sonless male proprietor is competent to transfer either by gift or will ancestral immovable property to a daughter or daughter's son, or that the daughter or daughter's son was entitled to succeed in preference to the first cousins once removed of the deceased. ALLAH DITTA v. BEG.
48 P R 1909

136. Pathans of Gurdaspur tahsil—Gift to daughter's son in presence of near collaterals—Different entries in Riwaj-i-am of different settlements.

Held, that a sonless Pathan proprietor of the Gurdaspur tahsil has by custom power to make a gift of ancestral land in favour of his daughter's son in presence of near collaterals. ISMAIL v. ISMAIL.
21 P R 1910

137. Will in favour of daughter and son-in-law—Khanadamad—Gujars of Gujrat district.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

Held, that among Gujars of the Gujrat District wills in favour of daughters and their husbands are valid only, if the latter is a duly appointed and regularly and continuously recognized khana-damad. MUHAMMAD v. LAKHAN. 25 P R 1910

138. Gift to married daughter, whose husband is khana-damad, valid as against collaterals—Kahuts, mauza Thirpal, tahsil Chakwal, district Jhelum.

Held, that among Kahuts of mauza Thirpal, tahsil Chakwal, district Jhelum, a gift by a father to his married daughter, who has never left her father's house and whose husband is khana-damad, is valid against collaterals of the father. MUHAMMAD HUSSAIN v. MUHAMMAD. 31 P R 1910

139. Gift by a sonless proprietor to his daughter's sons—Validity of—Mirali Sials of Kabirwala tahsil, District Multan.

Held, that among Mirali Sials of the Kabirwala tahsil (formerly called Serai Sidhu) of the Multan district a gift of ancestral land made by a sonless male proprietor in favour of the sons of a daugher, whose husband was a khana-damad and near collateral, is valid. SHAHAMAD v. NAURANG. 53 P R 1910

II.—Not proved.

140. Gift to daughter's son—Suit by distant reversioner.

A gave his daughter's son a portion of ancestral land; A's nephew in his lifetime sued to set aside the gift, alleging that it was void by custom, the donee living in another village and not having obtained possession. The riwaj-i-am which the parties admitted mainly governed the case, was that if a proprietor put his daughter and his son-in-law in possession of his land the daughter and her issue became owners after the donor's death,—in that case the consent of shareholders was not required. The parties were Muhammadans. Held, that A's nephews were not precluded from suing in his lifetime to contest the gift, and that the gift was void. Held, also, that, as a general rule, a suit for a declaratory decree must be bronght by the next reversioner, but a more distant reversioner may sue where the nearer reversioner has waived or abandoned his rights. SIKANDAR KHAN v. BAHADUR KHAN. 39 P R 1876

141. Muhammadan Sheiks—Childless village proprietor—Gift to daughter's son of ancestral property.

Found that custom precluded a childless village proprietor from making a gift of his ancestral property to his daughter's son, in the presence of nephews. MAMU v. KARM BAKHSH. 39 P R 1878

142. Hindu Jats of Jalandhar—Gift to daughter's son in presence of near male collaterals.

Found, that among Hindu Jats of the Jalandhar district a sonless proprietor of land, cannot in the presence of near male collaterals make a valid gift of his land to his daughter's son, to enure beyond his own life. unless the heirs consent or the donee has been brought up or treated as a son. Nihal Singh v. Kahn Singh (No. 50 of 1875, Civil), Pertab Singh v. Bishan Singh (No. 81 of 1877, Civil), and Miyan v. Sandhi (No. 64 of 1879, Civil) cited. BUDH SINGH v. CHARTU. 128 P R 1882

143. Kambohs of Dipalpur tahsil—Gift of immovable property to daughter.

Found, that by custom a Kamboh of the Dipalpur tahsil is not competent to make a gift of his immovable property to his daughter. MUSSAMMAT BHAGAN v. GAHNA. 177 P R 1883

144. Nijar Jats of M. Pindori Nijjaran, Jalandhar—Gift to daughter's sons.

Found, that no custom exists in mauza Pindori Nijjaran, in the Jalandhar district, whereby a Jat proprietor of the Nijjar got can make a valid gift to grandsons (daughter's sons) who lived with him and were brought up by him, without the consent of collaterals descended from the donor's uncle, there being no adoption and no finding that the father of the donees would, but for the gift, have succeeded as a khana-damad. MUSSAMMAT MEMA v. MAHABBAT. 61 P R 1884

145. To daughter whose husband is non-resident.

See UNDER (i) PROVED Supra. 39 P R 1887

146. Kalals of tahsil Kathal, zilla Karnal—Gift (in form of sale) to daughter's son in presence of grand-nephews.

In a suit the parties to which were Kalals of the Kaithal tahsil of the Karnal District it appeared that the transaction impeached by which one S. had transferred ancestral land to his daughter's son in presence of the plaintiffs, who were grandsons of S.'s brother, though in form a sale, was in fact a gift. It further appeared that the Wajib-ul-arz prohibited a gift to a daughter's son, that on one previous occasion when such a gift was made in the village it was set aside and that there was no evideuce of such a gift being upheld.

Held that the Lower Courts had rightly decided in favour of the plaintiffs and against the gift. NIRBHA RAM v. PUNNU. 75 P R 1887

147. Arains of Ferozepore District—Gifts of ancestral land by sonless proprietor to daughter's son—Near collaterals.

A gift by a sonless proprietor of his ancestral land to his daughter's son in the presence of near collaterals, (viz., the own brother and sons of an own brother of the donor), found to be invalid by the custon of Arains in the district of Ferozepore. Gujar v. Sham Das (No. 107 P. R. 1887), cited. GHULAM v. MAKHNA. 111 P R 1888

148. Possession—Gujars of Shakargarh tahsil, Gurdaspur.

Found that by the custom of the Gujars of tahsil Shakargath (zila Gurdaspur) a gift to a daughter's sons not accompanied or followed by possession is invalid in the absence of proof that such a gift is by custom valid without delivery of possession. ALI MUHAMMAD v. MUSSAMMAT JOWHARI. 112 P R 1889

149. Tawani Rajputs, Umballa District.

Found, that by the custom of the Tawani Rajputs, it is not competent to a sonless proprietor to make a gift of part of his estate to a daughter's son in the presence of nephews. HAKIM ALI v. SHERA. 73 P R 1891

150. Gifts to daughters in presence of near male collaterals—Sayads (Sunnis) of Unchagaon of Balabgarh tahsil, Delhi District.

In a suit the parties to which were Sayads (Sunnis) of the village of Unchagaon in the Balabgarh tahsil of the Delhi District found that the defendants (two daughters) upon whom the burden of proof lay, had failed to establish that by custom (it being admitted that the daughters had no right by inheritance) a gift of ancestral land made in their favour by their father, a sonless proprietor, in the presence of male collaterals descended from the grandfather of the donor without their consent, was valid—MUSSAMMATS BANO BEGAM and JAFRI BEGAM v. SAYAD AHMAD ALI. 32 P R 1892

151. Will—Nun Mussalman Jats, tahsil Bhakkar, Dera Ismail Khan District.

Found in a suit the parties to which were Nun Mussalman Jats of the Bhakkar tahsil of the Dera Ismail Khan District, that no custom was established authorising the bequest of land in favour of a daughter and her sons. UMAR v. MUSSAMMAT SAHIB KHATUM. 76 P R 1892

152. Gifts to daughters whose husbands non-resident.

See (i) (2) PROVED, supra. 96 P R 1892

153. Gift to daughter's son in presence of nephew—Khatris of Ahmadpur, tahsil Shorkot, Jhang District.

Found, that a gift by a sonless Khatri of a village in the Shorkot tahsil of the Jhang District of ancestral immovable property, in favour of his daughter's son, was invalid by custom in the presence of a nephew of the donor. GANGA RAM v. ASA NAND 93 P R 1892

154. Gift to daughters by sonless proprietor—Rights of brother of donor—Muhammadan Gujars, tahsil Kharian, Gujrat District.

Found in a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan Chuhan Gujars of tahsil Kharian in the Gujrat District, that a gift of all his land by a sonless proprietor to his daughters in the presence of a brother of the donor was invalid by custom.

No. 106 P. R. 1886, and No. 39 P. R. 1887, referred to. KADMAN v. MUSSAMMAT AMIR BIBI. 122 P R 1892

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

155. Will—Awans of the Jhelum District—Bequest of whole of testator's land to his daughters in presence of brother.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Awans of the Jhelum District that no custom was proved enabling a sonless proprietor to make a valid disposition of his ancestral property by will in favour of his daughters in the presence of a brother.

No. 121 P. R. 1886, referred to. BAHADUR v. MUSSAMMAT BHOLI. 108 P R 1893

156. Khanadamad—Muhammadan Basra Jats of—Tahsil Raya—Riwaj-i-am—Onus probandi.

Found, that by custom among Muhammadan Basra Jats of mauza Jaguwala, in the Raya tahsil, a sonless proprietor is not competent to make a gift to a daughter without the consent of the next heirs, even when the donee is found to be the wife of a khana-damad, or resident son-in-law. MUSSAMMAT PARDHAN v. WAZIRA. 11 P R 1894

157. Gift by sonless proprietor to daughter's husband—Afghans of Kakar got, Ajnala tahsil, Amritsar District—Consent of collaterals.

Found, that by custom among Afghans of Kakar got, Ajnala tahsil, in the district of Amritsar, a sonless proprietor is not competent to make a gift of his property to his daughter's husband without the consent of kinsmen descended from the donor's grandfather. NAWAB KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT JIAN. 15 P R 1894

158. Awans of mauza Bhodhal, Talagang tahsil, Jhelum District—Onus probandi—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that by custom among Awans of mauza Bhodhal, Talagang tahsil in the Jhelum District, a gift by a proprietor of half his ancestral estate to a daughter is invalid in the presence of sons.

The initial presumption is against such gifts.

Nos. 53 P. R. 1884, 107 P. R. 1887, 132 P. R. 1890, 7 P. R. 1891, and 108 P. R. 1891 referred to. RASUL KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT MASTUR BANO. 81 P R 1894

159. Gift to daughter's son who had been adopted by donor, Sayads of Rawalpindi tahsil.

Found, that by custom among Sayads of the Rawalpindi tahsil the adoption of a daughter's son, who was also a grandnephew of the adoptor, was invalid

A disposition by deed by a Sayad proprietor of the whole of his property, giving three-fifths to the said adopted son, one-fifth to the widow and reserving one-fifth for himself, which was to go after his death to his two daughters and ultimately to the adopted son, found to be invalid by custom.

No. 120 P. R. 1881, referred to. ABDULLA SHAH v. KAIM SHAH. 86 P R 1894

160. Gift by sonless proprietor to daughter's son—Gift not completed by possession—Muhammadan Awans of mauza Pachnand, Talagang tahsil, Jhelum District—Gift made in contemplation of death—Muhammadan Law.

One S., a sonless Muhammadan Awan of mauza Pachnand in the Talagang tahsil of the Jhelum District, executed and registered on the 19th December 1891 a deed of gift of the whole of his ancestral property in favour of his daughter's minor son. The deed was executed at a time when the donor was seriously ill, and was not followed by possession during his lifetime, he dying ten days after its execution. Plaintiffs who were the donor's nephews, sued for a declaration that the said deed of gift should not affect their reversionary rights after the death of the donor's widow.

Held, that it being an essential element to the validity of the gift, both according to the Riwaj-i-am and the decided cases, that it should be completed by a delivery of possession during the donor's lifetime, the validity of the gift in the present case was rightly impeached upon the ground that no possession followod during the lifetime of S.

Held further, that even if viewed as a will (which it did not purport to be) the deed was equally inoperative, even to the extent of one-third of the property, as it was obviously made in contemplation of death within the meaning of the Muhammadan Law relating to death-bed disposition, by which according to the Riwaj-i-am, the parties were to be governed as regards wills.

Nos. 59 P. R 1881, 53 P. R. 1884, 93 P. R. 1885, 132 P. R. 1890, 7 and 108 P. R. 1891, 22 P. R. 1892, 107 and 108 P. R. 1893, and 81 P. R., 1894, referred to. FATTA v. BAKHRA 15 P R 1895

161. Gift by sonless proprietor in favour of daughter's son—Arains of mauza Tungo Heri, Ludhiana tahsil—Onus probandi—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, in a case the parties to which were Arains of the Ludhiana tahsil, that no custom was established whereby a sonless proprietor was competent to make a gift of his property in favour of his daughter's son in the presence of his near collaterals. RAUSHAN v. LEHNA. 36 P R 1895

162. Will in favour of daughter—Khandaya Chauhans, Chakwal tahsil, Jhelum District—Riwaj-i-am.

In a case, the parties to which were Khandaya Chauhans of Chakwal tahsil in the Jhelum District, found that an alienation by way of will made by a sonless proprietor in favour of his daughter is invalid by custom in the presence of warisan ek jaddi. SHERA v. SAGHAR. 83 P 1895

163. Gift by sonless proprietor to daughter's son in presence of nephews—Muhammadan Jats of Rupar tahsil, Umballa District.

Found, in a case the parties to which were Muhammadan Jats of the Rupar tahsil, Umballa District, that defendants, upon whom the onus rested, had failed to prove that a sonless proprietor has by custom an unrestricted power of alienation in the presence of nephews. BHOLA v. CHANDU. 95 P R 1895

164. Gift by sonless proprietor to daughters—Ghorewaha Rajputs of Jullundur District.

In a case, the parties to which were Muhammadan Ghorewaha Rajputs of the Jullundur District, found, that a gift of ancestral land by a sonless proprietor in favour of his daughters was invalid by custom in the presence of agnates, the nearest of whom was related to the donor in the fifth degree. MUSSAMMAT LAKHAN v. RAHMAT KHAN. 101 P R 1895

165. Gift by sonless proprietor in favour of daughter—Mussalman Goraya Jats, Daska tahsil, Sialkot District.

In a case, the parties to which were Mussalman Goraya Jats of the Daska tahsil, Sialkot District, found, that the defendant, upon whom the onus rested, had failed to prove that a gift of ancestral land by a sonless proprietor in favour of his daughter is valid by custom in the presence of near collaterals. HUKAM DIN v. MUSSAMMAT HAKIM BIBI. 16 P R 1896

166. Gift of ancestral estate by sonless proprietor to daughter's son—Mughals of Jhelum tahsil—Riwaj-i-am.

In a case, the parties to which were Mughals of the Jhelum tahsil, found, that a gift by a sonless proprietor to his daughter's son of the whole of his ancestral property was invalid by custom in the presence of a nephew of the donor. MUHAMMAD BEG v. BAHADUR. 23 P R 1896

167. Gift to daughter's son—"Necessity"—Lodhi Pathans of Hoshiarpur District.

In a case in which the parties were Lodhi Pathans of the Hoshiarpur District, found, that the onus of proving that daughters were entitled to succeed to ancestral property in the presence of near collaterals was on defendants, and that they had failed to sustain it.

A plea that a gift by a sonless proprietor to his daughter's son was valid under the special circumstances of this particular case held, not established. NAJABAT KHAN v. ABDUL RAHMAN KHAN. 27 P R 1896

168. Gift by sonless proprietor in favour of daughter's son—Ghakkars of Jhelum District—Riwaj-i-am.

In a case, the parties to which were Ghakkars of the Jhelum District, found, that a gift of the whole of his ancestral land by a sonless proprietor in favour of his daughter's son was invalid by custom in the presence of the donor's near collateral. MUHAMMAD KHAN v. DULLA. 57 P R 1896

169. Gift by sonless proprietor to daughter—Ancestral and acquired property—Bans Jats of Ludhiana tahsil.

Found, that defendants had failed to prove that by custom among Bans Jats of Ludhiana a sonless proprietor was competent to gift his ancestral estate to his daughters in the presence, and without the consent, of descendants from his grandfather.

But also found, that plaintiff had failed to prove that the said proprietor was by custom incompetent to gift his acquired estate to his said daughters. DULA v. BUTA.

53 P R 1897

170. Among Arains of the Ludhiana tahsil and District, found that by custom a sonless proprietor is not competent to gift his land in favour of his daughter in the presence of near collaterals. GULAB v. MUSSAMMAT JEONI. 49 P R 1899

171. Gift by sonless proprietor to daughters -Change of possession—Sayads of mauza Masania, Batala tahsil, Gurdaspur District.

In a suit, the parties to which were Sayads of Masania, tahsil Batala, in the Gurdaspur District, held, that, by custom, a gift by a sonless proprietor in favour of his daughters, not complete by a delivery of possession during the donor's lifetime, was invalid.

Ali Muhammad v. Mussammat Jawahri (112 P. R. 1889), Walli v. Jiwan (33 P. R. 1891), Ahmad Khan v. Mussammat Ghulam Bibi (36 P. R. 1891), and Fatta v. Bakhra (15 P. R. 1891), cited. Ghulam Muhammad v. Muhammad Amin (86 P. R. 1882), Ameeroonissa v. Abedoonissa Khatoon (23 W. R. 208), Balmukand v. Bhagwan Dass (I. L. R. XVI All. 185) and Anwari Begam v. Nizam-ud-din Shah (I. L. R. XXI All. 165), distinguished. MUSSAMMAT MUHAMMAD-UL-NISSA AND OTHERS v. GHULAM MURTZA AND OTHERS.

44 P R 1902

172. Ghuman Jats of Daska tahsil, Silakot District.

Found, that amongst Ghuman Jats of the Daska tahsil of the Sialkot District, a gift by a sonless proprietor of ancestral property in favour of a daughter except as to 1-20th share is not valid by custom.

Devi Ditta v. Mussammat Hukmi (85 P. R. 1900), cited. GAUHAR v. GHULAM.

17 P R 1904

173. Will—Kalals of Umballa—Bequest of ancestral property by sonless proprietor to daughter and daughter's daughter.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Kalals of the Umballa District, that no custom was established authorising a sonless proprietor to bequeath his ancestral property to his daughter and daughter's daughter. MUSSAMMAT KIRPI v. SOLEKH SINGH.

67 P R 1904

174. Khana-damad—Waraich Jats of Gujrat District.

Found, that by custom among Waraich Jats of the Gujrat District gift to a daughter or granddaughter whose husband does not answer the description of a khana-damad is invalid—A mere assertion in a deed of gift that the donor intends subsequently to make their husbands khana-damads is not sufficient to entitle them to succeed.

Khan Muhammad v. Alam (92 P. R. 1905) cited. Ruldu v. Mussammat Hayat Bibi (133

P. R. 1883) referred to and distinguished. GHULAM MUHAMMAD v. MUSSAMMAT GAUHRAN.

28 P R 1905

175. Gift by sonless proprietor to daughter —Rajputs of mauza Kharal Kalan and Khurd in the Jullundur and Hoshiarpur Districts.

Held, that defendants on whom the onus lay had failed to establish a custom by which among Rajputs of Bhati got of mauza Kharal Kalan and Kharal Khurd in the Jullundur and Hoshiarpur Districts a sonless proprietor was competent to gift his ancestral estate to a daughter in the presence of collaterals of the fifth and third degrees respectively. NIGAHIA v. SANDAL KHAN. 88 P R 1907

F.—Sisters and their children.

(i) Proved.

176. Gift to sister's son.

There being no custom against the gift held that a gift of land to a sister's son followed by possession, could not be set aside on the ground that it excluded collateral male heirs. KHUDADAD v. BUKSHUM. 17 P R 1867

177. Ghorewaha Rajputs of Hoshiarpur—Gift to sister's grandson—Appointment of heir.

Found, that by the custom prevailing among Ghorewaha Rajputs of the Hoshiarpur District, a gift by a childless proprietor to a sister's grandson, whom the donor has also brought up as a son, is valid, and cannot be set aside at the instance of the collaterals. Moula Baksh v. Hame Khan (No. 71 of 1880, Civil, S. C. on review, No. 173 of 1883, Civil) cited. AYHEY KHAN v. BHAMBU KHAN.

174 P R 1883

178. Muhammadan Khalils of Peshawar district—Sister's sons and husband.

In a suit the parties to which were Khalils of the Peshawar district, found, that custom authorized a will by a sonless proprietor of his whole property in favour of near relatives, viz., sister's sons and a sister's husband, to the exclusion of a distant relative, a great grandson of the testator's grandfather. RAHMAT v. AZIMULLA. 34 P R 1884

179. Among Manj Rajputs of Tarn Taran tahsil in the Amritsar District, found that by a special custom a childless proprietor is competent to make a gift in favour of a sister's son who is also a son-in-law, in the presence of the donor's nephews. JIWAN v. HAKAM KHAN. 140 P R 1894

180. Gift to sister's son—Brahman parohits of mauza Madoki, tahsil Moga, Ferozepore District—Burden of proof.

Held, that plaintiffs, upon whom the onus probandi rested, had failed to prove that among the Brahman parohits of mauza Madoki, Moga tahsil in the Ferozepore District, who had no share in the common land of the village, a gift of ancestral land to a sister's son in the presence of collateral heirs is invalid by custom.

No. 122 P. R. 1893, referred to. GURMUKH v. GUNGA RAM. 81 P R 1895

181. Will by sonless proprietor in favour of nephews—Validity of will as against widow of testator's deceased first cousin—"Ancestral property"—Dhal Khatris of Shorkot tahsil, Jhang District.

Upon the death of one P., a sonless proprietor, who bequeathed all his property to the son of a sister, the widow of one C. a first cousin of P. claimed to succeed to P.'s property, and pleaded that the said will was invalid by custom in her presence.

Held, that the widow of C. has failed to prove that she was by custom entitled to succeed to property to which her husband would have succeeded had he survived P.

Held further, that though the property in suit was "ancestral" as between P. and C. it could not be regarded as ancestral as between P. and a woman who had failed to establish any title to succeed to it, and that, therefore, she had no control over its disposition either by gift or by will. MUSSAMMAT KHEM BAI v. BHOWANI DAS. 69 P R 1896

182. Gift of self-acquired property followed by possession and mutation of names by donor in his lifetime to his sister's son was not invalid by custom. JOWAHIR SINGH v. DIAL SINGH. 76 P R 1898

182 A. See UNDER (e) DAUGHTERS AND THEIR CHILDREN. 9 P R 1899

183. Gift to a nephew of immovable property inherited from an uncle—Ancestral property.

In a case in which the self-acquired property of an uncle was inherited by his nephews on his dying childless, held, that the said property was not ancestral property qua the sons of those nephews, as it was not inherited from a direct male ancestor, and that a gift of such property by the nephews to their sister's son was not invalid by custom.

Balki and others v. Biranand and others (43 P. R. 1890), and Jowahir Singh v. Dial Singh and others (76 P. R. 1898) cited. JHANDA SINGH AND OTHERS v. GURMUKH SINGH.

93 P R 1901

184. Gift by a sonless proprietor of ancestral property to sister's son—Shaikh Tiwanas of Okhali Mohla, tahsil Khushab, Shahpur District.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Shaikh Tiwanas of Okhali Mohla, tahsil Khushab, Shahpur District, that a gift by a sonless proprietor of half of his ancestral land in favour of his sister's son in the presence of his agnatic heirs is valid by custom. Gujar v. Sham Das (107 P. R. 1887, F. B.) and Hassan v. Jahana (71 P. R. 1904), referred to. SHER v. ALAM SHAH.

94 P R 1905

185. Gift of ancestral property by a sonless proprietor to sister's son who was also the donor's khana-damad and daughter's son—Khinger Jats of Chakwal Tahsil, Jhelum District.

Held, that amongst Khinger Jats of the Chakwal tahsil, in the Jhelum District, a gift by a sonless proprietor of his ancestral property in favour of a sister's son, who was also the khana-damad of the donor, in consideration of services rendered by the donee to the donor and a daughter's son in the presence of male collaterals is valid by custom. FAZAL v. HAYAT ALI.

790

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

29 P R 1907

186. Bequest of ancestral land by a childless proprietor in favour of sister's sons —Validity of—Kahuts of tahsil Chakwal, district Jhelum.

Held, that among Kahuts of tahsil Chakwal, district Jhelum, a bequest of ancestral land with the consent of his brother by a childless proprietor in favour of his sister's sons who were agnatically related to the testator in the fifth degree and who had rendered services to him, is valid by custom. KHUDA BAKHSH v. SHAMAS. 68 P R 1910

(ii) Not proved.

187. Sidh Jats of Kharian tahsil, Gujrat District—Gift to sister's son or grandson—Burden of proof.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Sidh Jats (Mussalman), tahsil Kharian, Gujrat District, that it was not competent by custom to a sonless proprietor, in the presence of near male agnates—first cousins —to adopt, that is appoint as an heir or make a gift to his sister's son or grandson.

Held, also that the burden of proof was on the donee.

The authority of No. 104 P. R. 1891, questioned.

No. 128 P. R. 1890, and No. 92 P. R. 1891, referred to. ILAM DIN v. MUBARAK.

140 P R 1893

188. Gift to female cousin's son in the presence of collaterals in the 4th degree—Validity of such gift—Ghamman Jats of the Sialkot District.

In a suit the parties to which were Ghamman Jats of the Sialkot District, found, that the defendant had failed to prove a custom whereby a childless proprietor could make a gift of his estate to the son of a female cousin in the presence of collaterals so nearly related to him as third cousins. LAL SINGH v. FATTA. 42 P R 1890

189. Gift to sister's son in presence of nephew—Arains of Jullundur District.

Found that a gift by a sonless Arain of the Jullundur District of ancestral immovable property in favour of his sister's son was invalid by custom in the presence of a son of the donor's brother. RUKNA v. GHAUS.

55 P R 1905

190. Objection by co-proprietors and collaterals of donor.

Plaintiffs and D were biswadars of the same patti, a portion of which D cultivated separately, holding jointly with others a considerable quantity of the common land. D gave his portion of the patti to his sister's son. Upon D's death, plaintiffs, who were related to him in the fifth or sixth degree, contested the gift and claimed D's share.

The Chief Court declared the gift void by custom. DASOUNDHI v. SAMANDA.

6 P R 1875

791

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

191. Gift to sister's son—Sindhu Jats, Amritsar district.

Found that there is no established custom among Sindhu Jats of the Amritsar district, whereby a gift of ancestral property by a childless proprietor to a sister's son in presence of a paternal uncle's son is valid. DEWA SINGH v. BUTA SINGH. 166 P R 1879

192. Paswal Gujars of Tahsil Kharian —Gift to sister's son.

Found, that no custom exists among Paswal Gujars of Tahsil Kharian in the Gujrat district whereby a childless proprietor can make a gift of any portion of his ancestral land to his sister's son, without the consent of the donor's male collaterals, even when that son has from infancy been brought up as a son in the donor's house. NUR DIN v. SAHIBZADA. 18 P R 1880

193. Jats of Jalandhar—Gift to sister's sons—Collaterals descended from great-grandfather of donor.

In a suit, the parties to which were Jats of M. Rajab in the Jalandhar district, found that by custom a gift to a sister's sons by a proprietor who had not adopted the donees or brought them up as members of his family, might be set aside at the suit of collaterals descended in the male line from the great-grandfather of the donor, when there were no nearer relatives who would succeed to his property on his death. Fatteh Singh v. Hakim Singh (No. 82 of 1874, Civil), Miyan v. Sandhi (No. 64 of 1879, Civil) and Budh Singh v. Chartu (No. 148 of 1882, Civil) cited. SUCHET SINGA v. CHATRA.

13 P R 1884

194. Gorewaha Rajputs of Jalandhar—Gift to sister's son—Invalidity of gift in absence of appointment as heir.

Found, that according to the custom prevailing among Gorewaha Rajputs of the Jalandhar district, though a childless proprietor is entitled to quasi-adopt or to appoint an heir, and then to give him his estate, he is not entitled without any such adoption to make a bare gift to the prejudice of near collaterals (e.g., his own brother and nephews) to his sister's sons who are also his sons-in-law. Moula Baksh v. Hame Khan (No. 173 of 1883, Civil), and Ayhey Khan v. Bhambu Khan (No. 174 of 1883, Civil) cited. MIAN KHAN v. RANJHE KHAN.

152 P R 1884

See CUSTOM—ADOPTION 40, 41.

195. Kahars of Fattehjang tahsil, Rawalpindi District—Will in favour of sister's son.

In a suit the parties to which were Kahars of the Fattehjang tahsil of the Rawalpindi District, found that a will by a sonless proprietor bequeathing the whole of his share in a joint holding to a sister's son was invalid by custom in the presence of the nephews and also co-sharers of the deceased.

Fazl v. Mussammat Bhagbari (93 P. R. 1885) referred to. MUHAMMAD v. SADULLAH.

136 P R 1888

792

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

196. Muhammadan Gujars of Gujrat District—Gift by sonless proprietor to sister's son—Collaterals.

In a suit the parties to which were Khatanah Gujars of the Gujrat District, found that a gift by a sonless proprietor of his entire estate to a sister's son in the presence of first cousins of the donor was invalid by custom FAZLA v. FAZLA. 53 P R 1889

197. Will—Koreshis of Dera Ismail Khan District—Competency of proprietor to make a will—Essentials of Marriage—What does not amount to marriage.

Held, (i) that no custom was established by which among Koreshis of the Dera Ismail Khan District, a landowner may dispose of his land by will to his sister in the presence of a wife, daughter and paternal uncle's son; (ii) that a statement made by a Muhammadan father in his will that he had accepted a certain person as husband for his daughter is not equivalent to marriage. MUSSAMMAT GHULAM FATMA v. MUSSAMMAT MAQSUDAN.

69 P R 1890

198. Gift by sonless proprietor to sister's sons in the presence of widow, brothers and nephews—Lalla Jats of Gujrat.

In a suit, the parties to which were Lalla Jats of the Gujrat tahsil, a gift was made by a sonless proprietor to his sister's sons in the presence of a widow, brothers and nephew. The sister's sons also claimed on the ground that they had lived with the deceased like khana-damads and were entitled to succeed by custom.

Held, (i) that the appointment as heirs of daughter's husbands only was recognised by custom and (ii) that the sister's sons, on whom the onus lay, under the circumstances of the case, had failed to establish a custom validating the gift impugned. FAZLA v. ALLA BAKHSH. 128 P R 1890

199. Khokars of Wadhan, Shahpur District.

In a suit the parties to which were Khokars of Wadhan in the Shahpur District, found that a bequest by a sonless proprietor of land in favour of a sister's son was not valid by custom because it was not a gift made during the lifetime of the donors within the meaning of the Wajib-ul-arz. WALLI v. JIWAN. 33 P R 1891

200. In a suit the parties to which were Chima Jats of the Gujranwala District, found that no special custom was proved empowering a childless proprietor, in the presence of collaterals in the sixth or seventh degree, to alienate his land by will in favour of step-sons or sister's son. SURJAN v. JODHA.

34 P R 1891

201. Awans of Dewa, tahsil Khushab, Shahpur District—Possession.

In a suit the parties to which were Awans of the Shahpur District, a gift to a sister's son (who was also a collateral) was found to be invalid, on the ground that it was not accompanied with or followed by possession.

No. 3 P. R. 1886, Note, followed. AHMAD KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT GHULAM BIBI.

36 P R 1891

202. Sister's son—Mussalman Jats, got Bauth of Village Bauth, Gujrat district.

Held, that, among Mussalman Jats, Bauth got of the village of Bauth in the Gujrat district (who appear to follow the same custom as Gujars), no custom was proved by which a valid gift of ancestral land could be made to a sister's son in the presence of nephews.

No. 8 P. R. 1891, referred to and followed. HAYAT v. ABDUL-UD-RAHIM.

92 P R 1891

203. Sonless Gujar proprietor—Gurdaspur district—Gift to sister's sons—Collaterals in fourth degree.

Found, that a gift of land by a sonless Gujar proprietor of the village of Garhwal in the Gurdaspur district in favour of his sister's sons was invalid by custom in the presence of collaterals in the fourth degree. LIKAR AND IDA v. GHULAM RASUL.

65 P R 1892

204. Paswal Gujars, tahsil Kharian, Gujrat district—Power of sonless proprietor to adopt or make a gift of his land to sister's son in the presence of collaterals in the fourth and fifth degrees.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Paswal Gujars of tahsil Kharian in the Gujrat district, that it was not competent to a sonless proprietor to adopt, or make a gift of his ancestral land to his sister's son in the presence of collaterals in the fourth and fifth degrees.

No. 8 P. R. 1891, referred to. MAULU v. FAZAL AHMAD. 102 P R 1893

205. Found, that by custom among Gaurewaha Rajputs of Garshanker tahsil, in the Hoshiarpur district, gifts by a sonless proprietor to a sister's son or grandson, and to a daughter's son are inadmissible in the absence of an adoption of the donee. SULTAN BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT MAHIAN.

64 P R 1894

206. Gift by sonless proprietor to sister's son—Muhammadan Naru Rajputs of Hoshiarpur district—Riwaj-i-am—Onus probandi.

Held, in a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan Naru Rajputs of the Hoshiarpur district, following the ruling of the Full Bench in No. 107 P. R. 1887, that the onus of proving the validity of an alienation by a sonless proprietor in favour of a sister's son who was also a collateral, rested upon the party asserting its validity, and found, on the evidence and with reference to the authorities that the defendant, upon whom the onus probandi rested, had failed to prove the validity of such a gift in the presence of collaterals as nearly related as the donee. AMIR KHAN v. SARDARA. 110 P R 1894

207. Gift by childless proprietor to sister's son—Locus standi of collaterals in the sixth degree to contest such gift—Chima Jats of Gujranwala district.

Found, that by custom among Chima Jats of the Gujranwala district, a childless proprietor is not competent to make a gift in favour of a sister's son in the presence of collaterals, related to the donor in the sixth degree.

Held, that there is no arbitrary bar as regards the degree of relationship entitling collaterals to contest alienations.

Nos. 22 P. R. 1884, 15 P. R. 1888, 20 P. R. 1890, 34 P. R. 1891, and 79 P. R. 1891, cited. LEHNA SINGH v. BUTA.

135 P R 1894

208. In a case the parties to which were Khokars of Gujrat tahsil and district found that a gift of ancestral land to a sister's son who was also the son of a cousin by a sonless proprietor was not valid by custom in the presence of male agnates. GAMAN v. NADIR DIN. 25 P R 1896

209. Muhammadan Rajputs of the Mair Mana tribe of Chak Naurange in the Chakwal tahsil of Jhelum district—Purchases effected with profits of ancestral immovable property—Burden of proof.

In a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan Rajputs of the Mair Mana tribe of Chak Naurange in the Chakwal tahsil of the Jhelum district, found that by the custom prevailing among the tribe an alienation by will or gift by a childless proprietor of non-ancestral immovable property at his pleasure was valid, but that the onus of proving a custom empowering the alienation of ancestral holding was on the person, relying on such a custom and that the defendants upon whom the onus rested had failed to prove that a sonless Mair Mana proprietor was competent to alienate his ancestral property by will or gift inter vivos in favour of his sister's sons and their respective wives who were also his sister's daughters in the presence of his first cousin without his consent.

Held, that purchases effected with profits of ancestral immovable property and property once acquired by an ancestor common to parties (possession of which has been discontinued for a long time) and then reacquired by a member of the family not in the position of a common ancestor, could not be regarded as ancestral property. Gujar v. Sham Das (107 P. R. 1887, F. B.) Mukarrab v. Fatta and another (88 P. R. 1895.) Rasul Khan v. Mussammat Mastur Bano (81 P. R. 1894), Hayat Muhammad v. Fazal Ahmad (52 P. R. 1892), Karmad v. Mahmmad and others (59 P. R. 1895), Shera and others v. Saghar and others (83 P. R. 1895), Hassan Ali v. Bahadu (32 P. R. 1893), Fata and others v. Bakhra and others (15 P. R. 1895), Nura v. Tora (46 P. R. 1900), Walidad and others v. Aladad and others (72 P. R. 1900) Sharaf Ali and others v. Karimulla (125 P. R. 1890), Achha v. Gaman and others (120 P. R. 1893), Sher Singh and others v. Kishen Singh (4 P. R. 1900), Nawab-ud-din v. Mussammat Kami (12 P. R. 1901), and Sonu and others v. Loku and others (2 P. R. 1881), referred to. HAIDA Khan.

50 P R 1902

210. Gift by sonless proprietor to sister's son—Arains of Jullundur tahsil—Burden of proof.

Held, that defendants had failed to prove that by custom among Arains of the Jullundur tahsil a sonless proprietor was competent to gift his ancestral estate to a sister's son of a different got in the presence of his male agnate. ILAHIA v. QASIM.

24 P R 1905

211. Alienation of ancestral property by sonless proprietor to sister's son—Kothis of Dhedwal in the Chakwal tahsil of Jhelum district.

In a suit the parties to which were Kothi Jats of Dhedwal in the Chakwal tahsil of the Jhelum district, held that the defendants has failed to prove that by custom a childless proprietor was competent to alienate ancestral immovable property either by gift or bequest in favour of a sister's son in the presence of his father's brother's son.

Mussammat Bano v. Fateh Khan (48 P. R. 1903, F. B.) and Ali Muhammad v. Dulla (26 P. R. 1901,) referred to. HAYAT v. HIDAYAT. 34 P R 1905

212. Gift of ancestral land by a childless proprietor in favour of his sisters—Contest by the reversioners of the donor.—Onus probandi—Dhamrayas of Shahpur district.

Held, that among Dhamrayas—a small endogamous agricultural tribe of the Shahpur district—the collateral reversioners of the donor are entitled to obtain a declaration that a gift of the whole of his ancestral land by a childless proprietor to his sisters shall not affect their reversionary rights after the death of the donor. And that the onus of proving the validity of the gift was on the sisters who failed to discharge it. MUSSAMMAT BHAGAN v. JAHANA. 67 P R 1910

G.—Sons-in-law.

(i) Proved.

213. Plaintiffs were descended in the male line from Muhram, the son of Aja; defendant was daughter's son of Shah Alum, another son of Aja. The Commissioner found that the latter had given his land to his daughter's husband 80 years ago, and that he and his posterity had since remained in possession. But plaintiffs being now in possession of less than their proper share, he threw the land in the possession of both parties into one common stock, and divided it equally. Plaintiffs appealed, claiming more as being male heirs. The Court declined to interfere considering the decision of the Commissioners equitable. KHAN MALLICK v. KHODA BUKSH. 73 P R 1866

214. Hindu Jats of Hoshiarpur—Gift to son-in-law—Appointment of heir.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

Found, that among Hindu Jats of the Hoshiarpur district, a gift of land to a son-in-law, who has been brought up and treated as a son by the donor, is valid by custom. Budh Singh v. Chartu (No. 128 of 1882, Civil) cited. HIRA SINGH v. RAMDITTA.

15 P R 1886

215. Gift by sonless proprietor to sons-in-law in the presence of nephews—Chauhans (Muhammadan Rajputs), Jhelum tahsil.

In a suit the parties to which were Chauhans (Muhammadan Rajputs) of Gara Uttam Singh in the Jhelum tahsil, held, that by custom a deed of gift by a sonless proprietor in favour of his five sons-in-law was valid in the presence of nephews of the donor.

No. 53 P. R. 1884 and No. 132 P. R. 1890, referred to. KARM BAKHSH AND KHUDA BAKHSH v. FATTA. 108 P R 1891

216. Bangial Jats of Gujrat district—Khanadamad Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that by custom among Bangial Jats of Gujrat district, a gift of land to a daughter whose husband is a resident son-in-law is valid, notwithstanding that the gift is of all the donor's land, and the residence has not been since the date of marriage. HASSAN MUHAMMAD v. ILAM DIN. 50 P R 1894

217. Awans of Sialkot district—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that by custom among Awans of the Sialkot district, a sonless proprietor is competent to make a gift of one-half of his land in favour of a resident son-in-law who has inherited no share in his own father's land.

No. 39 P. R. 1887, cited. ALI BAKHSH v. NATHU. 93 P R 1894

218. Heritable interest—Awans of Sialkot district—Onus probandi.

One F. who was the grandson of F. K., an Awan of the Jand got of the Sialkot tahsil, married one of his daughters to H. M., an Awan of a different got and village, and in 1867 made a gift of land by deed in his favour and delivered over possession to him. This gift the kinsmen of F., descended from the said F. K., sought to set aside, but their suit was dismissed after a reference to arbitration. On the death of H. M., the donee, without issue, defendants, who were the collaterals of F., descended from the common ancestor, took possession of the land gifted as aforesaid, whereupon plaintiffs, the brothers of the deceased donee, sued to recover possession as his heirs. The lower Courts having laid the burden of proof upon the defendants and decreed plaintiff's claim, defendants appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, with reference to the deed of the gift and the entry in the Riwaj-i-am that the gift in question having been made to H. M., in his character of resident daughter's husband, and the presumption in the case of such gifts ordinarily being that the purpose of the donor is to make a settlement for the benefit of the daughter's sons, plaintiffs, upon whom the onus probandi rested, had failed to prove that H. M. had taken an interest heritable by his collateral kinsmen.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

No. 19 P. R. 1887, No. 3 P. R. 1888, No. 12 P. R. 1892, F. B., referred to. MIRAN BAKHSH v. ALLA DITTA 126 P R 1894

219. Muhammadan Guman Jats of Tarn Taran tahsil, Amritsar—Riwaj-i-am.

In a case the parties to which were Muhammadan Guman Jats of the Tarn Taran tahsil, Amritsar district, found (i) that defendant, upon whom the onus rested, had failed to prove that the adoption of a sister's son was valid by custom; but (ii) that a gift of all his property by a sonless proprietor in favour of his son-in-law, who was also a sister's son, was valid by custom, the said gift having been, so far as was possible, perfected by delivery of possession. KHAN v HIRA. 98 P R 1895

220. See UNDER (e) DAUGHTERS AND THEIR CHILDREN. 9 P R 1899

221. Right of donee's children by second wife to succeed—Hindu Jats of Delhi tahsil.

Plaintiffs sued for recovery of certain land which had originally been gifted by one D. to his resident son-in-law, S., who had died a few weeks before suit. Defendants who were the sons of S. by a wife other than the daughter of the said D., contended that the gift in favour of their father was absolute, while plaintiffs contended that the gift was strictly conditional for the maintenance of D.'s daughter and any children she might have by S.

Held, following the rule laid down in No. 12 P. R. 1882 (F. B.), that on the death of S., plaintiffs, as the collaterals of D., were entitled to succeed to the said land in preference to defendants, who were not the "male children" of S., within the meaning of the ruling in No. 134 P. R. 1894. NIHAL v. MOHLAR. 19 P R 1897

222. Right of donee to alienate property acquired by gift—Necessity—Locus standi of donee's wife and son to contest alienation.

Held, that as the gift to a resident son-in-law is generally recognized for the benefit of the daughter of the donor and her male issue, a donee is not competent to alienate the property so gifted to strangers except for necessity, and his wife and son are entitled to contest his alienation based on the fact that they have the same rights as any male heir of the donor would have had.

Ghulam Bhikh v. Massania (22 P. R. 1893), Muhammad v. Mussammat Umar Bibi (129 P. R. 1893), Miran Bakhsh v. Nabi Bakhsh (40 P. R. 1896), Nihal v. Molar (19 P. R. 1897), Bhotu v. Lehru (54 P. R. 1897), Sata Ram v. Raji Ram (12 P. R. 1902), and Lehna v. Mussammat Thakri (32 P. R. 1895) referred to. BHAGWANI v. ATRIC.

20 P R 1904

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

223. Janjuhas of the Jhelum district—Burden of proof.

Found, that by custom among Janjuhas of the Jhelum district, a sonless proprietor is competent to make a gift of his property in favour of a resident son-in-law in the presence and without the consent of his brothers and brothers' sons.

Sher Jang v. Ghulam Mohi-ud-din (22 P. R. 1904), Hassan v. Jahana (71 P. R. 1904), Sabalam v. Mussammat Sarfaraz (122 P. R. 1884), Ditta v. Mussammat Fazlan (35 P. R. 1897), approved and followed.

Muhammad Beg v. Bahadur (23 P. R. 1896), Muhammad Khan v. Dulla (57 P. R. 1896), Gujar v. Sham Das (107 P. R. 1887, F. B.), and Ramji Lal v. Tej Ram (73 P. R. 1895, F. B.) referred to. FAZAL v. KHAN MUHAMMAD. 85 P R 1904

224. Gift to son-in-law presumed to be intended for the benefit of daughter and her issue.

See 7, LOCUS STANDI, infra.

39 P R 1905

225. Gift to son-in-law does not constitute latter fresh stock of descent qua property gifted.

See 7, LOCUS STANDI, infra.

102 P R 1909

(ii) Not proved.

226. Hindu Jat—Atwal Got—Amritsar district—Ancestral property—Gift by childless proprietor to son-in-law.

Found that, by the custom of the Atwal got a gift of ancestral property by a childless Jat to a son-in-law is not valid except with the consent of the brotherhood. DEWA SINGH v. LADHA SINGH. 66 P R 1879

227. Gift not followed by possession by sonless proprietor to son-in-law—Gujrat district.

One K executed a deed of gift of his immovable property in favour of defendant, his son-in-law. Actual possession was not given to the donee (who resided away from his father-in-law though dakhil kharij took place in his name. The riwaj-i-am provided for the validity of a gift to a daughter and her children, if followed by possession.

In a suit after the donor's death by his collateral relatives to establish their right to possession of the land as heirs and for cancellation of the deed of gift, held (upholding the orders of the lower Courts) that the gift was invalid.

Per LINDSAY, J.—Because it was not followed by possession.

Per THORNTON, J.—Because there was no proof of a custom by which a sonless proprietor could transfer his land to a son-in-law, the riwaj-i-am only contemplating a gift to a daughter and her sons. JOWAHIR v. FAIZ BAKSH. 137 P R 1879

228. Gift to son-in-law—Wajib-ul-arz

Where, by the terms of the Administration Paper, provision was made for the validity of gifts to daughters and their sons, held, that a gift to a son-in-law was not authorized by such provision. HUSAIN BAKSH v. GHULAM KADIR. 65 P R 1880

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

229. Peiwar Rajputs of Zirah tahsil—Gift to son-in-iaw in presence of collaterals of 7th degree.

Found, that among Peiwar Rajputs of the Muhammadan religion in the Zirah tahsil of the Firozpur district, it is not competent to a childless proprietor to make a valid gift of immovable property to his daughter's husband in the presence of collaterals of the 7th degree. WAZIRA v. RAMA.

101 P R 1881

230. Manjh Rajputs of Jalandhar—Sale or gift to son-in-law in presence of nephews.

Found, that by the custom of the Manjh Rajputs of the Jalandhar district, alienation in favour of a son-in-law in the presence of nephews is invalid. Muhammad Baksh v. Nawab (No. 52 of 1884, Civil), and Bhagwana v. Mothu (No. 62 of 1884, Civil), referred to. KHAIRA v. BURA.

42 P R 1885

231. Mahtons of mauza Bham, Tahsil Garshankar, Hoshiarpur district.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Mahtons (Hindus) of the village of Bham in the Garshankar tahsil of the Hoshiarpur district, that there was a presumption against the validity of a gift by a sonless proprietor to his son-in-law, and that the presumption had not been rebutted.

No. 75 P. R. 1891 and No. 14 P. R. 1892, referred to. HAMIR SINGH v. KHUSHAL SINGH.

117 P R 1892.

232. In a suit the parties to which were Kainal Jats of the Jhelum tahsil, found that a gift of the whole of his ancestral land made in his lifetime by a sonless proprietor in favour of his daughter's husband, who was also a sister's son of the donor and descended from his paternal grandfather, was invalid by custom as against the brother's son of the donor. BAKSHI v. RAHIM DAD.

107 P R 1893

233. Puriwal Jats of Daska tahsil, Sialkot district—Jointly acquired land—Riwaj-i-am of place of origin and Riwaj-i-am of place of residence.

Found, that by custom among Puriwal Jats of mauza Noiki, tahsil Daska in the district of Sialkot, whose ancestors had migrated from the Raya tahsil, a sonless proprietor is not competent to make a gift of his property, whether ancestral or acquired, to his daughter's husband without the consent of the persons who would otherwise succeed to the property. SAHIB DITTA v. SURJAN,

17 P R 1894

234. Kahana Jats of Jhelum district—Riwaj-i-am.

In a case the parties to which were Kahana Jats of the Jhelum district, found that defendants, upon whom the burden of proof rested, had failed to prove that a sonless proprietor was competent by custom to make a gift of ancestral land in favour of a daughter's husband, who was neither an agnate nor a knanadamad, in the presence of a brother of the donor. CHAUGHATTA v. DITTA.

93 P R 1895

235. Hatar Jats of Goga, Tahsil Bhera, Shahpur district.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Hatar Jats of Goga, in the Bhera tahsil of the Shahpur district, that no custom was established empowering a male owner to make a gift of one-third of his ancestral land to his son-in-law in the presence and to the prejudice of his own son.

Nihal v. Mohlar (19 P. R. 1897), Miran Bakhsh v. Ala Ditta (126 P. R. 1894), and Ghulam Bhikh v. Massania (22 P. R. 1893), referred to. SHARAF v. JOWAYA.

77 P R 1902

H.—Step-sons.

(i) Proved.

236. Dhani Jats of Jullundur district—Gift to step-son.

Found in a case among Dhani Jats of the Jullundur district that a gift of a portion of a childless proprietor's holding made for the support and maintenance of a step-son who had all his life lived in the family, and had for many years worked the land and managed the affairs of the donor, was not invalid by custom. GOPAL SINGH v. KHEMAN.

85 P R 1889

237. Gift by sonless proprietor to step-sons—Hindu Bhains Jats of the Jullundur district.

Found, that in the village of Bhains in the Nawashahr tahsil of the Jullundur district, a gift by a sonless proprietor, a Hindu Jat of the Bhains got. to his step-sons, was sufficiently justified by custom.

Held. also, that considering the various castes of which the proprietary body was now composed and the number of gifts that had been made to relations without objection, it was for the plaintiffs to prove that the alienation to step-sons was inadmissible by custom, and that they had failed to discharge the onus.

No. 107 P. R. 1887 referred to. CHUHAR v MAYA.

95 P R 1892

(ii) Not proved.

238. Gift to step-son—Suit by collaterals—Muhammadan Varaitch Jats of Tahsil Gujrat.

Found that a sonless Varaitch proprietor cannot make a gift to a step-son of his whole holding to the exclusion of near collaterals. 70 P. R. 1878, and 15 P. R. 1884, distinguished.

15 P. R. 1880, 123 P. R. 1883, 116 P. R. 1885, 107 P. R. 1887, 36 P. R. 1888, referred to. SALAHU v. KAMMUN.

141 P R 1889

239. Custom not proved.

See (f) SISTERS AND THEIR CHILDREN (ii) NOT PROVED No. 200. 34 P R 1891

240. Jats of the village of Bammauli, Tahsil Sampla, Rohtak district—Childless proprietor.

Held, that among Jats of the village of Bammauli, tahsil Sampla, Rohtak district, step-sons are not entitled to succeed according to custom, and that their step-father could only make a valid gift to them with the consent of his collaterals. UDMI v. BIHARI.

95 P R 1891

241. Jats of Jaj got, Hoshiarpur tahsil—Gift to or adoption of step-son another got.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Jats of the Jaj got in the Hoshiarpur tahsil (the alleged donee or adopted son being however of a different got), that no custom was proved authorising a gift of ancestral land to a step-son in the presence of near collaterals, or the adoption of such son by his step-father, the burden of proof in either case being upon those seeking to maintain the gift or adoption. MUTSADA SINGH v. DEVI DITTA.

98 P R 1892

242. Gift by childless Gujar of tahsil Gujrat to step-son.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Gujars of mauza Dittawal, tahsil and district Gujrat, that a childless proprietor was not authorised by custom to make a gift of his land to his step-son in presence of sons of the donor's brothers.

No. 39 P. R. 1887 and Nos. 8 and 109 P. R. 1891, referred to. MUHAMMAD HAYAT v. LANGAR.

120 P R 1892.

I.—Widow in presence of a son.

243. Will leaving all property to a childless wife in the presence of sons and their descendants by another wife—Strict proof of such a custom—Charmohals of Tahsil Chakwal, Jhelum district.

C. S., a member of the Charmohal tribe and a resident of mauza Kariala in the Chakwal tahsil of the Jhelum district, had had two wives. By one wife he had two sons : the other wife was childless.

Upon C. S.'s death his widow (the childless wife propounded a will purporting to have been executed by C. S. leaving her the whole of his land (2,912 kanals).

K. S., one of C. S.'s sons, admitted the claim but S. R., the son of a deceased son of C. S., contested it.

Both the Courts below found in favour of the will and decreed for the widow accordingly.

Held, on further appeal, that very strict proof would be necessary to establish so unusual a custom by which a proprietor with sons by one wife could give the whole of his land to a childless wife to be enjoyed by her alone for the term of her life, and that the widow had not proved such a custom in the present case. SHEO RAM v. MUSSAMMAT RADHI.

21 P R 1893

J.—Strangers.

(i) Proved.

244. A Hindu, having an only unmarried daughter and no nearer heir, shortly before his death gifted away the whole of his property, real and personal, ancestral and acquired, to a stranger, on condition that he would pay the marriage expenses of the girl, and maintain her meanwhile. Held, that there was nothing illegal in this alienation of the property and in the absence of any local custom to the contrary the gift was valid. MUSSAMMAT LADO v. SOORJA.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

71 P R 1868

245. Childless village proprietor—Gift of entire estate in presence of collaterals.

Found that by the custom of mauza Chak Chuhar in the Gujrat district, a childless village proprietor has power to make a gift of his land to whom he pleases. MOBARAK v. TAJA. 62 P R 1878

246, Hindu Jats—Kalkat got, Hoshiarpur—Alienation by childless village proprietor in favour of brother's daughter's husband.

Held, that by the custom of the Kalkat got of Hindu Jats, in the Hoshiarpur district, the collateral relations in the eleventh degree are not entitled to set aside a transfer by a childless proprietor of his land which was followed by possession, even though such transfer was made without consideration. KANHYA SINGH v. DEWA SINGH.
27 P R 1879

247. Montgomery district—Town of Kamalia—Brahmins—Self-acquired property.

Found that no custom existed amongst Brahmins, in the town of Kamalia, precluding a gift of self-acquired house property. JHINDA RAM v. BHAG. 41 P R 1879

248. Rawalpindi district—Childless proprietor—Distant collaterals.

Found that no custom existed abridging the right of a childless proprietor to dispose at pleasure of his property by gift in the presence of distant collaterals. FAZL v. WARIS 42 P R 1879

249. Bakals of Qasba Raipur, Umballa district—Possession—Continued occupancy by donor of property gifted.

One D. S. executed a registered deed of gift of property movable and immovable in favour of defendants, the sons of the brother of D. S.'s wife. Plaintiffs, collaterals of the donor, sued to set aside the gift, as invalid by custom, and not followed by possession till the donor's death. The parties were by caste Bakals, residents of Raipur, a qasba situate in tahsil Naraingarh in the Umballa district. The defendants, the donees, lived with D. S. for many years, and were treated by him as sons, but neither of them was adopted by him. Subsequent to the date of the gift, D. S. and the defendants continued to live together till the former's death. D. S. had a brother S. who was separate from him in trade but joint in food. Of the immovable property gifted by D. S., a shop occupied by S. and a haveli were joint ancestral property of the two brothers, and one shop was self-acquired by D. S.—S. who pre-deceased his brother, dying one year subsequent to the gift to defendants, made no objection during his lifetime: but as regards the shop occupied by him the defendants disclaimed all title.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

Held, that no custom was proved which prevented D. S. from making a valid disposition of his property movable and immovable to the defendants in presence of the plaintiffs, his collaterals, and that, therefore, defendants had a valid title to the whole of the property mentioned in the deed, so far as D. S. was owner of it; but that plaintiffs were entitled to a decree for joint possession of the ancestral haveli (in which it was not sufficiently shown that S. permitted a transfer of the whole interest) and a declaration of right as against defendants to possession of the shop occupied by S.

Held, further, that, as regards the immovable property, defendants being in actual possession with the donor before the date of the gift and continuing to occupy the property after that date, the mere circumstance of the donor continuing also to occupy the property did not invalidate the gift, the fair inference being that the occupancy of the donor subsequent to the date of the gift was a permissive occupation.

Held, also, as regards the movable property (which consisted partly of household property and partly of book-debts) that there was a sufficient possession of the former by the donees to pass the ownership, when the ownership of the houses passed under the gift perfected by possession, and that as regards the debts the assignment in the deed was as between the donor and donees sufficient to give the latter a good title to them. KISHNA v. HIRA.
153 P R 1879

250. Khatris of Gujrat—Gift to sister's daughter's son—Collaterals.

Found, that no custom exists among Khatris of the town of Gujrat, under which the collateral heirs are entitled to maintain a suit to have a gift of an ancestral house in the town, which has by partition become the donor's separate property, to his sister's daughter's son declared invalid beyond the donor's lifetime. THAKUR DAS v. JAWANDA MAL. 107 P R 1884

251. Will—Awal Khatri agriculturists of tahsil Ajnala (Amritsar).

Held, that an alienation by will of land by a childless Awal Khatri, proprietor of mauza Chak Awal, tahsil Ajnala, is not invalid by custom. GANESHA v. GANPAT.
198 P R 1889

252. Gift, in favour of mother's brother's children, of one-third estate.

See UNDER 7 locus standi OF WIDOWS.
127 P R 1894

253. Gift by sonless proprietor to wife's brother who was also a distant collateral—Suit by donor's half-brothers—Awans of Khushab tahsil, Shahpur District—Entry in Wajib-ul-arz—Riwaj-i-am.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

In a case, the parties to which were Awans of Khushab tahsil, Shahpur district, found, that defendants had proved a special custom whereby a gift of ancestral property by a sonless proprietor in favour of his wife's brother, who was also a distant, but not very remote, collateral, was valid in the presence of the donor's half-brothers. BAKHSHA v. MIR BAZ. 79 P R 1896

254. Gift by sonless proprietor to wife's sister son—Suit by donor's brother—Awans of Talagang tahsil of the Jhelum district.

Held, that among Awans of the Talagang tahsil of the Jhelum district a gift by a childless male proprietor of ancestral land accompanied with possession in favour of his wife's sister's son in the presence of a brother is valid by custom.

Bakhsha v. Mir Baz and another (79 P. R. 1896), Aulia v. Alu (49 P. R. 1898), Shere Muhammad and others v. Phula and others (9 P. R. 1899) and Devi Dass v. Bhakara (53 P. R. 1899), followed. Syad Rasul and others v. Fazal (7 P. R. 1891), Bahadur and another v. Mussammat Bholi and others (108 P. R. 1893), Rasul Khan v. Mussammat Mastur Bano (81 P. R. 1894), Mian Khan v. Mehar Khan and another (107 P. R. 1894), Fattu and another v. Bakhra and another (15 P. R. 1895), and Mukarrab v. Fatta and another (88 P. R. 1895), distinguished. NURA v. TORA. 46 P R 1900

J.—Strangers.

(ii) Not proved.

255. Sindhu Jats of Muktsar tahsil—Gift to wife's brother.

Found that among Sindhu Jats of the Muktsar tahsil in the Firozpur district, a childless proprietor cannot in the presence of a brother make a gift of ancestral land to a total stranger, such as his wife's brother. BHAN SINGH v. KHAZAN SINGH.
20 P R 1880

256. Panwar Rajputs of tahsil Jhelum—Gift to stranger in presence of near collaterals.

Found, that there is no well-established custom among Panwar Rajputs of the Jhelum tahsil under which a childless proprietor can give away the larger portion of his property to a stranger (a sister's husband) against the will of near agnate kinsmen (father's brother's sons). JIWAN v. MAHAMDA.
131 P R 1884

257. Dhalla Jats of Lahore—Gift—Sale.

In a suit the parties to which were Dhalla Jats of the Lahore tahsil, found that certain alienations made by a proprietor, who had died without male issue, which, though sales in form, were in substance gifts, were invalid by custom. KARM SINGH v. KHUSHAL SINGH. 99 P R 1886

258. Munkao Rajputs of Sialkot tahsil—Gift by childless proprietor to son of a Muhammadan mistress by her former hus- band—Locus standi of collaterals in seventh degree to contest such gift.

CUSTOM I—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd

A gift of land by a childless proprietor belonging to the Munkao got of Rajputs in the tahsil and district of Sialkot, in favour of the son of a Muhammadan woman who had lived with the donor as a wife, the donee not, however, being the son of the donor, found to be invalid according to the tribal custom of the parties.

Held in the above case that the plaintiffs, though not more closely related to the donor than in the seventh generation from the common ancestor, were under the existing circumstances nevertheless competent to maintain a suit to contest the said alienation, inasmuch as the village in question was inhabited by a single tribe tracing its descent from a common ancestor, and the plaintiffs' names appeared in the pedigree table as amongst such descendants. MOHRU v. RATNA. 15 P R 1888

259. Pathans of Jullundur District—Will.

Found, that there is no recognized custom among Pathans of the Jullundur District, by which a proprietor can interfere with the interests of his descendants in his estate by way of will without their consent. MIR MANSAB ALI v. MIR DOST ALI. 46 P R 1888

260. Ghorewaha Rajputs of tahsil Nawashahr, Jullundur District—Gift to wife's relatives in the presence of sons.

Found, that among Ghorewaha Rajputs of tahsil Nawashahr in the Jullundur District a gift by a proprietor of a portion of his ancestral land to his wife's relatives in the presence of sons is invalid by custom. GHULAM NABI v. KHAIRU KHAN. 95 P R 1890

261. Chima Jats, Gujranwala District—Childless proprietor—Will—Validity of.

In a suit the parties to which were Chima Jats of the Gujranwala District, found, that no special custom was proved empowering a childless proprietor, in the presence of collaterals in the sixth or seventh degree to alienate his land by will.

Nos. 20, 42 and 89 P. R. 1890, referred to. SURJAN v. JODHA. 34 P R 1891

262. Khokars—Sonless proprietor—Power of alienation to strangers.

Held, that in the tribe of Khokars no custom was established whereby a sonless proprietor was competent, in the presence of near collaterals, to make a gift of ancestral property to a stranger. JAFAR v. KARIM BAKHSH. 94 P R 1891

263. Kundal Rajputs (Hindus) of Unah tahsil, Hoshiarpur District—Gift by childless proprietor to Kajput of another got—History of village.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were Kundal Rajputs (Hindus) of mauza Chalalor in the Unah tahsil of the Hoshiarpur District, that no custom was proved rendering valid a gift of a small portion of his ancestral holding by a childless proprietor in favour of a Rajput of a different got who had a few years before suit obtained a footing in the village by purchase.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

The pedigree table of the village showed that at the time of its preparation the village was occupied exclusively by the descendants of one common ancestor including the plaintiff (who objected to the gift) and the donor, and the burden of proof therefore lay heavily on the defendants to justify the validity of the alienation.

No. 15 P. R. 1888, followed. WAZIRA v. TANI AND DHERA. 118 P R 1891

264. Gift in presence of collaterals—Brahmins of mauza Bupka, tahsil Jagadhri.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Brahmins of mauza Bupka in the Jagadhri tahsil of the Umballa District, that an alienation by way of gift was invalid in the presence of collaterals. RAJA NAND v. ASA RAM. 24 P R 1892

265. Gift to stranger in presence of nephews—Gothwal Jats, Delhi District.

Found, that by the custom of the Gathwal Jats of the Delhi District, a gift to a stranger of ancestral land in the presence of nephews is invalid. MAN CHAND v. DAYA RAM. 25 P R 1892

266. Gift to stranger of remaining ancestral property—Childless Gujar of Rawalpindi District.

Found, that no custom was proved by which a childless Gujar of the Rawalpindi District could make a valid bequest of all his remaining ancestral property in favour of a stranger, an Awan, in the presence of a son of the donor's brother's son. FAKIR v. NAWAZISH ALI. 97 P R 1892

267. Gift of ancestral land by sonless proprietor in favour of paternal aunt's sons—Gujars of Mahesi got in Kharian tahsil, Gujars District.

Found that no custom had been proved whereby among Muhammadan Gujars of Mahesi got of the Kharian tahsil, Gujrat District, a sonless proprietor is competent to alienate ancestral property in favour of his paternal aunt's sons, in the presence of collaterals related to him in the seventh degree. ABDULA v. MUHAMMADU. 14 P R 1895

268. Gift by sonless proprietor in favour of strangers—Agriculturist Bedis of Hoshiarpur District.

Found, that by custom among agriculturist Bedis of the Hoshiarpur District, a sonless proprietor is not competent to make a gift of his ancestral estate in favour of strangers in the presence of collateral heirs. No. 122 P. R. 1893, distinguished. UTTAM SINGH v. JHANDA SINGH. 21 P R 1896

269. Gift to stranger of remaining ancestral property in presence of colatterals related in the third degree—Gangol Rajputs of mauza Mohra Thakra, tahsil Gujar Khan, Rawalpindi District.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

Held, that no custom was establised whereby among Gangol Rajputs of tahsil Gujar Khan a sonless proprietor was competent to make a gift of the entire residue of his ancestral immovable property to one who, though of the same tribe, was otherwise a stranger, in the presence of collaterals related to him in the third degree. Hassan Ali v. Bahadar (32 P. R. 1893), considered—AHMAD v. JAHANA (52 P. R. 1905.)

270. Gift of ancestral property by childless proprietor in favour of strangers—Awans of Jullundur District.

Held, that by custom among Awans of the Jullundur District a childless proprietor is not competent to make a free and absolute gift ot his ancestral land to strangers and non-relations in the presence of his male agnates. BARKAT ALI v. JHANDU. 127 P R 1909

271. Gift by sonless proprietor to pichhlag *—*Locus standi of distant collaterals to contest its validity—Gondals of mauza Isar, tashil Bhera, district Shahpur.

Held, among Gondals of mauza Isar, tahsil Bhera, district Shahpur, that having regard to the fact that the village community is a compact body of proprietors all descended from one common ancestor, that the tribal custom of the Shahpur district is against the gift, and that the donee as a pichhlag is a perfect stranger to the donor, collaterals in the eighth degree from the donor, a sonless proprietor, have a locus standi to contest the gift and the onus of proving that the gift is valid by custom lies on the donee.

Held also, that the donee had failed to prove that the gift is valid by custom. MOHKU v. KARAM. 63 P R 1909

K.—Miscellaneous.

272. Where the general power of alienation was found, the former under which it was made, whether by gift or nominal sale must be treated as immaterial. KESHAR SINGH v. SUNDAR SINGH. 59 P R 1889

273. Distinction between gifts inter vivos and wills—Onus probandi—Pathans of Peshawar District.

Although a proprietor has, by custom, a plenary power of alienation inter vivos, it does not follow that he has, by custom, a power of alienation by will, and the onus of proving that he has the latter power rests upon the party taking his stand on the will, especially when an alienation by will is void under the personal law of the proprietor.

The distinction between gifts inter vivos and wills discussed by Chatterji J. SHAD ALI KHAN v. ABUL GHAFUR KHAN. 24 P R 1898

274. Among Awans of the Talagang tahsil of the Jhelum District, the power to transfer ancestral property by will does not exist. GHULAM MUHAMMAD v. ABBAS KHAN. 22 P R 1899

275. Alienation by childless adopted son of his adoptive father's property—Distinction between the right to alienate the property acquired from adoptive and a natural father.

Held, that under the Customary Law of Punjab the right to alienate ancestral property is the same whether the property dealt with comes from a natural or an adoptive father. the only distinction which exists between the estates of adopted son in the two classes of property is with reference to devolution of each on his death, childless and without a widow. FATTEH SINGH v. NIHAL SINGH.

25 P R 1901

276. Hamdani Sayads of tahsil Talagang, District Jhelum—Bequest by male proprietor—Ancestral and acquired property.

Found, that among Hamdani Sayads of Talagang tahsil in the Jhelum District a bequest by a male proprietor of his immovable property is valid by custom so far as it affects only his self-acquired property. AHMED SHAH v. FATEH BIBI.

132 P R 1908

2.—Sales and Mortgages in favour of heirs and collaterals.

1. Kalon got of mauza Kalon, Batala tahsil—Alienation by childless proprietor—Suit by distant collaterals—Burden of proof.

Plaintiffs, the collateral relatives in the male line of a childless proprietor of the Kalon got in mauza Kalon in the Batala tahsil of the Gurdaspur district, the nearest of whom was related in the 8th generation, sued to contest a sale by the said proprietor of part of his land to certain relatives in the 10th generation from the common ancestor, from whom the vendor was descended in the 7th generation.

Held, that the burden of proof was on the plaintiffs to show that by custom they could sue to have the alienation set aside, and that they had failed to establish any such custom. Ganda Singh v. Golab Singh (No. 159 of 1879, Civil) referred to. BUDHA v. BUDHU.

22 P R 1884

2. Heirs impeaching ostensible sale to relative outside the line of heirs—Duty of Court to determine the question of the bona fides of the transaction.

In cases of land sold by childless proprietors with a restricted capacity of alienation to relatives outside the line of heirs, the Courts are both competent and bound to go into the truth of the transaction when the true heirs impeach an ostensible sale. It cannot be conceded that the transaction, because it is in form a sale, must be upheld as a sale, if it be shown that consideration has been paid by the ostensible vendees, and that the adequacy of the price is not material. The whole rights of the expectant heirs would be imperilled if the doctrine were admitted that the payment of any sum, however inadequate, conclusively stamped the transaction as a sale. RAM DHAN v. RAM DITTA. 151 P R 1884

3. Ranjha Jats of tahsil Bhera, Shahpur district - Father alienating in favour of one son to prejudice of others—General custom—Burden of proof.

In a suit for cancellation of a mortgage made in favour of one son and the sons of another son to the prejudice of the descendants of a third son, the parties to which were Ranjha Jats of the Bhera tahsil of the Shahpur district, held, that the onus of proving a special custom whereby the mortgage was invalid rested on the plaintiffs who sought to set it aside, and that they had not discharged this burden.

There is no general rule of customary law among Muhammadan agriculturists in the Punjab, whereby a proprietor is restricted from alienating his land in favour of one of his sons to the prejudice of the other sons. Mussammat Rajadan v. Umra (No. 37 of 1878, Civil), Sultan Baksh v. Raja (No. 126 of 1879, Civil), Mahomed v. Walidad (No. 164 of 1879, Civil), Sher Shah v. Jafar Shah (No. 51 of 1883, Civil), Malayan v. Muhammad Baksh (No. 43 of 1884, Civil) referred to. RUKN-I-ALAM v. FAZL AHMAD.

26 P R 1885

4. Salahriya Rajputs of Sialkot District—Childless proprietor—Collaterals—Necessity—Burden of proof.

In a suit by the nearest reversioner to set aside a sale of his land by a childless proprietor, the parties to which were Salahriya Rajputs of the Sialkot district, held, that the plaintiff (upon whom the burden of proof lay) had failed to establish any custom rendering the alienation invalid unless for necessity. Ganda Singh v. Golab Singh (No. 159 of 1879, Civil), Nihal Singh v. Sahib Singh (No. 77 of 1880, Civil), Ganesha v. Roda (No. 3 of 1884, Civil), Budha v. Budhu (No. 22 of 1884, Civil), Hakam Singh v. Khark Singh (No. 50 of 1884, Civil), Bawa Sohan Singh v. Pala (No. 101 of 1884, Civil), Khudayar v. Hakim (No. 106 of 1884), Civil and Sadha Singh v. Dyal Singh (No. 108 of 1884, Civil), cited and approved of. Ratan Singh v. Kabal Singh (No. 137 of 1884, Civil) disapproved of. DIAL SHAH v. SAWAN.

107 P R 1885

5. Sindhu Jats of Moga tahsil—Mortgage for value in presence of nephews.

In a suit, the parties to which were Sindhu Jats of the Moga tahsil, in which the plaintiffs, who were the nephews of the mortgagor, sued to have it declared that a mortgage by their uncle of his land was void as against their reversionary interests, held, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove any custom rendering such an alienation for value invalid. Bhan Singh v. Khazan Singh (No. 20 of 1880, Civil), Nihal Singh v. Sahib Singh (No. 77 of 1880, Civil), and Ratan Singh v.

Kabal Singh (No. 137 of 1884, Civil) cited. BHAN SINGH v. KHAZAN SINGH.

120 P R 1886

6. Dewal Jats of Batala tahsil*—Sale by sonless proprietor*—Onus probandi.

In a suit to contest an alienation by deed of sale by a sonless proprietor, the parties to which were Dewal Jats of the Batala tahsil and in which it appeared that plaintiffs and the defendant-vendees were equally nearly related in the collateral line to the defendant-vendor, held that the onus lay upon the plaintiffs under the circumstances of the case to prove a customary power of interference, and that having failed to do so, their suit must be dismissed—Ratan Singh v. Kabal Singh (No. 137 P. R. 1884) referred to. ALA BAKHSH v. UMRA.

58 P R 1887

7. Gil Jats of tahsil Phillour—Childless proprietor—Near collaterals.

In a suit the parties to which were Gil Jats living in a village in the Phillour tahsil in the Jullundur District where all the proprietors belonged to the same tribe, held, that no custom was affirmatively proved permitting a childless proprietor to alienate his ancestral land to the exclusion of near male collaterals. HARYA v. GULAB.

81 P R 1887

8. Gujars of tahsil Gujrat—Sale to sons of one brother in presence of sons of two other brothers.

In a suit to contest an alienation, the parties to which were Gujars of the tahsil and District of Gujrat, held that the plaintiffs (upon whom under the circumstances of the case the onus lay) had failed to prove a custom under which a childless proprietor could be restrained from selling a portion of his land to two nephews, the sons of one brother at the suit of the sons of two other brothers. SAHIB DIN v. AMIRA. 16 P R 1889

9. Hindu Jats of Amritsar tahsil*—Sale by childless proprietor to distant collaterals—Suit by collaterals equally remote impugning sale*—Onus probandi*—Necessity—Consideration.*

In a suit to contest an alienation by a childless proprietor, the parties to which were Hindu Jats of the Amritsar tahsil, it appeared that the plaintffs and defendants were equally, but remotely, related as collaterals to the deceased, but that the defendants claimed to hold the whole estate on the strength of the sale in their favour, while the plaintiffs replied that the deceased had no power to make the sale, that there was no necessity for it, and no money really passed.

Held, that it was for the plaintiffs to show that the alienation was not valid by custom and that they had failed to do so.

Held further, that the general power of alienation being found, the form under which it was made, whether by gift or nominal sale must be treated as immaterial. No 58 P. R. 1887, cited and approved—KESAR SINGH v. SUNDAR SINGH.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

2.—Sales and Mortgages in favour of heirs and collaterals—contd.

59 P R 1889

10. Sonless Jat proprietor—Ghuman Jats of Kala, Sialkot tahsil, Sialkot District—Burden of proof.

Held, following the principle of the Full Bench decision, No. 107 P. R. 1887, that the burden of proof lay upon the plaintiffs to establish affirmatively that by custom they were entitled to challenge a sale made by one Chanda, a Ghuman Jat and a sonless proprietor.

The plaintiffs who had embraced the Muhammadan faith and belonged to a different village, and the vendor were alike related to the common ancestor in the eighth degree, while the vendees were of the same stock but one degree more remote. ALI BAKSH v. BUTA
79 P R 1891

11. Sale without necessity to collateral—Burden of proof.

A childless proprietor sold his land to the plaintiff, a collateral relation who lived with him, and then died. The plaintiff sued the other collaterals who, like himself, would be entitled to inherit along with him but for the sale, to recover possession of the land.

Held, that the alienation without necessity was bad by custom and that the burden of proof was upon the plaintiff to support the sale. GURDIT SINGH v. HAKIM.
53 P R 1892

12. Sale without necessity to sister's sons—Gondals of tahsil Phalian, Gujrat District.

Found, that a Gondal of tahsil Phalian, Gujrat District, was not entitled by custom to make a sale of his land, without necessity, to his sister's sons in the presence of his brother's sons.

No. 8 P. R. 1891, referred to. TAJA v. GAMAN.
129 P R 1892

13. Gondal Jats, tahsil *Garhshankar, Hoshiarpur District—Ancestral land—*Mitakshara.

M. S., a Hindu Gondal Jat of tahsil Garhshankar, had three sons, M., H. and H. S. who divided his estate. H. S. died sonless, and a son of H. claimed his whole share, as adopted son. M. successfully sued for half of land of H. S. and mortgaged this half for Rs. 800.

The plaintiff, son of M. sued M., and his other son and the mortgagee to set aside the mortgage for Rs. 800 on the ground that it was a mortgage of ancestral land and not made for necessity. It was found by the first Court that the alienation was valid to the extent of Rs. 270. On defendants appeal, the Divisional Judge, without going into the merits, held that the land was not ancestral land as defined by the Mitakshara law as being land inherited by M. from his brother H. S., and that the plaintiff could not therefore contest his father's act with regard to it.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

2.—Sales and Mortgages in favour of heirs and collaterals—contd.

Held, that the land in suit having descended from M. S., the common ancestor of M. and H. S., was ancestral land within the customary meaning of the term. GUJAR SINGH v. MOHRU.
88 P R 1893

14. Sale by sonless Jat proprietor to a distant callater who is a co-proprietor in the village—objection by nearer collaterals not residing in the village—Burden of proof.

In a case by the nearer collaterals of a sonless proprietor for declaration that a sale effected by the latter in favour of a distant collateral would not affect there reversionary rights, the defence contended that as the alienation was in favour of another collateral and that as the plaintiffs were no longer members of the village community, being residents of another village, they had no locus standi. The lower Courts holding that the plaintiffs had failed to establish affirmatively that by custom they were entitled to challenge the sale in question, the burden of proof being upon them, dismissed their suit.

Held, that although in cases where the family of the objectors had for generations back entirely cut themselves off from their villages of origin and settled in another village, or had unmistakeably been shown by their conduct to have given up any rights they might have had to property in such village, the burden of proof that they were nevertheless still entitled to the rights which they would have possessed had they remained in that village lies upon them, yet that in a case where the father of the objectors had left the village and had acquired property in another village, and where there was no proof that their father or that they themselves had abandoned any right which he or they might have to land in that village, the burden of proof they were not so entitled lay upon the defendants.

Ali Baksh v. Buta (79 P. R. 1891), Kaila Singh v. Tahal Singh (143 P. R. 1888), Lokha v. Hari (64 P. R. 1893), Badhawa v. Dewa Singh (141 P. R. 1893), Rukan Din v. Mariam (68 P. R. 1898), and Chet Singh v. Samand Singh (78 P. R. 1898), referred to and considered. KALA SINGH v. NARAIN SINGH.
75 P R 1902

15. Alienation by sonless proprietor—Right of reversioner to contest such alienation in presence of wife and daughter-in-law—Right to sue—Kalar Jats of tahsil Jagraon, Ludhiana District.

A, a sonless proprietor, sold his house to two of his collaterals, S and G. The plaintiffs, who were nearer collaterals, sued for a declaration that the sale being without necessity should not affect their reversionary rights and should be held to be null and void after the death of A. The defendants pleaded that as A's wife and daughter-in-law were alive the plaintiffs had no locus standi. It was found that among the parties, who were Kalar Jats of the

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

2.—Sales and Mortgages in favour of heirs and collaterals—concld.

Jagraon tahsil, a widow was entitled on her husband's death to possession of his immovable propery for her life or until re-marriage, and that a daughter-in-law was entitled only to maintenance out of his estate.

Held, that as the right of succession of the widow was only a "widow's estate," the plaintiffs who were the nearest presumptive reversionary heirs, were entitled to maintain their action for a declaration irrespective of the questien of collusion or concurrence by the widow, but were not entitled to possession until after the death or re-marriage of the widow in the event of her surviving A.

Balgobind v Ram Kumar (I. L. R. VI All. 431), and Mussammat Ram Kaur v. Bhagwana (127 P. R. 1894), cited.

Madari v. Malki (I. L. R. VI All. 428), and Ishwar Narain v. Janki (I. L. R. XV All. 132), not followed. SUNDAR SINGH v. SAIN DITTA.
29 P R 1903

16. Alienation by a sonless proprietor—Suit by reversioner for a declaratory decree that the sale would not effect his reversionary interest—Decree of suit that on alienor's death his heirs would be entitled to get back the property sold on payment of a certain amount—Subsequent suit by an afterborn son of the alienor after the death of the latter to recover the property sold—Right of plaintiff to take advantage of the declaratory decree obtained by the reversioner.

Held, that a declaratory decree obtained by a reversioner against an alienor and alienee to the effect that after the alienor's death his heirs would be entitled to get back the property alienated on payment of a certain amount enures for the benefit of whoever may be the person entitled to succeed when the inheritance falls in, provided that such heir is himself a descendant of the common ancestor of himself and the alienor who alienated the land.

Jowala v. Hira Singh (55 P. R. 1903, F. B. and Harwans Singh v. Harnam Singh (84 P. R. 1898), referred to. MUHAMMAD DIN v. FATTEH MUHAMMAD.
24 P R 1906

3.—Sales and Mortgages in favour of strangers.

1. Gurdaspur district—Childless Hindu Jat agriculturist—Sale of land without necessity, and without consent of male collaterals.

Found that, by the custom of mauza Kot Khazana, tahsil Batala, district Gurdaspur, a childless Hindu Jat agriculturist cannot sell his land unless for necessity, or with the consent of his male collaterals. KISHEN SINGH v. JOWAHIR SINGH.
71 P R 1879

2. Athwal Jats, Nawashahr, Jullundur district—Alienation by childless proprietor of ancestral proprety—Objection by collaterals.

Found, that there is no established custom among Jats of the Athwal got in the

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

3.—Sales and Mortgages in favour of strangers.

Nawashahr tahsil of the Jullundur district, under which a sale by a childless proprietor for valuable consideration of ancestral land in his sole and separate possession can be impeached by his nephews and grand-nephews on the ground that he was not competent to alienate. GANDA SINGH v. GOLAB SINGH. 159 P R 1879

3. Sindu Jats, Moga tahsil.

Found that, there is no established custom among Sindu Jats in the Moga tahsil of the Ferozepur district, whereby a childless proprietor is incompetent to sell his land in the presence of male collaterals as nearly related to him as nephews. NIHAL SINGH v. SAHIB SINGH. 77 P R 1880

4. Mehtams of Hoshiarpur—Childless proprietor.

Found that, there is no established custom among Mehtams of the Hoshiarpur district, whereby a childless proprietor is incompetent to alienate otherwise than for necessity without the consent of his near collaterals. KAHAN SINGH v. DIT. 119 P R 1880

5. Suit by reversioners—Onus probandi.

In a suit for a declaration of the invalidity of a mortgage as against the plaintiffs who were the collaterals of the mortgagor, held, that no general custom entitling collateral heirs to object to sales or mortgages can be said to have been established in the Punjab, and that therefore it was for the plaintiffs, who were second cousins of the mortgagor, to prove that they had by custom a locus standi to contest the alienation. Mohun Singh v. Nundha (No 46 of 1871, Civil), Asa Nand v. Hukmee (No. 40 of 1872, Civil), Ganda Singh v. Golab Singh No. 159 of 1879, Civil), Nihal Singh v. Sahib Singh (No. 77 of 1880, Civil), and Kahan Singh v. Dit (No. 119 of 1880, Civil) cited. RAON v. JASSU. 16 P R 1883

6. Jats of Nawashahr tahsil, Jalandhar—First cousin objecting to mortgage by childless proprietor—Necessity.

In a suit, the parties to which were Jats of the Nawashahr tahsil, Jalandhar district, by the first cousin and presumptive heir of a childless proprietor, for a declaration that a mortgage of half of his land without necessity by the said proprietor would not bind the property after his death, held, that in order to entitle the plaintiff to the declaration asked for, it was necessary to show that by custom a son would be entitled to a similar declaration in case his father attempted to charge ancestral property with the payment of a similar debt incurred without necessity.

Held further, that no custom had been established in the present case, entitling the relatives of a childless proprietor to set aside a mortgage made by him, merely on the allegation that he had no necessity to raise the money, without offering to pay the money actually raised on the security of the bond. GANESHA v. RODA. 3 P R 1884

7. Hindu Jats (Ghasa got) of tahsil Nawashahr, Jalandhar—Sale by proprietor of his proprietary rights in land.

Found, that no established custom exists among Hindu Jats of the Nawashahr tahsil in the Jalandhur district, whereby a childless proprietor is restrained from selling his proprietary right in land. Ganda Singh v. Golab Singh (No. 159 of 1879, Civil) cited. HAKAM SINGH v. KHARK SINGH. 50 P R 1884

8. Manj Rajputs of the Gurdaspur district—Necessity—Vendee's lien on the land where the sale was partly for necessary purposes.

Found, that by the custom which prevails among the Manj Rajputs of the Gurdaspur district, a sonless land owner is restricted from selling his ancestral land save for necessity.

Where in a suit to set aside an alienation of the above nature it appeared that part of the consideration money was required for necessary purposes, held, that in addition to the declaration made in the plaintiff's favour, it should be declared that the vendee was entitled to a charge on the estate for such amount, and that he was not bound to surrender possession to the reversioners until that charge had been paid to him. Bira v. Mamon (No. 74 of 1877, Civil) and Mussammat Thakuri v. Ganda Mall (No. 78 of 1879, Civil) followed. MUHAMMAD BAKHSH v. NAWAB. 52 P R 1884

9. Khatris of tahsil Batala, Gurdaspur district—Collaterals in fifth degree objecting to sale by childless proprietor—Necessity—Consideration.

In a suit the parties to which were Khatris of the Batala tahsil in the Gurdaspur district, the plaintiffs, who were collaterals related in the fifth degree, sued to set aside a sale by a childless proprietor as being without necessity.

Held, the sale being found to have been for valuable consideration, that the plaintiffs had failed to establish a custom entitling them to have it set aside without offering to repay the consideration, it not being alleged to have been raised for immoral or unlawful purposes. Ganesha v. Roda (No. 3 of 1884, Civil) cited. BAWA SOHAN SINGH v. PALA. 101 P R 1884

10. Chuna Jats of Daska tahsil Sialkot—Childless proprietor selling his land for valuable consideration—Necessity.

Found, that no custom exists among Chuna Jats of the Daska tahsil of the Sialkot district restraining a childless proprietor from selling his land for valuable consideration unless for necessity. KHUDA YAR v. HAKIM. 106 P R 1884

11. Sindhu Jats of tahsil Kasur—Sonless proprietor selling his land for valuable consideration—Necessity—General custom.

Found, that no custom exists among Sindhu Jats of the Kasur tahsil restraining a sonless proprietor from selling his ancestral land for valuable consideration unless for necessity.

It cannot be said that any general custom exists restraining sonless Jat proprietors from alienating their land unless for necessity, or with the consent of the collaterals. Kanhya Singh v. Dewa Singh (No. 27 of 1879, Civil), Kishen Singh v. Jowahir Singh (No. 71 of 1879 Civil), Dewa Singh v. Buta Singh (No. 166 of 1879, Civil), Nihal Singh v. Sahib Singh (No. 77 of 1880, Civil), and Rattan Singh v. Mal. Singh (No. 4 of 1884, Civil) referred to. SADHA SINGH v. DYAL SINGH. 108 P R 1884

12. Dhariwal Jats of Ferozpur district—Sale by childless proprietor without necessity.

In a suit among Dhariwal Jats of the Firozpur district held, that no custom was shown to exist enabling a childless proprietor to sell his ancestral land at his pleasure and without necessity to one not an heir against the will of near agnate relations.

The view that there is no a priori presumption against alienation at will by a Punjabi land-holder is scarcely sustainable. Mohun Singh v. Nundha (No. 46 of 1871. Civil), Shib Dyal v. Mehtaba (No. 6 of 1872 Civil), Asa Nand v. Hukmee (No. 40 of 1872, Civil), Ganda Singh v. Golab Singh (No. 156 of 1879, Civil), Nihal Singh v. Sahib Singh (No. 77 of 1880, Civil), and Raon v. Jassu (No. 16 of 1883, Civil) referred to. RATAN SINGH v. KABAL SINGH. 137 P R 1884

13. Warias of Gujrat—Power of childless proprietor to alienate ancestral property.

Found that among Warias of the Gujrat district a childless proprietor can by custom alienate (mortgage) ancestral property without the consent of the collaterals. KHERA v. KUTBA. 163 P R 1884

14. Sidhu Kheli Jats of Ludhiana—Childless proprietor—Necessity.

Found, that among Jats of the Sidhu Kheli tribe in the Ludhiana district, a bona fide alienation (e. g., a mortgage) by a childless proprietor of his land without necessity is valid by custm. HIRA v. GULAB SINGH. 53 P R 1885

15 Arains of Lahore district—Acquired and ancestral property—Proprietor alienating in presence of adult sons—Necessity.

Found, that by the custom of the Cis-Ravi Arains of the Lahore district, acquired and ancestral land are on the some footing in regard to alienations and when a proprietor of the above race has adult sons, he cannot alienate except for necessity without consulting them. BADR-UD-DIN v. JITA.

17 P R 1886

16. Mortgage by childless proprietor—Distant collaterals—Burden of proof—Court granting decree for redemption in suit for possession free from any lien.

In a suit by plaintiffs claiming possession of certain land once owned by their distant relative B. S., deceased, and now in possession of defendants under a title derived from B. S., as mortgagor in which the plaintiffs did not seek to redeem the mortgage, but alleged that the interest thereby created terminated on the death of B. S., the plea was that plaintiffs were too remotely related to B. S. to question his acts.

Held that the burden of proving that B. S., a childless landowner could not make an alienation (otherwise than for necessity) to enure beyond his own life in the presence of collateral male relations in the 10th degree, lay upon the plaintiffs, who had rightly been held to have failed in discharging such onus.

It appeared in the above case that the lower Courts instead of dismissing the plaintiffs' suit on the above finding, granted them a decree for possession on payment of the mortgage money within six months.

Held, that the plaintiffs were entitled to object to a decree granting without their consent a relief they did not seek, and were therefore entitled to have the decree altered to one dismissing their suit, leaving them, if so advised, to sue for redemption hereafter, and the defendants to raise any objection they might then be advised to take. DULA SINGH v. WAZIR SINGH. 69 P R 1887

16A. Restricted power of alienation.
See CUSTOM II—ALIENATION A 5—NECESSITY. 104 P R 1887

17. Sonless Jat proprietor—Ancestral land—Onus probandi—Sus Jats of the Hoshiarpur district:

Held, by the Full Bench that within the central districts of the Punjab in cases where the power of a sonless Jat proprietor to alienate ancestral land without necessity is in dispute, the onus probandi generally lies on the person asserting the existence of such power: and accordingly in the present case the parties to which were Sus Jats of the Hoshiarpur district, the burden lay on the plaintiffs to prove a custom authorizing an alienation of ancestral land by a childless proprietor in favour of a stranger in the presence of a great nephew of the alienor.

Miyan v. Sandhi (No 64 P. R. 1879), cited. GUJAR v. SHAM DAS.
107 P R 1887

18. Lodhra Jats of Jullundur district—Childless proprietor—Collaterals.

In a suit brought by collaterals related in the 5th and 6th degree, to contest an alienation by a childless proprietor, the parties being Lodhra Jats of the Nawashahr tahsil of the Jullundur district, held, that the defendants (upon whom the ouns lay) had failed to establish a custom justifying alienations by a childless proprietor in the absence of proved necessity.

Gujar v. Sham Das (No. 107 P. R. 1887 F. B.) cited. GURMUKH SINGH v. DEWA SINGH.
26 P R 1888

19. Brahmins of Lahore—Liability of son's interest—Son's right to enforce partition in father's lifetime—Alienation of son's undivided interest in family estate—Hindu Law.

Found that by the law and custom governing Brahmins of the Lahore city, (1) the sale of ancestral property by a father not made for necessity, passes the interest of his undivided sons as well as his own, unless made for immoral or illegal purposes, which cannot be taken to include mere extravagance; (2) a son cannot enforce partition of ancestral property against his father's consent in his lifetime, nor can he alienate in his father's presenc his undivided interest in the family estate.

Nathe Rai v. Mannu Ram (No. 113 P. R. 1886) referred to. KHAN CHAND v. SARB DIAL. 109 P R 1888

20. Randhawa Jats of Amritsar tahsil—Sonless proprietor—Nephews.

Found, that no custom exists among Randhawa Jats of the Amritsar tahsil whereby a sonless proprietor can alienate his estate without necessity in the presence of nephews.

Narain Singh v. Surmukh Singh (No. 104 P. R. 1887) and Gujar v. Sham Das (No 107 P. R. 1887), cited. KESAR SINGH v. MANGAL SINGH. 144 P R 1888

21. Barech Jats of the Nawashahr tahsil—Childless proprietor—Co-sharer in joint holding—Collaterals.

Found, that no custom exists among Barech Jats of the Nawashahr tahsil of the Jullundur district permitting a childless proprietor who is a co-sharer in a joint holding to alienate his share without necessity, in the presence of near collaterals, who are also his co-sharers.

Gujar v. Sham Das (No. 107 P. R. 1887), cited. MALI v. SAHIB DITTA.
167 P R 1888

22. Kel Jats of Phillour tahsil—Childless proprietor—Necessity.

In a suit, the parties to which were Kel Jats of the Phillour tahsil of the Jullundur district, held, that the defendants had failed to prove a custom by which a childless Jat could dispose of his property arbitrarily, at his mere will and pleasure, and without any legal necessity. DIWAN v. SAHIBA. 33 P R 1889

23. Punnun Jats of tahsil Tarn Taran—Mortgage by sonless proprietor—Objection by distant collaterals.

In a suit brought by certain distant collaterals (related to the mortgagor in the sixth and seventh degrees) to contest an alienation in the form of a mortgage by a sonless Jat proprietor of the Punnun got, held, that the plaintiffs had failed to establish that reversioners so remote as they were, had a right by custom to come forward and contest the alienation. BELA SINGH v. JIWAN SINGH. 56 P R 1889

24. Childless proprietor—Muhammadan Bhatti Rajputs of mauza Mari Bucha—District Gurdaspur.

Found, that by custom governing Muhammadan Rajputs of Bhatti clan residing in mauza Mari Bucha of the Gurdaspur district, a childless proprietor is not competent to alienate ancestral immovable property except with the consent of collaterals or for necessity. IMAM-UD-DIN v. WAZIR KHAN. 14 P R 1890

25. Childless proprietor—Mussalman Jats of Mangrial got of Kharian tahsil, Gujrat district.

In a suit the parties to which were Mussalman Jats of Mangrial got of tahsil Kharian, Gujrat district, held, that no custom had been proved whereby a childless proprietor may alienate ancestral immovable property to a stranger without necessity and without the consent of collaterals. NUR DIN v. MUHAMMAD KHAN. 40 P R 1890

26. Gadari Jats of Batala tahsil—Necessity.

In a suit among Gadari Jats of Batala tahsil, held, that a childless proprietor could not by custom alienate his ancestral land to the exclusion of near male collaterals without necessity. GHASEETA v. PAREMA.
41 P R 1890

27. Suit by Muhammadan collaterals of a Hindu Khatri—Onus probandi.

Plaintiffs (Muhammadans by persuasion) the collaterals of a childless proprietor of the Khatri caste, sued to contest a mortgage by the said proprietor.

Held, that the burden of proof was on the plaintiffs to show that by custom they could sue to have the alienation set aside, and that they had failed to establish any such custom. KANSHI RAM v. JIWAN.
82 P R 1890

28. Chima Jats of Sialkot—Childless proprietor mortgaging his land for valuable consideration—Necessity.

In a suit among Chima Jats of the Sialkot district, held, that no custom had been shewn to exist enabling a childless proprietor to alienate ancestral land without necessity. HARIA v. SANTA. 89 P R 1890

29. Childless proprietor—Mahton Rajputs of Nadalon, Gar shankar tahsil, Hoshiarpur district.

Found, that there is no established custom among Mahton Rajputs of the village of Nadalon in the Garshankar tahsil of the Hoshiarpur district, whereby a childless proprietor can in the presence of near collaterals (an uncle and first cousins) sell his land to a stranger (a Hindu Khatri) without necessity. No. 119 P. R. 1880, not followed.

Held also, that the burden of proof lay

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.
3.—Sales and Mortgages in favour of Strangers—contd.

upon the party asserting the power of alienation. No. 107 P. R. 1887 followed. UTTAM SINGH v. WAZIR SINGH.
75 P R 1891

30. Sindhu Jats, mauza Sindhwan, Jullundur district—Illegitimacy.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were Sindhu Jats of the village of Sindhwan, tahsil Nawashahr, Jullundur district, that no custom was proved conferring on a childless proprietor an unrestricted power of alienation of ancestral land in the presence of nephews.

The sons of the deceased, their mother being the wife of another man, must be deemed to be illegitimate.

No. 84 P. R. 1889 and No. 49 P. R. 1890, referred to. GANGA SINGH v. INDAR SINGH.
72 P R 1892

31. Absence of necessity—Childless proprietor—Arains, Lahore district.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Arains of the Lahore district, that a childless proprietor is subject to the ordinary rule restricting alienation to cases of necessity, and that the alienation in the present case was therefore invalid. SHERA v. BUTA. 104 P R 1892

32. Childless proprietor—Sayads of town of Gujrat owning land in adjacent villages.

Found in a suit, the parties to which were Sayads of the town of Gujrat, owning land in the villages attached thereto, that no custom was established by the defendants—upon whom the onus lay—permitting the alienation of ancestral immovable property save for necessity. RAMZAN SHAH v. MUSSAMMAT SHAH BEGAM. 133 P R 1892

33. Bhangu Jats of mauza Makowal, tahsil *Ajnala, Amritsar district—Suit by distant collaterals—Burden of proof—*Locus standi of reversioners.

The plaintiffs, Hindu Bhangu Jats of the Ajnala tahsil, were descended from a common ancestor of themselves and the alienor, in the sixth generation above the latter, and sued to set aside a mortgage by the alienor on the ground that it was made without necessity. The first Courts placed the onus on the plaintiffs to prove their locus standi to object, and finding that this onus had not been discharged, dismissed the suit.

The Divisional Judge, on a review of the reported cases, felt bound to hold upon the authority of No. 56 P. R. 1889, a case among Jats in the same district, that the suit had been rightly dismissed: but granted a certificate of appeal.

Held, that no general rule can be deduced from the reported decisions as to the degree of remoteness which would justify a Court fixing a preliminary issue and requiring the plaintiff, before he is heard further, to establish affirmatively his right to maintain the suit. GANGA SINGH v. MAYA.
100 P R 1893

CUSTOM I—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.
3.—Sales and Mortgages in favour of Strangers—contd.

34. Mahton Rajputs of mauza Binjon, tahsil Garshankar, Hoshiarpur district—Mortgage by sonless proprietor—Necessity—Burden of proof.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Mahton Rajputs of tahsil Garshankar in the Hoshiarpur district, that a sonless proprietor cannot mortgage his land in the presence of brothers except for necessity;

(2) That, the onus was rightly placed on the defendants, who alleged an unrestricted power of alienation, and had not been discharged; and

(3) As to the purpose for which a proprietor might alienate, that the payment of a just debt legally enforceable is an obligation in the nature of a personal necessity without regard to the purpose for which the debt was contracted.

No. 119 P. R. 1880, No. 18 P. R. 1890, No. 75 P. R. 1891, and No. 107 P. R. 1887 (F. B.), referred to. RAMANAND v. DEWIYA.
117 P R 1893

35. Bedis of Mohla Wahidpur, tahsil Garhshankar, Hoshiarpur district—Sale without necessity of ancestral land—Objections of near kinsmen—Burden of proof.

Held, in a suit the parties to which were Bedis of mauza Mohla Wahidpur in the Garhshankar tahsil of the Hoshiarpur district, a non-agricultural class, though in the present case holding land in the village the tenure of which was incomplete bhaiachara, but having no share in the shamilat, that the plaintiffs had failed to discharge the burden, which under the circumstances lay upon them, of proving that certain alienations of divided ancestral land by a deceased collateral male without necessity, were liable to be set aside as contrary to custom.

No. 22 P. R. 1891, No. 82 P. R. 1890, and No. 107 P. R. 1887 (F. B.), referred to. KHAZAN SINGH v. MADDI. 122 P R 1893

36. Naru Rajputs of Bhagwanpur, Jullundur tahsil—Onus probandi.

Held, that defendants, upon whom the onus probandi rested, had failed to prove that by custom among Naru Rajputs of Bhagwanpur in the Jullundur tahsil, a sonless proprietor has unrestricted powers of alienation of ancestral property.

Nos. 84 P. R. 1879, 102 P. R. 1880, 113 P. R. 1883, 107 P, R. 1887 (F. B.), 74 P. R. 1890, 95 P. R. 1890, 73 P. R. 1891, 90 P. R. 1891, 118 P. R. 1891, 71 P. R. 1893, and 64 P. R. 1894, referred to. UMAR KHAN v. SAMAND KHAN. 145 P R 1894

37. *Proprietor's right of alienation in presence of son—Gagh Jats of Darapur in Hoshiarpur district—*Onus probandi.

Found, that the defendant, upon whom the onus probandi rested, had failed to prove that by custom among Gagh Jats of mauza Darapur in the Hoshiarpur district, a proprietor has an unrestricted power of alienation of ancestral land.

With reference to a proprietor's right of alienation of ancestral land, the rule in favour of agnates laid down in No. 107 P. R. 1887 (F. B.), is applicable with all the greater force in the case of a son, and the onus of proving a proprietor's unrestricted right of alienation of ancestral property, to the prejudice of his son, rests upon the party alleging such right. BADHAWA v. SHER MUHAMMAD.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.
3.—Sales and Mortgages in favour of Strangers—contd.

2 P R 1895

38. Basrai Jats of Tarn Taran, Amritsar district—Riwaj-i-am—Onus probandi.

Found, that by custom among Basrai Jats of Tarn Taran in the Amritsar district, a sonless proprietor is not allowed an unrestricted power of alienation of ancestral land. GURDIT SINGH v. TARA SINGH. 34 P R 1895

39. Power of sonless proprietor to alienate—Dogar Jats of mauza Shamaspur, Delhi tahsil—Onus probandi.

Held, by the Full Bench, that when the land which the owner for the time being seeks to alienate is found to have come to him from his ancestors as his share of the land held by them as members of a village community, the principles laid down in the Full Bench decision No. 107 P. R. 1887, apply equally as regards the initial presumption, whether the land is situated in a central or in any other district of the Punjab. Found, upon the evidence, that the defendants upon whom the onus rested, had failed to prove that by custom among Dogar Jats of mauza Shamaspur, Delhi tahsil, a sonless proprietor has an unrestricted power of alienation of ancestral land. RAMJI LAL v. TEJ RAM. 73 P R 1895 F B

40 Sale by sonless proprietor in favour of stranger—Varaich Jats, Gujrat tahsil—Necessity.

In a case, the parties to which were Varaich Jats of the Gujrat tahsil, found that defendants had failed to prove any custom prevailing in their tribe which recognizes an unrestricted power of alienation of ancestral land by a sonless proprietor in the presence of near collaterals. KHUDA YAR v. AHMAD DIN. 15 P R 1896

41. Sale by childless proprietor—Awans of Mianwali tahsil, Bannu district.

Found, that by custom among Awans of the Mianwali tahsil of the Bannu district, a childless proprietor has an unrestricted power of disposing by sale of his ancestral land. DEVI DAS v. BHAKRA. 53 P R 1899

42. *Sale by sonless proprietor to stranger—*Locus standi of reversioner—Bhandari Khatris of Vairowal, tahsil Tarn Taran, District Amritsar—Burden of proof—Agricultural tribe—Record of rights.

Khatris, although following agricultural pursuits, cannot be presumed to have adopted the general customs of agriculturists in matters of succession and alienation, and the record of rights cannot operate to make a Khatri proprietor an agriculturist subject to customs which govern the latter. The presumption is that a Khatri is only bound by so much of the record of rights as deals with pre-emption and similar customs.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.
3.—Sales and Mortgages in favour of Strangers—contd.

The burden of proof therefore that a Khatri in matters such as alienation or succession is governed by custom rests always on the party alleging that he is so bound.

Found, upon the evidence that plaintiff had failed to establish that a sonless Bhandari Khatri of Vairowal in the Tarn Taran tahsil of the Amritsar district was governed by a custom prohibiting alienation by him of ancestral land without the consent of his collaterals.

Mussammat Pal Devi v. Fakir Chand (60 P. R. 1895), Jiwan v. Hakam Khan (140 P. R. 1894), Uttam Singh v. Jhanda Singh (21 P. R. 1896), Hashim v. Nathu 13 P. R. 1900), Kartar Singh v. Mather Singh (94 P. R. 1898), Khazan Singh v. Maddi (122 P. R. 1893), and Kanshi Ram v. Jiwan (82 P. R. 1890), referred to. HARNAM SINGH v. DEVI CHAND.
107 P R 1901

43. Alienation by sonless proprietor—Locus standi of reversioner—Brahmans of Manhala, tahsil Lahore—Burden of proof—Agricultural tribe—Hindu Law.

Held, that as the same presumptions as to following the general custom of the Punjab do not arise in the case of persons who do not depend entirely on the land for their support, the burden of proof that such persons, in matters of alienations or successions, are governed by custom rests on the party making such an allegation.

Found, upon the evidence that plaintiff, upon whom the onus lay, had failed to establish that a sonless Brahman of Manhala, in the Lahore tahsil, was governed by custom and not by Hindu Law, and that the alienation of land by such a proprietor was consequently subject to restriction.

Kartar Singh v. Mathar Singh (94 P. R. 1898), Khazan Singh v. Maddi (122 P. R. 1893), Gurmukh v. Gangu Ram (81 P. R. 1895), Sham Ram v. Hemi Bai (73 P. R. 1896), Sohnun v. Ram Dial (79 P. R. 1901) and Harnam Singh v. Devi Chand (107 P. R. 1901), cited. Mohan Lal v. Devi Das (43 P. R. 1899) and Prabh Dial v. Devi Dial (116 P. R. 1893), referred to. MOTI RAM v. SANT RAM. 103 P R 1902

44. Sidhu Jats of Atari, Amritsar district.

See UNDER SUB-HEAD 5, NECESSITY.
58 P R 1905

45. Alienation by sonless proprietor—Suit by reversioner to have such alienation declared null and void—Dismissal of suit on merits—Subsequent suit by the son of such reversioner for possession after the death of the alienor—Estoppel.

See RES JUDICATA. 68 P R 1905

46. Alienation by sonless proprietor—Locus standi of the reversioners of the eighth degree to contest such alienation—Burden of proof—Ghuman Jats of the Sialkot tahsil.

Held, that the plaintiffs on whom the onus lay had failed to establish a custom by which, among Ghuman Jats of the Sialkot tahsil, collaterals of the eighth degree were entitled to contest an alienation of his ancestral estate made by a childless proprietor as being made without necessity or consideration. NATHA SINGH v. MOHAN SINGH.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.
3.—Sales and Mortgages in favour of Strangers—contd.

93 P R 1906

47. Alienation by sonless proprietor—Locus standi of the reversioners of the eighth degree to contest such alienation—Hindu Bhat Jats of tahsil Raya, Sialkot district.

Found, that among Hindu Bhat Jats of tahsil Raya in the Sialkot district collaterals of the eighth degree are not entitled by custom to contest an alienation of his ancestral estate by a childless proprietor as being made without necessity or consideration. HIRA v. KARAM KOUR. 23 P R 1907

48. Suit by reversioner to enforce his right in respect to land on the ground that the alienation had been without necessity which alienation had already been challenged by his father on the ground of pre-emption only—Locus standi—Estoppel by acquiescence.

Held, that the fact that at the mutation of a sale of ancestral immovable property by a childless male proprietor the nearest reversioner expressed his readiness to take it over on payment of the sale price, but abstained from taking any action whatsoever in respect to it during his life-time, is evidence to prove that it had been acquiesced in as valid sale, and consequently the son of such reversioner is debarred from suing to impeach the sale as invalid for want of necessity. LAKHA SINGH v. JOTA SINGH.
35 P R 1907

49. Unrestricted power of a male proprietor to alienate ancestral lands without necessity, exception to general rule of the customary law—Sahu Jats of mauza Dudah Sahu, District Montgomery.

Held, that among Jats generally ancestral land is inalienable in presence of agnates except for necessity, but this general rule is not applicable to sahu Jats of mauza Dudah Sahu, District Montgomery, where the common village bond has been broken by the introduction into the proprietary body of persons of different independent tribes, whose lands all intermix and where many uncontested alienations have taken place in the presence of agnatic relations of the alienors. FAZIL v. SADAN. 51 P R 1910

50. Custom—Alienation—Necessity—Madaris (jugglers), Ludhiana district, agriculturists bound by custom.

Held, that the parties to the suit, Madaris (jugglers) of the Ludhiana district though not among the agricultural tribes in the census report or in the list of agricultural tribes of the district compiled for the purposes of the Land Alienation Act, had by cultivating agricultural land for several generations as their only means of livelihood, adopted and rendered themselves subject to the ordinary agricultural law of the Central Punjab.
7 P R 1911

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.
3.—Sales and Mortgages in favour of Strangers—concld.

51. Custom—Alienation—Kureshis of Mianapura, Sialkot city—Muhammadan Law—onus probandi.

Held that, although Kureshis of Mianapura, Sialkot city, do not in all matters follow Muhammadan Law, the burden of proving that the tribe follow a custom under which alienations by a male proprietor are controllable by his reversionary heirs is on the latter and that in default of such proof personal law must be applied 63 P R 1911

52. Custom—Alienation—Brahmans of mauza Dharmsala, tahsil Una, District Hoshiarpur—Hindu Law.

Held, that the parties to the suit Brahmans of mauza Dharmsala in tahsil Una, District Hoshiarpur, were governed in matters of alienation by agricultural custom and not by Hindu Law. 34 P R 1911

4.—Alienation for Religious Purposes.

1. Dhewal Jats of tahsil Jagraon—Religious gift (dharmarth) of the whole of donor's ancestral property—Suit by collaterals.

In a suit brought by the plaintiffs as the next reversionary heirs of one D. to obtain a declaration that a gift made by D. of his land to three faqirs was inoperative as against them, the parties being Jats of the Dhewal got, resident in the Jagraon tahsil of the Ludhiana district, held, that the defendants had failed to establish a custom under which a Hindu Jat is empowered to dispose of the whole of his ancestral holding by way of religious gift (dharmarth) to the prejudice of collateral heirs. BALRAM v. GOLAB SINGH.
51 P R 1884

2. Randhawa Jats of Batala tahsil—Religious gift (dharmarth)—Validity of such gift—Hindu Law.

In a suit by the cousins and reversionary heirs of a childless proprietor to obtain a declaration that a gift made by him for religious purposes (dharmarth) of his ancestral land would be inoperative beyond the lifetime of the donor, the parties to which were Randhawa Jats of the Batala tahsil, held, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove a custom whereby such a gift would be invalid, and that as such a gift was valid by Hindu Law, the plaintiffs' suit must be dismissed. Kishen Singh v. Jowahir Singh (No. 71 of 1879 Civil), referred to. BHAI JHANDA v. NIHAL SINGH. 159 P R 1884

3. Bahal Rajputs of the Hoshiarpur district—Gift for religious purposes (dharmarth)—Validity of such gift.

Found, that among Bahal Rajputs of the Hoshiarpur district, gifts to priests and parohits of small portions of the donor's ancestral land are valid by custom, but that gifts of an entire holding, or of the greater part of a holding, are contrary to the recognized custom. Balram v. Golab Singh (No. 51 of 1884, Civil), cited. TEKA v. BAISAKHI.
3 P R 1885

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

4.—Alienation for Religious Purposes—concld.

4. Sindhu Jats of Firozpur district—Sankalp.

Found, that by the custom prevailing among Sindhu Jats of the Firozpur district a man may give in "sankalp" a small piece of land, but not the whole of his estate.

Quære—whether a gift as above of 74 kanals out of a holding of 297 kanals, i. e., of ¼th of the entire estate, could be held to be warranted by the above custom. KHAZAN SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT KARMO. 23 P R 1885

5. Hindu Law—Sankalp gift by a Khatri widow of joint ancestral immovable property.

Held, in the absence of a proved special custom to the contrary, that a gift in sankalp by a Hindu widow, made for her own spiritual benefit is not a valid alienation under Hindu law. SHAMBU v. SHANKAR DAS.
76 P R 1885

6. Hindu Jats of Amritsar district—Gift of a small portion of ancestral land for pious purposes.

Found that by custom prevailing among Hindu Jats of the Amritsar district, a gift for religious purposes made by a childless proprietor of a small portion of his ancestral land in favour of his parohit is valid. DUNI CHAND v. JAGAT SINGH. 11 P R 1890

7. Alienation of a small portion of ancestral land for pious purposes—Datt Brahmins of Gurdaspur district.

Held, that a childless Datt Brahmin of the Gurdaspur district is competent to alienate a small portion of his ancestral land for religious purposes, such as sinking of a drinking well. TARA SINGH v. GOPAL SINGH.
26 P R 1905

5.—Necessity.

1. Randhawa Jats of Ajnala tahsil, Amritsar—Childless proprietor—Necessity—Duty of lender to proprietor with limited power of alienation.

Found that among Randhawa Jats of the Ajnala tahsil of the Amritsar district, a childless proprietor can only alienate his ancestral land for necessity, against the will of near agnates.

A creditor advancing money to a childless proprietor with a limited power of alienation would be justified in advancing a reasonable sum if, after due enquiry, he had a bonâ fide belief that it was required for, and intended to be spent on, a necessary purpose; but he cannot be held responsible for the expenditure of the money after it has passed out of his own hands. NARAIN SINGH v. SURMUKH SINGH.
104 P R 1887

2. Childless proprietor—Necessity—"Zati zarurat" explained.

In a suit to contest an alienation by a childless proprietor, in which it was agreed by the parties that by custom a sonless, or any proprietor had only power to alienate, by sale or mortgage, for "zati zarurat," or payment of Government revenue, held, that the above expressions, correctly interpreted, authorized only alienations for necessity which might arise either from State demands, or the pressure of private wants, the latter necessity being restricted to demands which the proprietor would be compelled to satisfy either by law, or by a public opinion of equal force with the law. CHANDA SINGH v. DULA SINGH. 185 P R 1888

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

5.—Necessity—contd.

3. Ancestral land—Necessity: antecedent debt—Sonless Brahmin, Hoshiarpur district—Burden of proof.

In a suit by the collaterals (brother's sons) of a deceased sonless Brahmin of the Hoshiarpur district to contest a mortgage of land made by him upon the ground of absence of valid necessity for the alienation, held:

Per STOGDON, J.—It is incumbent on a sonless proprietor to pay his debts, and if he raises money in order to discharge them he raises it for a necessary purpose.

What is valid necessity may be another question of custom, some tribes construing the term much more widely than others.

Per BULLOCK, J.—The payment of a debt proved to be in existence and recoverable by law is a sufficient justification for the raising of money to pay it through an alienation of ancestral land by a childless proprietor, but it follows as a sound deduction from the Full Bench Ruling, No. 107 P. R. 1887 that the last creditor lending upon the security of ancestral land must satisfy himself of the necessity for the previous debts for the payment of which the proprietor borrows.

No. 107 P. R. 1887, referred to.

[OPINION OF PLOWDEN, J. In admitting the appeal, as to the necessity which will justify a valid disposition of his property by a childless proprietor.] JOWAHIR v. MUSSAMMAT CHANDI. 90 P R 1892

4. Sikh Jats, Randhawa got, tahsil Ajnala, District Amritsar—Necessity—Consideration.

The plaintiff, a near collateral, sued to set aside a mortgage of land by K. S. on the grounds that it was fictitious and not made for necessity, and that, except for necessity it was not competent to K. S. to make the alienation. The defendants, against whom the first Court had decided, urged in their third ground of appeal to the Divisional Judge that "the mortgage was for consideration and legal necessity": this ground was disposed of by the remarks that "the evidence of necessity was not at all convincing."

Held, that the case should be remanded to the Divisional Court for disposal of the real issue between the parties, which was: Whether there were antecedent debts due by K S. for the payment of which he mortgaged his land, and, if so, what was their amount or whether the transaction was as a mortgage, purely fictitious and without any consideration, as the plaintiff contended. NIHAL SINGH v. WASAWA SINGH. 98 P R 1893

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

5.—Necessity—contd.

5. In a suit the parties to which were Mahton Rajputs of tahsil Garhshankar in the Hoshiarpur district, found, that a sonless proprietor cannot mortgage his land in the presence of brother except for necessity.—RAMA NAND v. DEWIYA. 117 P R 1893

6. Alienation of ancestral lands by proprietor to pay off debts—Necessity.

Held, that an alienation of ancestral land by a proprietor in order to pay off his just debts was an alienation for "necessity" and formed a valid charge upon such land not only while it was in his own hands but also in the hands of his heirs.

Held, further, that though heirs, who contest an alienation of ancestral property by their predecessor in title, are entitled to demand as against themselves in a proceeding to which they are parties that an alienation to which they were not parties was made in respect of an antecedent just debt of the alienor, there is ordinarily no need to go further and ascertain whether originally the debt was or was not necessarily incurred. ATMA RAM v. NAURANGA.
24 P R 1894

7. Ancestral land—Necessity—Childless agricultural Jat of Amritsar district—Burden of proof.

One A. S. sued to have it declared that an alienation, by deed of sale of certain ancestral land made by S. S., a childless agricultural Jat of Amritsar district, and uncle of the plaintiff, in favour of the defendant-appellant should not affect his reversionary rights on the ground that S. S. was entitled to alienate only in the case of extreme necessity (ashad zaruriyat) and that S. S. had no such necessity in this case and had alienated the land merely from enmity towards plaintiff. The defendant S. S. admitted that he had made the alienation from enmity towards plaintiff and that out of the consideration he had received a portion only. The other defendants pleaded that full consideration had been paid and that the alienation was justified by good cause. The lower Courts having held that, apart from the amount admitted, the payment of consideration was not established, and that there was under the circumstances of the case no necessity for the alienation, decreed the plaintiff's claim. The defendant alienees having appealed to the Chief Court, Found, upon the evidence that payment of the whole consideration was satisfactorily established and was obtained for necessary purposes.

The question of due exercise of the power of a proprietor of agricultural land to sell for necessity discussed by Benton, J.

No. 90 P. R. 1892, cited. ASA RAM v. AMRIK SINGH. 70 P R 1894

8. "Necessity"—"Antecedent just debts"—Sale to pay off previous debts due to vendee—Burden of proof—Distinction between a male owner and widow in possession as regards necessity.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.
5.—Necessity—contd.

Though there is some similarity between the tenures of a male proprietor and a widow in possession in that both are liable to be controlled, under customary law, in their powers of alienation by the next agnatic heirs, the analogy cannot be carried further, and the criteria of necessity in the case of the widow do not apply to the male proprietor whose antecedent just debts are a sufficient necessity to justify the alienation of land by him.

A "just debt" of a male proprietor is one which is (1) really due and (2) has been contracted for a purpose other than one that is immoral or forbidden by law, or opposed to public policy, and (3) can be recovered from his person or property generally. It need not be one incurred for necessity such as would be binding on the heirs in any case, but if it amounts, on the face of it, to an act of sheer recklessness and waste it cannot be treated as a just debt even though it is not immoral or illegal, or opposed to public policy. A "just debt" is none the less so merely because it is one due to the same person to whom the alienation for the purpose of paying off the debt is made, the word "just" having reference to the nature of the debt and not to the person by whom the money has been advanced. The only difference in the relative position of creditors of the two classes is that the person with whom the original dealings took place is ordinarily fixed with knowledge of the character of the debts, and if he has knowingly advanced money for an immoral or an illegal purpose, or one opposed to public policy, or for acts of wilful and wanton waste and reckless extravagance or for ruining the estate for the reversioners, the debt due to him cannot be called a just debt of the owner so as to bind the reversioners if the land is alienated to him in order to satisfy the said debt. An outsider, on the other hand, is protected if he acts in good faith when accepting a transfer of the land for payment of the owner's antecedent liabilities.

A debt incurred without valid necessity and which would not have justified a transfer of ancestral land does not become "a just antecedent debt" merely by its colorable inclusion in a subsequent transaction. SARDARI MAL v. KHAN BAHADUR KHAN.

11 P R 1899

9. "Necessity"—"Antecedent just debt"—Hindu and Customary Law.

The principle applied to antecedent debts as constituting necessity for a sale under Hindu Law, viz., that the purchaser when he is himself the antecedent creditor must prove more than would be required from one whose purchase money was to be devoted to debts due to others, is applicable to suits by collaterals under Punjab Customary Law to contest alienations by childless proprietors. A debt, therefore, which is not for necessity and cannot bind the estate in the hands of the reversioners does not become one for necessity and binding because

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.
5.—Necessity—contd.

a fresh document is substituted for the original document in respect of it. SOBHA SINGH v. THOBA SINGH. 14 P R 1899

10. Antecedent just debts.

Held, that as regards antecedent just debts constituting necessity for an alienation of ancestral land by a male proprietor, a clear distinction, in respect at all events of the strictness of proof required is to be drawn between cases where the antecedent debts were due to the alienee himself and cases where they were due to third persons, the alienee having stepped in and paid them off. In the former class of cases it is necessity to prove the actual receipt of consideration in respect of each item of the former debts, and that they were incurred for necessary purposes. JAGAT SINGH v. PHULA SINGH. 46 P R 1899

11. "Necessity"—antecedent just debts—Burden of proof.

Held, that a sonless male proprietor, unlike a widow, is a full proprietor, and the necessities in his case are not to be judged by analogies drawn from the case of a widow, although he cannot alienate without necessity, but the payment of his just antecedent debt is a necessity. That the words just debts as used in connection to the debts of a male proprietor are:—(a) debts which are actually due and are not immoral, illegal or opposed to public policy; (b) debts not contracted as an act of reckless extravagance or of wanton waste or with the intention of destroying the interest of reversioners. The debts incurred for a necessary purpose are always binding irrespective of the income and means of the male proprietor. That the onus of proof of the validity of alienation of ancestral land by a male proprietor always lies, in the first instance, on the alienee whether he be a third party or a person whose debts have been paid off by the alienation. That an alienee who is himself the antecedent creditor by his position is primâ facie fixed with the knowledge of the nature of the debts and of the purposes on which the money borrowed was spent, and if they were not incurred for actual necessity or were contracted for reckless extravagance or to waste the estate the alienation in lieu of such debts is invalid. That an outsider who pays antecedent debts in consideration of the transfer of the property if he acts honestly and makes proper enquiry whether the debts are actually due, is not responsible if he has been deceived and is entitled to have the alienation declared binding.

Sardari Mall and others v. Khan Bahadar Khan (11 P. R. 1899), Sobha Singh v. Thoba Singh (14 P. R. 1899), and Jagat Singh v. Phula Singh (46 P. R. 1899), referred to and explained. DEVI DITTA AND OTHERS v. SAUDAGAR SINGH AND OTHERS.

65 P R 1900

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.
5.—Necessity.—contd.

12. Necessity—Antecedent just debts—Suit by son of the alienor.

In a case where a minor son sued to set aside his father's alienations on the ground of non-receipt of consideration and want of necessity, held, that the father having himself admitted receipt of consideration and having given possession and mutations of names raised strong presumption that consideration had been received; and as regards necessity, it being shown that the father had only a small estate and large expenses, and it not being shown that he lived in an extravagant way, the previous debt to the vendee should be held to have been incurred for the usual necessary requirements of an agriculturist. PIRAN DITTA v. MOTI AND OTHERS.

97 P R 1901

13. Necessity—Childless agricultural Jats of Hoshiarpur District—Burden of proof—Acquiescence.

In a suit brought by the collaterals of a childless agricultural Jat in 1891, to contest alienations effected by him in 1863 and 1864 on the ground that they were without consideration or "necessity," the defence pleaded acquiescence, and established the following facts in proof of the plea, viz., (i) that the plaintiffs never intimated to them during the whole of the time that they intended to object to the sales, (ii) the plaintiffs total silence in 1867 when a partition was proceeding, (iii) the fact of plaintiff taking some land in dispute as tenant from the vendee without warning him of their own prospective claim. Held, that the above facts sufficiently establish acquiescence on the plaintiffs' part, and that in such cases nothing more should be required of an alienee in the way of proof of "necessity" than the deeds and his own solemn affirmation on the point. RODA v. HARNAM SINGH.

102 P R 1902

14. Suit by reversioner to enforce his right in respect to land on the ground that the alienation had been made without necessity, which alienation had already been challenged by his ancestor on the ground of pre-emption only—Locus standi—Waiver—Necessity.

One M. S. sold half of his land to the defendants in 1862, whereon the grandfather of the present plaintiff brought a suit to enforce his right of pre-emption, but his suit was eventually dismissed as he was unable to deposit the purchase-money. Shortly after M. S. mortgaged the remaining half of his land and the grandfather of the plaintiff again brought a suit which was compromised between the parties, the plaintiff's grandfather paying the mortgage-money and interest to the mortgagee. In neither of these suits did the plaintiff's grandfather challenge the power of M. S. to sell, or alleged that the sale or mortgage was without consideration or necessity, and as a fact he finally agreed to pay the amount mentioned in the purchase-deed, and in the second he actually took over the mortgage. In 1897 the plaintiff filed the present suit in respect of the sale in 1862 on the ground that it was without necessity and did not bind him.

CUSTOM I.- ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.
5.—Necessity—contd.

Held, that the plaintiff's grandfather by bringing his suit for pre-emption on the sale in dispute abandoned any right he had to challenge it on the ground of want of necessity or other reason sufficient to make it voidable by him. Such a suit raised a presumption which of course was not conclusive, that the sale was not bad on the ground of necessity, but it necessarily waived all right to set it aside for want of necessity, and that the plaintiff was bound by the waiver on the part of his grandfather, and on that account precluded from succeeding in the present claim. Held, also, that the above facts certainly establish that there is some proof that the sale was not an improper one and was for necessity, and that in such cases if conclusive evidence as to necessity was not forthcoming it was due to the plaintiff's laches and delay in bringing the suit. That it would be unjust to expect the purchaser's sons and grandsons to be able to supply strict proof in 1897 of the reasons which led the seller to transfer his land in 1862. LABH SINGH v. GOPI.

15 P R 1903

15. Alienation by a Jat proprietor of ancestral property—Suit by the son of the alienor to declare the alienation invalid and not binding after the alienor's death—Sidhu Jats of Attari, tahsil Tarn Taran, Amritsar District—Necessity—Burden of proof.

Held, that the vendees, upon whom the onus probandi rested, had failed to prove that the property was not ancestral, or that the alienor was not subject to the ordinary rule restricting alienation to cases of necessity, or that there was any valid necessity for the alienation in dispute for a sum exceeding Rs. 4,150.

The nature of a reversioner's right to contest an alienation by a widow under Hindu Law considered and compared with a reversioner's right to contest an alienation by a male proprietor under Customary Law. RAM RAKHA MAL v. BALWANT SINGH.

58 P R 1905

16. Sale by limited owner—Necessity—Failure to prove necessity with respect to a trifling portion of the consideration—Competency to convert sale into mortgage.

Held, that a sale of immovable property by a limited owner ought not to be converted into a mortgage merely because a trifling portion of the consideration was paid in cash for current expenses and was not proved to have been for necessity. BADRI MAL v. GOPAL. 130 P R 1906

17. Alienation of ancestral estate in order to carry on speculative suits for pre-emption—Legal necessity.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.
5.—Necessity—concld.

Held, that advances made to agricultural proprietors on the security of ancestral land to provide them with funds to fight out speculative suits for pre-emption, can under no circumstances be regarded as incurred for legal necessity and alienees who make such advances cannot reasonably ask the Courts to regard such alienations as made for a necessary purpose. SOBHA SINGH v. KISHORE CHAND. 65 P R 1907

18. Sale by limited owner—Necessity—Failure to prove necessity with respect to a fraction of the consideration—Competency to convert sale into mortgage.

Held that on a suit by the son of a limited owner to contest a sale of immovable property made by his own father on the ground that it was without necessity or consideration ought not to be converted into a mortgage merely because a fraction of the purchase-money was not proved to have been for necessity or might possibly be fictitious in whole or in part especially where the suit is collusive and the amount of the purchase-money proved to be for necessity is not very much below the real value of the property sold. WADHAWA MAL v. WADHAWA.

8 P R 1908

19. Necessity—Childless proprietor borrowing money with a view to entering the army and for marriage—Lender's duty to see to application of the money.

Held, that a mortgage of ancestral land by childless proprietor for his intended marriage and to enable him to enlist in a cavalry regiment, though neither purpose is effected, but steps are taken towards both, is binding on the reversioners and constitutes necessity and that in such cases the lender, having made enquiry and found that the money was really required for the purposes stated, is not bound to see what the mortgagor actually does with the money. PAL SINGH v. BUR SINGH. 65 P R 1910

6.—Limitation.

1. Alienation of ancestral property by Jat proprietor—Suit by after born son of the alienor to contest such alienation—Limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, Article 120.

In 1904, plaintiff, who was born in 1900, brought a suit for declaration that an alienation of ancestral land made by his father in 1893 would not affect his reversionary interests.

Held, that the claim was barred by limitation under Article 120 of the second Schedule to the Limitation Act. The cause of action giving the right to sue commenced from the date of the alienation, and limitation had finally expired before the plaintiff's birth and was not revived in favour of plaintiff on his birth in 1900.

Harvans Singh v. Harnam Singh (84 P. R. 1898, F. B.) and Jowala v. Hira Singh

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.
6.—Limitation—concld.

(55 P. R. 1903), F. B.), referred to. GANPAT v. DHANI RAM. 76 P R 1906

2. Alienation of ancestral property by sonless proprietor—Right of after-born reversioner to contest alienation beyond time—Legal disability—Limitation Act, 1877, section 7.

Held, that a reversioner born subsequent to the date of an alienation which had been made in his father's life-time cannot avail himself of an extension of time under section 7 of the Indian Limitation Act to enable him to contest the validity of such an alienation. UMRA v. GHULAM. 22 P R 1907

3. Suit by after-born son of such proprietor to recover possession of such land—Limitation—Starting point of—Punjab Limitation Act, 1900.

Held, that under the provisions of the Punjab Limitation Act a suit by a son of a male proprietor governed by the Customary Law of the Punjab to recover possession of ancestral land alienated by such proprietor during his life-time, must be instituted within twelve years from the date on which the alienation was attested by the Revenue Officer in the Register of mutations maintained under the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, and a son of such proprietor born after the date of such alienation is not exempted from its operations by section 7 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, and can claim no deduction on the ground of his minority, as when once time begins to run no subsequent disability to sue stops it.

Jawala v. *Hira Singh (*55 P. R. 1903), and Ganpat v. Dhani Ram (76 P. R. 1906) referred to.

Govinda Pallai v. Thayam Mal (14 M. L. J 209), not approved. INAYAT KHAN v. SHABU.

108 P R 1907

4. Onus probandi as to the inapplicability of Punjab Limitation Act, 1900, to a suit by a reversioner of a male proprietor to recover possession of ancestral land alienated by such proprietor.

See PUNJAB LIMITATION ACT, 1900.

11 P R 1909

7.—Locus standi of reversioners and widows.

1. A gift in contravention of the law of Benares (that law being held to prevail in the Punjab), is invalid.—A Hindu gave his property to his first wife who was childless just before marrying his second wife by whom he had children. The donor retained possession. After his death, in a suit between the wives, held, that the gift was invalid. MUSSAMMAT KISHEN DEVEE v. MUSSAMMAT GUNGA DEVEE. 22 P R 1867

2. By the custom of the Gill section of the Jats, Ferozepore district, a gift of undivided ancestral property may be contested by the

835

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

7.—Locus standi of reversioners and widows—contd.

collateral relatives of a childless proprietor (the donor), but a gift of divided property does not require the consent of the collaterals. TEJA SINGH v. SOCHET SINGH. 33 P R 1872

3. Only a son or grandson is competent by Hindu Law to object to the alienation of ancestral property; a brother or nephew has no such right. Moola v. Atma Ram (No. 77 of 1869, Civil); but by proved custom a nephew may object and sue to contest the alienation. Mohun Singh v. Nowdha (No. 55 of 1870, Civil); Mohun Singh v. Nundha (No. 46 of 1871, Civil); and ASA NAND. v. HUKMEE. 40 P R 1872

4. Gift by village proprietor to relation—Objection by village proprietary body.

Held, that the members of the proprietary body of a village are not entitled as such to object to a gift by one of their number to a relation. JOWALA SINGH v. SHAM SINGH. 43 P R 1877

5. Ancestral house property—Khatris of Jullundur.

Found that no custom existed restraining the alienation of ancestral house property by Khatris of the town of Jullundur at the instance of possible reversioners, related in the fifth degree from the alienor. GANGA RAM v. RALLA MAL. 51 P R 1878

6. Hindus of Kapuria caste—Property ancestral and acquired—Onus of proving property ancestral.

In a suit by collateral relations to set aside a will alienating property moveable and immoveable in favour of defendants, who were sister's sons of the testator's father, it was found that the custom applicable to the parties, who were Hindus of the Kapuria caste, was that relatives more remote than great grandsons, and collaterally, not lineally related, could contest alienations of ancestral property, though no custom was established restricting either the alienation of acquired property, or of property derived from the maternal line by inheritance.

Held, that the plaintiffs could no more restrain the deceased from alienating property acquired, after the division of the family, by his father or grand-father, than from alienating property acquired by himself.

Held, further, that the lower Court was wrong in presuming, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that the immoveable property had descended from an ancestor common to the plaintiffs and the testator, the burden of proving that the property was ancestral being upon the plaintiffs, who having failed to establish their allegation upon this point, were not entitled to set aside the will in dispute. SONU v. LOKU. 2 P R 1881

7. Second cousin.

See UNDER SUB-HEAD 3, supra—SALES AND MORTGAGES IN FAVOUR OF STRANGERS. 16 P R 1883

836

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

7.—Locus standi of reversioners and widows—contd.

8. First cousin

See UNDER SUB-HEAD 3, supra—SALES AND MORTGAGES IN FAVOUR OF STRANGERS. 3 P R 1884

9. Collaterals of the 6th and 7th degree.

See UNDER SUB-HEAD 3, supra—SALES AND MORTGAGES IN FAVOUR OF STRANGERS. 56 P R 1889

10. Son-in-law—Illegitimate branch of collaterals—Competency to sue.

Held, in a suit among Awans of the Gujrat District that illegitimate descendants of a collateral of a deceased owner are not competent to sue as reversioners to set aside an alienation made by a widow in favour of her son-in-law. KARAM AND OTHERS v. AMIR. 116 P R 1889

11. Bajwah Jats of mauza Balian, tahsil Raya, District Sialkot—Alienation by childless proprietor—Suit by collaterals in tenth degree.

Found that among Bajwah Jats of mauza Balian, tahsil Raya, District Sialkot, collaterals so distantly related as the tenth degree from the common ancestor are not entitled by custom to object to an alienation by a childless proprietor. MANGAL v. CHETU. 20 P R 1890

12. Khatri Hindu collaterals.

See UNDER SUB-HEAD 3, supra—SALES AND MORTGAGES IN FAVOUR OF STRANGERS. 82 P R 1890

13. Sindhu Jats, Amritsar District—Collaterals in eighth degree.

Found, that by the custom of the Sindhu Jats of the Amritsar District collaterals of the eighth degree were not entitled to contest an alienation of his ancestral estate made by a childless proprietor as being made without necessity or consideration.

No. 56 P. R. 1890, referred to. BUR SINGH v. RAM SINGH. 9 P R 1892

14. Right to sue—Suit to contest alienation on ground of relationship—Failure to prove allegations—Enquiry as to plaintiffs' rights as ultimate heirs.

The plaintiffs sued on the allegation that they were collateral heirs of S. S. in the fifth degree. The lower Appellate Court, while agreeing with the Court of first instance that the plaintiffs had failed to establish any definite relationship to S. S., remanded the suit for an inquiry as to whether plaintiffs were not entitled to sue as the ultimate heirs, being members of the same got as S. S and therefore presumably descended from a common ancestor, and also being proprietors in the same division of the village. Ultimately it was decided that the plaintiffs could sue as being of the same got and patti as S. S.

Held, that the decree of the lower Appellate Court must be reversed. No distinct relationship to S. S. and no custom entitling them to sue upon the grounds set up on their behalf by the Appellate Court was established by the plaintiffs.

837

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

7.—Locus standi of reversioners and widows—contd.

No 78 P. R. 1888, referred to and distinguished. MUHAMMAD RAFI v. KHAZAN SINGH. 68 P R 1892

15. When a sonless proprietor makes a disposition of ancestral land, either with or without necessity, the warisan ek jaddi as such have, primâ facie at least, a locus standi to contest the alienation based upon the fact that the land has devolved from a common ancestor of the parties. But this particular basis of a title to question the disposition does not exist when the land has not so devolved though it is of course open to the warisan ek jaddi to establish their title to question it upon some other basis. MUSSAMMAT FATTO v. NIZAM DIN. 10 P R 1893

16. Distant collaterals.

See UNDER SUB-HEAD 3, supra—SALES AND MORTGAGES IN FAVOUR OF STRANGERS. 100 P R 1893

17. Muhammadan Jats of the Sanghar got of mauza Jalla Khera, tahsil Amritsar—Objections to the alienation by collaterals in the sixth generation—Burden of proof—Locus standi of reversioners.

Found, in a suit, the principal parties to which were Muhammadan Jats of the Sanghar got of mauza Jalla Khera in the Amritsar tahsil, that an alienation of ancestral land by a sonless proprietor to a stranger without necessity, in the presence of collaterals descended from a common ancestor, in the sixth generation from the alienor was invalid as against the customary heirs.

There is no definite rule to be deduced from the reported cases that up to a determinate degree of propinquity it is to be presumed that kinsmen have a right to impeach alienations of ancestral property by a sonless heir, and beyond that degree it is to be presumed that they have not.

As a general rule, among the landowning tribes in the Punjab no holder of ancestral land, whether or not he has male issue, has a wholly unrestricted power to dispose of such land at pleasure, and, in the absence of necessity, and when any control over a landholder's power to alienate ancestral land exists, it resides in the person who would, in default of alienation, take the land as heir.

When the competency of a sonless landholder to make a transfer of ancestral land is questioned by his reversionary heirs, the fact that they are reversionary heirs suffices to give them a locus standi. The exact degree of their propinquity or remoteness is, with other circumstances, a material element in determining whether the presumption against the competency of such a transfer without the consent of the heirs, near or remote, has been rebutted, the force of the initial presumption varying according to all the known circumstances of the case.

No. 56 P. R. 1889, distinguished; No. 107 P. R. 1887 (F. B.), No. 15 P. R. 1888 and No. 100 P .R. 1893, referred to. KARM DIN v. GURDITT. 101 P R 1893

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

7.—Locus standi of reversioners and widows—contd.

18. Hindu Jats of the Amritsar tahsil—Objections by collaterals in the seventh degree from the common ancestor.

In a suit brought by the plaintiff to set aside a mortgage of ancestral land on the ground that it was made without necessity and without their consent, it was held by the Courts below that the plaintiffs had failed to establish a custom by which persons so distantly related as they were to the alienor had a right to question the alienation, and their suit was accordingly dismissed.

Held, with reference to more recent decisions of the Chief Court, that there is no foundation for holding that any degree of relationship has been so fixed as the limit of a right to sue; that a Court is justified, when the plaintiff is beyond that limit, in framing a preliminary issue, and calling on the plaintiff to prove by custom his right to maintain the suit.

Held, also, that the true issue in these cases is not whether the plaintiffs have any locus standi or right to object, but whether the alienation to a person in the position of the alienee is valid in the presence of persons in the position of plaintiffs without their consent and this issue must be decided not by arbitrary dicta about "burden of proof," or the nature of evidence, but by a full inquiry in which each side produces and the Court itself causes to be produced, all available evidence both as to general custom and particular circumstances. JIWAN v. RUPA.

130 P R 1893

19. Alienation by sonless proprietor, right of widow to contest—Nature of widow's estate—Gift to mother's brother's children—Gujars of Karnal District.

In a suit, the parties to which were Gujars of the Karnal District, plaintiff desired to recover certain land as part of deceased husband's estate from the defendants who were her husband's mother's brother's children, by evidence of a gift found to have been made in favour of the defendants by the husband 4½ year before his death. The said gift was found to be of ⅓rd of the estate only, and to have left with the widow an estate sufficient for her reasonable maintenance.

Held, that the plaintiff had no locus standi to maintain the suit, she not being in a position to control her husband in his dealings with his estate, at least when sufficient provision had been made for her maintenance after his death.

No. 107 P. R., 1887, cited. MUSSAMMAT RAM KAUR v. BHAGWANA.

127 P R 1894

20. There is no arbitrary bar as regards the degree of relationship entitling collaterals to contest alienations. LEHNA SINGH v. BUTA. 135 P R 1894

21. Alienation of ancestral land by sonless proprietor in favour of paternal aunt's son—Gujars of Mahesi got in Kharian tahsil Gujrat District—Right to sue—Locus standi of reversioners related to donor in seventh degree.

Held, that there being no definite rule of custom against claims by relations in the seventh degree, it is wrong, in the absence of evidence bearing directly on the point, to say that agnates of the seventh degree have no right to object to alienations such as that in dispute.

Held, also, with reference to an objection by the defendants, that plaintiffs could not sue in the presence of a nearer agnate of the donor, who however was no party to the suit, that where the next reversioner is a female, or being a male, has colluded or rendered himself incapable of suing, the reversioner coming next after her or him, as the case may be, is entitled to sue. ABDULLA v. MUHAMMADU. 14 P R 1895

22. Acquiesence of next reversioners who had sons living—Locus standi of more remote collaterals to contest alienation.

Plaintiffs sued for a declaration that an alienation by a sonless proprietor, to whom they alleged themselves to be reversioners, would not affect their reversionery rights. It was admitted that a reversioner more nearly related to the said proprietor than plaintiffs was alive and had two minor sons living, but it was urged, on plaintiffs' behalf, that the said reversioner was in collusion with the alienor.

Held, that plaintiffs had failed to prove that they were entitled to sue in the presence of the said reversioner and his sons. SARFARAZ KHAN v. MOHKAM DIN.

81 P R 1896

23. Suit by remote reversioners in presence of nearer reversioner—Speculative suit.

The rule that where a nearer reversioner is precluded from suing to contest an alienation, or colludes with the alienor, a more remote reversioner can sue, has no application to a purely speculative claim with only the remotest chance of ever having any practical effect.

In the present case the plaintiffs, according to the genealogical table, had only a very remote chance of succeeding to a small portion of the estate in dispute.

Held, that plaintiffs were not entitled to sue for a declaration that an alienation should not affect their reversionary rights.

No. 7 P. R., 1893 and No. 81 P. R., 1896, followed. BUDH SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT DHAN KAUR. 57 P R 1898

24. Locus standi of remote collaterals to object to alienation—Dhillon Jats, Lahore District.

The right of male agnates to contest alienations by sonless proprietors is founded on the fundamental principles on which land is held among agricultural tribes in the Punjab and so far from there being any a priori presumption against the locus standi of male agnates beyond a certain degree of relationship to object to such alienations, the presumption is exactly the reverse.

Held, therefore in a case in which the parties were Dhillon Jats of the Lahore District, that plaintiffs who were related to the alienor in the ninth degree were competent to object to the alienation in question.

The mere facts that the property in disptue was situate in a large place (mauza Basin), which was almost a town, that land was held there by various tribes, and that numerous alienations had taken place therein (but almost all subsequently to 1893) without objection by male agnates, held not to be per se sufficient to establish the right of a sonless proprietor to alienate without necessity. ARUR SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT LACHMI.

75 P R 1898

25. Suit by son in presence of his father to contest an alienation by an agnate—Locus standi of plaintiff—Sodhi Khatris of tahsil Zira, Ferozepore District.

In a suit by plaintiff to contest an alienation by his father's uncle, it appeared that plaintiff's father was alive, but refused to join in the suit. The question referred to the Full Bench was whether, under such circumstances, plaintiff had any locus standi to sue.

Held, that, under Customary Law by which the parties were governed, plaintiff was entitled to sue to set aside the alienation in question, and that the District Judge had erred in dismissing his suit on the ground that he had no locus standi. HARVANS SINGH v. HARNAM SINGH. 84 P R 1898 F B

26. Alienation by Jat proprietor without male issue at the date of the alienation—Right of after-born son to contest such alienation on the ground of necessity.

Held, by a majority (Clark, C. J., dissenting) that under the Punjab Customary Law a transfer by an owner who has no heir existing at the time competent to challenge it cannot be contested by a son begotten by the owner after the date of the transaction unless there was in existence at the date of the transfer some one who would challenge it and such person did not ratify it before after-born son was begotten.

Sham Singh v. Sucha (79 P. R. 1900), considered and approved.

Mussammat Lorendi v. Mussammat Kishen Kaur (149 P. R. 1888), Mussammat Fakharunnissa v. Malik Rahim Bakhsh (23 P. R. 1897), Gujar v. Sham Das (107 P. R. 1887 F B.), Roda v. Harnam (18 P. R. 1895 F. B.) Sita Ram v. Raja Ram (12 P. R. 1892 F. B.) Mussammat Bano v. Fatteh Khan (48 P. R. 1893 F. B.), Tagore v. Tagore (9 B. L. R. 398 P. C.), Devi Ditta v. Saudagar (65 P. R. 1900), The Collector of Masulipatam v. Cavaly Vencata Narrainapah (8 Moo. I. A. 500),

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

7.—Locus standi of reversioners and widows—contd.

Ilahia v. Ganda Singh (116 P. R. 1890 F. B.) and Lehna v. Mussammat Thakri (32 P. R. 1895 F. B.), referred to. JOWALA v. HIRA SINGH. 55 P R 1903 F B

27. Custom—Alienation—Alienation by sonless proprietor with the consent of the nearest reversioner—Suit by the son of such reversioner—Locus standi.

Held, that alienation by a sonless proprietor made openly and in good faith, when acquiesced in, also reasonably and in good faith, by the heir, existing at the time competent to challenge it, is valid against all comers and cannot be contested by those who may later on come into a position which would, had they held it at that time, have given them the right to contest it. LABHU v. NIHALI. 7 P R 1905

28. Gift by widow of property acquired by her husband from her father in favour of her son-in-law—Pathans of Gohana tahsil, Rohtak District—locus standi of her husband's collaterals to contest such gift.

One J gifted his land in favour of N, his son-in-law; after the death of the latter, his widow, M, who was the daughter of the original donor J, made a gift of the said land to X, the husband of her daughter, whereupon the brother and nephews of N brought the present suit to obtain a declaration that the gift in favour of X would not affect their rights on the death of Mussammat M. It appeared from the evidence in the case that the property in dispute was never held by an ancestor common to the plaintiffs and N, and that X was a collateral of the original donor.

Held, that as in accordance with the customary law the original gift by J must be presumed to have really been intended for the benefit of his daughter and her issue, the plaintiff had no locus standi to impeach the gift in dispute. Sita Ram v. Raja Ram (12 P. R. 1892 F. B.), referred to. NAWAB KHAN v. KALLU KHAN. 39 P R 1905

29. Gift by sonless proprietor to daughter's son with the consent of the near reversioners—Right of distant reversioners to contest such alienation in presence of a widow of donor's brother's grandson—Mehtans of Jullundur District.

In a suit brought by certain distant reversioners to contest an alienation in the form of a gift by a sonless Mehtan Rajput of Jullundur District in favour of his daughter's son, the defence pleaded that as the donor's brother's grandson's widow was alive, the plaintiffs had no locus standi. It was found that among the parties a widow was entitled to succeed collaterally to any property to which her husband, if alive, would have succeeded.

Held, that as the widow had a prior right of succession to that of the plaintiffs who were the distant reversionary heirs, the latter were not entitled to maintain their suit.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

7.—Locus standi of reversioners and widows—contd.

Eda Khan v. Mussammat Ameri (177 P. R. 1889), Mussammat Shibbo v. Buta (111 P. R. 1891), Puran v. Mussammat Raj Devi (56 P. R. 1891), Bahadur Singh v. Mussammat Nihali (133 P. R. 1893), Rani v. Makhi (146 P. R. 1889), and Anar Devi v. Koulan (43 P. R. 1905), referred to. KHEM SINGH v. BIRU. 44 P R 1905

30. Custom—Alienation—Alienation by a Jat proprietor of ancestral property.

Suit by the son of the alienor to declare the alienation invalid and not binding after the alienor's death—Competency of the reversioners of such son to continue the suit or appeal on the death of the son.

See ABATEMENT OF SUIT OR APPEAL.

58 P R 1905

31. Nature of Reversioner's right to contest an alienation by a Hindu widow compared with that of his right to contest an alienation by a male proprietor under Customary Law.

See UNDER SUB-HEAD 5—NECESSITY.

58 P R 1905

32. Bequest of entire estate by sonless proprietor to his wife and by her to her daughter—Acquired property—Locus standi of the uncle to contest such alienations—Aroras of Kuri, Rawalpindi District.

In a case, the parties to which were Aroras of mauza Kuri in the Rawalpindi District, found, that a sonless proprietor was competent to make an absolute bequest of his entire self-acquired property in favour of his wife in the presence of his own uncle, and that his wife was then empowered to make an alienation in favour of her daughters, and that the uncle had no locus standi to contest either of the dispositions. ATMA SINGH v. KALU. 93 P R 1905

33. Sale by a sonless Khatri proprietor—Locus standi of reversioners—Khatris of Hasil, tahsil Chakwal, District Jhelum—Burden of proof.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Khatris of Hasil, tahsil Chakwal, in the Jhelum District that no custom was established under which a sonless proprietor in possession of divided estate could be controlled by his collaterals in the matter of alienation of that estate.

The burden of proof that Khatris who do not depend entirely on land, in matters of alienation and succession follow Punjab Customary Law, rests on the person making such an allegation. The mere fact that a Khatri family had held land for a long time is not ipso facto sufficient to shift the burden on the other side.

Nanak Chand v. Mussammat Dayan (103 P. R. 1894), Kartar Singh v. Mathar Singh (94 P. R. 1898), Harnam Singh v. Devi Chand (107 P. R. 1901), and Hassan v. Jahana (74 P. R. 1904), cited and followed.

Ralla v. Budha (50 P. R. 1893, F. B.), referred to. ATAR SINGH v. PREM SINGH.

12 P R 1906

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

7.—Locus standi of reversioners and widows—contd.

34. Alienation by childless proprietor to one of his collaterals in tenth degree—Locus standi of a collateral of equal degree to contest such alienation—Burden of proof.

Held, that among the agricultural tribes in the Punjab there is no definite limit of propinquity up to which kinsmen are to be presumed to have the right to impeach alienations of ancestral land by a sonless proprietor without consideration or necessity, and beyond which they are to be presumed not to have it.

Male reversioners are entitled to object to any such alienation even though made in favour of a male agnate of equal or remoter degree, except where the previous relations between the alienor and the alienee have created a sort of moral obligation in the former to compensate the latter in this manner for services rendered.

Ganda Singh v. Maya (100 P. R. 1893), Karm Din v. Gurditta (101 P. R. 1893), Arur Singh v. Mussammat Lachmi (75 P. R. 1898), Ami v. Mussammat Zebo (42 P. R. 1902), cited and followed.

Alla Bakhsh v. Umra (58 P. R. 1887), Kesar Singh v. Sundar Singh (59 P. R. 1889), Ishar v. Ganda Singh (41 P. R. 1900), explained and distinguished.

Gujar v. Sham Das (107 P. R. 1887), Karm Din v. Gurditta (53 P. R. 1893), Punnu Khan v. Sandal Khan (92 P. R. 1904), Narain Singh v. Gurmukh Singh 116 P. R. 1894, referred to. KHAZAN SINGH v. RELU. 35 P R 1906

35. After born son.

See 6, LIMITATION.

76 P R 1906

36. Collaterals of the 8th degree.

See UNDER SUB-HEAD 3, supra—SALES AND MORTGAGES IN FAVOUR OF STRANGERS.

93 P R 1906

37. Alienation by widow—Effect of acquiescence of the nearest reversioner—Suit by the son of such reversioner—Locus standi.

Held, that where a person entitled to object to an alienation takes bona fide action for the protection of the reversion and enters into a compromise in good faith with the alienee in the belief that it was a reasonable and proper one, his son and all other remote reversioners are bound by it, and have no locus standi to contest the alienation in their own right. BUTA v. KHUDA BAKHSH.

97 P R 1906

38. Collaterals of 8th degree.

See UNDER SUB-HEAD 3, supra—SALES AND MORTGAGES IN FAVOUR OF STRANGERS.

23 P R 1907

39. Son of an acquiescing Reversioner.

See UNDER SUB-HEAD 3, supra—SALES AND MORTGAGES IN FAVOUR OF STRANGERS.

35 P R 1907

40. Sale by sonless proprietor—Locus standi of reversioner—Gilani Sayads of mauza Masania, tahsil Batala, Gurdaspur District—

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—contd.

7.—Locus standi of reversioners and widows—contd.

Muhammadan Law—Religious purposes, justification for.

Held, that in matters of alienation and succession Gilani Sayads of mauza Masania, tahsil Batala, Gurdasrur District, who have for nine generations past followed agriculture as a landholding occupation, were governed by the general rules of agricultural customs of the Province and not by the Muhammadan Law, and that the alienation of ancestral land by such a proprietor was consequently subject to restriction, but he was justified in raising money in order to perform the aqiqa ceremony of his deceased son and in alienating a small portion of his ancestral land for that purpose. SHAH NAWAZ v. AZMAT ALI. 40 P R 1907

41. Suit by next reversioner to set aside alienation as invalid in the presence of the adopted son of such proprietor—Right of suit.

Held, that where the nearest heir entitled to object to an alienation by a proprietor with limited powers happens to be a minor and is as such unable to exercise a free agency, the next reversioner is entitled to sue for the protection of the estate. JIWA SINGH v. KHAZANA. 56 P R 1908

42. Alienation by an adopted son of his adoptive father's property—Locus standi of sons born before the adoption of their father to contest alienation.

Held that sons born before the adoption of their father do not, by the mere reason of his adoption, become members of the agnatic family of the adoptor and have therefore no locus standi to contest an alienation made by their father of his adoptive father's property as being made without necessity or consideration. TULSI v. RAM RAKHA. 66 P R 1908

43. Assent by reversioner—Locus standi of the sons of reversioner to contest such alienation.

Held that a reversioner is competent to give his assent to an alienation of ancestral land by a sonless proprietor even after he has contested the validity of that alienation and obtained a decree, and that such assent is binding on his sons and on all reversioners more remote than himself. SHIB RAM v. SHIB SINGH. 78 P R 1908

44. Status of alienee of reversionary rights to contest an alienation.

Held, that a reversioner's right to contest an alienation under Customary law is not transferable to a stranger and ergo that where a reversioner, who has succeeded after the death of a widow, alienates his reversionary rights, the alienee has no status to contest the validity of mortgages made by the widow.

Sher Singh v. Sidhu (No. 11 P. R. 1907) overruled.

JAWALA SAHAI v. RAM SINGH. 67 P R 1909

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—concld.

7.—Locus standi of reversioners and widows—concld.

45. Land originally gifted to son-in-law for benefit of daughther and her issue reverts to doner's family—Reversioners of son-in-law have no locus standi to contest an alienation of it.

The land in dispute originally belonged to one Jiwan, who gifted it to his son-in-law Mulayam for the benefit of his daughter and her son Pira. Pira died, leaving a daughter, Mussammat Kako, and in his lifetime made a gift of the said land to Maula Bakhsh Mussammat Kako's son. After Pira's death the daughter sold the land to collaterals of the said Jiwan. Plaintiffs, the collaterals of Pira, brought the present suit to contest the alienation claiming to be reversioners. An objection as to their locus standi was raised by the defendants.

Held, that the land came to Pira through his mother, that is, he held it as a daughter's son. He does not constitute a fresh stock of descent qua the land, which throughout its course of devolution, whether by inheritance or gift, retains its original character as property that has gone down from Jiwan to Mussammat Kako, therefore the Plaintiff's as collaterals of Pira have no locus standi to contest the sale in the presence of the collaterals of Jiwan. KALU v. MUSSAMMAT KAKO. 102 P R 1909

B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW.

(a) Gifts.

1. Unauthorized alienation enures for life of widow alienating.

Plaintiffs sued to set aside a deed of gift of certain land executed by Mussammat Begum (defendant), widow of Jiwan Khan, in favour of the other defendants. Plaintiffs alleged that the property had belonged to Jiwan Khan ; that his widow by local custom was entitled only to a life interest in the property, the Muhammadan law of inheritance being unknown in their village ; and that they (plaintiffs) were the reversioners. The parties were Pathans living in a Muhammadan village, mauza Sewli, tahsli Palwal, Zillah Gurgaon. Found, that by local custom the widow's interest was for her life only ; and held, that the alienation would operate only for her lifetime. SEPAH DAR KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT BEGUM. 8 P R 1874

2. Mahomedan Jats.

Plaintiffs, as reversioners, sued to set aside a deed of gift by which the landed property of two brothers, W. and S. was given by the widow of S. and by W. to the husband of W's daughter. The lands so alienated were acquired by W. and S. respectively. Neither of them had sons. The parties were Mahomedan Jats of the Ghumman tribe, Ferozepore district.

Found by custom that only a son could object to the alienation of acquired property and held, accordingly, that plaintiffs suit as to W's property failed. Found also, that a widow was absolutely incapable of alienating, and held, that the gift by the widow of S. must be set aside. JAWAN v. ESA. 2 P R 1877

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.

B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—contd.

(a) Gift—contd.

3. Childless widow—Vattu tribe, Sirsa district—Necessity.

Found, that by the custom of the Vattu tribe of the Sirsa district, a sonless widow is not competent to alienate her deceased husband's land except for proved necessity. SAMANDA v. MUSSAMMAT HAIBAN. 34 P R 1881

4. Suit by reversioners to set aside sale by widow—Necessity—Wajib-ul-arz providing for offer to relatives in case of alienation by widow—Effect of such provision.

In a suit by the reversionary heirs of one M. to set aside a sale of a ½ share of a holding by M.'s widow, the lower Appellate Court gave the plaintiffs a decree on the ground that, although the widow might sell the land for legal necessity, she could only do so in the manner provided in the Wajib-ul-arz, which required a widow, when intending to sell her husband's land for necessity, to first offer it to her husband's relatives in a specified order, and as she had not made such offer, the sale was invalid.

Held, that the provision in the Wajib-ul-arz was inserted merely with a view to secure the right of pre-emption to the reversionary heirs of the husband in the case of a sale of his land by his widow, but if she sold the land for necessity without making an offer to the reversioners, the sale would not be invalid but the reversioners would be entitled to bring a suit for pre-emption.

The Chief Court, however, upheld the Commissioner's decree in the present case, finding on the facts that necessity for the sale was not established. MUSSAMMAT KARAM BIBI v. HAYAT BAKSH. 47 P R 1882

5. Muhammadans of Sheikh Ansari tribe, Jalandhar—Widow's power to gift her husband's estate to her daughter.

Held, that no special custom was proved to exist among Ansari Sheikhs of the village of Danishmandan, near Jalandhar, whereby a widow can make a valid gift of the estate of her husband, to which she has succeeded, to her daughter. Mussammat Hijjo v. Meer Mahomed (No. 54 of 1867, Civil) cited. SHER MUHAMMAD v. JAFIR KHAN. 2 P R 1883

6. Gujars of Gujrat—Gift to son-in-law who was not a ghar-jawai by widow of deceased proprietor.

Found, that the widow of a Muhammadan Gujar in the district of Gujrat is not competent by custom to make a valid gift of the land which she holds on a life-tenure from her husband to her son-in-law, where such son-in-law was not a ghar-jawai of her husband. Jowahir v. Faiz Baksh (No. 137 of 1879, Civil) and Husain Baksh v. Ghulam Kadir (No. 65 of 1880, Civil) referred to. MUSSAMMAT GHORI v. KUTHBA.

43 P R 1883

7. Aroras of Montgomery—Necessity.

Found that no special custom exists amongst the Aroras of Montgomery, different from that prevailing elsewhere in the Punjab enabling a widow to alienate, otherwise than for necessity, the landed estate of her deceased husband. GURDIT SINGH v. DITTU.

76 P R 1883

8. Muhammadan Rajputs of M. Mulvi, tahsil Pipli, Ambala—Gift by widow to her daughter—Consent of collaterals.

Found that, according to the custom of Muhammadan Rajputs of the Tuar got in the Pipli tahsil of the Ambala District, a widow cannot make a valid gift of her sonless husband's land to her daughter without the consent of her husband's collateral relatives. SARFRAZ v. MUSSAMMAT FAZL-UN-NISSA.

147 P R 1883

9. Gujars of Gujrat—Gift by widow to her son-in-law.

In a suit to cancel a gift made by the widow of a Gujar of the Gujrat tahsil, held that the defendants had failed to establish the existance of a custom which would enable such widow without the express authority of her husband to alienate her land in favor of a son-in-law who was also a distant collateral of her husband. Shah Muhammad v. Mussammat Imam Bibi (No. 56 of 1878, Civil) cited. KUTB-UD-DIN v. MIRAN BAKSH.

128 P R 1884

10. Suit by thuladars to set aside alienation by widow—Burden of proof—Alternative claim for pre-emption.

In a suit by the proprietors of the thula in which the land was situate to set aside an alienation by the widow of a deceased proprietor of the land left by her husband, and in the alternative for pre-emption, the first Court, without deciding whether the plaintiffs had any right to sue, held that it was proved that the widow had no power to make the sale, and declared it void as against the plaintiffs. The lower Appellate Court, on the appeal of the purchasers, held that the plaintiffs were not shown to have any title to maintain the suit to contest the alienation, and therefore dismissed the suit, without noticing the alternative claim to pre-emption which had not been dealt with.

Held, that it was for the plaintiffs to show that they had a customary right of succession, and could therefore impeach the sale, and that they had failed to do so in the present case, but that they were entitled to have their claim to pre-emption disposed of, and the suit must be remanded for that purpose. Jowala Singh v. Sham Singh (No. 43 of 1877, Civil) cited. JHARU v. MUSSAMMAT LACHMI.

49 P R 1886

11. Sangri Jats of Jalalabad, tahsil Tarn Taran, Amritsar—Widow's power to gift her husband's land.

In a suit the parties to which were Sangri Jats of M. Jalalabad in the Tarn Taran tahsil of the Amritsar district, found (an entry in the Riwaj-i-am notwithstanding) that no custom was proved under which a widow could make a gift of her deceased husband's land in favour of her daughter's son to the prejudice of the already vested rights of the reversioners. MIRAN BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT BAKHTAWARI. 77 P R 1886

12. Near and remote reversioners.

In suits by reversioners to contest alienations made by widows (e.g.,) a gift by a widow to her deceased husband's daughters, the principles applicable to next heirs contesting a grant made by a full male proprietor regarding nearness and remoteness of relationship to the grantor, are inapplicable.

A widow's customary estate in the Punjab not being the full proprietary estate such as a male heir takes, but a limited one enjoyed under many restrictions, for a particular purpose, the residue of the proprietary estate must vest in the next reversioner, however remote he may be, and he is thus enabled to contest an alienation in excess of her power or any act of waste by the widow in her lifetime, and is not barred from recovering the estate after the widow's death (in the absence of any legal alienation by the widow) by reason of his remoteness from the last male owner. KUTUB-UD-DIN v. MUSSAMMAT UMRI.

18 P R 1887

13. Locus standi of next reversioner, however remote.

Held that as alienations by widows stand on an entirely different footing from alienations by childless proprietors, the next reversioner, however remote, is at liberty to sue to contest the former class of alienation. PREM SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT RAMON.

11 P R 1888

14. Kherawat Jats of Ambala District—Locus standi of plaintiffs claiming as reversioners.

Plaintiffs claimed as the collaterals of the last male owner to recover certain land which the widow of the deceased owner had gifted to the defendant, who also alleged adoption. The lower Court threw out the plaintiffs' claim on the ground that they had not proved that they had any locus standi as reversioners, holding that they had failed to prove any definite relationship to the late owner, though the lower Appellate Court admitted that the plaintiffs were of the same "got" as the deceased, and therefore were presumably at some remote period descended from a common ancestor. It further apeared that the plaintiffs were co-proprietors in the same "thullah" (of Kherawat Jats) as that of the late owner, and as such would appear to be his heirs, though possibly in common with other Kherawat Jats in other "thullahs."

Held (on the above facts) that the plaintiffs had established such ancestral connection with the late owner—a co-proprietor in the same sub-division and of the same got—that in the absence of nearer and better entitled heirs they should be held to be the reversioners and entitled to maintain the suit.

Mussammat Bhupia v. Jamna Dass (No. 80 P. R. 1885), referred to. LEHNA v. KISHAN.

78 P R 1888

15. Adoption—Brahmins of Kangra—Right of collaterals of adoptive father to contest alienation by adopted son's widow.

On the death of one G., who had succeeded as adopted son of one H., G.'s widow gifted some of H.'s land to G.'s daughter, whereupon the collaterals of H. sued for cancellation of the gift. The lower Appellate Court, holding that the adoption was of an informal character, which though it made G. heir, personally, to H. did not completely take him into H.'s family, decided that plaintiffs as collateral's of H. had no locus standi to object to the alienation.

Held (reversing the order of the lower Appellate Court) that the adoption, even if all the precise requisites of a Hindu Law dattaka adoption were not gone through, was nevertheless a formal one, and intended to make G. a son of H.'s family ; and further, that even if the adoption could rightly be held to be an informal adoption, the limitation of G.'s privileges on this account could not be interpreted to make him or his widow more absolute owners of his inheritance than they would be if he were a true member of H.'s family.

Dewa Singh v. Nihal Singh (No. 9 P. R. 1880), Jowala Singh v. Mussammat Lachmi (No. 14 P. R. 1884) Arur Singh v. Jawala Singh (No. 89 P. R. 1885, and Uttam Singh v. Wazir Singh (No. 84 P. R. 1887), cited. NAURANG v. MUSSAMMAT DEOKO.

85 P R 1888

16. Will—Awans of Jullundur tahsil—Validity of will by widow in favour of her unmarried daughter.

Held, that no custom had been shown to exist among the Awans of Jullundur tahsil permitting a widow in possession of her husband's estate to make a will bequeathing the whole estate to her unmarried daughter. MUSSAMMAT BHATO v. FATU. 171 P R 1889

17. Bokhari Saiyad Shiahs of kasba Sadhowra, Ambala District—Suit by collaterals in the seventh remove from the common ancestor—Muhammadan Law—Agricultural custom—Widow's tenure of her husband's estate—Life interest—Power of gift.

B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW— contd—(a) Gifts—contd.

In a suit to set aside an alienation made by widows of a Bokhari Sayad Shiah family, residing at kasba Sadhowra, Amballa District, the collaterals (related in the tenth degree from the common ancestor) contended that the widows having succeeded to the entire estates of their respective husbands, it was clear that devolution to property was not governed by Muhammadan Law; and that in the absence of such rule, the general custom governing the agricultural classes of the Punjab applied, whereby widows succeeded to a life tenure only with no power of alienation, and that they (the collaterals), however distantly related, were competent to have the gift set aside.

Held, that the contention was not correct. Given that the widows did not succeed according to strict Muhammadan Law, it did not follow (i) that they took only a life interest similar to that of a Hindu widow and such as is commonly found among agriculturists in this Province; and (ii) that any reversioner, however remote, could sue to contest their alienation.

Held, further, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove that the widows had not by custom governing the parties a limited power of gift. RAHMAT HUSSAIN v. MUSSAMMAT FAHIM-UN-NISSA. 25 P R 1890

18. Gujars of tahsil Gujar Khan, District Rawalpindi—Right of collaterals in the eighth degree to contest alienation by the widow and the mother of the deceased proprietor in favour of his sister and daughter.

Found, that there is no well established custom prevailing among Muhammadan Gujars of the Gujar Khan tahsil, Rawalpindi District, whereby male collaterals so distantly related as the eighth degree from the common ancestor are permited to contest an alienation by a widow in favour of her deceased husband's daughter. SHARAF v. MUSSAMMAT BEGAM. 88 P R 1890

19. Gift by widow of a sonless proprietor to her daughter—Bhatti-Rajputs of Lahore tahsil—Suit by collaterals in the seventh degree from the common ancestor—Burden of proof—Mode of calculating degrees of relationship.

In a suit the parties to which were Bhatti Rajputs of Lahore tahsil, the widow of a sonless proprietor gifted her husband's land in favour of their daughter. Collaterals of her husband in the seventh degree from the common ancestor contested the alienation.

Held, that they were too remote to entitle them to sue the daughter.

In calculating degrees of relationship, the proper course is to begin with the generation of the deceased and to count upwards, until the common ancestor is reached, whose generation should be also included. All the descendants of the common ancestor, however remote, are entitled to succeed. LADHU v. MUSSAMMAT DAULATI. 126 P R 1890

B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW— contd—(a) Gifts—contd.

20. Gift by a widow of a sonless proprietor to their daughter's sons—Riwaj-i-am—Powers of a sahib-i-jaidad—Construction—Pathans of Daudzai and Doaba—District Peshawar.

Held, on a proper construction of the Riwaj-i-am of tahsil Daudazai, District Peshawar, that a widow of a sonless proprietor is a sahib-i-jaidad, and can alienate her husband's immovable property to their daughter's sons in the presence of collaterals. KUTAB v. ISMAIL. 157 P R 1890

21. Mussalman Naru Rajputs of Gorewah, tahsil Dasuha, Hoshiarpur District—Power of widow to make a gift to daughter's son—Collaterals—Burden of proof.

In a suit the parties to which were Mussalman Naru Rajputs of the village of Gorewah in the Dasuha tahsil of the Hoshiarpur District all residing in the same village and all descended from the same common ancestor, found that by custom it was not competent to a widow who was in possession upon the customary estate for life, of land in the said village inherited by the widow after her husband's death from a collateral of the husband, to make a gift thereof to her daughter's son in the presence of karabatis related in the seventh degree to the widow's husband, and in the eighth degree to the collateral whose land had passed to the widow as representing her husband.

Held, also, that the burden of rebutting the presumption arising in favour of the collaterals lay upon the widow and the donee.

Observations as to the persons falling within the category of karabatis.

No. 179 P. R. 1889, relating to Naru Rajputs in the Hoshiarpur tahsil distinguished. No. 177 P. R. 1889, referred to. MUSSAMMAT JIWI v. GAHIYA. 98 P R 1891

22. Kakezais of Naushera, tahsil Pasrur, Sialkot District—Distinction between power of gift and bequest.

Found, that among Kakezais of the village of Naushera in tahsil Pasrur of the Sialkot District, a widow was empowered to make a valid will in favour of her daughter's children. But independently of the mother's act the daughters were entitled to succeed under the provisions of their father's will.

Semble.—It is not correct to say that, in all cases no distinction is ever recognised between the power of gift inter vivos and the power of bequest by will. MANSABDAR v. SADAR-UD-DIN AND AHMAD DIN. 10 P R 1892

23. Compliance with conditions by donee—Gujars of Kharian tahsil, Gujrat District.

Found, that among Mussalman Gujars of the Kharian tahsil, Gujrat District the power of alienation by gift possessed by a widow is strictly limited, and that unless the donee can prove that he has complied with the conditions which would validate the gift, such as that he has in fact maintained her, the alienation is invalid.

B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW— contd—(a) Gifts—contd.

No. 8 P. R. 1891, referred to. MAHMUD v. MOHAMDA. 14 P R 1892

24. *Sonless proprietor—Gift of land by, to his wife and by her to her daughter—*Locus standi of the warisan ek jaddi—Ancestral and acquired property.

S., a Dogar of the Banhaj got, residing in a village in the Barwala tahsil of the Hissar District, being a sonless proprietor, transferred his land comprising some 42 bighas made up of three distinct lots shortly before his death to his widow F., purporting to do this in satisfaction of her dower.

Shortly after S.'s death his widow, F., made a gift of the same land to her daughter L.

The plaintiff's nephews and a nephew's son of S. contested the latter gift.

Held that the gift was valid as regards the self-acquired land comprised in the gift, the plaintiffs having no locus standi to contest S.'s disposition of it; but was invalid as regards the ancestral land. MUSSAMMATS FATO AND LALAN v. NIZAM DIN. 10 P R 1893

25. Succession—Arains of mauza Behni, tahsil Sharakpur, Lahore District—Gift by widow to daughter—Right of daughter as heir in absence of sons and in presence of brother's sons.

M. and K. B., Arains of mauza Behni in the Sharakpur tahsil of the Lahore District, were full brothers; the village comprised two tarafs owned by Muhammandan Jats, Dogras, Arains and others.

M. died about thirty-five years ago, leaving a widow and an unmarried daughter. The widow married the daughter to C. D. (defendant), also an Arain. C. D. and his wife thenceforward resided with the widow, who made a gift of her husband's land to their daughter in March 1871.

Ten years before the present suit the widow died and her daughter also died before the suit.

Two of the three sons of K. B. now sued C. D.'s daughter claiming two-thirds of M.'s estate. The third son did not sue, he having sued (alone) in 1871 to set aside the gift by the widow of M., which suit was dismissed.

Held, that by custom the gift by the widow was invalid against the sons of her husband's brother, the burden of proof being upon those relying on the gift.

Held, also, that by custom the daughter was not full heir to her father in the absence of sons and in the presence of brother's sons.

No. 89 P. R. 1892, referred to. CHIRAGH DIN v. MAMMAN. 28 P R 1893

26. Gift by widow subject to a condition—Brahmins of mauza Kadirabad, tahsil Phalian, District Gujrat.

Held that a gift of her husband's estate by the widow to her daughter on condition that the donee should maintain her, the husband's estate not being sufficient for that purpose, was valid as being an alienation for necessity.

No. 85 P. R. 1889, and No. 18 P. R. 1890, referred to. PRABH DIAL v. DEVI DIAL.

116 P R 1893

27. Bhojkis of the Kangra District—Effect of bequest where property over which the testator has a power of disposition is mixed up in the devise with other property over which there is no such power—Costs.

The plaintiffs, who, as well as the defendant, were Bhojkis or hereditary priests of the famous temple of Devi at Bhawan in the Kangra tahsil, sued as heirs of one Gurdial to recover certain movable and immovable property left by his widow, Mussammat Jamna, lately deceased.

For the defence, it was contended that the property in suit had been gifted or bequeathed by Mussammat Jamna Devi to K. R. who was her adopted son; that the property not being ancestral, but self-acquired by the widow, could be disposed of at her pleasure; and that to the extent of her personal estate at any rate the alienation was valid.

Held, that the most important part of the property was acquired by Mussammat Jamna Devi as representing her husband, and could not therefore be alienated, and, as regards the widow's savings which might have formed the subject of a valid gift or will, that these were not separated from the rest of the estate, but were mixed up and disposed of along with it, and that the bequest was therefore altogether invalid.

Held, also, that the lower Court had exercised a proper discretion in awarding full costs, although two-thirds of the claim had been dismissed.

I. L. R. X Colc., 324 (P. C.), referred to. KANSHI RAM v. JIWANUN.

121 P R 1893

28. Gift—Muhammadan Law—Gift of undivided share of joint holding—Mushaa—Gift with condition attached—Voidability of gift—Consideration—Custom.

Plaintiff, a widow in possession of her deceased husband's estate, which consisted of a seven-sixty-fourth share of certain land, admitted in her plaint that, in December 1889, she made a gift of a one-eighth share of the property to the defendant on condition that the defendant would thereafter render her service, but sued for possession of the gifted share and also to have the said gift declared null and void, on the grounds (1) that there had been no division of the joint holding when the gift was made, and (2) that the gift was conditional on the rendering of service by the defendant and was therefore revocable. The defendant replied that the gift being for consideration—viz., the marriage of defendant with plaintiff's daughter, and the rendering of service both in the past and for the future,—and being followed by possession, could not be cancelled. The defendant, therefore, pleaded that the gift was not conditional, and was not void either by Muhammadan Law or by custom and could not be set aside. The first Court finding that the gtft was a hiba-ba-shart-i-iwaz and revocable; that it did not even include the whole of the donor's share in an undivided holding and was, therefore, bad in accordance with the principle of mushaa; that its invalidity could not be cured by delivery of possession, and, finally, that it was a conditional gift, void ab initio and revocable at pleasure, decreed plaintiff's claim. On appeal by the defendant, and after a remand for the purpose of ascertaining whether the donee had obtained possession, the Divisional Judge reversed the decision of the first Court on the grounds that the principle of mushaa was not applicable to the case; that it was possible to make a gift of an undivided share of a joint holding and that the gift was not revocable. The plaintiff appealed to the Chief Court, and the appeal was argued, on her behalf, in accordance with Muhammadan Law.

Held, in accordance with the ruling of the Privy Council in I. L. R. XI All. 460, that inasmuch as the doctrine of Muhammadan Law as to the invalidity of gifts of mushaa has no application when possession of an undivided share has been obtained by the donee, the present gift, having been followed by possession, was good and valid, and could not be cancelled on the ground of invalidity.

Held, further, that the gift in question being for consideration—viz., for services rendered and to be rendered—could not, in accordance with the doctrines of the Hanafi School of Muhammadan Law, be revoked except upon an adjudication by a Judge or Kazi upon the merits of the case.

It appeared, however, to the Court that the law applicable to the case was more probably agricultural custom than Muhammadan Law, but that there was nothing to show that a gift once completed and delivered was defeasible at the discretion of the donor.

I. L. R. XI All. 1 and No. 188 P. R. 1889, cited. MUSSAMMAT MURAD KHATUN v. AHMAD ALI.

91 P R 1894

29. Gift by widow in favour of son-in-law—Power of daughter to contest such alienation—Manuzai Pathans of Ajnala tahsil, Amritsar District.

In a case the parties to which were Manuzai Pathans, of the Ajnala tahsil in the Amritsar District, found, that by special custom a widow is entitled, in the absence of male collaterals within the fourth degree of relationship, to make a gift of an estate inherited by her from her husband in favour of a son-in-law, where it appears that the gift to the son-in-law was really for the benefit of the daughter and her issue.

Held, further, that, though in the absence of true warisan, a daughter may be allowed to succeed to the estate, it does not necessarily follow that the mere expectation of thus succeeding gives her the power possessed by a true waris of controlling the acts of the present holder of the estate.

No. 15 P. R. 1894, referred to. SHER MUHAMMAD KHAN v. MUHAMMAD KHAN.

5 P R 1895

30. Gift by widow for religious purposes—Succession of daughter—Agarwal Banias of Bhiwani in Hissar District.

Found, that, among Agarwal Banias of Bhiwani in the Hissar District, (i) no special custom had been proved whereby a widow is competent to make a gift of part of the property to which she has succeeded in her husband's family, and (ii) that daughters are not entitled by custom to succeed in preference to collaterals. NARSINGH DAS v. RAM LAL.

55 P R 1895

31. Gift by widow in favour of daughter married after death of widow's husband—Khanadamadi—Gujars of Gujrat—Riwaj-i-am.

In a case in which the parties were Gujars of Gujrat District, found that the right which a landowner has to make his daughter and her issue heirs in khanadamadi cases cannot be extended in favour of such landowner's widow, and that the widow is not entitled by custom to gift her late husband's land to her daughter. IBRAHIM v. MUSSAMMAT FATIMA.

67 P R 1898

32. Awans of Khushab tahsil, Shahpur District—Surrender of her life interest by widow in favour of next reversioner, effect of.

Held, that under customary law it is open to a widow who is entitled to a life interest in her husband's property for her maintenance, to elect not to take possession of such property, but to take maintenance from her husband's male heir, and that in such an event the latter at once becomes invested with the right of ownership over such property, the same result following if the widow after taking possession, elects to surrender her life interest in favour of the next reversioner and to take maintenance in lieu thereof from the latter.

The nature of a widow's life estate under customary law considered and compared with a widow's life estate under Hindu Law. SHER MUHAMMAD v. PHULA.

9 P R 1899

33. Gift by widow in favour of deceased husband's brother's daughter—Arains of Ludhiana tahsil—Khanadamadi

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd
B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—contd.—(a) Gifts—contd.

In a case in which the parties were Arains of the Ludhiana tahsil, found, that a widow in possession of her deceased husband's estate for her life was not competent by custom to make a gift of a portion thereof to the daughter of her husbands' brother in the presence of the said brother's son and other collaterals.

There is no recognized custom in the Punjab according to which mere residence of a daughter and her husband in the house of her father from the day of her marriage there being also sons, would confer on the daughter and her sons any right of succession, the essential feature of the custom of khanadamadi being that in default of male issue, a proprietor may take his daughter and her husband to live with him in order to supply the want of male issue. MUSSAMMAT LADO v. NABI BAKHSH.

6 P R 1900

34. In a suit the parties to which were Kathana Gujars of the Jhelum tahsit, found that a gift of ancestral land by a widow in favour of one reversioner in the presence of other reversioners of equal degree is invalid. JUMMA v. MUBARIK.

70 P R 1901

35. Alienation by husband of a portion of his property—Surrender of her life interest by widow of that part of her estate in favour of next reversioner—Suit hy reversioner in lifetime of widow—Right to sue.

N. died possessed of certain immovable properties, leaving a widow, B, who succeeded to her husband's estate, including a mortgagor's interest in the disputed land which was mortgaged by her husband to the defendants during his lifetime for twenty years. The widow relinquished her rights in the mortgaged property in favour of the plaintiffs who, as the next reversioners, brought the present suit for possession alleging that their title to possession had accrued in consequence of the widow's act, and that the mortgage was without consideration or necessity.

Held, that the suit was not maintainable in the lifetime of the widow. The widow was competent to relinquish her whole estate and thereby to accelerate the succession of the plaintiffs to the property left by her husband, but that there could not be a valid renunciation of a part of the estate which could give rise to a right of succession in the reversioners to that part.

Sher Muhammad v. Phula (9 P. R., 1899), distinguished, Behari Lal v. Madho Lal (I. L. R., XIX, Calc., 236), Marudamathu Nandan v. Srinivasa Pillai (I. L. R., XXI Mad., 128), Nobo Kishore v. Hira Nath (I. L. R., X Calc., 1102), and Hem Chander v. Sarnamoyi Debi (I. L. R., XXII Calc., 354), referred to. WAZIR CHAND AND OTHERS v. MAKHU AND OTHERS.

17 P R 1902

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—contd.—(a) Gifts—contd.

36. Gifts by widow with the consent of the nearer reversioner—Suit by reversioner of equal degree.

Held, that the fact that certain nearer reversioners assented to a gift by a widow of her late husband's property in favour of a near reversioner does not bar the claim of a reversioner equally entitled with the alienee.

Jiwan Singh v. Misri Lal (I. L R., XVIII All., 146 P. C.), Harvans Singh v. Harnam Singh (84 P. R., 1898, F. B.), Murad v. Mussammat Jannat (67 P. R., 1900), Mussammat Fatteh Bibi v. Alla Bakhsh (84 P R. 1900), Gharib Khan v. Mirza Ali Bahadar Khan (7 P. R., 1893), and Jumma v. Imam Bakhsh (138 P. R., 1889), referred to. THAKAR SINGH v. HIRA SINGH.

47 P R 1903

37. Gift by widow with the consent of the reversioners—Sheikhs of Rupar, Umballa District—Locus standi—of the sons of the consenting reversioner to contest such alienation—Burden of proof.

In a suit to contest the validity of a gift made by a widow of her late husband's property where it appeared that all the collaterals including the plaintiff's father attested the deed of gift which was duly registered and that subsequently the plaintiff's father brought a suit and sought to set aside the gift, but afterwards deliberately withdrew it (through the plaintiff's elder brother) without permission to sue again, it being shown that such an alienation would be valid according to custom, if made with the consent of the collaterals, and having been proved that such consent was given, it lay on the plaintiffs to show that there were such circumstances in the case as to render the assent inoperative for this purpose in this instance and that they had failed to do so.

Mussammat Fateh Bibi v. Allah Bakhsh (84 P. R., 1900), Harvans Singh v. Harnam Singh (84 P. R., 1898, F. B.), and Jowala v. Hira Singh (55 P. R., 1903, F. B.), referred to. KAMAN AND OTHERS v. MUHAMMAD ALI AND OTHERS.

59 P R 1904

38. Gift by widow of a sonless proprietor to her daughter—Further gift by the donee to her daughter—Chachars of mauza Chachar, Shahpur District.

Found, that among Chachars of mauza Chachar in the Shahpur District a widow of a sonless proprietor is by custom competent to make an absolute gift of her husband's ancestral land in favour of her daughter who was married within the village, and that such daughter had power to make a further gift of the property so inherited by her in favour of her own daughter who was also married to a Chachar of that village. NAWAB v. WALLAN.

91 P R 1906

39. Power of widow to make a son-in-law khanadamad or to gift to daughter and her husband—Arains of Naraingarh. Umballa District—Ancestral and acquired property—Locus standi of reversioner in presence of daughter.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—contd.—(a) Gifts—concld.

Found, that among Arains of Naraingarh in the Umballa District no special custom has been proved whereby a widow in possession of her deceased husband's estate for life is competent, in the presence of the first cousins of her late husband, to make a son-in-law a khanadamad or to gift her husband's property to him or to her daughter.

In matters of alienation a widow in possession of self-acquired immovable property of her husband is subject to the same restrictions as if the property were ancestral; and the existence of a daughter does not preclude a near reversioner such as a first cousin from contesting an alienation effected by such a widow. MUHAMMAD UMAR v. ABDUL KARIM.

103 P R 1907

40. Gift by widow to daughter and daughter's son in presence of collaterals of sixth degree—Gil Jats of Ajnala tahsil, Amritsar District.

Found that by custom among Gil Jats of the Ajnala tahsil of the Amritsar District, a widow is not competent to make a valid gift of her husband's ancestral immovable property in favour of her daughter and daughter's son in the presence of collaterals related to her husband in the 6th degree. RAM KAUR v. BELA SINGH. 67 P R 1908

41. Gift by widow to her daughter—Locus standi of collaterals—Succession of daughter —Sayyads of mauza Chuma, tahsil and district Gurgaon.

Held, that among Sayyads of mauza Chuma, tahsil and district Gurgaon, daughters succeed to the property of their fathers to the exclusion of the latter's collaterals and therefore the collaterals have no right to contest the gift made by the widow of the last male owner in favor of her daughter. MUZAFFAR ALI v. MUSSAMMAT ZAINAB 58 P R 1910

(b) Sales and Mortgages.

1. A Hindu widow, having only a life interest in her deceased husband's estate, mortgaged that estate to the defendants for fifteen years. Plaintiffs (the husband's relatives and reversioners) sued to cancel the mortgage, and to have their rights declared; the Lower Appellate Court ordered the mortgage to be set aside, on the ground that it was not limited to the life of the widow. Held, by the Chief Court, that the mortgage could not be cancelled, but that it would enure for fifteen years if the widow should so long live—otherwise, it would be determined by her death. MANA v. KHAZANA.

22 P R 1872

2. Hindu widow—Nature of debt.

A Hindu widow is not absolutely incapacitated from selling or alienating the ancestral estate of her deceased husband, held by her on a life tenure. Without the consent of the reversioners she can alienate for a justifiable cause; and if there be no justifiable cause, the alienation cannot at once be set aside, but holds good for her life-time. Where the estate is sold to meet decrees for debts against the widow, it is the duty of the Court to enquire into the nature of the debts, in order to ascertain whether the alienation be justifiable or not. AMIN CHAND v. MEHTAB SINGH. 82 P R 1876

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—contd.—(b) Sales and Mortgages—contd.

3. Hindu widow—Necessity—When account of debt charged on estate should be taken.

A Hindu widow, in 1870, borrowed Rs. 495 partly to pay the revenue and partly to defray the expenses of the marriage of her two daughters, and mortgaged her deceased husband's estate as security. By the terms of the mortgage, she was to remain in possession, paying 2 per cent. per mensem for interest, and in default the mortgagee was to take possession, pay the Government demand, and take the produce in lieu of interest, the estate remaining charged with the principal sum. The widow failed to pay the interest, but the mortgagee did not take possession; and in 1875 he took a second mortgage for Rs. 1,000, being the debt and interest up to date. In a suit by the reversioners, it was held, that the first mortgage was for legal necessity, but not the second; that the second mortgage was not binding upon plaintiffs, or reversioners entitled at the widow's death to the property, but that the account of what was chargeable to the estate for legitimate purposes would be taken at the widow's death and before the reversioners took possession. DAVI DITTA v. RUPA. 116 P R 1876

4. Suit for declaratory decree by reversioner.

Where the right heir of a deceased Hindu sues to set aside so much of a conveyance made by the widow as will operate after the plaintiff's death, he is entitled to a decree; for even if it be necessary that he should show his right to consequential relief at the same time, he does show it; as upon obtaining a decree, he can have the proper entries made in the revenue papers. NUR BUKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT FAJJO. 121 P R 1876

5. Bona fide purchaser.

A Hindu widow is capable of making a valid alienation of her husband's estate for certain purposes which are regarded as legal necessities, but an alienation made without legal necessity is not necessarily liable to be set aside, and it is not so liable when the purchaser has acted with due caution and honesty. BIRA v. MAMON. 74 P R 1877

6. Waiver by nearest reversioner—Suit to set aside alienation brought by distant reversioner.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—contd.—(b) Sales and Mortgages—contd.

Plaintiffs, distant reversioners, sued to cancel a mortgage made by a Mahomedan widow, with a life interest only in her deceased husband's estate. Held, that the suit was not maintainable in the absence of proof that the immediate reversioner had waived or abandoned his rights in favor of plaintiffs.

Sikandar Khan v Bahadur Khan, No. 39 of 1876, Civil (see p. 192) commented on and explained. GULAM HAIDAR v. SIKANDAR KHAN. 66 P R 1873

7. Widow alienating for barred debts—Necessity.

Held, that the payment of barred debts would not establish the necessity necessary to make an alienation by a widow of her husband's property valid beyond the duration of her own estate. MUL SINGH v. BAHADUR ALI. 129 P R 1883

8. Necessity—Responsibility of vendor for misapplication of money borrowed.

The existence of a real necessity for borrowing protects the lender who deals with a widow and he is not responsible in the absence of collusion for the misapplication of the money borrowed. MUSSAMMAT CHANDO v. BUTA. 119 P R 1886

9. Sindhu Jats of Rohtak District—Necessity.

Found, that there is no established custom among Sidu Jats of the Rohtak District authorizing alienations by widows of their husbands' land without necessity. HARGULAL v. ASA RAM. 64 P R 1889

10. Muhammadan butchers of town of Umballa—Widow.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan butchers of the town of Umballa, that in the absence of necessity, a widow was not entitled by custom to sell immovable property left by her husband in the presence of a near collateral.

No. 85 P. R. 1887, and No. 25 P. R. 1890, referred to. IMAM DIN v. NANU AND MUSSAMMAT LADO. 119 P R 1891

11. Right of near female collateral—Kanwali Arains of Lahore District—Meaning of aulad.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Kanwali Arains of the Lahore District, that by custom a near female collateral was not competent to object to a sale of land and houses by the deceased owner's widow.

Observations as to the meaning of the term aulad. MUSSAMMAT RAKHI v. MUSSAMMAT FATMA. 89 P R 1892

12. Alienation by widow—locus standi of the sister of last male owner, in default of reversioners, to contest an alienation—Ghirths of mauza Baldhar, tahsil and district Kangra.

Held, that among Ghirths of mauza Baldhar, tahsil and district Kangra, a sister of the last male owner is, in the absence of collaterals, entitled as the next heir to contest an alienation made by the widow and to obtain a declaration that such alienation shall not affect her reversionary rights. MUSSAMMAT KOKAN v. MUSSAMMAT LAKHOO. 60 P R 1910

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—contd.—(b) Sales and Mortgages—concld.

13. Custom—Alienation—Alienation of self-acquired property by mother and widow of the last male owner—Locus standi of collaterals residing in another village to contest the alienation—Syads of mauza Tal Khalsa—District Rawalpindi.

Held, following 110 P. R., 1906, F. B., (Daya Ram v. Sohel Singh) that by custom among Syads of mauza Tal Khalsa, district Rawalpindi, collaterals of the last male owner residing in another village have a locus standi to contest a sale of self-acquired land made by the mother and widow of the deceased without legal necessity. CHANNAN SHAH v. AMAR DASS. 71 P R 1910

14. Custom—Alienation—Creation of Mukarridari rights by widow—Permanent alienation.

Mussammat B. J., Pathan of Parnali in the Attock District, Rawalpindi Division, created mukarridari rights in a portion of her joint holding in favour of her son-in-law M. A. and received Rs. 300 nazrana from him, and mutation was sanctioned in favour of M. A. on 26th June 1908—B. J.'s husband's brothers (plaintiffs) sued for a declaration that this alienation should not affect their reversionary rights on the death or re-marriage of the widow. The First Court, holding the mukarridari to be a tenant and the alienation for necessity, dismissed the suit. The Divisional Judge on appeal held, that the creation of Mukarridari rights amounts to a permanent alienation, and passed a decree in favour of plaintiffs fixing Rs. 124 for valid necessity. On revision the Chief Court Held, following 10 P. R., 1896 Rev. (Maya Dass v. Malik Aulia Khan) that the creation of mukarridari rights amounts to a permanent alienation. MUSSAMMAT BEGAM JAN v. QADAR KHAN. 85 P R 1910

(c) Necessity.

1. Customary life estate of widow—Alienation—Execution of decree.

Where a Muhammadan widow takes by custom a life interest in the estate of her deceased husband, she can alienate such estate only for proved necessity or with the consent of her husband's relatives.

Quære, whether the involuntary alienation arising from execution of decree by attachment of the estate falls under the rules relating to the widow's power of alienation. ALLI SHER v. MUSSAMMAT NUR JEHAN. 56 P R 1872

2. Bukhari Sayads of Jhang district—Mahomadan widow succeeding to life estate—Debt incurred by widow—Liability of estate in hands of reversioner—Necessity.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd. B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—contd.—(c) Necessity—contd.

Among Bukhari Sayads of the Jhang district, a widow by custom takes the entire estate of her childless husband with an interest therein which resembles generally the interest of a Hindu widow under the Hindu law, and she has a restricted power of disposing of the estate, certainly not more extensive than that of a Hindu widow, which may be exercised under necessity, so as to bind the estate in the hands of the reversioner.

By the same custom the reversioner is only liable for debts necessarily incurred by the widow, and not for all her debts without regard to their character or object or the circumstances under which they were incurred.

To test the validity of a disposition of property, and the liability of the reversioner, it is by no means sufficient in all cases to look merely at the purpose for which the debt is incurred, or even the object to which it was applied. The circumstances under which the widow had recourse to borrowing must also be regarded in order to see whether they justified such a proceeding on her part; and thus the sufficiency of the income of the estate in her hands for her ordinary expenses and for the purpose of meeting a particular exigency, is a most material point and one which must be considered with a view to determining whether there is any necessity for incurring a debt, when the question is whether a particular disposition of the estate by her on account of such debts binds the reversioners or whether they are liable for the debt. SHAHBAL v. RAM DASS.

95 P R 1879

3. Necessity—Test of existence of necessity.

There is no rule that a widow must live upon her income: but if the income is insufficient for her proper maintenance, and for the purposes for which a Hindu widow may, if necessary, charge her husband's estate, she has the power to raise the necessary funds as a charge upon the estate which will bind the heirs, or even to sell so much of it as may be necessary. She has full power, for necessary purposes, to dispose of the property as well as of its income, but to ascertain whether it is necessary to alienate or to charge the property, the income must be enquired into, and compared with her legitimate expenditure. If the result is that the widow could not, at the time the alienation took place, have provided for all legitimate expenditure out of her income, the charge would be valid for such sum as it was actually necessary to raise upon the property. OUTAR SINGH v. MEHR SINGH.

14 P R 1883

4. Necessity—Marriage of daughters—Power to anticipate necessity—Duty of lender to satisfy himself of existence of necessity for the loan.

While a widow with the customary life interest in her husband's property is under an obligation to perform the marriages of those who are chargeable to the estate, and may mortgage or sell the property to obtain the necessary funds if she has not got them, she is not at liberty to anticipate her wants by raising money, or contracting for the discharge of such liabilities before they arise.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd. B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—contd.—(c) Necessity—contd.

The expenditure on marriages and the like occasions is not purely optional expenditure, and as a rule it may be said that what would be reasonable expenditure for such a purpose if her husband were living, would be reasonable expenditure on the part of the widow after his death, if the circumstances of the estate remain the same. It is as much a duty for the widow to make proper provision for the marriages of her daughters as to provide for their maintenance, while this continues to be chargeable to her husband's estate.

The lender to a person who has a limited power of disposing of property, whether a widow, or the guardian of a minor, or the manager of a Hindu family, has to satisfy himself of the existence of necessity for the loan, and is bound to make proper enquiry for this purpose. If he does so, he is not responsible for the subsequent application of the money lent, but he must in the first place satisfy himself as well as he can that the necessity exists. To say that he was told the money was wanted for a particular purpose is not enough, unless he has made such enquiries as a reasonable man under the circumstances might be expected to make to satisfy himself that the necessity really exfsted. GURDIT SINGH v. MEHR SINGH.

67 P R 1884

5. Hindu widow—Payment of time-barred debts of husband—Necessity.

Held, that the payment by a Hindu widow of a time-barred debt of her deceased husband may be a " necessity " sufficient to support an alienation of her husband's estate. JHALLA v. JEWA. 117 P R 1884

6. Necessity—Widow's power to anticipate her wants—Future maintenance.

Held, that a widow has no right to encumber an estate in which she has only a life interest by charging it with the expense of her future maintenance; she is not at liberty to anticipate wants by raising money or contracting for such liabilities before they arise. Gurdit Singh v. Mehr Singh (No. 67 of 1884, Civil), followed. NIHAL SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT RAJON. 11 P R 1885

7. Time-barred debt—Necessity.

Held by a majority of the Full Bench, (Tremlett, J., dissenting). that except in those cases where a customary power to alienate for time-barred debts may be proved, neither a Hindu nor Muhammadan widow in possession of her deceased husband's estate on the usual widow's estate, where the strict Hindu law does not apply, is justified in paying out of the corpus of her husband's estate debts which were incurred by him, but have become barred by limitation.

Per Tremlett, J., contra.

Mul Singh v. Bahadur Ali (No. 129 of 1883, Civil) approved. Jhalla v. Jewa (No. 117 of 1884, Civil) distinguished. PHALLU v. SORAB

108 P R 1885 F. B.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd. B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—contd.—(c) Necessity—contd.

8. Necessity—Duty of purchaser from widow with limited interest.

Though according to the general doctrine laid down by the Privy Council in Hanuman Prasad Pande's case, the lender to a widow with merely a life interest in her deceased husband's property is bound to enquire into the necessities for the loan, and to satisfy himself, as well as he can, with reference to the parties with whom he is dealing, that there is a need for the money, but is not bound to go further and to make a scrutiny into the application of the money, or to enquire as to the validity of every part of each debt, the exact application of the above rule must depend on the circumstances of each case as it arises ; and while a purchaser could not be expected on the one hand to go back step by step, to trace out a debt which the widow alleged she had to pay, and carry out, a long investigation, it would, on the other hand, be applying the rule too lightly to hold that on the mere assertion of the widow that she is going to pay sums to certain specified creditors, and on the mere deposit of receipts by these persons, purchaser may pay without even considering what sort of persons these are, whether persons likely to be in collusion with the widow or not, and whether their claims have even an apparent and prima facie air of truth and probability in their favour. MAHARAJA LAL v. KALLU.

39 P R 1889

9. Necessity—Payment of Government revenue.

An alienation by a widow of her husband's land to prevent a sale for Goverment revenue due is a justifiable cause for charging the estate, and a person advancing money to pay a debt of revenue is not bound to ascertain whether the default was due to waste or neglect on the part of the widow, there being in fact actual danger to the estate, which payment of the debt averts. RAMJAS v. RAM NATH. 76 P R 1889

10. Necessity—Daughter's marriage—Duty of alienee.

It is not sufficient for the alienee from a Hindu widow to show that on inquiry he was told that the money was wanted for a particular purpose. His inquiry must go to show that the necessity really existed. To ascertain whether it is necessary to alienate or charge the property, the income and legitimate expenditure must be inquired into and compared. If at the time the mortgage took place, the income could not have provided for the expenditure, the charge is valid for such sum as it was actually necessary to raise.

No. 14 P. R. 1883, No. 39 P. R. 1889, No. 119 P. R. 1886, No. 67 P. R. 1884, referred to. KULJAS RAI v. SHER SINGH.

152 P R 1889

11. Suit by reversioners to set aside mortgage by widow—Plea that the estate mortgaged had come to the widow charged with a debt contracted by her predecessor—Validity of such a plea—Inquiry into nature of debt where contracted by a female proprietor.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd. B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—contd.—(c) Necessity—contd.

Two brothers, A. and B., owned a plot of land. A. died leaving C., his widow, who succeeded to A.'s share, and in her life-time effected a mortagage of it. On the death of B. and C., D., the widow of B., succeeded to the entire plot. D. mortgaged the land for the purpose of paying off the mortgage debt contracted by C. In a suit brought by the reversioners to have it declared that the mortgage by D. was inoperative as against them, it was contended on her behalf that she was bound to pay the debt contracted by C., to wnose estate she had succeeded. The Divisional Court, without making any inquiry into the nature of the debt or the reasons for contracting it, held that the liquidation of the debt of C. was incumbent on D., that as an heir it was not for her to question C.'s acts, and that cousequently the payment of C.'s debt wss a necessity to D.

Held, that this view was wrong. The Courts were bound to inquire into the nature of the debt, and whether C. was justified in incurring, and the mere fact that D. succeeded C. was immaterial. The two widows stood on the same footing. What was unauthorized for one was not justifiable for the other. If C. had a necessity, D. was bound to pay the debt. If it had been incurred without any justifiable cause, D. should not be held bound by it, nor should the property be burdened by it to the prejudice of reversioners. BAGA SINGH v. SANT SINGH. 1 P R 1890

12. Widow—Debt—Necessity—Liability of her husband's estate.

A Muhammadan widow, entitled to a life interest in her husband's estate, borrowed money from the plaintiff on an ordinary bond for the purpose of recovering the life-estate—a purpose which constituted a legal necessity for alienation. She did not, however, specifically charge the estate with the payment of the debt, though she might have legitimately bound her successors. After her death, the plaintiff sued to recover the amount from the estate in the hands of reversioners.

Held, that the estate not having been mortgaged or charged with the payment of the debt was not liable, and that the plaintiff's only remedy was against the widow's property, if any, in the hands of reversioners. ABDUL GHAFFUR SHAH v. PIR MUHAMMAD KHAN. 22 P R 1890

13. Widow—Necessity—Legal expenses incurred in defending life-estate.

Money borrowed to defray legal expenses incurred by a widow in defending her life-estate constitutes legal necessity for which she may legitimately alienate her husband's estate. RAM LABHAYA v. ZULFIKAR. 44 P R 1890

14. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 43 —"Cause of action"—Identity of defendants —Mortgage by widow—"Necessity"—Duty of mortgagee when advancing money to widow.

One B. D., a bania of Amritsar, died leaving property of large value which his widow, Mussammat Bilas Devi, held on a life tenure, and on the 20th April 1887, mortgaged certain houses and shops forming part of the said property, in favour of defendant. On the death of Mussammat Bilas Devi, which took place about six years before the institution of the present suit, one K. S., claiming to be the adopted son of B. D. and Mussammat Bilas Devi, took possession of the whole property, whereupon plaintiff sued for and obtained a decree for one-half, in which the property now in dispute was, with the exception of a small fraction, included. Inasmuch, however, as the present defendant who was in possession of the said half share, was no party to the former suit, plaintiff now sued him for recovery of the same, the plaint alleging that Mussammat Bilas Devi was not competent to effect the mortgage and that there was no necessity for the alienation. Defendant pleaded (inter alia), that the present suit was barred by Section 43, Civil Procedure Code, that plaintiff was estopped by her conduct, at the time of execution of the mortgage and thereafter from disputing the mortgage; that the mortgage was for legal necessity and for the benefit of B. D.'s soul, and that the mortgagee was not bound to see to the application of the money. The lower Court having decreeed plaintiff's claim, defendant appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, that the suit was not barred by section 43, Civil Proceduee Code.

Held, further, that no circumstances constituting an estoppel had been proved against the plaintiff.

Held, also, that inasmuch as Mussammat Bilas Devi held a large amount of property, a mere statement on her part that she required to borrow the money for the construction of a thakardwara for the benefit of her deceased husband's soul, was not sufficient to justify the defendant in advancing the money, it being incumbent on him to make honest inquiries as to (1) whether the building of the thakardwara was a lawful necessity which authorized the widow to make a binding alienation of her husband's immovable property, and (2) whether she really had no funds to carry on its construction.

Held, upon the evidence that the building of the thakardwara was not intended for the benefit of the deceased husband's soul, but rather for the spiritual benefit of the widow herself, and was not, therefore, a lawful necessity which would support the alienation. DIAL SINGH v. MOSSAMMAT JOWALA DEVI. 58 P R 1896

(d) Locus standi and assent of reversioners.

1. Muhammadan Jats of tahsil Gujar Khan, Rawalpindi—Widow alienating in favour of her husband's sister's son—Right of collaterals in tenth degree to contest such alienation.

Found, that there is no well established custom prevailing among Muhammadan Jats of the Gujar Khan tahsil, in the Rawalpindi district, whereby male collaterals so distantly related as the tenth degree are permitted to contest an alienation by a widow in favour of her deceased husband's sister's son. MUHAMMAD v. JAHAN KHAN. 119 P R 1883

2. Necessity—Assent by one of several reversioners of equal degree—Effect of such assent—Such assent no obstacle to the sale being set aside as a whole—Presumption of correctness of pedigree-table given in settlement record—Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), Sections 14, 15, 16.

Held, that the mere act of one among several reversioners of equal degree in assenting to a sale by a widow of her late husband's property does not estop the other reversioners from suing to set aside the sale, inasmuch as one of the body of reversioners, unless specially authorized by the others, cannot sign away their rights, and further, that such assent has no effect upon the sale by the widow so as even to validate it in part, i. e., to the extent of the interest of the reversioner who assented to it, or to be an obstacle to the sale being set aside as a whole.

Held, also, that the presumption of correctness which attaches to the record of rights under section 16, para. 2 of the Land Revenue Act, 1871, attaches also to a pedigree-table given in the Settlement record as though a pedigree table is not one of the documents mentioned in the six clauses of section 14 of the Act, whlch give in detail the different documents of which the record of rights consists, by section 15 of the same Act the Local Government is empowered to direct that other documents besides those specified shall be contained in the record of rights, and as a fact has directed that a Shajra-Nasab or pedigree table be so included (vide Rule C. 111, 26 of the rules under Act XXXIII of 1871). CHUNI LAL v. NANDA. 174 P R 1888

3. Consent of next reversioner—Suit for declaration of invalidity by remoter reversioners—Effect of next reversioner's consent

The next reversioner having consented to an alienation by a widow, some remote reversioners sued to set it aside—Held, that the next reversioner's consent is not in all cases binding on the remoter reversioners. The circumstances of each case, the nature of consent and the position of the parties, e.g., the respective ages of the consenting reversioner and the widow and the probability or otherwise of the former surviving the latter should all be examined and considered. PARTAPA AND MUSSAMMAT JEWNI v. SOBHA SINGH. 99 P R 1889

4. Right to sue—Declaratory decree—Specific Relief Act (I of 1877) section 42—Right of distant collaterals to question alienation by widow, in presence of daughter's sons —Sindhu Jats—Right of daughter and daughter's sons to succeed.

Plaintiffs, the collaterals, heirs of one A. in the tenth remove, sued to set aside an alienation made by his widow. The defeudants contended that the plaintiffs had no right to sue, as they were not the nearest reversioners, the daughter and the daughter's sons of the deceased being the persons presumptively entitled to succeed if they survived the widow.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd. B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—contd.—(d) Locus standi and assent of reversioners—contd.

The pedigree table prepared at Settlement showed that in the course of many generations, there was not a single instance of a daughter's succession to sonless proprietors. The Wajib-ul-arz and the Riwaj-i-am also clearly excluded the daughter from succession of her father's estate.

Held, that without finally deciding whether daughters and daughters' sons were by custom excluded from succession among Sindhu Jats, the tribe to which the parties belonged, the plaintiffs' position was sufficiently well established by the evidence to entitle them to maintain the suit as the nearest reversioners. RAM DITTA v. KISHAN SINGH.

4 P R 1890

5. Alienation by widow—Contest of, by reversioners in seventh degree—Acquiescence of next collaterals who had sons living—Judicial discretion.

The plaintiffs, collaterals in the seventh degree of M. K. who died in September 1890, leaving no male issue but leaving him surviving two widows, a mother and two stepmothers, sued alleging that after M. K.'s death the said persons had alienated the ancestral property in two villages to A. B., the son-in-law of M. K., and that they, the defendants, had obtained mutation of names in favour of A. B. falsely alleging that they were acting in accordance with the directions of a nuncupative will of the deceased, the factum of and the power to make such a will being also denied. It appeared that the nearer collaterals, viz., the two second cousins of the deceased, who were also parties to the suit and who had sons living, had acquiesced in the alienation, and that the plaintiffs, the remote reversioners, would be wholly excluded from the succession by the near collaterals, and their sons, if all or any of the latter survived the widows.

Held, that the plaintiffs in the present case were not precluded from suing by the bare fact that they were not the next reversioners, as the near collaterals had precluded themselves from suing by concurring in the act of the widows, and their sons were bound by their father's consent.

But held further, that as the plaintiffs were remote reversioners with only a bare possibility of succeeding, and it was a question whether the assent of the heirs in the present case did not effectually validate the widow's action, and considering further that the consenting reversioners were not childless, but both had sons, the lower Court exercised a wise and judicial discretion in refusing to entertain the suit, and that the decree should be upheld upon that ground. GHARIB KHAN v. MIRZA ALI BAHADUR KHAN.

7 P R 1893

6. Mortgage by widow in favour of her son-in-law—Necessity—Locus standi of reversioner whose father was converted to Muhammadanism to object to such mortgage—Agriculturist Jats of Sialkot District—Act XXI of 1850, section 1.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd. B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—contd.—(d) Locus standi and assent of reversioners—contd.

The parties were Jats of the Sialkot District, and on the death of one J. S. and thereafter of J. S.'s son, R. S.—the latter dying without male issue—Mussammat I. K., the widow of J. S., and mother of R. S., succeeded to the estate of J. S., and on the 29th March 1892 mortgaged it to her son-in-law, defendant No. 2. Thereupon G. and N., the nephews of J. S., sued for a declaration that the mortgage would not affect their rights on the death of Mussammat I. K.

Defendant No. 2 pleaded that plaintiffs and their father having been converted to Muhammadanism could not by custom object to the alienation; that the mortgage was for necessity, and that plaintiffs had no locus standi with regard to 17 ghumaos which had been acquired by R. S.

Held, that the parties being agriculturist Jats were governed by custom, and that defendant No. 2 had failed to prove that the mortgage was bona fide and for necessity, or valid by custom.

Held, further, that the alienation having been effected by a widow, plaintiff was entitled to ask for a declaration regarding acquired as well as ancestral property.

Quære: whether the Courts would not be debarred by the provisions of Act XXI of 1850, from giving effect to any such custom as was relied on by defendant, even if its existence had been established.

Semble.—Act XXI of 1850 was not intended to apply only to the person who has himself or herself renounced his or her religion or been excluded from caste, and the latter part of section 1 protects any person from having any right of inheritance affected by reason of any person having renounced his or her religion or having been excluded from caste. GULAB v. MUSSAMMAT ISHAR KOUR.

63 P R 1895

7. Mortgage by widow—Suit by reversioners for recovery of land after death of widow—Limitation Act, 1877, 2nd Schedule, article 141— Res judicata*—Estoppel.*

Held, that as against a person in possession of land under a title created by a widow, or in virtue of a decree for possession obtained against a widow, the reversioners have, under article 141 of the Limitation Act, twelve years from the date of the widow's death within which they can sue for recovery of the land.

Held, further, that where a suit is brought against a female heiress in possession in respect of any matter which strikes at the root of her title to the property, decree fairly and properly obtained against her binds all the reversioners, but, inasmuch as the widow's estate is ordinarily a limited one, and as she represents the reversioners only in special cases, in order that such decree should bind the latter, it must be shown, in the first instance, that the litigation was one in which the entire interest in the estate she held in possession was at stake, and then, that she had sufficiently protected the reversioner's interest, and that there was a fair and proper inquiry.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd. B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—contd.—(d) Locus standi and assent of reversioners—contd.

A widow's position with reference to the reversioners' interests is like that of a trustee, and any failure or neglect on her part to defend those interests in any such litigation render a decree obtained against her valueless against the reversioners. HIRA SINGH v. SHER SINGH. 29 P R 1898

8. Escheat—Right of proprietary body to contest alienation by widow of childless proprietor—Kangra District—Right to sue.

Found, that there is no custom by which, in the Kangra District, the estate of a childless proprietor escheats (after the death of the widow of such proprietor) to the village community or the owners of the subdivision in which the land is situate.

Although under the existing revenue system two ingredients of jointness have been introduced among artificially created village communities, viz., (i) joint right in the waste attached to each village, and (ii) joint liability for the revenue assessed on the village, the right of escheat is not a necessary consequence of such jointness, nor has it been declared to be so by any statutary provision.

Held, further, that even if by custom the widow of a childless proprietor was incompetent to alienate, or to give a valid title, except for necessity, it was not open to one who was not a reversioner to sue to set aside her act, and that in such a case the plaintiff must succeed on the strength of his own title and cannot derive help from the widow's incapacity to alienate.

The question as to the reversionary rights of the proprietary body in such cases discussed historically by Chatterji, J. SHAMAN v. SARDHA. 61 P R 1898

9. Subsequent surrender of life estate by widow in favour of reversioner—Right of reversioner to oust alienee—Succession of daughter's son—Trikha Brahmins of Jhang District—Limitation Act, 1877, 2nd Schedule, Article 141.

Held, that a transferree from a widow, who would ordinarily retain possession till the death of the widow, cannot be ousted before her death by a reversioner in whose favour she has surrendered her life estate, and that, therefore, the reversioner's cause of action for a suit for posssession does not arise until the death of the widow.

Found, further, that the parties who were Trikha Brahmins of the Jhang District, were governed by custom and not by Hindu Law, and that among them a daughter or a daughter's son was not entitled to succeed in the presence of the first cousin once removed of the deceased sonless proprietor. MOHAN LAL v. DEVI DAS. 43 P R 1899

10. Power of female heir to alienate—Mortgage on immovable property, sub-mortgage on "immovable property."

Held, that a mortgage debt as long as it is charged on immovable property is itself "immovable property."

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd. B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—contd.—(d) Locus standi and assent of reversioners—contd.

Held, further, that under Customary law no less than under Hindu Law a female has merely a limited right of alienation in respect of inherited property, whether movable or immovable. SANT SINGH v. JOWALA SINGH 58 P R 1899

11. Alienation by widow assented to by next heir—Subsequent mortgage by heir—Right of mortgagee to contest previous alienation as made without necessity.

On the 3rd March 1889 Mussammat G. B., a widow in possession, mortgaged the land in question to defendants for a sum of Rs. 800. After her death N., who had succeeded her as her husband's heirs, mortgaged the land in favour of plaintiffs but subsequently admitted, and assented to, defendants' mortgage. Plaintiffs sued for possession by redemption on payment of a sum of Rs. 418 and contended that, except in respect of such amount, the mortgage effected by the widow was not for necessity.

Held, that plaintiffs had acquired no status which enabled them to contest the mortgage by Mussammat G. B., on any such ground.

The control of a widow's alienation is a family matter and the right to such control cannot be transferred to a stranger with ex-post facto effect merely by a subsequent mortgage by the person entitled to such right of control. MAULADAD v. RAM GOPAL. 22 P R 1900

12. Collusion of nearest heir—Right of contingent reversionary heir to contest alienation—Suit by nephews in presence of their uncle's unmarried daughter to contest an alienation by his widow—Chajjra Jats of the Muzaffargarh District.

In a suit by plaintiffs for declaration that a mortgage by their uncle's widow of her husband's property should not affect their reversionary rights, it was contended that in the presence of the deceased's unmarried daughter, who was the next reversionary heir by the custom of the parties, the plaintiffs had no locus standi and were not entitled to maintain the suit. Held, that the daughter (even if she was the next reversionary heir) having refused without sufficient cause to institute proceedings to challenge the mortgage in question and having by her acts and conduct precluded herself from doing so and having obviously colluded with her mother and admittedly concurred in the alienation, the plaintiffs being near reversionary heirs were fully competent to maintain the suit. MURAD AND ANOTHER v. MUSSAMMAT JANNAT AND OTHERS. 67 P R 1900

13. Custom—Alienation—Alienation by widow—Locus standi of reversioners of the fifth degree—Domra Jats of the Dera Ismail Khan tahsil.

Found, that there was an established custom amongst Domra Jats of the Dera Ismail Khan tahsil that no male collateral, not descended from a common great-grand-father, along with a deceased person, whose widow had alienated the deceased's property, had a right to object to such alienation.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd. B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—contd.—(d) Locus standi and assent of reversioners—contd.

Rahmat Hussain and others v. Mussammat Fahim-un-Nissa (25 P. R. 1895 referred to. DILAWAR v. MUSSAMMAT JATTI. 2 P R 1901

14. Alienation by widow - Locus standi of step-daughter to contest alienation—Ghelna Arains of Lahore District—"Aulad," meaning.

In a suit the parties to which were Ghelna Arains of the Lahore District, held, that by custom a daughter (assuming her to be the heir of her father) is entitled to contest an alienation of her father's estate made by her stepmother being made without necessity or consideration.

Held, also, that in places where the right of females to succeed is widely recognized the word "auald" should be construed as including both male and female issue.

Mussammat Rakhi v. Mussammat Fatima (89 P. R. 192), Miran Bakhsh v. Allajawai (25 P. R. 12), Zainab v. Amir (174 P. R. 1889), and Sher Muhammad Khan v. Muhammad Khan (5 P. R. 195), referred to. CHIRAGH BIBI v. HASSAN. 19 P R 1908

15. Custom—Alienation by widow—Consent of nearer reversioners—Right of more remote reversioners in presence of daughters of the deceased owner to contest such alienation—Mode of calculating degrees of relationship.

In a suit by the reversioners of the sixth degree for a declaration that a sale of immovable property effected by the widow of a sonless proprietor should not affect their reversionary rights, it was contended that in the presence of the deceased's daughters who were the next reversionary heirs by the custom of the parties, and other descendants nearer in relationship than the plaintiffs, several of whom had consented to the sale, the plaintiffs had no locus standi and were not entitled to maintain the suit.

By the Riwaj-i-am of the village it appeared that daughters only succeeded in the absence of the collaterals up to the fifth degree.

Held that as it was by no means certain that the daughters (even if they were the next reversionary heirs) would interpose to contest the alienation by their own mother, with whom they were living until they married, or would never succeed as heirs, as several collaterals of the fifth and lesser degrees were in existence, the plaintiffs were fully competent to maintain the suit. GIRDHARI RAM v. FAIZULLAH KHAN. 48 P R 1908

16. Custom—Alienation—Gift by widow to her daughter—Locus standi of collaterals—Succession of daughter—Sayyads of mauza Chuma, tahsil and district Gurgaon.

Held, that among Sayyads of mauza Chuma, tahsil and district Gurgaon, daughters succeed to the property of their fathers to the exclusion of the latter's collaterals and therefore the collaterals have no right to contest the gift made by the widow of the last male owner in favour of her daughter. MUZAFFAR ALI v. MUSSAMMAT ZAINAB. 58 P R 1910

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd. B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—concld.—(d) Locus standi and assent of reversioners—concld.

17. Custom—Alienation—Alienation by widow—locus standi of the sister of last male owner, in default of reversioners to contest an alienation—Ghirths of mauza Baldhar, tahsil and district Kanngra.

Held, that among Ghirths of mauza Baldhar, tahsil and district Kangra, a sister of the last male owner is, in the absence of collaterals, entitled as the next heir to contest an alienation made by the widow and to obtain a declaration that such alienation shall not affect her reversionary rights. MUSSAMMAT KOKAN v. MUSSAMMAT LAKHOO. 60 P R 1910

18. Custom—Alienation—Alienation of self-acquired property by mother and widow of the last male owner—Locus standi of collaterals residing in another village to contest the alienation—Syads of mauza Tal Khalsa—District Rawalpindi.

Held, following 110 P. R. 1906 F. B (Daya Ram v. Sohel Singh) that by custom among Sayads of mauza Tal Khalsa, district Rawalpindi, collaterals of the last male owner residing in another village have a locus standi to contest a sale of self-acquired land made by the mother nnd widow af the deceased without legal necessity. CHANNAN SHAH v. AMAR DAS. 71 P R 1910

19 Custom—Alienation—widow's right to alienate—Sayads of Sialkot City—Muhammadan Law.

Held, that although the initial presumption in the case of non-agricultural Sayads, residents of a city, is that they follow Muhammadan law, yet where in defiance of that law, widows take over the whole of their husband's immovable estate, a natural presumption arises that they do so, as life holders only subject to control by male reversioners

Held, therefore, that among the parties to the suit, Sayads of Sialkot City, there is a presumption in favour of a custom, under which alienations by a widow of house property inherited from her husband are liable to be contested by the husband's brother. 14 P R 1911

C.—ALIENATION BY DAUGHTER.

1. Chimbhas of Wazirabad—Daughters' power of alienation.

In a suit the parties to which were Chimbhas of mouza Khasra in the Wazirabad tahsil of the Gujranwala district, found, that no power of alienation was by custom permitted to daughters, who had been allowed to succeed to their fathers' land. PIR BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT AMIR BIBI. 17 P R 1885

2. Daughter's power to gift land inherited from her father—Gift to sister's sons.

In a suit by the collateral heirs for cancellation of a gift of certain land by a female donor in favour of her sister's sons, it appeared that the land gifted was a moiety of the paternal estate, to which the two daughters of the last male owner, who had no sons, had succeeded in equal shares on their father's death, having up to that time lived in the father's house with their husbands.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
C.—ALIENATION BY DAUGHTER—contd.

Held, that the plaintiffs were entitled to a decree, as the defendants had failed to show that the donor had by custom an unrestricted power of gift of her share of the paternal estate to which she had succeeded under the above circumstances. Kutba v. Mussammat Abidan.
19 P R 1887

3. Gift—Muhammadan Jats of Gujrat District—Land gifted to daughter—Further gift of the land by the donee to her daughter.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan Jats of the Gujrat District, that where a gift of his land by M. to his daughter had been allowed to pass unchallenged, this did not by custom confer any power enabling the daughter to make a further gift in favour of her own daughter. MUHAMMAD v. MUSSAMMAT UMAR BIBI. 129 P R 1893

4. Succession—Daughters—Suit by reversioners to contest daughter's succession—Compromise—Subsequent suit by same reversioners to set aside alienation by daughters—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 43.

One K S., a Hindu Jat, died leaving a son, Kh., two daughters, the present petitioners, and certain immovable property. Kh. married and had a son L, who survived him. After the death of Kh., and the remarriage of his widow, the daughters of K. S. went to the house left by K. S., to reside with, and take care of, their minor nephew L. On the death of L., the reversionary heirs of K. S. sued the said daughters who had taken possession of both the land and houses left by K. S., but in 1860 this suit was compromised, one-third of the land and houses being left with the daughters. On the 28th January 1893, the daughters having sold part of the said house property to B. S. and C. S., the reversioners again sued, praying for a declaration that the sale should not affect their rights after the death of the female vendors, and they pleaded that the sale was not for a necessary purpose and that the consideration was fictitious. The defendants, who were the daughters and the vendees, pleaded that the daughters had inherited the property in dispute from K. S., that they were full owners and had been in possession for the preceding 27 years, and that the sale was for necessity and for full consideration.

The lower Courts found that, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, the presumption was that the daughters were not full owners but merely life tenants; that their possession was permissive and not adverse to the plaintiffs; that the sale was not for necessity or for consideration, and that the plaintiffs were not barred, under section 43 of the Civil Procedure Code, from suing by reason of their suit in 1860, and decreed plaintiff's claim. A certificate to appeal having been refused by the Divisional Judge, the defendant daughters applied to the Chief Court on the Revision side to admit a further appeal on the following grounds:

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
C.—ALIENATION BY DAUGHTER—contd.

"(I). That the certificate should have "been granted as there is a "point of law and custom "involved;
"(a) does section 43 apply or not?
"(b) have, or have not, the "daughters by custom "more than a life tenancy?
"(II). The daughters have full power "to alienate.
"(III). There was necessity."

Held, that the real question was not whether the daughters by custom took more than a life tenancy, but what were their rights under the compromise of 1860, and that there was no ground for admitting an appeal upon that question.

Held, further, that the present suit being upon an entirely new cause of action was not barred under section 43 of the Civil Procedure Code by the omission to claim the house in the former suit. MUSSAMMAT IND KAUR v. SUJAN SINGH. 47 P R 1894

5. Power of daughter who has succeeded to alienate in presence of her sister's sons—Respective rights of husband's brother and sister's sons—Sarsut Brahmins owning land in Tarn Taran tahsil, Amritsar District—Succession.

In a case in which the parties were Sarsut Brahmans owning land in Tarn Taran tahsil, Amritsar District, found, after a remand for further inquiry, (i) that a daughter who has succeeded, in the absence of male lineal descendants, to her father's property, is not competent by custom to alienate the said property in favour of her deceased husband's brother in the presence of her sister's sons; and (ii) that by custom the sister's sons are entitled to succeed to such daughter in preference to the brother of her deceased husband.—JAI DIAL v. SANTU. 74 P R 1899

6. Sials of Maghiana, Jhang District—Succession of daughter in presence of sons.

Held, in a suit the parties to which were Sials of Maghiana in the Jhang District, that the defendant had failed to prove that a gift by a proprietor of a part of his ancestral property to a wife and her daughter in the presence of a son should be regarded as an absolute gift of right of ownership and not one merely for their joint lives and life of the survivor.

Mussammat Subhan v. Ghazi (50 P. R. 1885) and Bakhu v. Amir (47 P. R. 1896), cited. AMIR v. NUR MUHAMMAD.
82 P R 1902

7. Alienation by daughter—Necessity—Suit by reversioners to set aside alienation by daughter.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were governed by the Punjab Customary Law that an alienation by a daughter holding land until her marriage for necessity was valid against the customary heirs.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
C.—ALIENATION BY DAUGHTER—contd.

As a general rule daughter's tenure of her father's land until death or marriage is very analogous to that of a widow in her husband's property. MUL SINGH v. KHANU.
90 P R 1903

8. Competency of daughter to gift land inherited from her father—Mithu Jats of Muzaffargarh District.

Found, that by the custom prevailing among Mithu Jats of the Muzaffargarh District, a daughter was competent to make a valid gift of property inherited from her father to a stranger. ALAM v. NUR. 62 P R 1905

9. Daughter's power to alienate land inherited from her father—Sayads of mauza Shahabad, Karnal District—Burden of proof.

In a suit the parties to which were Sayads of mauza Shahabad in the Karnal District, held, that the defendants, upon whom the burden of proof lay, had failed to establish that by custom governing the parties a daughter, in the absence of male lineal descendants, inherits the paternal property in absolute estate with unlimited power of alienation.

Such an assertion being contrary to the general rule of inheritance for females, the onus of proving a custom contrary to it rests on the party who asserts its existence.

Rahmat Hussain v. Fahim-un-Nissa (25 P. R. 1890), distinguished.

Imam Din v. Nanu (119 P. R. 1891), and Muhammad Anwar-ul-Huq v. Habib-ul-Rahman (74 P. R. 1902), cited and followed. ABUL HASSAN v. HABIB ULLAH.
18 P R 1906

10. Gift by daughter of ancestral paternal estate inherited in absence of male collaterals—Suit by father's brother's daughters to contest such alienation—Khattaris of Attock District.

In a suit the parties to which were Khattars of the Attock District the nieces of the last male owner sued for a declaration, that a gift by the latter's childless daughter to her husband's collaterals of ancestral paternal estate inherited by her in absence of male collaterals would not affect their reversionary rights.

Held, that the plaintiffs had no locus standi to maintain the suit. The alienor in this case was holding as owner by inheritance from her father; and thus, there being no presumption in favour of control by a female over such an owner, it was not open to the plaintiffs to contest the alienation unless they were in a position to establish a custom ad hoc. NUR-UL-NISSA AND OTHERS v. GAUHAR-UL-NISSA AND OTHERS. 61 P R 1906

11. Awans of Pind Dadan Khan tahsil, Jhelum District—Rights of daughters succeeding to their father's property—Burden of proof.

In a suit the parties to which were Awans of Pind Dadan Khan tahsil in the Jhelum District, held that the defendants upon whom the burden of proof lay had failed to establish a custom under which the daughter of a sonless proprietor who has succeeded to the non-ancestral property of her father by inheritance has an unlimited estate or has full power of disposition in the presence of collaterals related to the deceased in the ninth degree.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
C.—ALIENATION BY DAUGHTER—concld.

Distinction between a gift by a father of his self-acquired land to his daughter and the inheritance of such land by her in absence of male lineal descendants explained. BAHADUR v. ABDULLAH. 121 P R 1908

12. Alienation by daughter of ancestral paternal estate inherited in absence of male collaterals—Right of a female prospective heir to contest such alienation—Sayads of Gurgaon District.

In a suit the parties to which were Sayads of the Gurgaon District, the sister of the last male proprietor and her son sued for a declaration that a certain alienation by the daughter of such proprietor of ancestral paternal estate inherited by her in default of male lineal descendants would not affect their reversionary rights.

Held that by custom among the parties the alienor had succeeded to the ancestral landed property of her deceased father as a full owner and the plaintiffs had therefore no locus standi to maintain the suit.

A female with a right to succeed to the estate held by another female is competent to control the acts of the latter, provided she establishes—

(i) that she is in fact entitled to succeed on the death of the alienor, and

(ii) that the alienor is holding only a limited estate resembling that of a widow, but she can in no case challenge an alienation by a male proprietor even if he be childless or by a female holding as a full owner on the same tenure as a male proprietor. MAQSUD-UL-NISA v. KANIZ ZOHRA. 135 P R 1908

D.—ALIENATION BY MOTHER.

1. Muhammadan Rajputs of Karnal District—Power of mother who has succeeded for life to the share of one son to gift such share to one of the agnates to the exclusion of the other heirs.

In a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan Rajputs of the Karnal District, found that no special custom existed under which a mother who had succeeded on a life interest to the share of one of her sons in the ancestral estate could make a valid gift of that share to one of the agnates to the exclusion of the other heirs on the ground that the said donee had rendered service to the widow. ABDUL HASSAN KHAN v. QUTAB ALI KHAN. 79 P R 1889

2. Gift by mother of last male owner—Sayads and Pathans of Basti Baba Khel, Jullundur District.

Found in a suit the parties to which were Sayads, or possibly Pathans settled in the village or kasba of Basti Baba Khel in the Jullundur District not agriculturists in the strict sense of the term (their ancestors being said to have been horse dealers), that a presumption existed in favour of the right of collaterals in the ninth degree from the last male owner to contest a gift by the said owner's mother (who had been recorded as a proprietor of half the estate on the death of her son, the other half going to his widow) in favour of a son of her late husband's sister, and that the donor and donee had failed to rebut the presumption. MUSSAMMAT AISHAN AND ABDUL HAQ v. MUHAMMAD JAMIL. 74 P R 1892

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
D.—ALIENATION BY MOTHER—concld.

E.—ALIENATION BY HEAD OF RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION—

vide RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION.

F.—ALIENATION BY NON-PROPRIETOR.

See UNDER COMMON LAND.

124 P R 1888
13 P R 1889
40 P R 1889
50 P R 1889
102 P R 1891
99 P R 1892
38 P R 1895

1. Houses of non-agricultural residents.

According to the stipulations of the Wajib-ul-urz, the houses of non-agricultural residents in the village reverted to the proprietors of the village on the occupants quitting them. Since the time of settlement the village had expanded into a town. One of the non-agricultural residents, not of long occupation, sold his house to another, and the proprietors claimed under the Wajib-ul-urz. Held, that they were entitled to the value of the site, the property in the building remaining with the purchaser. MAHILA v. MUSSAMMAT GUNGA DEVI. 86 P R 1867

2. Mortgage of house by cultivator—Wajib-ul-urz—Persons not parties to it.

One of the defendants, a cultivator in the village, mortgaged his house to the other defendant; the Wajib-ul-urz declaring that the right to sell his house did not belong to a cultivator. Plaintiff, a zemindar, sued to set aside the mortgage. Held, that the cultivators, who were not parties to the Wajib-ul-urz, were not bound by it and that the mortgage could not be disturbed. GOOJUR SINGH v. HEERA. 33 P R 1869

3. Co-sharers.

A co-sharer in a tenancy cannot make a gift of his share without the consent of the other co-sharers. JUGUT RAM v. LUCHMUN DAS. 48 P R 1870

4. Sale by village resident, a non-proprietor of the village, of his house to one of the proprietors.

A resident of mauza Mohna Kalan, Hoshiarpur District, a non-proprietor sold his house to one of the proprietors of the village. The sale was contested by the purchaser's co-proprietors.

Held, that in the absence of a custom to the contrary the sale to one proprietor without the consent of the rest was invalid.—MYA DAS v. FATTEH DIN. 25 P R 1875

5. Right of kamins to sell kothas*—Attempt to sell—Form of decree*

The general custom of the Punjab is against the power of a kamin to make a valid transfer of the house in his occuption, but a mere attempt to sell does not operate as a forfeiture of the kamin's right to reside in the house while he continues to dwell in the village.

CUSTOM .—ALIENATION—contd.
F.—ALIENATION BY NON-PROPRIETOR—contd.

Where a kamin sells his house but continues to reside in it, the proper decree to pass is, to declare the sale not binding as against the proprietors, and that upon the house being quitted by the kamin or his heirs the proprietors will be entitled to possession of the site, while the kamin or his representatives or assigns will be entitled to remove the materials. REHMAT KHAN v. KUTBA. 3 P R 1879

6. Mauza Saroki, Gujrat—Sale of houses by non-proprietary residents.

By the custom of the village of Saroki in the Gujrat District non-proprietary occupants of houses cannot sell them unless they hold the sites by purchase or gift from the proprietors. ALLA DITTA v. DINA. 125 P R 1879

7. Village artizans—Mauza Nathana, Moga tahsil—Power of sale.

Held, that there is no established custom in the village of Nathana in the Moga tahsil of the Ferozepore District, whereby a village artizan is at liberty to sell his dwelling house situated within the village site.

The general rule, in the absence of evidence of custom to the contrary, is, that non-proprietary residents cannot dispose of the sites of their houses without the consent of the proprietors, and the consent of the proprietors in several such cases would not prove a custom authorizing sale.

Mya Das v. Fatteh Din, (No. 25 of 1875, Civil), cited and approved. BIKA SINGH v. LAKHU. 92 P R 1880

8. Mauza Bahroki, Sialkot—Kamins, power of, to sell houses.

Held, that no well established custom is proved in the village of Bahroki in the Sialkot District, permitting a kamin to sell his house, even where the purchaser is a proprietor in the village. SAHIBA v. PREMA. 93 R P 1880

9. Mortgage of house in mohalla Ansarian, city of Jullundur, by a non-proprietary resident—Landlord and tenant—Death of mortgagor—Suit by landlord to eject mortgagee—Structures put up by tenant—Compensation.

On the 13th June 1893, one J., a tenant of a house in mohalla Ansarian in the city of Jullundur, the site of which admittedly belonged to plaintiffs, executed a deed whereby he mortgaged the said house in favour of one B., the present appellant. J. died shortly afterwards, and on the 28th May 1894 plaintiffs brought a suit against B. for possession of the house and site, and alleged that the mortgage was fictitious, that J. had no power of alienation and that his right of residence was extinguished by his death. B. pleaded, inter alia, that the materials of the house belonged to J., and that the latter had by custom power to mortgage the house, plaintiff's right being saved.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
F.—ALIENATION BY NON-PROPRIETOR—contd.

Held, by the Chief Court, that by custom J. had no power to effect the mortgage in favour of B. without the consent of plaintiffs.

Held, further, that, though such alienation would not as regards the tenant himself, have worked a forfeiture of his interest, plaintiffs, who were admittedly owners of the site, were competent by custom, upon the death of J., to sue for the eviction of B., and were entitled to the decree prayed for.

But, held, that plaintiffs' decree should be coupled with a condition that they should pay to B. the value of the structures found by the Court to have been J.'s property. BUG v. ASAD ALI. 75 P R 1897

10. Sale by non-proprietor of residential site in abadi—Purchase of plot of land to make a tank, effect of, as regards status of non-proprietor—suit by some only of proprietary body—Mauza Mator, Gujar Khan.

Found, that defendants, upon whom the onus rested, had failed to prove a special custom whereby a non-proprietor in mauza Mator, Gujar Khan, is competent to sell his residential site in the abadi without the permission of the proprietary body, and that it is immaterial whether the sale be in favour of one of the latter body or not.

Held, that the mere purchase by a non-proprietor jointly with others of a plot of land to make a tank cannot alter his status so as to make him a member of the proprietary body.

Held, further that plaintiffs, who were some only of the proprietors, were entitled to sue on behalf of the whole body. KAHN SINGH v. WARIS KHAN. 48 P R 1899

11. Power of non-proprietor to alienate house—Suit by village proprietors—Nature of relief—Mauza Nand Rampur Bas, tahsil Rewari, Gurgaon District.

Plaintiffs, proprietors of the village of Nand Rampur Bas, Rewari tahsil, Gurgaon District, sued for possession of the site of a shop, admittedly erected on land owned by the plaintiffs by a non-proprietor who had been allowed to erect it and who had sold it to a non-proprietor who did not reside in the village but let the shop in suit to tenants. Plaintiffs further prayed for an injunction to the effect that the defendants should remove the materials of the shop within a period to be fixed by the Court.

Found, on the evidence, that the shop could not be sold without the consent of plaintiffs and that no such consent had been given.

On this finding held, that plaintiffs were entitled to the relief prayed for. HARSAHAI v. GANGA RAM. 7 P R 1900

12. Alienation of houses by non-proprietors—Mauza Siwan, Karnal District.

Found, that in mauza Siwan in the district of Karnal, non-proprietors occupying house property for three generations (from a period antecedent to the record of rights prohibiting transfer of houses), can transfer their houses without the consent of the proprietors. BADRI v. UDHO. 73 P R 1903

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
F.—ALIENATION BY NON-PROPRIETOR—concld.

13. Custom—Mortgagee rights—Right of mortgagee's heirs to contest alienation of those rights—Ancestral land—land purchased by one of the decendants from another descendant of a common ancestor.

Held, that for the purpose of the Customary law of this Province mortgagee's rights do not amount to such rights in the land charged as would give the mortgagee's heirs a right to contest an alienation of those rights.

Held, also, that when a mortgagee purchases the equity of redemption in respect of land mortgaged, the mortgagee rights merge in the rights of ownership.

Held, further, that land ceases to be ancestral if it comes into the hands of an owner otherwise than by descent or by reason merely of his connection with the common ancestor. SRI RAM v. RAMJI DAS. 59 P R 1909

14. Sale of house by non-proprietor—Mauza Talwandi Kalan, tahsil Jagraon, District Ludhiana—Suit for ejectment of vendee—Acquiescence by proprietors.

Held, that a custom had not been established authorising the non-proprietors of mauza Talwandi Kalan, tahsil Jagraon, district Ludhiana, to alienate without the consent of the proprietary body their right of residence in houses occupied or erected by them, and that on leaving the village they were entitled merely to sell or remove the materials.

Held, also, that a proprietor by attesting the sale-deed of a non-proprietor and appearing before the Sub-Registrar acquiesces in the alienation and is debarred from contesting it. MALLA v. MUNSHI RAM. 69 P R 1910

G.—ALIENATION BY GUARDIAN.

1. Alienation by guardian—Muhammadan Law.

Held, following Civil Judgment No. 144 P. R. 1883, in a suit among Muhammadans that in the absence of a special custom to the contrary a de facto guardian, who is neither guardian by Muhammadan Law nor by an appointment by the Court, cannot bind a minor's property by her acts of alienation. DAD v. GALA RAM. 45 P R 1889

2. Alienation of minor's property by natural guardian and sarbarah—Necessity—Power of guardian not appointed under Act XL of 1858—Validity of mortgage.

In a suit to enforce a mortgage-deed executed by one Mussammat Thakri and her minor son of land which was admittedly, the minor's, the mortgage money was said to consist of a debt due from the minor's father, and a further sum advanced for purposes of litigation. It appeared that though Mussammat Thakri was the natural guardian of the minor's person, and had also been appointed his sarbarah for the purposes of dealings by the Government and its officers in the Revenue Department, she had taken no steps to be appointed to the charge of his property under Act XL of 1858.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
G.—ALIENATION BY GUARDIAN—contd.

Held, that the plaintiff's suit must be dismissed; that assuming that there were debts which could be enforced against the minor, and that his property might be brought to sale to satisfy them, it did not follow that his mother had any legal authority to mortgage his land to secure the repayment, or that she was curator of his property for all purposes and competent to mortgage it. MUSSAMMAT THAKRI v. MIRZA MAL. 83 P R 1889

3. Minor—Mortgage of minor's property by natural and de facto guardian—Validity of mortgage—Necessity—Minor benefiting by mortgage—Compensation—Ratification.

The mother and de facto guardian of a Muhammadan minor mortgaged the minor's estate for the alleged purpose of celebrating her marriage. The mortgage deed was attested by the fiance of the minor. After the death of the minor the mortgagee sued the mother, the husband and the son of the minor to enforce his mortgage.

Held, (i) That the mother was not authorized by Muhammadan law to effect the mortgage, which was consequently invalid.

(ii) That it is the person who seeks equity who is compelled by the Courts to do equity. The minor or her heirs did not in this case ask for a declaration that the mortgage was invalid, and could not consequently be subjected to any conditions.

(iii) That the husband's share in the minor's estate could not be charged with the payment of the debt by reason of his ratification, as he was sued in a representative capacity only and if the minor was not liable he could not be held to be so.

(iv) That an extravagant trousseau is not a necessity. FAZL ILAHI v. YAKUB MIRZA 192 P R 1889

4. Minor—Mortgage by mother—Muhammadan Law—Absence of custom—Validity of mortgage—Equitable rights of mortgagee.

The mother of a Muhammadan minor, not his legal guardian, executed a mortgage-deed for and on behalf of the minor, the greater portion of the mortgage money being said to be due on account of paternal debts. It was not alleged that any custom existed contrary to the Muhammadan Law governing the question of the power of a self-constituted or de facto guardian to bind the interest of the minor.

Held, in a suit by the mortgagee to enforce the mortgage that in accordance with the principles of Muhammadan law the mortgage must be held to be invalid (so far as the minor mortgagor was concerned), inasmuch as it was effected on his behalf by a person not even possessing the restricted power of alienation given to near guardians, but was by a wholly unauthorized guardian. No. 144 P. R. 1883, and Nos. 45 and 192, P. R. 1889 followed.

Although when a person comes into Court to get the acts of his guardians during his minority set aside, and he is found to have benefited from those acts, a condition may be attached to the decree made in his favour, there is no authority for holding that a person suing to enforce a mortgage made by one who had no authority to effect such mortgage, is entitled to a decree against the owner of the property for compensation for any advantage the owner may have derived from the transaction.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd. G.—ALIENATION BY GUARDIAN—concld.

No. 144 P.R., 1883, followed. DHARM SINGH v. SAYAD ZAHUR-UL HUSAIN AND FAIZ MOHY-UD-DIN. 58 P R 1891

5. Gujars of mauza Daliwal, tahsil Hoshiarpur—Muhammadan Law—Guardianship—Power of sale.

The plaintiff having sued for recovery from the defendants of his share of land that had been sold to them by his brother during his minority, it was contended by the defendants that the sale was for necessity, and that the plaintiff's brother as guardian, was by law and custom entitled to make the alienation.

The parties were Gujars, residents of Daliwal tahsil and district Hoshiarpur, and the plaintiff's claim was to succeed to his share of the land left by his father.

Held, that by Muhammadan Law it is only near guardians (including the father and paternal grandfather) and testamentary guardians appointed by them who are empowered to alienate a ward's estate even for purposes beneficial to him, and that, notwithstanding many instances of acquiescence in similar alienations in the village, no special rule of custom at variance with Muhammadan Law had been established, and that the sale was therefore invalid. RAHIM BAKHSH v. GHULANI. 65 P R 1893

6. Right of widow to the management of land belonging to her deceased husband's infant son—Mortgage by such widow, validity of—Widow appointed sarbarah by Revenue authorities—Muhammadan Jats of Jhelum District.

Found that there is no custom among Muhammadan Jats of mauza Aryala Jagdeo in the Jhelum District, whereby a widow is entitled to the management of land belonging to her deceased husband's infant son, nor can a widow, who has taken charge of such land, make a valid mortgage thereof.

The mere circumstance of the widow in such a case being appointed sarbarah by the Revenue authorities for the purpose of representing the infant owner, held, not to give her power to create a valid charge upon the land belonging to such infant. ISMAIL v. KISHEN SINGH. 71 P R 1894

H.—ALIENATION OF REVERSIONARY RIGHTS.

1. Power of a reversioner to alienate his right of succession—Muhammadan Gujars of Hazara District—Analogy of Hindu Law—Transfer of Property Act, 1882, section 6, (a).

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd. H.—ALIENATION OF REVERSIONARY RIGHTS—concld.

G. S. and H. S., two brothers, jointly owned two fields, in which, however, G. S., mortgaged his half share to H. S., and thereafter ceased to have any possession over the joint land. H. S., died in 1891, and was succeeded in his rights by his widow Mussammat K., who obtained mutation of names in her own favour. On the 12th October 1892, G. S. transferred all his rights in the said fields (including his right of succession to Mussammat K. on the termination of her estate by death or re-marriage) to the present plaintiffs. On the 3rd January 1893 Mussammat K. mortgaged one of the said fields to appellants, and on the 22nd October 1894, plaintiffs sued to have it declared that the mortgage by Mussammat K. would be inoperative against their reversionary interests. Defendants pleaded that plaintiffs were not competent to sue, and that the mortgage was for necessity. It appeared that Mussammat K. had married one W. after the death of H. S., but whether before or after execution of the mortgage-deed, was disputed. She had, however, two daughters by H. S., who were alive and unmarried, and were admittedly entitled to enjoy possession of their father's land till marriage. The first Court held that plaintiffs were not competent to sue, and that the mortgage had been effected by Mussammat K. before her re-marriage in order to pay off her husband's debts, but the Divisional Judge, on appeal, held that plaintiffs were competent to sue, and that the mortgage was effected by Mussammat K. after her re-marriage, and was, therefore, bad, though it was made to pay off the said debts. Defendants appealed to the Chief Court. The parties were Mussalman Gujars of the Hazara District.

Held, by the Full Bench, that a reversioner cannot transfer his right of succession and that, therefore, plaintiffs were not competent to sue, and that their suit must be dismissed.

Per ROE, C. J.—Though in the present case the principles of Hindu Law and the principles underlying the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, had some bearing on the point in question, the true test was the fundamental principle of the Customary or Tribal Law, according to which the holder of an estate for the time being is subject to the control of his agnatic kinsmen because the estate has come down to him from an ancestor common to him and them. When an alienation of the whole or part of the estate held by the individual proprietor is made to a stranger, and is not set aside at the suit of the agnates, it can only hold good to the extent of what the proprietor actually held and alienated and can give no right of succession to the alienee. In the present case, therefore, the proper person to question alienation by the widow was the next agnate and not the plaintiff, who was a stranger.

Per REID, J.—The principle contained in Section 6 (a) of the Transfer of Property Act, embodies the spirit of the customs which limit the powers of alienation in this Province. TOLA v. ABDULLA KHAN. 66 P R 1897

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd. I.—ALIENATION OF OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.

1. Sindhu Jats of Jalandhar—Grant of occupancy rights—Lease of cultivaion for a term or in perpetuity.

Found, that by the agricultural custom prevailing among Sindhu Jats of Jalandhar a proprietor has the power in the management of his estate to lease its cultivation for a term or in perpetuity. PREMA v. JOWAHIR SINGH. 100 P R 1886

2. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887*—Unauthorised alienation by occupancy tenant—Suit by landlord against tenant and mortgagee—Form of decree.*

L., a tenant with rights of occupancy under section 5, Act XXVIII of 1868, mortgaged his rights to H. L. and H. R., in 1885.

No notice of the mortgage was given to the landlord in pursuance of the provisions of section 34 of the Act of 1868 (= section 53, Act XVI of 1887).

In 1891 H. L. and H. R. obtained a decree for foreclosure of mortgage and were in due course put in possession of the land.

The plaintiff (the landlord) now sued the occupancy tenant and H. L., and H. R., for possession.

Held, that the proper decree to make in such a suit was that the plaintiff (the landlord) be given possession as against H. L. and H. R., the mortgagees only.

No. 17 P. R. 1892 (F. B.) referred to and followed. NIHAL v. LAKHNA. 6 P R 1893

3. Gift of occupancy rights, with landlord's consent, to adopted son.

One S. S., an occupancy tenant of certain land, of which one G. J. S. was owner, gifted by registered deed, dated the 18th December 1869—i. e., while the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, was in force—his occupancy rights to defendant, whom (it was alleged,) he had previously adopted. The deed of gift was confirmed by G. J. S., the landlord, on 21st December 1869. Plaintiff, who was the nephew of the donor, S. S., sued on the grounds that defendant had obtained, after the death of S. S. in November 1892, mutation with respect to the land; and that S. S. had no authority by custom to adopt defendant, or to make him a gift of the occupancy rights. The first Court dismissed the suit on the ground that the adoption was valid and the plaintiff's claim time-barred, and the Divisional Court, on appeal, while holding that the claim was within time, concurred in dismissing the suit on the ground that S. S. had virtually appointed defendant his heir. The plaintiff having appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, that this being a case, not of a gift of ancestral land, but of a special interest in land created and regulated by statute in the Punjab and the alienation in 1869 having been made with the consent of the landlord, the present donee was in possession by the act of the said landlord, and there was nothing left for the plaintiff to succeed to. NIHALA v. ISHAR SINGH. 68 P. R. 1894

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
I.—ALIENATION OF OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

4. Perpetual lease of occupancy rights—"Ancestral property"—Illegitimacy of descendants, effect of, upon character of inherited property—"Necessity"—Sodhi Khatris of Muktsar tahsil, Ferozepore District.

Found, that by custom among Sodhi Khatris of Muktsar tahsil, Ferozepore District, a childless male proprietor is incompetent to make a perpetual lease of ancestral property without necessity in the presence of nephews. SODHI KARTAR SINGH v. SHER SINGH.

50 P R 1895

5. Bequest of occupancy rights to more remote in presence of nearer collateral—Awans of Talagang tahsil, Jhelum District—Riwaj-i-am.

One J. was a joint half-sharer in an occupancy holding in a village, plaintiff, his cousin being entitled to the other half. On 17th March 1891, J. made a bequest of his said share in favour of defendant, a collateral one degree more remote than plaintiff, whereupon plaintiff sued to have it declared that the will was not genuine and, in any event, invalid by custom. The parties were Awans of the Talagang tahsil of the Jhelum District, and the property in dispute was ancestral.

Found, that the defendant, upon whom the onus rested, had failed to prove that the bequest was valid by the custom of the parties. MUKARRAB v. FATTA. 88 P R 1895

6. Occupancy rights, mortgage of, by widow,—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 59, 111, 112—Entry in Wajib-ul-urz.

Held, that an entry in the Wajib-ul-arz to the effect that an occupancy tenant has the power of sale (ikhtiar farokht maurusiyat ka hai), does not enable the widow of a deceased tenant to mortgage her right of occupancy, although in the case of the occupancy tenant himself such power of sale would include the lesser power of mortgage. SURAB v. CHIRAGH.

3 P R 1897 Rev.

7. Occupancy right, sale of—"Landlord" and "tenant"—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 4 (5), (6), 6, 60—Mortgage by landlord of half his rights—Sale by occupancy tenant without consent of mortgagee.

On the 5th July 1888, one L. S, the proprietor of the whole village, mortgaged half his rights as landlord to plaintiff, who thereafter took half the proceeds from the village under a mutual arrangement with L. S., whereby it was agreed that plaintiff should receive the rents paid in kind and L. S., those paid in cash, the accounts being adjusted at the end of each year.

On the 15th May 1895, one G. S., an occupancy tenant who had hitherto paid his rent in cash to L. S., in conjunction with the latter, sold the occupancy right in part of his holding to one T. R. N., who, on the 17th of the said month, purchased the whole proprietary right from L. S.

Plaintiff's suit to have the said sale set aside on the ground that it had been effected without his consent, having been decreed by the Assistant Collector, and, on appeal, by the Collector, T. R. N., applied to the Financial Commissioner on the revision side, and contended (i) that the relationship of landlord and tenant did not exist between G. S. and plaintiff, and (ii) that, being himself a proprietor, he could not be ejected in such a case.

Held, that on the facts of the case the relationship of landlord and tenant existed between G. S. and plaintiff within the meaning of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887.

Held, therefore, that the sale by G. S. to T. R. N. having been made without plaintiff's consent was, under section 60 of the Act, voidable at his option.

Held, further, as to the second contention, that T. R. N. was not a landlord at the time of purchase from G. S., and that in any event he was sued in his capacity as purchaser of a tenancy and not in that of purchaser of proprietary right. TIKA RAM NARAIN SINGH v. SODHI NARINDAR SINGH.

6 P R 1897 Rev.

8. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 6, 8, 56, 60—Transfer of rights by occupancy tenant—Acquiescence on part of landlord, effect of—Facts constituting acquiescence.

Held, that when a tenant holding under section 6 or section 8 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, has transferred his right of occupancy without having previously obtained the consent of the landlord in writing, unless the landlord sues within a reasonable time to cancel the voidable transfer, his acquiesence may be inferred, and, if proved, will disentitle him to the relief claimed, although his suit has been instituted within the period of limitation, viz., within 6 years from the date when the right to sue accrued.

Held, further, that though "a reasonable time" must depend on the circumstances of each case, yet in cases in which the payment of rent by the alienee to the landlord or his representative is proved or may be legally presumed, he having already full knowledge of the status of the alienee, the acceptance of such rent by the landlord and his omission to sue for the cancelment of the voidable transfer constitute, in the absence of any satisfactory explanation of his conduct, acquiescence on his part in the transfer.

Held, on the facts of the present case, that the landlord had acquiesced in the transfers, and that, therefore, his suit must be dismissed. JIWAN SINGH v. MAHARAJA JAGGAT SINGH.

1 P R 1898 Rev.

9. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 6, 8, 51, 53, 56, 57, 60—Exchange of rights of occupancy without consent of landlord—"Transfer"—Right of landlord who has acquiesced in such transfer to subsequently sue to avoid it—Acquiescence, what constitutes.

An exchange of their respective holdings by two tenants holding under section 8 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, is a "transfer" within the meaning of section 56 of the Act.

When a landlord is fully aware that a tenant holding under section 6 or section 8 of the Act has transferred his right of occupancy without having previously obtained the consent in writing of that landlord, unless the latter sues within a reasonable time to cancel the voidable transfer, his acquiescence therein may be inferred, and if proved, will disentitle him to the relief claimed, although his suit is instituted within six years from the date of transfer. As to what period constitutes "a reasonable time" must depend on the circumstances of each case, but in cases in which the payment of rent by the alienee to the landlord or his representative is proved or may be legally presumed, he having already full knowledge of the status of the alienee, in the absence of satisfactory explanation by the landlord for his conduct, the acceptance of rent for more than one harvest without bringing a suit for the cancelment of the voidable transfer is an act, which amounts to acquiescence. BAKHSHA v. FATEH MUHAMMAD.

2 P R 1898 Rev.

10. Occupancy rights—Alienation by widow in favour of proprietor—Right of reversioner to object—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 59 (3).

Held, that a mortgage of occupancy rights by a widow is void under section 59 (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and none the less so because such mortgage is in favour of some of the proprietary body.

Held, also, that plaintiff, as the reversionary heir to the widow and a co-sharer with her in the holding which was undivided, was entitled to sue for a declaration that such mortgage was void. ISHAR SINGH v. LAL SINGH.

39 P R 1898

11. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 53, 56, 60—Unauthorised alienation of occupancy rights—Customary right of collaterals to object to alienation.

Held, by the Full Bench, that when an occupancy tenant has not complied with the provisions of sections 53 and 56 of the Tenancy Act, 1887, by giving notice to the landlord of his intention to alienate, or obtaining the landlord's previous consent in writing, the alienee obtains no indefeasible title to the tenancy under the Act, such alienation being voidable under section 60 of the Act at the instance of the landlord, or by a collateral under customary law if the collateral is able to establish the custom.

In considering whether such custom exists the Court may take into consideration the custom applicable as regards alienations of proprietary rights, a very strong inference arising from the existence of the custom in the latter case that it exists also in the former case. KARAM DIN v. SHARAF DIN.

89 P R 1898 F B

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
I.—ALIENATION OF OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

12. Alienation by sonless proprietor—Gift of land and rights of occupancy in favour of daughter—Arains of mauza Gujarwala, Ludhiana tahsil and District.

Found, that by custom among Arains of the Ludhiana tahsil and district, a sonless proprietor is not competent to gift his land in favour of his daughter in the presence of near collaterals, and, held, following No 89 P. R., 1898, that in the absence of any proof to the contrary, the custom found to exist in respect of the land was equally applicable as regards a gift of rights of occupancy in favour of the same donee. GULAB v. MUSSAMMAT JEONI. 49 P R 1899

13. Occupancy rights, sale of, by widow—Re-marriage of widow—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 59—"Acquiescence."

A suit instituted in 1898 by a landlord to cancel an alleged oral sale of occupancy rights by a widow in 1893, on the ground that it had been effected without notice to the said landlord and was illegal was dismissed by the first Court on the ground that the landlord had acquiesced in the sale by receiving rent. This order was upheld by the Collector on appeal. It appeared that the widow had re-married.

Held, reversing the orders of the lower Courts, that the widow had no power to sell the occupancy rights, section 59 (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, being an absolute bar to such sale, and that in any case her interest in the said rights became extinguished on her re-marriage under clause (b) of the said section. HANWANTA v. CHOUTH MAL. 2 P R 1900 Rev.

14. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 59 (3), 60—Occupancy rights—Mortgage by widow to some of the landlords—Rights of reversioners and landlords, notwithstanding acquiescence of some of the landlords in the acts of the widow.

An occupancy tenant under section 5 mortgaged half of his holding to some of his landlords. After his death his widow, who succeeded him, mortgaged the remainder of his occupancy rights to the same landlord. Other landlords, who were not interested in the mortgages, sued for the cancellation of the mortgage and possession of the land. The defendants pleaded acquiescence on the part of the landlord. The Assistant Collector set aside the alienation holding that a widow could not alienate under section 59 (3) and gave a decree in favour of the landlords. On appeal the Collector dismissed the plaintiffs' suit on the ground that although the mortgage was an irregular transfer it was rectified by the acquiescence of the landlords. On further appeal the Commissioner held that the spirit of section 60 is opposed to section 59 (3), and that the transfer was void ab initio and could not be validated by acquiescence, and gave plaintiffs a decree. Held, that a mortgage of a right of occupancy by a widow cannot be validated merely by the acquiescence of the landlords.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
I.—ALIENATION OF OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

Held, further, that in order to give full effect to section 59 (3) in all suits brought by landlords for possession by cancellation of a transfer of a right of occupancy made by a widow holding under section 59, the reversioners of the late occupancy tenant, if any, should be summoned, and if they consent, be made plaintiffs; for in the event of the transfer being cancelled, the reversioners are entitled to possession, and the landlords only if the former waive their claim, or there are no reversioners. To hold that the landlords are so entitled without regard to the claims of reversioners would be to allow widows in collusion with their landlords to make a spurious alienation to some of the latter for the purpose of enabling the whole body of landlords to extinguish the occupancy right. PREM SINGH AND OTHERS v. JAMIT SINGH AND OTHERS. 4 P R 1900 Rev.

15. Alienation of occupancy rights with the consent of landlords when Act XXVIII of 1868 was in force—Right of collaterals by custom to object to such alienations.

Held, following the full Bench ruling in Karm Din v. Sharaf Din (89 P. R., 1898) that the plaintiff as reversionary heir of an occupancy tenant was competent to dispute the validity of the alienation, in favour of a stranger, of his ancestor's occupancy rights, although such alienation had received the assent of his landlords and was made under Act, XXVIII of 1868, the right of the said landlords not being in question. PURAN CHAND v. MAHESHA AND OTHERS.

69 P R 1900

16. Alienation of occupancy rights—Right of reversioner to restrain such alienation—Burden of proof—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 53, 56, 60.

Held, that when a collateral of an occupancy tenant seeks to restrain an alienation which has not been objected to by the landlord he has to prove the existence of a custom by which he is entitled to do so, i. e., the burden of proof is upon the collateral asserting the rights to restrain the alienation.

Karam Din v. Sharaf Din (89 P. R. 1898) and Kidara v. Banna (31 P. R. 1896), referred to. FAIZ BAKHSH AND OTHERS V. DITTA AND OTHERS. 115 P R 1901

17. Alienation of rights of occupancy—Sale by tenant to landlord—Locus standi of reversioners—Punjab Tenancy Act. 1887, sections 53, 56.

Held, that a reversioner of an occupancy tenant cannot impugn a sale of occupancy rights entered into by a tenant in favour of one of his landlords.

Didaru v. Banna (31 P. R., 1896, F. B.), Karam Din v. Sharaf Din (89 P. R., 1898, F. B.), Nihala v. Ishar Singh (68 P. R., 1894), and Puran Chand v. Mahesha (68 P. R. 1900), referred to. NIHAL SINGH V. KHAZAN SINGH AND ANOTHER. 24 P R 1902, F. B.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—contd.
I.—ALIENATION OF OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.—concld.

18. Alienation of occupancy rights in contravention of the provisions of the Tenancy Act.

See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.

3 P R 1907 Rev.

19. Alienation of occupancy rights—Rights of reversioners to restrain such alienation—Burden of proof—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 59.

See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.

98 P R 1907 F. B.

J.—CUSTOMARY LAW—RULE OF DECISION.

1. Udasi faqirs of Jullundur—Self-acquired property—Onus of proof.

In a suit to succeed as heir under the will of one B D., an Udasi faqir, to his self-acquired property where the defendant, the disciple of the deceased, alleged that he was incapable of disposing of such property as he pleased, and it appeared that the deceased B. D. was not one of those Udasi faqirs who have wholly renounced worldly affairs, but who both trade and marry.

Held, that it lay upon the defendant to establish a custom prevailing among Udasi faqirs of this class overriding the general rules of law as to the acquisition and disposition of property by private persons, which in this case he had failed to do. LACHMAN DAS V. MUSSAMMAT THAKURI.

29 P R 1881

2. Pathans of Dipalpur tahsil, Montgomery District—Will—Acquired property.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Pathans of the Dipalpur tahsil in the Montgomery District, that the parties followed custom and not Muhammadan Law, and that under the custom a disposition by a proprietor of his acquired property by will was valid. MUSSAMMAT BUBU BEGAM V. ASADULA.

170 P R 1888

3. Will—Awal Khatri agriculturists of tahsil Ajnala, (Amritsar)—Onus of proving invalidity of will by custom.

Found, that by the custom prevailing among Awal Khatris of mauza Chak Awal, tahsil Ajnala, the alienation by will of land by a childless proprietor is not invalid by custom.

Held further, that the burden lay upon the defendants to prove affirmatively that such alienation was opposed to custom. GANESHA v. GANPAT. 198 P R 1889.

4. Gift by a sonless proprietor in favour of daughter—Banda Rajputs of Ludhiana city known as Malak Rajputs in Jullundur City—Right of widow of a collateral—Accretion from ancestral property—Hindu Law.

Held, in a suit by a collateral to question an alienation, that on the death of the plaintiff during the pendency of the suit, his widow was entitled to represent her husband and to proceed with the suit instituted by him. Mussammat Rakhi v. Mussammat Fatima (89 P. R. 1892), and Mussammat Aso and another v. Mussammat Tobi and another (77 P. R. 1893) distinguished.

Held also, that the parties, though residents of a city, being agriculturists, were governed by custom, and that the donor was competent under the custom prevalent amongst his tribe to transfer his self-acquired immoveable property by gift to his daughter.

The rule of Hindu Law, that, as accretions from ancestral property, the acquisitions are themselves ancestral, cannot be applied to those who are governed by custom.

Mussammat Fakharunissa v. Malik Rahim Bakhsh (23 P. R. 1897), Nura v. Tora 46 P. R. 1900), Ghausa v. Nathu (82 P. R., 1900) Devi Ditta and others v. Mussammat Hukmi and others (85 P. R. 1900), Lehna and another v. Mussammat Thakri (32 P. R., 1895), Muhammad Kalu Khan v. Saifulla Khan (91 P. R., 1887), referred to. NAWAB-UD-DIN v. MUSSAMMAT KAMI.

12 P R 1901

5. Gift—Immoveable property—Gift without delivery of possession—Revocation of gift by donor—Hindu Law.

Held, that the primary rule of decision in a case of gift in the Punjab is custom, and possession is ordinarily necessary to complete it, and that even under Hindu Law a gift which the donor repudiated immediately after, and which he did not do all in his power to perfect and which he did not give actual possession of the gifted property, is not valid.

Balmokand v. Bhagwan Das (I. L. R., XVI All., 185*)*, Manbhari v. Naunidh (I. L. R. IV All., 40) Raja Ram v. Ganesh (I. L. R. XXIII Bom. 131), and Parema Shah v. Chet Ram (38 P. R. 1899*)*, distinguished. Kalidas Mullick v. Kanhaya Lal Pandit (I. L. R., XI Calc., 121) relied on. CHAUDHRI LILA KISHEN AND OTHERS v. CHAUDHRI HOA RAM.

45 P R 1901

6. *Alienation by father of ancestral land —Objection by sons—*Lohars of Jamsher, tahsil Jullundur, District Jullundur.

Held, that the plaintiffs and their fathers having actually cultivated land for a considerable period, extending over several generations, though lohars, had become agriculturists, and even thus governed by the custom prevailing amongst agricultural tribes, which limits the alienation of ancestral agricultural land and were entitled to question the alienation by their father.

Khazan Singh and others v *Maddi and others (*122 P. R.. 1893), Gurmukh v. Ganga Ram (81 P. R. 1895), Uttam Singh v. Jhanda Singh (21 P. R. 1896*)*, and Ram Mal v. Mussammat Miran (30 P. R. 1896), referred to. KAKA AND OTHERS v. RANJIT SINGH AND OTHERS.

51 P R 1901

7. Alienation of ancestral land by a proprietor without proved necessity—Rawals of mauza Budala, tahsil Nurpur, District Kangra—Burden of proof—Undue influence —Inequitable conditions.

Found, that the Rawals of mauza Budala, in the Nurpur tahsil, of Kangra district, in matters of alienation are governed by Punjab Customary Law, and that the onus of proving a custom authorizing alienation of ancestral land by a proprietor without proved necessity rests on the person so alleging.

Inequitable conditions affixed to a mortgage should not be enforced by Courts against the mortgagor or his successors in title. SHER MUHAMMAD v. FATTEH DIN.

6 P R 1902

8. Alienation of ancestral property—Bhabras of Rawalpindi city—Hindu Law.

Held, that the Bhabras of Rawalpindi city in matters of alienation are governed by the ordinary Hindu Law. SOHNA SHAH AND OTHERS v. DIPA SHAH AND OTHERS.

15 P R 1902

9. Distinction between gifts inter vivos and wills among Punjab agriculturists.

Held, by a majority (Clark, C. J., dissenting) that the distinction under Punjab Customary Law between power of gift inter vivos and power of testation is a matter of degree and form only and where power of gift is shown to exist an initial presumption arises that there is a co-extensive power of testation.

B. Per Clark, C. J., contra, that under the Punjab Customary Law there is a marked distinction between the power of gift and the power of will, and that though the existence of a power of gift is a strong point in favour of the party asserting a power of will, it is not sufficient to relieve him of the onus of proving the existence of the latter.

Partab Singh v. *Bishen Singh (*81 P. R. 1877), Ganesha v. Ganpat (198 P. R. 1889), Ali Muhammad v. Dulla (26 P. R. 1901), Anokha v. Mohan Lal (2 P. R., 1870), Tagore v. Tagore (9 Beng. L. R. 377*)*, Mussammat Ghulam Fatima v. Mussammat Maqsudan (69 P. R. 1890), Kesar Singh v. Sundar Singh (59 P. R. 1889*)*, Rahmat v. *Azimulla (*34 P R. 1884), Kalandar Khan v. Ata-ulla (44 P. R. 1897), Shad Ali Khan v. Abdul Ghafur Khan (80 P. R. 1901), referred to.

Suchet Singh v. Banka (90 P. R. 1891*)*, Umar v. Mussammat Sahib Khatun (76 P. R. 1892), Fatta v. Bakhra (15 P. R. 1895), Mukarrab v. Fatta (88 P. R. 1895), Shad Ali Khan v. Abdul Ghafur Khan (24 P. R. 1898), and Sukha v. Amira (81 P. R. 1893), considered and disapproved MUSSAMMAT BANO v. FATEH KHAN.

48 P R 1903 F. B.

10. Gift by sonless proprietor to daughter's son in presence of collaterals in the fifth degree—Hindu Zargars of Umballa City—Burden of proof—Hindu Law—Adoption—Ceremonies.

Held, that the plaintiffs upon whom the onus lay had failed to establish that Hindu Zargars of Umballa city in matters of inheritance were governed by custom and not by Hindu Law or that collaterals in the fifth decree were entitled to succeed to the exclusion of a daughter's son.

The burden of proof that non-agricultural Hindus in matters of alienation and succession follow Punjab Customary Law rests on the person making such an allegation.

Semble.—The necessity of ceremonies in constituting an adoption among non-agricultural Hindu discussed.

Harnaman v. *Atma Ram (*24 P. R. 1900), Sohnu v. Ram Dial (79 P. R. 1901), Bishen Das v. *Thakar Das (*119 P. R. 1901), Moti Ram v. Sant Ram (103 P. R. 1902), and Girdari Lal v. Dalla Mal (3 P. R. 1901), cited.

Ralla v. *Budha (*50 P. R. 1893, F. B.) distinguished. MANGTU v. CHUNI LAL.

51 P R 1903

11. Right of son to contest alienation made by his own father—Muhammadan law —Koreshis of mauza Kareli, Pind Dadan Khan tahsil, Jhelum District—Burden of proof—Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900, section 4—Value of declaration under, to prove that the person declared follows customary law.

Held, that in matters of alienation the Koreshis of mauza Kureli, Pind Danan Khan tahsil in the Jhelum District, were not governed by the general rules of agricultural custom, but by the principles of their personal law, i. e., Muhammadan law, and that a son was therefore not entitled to contest an alienation of ancestral property made by his own father on the ground that it was made without necessity or consideration.

Ghulam Shah v. Zain Shah (101 P. R. 1902), Ahmad Din v. Fazlan (175 P. R. 1883), and Karam Bibi v. Hussain Bakhsh (92 P. R. 1901), referred to.

Held also, that the inclusion of a tribe among the list of the agricultural tribes of a district under section 4 of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900, should not be regarded as a conclusive proof that the tribe has adopted the general rules of customary law observed by the agricultural tribes in that district. JOWAHIR SINGH v. YAQUB SHAH.

5 P R 1906

12. Alienation of ancestral propety—Sayads of mauza Khanpur, Hoshiarpur District—Muhammadan Law—Omission to include a tribe in the Notification under Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900, as an agricultural tribe, effect of—Occupancy rights—Grant of, by landowner in ancestral land—Competency of such landowner's heirs to contest his actions.

Held, that in matters of alienations the Sayads of mauza Khanpur in the Hoshiarpur District who have for generations passed followed agriculture as a landholding occupation were governed by the general rules of agricultural custom of the Province and not by Muhammadan Law.

Muhammad Hussain v. Sultan Ali (54 P. R. 1903), Mussammat Sardar Bibi v. Sayad Ali Shah (4 P.R. 1888), Nasir-ud-din Shah v. Mussammat Lal Bibi (89 P. R. 1888), and Rahmat Hussain v. Mussammat Fahim-un-Nissa (25 P. R. 1890), referred to and distinguished.

The fact that a tribe is not notified as an agricultural tribe for the purposes of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act is not conclusive in itself to prove that such tribe is not bound by the restrictive rules ordinarily observed by the agricultural tribes of the Province.

Held, also, that it is open to a landowner to create occupancy rights in his ancestral land, and that as a general rule it is not open to such landowner's heirs to challenge his action, unless it is shown that the transaction was in reality a sale of the land itself or of the proprietary rights therein.

Prema v. Jowahir Singh (100 P. R. 1886), Sodhi Kartar Singh v. Sher Singh (50 P. R. 1895), and Suba v. Mohra (71 P. R. 1898), cited and followed. Gahna v. Sohan Lal (11 P. R. 1904), referred to. FAQIR MUHAMMAD v. FAZAL MUHAMMAD. 16 P R 1906

13. Alienation by childess proprietor—Locus standi of reversioner to contest alienation - Bawarias of tahsil Muktsar, Ferozepore District—Burden of proof.

Held, that the plaintiff upon whom the onus lay had failed to establish that a childless Bawaria of tahsil Mukhtsar of the Ferozepore District was governed by the custom prevailing amongst agricultural tribes which restricts the power of alienating ancestral agricultural land. WAZIRA v. RAM SINGH. 36 P R 1906

14. Alienation of ancestral property—Objection by sons of the alienor—Lohar Tarkhans of Lorai got of Kunjah, Gujrat District

In a suit by the sons of a Lohar Tarkhan of Lorai got of Kunjah in the Gujrat District to contest an alienation made by their father upon the ground of absence of valid necessity for the alienation, held, that in matters of alienation the parties were governed by the general custom prevailing amongst agricultural tribes which limits the alienation of ancestral agricultural property and were entitled to question the alienation. KASIM v. HASHAM. 39 P R 1906

15. Sale of ancestral Land—Brahmans of Chaowala, tahsil Jagadhri, District Ambala—Hindu Law.

Held, that in matters of alienation Sikh Brahmans of mauza Chaowala, tahsil Jagadhri, in the Ambala District, who have abandoned the Brahmanical thread do not perform priestly functions and have for generations past followed agriculture and are mainly dependant on land, were governed by the general rules of agricultural custom of the tract in which they reside and not by Hindu Law. GOPAL SINGH v. SUKHA SINGH. 58 P R 1906

16. Alienation by widow—Lohars of Kotli Loharan, Sialkot District—Burden of proof—Muhammadan Law.

Held, that the plaintiff npon whom the onus lay had failed to establish that in matters of alienation the Lohars of Kotli Loharan in the Sialkot District were governed by custom and not by Muhammadan Law. UMAR-UD-DIN v. JANTO. 101 P R 1906

17. Alienation by childless proprietor—Khatris of mauza Bhagtana Talianwala, tahsil Batala, Gurdaspur District—Burden of proof—Hindu Law.

Held, that the plaintiffs upon whom the onus lay had failed to establish that Khatris of mauza Bhagtana Talianwala, tahsil Batala, Gurdaspur District, in matters of alienation were governed by the ordinary agricultural custom of their neighbours and not by their own personal law. KAKA v. LABH CHAND. 106 P R 1906

17A. Gift of land inherited by daugter in favour of her adopted son—Suit by reversioner of the last male owner for possession on ground that the gift was invalid as against them—Plea of estoppel by conduct of acquiescence—Inducing person to believe in and act upon the truth of anything—Evidence Act, 1872, Section 115—Ansari Sheikhs of Basti Danishmandan, Jullundur District.

In 1832 'J,' a sonless Ansari Sheikh of Basti Danishmandan in the Jullundur District gifted his ancestral land in lieu of his wife's dower to his daughter, 'M,' which in accordance with the wishes of the donor passed on her death in 1849 to her husband 'S.' In 1851,'S' in return gifted the said property along with what he had inherited from his own father to his daughter 'Z' in lieu of her mother's dower. Z married B and being childless adopted a boy, M, defendant in this case, by a registered deed which was executed in 1887 and soon after settled the property, which had come to her from her father 'S' on her adopted son by a deed of gift, dated 4th May 1888, mutation of which was duly effected in the course of the same year in favor of M, as the adopted son of Z. In 1895 a private partition was made, the parties appearing before the revenue authorities and requesting that the arrangement be recorded and entries made in accordance the reof and allowing defendant in connection with this land to be described as the adopted son of Z. This arrangement was sanctioned on 11th June 1896 with full consent of all persons concerned, and the parties then took possession of their respective shares in pur suance thereof.

On the death of Z, which occurred on 4th May 1899, the plaintiffs instituted the present claim for possession on the allegation that they being the nearest collaterals were the rightful heirs to the property held by him, and that defendant had no title thereto, the deed of gift and his alleged adoption being both fictitious and invalid by law and custom. The defence inter alia pleaded estoppel by conduct and acquiescence.

Held, that the plaintiffs were precluded from making the present claim, the facts noted above shewing acquiescence in the adoption and alienations.

Found, upon the evidence that in matters of alienation and succession the parties were governed by Muhammadan Law and not by custom, and therefore a male proprietor was competent to make an absolute gift of his ancestral immovable property in favour of his daughter. MUHAMMAD NIAZ-UD-DIN KHAN v. MUHAMMAD UMAR KHAN. 1 P R 1907

18. Alienation by sonless proprietor—Locus standi of reversioner—Bedi Khatris of Kalewal, tahsil Dasuha, Hoshiarpur District—Hindu Law—Burden of proof.

Held, that the plaintiff upon whom the onus lay had failed to establish that in matters of alienation a sonless Bedi Khatri of Kalewal, tahsil Dasuha, in the Hoshiarpur District, was governed by custom and not by Hindu Law. NIHAL CHAND v. BHAGWAN SINGH. 33 P R 1907

19. Alienation of ancestral property—Aroras of tahsil Chakwal, Jhelum District—Hindu Law or Custom—Burden of proof.

Held, that in matters of alienation of ancestral property the Aroras of tahsil Chakwal in the Jhelum District are not governed by custom but by Hindu Law, and that a sale of ancestral land by a sonless proprietor in favour of his sister's son cannot be questioned by his collaterals on the ground that it was made without necessity or consideration.

Members of non-agricultural tribes are not to be held bound by customs prevailing among agricultural tribes simply because they happen to own land and to be living with members of agricultural tribes, and the burden of proof therefore, that in matters such as alienation or succession they are governed by custom, rests always on the party making such an allegation. GOHRA v. HARI RAM. 1 5 P R 1907

20. Custom—Alienation—Sale of ancestral urban immovable property—Non-agricultural Rajputs—Burden of proof—Presumption—Necessity.

Held, that in matters of alienation the descendants of a Rajput who had acquired urban immovable property, as a means of investment, out of his earnings in Government service, should not be presumed, merely because they were Rajputs, to be governed by the general rules of the customary law, and the burden of proof as to the existence of a special custom, whereby the descendants were incompetent to alienate without necessity rests on the person who asserts its existence.

Presumption in favour of a restricted power of alienation of ancestral immovable property, as laid down in Gujar v. Sham Das, applies only to members of agricultural tribes who are members of village communities and whose main occupation is agriculture, but not to those who have altogether drifted away from agriculture as their main occupation, and have settled for good to urban life and have adopted trade, industry or service as their principal occupation and means and source of livelihood.

Held, also, that a sale of ancestral immovable property by a limited owner to pay debts actually due is binding unless the objector establishes that the debts had been contracted for immoral purposes and in reckless extravagance. MUHAMMAD HAYAT KHAN v. SANDHE KHAN. 55 P R 1908

21. Alienation of ancestral property—Right of son to contest alienaton made by his own father—Hindu Law—Brahmans of Gopalpur in the Amritsar District.

Held, that in matters of alienation the Brahmans of mauza Gopalpur, in the Amritsar District, were governed by Hindu Law and not by agricultural custom and that a son was therefore not competent to contest an alienation of ancestral property made by his own father on the ground that it was made without necessity or consideration. LACHMAN DAS v. PAHLA MAL. 59 P R 1908

22. *Ancentral land—*Julahas of Pajawa, tahsil Fazilka, Ferozepore District—Burden of proof.

Held, that the plaintiff, upon whom the onus lay, had failed to establish that Julahas of Pajawa in the Fazilka tahsil are governed by the Customary Law prevailing amongst agricultural tribes which restricts the power of alienating ancestral agricultural land.

In such cases the Courts must consider the history of the tribes, the history of the village, actual practice in regard to such alienations, and the general circumstances of the case. HABIB v. FATTU. 69 P R 1908

23. Alienation of ancestral property by sonless proprietor in favour of daughter's son in presence of brother's son—Brahmins of Rawalpindi tahsil*—Hindu Law.*

Found, that in matters of succession to, and alienation of, ancestral immovable property the Brahmins of village Adiala in the Rawalpindi tahsil were governed by Hindu Law and not by custom. HIRA NAND v. HARI CHAND. 125 P R 1908

24. Alienation by a widow—Hindu Law or Custom—Brahmans of mauza Sambaka, Ambala District—Declaratory suit—Right of remote reversioner to maintain in presence of the widow's daughter.

Held, that the plaintiffs, upon whom the onus lay, had failed to establish that in matters of alienations Brahmans of mauza Sambaka in the Ambala District were governed by custom and not by Hindu Law.

Held also, that in case of an alienation by a widow a distant reversioner is competent to maintain a declaratory suit in presence of the widow's daughter where the latter has no male issue. KAPURIA v. MANGAL. 149 P R 1908

25. Sale by male proprietor—Kashmiris of mauza Panjorian, Gujrat District—Burden of proof.

Held, that the plaintiff, upon whom the onus lay, had failed to establish that in matters of alienation the Kashmiris of mauza Panjorian in the Gujrat District were governed by custom and not by Muhammadan Law. KHUDA BAKHSH v. IMAM DIN. 17 P R 1909

26. Hindu Law—Saihgal Khatris of Jullundur city.

Held, that Saihgal Khatris, though owning some land in Jullundur city, are not governed by agricultural customs in matters of alienation but by Hindu Law.

Also, that the initial presumption in regard to Khatris is, that they follow Hindu Law and not agricultural customs. PRABH DIAL v. BAKSHI RAM. 58 P R 1909

See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION, A 7. 12 P R 1906

27. Hindu Law—Alienation by childless proprietor—Sodhi Khatris of mauza Hardo Jhanda, tahsil *Batala, district Gurdaspur—*Onus probandi.

Held, that among Sodhi Khatris of mauza Hardo Jhanda, tahsil Batala, District Gurdaspur, the onus of proving that they follow agricultural custom in regard to alienations is on the person alleging it. SARDAR SINGH v. MAHARAJ DAS. 79 P R 1909

28. Succession—Alienation of gifted land—Brahmans of mauza Charori Dakhli Majara, tahsil Nurpur, Kangra District—Hindu Law not applicable.

Held, that Brahmans of mauza Charori Dakhli Majara, tahsil Nurpur, Kangra District, are governed by custom in matters of succession and alienation and not by Hindu Law, and that by custom land gifted by one of them reverts to the donor's family on the death of the donee or of his male issue, in default of lineal descendants.

Held also, that by custom the donee or his descendant has no right to make a gift of such land to a stranger. DALO v. MOHLU. 87 P R 1909

29. *Alienation by father—Ancestral and self-acquired property—*Onus of proof—Suit to set aside alienation as being made without legal necessity—conjecture and positive proof.

In a suit to set aside a deed of sale of immovable property executed by the plaintiff's father, who had succeeded to it as the next reversionary heir on the death of the widow of the last male-owner, the plaintiff alleged that the land sold was ancestral property, and that the alienation had been made without legal necessity and was therefore void.

The evidence showed that the last male-owner had acquired some lands in the district by purchase and others on abandonment by collateral relatives, but there was no evidence defining the boundaries of these portions respectively, that being merely a matter of conjecture.

Held, that the onus of proving that the property alienated was not self-acquired in the hands of the last male-owner, was on the plaintiff, who could not under the circumstances derive any assistance from conjectures however reasonable, in place of positive proof.—ATAR SINGH v. THAKAR SINGH. 42 P R 1910 P C

30. Custom—Alienation—Alienation of ancestral property—Brahmans of Ajnala, District Amritsar.

Held, that the parties to the suit, Brahmans of Ajnala, District Amritsar, whose family for the most part lives, and has lived in past generations by agriculture and has given up priestly functions, follow agricultural custom and not Hindu law, and can therefore contest a transaction which was in effect an unauthorized and unlawful alienation of ancestral property. BISHEN DAS v. RAM DHAN. 63 P R 1910

31. Custom—Alienation—Bunjahi Khatris of mauza Nara, tahsil Khuta, District Rawalpindi, do not follow agricultural custom in matters of alienation.

Held, that the Bunjahi Khatris of mauza Nara, tahsil Kahuta, district Rawalpindi, (dhobi by occupation), do not follow agricultural custom in matters of alienation. DHERA SINGH v. TARA SINGH. 88 P R 1910

32. Custom—Alienation—Khokhars of Gujrat.

Held, that in matters relating to alienation Khokhars of the town of Gujrat (who are not dependent upon agriculture as a means of livelihood) do not follow custom but Muhammadan Law. BAIJ NATH v. GULAB DIN. 90 P R 1910

II.—ALLUVION AND DILUVION.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURT. 10 P R 1875

1. Custom—Regulation XI of 1825.

Where two adjoining estates are divided by a river, questions as to proprietorship arising from accretion or dereliction by the action of the stream will be decided primarily by the well established usage of these two villages; but if the usage be doubtful then according to the rule laid down by Regulation XI of 1825.

901

CUSTOM II.—ALLUVION AND DILUVION—contd.

Shera v. Sahiba (No. 53 of 1867, Civil Changr v. Bahadur Singh (No. 47 of 1868, Civil), Haq Nawaz Khan v. Khanun (No. 72 of 1869, Civil), Rama v. Shere Singh. 15 P R 1872

2. Plaintiff's village was on the west side of an old bed of the river Indus, and this old bed was made the eastern boundary of the plaintiff's village long after the river had changed its course, in proceedings taken in 1859. Defendant had for many years cultivated the land situated between this old bed and the main stream. Plaintiff in this suit claimed this land on the ground that it had accreted to his village by change of the course of the river. Held, that under the circumstances the question was not one of alluvion and diluvion, but one of boundaries only. MULLICK SOHARA v. GHOLAM MAHOMED. 23 P R 1869

3. Custom—Kishtibunna—Alteration of custom by contract.

The parties to the suit were proprietors respectively of Mauza Soomrao and Mauza Thalee, between which the Beas flowed. From annexation up to the commencement of 1867 claims to alluvial land between villages on opposite banks of the Beas were uniformly decided by the Courts of both districts according to the Kishtibunna or deep stream rule, i.e., the transfer both of proprietary right and of cultivating possession followed the transfer of the land from one bank of the deep stream to the other, and this change of property and cultivation took place even when the land was transferred bodily to the opposite bank by a sudden change in the course of the river which did not carry away the surface of the ground or destroy its identity. On the 5th February 1867, a meeting was convened by the Deputy Commissioner at Noushera Ghat of the zaildars of other villages similarly situated, but none of the lambardars or proprietors of either Soomrao or Thalee were present at this meeting. From the answers of the zaildars thus assembled to questions put in reference to the Kishtibunna rule, it appeared that the rule had existed from time immemorial. The zaildars agreed that the rule was bad and should be abrogated; and they put their seals and signatures to a document agreeing to lay down boundaries for themselves which they would abide by in future irrespective of changes in the course of the river.

Held, that the custom of Kishtibunna was established, and that it governed this case; and that the agreement of the 5th February 1867 was not in any away binding upon the parties to the suit.

Held, also, that the custom of Kishtibunna could be altered by contract between the parties interested, i. e., the proprietors of two coterminous villages on opposite banks. SODHA v. FUTTEH KHAN. 56 P R 1869

4. Identification of land—Regulation XI of 1825.

902

CUSTOM II.—ALLUVION AND DILUVION—contd.

If there be no custom to the contrary land carried away to the opposite bank of the river may be followed by its owners provided it be identifiable. Rama v. Shere Singh (15 of 1872, Civil) and Yoosaf v. Sardar Dewa Singh. (12 af 1870, Civil).

The reforming of land which has been removed by sudden avulsion in a river to which Regulation XI of 1825 applies does not render the land reclaimable unless its identity is proved; and it is not to be presumed that land lost to an owner by the erosion of the river bank is recovered when an equal quantity of land is left dry by the river taking another course. Independently of custom a title to such reformed land is not necessarily established by mere proof of general inclusive boundaries at a time long preceding the reforming of the land but if a custom is proved it is to be followed Haq Nawaz Khan v. Khanun (No. 72 of 1869, Civil). In Changar v. Bahadur Singh (47 of 1868, Civil) the Chief Court held that land could not be identified by the laying down of survey boundaries; the mode of identification was indicated in clause 2, section 4 of the Regulation.

Plaintiffs, zamindars of Mauza B. on the Sialkote side of the Chenab sued the defendants, zemindars of Mauza M. on the Gujrat side of the river, for alluvial land situated on the Sialkote side. The parties admitted that the case was governed by section 4 of Regulation XI of 1825 The land had been carried across from Mauza M. but not bodily and its identity was destroyed. The defendant as well as the plaintiffs were entitled to take by accretion any land which was thrown up between their land and the main stream. Another piece of land besides that in dispute had come bodily across from M. to B. of which the defendants still kept possession. The land in dispute did not lie between this piece of land and the river.

Held, that plaintiffs were entitled to the land sued for. NOORDEEN v. FUTTEH ALI. 65 P R 1869

5. River boundaries between British and Independent Territory.

With regard to river boundaries between British and independent territory, in the case of alluvion, the main stream forms the boundary irrespective of other circumstances; but in cases of avulsion the boundary question should in each case be determined on its own merits. YOOSUF v. SARDAR DEWA SINGH. 12 P R 1870

6. Submersion.

Village Kaluwal was entirely submerged about nine years before suit, and the river (Sutlej) flowed along the boundary of village Ajayab Singhwala, cutting away a portion of that village. Three years before suit, land began to re-appear as the river receded from village Ajayab Singhwala. To this land plaintiff laid claim, alleging that it formed a part of village Kaluwal The Lower Courts found that the land was identified as having belonged to village Kaluwal, and that by custom plaintiff (proprietor of the village) was entiled to it.

903

CUSTOM II.—ALLUVION AND DILUVION—contd.

The Chief Court (LINDSAY and MELVILL, JJ.) remanded the case, not being satisfied with the evidence as to the custom, and holding that by law the land belonged to village Ajayab Singhwala, and that, if it belonged by custom to village Kaluwal, still village Ajayab Singhwala was entitled to a portion of the land equivalent to that which it had lost.

Found, after remand (by BOULNOIS and LINDSAY, JJ.), that by custom as well as law plaintiff had no right to the land. SHERE SINGH v. KALU. 7 P R 1873

7. Hereditary cultivator.

Where land which has been submerged reforms and forms by accretion part of a particular estate, the owner of that estate is entitled to it. This rule refers to accretions to the land cultivated by a tenant with right of occupancy and gives the tenant the right to take possession of and cultivate the land so re-forming. Such tenant has distinct rights of property qualified though they be, in the land of which he is tenant. The fact that land remained submerged or unclaimed for several years, held, not to affect the tenant's right; for, though cultivating rights are lost by abandonment or voluntarily ceasing to occupy, ordinarily the only legal bar is the twelve years limitation. SAHIB RAI v. KHAIR SHAH. 19 P R 1876

8. Hereditary cultivator.

About ten years before the suit the land of the plaintiffs (hereditary cultivators) was carried away by the river with the exception of a small piece of banjar which the plaintiffs gave up. Two years later the land appeared in the same place where the plaintiffs' land had been submerged and accreted to the piece of banjar. The defendants took possession of and cultivated the newly formed land and held possession for eight years, when plaintiffs sued. Held, that the plaintiffs were estopped from claim—this land as having relinquished it. Sahib Rai v. Khair Shah, (No. 19 of 1876, Civil), observed upon. BAKHTAWAR v SULTAN AHMAD. 83 P R 1876

9. Hereditary tenants—Abandonment—Estoppel.

Where the land has been submerged and forms by accretion part of a particular estate, hereditary tenants have the right to take possession of the land. Delay in taking possession or in asserting occupancy rights may operate as an equitable estoppel and bar the claim without regard to the law of limitation. RUTTU v. MAL SINGH. 122 P R 1876

10. Alluvial lands—Abandonment—Estoppel.

The plaintiff, an hereditary tenant, between the years 1863 and 1866, lost part of his land by the action of the river Jhelum.

CUSTOM II.—ALLUVION AND DILUVION—contd.

The land was submerged for a considerable period and, the river having receded, re-appeared in situ in 1868 and 1869. When the land re-appeared the defendants, the proprietors, took possession and made arrangements for its cultivation.

The land which was carried away became banjar of the village, and the revenue on it was paid by plaintiff. The revenue on the land submerged was paid by defendants.

The land in dispute was, at the time of its submersion, not land bounded by a shifting river bank, but land bounded by fixed lines and susceptible of being at any moment ascertained. It was not claimed immediately on its re-appearance because tenants did not know, until recently, that they retained any rights in land after it was once submerged; such non-claim was not shown to have induced the proprietor to alter his position for the worse, the fact being that both parties were under a mistaken impression as to their respective rights.

In a suit instituted by the plaintiff, a tenant to recover the occupancy of his land recovered from the river, held (by BOULNOIS, LINDSAY and FITZPATRICK, JJ.), no custom to the contrary being proved, that the tenant did not lose his occupancy rights by reason of the land being submerged.

Held, further, that the tenant had not voluntarily abandoned his land on its re-appearance.

Held, further, that under the above circumstances, the tenant was not estopped from asserting his rights merely by reason of his having stood by and allowed the proprietor to act as if those rights had been abandoned. SULTAN KHAN v. SYAD MAHOMED SHAH. 59 P R 1877

11. Occupancy rights in alluvial lands—Jhelum river.

Found that by the custom of Mauza Kachwala, tahsil and Zillah Shahpur, tenants with right of occupancy lose their rights in lands carried away by the action of the river, and that such rights cannot be claimed on the lands being again thrown up by the action of the river. MIAN MAHOMED SHARAF v. KHODA BAKSH. 89 P R 1877

12. Sutlej river Lahore and Ferozpur districts—Mauzas Machiwara and Gholam Hoseinwala—Kishtibunna Custom.

Certain land belonging to mauza Gholam Hoseinwala, on the Ferozpur side of the Sutlej river, was thrown up in a recognizable form before Mauza Machiwara on the Lahore side of the deep stream, which the proprietors claimed to retain. Found, that the Kishtibunna custom, or deep stream rule, did not prevail at the part of the Sutlej where the land in dispute was affected by the action of the river, and held therefore that the original proprietors of Gholam Hoseinwala were entitled to recover the land. BHANA v. BALANDA. 48 P R 1879

13. Lands gained by alluvion—Hereditary cultivators, right of, to share in—Practice—

CUSTOM II.—ALLUVION AND DILUVION—contd.

Absence of provision in wajib-ul-arz as to rights in alluvial land.

Plaintiffs, hereditary cultivators, held 16½ ploughs, and defendants, proprietors, 18 ploughs of the village of Jodhwal, the revenue of the village being assessed on plough. On several previous occasions plaintiffs obtained a share of the land added to the area of the village by alluvion, the revenue payable by them being proportionately increased, but there was no provision in the wajib-ul-arz or settlement papers as to the distribution of alluvial lands.

The proprietors having now refused to divide the land added by alluvion, according to former practice, plaintiffs sued for a share, alleging that they were entitled to it by the custom of the village and surrounding locality. Held, that the practice hitherto followed was insufficient, in the absence of express provision in the wajib-ul-arz, to raise a presumption of right in plaintiffs, hereditary cultivators, to share in the land added by alluvion, and that the proprietors were competent to object to division, discontinuing at the same time the rule to charge plaintiffs with additional revenue. THARRA v. KASHI RAM. 52 P R 1879

14. Mafidar, Agreement at Settlement to pay batai to—Submersion of mafi land—Effect of, in respect to right of mafidar.

Plaintiff claimed from defendants value of half produce of certain lands cultivated by the latter. Plaintiff at Settlement was recorded mafidar of 37 ghumaos 6 kanals 10 marlas of land (of which defendants were recorded proprietors, and which was cultivated in part by tenants with occupancy rights, and in part by tenants-at-will) with the right to take batai, and levied revenue accordingly, until 1869 when the land was submerged.

In 1873 a considerable portion of it re-appeared and was taken possession of by the proprietors, and had since been cultivated in part and in part used by them as grazing lands, the revenue being fixed at Rs. 10-12-0 which the defendants did not dispute their liability to pay in cash.

Held, by PLOWDEN and SMYTH, JJ. (ELSMIE, J., dissenting) that the mutual rights and obligations of the parties survived in their integrity notwithstanding the occurrences above described, and, therefore, that plaintiff was entitled to recover the value of the half produce as claimed, until the completion of a new settlement. KARIM BAKSH v. ALLA JCWAYA KHAN. 61 P R 1879

15. Custom—Mauza Khairpur, tahsil Khushab, District Shahpur—Rights of hereditary cultivators in submerged lands.

Found that there is no established uniform and general custom in the Shahpur district among the village affected by river action, by which the right of occupancy of an hereditary cultivator in his holding is destroyed upon its submersion.

Where plaintiffs, who were hereditary cultivators of mauza Khairpur, tahsil

CUSTOM II.—ALLUVION AND DILUVION—contd.

Khushab in the Shahpur district, sued to recover from the proprietors certain lands which had been submerged by river action and had subsequently re-appeared, held (reversing the orders of the Lower Courts), that notwithstanding an entry in the wajib-ul-arz in favour of the proprietors, no established custom was shown to exist in the village in question by which the plaintiffs had lost their hereditary rights of cultivation in the lands in suit and that, therefore, there was no obstacle to the operation of the general rule laid down by the Full Bench judgment in Civil Ruling No. 59, Punjab Record for 1877, and that the plaintiffs were entitled to recover their lands. LAL SHAH v. KARIM BAKHSH. 96 P R 1879

16. Rights of occupancy tenant in submerged land on re-appearance—Custom— Mauza Chak Ramdas, tahsil Bhera, Zillah Shahpur—Condition in wajib-ul-arz.

Plaintiff, a tenant with rights of occupancy, sued to recover certain land situated in mauza Chak Ramdas, tahsil Bhera in the Shahpur district, which had been submerged by river action and had subsequently re-appeared. It was found that no custom prevailed in the village in question which was opposed to plaintiff's claim but there was a provision in the wajib-ul-arz that in cases of submersions of tenant's holdings the tenent should receive an equivalent out of the banjar shamilat and should pay revenue to the maliks according to the khewat of the submerged holding. Previous to this suit the present plaintiff sued the present defendant for an equivalent of his share in the submerged holding to be made good out of the shamilat land, but his suit was dismissed on the ground that there was no banjar shamilat to give him and that he had not paid the revenue of the submerged holding. Subsequently the present suit was brought to recover the holding itself which had re-appeared in whole or in part from the river.

Held, following the decision in Punjab Record, Civil Ruling No. 59 of 1877, that there being no custom to the contrary, the plaintiff's title to the right of occupancy claimed was not extinguished, but still attached to the land now that it had re-appeared, that the provision in the wajib-ul-arz was not inconsistent with the right claimed, though if the defendant had given the plaintiff an equivalent for the land submerged, the plaintiff's right in that land would have been transferred to the defendant; that the non-payment of revenue of the land during the period of its submersion was not fatal, as the plaintiff was not bound to pay that except in case of being supplied with land in its place, and that the plaintiff was therefore entitled to recover the land in suit conditionally upon payment of the revenue paid upon it by the proprietor, the defendant, since the date of its re-appearance. MORID v. MUSSAMMAT RAM DEVI. 127 P R 1879

907

CUSTOM II.—ALLUVION AND DILUVION—contd.

17. Malik Kabza—Right to submerged lands on re-appearance—Custom—Mauza Shergarh, Shahpur district.

Found that there is no established custom in Mauza Shergarh, tahsil Khushab, in the Shahpur district, whereby a malik kabza loses his right in lands which have been submerged by river action.

Held, therefore, applying the general principles laid down in Sultan Khan v. Syad Muhammad Shah, No. 59 of 1877, Civil, that a malik kabza, whose land has been submerged and has afterwards emerged, is entitled to recover, on its re-appearance, whatever proprietary interest he had in the land before its submersion. CHIRAGH v. TUREL KHAN.

1 P R 1880

18. Custom—Mauza Sadda Kambo, Shahpur—Occupancy tenant's right to land carried away by diluvion on its re-appearance—General rule—Special custom—Tenant preserving his right by payment of revenue during period of submersion.

The plaintiffs, residents of the village of Sadda Kambo in the Shahpur tahsil of the Shahpur district, sued to enforce their occupancy rights in certain lands which had been carried away by diluvion and which, on their re-appearance, had been taken possession of by the defendants, the proprietors. The defendants pleaded that according to the custom as stated in the Wajib-ul-arz of the village the tenants lost all their rights on the submersion of lands held by them on a right of occupancy and the lower Courts finding the custom proved dismissed the plaintiffs' claim.

Held, that the general rule to be applied in dealing with cases of the above description is that, no custom to the contrary being proved, an occupancy tenant does not lose his occupancy rights by reason of the land being submerged; that though there did exist in the plaintiffs' village a custom by which occupancy tenants became liable, under certain circumstances, to lose their rights on the submersion of their lands, still under that custom the tenants could preserve their rights intact, notwithstanding the submersion of their land by paying the revenue assessed thereon during the period of submersion, though if they failed to do so during such period their right of occup ncy ceased to exist; and that on the facts of the present case the plaintiffs were entitled to succeed. RAJA v. SARFARAZ.

152 P R 1883

19. Custom prevailing in the village on the Soan river in the Una tahsil of the Hoshiarpur district—Kishtihunna or deep stream rule.

Plaintiffs, who represented the proprietors of Punjawar, a village on the right bank of the Soan river in the Una tahsil of the Hoshiarpur district, sued to obtain from the proprietors of Bhera, a village on the left bank of the same river, certain land which had been transferred by avulsion from the Bhera to the Panjawar side. Defendants pleaded inter alia that though the rule that the deep stream should be the boundary was prevalent on the Soan, the rule was only applicable as regards land which had been transferred from one bank to another by gradual accretion and that it was not applicable when the land had been transferred by avulsion.

908

CUSTOM II.—ALLUVION AND DILUVION—contd.

Held, that the general custom in the tract in question was proved to be in accordance with a strict observance of the deep stream rule, whether or not the land had come over by avulsion and was identifiable. MAHAR SINGH v. ACHRA. 164 P R 1883

20. Naubaramad (new alluvial) land—Manner in which such land should be recorded in the Patwari's annual paper—Entries in Settlement Record—Jurisdiction of revenue Courts to entertain suit of correction of Patwari's paper.

The appellants applied to the Deputy Commissioner for correction of the patwari's papers in respect of certain new alluvial land alleged to be held by them under an entry in the Settlement Record as owners, but which the patwari had entered as shamilat. The Deputy Commissioner decided that the ownership of the land in question should be recorded as laid down in the Settlement Record. The Commissioner, on appeal, reversed the Deputy Commissioner's orders, and, in effect, directed that the patwari's papers should stand as drawn up, the patwari had made entries which could not be reconciled with the Settlement Record, and the Commissioner informed the parties who were dissatisfied with the patwari's entries that their only remedy was by suit in the Civil Courts.

Held, by the 2nd Financial Commissoner that the patwari was bound to draw up his annual papers and all other revenue papers in general conformity with the entries in the Settlement Record, and in cases of doubt or error the owners of land were entitled to apply to the Deputy Commissioner for an order directing the patwari to do so. The patwari and all Revenue Officers are bound to presume that the entries in the Settlement Record are correct and, further it is rarely right for a Revenue Officer to refer parties to a suit as, if the subject-matter of the application is not within the jurisdiction of the Revenue authorities, it is sufficient for the Revenue Officer to say so. But the case urged by the appellants was one in respect of which the Revenue authorities only could give them relief. NAURANGE v. NABI BAKHSH. 7 P R 1886 Rev

21. Rule of "mahaz."

The meaning of the term "mahaz" as used in a rule laid down in the Settlement Record that in cases of alluvion each of two or more adjoining villages is entitled to the land in front of (mahaz) such village discussed. Haidar Shah v. Shujawal (No. 67 of 1887, Civil) referred to. FAZAL v. GHULAM ALI SHAH. 45 P R 1888

22. Limitation Act, 1877, section 13, and 2nd schedule, articles 142, 144—Alluvion and diluvion—Custom of Bias river—Land taken over by avulsion—Dispossession or discontinuace of possession—Exclusion of time of defendants' absence from British India.

909

CUSTOM II.—ALLUVION AND DILUVION—contd.

Plaintiffs, the proprietors of a village on the Amritsar side of the Bias, claimed certain land lying between their village and the present deep stream, alleging that the said land originally formed part of their village, but was transferred in Sambat 1923 to the Kapurthala side of the river, returning to the Amritsar side in Sambat 1927-28, but remained part of Kapurthala territory till Sambat 1937 or 1938. The transfer on each occasion was found to be by a sudden change in the course of the river or what is generally called "avulsion," and it was found by the Lower Courts (and the finding was accepted as correct by the Chief Court) that by the custom of the Bias, when land is transferred from one side of the river to another by a sudden change, there is no disturbance of proprietary right; but the lower Courts considered that plaintiffs had lost their rights, because they had not been in possession of the land, or any part of it, within twelve years before suit.

On the question of limitation, held that the case was governed by article 142 of the 2nd schedule of the Limitation Act, as plaintiffs were certainly dispossessed or discontinued possession in Sambat 1923 when the land went over to Kapurthala.

But held further that in reckoning limitation plaintiffs were entitled to deduct the period from Sambat 1923 to Sambat 1937-38, during which the land remained part of the Kapurthala territory under section 13 of the Limitation Act, as the defendants were certainly absent from British India during that period, and the fact that the subject-matter of the suit was also so absent was rather an additional than a less reason for holding that the section applied. GULAB KHAN v. PEERA. 34 P. R 1889

23. Ala and adna maliks—Land submerged—Re-appearance—Right of possession—Wajib-ul-arz.

The parties to the case were ala and adna maliks of mauza Thoa in the Dera Ismail Khan district. As regards the preservation or loss of rights of adna maliks in cases of alluvion and diluvion, the Wajib-ul-arz provided that the land attached to wells will on restoration belong to the former owner (adna malik); that in case of lands not attached to wells, if a portion of a field or plot be carried away and be again thrown up opposite the remaining land, the former adna maliks will take so much of it as is required to make up his old holding; but if the whole field or land be carried away, it will belong on restoration to the ala maliks as shamilat, and the ala maliks will have full power to give it to adna maliks or not, and for its cultivation those powers and rules will come into force which are laid down for the shamilat. It also contained the following clause. Lakin jis malik adna ki zamin amum burd hogi banisbat digar malikan adna uska pahle hak hai ki banjar shamilat se ya zamin baramad shuda se bakdar rakba burd shuda ke usko mile aur aisi zamin ki liye malik adna ko jadid jhuri ko ek rupaya fi acre se ziyada na howe, deni hogi aur khilaf dastur ala malikan ko aisi zamin ke liya jhuri lene se inkar karne ka ikhtiyar na hoga.

CUSTOM II.—ALLUVION AND DILUVION—contd.

Held, that the proper interpretation of this clause was that if the ala maliks did not require the lands themselves and it became a question of letting them out then the first persons entitled to admission were the adna maliks who had lost a good deal of land (amum). Both those who had lost all their land and those who had lost a considerable part (and who might not wish to wait for a chance of a restoration—mahaz) would come under this head and might claim to be accepted in preference to other adna maliks or outsiders on payment of the fair customary rent which the ala maliks might not refuse to accept on a plea that they could get a higher rent by competition. MUBARAK SHAH v. ABDULLA. 125 P R 1889

24. Alluvion and diluvion—Title to land acquired by accretion—Land subsequently retransferred by avulsion—Identification of site.

Owing to changes in the course of the river Chenab, which was identified as having originally belonged to plaintiffs, after being submerged, gradually re-appeared on the Muzaffargarh side as the river receded, but was subsequently bodily transferred to the Multan side by a sudden change in the course of the river. While the land was on the Muzaffargarh side the defendants brought a few detached plots under cultivation and were still cultivating them at the time of the suit. The burden of suing for possession of the said land was in consequence upon plaintiffs. The latter instituted a suit and obtained a decree in the first Court, which was, however, reversed on appeal by the Divisional Judge.

Held, in accordance with the principle laid down in Lopez' case (5 B. L. R. 521), that in as much as the site of the land in question had been duly identified as the plaintiffs' the latter were entitled to succeed and that the mere facts that they did not follow the land when it went to the Muzaffargarh side and that the defendants had brought a few scattered plots thereof under cultivation did not affect plaintiffs' right as owners of the site.

I. L. R. XIX Allahabad, 238 not followed. CHUNDAR BHAN v. AHMAD YAR KHAN. 36 P R 1893

25. Custom—Alluvion and diluvion—"Deep stream rule"—Mauza Mianwal, tahsil Phillour and mauza Bholewal, tahsil Ludhiana—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that by custom obtaining in the villages of Mianwal, tahsil Phillour, and of Bholewal, tahsil Ludhiana, if any area, though capable of identification, lying on one side of the river (the Sutlej) is in consequence of a change in the course of the river, washed up and thrown on the other side, the proprietors of the village to which it has been so annexed come into proprietary possession thereof. The weight to be given to the Riwaj-i-am discussed. HASHIM v. NATHU. 13 P R 1900

CUSTOM II.—ALLUVION AND DILUVION—contd.

26. Occupancy rights—Alluvion and diluvion—Rights of occupancy tenants in submerged land on re-appearance—Custom.

See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS. 8 P R 1901

27. Regulation XI of 1825, section 4—Alluvion—Title to land acquired by accretion—Identification of site.

Where upon the facts it was found that a certain area, which was some 30 years ago submerged in the river, and which had recently emerged owing to the recession of the river, and which had mainly, if not entirely, re-appeared in one year and was identifiable in situ as the tract of land which belonged to the plaintiff.

Held, that the re-appearance not being a gradual accession within the meaning of the 1st clause of section 4 of Regulation XI of 1825, and the land being identifiable in situ the plaintiffs who owned it prior to its submersion were entitled to its possession under the fith clause of that section on the general principles of equity and justice.

Lopez v. Maddan Mohan Thakoor (5 B. L. R. 521) and Chunder Bhan v. Ahmad Yar Khan (36 P. R. 1898) followed. Debi Bakhsh Singh v. Tribhawan Singh (I. L. R. XIX All. 238), explained. HASHMAT AND OTHERS v. DULLA AND OTHERS. 66 P R 1901

28. Alluvion and diluvion—Rights of adna maliks in submerged land—Custom—Mauza Muradpur, tahsil Alipur, Muzaffargarh district—Wajib-ul-arz—Haq Juri.

The plaintiffs who were adna maliks in mauza Muradpur, tahsil Alipur, in the Muzaffargarh district, sued for a declaration of adna malkiyat rights in certain land which had been submerged by river action, which, on its re-appearance in accordance with a provision of the Wajib-ul-arz, had been recorded as the sole property of the defendants. The provision of the Wajib-ul-arz was to the effect: "that in this village there are two kinds of property, ala and adna. If the land belonging to any adna malik is washed away, at the time of its being thrown up it becomes the property of ala malik. The adna maliks retain no right in the land. The adna maliks after paying haq Juri to the ala maliks will be entitled to get possession. Without paying haq Juri they will have no right. If the ala maliks intentionally refuse to take Juri the adna maliks are not entitled to take possession. The arrangement as to Juri is to depend upon the value of the land and the status of the adna malik. But it shall not be less then Re. 1 per bigha or more than Rs. 2 per bigha. The adna maliks shall have the same power whether the whole or a portion of any wells are carried off."

CUSTOM II.—ALLUVION AND DILUVION—contd.

Held, that as the payment of haq Juri or an institution fee for the recovery of land cannot be considered opposed to the principles founded on universal law and justice, it was for the adna maliks to rebut the presumption in favour of the correctness of the entries after record of custom and to prove that they were not bound to pay it.

Held, on the evidence that the plaintiffs have failed to rebut the entry in question or to prove that they were entitled to the land without payment of haq Juri.

Ghulam Mohy-ud-din v. Faiz Bakhsh (97 P. R. 1902) and Mubarik Shah v. Abdulla (125 P. R. 1889), referred to AHMAD SHAH v. KHUDA BAKHSH. 33 P R 1903

29. Alluvion and diluvion—Title to land transferred by gradual accretion—Custom with respect to land bordering the Sutlej river between Jullundur and Ferozepore districts—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that by custom prevailing in respect of land bordering the Sutlej river between the Julundur and Ferozepore districts, the proprietors of a village become entitled to any area of land, whether it is the whole or a portion of a village, which, in consequence of a change in the course of that river, is thrown up by gradual accretion.

Held, that, as in the river Sutlej between the Jullundur and Ferozepore districts, the changes of deep stream are more considerable and sudden than in English and Italian rivers, the rules applicable to gradual accretions of the descriptions contemplated by the English and Roman Law should not be followed.

All disputes relating to such accretions should be decided by giving full effect to the provision of the Riwaj-i-am of the villages concerned.

Ghulam Mohy-ud-din v. Faiz Bakhsh (97 P R. 1902), Hashim v. Nathu (13 P. R. 1900), Chunder Bhan v. Ahmad Yar Khan (36 P. R. 1898), and Lopez v. Maddan Thakur (5 Ben. L. R. 521, P. C.), referred to. BANDU KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT UMRI. 63 P R 1903

30. Alluvion and diluvion—Land—submerged land on re-appearance—Custom—Wajib-ul-arz, Mauza Khanpur, Gujrat.

Held that in case of diluvion, according to the custom prevailing in mauza Khanpur, a proprietor loses all his rights on the submersion of his land, as such land on restoration becomes shamilat deh and not the property of the proprietor to whom it belonged at the time of its submersion. SAHIB DIN v. ILAM DIN. 15 P R 1904

31. Occupancy rights—Rights of occupancy tenant in submerged land on re-appearance—Custom—Mauza Pakhiwan Gurdaspur district.

CUSTOM II.—ALLUVION AND DILUVION—concld.

Found, that by custom of the village Pakhiwan in the Gurdaspur district an occupancy tenant does not lose his rights by reason of the land of his holding being submerged and is entitled to claim his rights on the land being again thrown up by the action of the river. DEWA SINGH v. BISHAMBAR DAS. 80 P R 1905

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR.

A.—ADOPTION OF COLLATERAL.

B.—APPOINTMENT OF DAUGHTER AS HEIR.

C.—ADOPTION OF DAUGHTER'S SON OR GRANDSON.

D.—ADOPTION OF SISTER'S SON OR GRANDSON.

E.—ADOPTION OF OTHER STRANGERS.

F.—GENERAL PROHIBITION.

G.—ADOPTION BY WIDOW.

H.—OBSERVANCE OF FORMALITIES WHAT CONSTITUTES ADOPTION.

I.—Locus Standi OF REVERSIONERS AND OTHERS TO CONTEST ADOPTION.

J.—ASSENT OF SOME ONLY OF REVERSIONERS.

K.—REPUDIATION OF ADOPTION.

L.—GIFTS TO ADOPTED SONS.

M.—SUCCESSION OF ADOPTED SON.

N.—LIMITATION.

O.—RULE OF DECISION.

P.—ADOPTION OF SONS AND STEP-SON.

Q.—ADOPTION AMONG FAQIRS.

A.—ADOPTION OF COLLATERAL.

1. Bujwa Rajputs of Sialkot district—Construction of riwaj-i-am—Near relative.

B. S., whose father D. S. had been adopted by a collateral, G., was adopted by S. D., own brother of D. S. The riwaj-i-am of the district ran to the effect that "among Bujwa "Rajputs a proprietor may, having regard "to near relationship, adopt a son from "collaterals descended from the same common ancestor, but may not adopt a person "from another caste, or a daughter's son, or "a sister's son, or a son-in-law."

It was also found after a local enquiry that no custom existed which would render the adoption invalid.

Held, that the proper construction of the riwaj-i-am was not that the nearest relative must be adopted, so as to invalidate the adoption of a relative, otherwise eligible. The rule of factum valet would apply; and as no other custom existed rendering the adoption invalid, it must be upheld. CHANNU v. DEVI SINGH. 47 P R 1878

2. Sainis of Hoshiarpur district—Appointment of son-in-law as heir—Right of son-in-law to inherit collaterally.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

A.—ADOPTION OF COLLATERAL—contd.

Found, that, by the custom of Sainis in the Hoshiarpur district the son-in-law of a proprietor of land appointed by the latter to be his heir, is not entitled to inherit as an heir of the collateral relations of his father-in-law, in the presence of male collateral kinsmen by blood. BADHAWA SINGH v. GANESHA. 97 P R 1879

3. Jats of Dodwar got, Jullundur district—Quasi-adoption—Appointment of heir by childless landowner.

Among Jats of the Dodwar got in the Jullundur district, a near relative, brought up by and appointed to succeed a childless landowner, is by custom entitled to succeed like an adopted son. HIRA v. RODA. 108 P R 1879

4. Appointment of heir—Rajputs of Jullundur.

Found that among Ghorawala Rajputs of the Jullundur district, the appointment by a childless proprietor of one of his relatives as his heir is not invalid by custom. MOULA BAKHSH v. HAME KHAN. 71 P R 1880

5. Pathans of Kaithal—Gift to adopted son.

In a suit between Daudzai Pathans of tahsil Kaithal in the Karnal district, held, that according to the custom followed by the parties, adoption does not in itself confer any rights of inheritance.

But held, further, that according to custom a gift to a brother's son adopted by the donor, is valid when followed by possession, and that a share in an undivided estate may be so given. SIRMAST KHAN v. FAIZAL HASAN KHAN. 99 P R 1880

6. Ghori Pathans, Sialkot—Appointment of heir.

In a suit to cancel a deed of adoption by a childless proprietor appointing his brother's grandson to be his heir, the parties to which were Ghori Pathans of the Sialkot district, it appeared that for some 12 years at least the deceased lived with the defendant and his natural father, and that before his death, and while in full possession of his senses, he formally executed a registered deed of appointment in the defendant's favour.

Held, that the plaintiffs had failed to discharge the onus which lay upon them of proving that the custom generally prevailing among the agricultural classes in the central parts of the Punjab, whereby a childless landowner has power to appoint one of his kinsmen to succeed him as his heir as if he were his own son, did not apply to the tribe to which the parties belonged.

Held, further, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove that the appointment in the above case was by custom invalid owing to the omission of any of the incidents essential to the validity of an appointment among Ghori Pathans. Amir-ud-din v. Pira

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

A.—ADOPTION OF COLLATERAL—contd.

(No. 58 of 1879, Civil), Chatra v. Dera (No. 92 of 1879, Civil), and Sobha Singh v. Hazara (No. 103 of 1880), Civil), referred to SAWAN v. KARAMDIN. 98 P R 1883

7. Sindhu Jats of tahsil Kasur—Gift to nephew—Invalidity of such gift by custom—Appointment of heir.

In a suit by the parties representing two of the brothers of one K. S. for two-thirds of his land, the defendant, the son of a nephew of K. S., claimed to inherit the whole of K. S.'s property by virtue of an adoption of his father by K. S. The parties were Sindhus of M. Rajah Jang, tahsil Kasur, zilla Lahore. The lower Courts found that the adoption of defendant's father by K. S. was not proved, and that though K. S. had executed a deed of gift of his land in favour of his nephew, defendant's father, such gift was by custom invalid, and they therefore decreed the plaintiffs' claim.

Held, that though a formal adoption would not be required to be proved if it were shown that the deceased had brought up defendant's father, and clearly indicated his intention to make him his heir, still in the absence of a finding of appointment as heir, the mere fact of a deed of gift having been executed was not enough to support the claim to succeed to the property, it being found that by custom the gift was inoperative. Lakha v. Wallah (No. 42 of 1875, Civil) and Sultan Buksh v. Raja (No. 126 of 1883, Civil), cited. RATTAN SINGH v. MALA SINGH. 4 P R 1884

8. Gil Jats of Firozpur—Burden of proof.

In a suit the parties to which were Jats of the Gil tribe resident in the Moga tahsil of the Firozpur district, the plaintiff who was a brother's daughter's son of the deceased owner of the land in suit, claimed to succeed as the adopted son of the deceased, in preference to the defendants, the collaterals. It was found that the plaintiff had been brought up by the deceased from infancy, and had been formally adopted before a large number of persons, a deed having been drawn up in an open manner and attested by witnesses.

Held, that under the above circumstances it was for the defendants to prove the invalidity of the adoption, and that they had failed to do so. Sobha Singh v. Hazara (No. 103 of 1880, Civil), and Hazara v. Ishar (No. 72 of 1882, Civil), referred o. RATHA SINGH v. GURDIT SINGH. 27 P R 1884

9. Siddhu Barar Jats of Firozpur—Brother's daughter's son—Burden of proof.

In a suit the parties to which were Jats of the Siddhu Barar tribe of the Moga tahsil of the Firozpur district, the plainttiff, as a collateral of the deceased owner of the land in suit, sought to have the adoption of the defendant, a brother's daughter's son, set aside on the ground that it was opposed to the custom of the tribe. There was no want of publicity in the adoption, the defendant having been brought up by the adoptor, and a deed having been executed and registered in 1875.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

A.—ADOPTION OF COLLATERAL—contd.

Held that, under the circumstances, it was for the plaintiff to establish the invalidity of the adoption. Ratha Singh v. Gurdit Singh (No. 27 of 1884, Civil) cited. ALBEL SINGH v. VIR SINGH. 86 P R 1885

10. Tung Jats of Amritsar—Brother's daughter's only son.

In a suit to cancel an adoption the parties to which were Tung Jats of the Amritsar district, held, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove that an adoption by the defendant of his brother's daughter's only son was invalid by custom. Bhupa v. Uttam Singh (No. 61 of 1880, Civil) cited. HUKAM SINGH v. MANGAL SINGH. 43 P R 1886

11. Bhindar Jats of Gujranwala—Adoption by childless Jat of distant relative.

In a suit, the parties to which were Bhindar Jats of the Gujranwala tahsil, it appeared that one J., a childless Jat, and a very old man, shortly before his death, executed and registered a deed of adoption of the defendant, a very distant relative, who lived in a neighbouring village.

Held, that the defendant had failed to prove that such an adoption was valid by custom. DUNI CHAND v. RAM CHAND. 28 P R 1887

12. Sainis of Rupar tahsil (Amballa)—Adoption by a sonless uncle of a nephew—Suit by other nephews to declare its invalidity.

Found, that by the custom of Sainis of Rupar tahsil (Amballa) the adoption by a childless uncle of a nephew is valid. GOBINDA v. TEKU. 95 P R 1889

13. Restrictions as to relationship of the person to be adopted—Saraha Jats of Ludhiana.

Found, that by the custom of Saraha Jats of Ludhiana there was no restriction as regards the degree of relationship of the person to be adopted, and that the adoption of a remoter collateral in the presence of nephews was valid. PALA v. BUTA. 114 P R 1889

14. Appointment of heir—Dhariwal Jats of the Ferozepore district—Restriction as to age and relationship.

In a case among Dhariwal Jats of the Ferozepore district, where the facts found were that the defendant, who was the son of the step-son of the adoptive parent, and also a remote collateral, had been brought up by the latter, treated as his heir, and a deed of appointment executed in his favour.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

A.—ADOPTION OF COLLATERAL—contd.

Held, that the adoption was valid, and could not be set aside at the instance of the collaterals. DASAUNDA SINGH v. BUDH SINGH. 38 P R 1890

15. Appointment of heir—Restriction as to relationship—Dogar Jats of Delhi district—Validity for adoption.

In a suit, the parties to which were Dogar Jats of the Delhi district found, that by custom a remoter collateral may be adopted in the presence of nearer heirs, who were not sons or grandsons of an own brother. DILSUKH v. RAM SINGH. 39 P R 1890

16. Appointment of heir—Sonless proprietor—Hindu Jats, Tank got, Sonepat tahsil, Delhi district.

M. S., a childless propietor and an old man, wished to appoint M., a collateral related in the fourth degree from the common ancestor, as sole heir to his property, to the exclusion of his other heirs, who were related in the same degree as M.

M. S. executed and registered a deed in which he recited that he had adopted M. and gifted him his land. He further made some sort of declaration before the brotherhood, accompanied probably by some simple ceremonies for the purpose of giving publicity to his already expressed intention to make M. his heir.

M. was about twenty years of age at the time, and up to this period he had not been brought up as a son by M. S., nor had he lived with him, or been married by him, but after the deed was executed M. resided with M. S., who died very shortly afterwards.

The parties were Hindu Jats (Tank) got of the Sonepat tahsil, Delhi district. Found, that the adoption or appointment of M. as heir of M. S. was valid by custom. JERAM v. MANPHUL. 4 P R 1892

17. Custom—Alienation—Arains of tahsil and District Gujrat—Gift to son of first cousin in presence of nephews of donor—Adoption.

Held, that no custom was established by which, amongst Arains of the Gujrat tahsil, a sonless proprietor could make a gift to, or adopt a son of, his first cousin in the presence of brothers' sons.

No. 8 P. R. 1891, referred to. MUSSAMMAT JOWAI v. JIWAN. 79 P R 1893

18. Adoption of broher in-law's son—Hindu Law or Custom—Sikh Khatris of Rawalpindi—Burden of proof—"Agricultural tribe."

One K. S., a Sikh Khatri of the Bindra section, having adopted G. S., his wife's brother's son, plaintiff sued for a declaration that the adoption was invalid by custom and would not affect his reversionary rights. It appeared that the families of plaintiff and K. S. had held land for at least two generations, and that the total ancestral land in the possession of K. S. was about 4 ghumaos 5 kanals. The lower Courts decreed plaintiff's claim on the ground that defendants had failed to prove that the said adoption was valid by custom.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

A.—ADOPTION OF COLLATERAL—contd.

Held, that though the primary rule of decision in a suit of the present character is custom, there is no necessary legal presumption that a particular custom bearing on the point in issue exists, section 5 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, only casting on the Court the duty of enquiring whether there is any such custom binding on the parties, and, if there is, to decide the suit in accordance therewith.

Held, further, that under Hindu Law, which was the personal law of the parties, the adoption in question was perfectly valid.

Held, therefore, that plaintiff who was suing to set aside an adoption, which was valid by the personal law of the parties, on the ground that it was invalid by custom, must fail if the custom upon which he relied was not proved, and that he was accordingly bound by the rules of pleading to establish that custom affirmatively.

Held, further, that inasmuch as Khatris do not ordinarily form an agricultural but a trading community, the usages of agriculturists cannot be presumed to apply to them, and therefore that plaintiff could not claim the benefit of the presumption laid down by the Full Bench in No. 50 P. R. 1893, so as to shift the burden of proof from himself to defendants. Found, upon the evidence, that plaintiff had failed to prove that by custom among the parties the adoption of a wife's brother's son was invalid. KARTAR SINGH v. MATHAR SINGH. 94 P R 1898

19. Custom—Adoption—Dhawan Khatris of Ferozepore—Wife's sister's son—Ceremonies.

Found, that adoption of wife's sister's son among Dhawan Khatris of Ferozepore was not opposed to custom or Hindu Law, and that in the absence of proof as to the necessity of ceremonies in constituting such an adoption valid, and unequivocal declaration of intention coupled with previous and subsequent treatment would be sufficient for the purpose.

Ganda Mal v. Mussammat Radhi (57 P. R. 1886) referred to. GIRDHARI LAL v. DALA MAL. 3 P R 1901

20. Custom—Adoption—Adoption of a brother's daughter's son—Brahmans of mauza Chiragh in the suburbs of Delhi—Burden of proof.

Held, in a suit the parties to which were Brahmans of mauza Chiragh in the suburbs of Delhi, a non-agricultural class, though in the present case holding land in the village, that the plaintiff had failed to discharge the burden which under the circumstances lay upon him of proving that the adoption of a brother's daughter's son was invalid by custom.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

A.—ADOPTION OF COLLATERAL—concld.

Held, also, following Sohnun v. Ram Dial (79 P. R. 1901), that in cases where the right of adoption is admitted or is found to prevail, the onus lies upon those w o allege that a particular kind of adoption, e.g., that of a daughter's or sister's son, cannot be made.

Hukam Singh v. Mangal Singh (43 P. R. 1886), and Albel Singh v. Vir Singh (86 P. R. 1885), cited. Bhagwan Singh and others v. Bhagwan Singh (I. L. R. XXI All. 412 P. C), and Ralla v. Budha (50 P. R. 1893 F. B.) referred to. CHUTTAN v. RAM CHAND.
86 P R 1904

21. Custom—Adoption—Adoption of wife's brother's son—Hindu Law or custom—Brahmans of mauza Dialpur, tahsil Kasur, Lahore district—Locus standi of the reversioners of the eighth degree to contest such adoptions—Burden of proof.

Held, that in matters of adoption Brahmans of mauza Dialpur, tahsil Kssur, in the Lahore district, who are full proprietors with share of shamilat in the village and had settled with the founder, had for eight generations cultivated land, and had closely associated themselves with the Jat proprietors of the village, were governed by the general rules of agricultural custom and not by Hindu Law, and that the defendants had failed to discharge the burden which, under the circumstances, lay upon them of proving that the adoption of a wife's brother's son was valid by custom, or that the collaterals of the eighth degree were not entitled to contest such an adoption. RAM CHAND v. THAKAR DAS.
94 P R 1907

22. Custom—Adoption of distant married collateral in presence of near collateral—Lohars of tahsil Amritsar.

Found, that among Lohars of tahsil Amritsar the adoption at the age of 26 of a married man with children is not invalid by custom. CHANDA v. AKBAR.
49 P R 1909

23. Custom—adoption—Adoption of brother's daughter's son without the consent of adopter's reversioners—Validity of Hindu Jat agriculturists of Hoshiarpur tahsil—Onus probandi.

Held, that among Hindu Jat agriculturists of the Hoshiarpur tahsil of the Hoshiarpur district adoption of a brother's daughter's son is not valid without the consent of adopter's reversioners.

Held, also, that the rule laid down in 50 P. R. 1893 F. B. (Ralla v. Budha) is that among agriculturists the onus of establishing the unfettered power to adopt a person who is not an agnate is on the party who sets up the power, and that evidence of power to adopt a daughter's son does not shift the burden of establishing the power to adopt the son of a brother's daughter. AMRU v. MOHAN SINGH.
47 P R 1910

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

B.—APPOINTMENT OF DAUGHTER AS HEIR.

1. Gujars of Gujrat—Appointment of daughter as heir—Khana-damad.

In a suit, the parties to which were Gujars of the Gujrat district, held, that no custom had been proved to exist under which an adoption or appointment as heir of a daughter was valid, nor any custom extending to the husband of a niece the principle of the species of quasi-adoption under which a man succeeds as khana-damad, which is usually confined to the case of a husband to a man's own daughter. UMRA v. MUSSAMMAT BEGAM.
8 P R 1888

2. Custom—Moghals of Patti, in tahsil Kasur—Sonless proprietor—Appointment of daughters to be heirs.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were Moghals of Patti, in the Kasur tahsil of the Lahore district, that by custom it was competent to a sonless proprietor to appoint his daughters to be his heirs and succeed to his land, to the exclusion of collaterals.

No. 126 P. R. 1890 referred to. BUDHA BEG v. MUSSAMMAT BUDHAI BEGAM.
71 P R 1895

C.—ADOPTION OF DAUGHTER'S SON OR GRANDSON.

1. Daughter's son.

Whether the adoption by a Khatri of his daughter's son is a valid adoption, will depend upon the custom of the caste in the Punjab, which must be found as a fact. HURSAHAI v. BHAWANI DASS.
9 P R 1868

2. By maternal grandfather.

Plaintiff was adopted by his maternal grandfather in the time of the Sikh rule. The adoption was found valid according to the custom prevailing at the time; but it appeared that no similar adoptions had been made since that time. Held, that plaintiff's was a valid adoption. HIRA SINGH v. MASTAN SINGH.
19 P R 1872

3. The adoption of a daughter's son in the time of the Sikh rule was valid according to the custom of certain Jats. HIRA v. MUSSAMMAT DHARMO.
26 P R 1872

4. Adoption of daughter's son upheld. Dhani Ram v. Mussammat Man Kour (No. 13 of 1873, Civil); and again, by Punjab custom, the adoption of a daughter's son decided to be valid. HARRI SINGH v. GULABA.
50 P R 1874

5 Step-daughter's son.

The adoption of a step-daughter's son is valid amongst the Jats of the Hoshiarpur district. RAM DITTA v. PHULA SINGH.
59 P R 1874

6. Khatris—Kakri got*—Firozpur district.*

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

C.—ADOPTION OF DAUGHTER'S SON OR GRANDSON—contd.

Found that, by the custom of Khatris of the Kakri got, in mauza Salibvah, tahsil Moga, zillah Firozpur, the adoption of a daughter's son is valid. Adoption of a brother's daughter's son accordingly upheld. SIRDAR DIWAN SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT SUBHAN.
72 P R 1878

7. Daughter's son—Kalals of Jhandiala, Amritsar district.

Found that, by the custom among Kalals of Jhandiala in the Amritsar district, the adoption of a daughter's son is valid. ATAR SINGH v. GURAN DITTA.
50 P R 1879

8. Raiens of Jullundur district—Daughter's son—Appointment of heir.

Found that, among Raiens, an appointment by a childless village proprietor of a daughter's son to be his heir, in presence of and to the exclusion of brother's sons, is valid according to custom. In the absence of evidence to the contrary, it is not fatal to the validity of such an appointment that it has not been made at an early age in the life of the person appointed, or that it has been made by a testamentary instrument shortly before the appointer's death. AMIR-UD-DIN v. PIRA.
58 P R 1879

9. Mahomedan Jats, Gujrat district—Gift to daughter's son—Appointment of heir.

Found that by the custom of Mussulman Jats of the Baraich got in the Gujrat district the adoption of a son is not allowed; nor by the same custom, can a sonless proprietor make valid gift of his land to his daughter's son or appoint him to be his heir after his death. MUSSAMMAT KARM BHARI v. HYAT BAKHSH.
15 P R 1880

10. Kerwal Jats—General custom.

According to the general custom in the Punjab, an adoption of a daughter's son is found to be valid among Jats.

Held, therefore, that the mere circumstance that no instance of an adoption of the kind among Jats of the Kerwal got in the Ludhiana district could be adduced, was not sufficient to establish affirmatively that the custom of that got differed from the general custom, and that in such got such an adoption was not valid. BHUPA v. UTAM SINGH.
61 P R 1880

11. Jats of Rai got, Ludhiana—General custom.

By the general custom applicable to Jats in the Punjab, the adoption of a daughter's son is allowed.

Where, therefore, in a suit to set aside such an adoption, the parties to which were Jats of the Rai got in the Ludhiana district, the plaintiffs failed to prove any special custom rendering such an adoption invalid in that got, held, that the suit was rightly dismissed. MANGAT v. SIHAN.
66 P R 1881

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

C.—ADOPTION OF DAUGHTER'S SON OR GRANDSON—contd.

12. Muhammadan Jats of Ludhiana district—Appointment of heir—Power to revoke such appointment.

In a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan Jats of mauza Bhalolpur in the Ludhiana district, who were found to have a recognized power to adopt or appoint an heir, held, that no customary power was proved to exist whereby a childless proprietor who had once appointed a person, e.g., his daughter's son, as his heir was entitled thereafter to revoke that appointment, and to deprive the appointee on his death of the rights which he would otherwise have acquired. MANA v. ABDULLA. 98 P R 1882

13. Jat Sikhs of tahsil Kharar, Amballa district.

Found, that no well established custom exists (contrary to the general custom of the Punjab) among Jat Sikhs of the Kharar tahsil of the Amballa district, by which the adoption of a daughter's son is prohibited. Hira v. Mussammat Dharmo (No. 26 of 1872, Civil), Harri Singh v. Gulaba (No. 50 of 1874, Civil), and Bhupa v. Utam Singh (No. 61 of 1880, Civil) cited. BHUP SINGH v. NIHAL SINGH. 129 P R 1882

14. Kahilwan Jats of Gurdaspur—General custom.

In a suit the parties to which were Kahilwan Jats of the Gurdaspur district, held, that no special custom was proved rendering the adoption of a daughter's son invalid. SHER SINGH v. NARANDAR SINGH. 167 P R 1883

15. Hindu Rujar Jats of tahsil Batala.

Found, that there is no well established custom among Rujar Jats of the Batala tahsil, contrary to the custom generally prevailing among Hindu Jats in the Punjab, under which a daughter's son cannot be lawfully adopted.

Sher Singh v. Narandar Singh (No. 167 of 1883, Civil) referred to. BELI v. SHAM SINGH. 154 P R 1884

16. Gil Jats of Amritsar.

Found, that the adoption of a daughter's son by a sonless Gil Jat of the Amritsar district is valid by custom. DIAL SINGH v. DEWA SINGH. 5 P R 1885

17. Kapur Khatris of Amritsar—General custom.

Found, that no special custom exists among Kapur Khatris of Amritsar, different from that which has been found to generally prevail in the Punjab, rendering the adoption of a daughter's son invalid. ATMA SINGH v. JATTA SINGH. 64 P R 1883

18. Khatris of Nurmahal, Jalandhar—General custom.

Found, that there is no special custom amongst the Khatris of Nurmahal in the Jalandhar district, contrary to the general

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

C.—ADOPTION OF DAUGHTER'S SON OR GRANDSON—contd.

custom of Khatris in the Punjab, to render invalid the adoption of the only son of a daughter. TABA v. SHIB CHARN. 162 P R 1883

19. Aroras of Lahore—Burden of proof.

It is established in the Punjab that the person who denies the validity of a customary adoption of a daughter's son among such classes as Khatris or Aroras, must prove the allegation. Harri Singh v. Gulaba (No. 50 of 1874, Civil), Uttam Chand v. Bysakhi (No. 77 of 1878, Civil), and Taba v. Shib Charan (No. 162 of 1883, Civil), cited. MUSSAMMAT PARMESHRI v. VASDEO. 35 P R 1885

20. Choprah Khatris of Firozpur—Only son.

Found, that no special custom exists among Choprah Khatris of the Firozpur district by which the adoption of a daughter's son, though he be an only son, is invalid. GANDA MAL v. MUSSAMMAT RADHI. 57 P R 1886

21. Bablas of Shujabad—Onus of proof.

In a suit to cancel an adoption, the parties to which were Bhatiyas of the Babla got of Shujabad in the Mooltan district, held, that the plaintiffs (upon whom the onus lay) had failed to prove that the appointment of a daughter's son as heir was invalid according to the custom of the got. Harri Singh v. Gulaba (No. 50 of 1874, Civil), Uttam Chand v. Bysakhi (No. 77 of 1878, Civil), Atma Singh v. Jatta Singh (No. 64 of 1883, Civil), and Taba v. Shib Charn (No. 162 of 1883, Civil), cited. CHAUDHRI ASA NAND v. KALA RAM. 85 P R 1886

22. Muhammadans of M. Golera, Rawalpindi district—Wajib-ul-arz.

In a suit, the parties to which were Muhammadans, residents of M. Golera in the Rawalpindi district, it appeared that one F. K. took his daughter's son, N., to live with him and adopted him in the manner customary among agriculturists in the Punjab, and further, a few days before his death, executed a will in which, after reciting that he had adopted N. he declared him to be his heir and successor. The provisions of the Wajib-ul-arz of the village limited the class of person who might be adopted to the near relatives of the adoptor in the male line; the Wajib-ul-arz also provided that, unless the adoptor made a gift of his estate or devised it by will to the adopted son, he would only succeed to the share to which he was entitled by the rules of the Muhammadan law; and further, that in the event of the person adopted being from another tribe and family, he should have no right, unless he took possession after the death of his adoptive father and held possession for two years, in which case his title became unimpeachable. It was contended, on appeal, that the adoption was invalid under the terms of the Wajib-ul-arz, and that the instrument relied on was not a will but a deed of gift, and failed to convey the land by gift because it was not followed by possession.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

C.—ADOPTION OF DAUGHTER'S SON OR GRANDSON—contd.

Held, upholding the orders of the lower Courts, that the enquiry showed that while adoptions among the Muhammadan tribes of the circle were common as among other agricultural classes in the Punjab, they were subject to no peculiar or special limitations such as those described in the Wajib-ul-arz: that the adoption of N. was therefore valid, no gift or will being necessary to perfect his title as adopted son, though the instrument produced by N. was as a fact a will, as recited in the deed itself. NAJIBULLA v. NADIR. 120 P R 1881

23. Syads of Firozpur—Appointment of heir.

Found, that among Syads of Firozpur and the neighbourhood, a landowner who has no male descendants or near collateral relatives, may by custom appoint a child of tender years to be his heir, especially a daughter's son or other near relative in the female line, no particular form of ceremony or writing being necessary to give validity to the appointment so long as the intention to make the child his heir is unmistakably manifested by the appointor. GHULAM HUSAIN v. MUSSAMMAT FATTEH BANO. 102 P R 1884

24. Arains of Sialkot.

Found, that among Arains of the Sialkot district the custom allowing the adoption of daughters' sons is not restricted to cases in which there are no brothers' sons. Aladin v. Badra (No. 119 of 1882, Civil) distinguished. SHAH MUHAMMAD v. HASHAM. 20 P R 1886

25. Gorcha Jats of Ludhiana district.

In a suit to set aside the adoption of a daughter's son among Gorcha Jats of the Ludhiana district, the plaintiffs failed to prove any special custom rendering such an adoption invalid. Held, that the burden of proof lay on the plaintiffs, and that the suit had been rightly dismissed. DASWANDA SINGH v. ACHRU. 93 P R 1890

26. Radhawa Jats of Jullundur tahsil—Validity of adoption of daughter's son.

In a suit, the parties to which were Radhawa Jats of the Jullundur tahsil, found, that the collaterals of the adoptive parents had failed to prove a custom invalidating the adoption of a daughter's son.

The question of burden of proof discussed. UTTAM SINGH v. KESRA SINGH. 159 P R 1890

27. Muhammadan Chuhan Rajputs of mauza Golra, Umballa tahsil—Custom—Adoption—Daughter's son.

In a suit, the parties to which were Muhammadan Chuhan Rajputs of mauza Golra, tahsil and District Umballa, found, that no custom was established recognizing as valid the adoption of a daughter's son.

No. 124 P. R. 1886, referred to. MIR DAD v. KARIM BAKHSH. 40 P R 1891

28. Custom—Adoption—Daughter's son—Bagri Jats, Sirsa tahsil—Riwaj-i-am—Burden of proof.

Found, that by the custom of the Bagri Jats of the Sirsa tahsil the adoption of a daughter's son without the consent of the collateral heirs, is invalid. No. 197 P. R. 1889, and No. 159 P. R. 1890, referred to.

Observations by Stogdon, J., as to the burden of proof in this and cognate cases.

Observations by Plowden, J., as to the weight to be given to the Riwaj-i-am, and as to the relevancy, under the Indian Evidence Act of the entries therein. No. 24 P. R. 1884, and No. 86 P. R. 1885, referred to. JODHA v. MUSSAMMAT JASSAN.

81 P R 1891

29. Custom—Marriage by chadar andazi—Adoption—Illegitimate daughter's son—Agricultural Brahmins of tahsil Batala, Gurdaspur district.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were agricultural Brahmins of mauza Tara in the Batala tahsil of the Gurdaspur District, (1) that a marriage by chadar-andazi between a Brahmin and a widow, called a dharel wife, is not valid by custom; (2) that the burden of proving the validity, by custom, of the adoption by the husband of the son of a daughter of such marriage against male collaterals descended from the grandfather of the adoptor, lay on the adopted son, and had not been discharged. NANAK v. BUA DITTA. 5 P R 1893

30. Custom—Adoption—Daughter's son—Hindu Rajputs of Hoshiarpur and Kangra Districts—General custom of the Punjab regarding such adoptions.

Per PLOWDEN, S. J.,—No. 50 P. R. 1874, has been taken to decide much more than it really does decide.

It is a good authority to this extent, that it is often found that in the Punjab the adoption of a daughter's son is not invalid by custom as opposed to Hindu Law by which such an adoption is invalid. But it is far from being an authority for the proposition that adoption of a daughter's son, without consent of agnates, is prima facie valid throughout the Province.

Quære.—Whether among Rajputs, Hindu or Muhammadan, of any caste or tribe, an adoption of a daughter's son, without consent of the agnates of the adoptor, would be prima facie valid. PARTAB SINGH v. JAI SINGH. 12 P R 1893

31. Custom—Adoption—Daughter's son—Muhammadan Arains of Nawashahr tahsil, Jullundur District—Burden of proof.

Banna, deceased, a Muhammadan Arain of a village in the Nawashahr tahsil of the Jullundur District, died sonless, possessed of land and a house. It was assumed that the title to the house, which was in suit, followed that to ancestral land, which had come into the possession of the plaintiffs, brother's sons of deceased, who now sued for possession of the house.

The plaintiffs and the deceased, Banna, were of the Mandan got.

The defendants who contested the claim were Mussammat S., daughter of B., her husband B. of the Chachar got, and their son A.

One ground of defence was that A. having been adopted by B. was his heir.

The question was, whether the burden of proving the validity of this adoption by custom lay upon the plaintiffs, the brother's sons, or upon the defendant, the daughter's son, and those who joined in setting up his title.

Held, by the Full Bench, that the burden of proof was on the defendants, who alleged an adoption of a daughter's son to be valid against the plaintiffs, brother's sons of the adoptor, irrespective of their assent.

Held, also, generally—creed, tribe and locality apart—that when a sonless man in any land holding group which recognises a power to adopt, asserts that he is competent to adopt a daughter's son or other non-agnate in presence of near agnates, irrespective of their assent the presumption at the outside is against the power.

The effect of No. 50 P. R. 1874, and other cases of adoption of non-agnates considered, and the subject of adoption among land-holding tribes in the Punjab discussed by Plowden, S. J. RALLA v. BUDHA.

50 P R 1893 F B

32. Custom—Adoption of daughter's son—Village artizans—Zargars of mauza Naro Nangal, tahsil Hoshiarpur.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were artizans (goldsmiths) of mauza Naro Nangal in the Hoshiarpur tahsil, that the adoption of a daughter's son when made with the express consent of one of the heirs and the tacit acquiescence of another, was valid by custom. PHERA v. BABU. 113 P R 1893

33. Custom—Adoption—Hindu Bhatti Jats of Samrala tahsil, Ludhiana District—Validity of adoption of daughter's son—Burden of proof.

Found, that by custom among Hindu Bhatti Jats of Samrala tahsil, Ludhiana District, the adoption of a daughter's son in the presence of brother's sons without their consent invalid.

The initial presumption is against the validity of such an adoption. No. 50 P. R. 1893 (F. B.) cited. SOHEL SINGH V. SAIDHU.

3 P R 1894

34. Custom—Adoption of daughter's son—Anand Khatris of mauza Kalan Chakian, Pasrur tahsil, Sialkot District—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that by coustom among Anand Khatris of mauza Kalan Chakian, Pasrur tahsil, in the Sialkot District, the adoption of a daughter's son in the presence of the "baradar zada" is invalid. NARAIN SINGH v. PRABH DIAL. 30 P R 1894

35. Custom—Adoption—Daughter's son—Manj Rajputs of tahsil Ludhiana—Burden of proof.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were Muhammadan Manj Rajputs of tahsil Ludhiana that the validity of the adoption of a daughter's son (who was also a distant collateral) had not been established by the party setting up the adoption and alleging its validity. GHULAM NABI v. HASSU KHAN. 34 P R 1894

36. Custom—Adoption—Alienation—Gift to daughter's son who had been adopted by donor—Sayads of Rawalpindi tahsil.

Found, that by custom among Sayads of Rawalpindi tahsil the adoption of a daughson, who was also a grandnephew of the adoptor, was invalid.

A disposition by deed by a Sayad proprietor of the whole of his property, giving three fifths to the said adopted son, one-fifth to the widow and reserving one-fifth for himself, which was to go after his death to his two daughters and ultimately to the adopted son, found to be invalid by custom.

No. 120 P. R. 1881, referred to. ABDULLA SHAH v. KAIM SHAH. 86 P R 1894

37. Custom—Adoption of daughter's son—Burden of proof—Dewal Jats of the Ludhiana District—Riwaj-i-am

Fouud, in a suit the parties to which were Hindu Jats of Dewal got of Ludhiana District that the defendants, upon whom the onus probandi rested, had failed to prove any custom which recognised the validity of the adoption of a daughter's son. CHATRA AND OTHERS v. CHANAN. 19 P R 1895

38. Custom—Adoption of daughter's son—Sindhu Jats of Lahore tahsil—Burden of proof.

Found, that the adoption of a daughter's son is not valid by custom among Sindhu Jats of the Lahore tahsil. NATHA SINGH v. SHER SINGH AND OTHERS. 47 P R 1895

39. Custom—Adoption of daughter's son—Gil Jats of Jagraon tahsil, Ludhiana District—Burden of proof.

Found, in a case, the parties to which were Gil Jats of Jagraon tahsil of the Ludhiana District, that the defendants had failed to prove that the adoption of a daughter's son was valid by custom. MAHAN SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT DHARMON AND ANOTHER.

58 P R 1895

40. Custom—Adoption of daughter's son—Hindu Kalkat Jats of Dhalewal, Hoshiarpur tahsil—Riwaj-i-am.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

C.—ADOPTION OF DAUGHTER'S SON OR GRANDSON—contd.

Found, that, by custom among Kalkat Jats (Hindu) of Dhalawal in the Hoshiarpur tahsil, the adoption of a daughter's son is invalid in the presence of collaterals. BUDHU v. BUR. 34 P R 1895

41. Custom—Adoption of daughter's son —Garewal Jats of Ludhiana District.

In a case, the parties to which were Garewal Jats of Ludhiana District, found, that defendant, upon whom the onus rested, had failed to prove that the adoption of a daughter's son was valid by custom. RAM SINGH AND OTHERS v. NAND SINGH. 103 P R 1895

42. Custom—Adoption of daughter's son —Randhawa Jats of Amritsar tahsil—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, in a case in which the parties were Jats of the Randhawa got of Dhardeo in the tahsil and district of Amritsar, that defendants, upon whom the onus rested, had failed to prove that the adoption of a daughter's son is valid by custom. WASAWA SINGH v. BUA DITTA. 38 P R 1896

43. Custom—Adoption of daughter's son —Ghumman Jats of Sialkot District—Perversion of next collaterals to Muhammadanism.

According to the Riwaj-i-am of the Sialkot District, it is competent to a Ghumman Jat to adopt his daughter's son, but a nephew has a prior right to be adopted. Where, however, the nephews had perverted to Muhammadanism, held, that it lay upon them to prove that they were entitled to be adopted in preference to a daughter's son, and that their existence rendered the adoption of such daughter's son invalid, and that they had failed to prove this. Found, under the circumstances of the case, that the factum of adoption had been sufficiently proved. NIZAM DIN v. JAGAT SINGH. 25 P R 1898

44. Adoption of daughter's son—Hindu Law—Banias of Jagraon—Burden of proof —Omission to perform certain ceremonies.

Plaintiff sued for a declaration that a deed of adoption whereby defendant No. 1, plaintiff's brother, adopted his daughter's son was invalid, and would not affect plaintiff's reversionary rights. Plaintiff admitted the factum of adoption, but contended that it was illegal by "law and custom," and was, moreover, invalid owing to the non-performance of certain necessary ceremonies. The parties were banias of Jagraon, The lower Courts dealt with the question as one of custom, and dismissed the suit on the ground that the adoption had not been proved to be invalid by custom among the parties.

Held, that the parties being Bania residents of a town, of the ordinary mercantile class, were governed by Hindu Law and not by custom, and that plaintiff had failed to prove that under Hindu Law a daughter's son was not a proper person to be adopted.

Held, further, that the factum of adoption not being disputed and the daughter's son being a person who might legally be adopted, the adoption was not invalid on account of the omission of any particular ceremony.

I. L. R. XVII All. 294 followed. GANDA MAL v. THAKAR MAL. 97 P R 1898

45. Custom—Adoption of the daughter's son—Jats of mauza Thaona, Rupar tahsil, Amballa District.

Found, that among Jats of the Rupar tahsil, Ambala District, the adoption of a daughter's son is invalid by custom. LALU v. FATTEH SINGH. 18 P 1899

46. Custom—Adoption of daughter's son —Lehl Jats of Hoshiarpur District—Riwaj-i-am—Acquiescence in adoption.

Found, that by custom among Lehl Jats of the Hoshiarpur District, the adoption by a sonless man of his daughter's son is valid.

The Court also found, on the evidence, that the reversioners had acquiesced in the adoption both at the time when it was made and subsequently at the time of the adoptive father's death. NATHA SINGH v. SUJAN SINGH 34 P R 1899

47. Custom—Adoption—Daughter's son —Gil Jats of the Amritsar tahsil—Burden of proof.

Found that amongst Gil Jats of the Amritsar tahsil the adoption of a daughter's son is invalid by custom.

Held, that the burden of proof was on the party alleging such adoption valid. SARDAR WASAWA SINGH v. SARDAR ARUR SINGH. 33 P R 1900

48. Custom—Adoption of daughter's son —Kalwan Jats of Sialkot District—Burden of proof.

Found, that defendnat upon whom the onus rested had failed to prove that by custom among Kalwan Jats of Sialkot District the adoption of a daugter's son is valid. GANPAT AND ANOTHER v. NANAK SINGH. 81 P R 1900

49. Custom—Adoption—Gift to daughter's son—Kathana Gujars of the Gujrat tahsil—Limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 118—Suit to declare an adoption invalid.

In a case the parties to which were Kathana Gujars of the Gujrat tahsil, found that an adoption of a daughter's son, or a gift of ancestral land to such a person by a sonless proprietor without consent of collaterals was invalid by custom.

Article 118 of the second Schedule of the Limitation Act of 1877 is not applicable where the adoptor has no inherent power to adopt.

Bhagat Ram v. Tulsi Ram (144 P. R. 1892) followed; Jagadamba Chowdhrani v. Dekhina Mohum (I. L. R. XIII Calc. 308) distinguished; Gul Ahmad v. Sahibzada (45 P. R. 1881) doubted; Ilam Din v. Mubarak (140 P. R. 1893), Gaman v. Nadir Din (35 P. R. 1896), Nur Din v. Sahibzada (18 P. R. 1880), Fazla v. Fazlu (53 P. R. 1889), and Muhammad v. Sharf Din (8 P. R. 1891), referred to. MUHAMMAD DIN AND OTHERS v. SADAR DIN AND OTHERS. 67 P R 1901

50. Custom—Adoption—Daughter's son—Hindu Jats of Hayatpur in the Garhshankar tahsil of Hoshiarpur District—Suit to obtain a declaration that an alleged adoption was invalid or had never taken place—Limitation from which period begins to run—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 118—Burden of proof.

On the 28th August 18 4, one K. executed a deed of adoption in favor of his daughter's son. In 1894 after the death of K. his widow assented to mutation of names being effected in favor of the adopted son. In 1897 the plaintiffs, who are the male collaterals of K., instituted a suit to obtain a declaration that the alleged adoption was invalid, and that it never took place. The first Court found that the plaintiffs' claim was barred by limitation, that the defendant was adopted by K., and that the adoption was not invalid. The Divisional Judge reversed the decree of the first Court on the grounds that the suit was not barred, that the fact of the widow of K. allowing mutation in favor of the adopted son gave plaintiff a fresh cause of action, and that the defendant was not formally adopted, and that as a daughter's son he could not be adopted.

Held, that as the title of the adopted son to the property was created by the adoption, and not by any subsequent admission on the part of the widow of the adoptive father that the title existed, such an admission did not give plaintiff any fresh cause of action, and as the plaintiffs had knowledge of the adoption more than six years previous to the institution of suit their claim was barred under Article 118 of the second schedule to the Limitation Act of 1877.

Held also, that although a presumption at the outset is against the power of an adoption of a daughter's son in a case where evidence such as an entry in a Wajib-ul-arz or Riwaj-i-am or precedents are produced by the adopted son, the burden of proof is shifted to the party denying the validity of such an adoption.

Found, upon the evidence that the defendant was formally adopted by K., and that his adoption was valid.

Parman v. Gian Singh (94 P. R. 1893), Natha Singh v. Sujan Singh (34 P. R. 1899), and Ralla v. Budha (50 P. R. 1893), referred to. HEM RAJ AND ANOTHER v. SAHIBA AND OTHERS. 116 P R 1901

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

C.—ADOPTION OF DAUGHTER'S SON OR GRANDSON—concld.

51. Custom—Adoption of daughter's son—Jats of Bassi Jalal, tahsil Dasuha, Hoshiarpur District—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that among Hindu Jats of Bassi Jalal in the Dasuha tahsil of the Hoshiarpur District the adoption of a daughter's son was valid by custom.

Natha Singh v. Sujan Singh (34 P. R. 1899) and Hem Raj v. Sahiba (116 P. R. 1901), cited.

Budhu v. Bur (84 P. R. 1895), and Ralla v. Budha (50 P. R. 1893 F. B.), referred to. BISHNA v. BANTA. 69 P R 1905

52. Custom—Adoption—Adoption of daughter's son—Sekhu Jats of tahsil Daska, Sialkot District—Burden of proof.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Sekhu Jats of the Daska tahsil of the Sialkot District, that no custom was proved recognizing the adoption of a daughter's son in presence of near collaterals such as a cousin or cousin's sons, the burden of proof being upon those setting up such adoption.

Ganpat v. Nanak Singh (81 P. R. 1900) and Nanak v. Nandu (29 P. R. 1904) referred to. MUHAMMAD DIN v. JAWAHIR. 69 P R 1907

53. Custom—Adoption—Adoption of daughter's son—Hindu Nandan Jats of Dasuha tahsil, Hoshiarpur District—Burden of proof—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, in a case the parties to which were Jats of the Nandan got of Dasuha tahsil in the Hoshiarpur District, that plaintiffs upon whom, in the special circumstances of the case, the onus rested had failed to prove that the adoption of a daughter's son was invalid by custom. ACHHAR SINGH v MEHTAB SINGH. 81 P R 1907

54. Custom—Adoption—Adoption of daughter's son—Dhillon Jats of mauza Jawinda Khurd, tahsil Tarn Taran, Amritsar District.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Dhillon Jats of mauza Jawinda Khurd in the Tarn Taran tahsil of the Amritsar District that the validity of the adoption of a daughter's son had been established by the party setting up the adoption. SOHNA v. SUNDUR SINGH. 85 P R 1907

55. Custom—Adoption—Adoption of daughter's son—Dhillon Jats of tahsil Tarn Taran, Amritsar District.

Found, that the adoption of daughter's son is valid by custom among Dhillon Jats of the Tarn Taran tahsil. BUTA SINGH v. RAM SINGH. 86 P R 1907

D.—ADOPTION OF SISTER'S SON OR GRANDSON.

1. Rajputs, Umballa.

The adoption of a sister's son, who is also

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

D.—ADOPTION OF SISTER'S SON OR GRANDSON—contd.

the eldest son, is valid amongst the Rajputs of Umballa district. JITA v. SUNDAL. 35 P R 1874

2. Sister's son.

By the custom of the Punjab the adoption of a sister's son is valid.

Mootsuddee Mal v. Mussammat Lajwantee—(No. 24 of 1867, Civil, and No. 83 of 1867 Civil note) Mya Dass v. Sawun (No. 83 of 1867, Civil); and HARRI SINGH v. GULABA. 50 P R 1874

3. Jats, Amritsar.

The adoption of a sister's son amongst the Sindhoo Jats of the Amritsar district was valid during the Sikh rule. SAWAN SINGH v. SANT SINGH. 1 P R 1875

4. Bular Jats, Ferozepore.

There is no custom (per BOULNOIS and CAMPBELL, JJ., LINDSAY, J., dissenting), contrary to the general custom of the Punjab, amongst the Bular Jats, Ferozepore district, with regard to the adoption of a sister's son; and such adoption is valid. NIHAL SINGH v. KAHN SINGH. 50 P R 1875

5. Sister's grandson—Aroras of Lahore.

By the custom of Aroras of Lahore, the adoption of a sister's grandson is valid. UTTAM CHAND v. BYSAKHI. 77 P R 1878

6. Jats, Jullundur.

The adoption of a sister's son amongst the Jats of the Jullundur district is not valid. Moti v. Taba (No. 31 of 1873, Civil). But where S., a Mahomedan Jat of the Nawashahr tahsil, Jullundur district, appointed J., his sister's son, as his quasi adopted son to be his heir, held, that custom recognized J's right under the circumstances to inherit the property. JEWA v. KARM BAKSH. 80 P R 1878

7. Appointment of heir—Sister's son, gift to, of ancestral estate in presence of first cousins in male line—Childless village proprietor—Hindu Jats.

While one M was a child of 4 or 5 years of age his parents came from their own village of Nawapind to Bul, about a koss distant, to reside in a house in the same enclosure with Mutsaddi. While his parents were so residing in Bul, M. was married. It was not proved that Mutsaddi effected his marriage, the evidence tending rather to show that M's own parents married him, though the expenses might have been borne in whole or in part by M. M., widow of Mutsaddi's brother. After the marriage M. returned with his parents to live in Nawapind, coming occasionally to Bul to visit Mutsaddi and M. M., and occasionally assisting them in the cultivation of their lands.

On 8th May 1876, Mutsaddi executed a deed in M.'s favour which recited that, having no sons or daughter's sons, he had from the beginning treated M. as a son, and that as life was uncertain, he made a gift of his land to M. and put him in possession. The deed provided that M. should maintain Mutsaddi. A very few days after its execution Mutsaddi died.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

D.—ADOPTION OF SISTER'S SON OR GRANDSON—contd.

Held, that there was no evidence of Mutsaddi having appointed M. his heir; that the execution of the deed had not the effect of constituting M. his appointed heir; and that the deed having been executed in the near contemplation of death, was to all intents and purposes a will.

Held further, that Mutsaddi, a Hindu Jat, had not the right by custom to make a gift of his ancestral land to M., his sister's son, to the prejudice of the plaintiffs, his first cousins in the male line. MIYAN v. SANDHI. 64 P R 1879

8. Muhammadans of Gujrat—Appointment of heir.

The Court remanded the case for a decision as to whether the defendant (the sister's son) was selected and appointed as heir by the deceased, during his lifetime, and if so, whether, according to the custom of the Muhammadan Jats of the Gujrat district, such a selection and appointment conferred on him the rights of an heir. GHULAM v. UMRA. 18 P R 1881

9. Jats of the Sahee got—Only son—Appointment of heir.

The appointment of a sister's grandson, who was also an only son, as heir among Jats of the Sahee got in the Amritsar district, held, (in the absence of any proved custom to the contrary) to be valid in accordance with the general custom of the Punjab. Majja Singh v. Ram Singh (No. 43 of 1879, Civil), cited. HOSHANOQ v. JAIMAL SINGH. 57 P R 1881

10. Gujars of Gujrat—Sister's son and grandson—Collaterals—Appointment of two persons as successors—Adverse possession.

The plaintiffs, who were male collaterals in the 7th or 8th degree from the common ancestor, sued to establish their right to succeed by customary inheritance to the estate left by one M. B., deceased, in preference to the defendants, the sister's son and grandson of the deceased, who had been associated by the latter with himself in cultivation for some years before his death, and were verbally appointed by him to succeed as his heirs. The parties were Gujars of the Gujrat District.

Held, that the evidence failed to prove a custom by which a Gujar is able to appoint two persons as his successors.

Case remanded for a decision with reference to defendants' plea that they acquired a title by 12 years' adverse possession. IMAM DIN v. NUR DIN. 85 P R 1881

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

D.—ADOPTION OF SISTER'S SON OR GRANDSON—contd.

11. Arains of Sialkot—Near collaterals.

Found, that there is no settled custom prevailing among Arains of the Sialkot district whereby the adoption of a sister's son is rendered invalid by the presence of a paternal uncle or a paternal uncle's son. ALADIN v. BADRA. 119 P R 1882

12. Punjzati Brahmins of Amritsar.

Found, that an adoption of a sister's son by a Brahmin of the Panjzati class in the city of Amritsar is not by custom invalid. Dhani Ram v. Mussammat Mankaur. (No. 13 of 1873, Civil) cited. LACHMI DHAR v. THAKUR DASS. 149 P R 1883

13. Hindu Jats of Amballa—General custom.

Found, that no special custom exists among Hindu Jats of the Amballa tahsil contrary to the general custom of the Punjab, rendering the adoption of a sister's son invalid in the presence of near collaterals. Hira v. Mussammat Dharmo (26 of 1872, Civil), Hari Singh v. Gulaba (No. 50 of 1874, Civil), Bhupa v. Uttam Singh (No. 61 of 1880, Civil), and Bhup Singh v. Nihal Singh (No. 129 of 1882, Civil) cited. JODHA v. ATRA. 172 P R 1883

14. Jats of the Hajrat tribe residing in tahsil Pasrur, zilla Sialkot.

In a suit for cancellation of an adoption, the parties to which were Jats of the Hajra tribe, resident in the Pasrur tahsil of the Sialkot district, found, that a valid adoption could only be made of an agnate of the adopter and of a sister's son. NATHU v. TAJ MUHAMMAD. 178 P R 1883

15. Parwal Jats of Amritsar district—Adoption of sister's grandson.

Found, that among Parwal Jats of the Amritsar district the adoption of a sister's grandson is valid by custom. ATR SINGH v. LAKHMIR SINGH. 120 P R 1885

16. Gorayah Jats of tahsil Shakargarh, Gurdaspur.

Found, that no special custom exists among Gorayah Jats of the Shakargarh tahsil in the Gurdaspur district prohibiting the adoption of a sister's son. Rupa v. Uttam Singh (No. 61 of 1880, Civil) referred to. MAN SINGH v. ARUR SINGH. 33 P R 1886

17. Saiyads of Gujrat district—Appointment of heir.

Found, that among Saiyads of the Gujrat district, a childless proprietor can make a valid customary adoption of his sister's son, Sher Shah v. Jafar Shah (No. 51 of 1883, Civil), and Ghulam Husain v. Mussammat Fatteh Bano (No. 102 of 1884, Civil) cited. GHULAM SHAH v. AMIR SHAH. 84 P R 1886

18. Arains of the Phillour tahsil—Sister's son.

Found, that among Arains of the Phillour tahsil the adoption of a sister's son is valid by custom. Amir-ul-din v. Pira (No. 58 of 1879, Civil), Aladin v. Badra (No. 119 of 1882, Civil), and Shah Muhammad v. Hasham (No. 20 of 1886, Civil) cited. SHADI v. RUKAN-UD-DIN. 128 P R 1886

19. Dhariwal Jats of Amballa District—Appointment of sister's son as heir.

Found that among Dhariwal Jats of mauza Patherheri in the Rupar tahsil of the Amballa District, the appointment by a sonless proprietor of a sister's son as heir is not invalid by custom. SUBA v. GURDIT SINGH. 62 P R 1888

20. Sidhu Jats of Jagraon (Ludhiana)—Validity of the adoption of sister's son.

Found that there is no well established custom among the Sidhu Jats of Tahsil Jagraon, District Ludhiana, contrary to the general custom of the Punjab, by which the adoption of a sister's son is invalid. DALEL SINGH v. KALA SINGH. 197 P R 1889

21. Sister's son—Lodi Pathans, Jullundur District.

Found, that amongst the Lodi Pathans of the Jullundur District, a sonless proprietor cannot adopt his sister's son.

The parties being agriculturists were governed by custom and not by Muhammadan Law. UMER KHAN v. NAMDAR KHAN. 21 P R 1892

22. Custom—Alienation—Paswal Gujars tahsil Kharian, Gujrat District—Power of sonless proprietor to adopt or make a gift of his land to sister's son in the presence of collaterals in the fourth and fifth degrees.

Found in a suit the parties to which were Paswal Gujars of tahsil Kharian in the Gujrat District, that it was not competent to a sonless proprietor to adopt or make a gift of his ancestral land to his sister's son in the presence of collaterals in the fourth and fifth degrees.

No. 8 P. R., 1891, referred to—MAULU v. FAZAL AHMAD. 102 P R 1893

23. Custom—Adoption of sister's son of grandson—Muhammadan Bhatti Rajputs of Batala tahsil—Burden of proof—Riwaj-i-am

Found, that by custom among Muhammadan Bhatti Rajputs of Batala tahsil the adoption of a sister's son or grandson in the presence of a brother's sons and irrespective of their consent is invalid. UMAR BAKHSH v. DHANDA. 39 P R 1894

24. Custom—Adoption—Sister's son—Power of widow to adopt—Hindu Jats of Jagraon tahsil, Ludhiana District—Riwaj-i-am.

In a suit among Hindu Jats of the Jagraon tahsil in the Ludhiana District, it was found that an alleged adoption by a childless proprietor of his sister's son confirmed after his death, by a deed purporting to be executed by the widow with her late husband's authority, was not as a fact established, and it was further held that such an adoption, even if proved, would not be valid without the consent of the warisan ekjadi. GHULLU v. MOHABAT. 92 P R 1894

25. Custom—Adoption—Adoption of sister's grandson—Dhillon Jats of Ludhiana District—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that by custom among Dhillon Jats of the Ludhiana District, an adoption of a sister's grandson is invalid in the presence of near collaterals.

No. 57 P. R. 1881, and No. 130 P. R. 1885, referred to. DEVI DITTA v. JIVA. 129 P R 1894

26. Custom—Adoption—Alienation—Gift by sonless proprietor to son-in-law, who was also his sister's son—Muhammadan Guman Jats of Tarn Taran tahsil, Amritsar District—Riwaj-i-am.

In a case the parties to which were Muhammadan Guman Jats of the Tarn Taran tahsil, Amritsar District, found (i) that defendant, upon whom the onus rested, had failed to prove that the adoption of a sister's son was valid by custom, but (ii) that a gift of all his property by a sonless proprietor in favour of his son-in-law, who was also his sister's son, was valid by custom, the said gift having been, so far as was possible, perfected by delivery of possession. KHAN AND ANOTHER v. HIRA. 98 P R 1895

27. Custom—Adoption—Gift by sonless proprietor—Khokhars of Gujrat District.

In a case the parties to which were Khokhars of Gujrat tahsil and District, found that defendants upon whom the onus rested had failed to prove (1) that the adoption of sister's son (who was also the son of a cousin, by a sonless proprietor) was valid by custom or (2) that a gift of ancestral land to such a person by a sonless proprietor was valid by custom in the presence of male agnates. GAMAN v. NADIR DIN. 35 P R 1896

28. Custom—Adoption of sister's son—Authal Jats of Nizampur, Delhi—Burden of proof.

Found, that defendant, upon whom the burden of proof rested, had failed to prove that by custom among Authal Jats of Nizampur, Delhi District, the adoption of a sister's son is valid in the presence of collaterals related to the adopter in the third degree. JHANDA v. BALVANT. 39 P R 1897

29. Custom—Adoption of sister's son—Muhammadan Jats of Zira tahsil, Ferozepore District.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

D.—ADOPTION OF SISTER'S SON OR GRANDSON—contd.

Found, that defendants, upon whom the onus rested, had failed to prove that by custom among Muhammadan Jats of the Zira tahsil, Ferozepore district, the adoption of a sister's son is valid in the presence, and without the consent, of the adoptive father's agnates. KHAIRA v. PIR BAKHSH.

1 P R 1898

30. Custom—Adoption of sister's son—Khatris of mauza Kawari, tahsil Pipli, Umballa district.

In a case in which the parties were Khatris of mauza 'Kawari, tahsil Pipli, not far south of Umballa, found that plaintiffs upon whom the onus rested had failed to prove that the adoption of a sister's son is invalid by custom. HARNAMAN v. ATMA RAM.

24 P R 1900

31. Custom — Adoption — Adoption of sister's son—Acharjya Brahman of Goler in the Dehra tahsil of the Kangra district—Burden of proof.

One R. D., an Acharjya Brahman of Goler in the Dehra tahsil of the Kangra district, executed a deed of adoption in favour of "K," his sister's son, reciting that K. had been adopted when two or three years old, and had ever since been treated as a son. Plaintiffs, collaterals of R. D., sued for a declaration setting aside the deed on the grounds that K. was, in fact, never adopted, and that the adoption was invalid by custom and Hindu Law. The first Court found that the adoption was not opposed to custom, but that there was in fact no adoption as recited in the deed, though K. had lived with R. D. for many years, and assisted him in his business, and gave plaintiffs a decree that K. was not the adopted son of R. D. The Divisional Judge on appeal reversed the decree, on the ground that the factum of adoption had been clearly established; and, further that by custom the adoption was valid. The plaintiffs preferred a further appeal against these findings to Chief Court.

Held, that where the parties are not members of an agricultural tribe or land holding group and where no ceremonies are essential, and the adoption not opposed to custom, a declaration by deed, if coupled with previous and subsequent treatment as an adopted son was sufficient to constitute adoption.

Held, also, that in cases where the right of adoption is admitted or is found to prevail and the parties are not members of an agricultural tribe, or land holding group, the burden of proof ought to lie on those who deny that a particular kind of adoption, e. g., that of a daughter's or sister's son, cannot be made.

Found, upon the evidence that plaintiffs had failed to prove that by custom among Acharjya Brahmans of Kangra (who are not members of an agricultural tribe or land holding group) the adoption of a sister's son was invalid.

Ralla v. Budha (50 P. R. 1893, F. B.) distinguished, and the subject of adoption among non-agricultural twice-born Hindu classes in the Punjab discussed. SOHNUN AND OTHERS v. RAM DIAL AND OTHERS.

79 P R 1901

32. Alienation by Jat proprietor—Gift in favour of sister's son—Suit by a reversioner to declare the gift invalid and not to be binding after the donor's death—Donee setting up his own adoption as a bar to the suit—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 118.

Held, that the term "adoption" in article 118 of Limitation Act includes a customary appointment of an heir and that the failure to sue within the period provided by that article for a declaration that an alleged adoption was invalid or had never taken place is fatal to a suit in which the validity of such adoption comes into question.

The knowledge of the factum of an adoption by the father or ancestors of the reversioners objecting to it, and his or their omission to sue within limitation prevents the reversioners from again raising the question of its invalidity.

Jagan Nath Parsad Gupta v. Ranjit Singh (I. L. R. XXV Calc. 354), and Lali v. Murli Dhar (I. L. R. XXIV All. 195), dissented from.

Shrinivas Murar v. Hanmant (J. L. R. XXIV Bom. 260), Paronthi Ammal v. Samminatha Gurukal (I. L. R. XX Mad. 40), Gujar Singh v. Puran (79 P. R. 1901), Hemraj v. Sahiba (116 P. R. 1901), and Ganesha Singh v. Nathu (20 P. R. 192), followed.

Roda v. Harnam (18 P. R. 1895), Valiappu Nayer v. Paru Nethiar (IX Mad. L. J. R. 1996), and Dad v. Bagh Singh (34 P. R. 1883, F. B.) distinguished.

Mussammat Lorindi v. Mussammat Kishen Kour (149 P. R. 1888), Mussammat Fakirunnissa v. Malik Rahim Bakhsh (23 P. R. 1897), and Sodhi Kartar Singh v. Sher Singh (50 P. R. 1895), referred to. BHUPA v. NAGAHIA.

68 P R 1903

33. Custom—Adoption—Adoption of sister's son in presence of a cousin—Ghumman Jats of Sialkot district.

Found, that by custom among Ghumman Jats of the Sialkot district, an adoption of sister's son is invalid in the presence of a cousin.

Ralla v. Budha (50 P. R. 1893) and Nizam Din v. Jagat Singh (25 P. R. 1898), referred to. NANAK v. NANDU.

29 P R 1904

34. Custom—Adoption—Adoption of sister's son—Kalals of Butari, tahsil Ludhiana.

Found, that among Kalals otherwise called Ahluwalias or Nebs of mauza Butari in the Ludhiana tahsil the adoption by a sonless proprietor of a sister's son is valid by custom. ATTAR SINGH v. SANT SINGH.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

D.—ADOPTION OF SISTER'S SON OR GRANDSON—concld.

87 P R 1907

E.—ADOPTION OF STRANGERS.

1. Appointment of heir—General custom—Riwaj-i-am—Rebuttal of presumption in favour of appointment.

Where the facts found were that the defendant, who was the sister's son of the wife of one G. S. deceased, had been treated by the said G. S. as his heir and successor, had lived with him, and on his death continued so to live with his widow and was recorded at settlement not only as her agent, but also as an adopted son held that the said defendant was rightly considered to have been in fact appointed by G. S. to be his heir, and by the general custom among agriculturists entitled to succeed to his land.

Held further, that an entry in the Riwaj-i-am applicable to the parties, that no one can be adopted who is not a near relation of the adoptor in the male line, was not sufficient of itself to rebut the presumption arising in favour of an appointment made many years ago, and acted upon ever since, and concurred in by the majority of the reversioners who had waived their claim to their shares. Kanhya v. Ganesha (No. 5 of 1874, Civil) and Chatru v. Dera (No. 92 of 1879, Civil), cited. SUNDAR SINGH v. JHANDA SINGH.

51 P R 1881

2. Dhandiwal Jats of Sirsa district—Wife's brother's son.

An adoption by a Jat of the Dhandiwal got, resident in the Dabwali tahsil of the Sirsa district, of a wife's brother's son upheld, no custom being proved to exist in the said tribe rendering such an adoption invalid. NARAIN SINGH v. MASTAN SINGH.

35 P R 1882

3. Muhammadan Rajputs of Ambala district—Adoption of wife's kinsman.

Found, that no custom exists among the Muhammadan Rajputs of the Multani Bhatti got in the Ambala district, rendering valid the adoption of a wife's kinsman e.g., a wife's brother's grandson, the presence of grand nephews. KASSU v. RAHIM BAKHSH.

120 P R 1884

4. Awans of the Gujrat district—Wife's brother's son.

Found, that by the custom of the Awans of the Gujrat district, though daughters' sons and resident sons-in-law may be adopted, the adoption of strangers and a wife's relation (e.g. a wife's brother's son) are not allowed. SADAR DIN v. CHOGATTA.

165 P R 1884

5. Rathar Kashmiris of Gujrat—Right of "paiak" to succeed.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

E.—ADOPTION OF STRANGERS—contd.

Found, that by custom among Rathar Kashmiris of Gujrat a palak succeeds in the absence of male issue to the estate of the person who has adopted him. PIR BAKHSH v. FAZLA. 109 P R 1885

6. Khatra Jats of Ludhiana tahsil—Adoption of ghair kaum.

Found, that among Khatra Jats of the Ludhiana tahsil, the adoption of a "ghair kaum," that is, a stranger to the got and tribe of the adopter, is invalid by custom. DULLA v. KHAZAN SINGH. 41 P R 1889

7. Adoption of a wife's brother's son—Burden of proving the validity of such adoption—Raihala Jats of Rupar tahsil.

In the case of the alleged adoption of wife's brother's son among Raihala Jats of the Rupar tahsil of the Umballa district, held, that the onus of proving the validity of such adoption by custom lay on the defendants, and that they had failed to discharge it. There is a presumption in favour of the validity of the adoption of a sister's or daughter's son, but it cannot be stretched so far as to justify the Courts in presuming any person of a different got from the adopter is a fit subject for adoption. PAKHAR v. NATHA. 156 P R 1890

8. Custom—Adoption—Wife's brother—Bedis and Khatris of Pathankot tahsil, Gurdaspur district.

In a suit the parties to which were Bedis of the Pathankot tahsil, Gurdaspur district, found that the alleged invalidity of the adoption of a wife's brother was not established.

Semble.—Bedis are a sub-division of the Khatri tribe, and in the Gurdaspur district follow the same customs.

No. 35 P. R. 1885, and No. 67 P. R. 1886, referred to. SARUP SINGH AND RADHA KISHEN v. MUSSAMMAT JASSI AND BELI RAM. 22 P R 1891

9. Custom—Adoption—Muhammadan Bhatti Jats, Kharian tahsil, Gujrat district.

B. adopted his wife's sister's son and brought him up in his house from infancy. B. also perfected the adoption by a written instrument of gift. The parties were Muhammadan Bhatti Jats of the Kharian tahsil of the Gujrat district.

Held, that the adoption was not opposed to the custom of the Muhammadan Jats of the tahsil, and was valid.

No. 15 P. R. 1880, referred to. KALU v. NUR MAHI. 104 P R 1891

10. Bhullar Jats, Lahore district.

Found, that the custom of the Bhullar Jats of the Lahore district does not sanction the adoption of a person of a ghair kaum. NATHA SINGH v. JODH SINGH. 69 P R 1892

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

E.—ADOPTION OF STRANGERS—contd.

11. Arains of tahsil Nakodar, Jullundur district.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Arains of tahsil Nakodar in the Jullundur district, that no custom was proved authorising the adoption of a wife's brother's son, the burden of proof being upon those setting up such adoption. NUR MUHAMMAD v. ALIMULLAH. 75 P R 1892

12. Ghair kaum—kalwal Jats (Muhammadans), tahsil Kharian, Gujrat district.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Kalwal Jats (Muhammadans) of the Kharian tahsil of the Gujrat district, that no custom was proved recognising the adoption of a person of a ghair kaum such as a wife's brother's son. SAHIB DIN v. FATTEH DIN AND KHAIR MUHAMMAD. 81 P R 1892

13. Jats of Jaj got, Hoshiarpur tahsil—Gift to or adoption of step-son of another got.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Jats of the Jaj got in the Hoshiarpur tahsil (the alleged donee or adopted son being however of a different got), that no custom was proved authorising a gift of ancestral land to a step-son in the presence of near collaterals or the adoption of such son by his step-father, the burden of proof in either case being upon those seeking to maintain the gift or adoption. MUTSADA SINGH v. DEVI DITTA. 83 P R 1892

14. Person adopted of different got.

Found in a suit the parties to which were Jaj Jats of the Hoshiarpur tahsil, that no custom was established permitting the adoption of a person of a different got—a step-son; or a gift of land to him in presence of near collaterals descended from the donor's father.

No. 156 P. R. 1890 referred to. MUTSADA SINGH v. DEVI DITTA. 98 P R 1892

15. Custom—Adoption—Jogi Rajputs of Bhagwanpura, tahsil Shakargarh, Gurdaspur district—Effect of a son being subsequently born to the adoptive father.

In December 1874 J., who was then sixty-five years of age, sonless, and without hope of begetting a son, executed in the presence of a large gathering of the neighbours and brotherhood, a deed of adoption in favour of the defendant, a fondling, whose parentage was not known. The deed was attested by a large number of the brotherhood in token of their approval.

In 1877 Mussammat M., one of the wives of J., gave birth to a son (the plaintiff), and in the following year J. died. Mutation of names then took place, apparently with the consent of both widows, in favour of plaintiff and defendant, each being recorded owner of half the estate. An application by the defendant in 1891 for partition gave rise to the present suit, the plaintiff denying the adoption of the defendant and his right to share in the property.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

E.—ADOPTION OF STRANGERS—contd.

Held as to the factum of the adoption, that it was proved.

Held also, as to the validity of the adoption that in the absence of any near collaterals of J. at the time the adoption was made, the adoption should be held to be valid by reason of the assent of the brotherhood and others whose consent might fairly be deemed necessary.

Held also, as to the effect of the adoption, that by clause 18 of the Riwaj-i-am, nothing having been urged in the lower Court to the contrary, the natural son and the previously adopted son would share the father's property equally. MALAGIR v. JAGIR. 93 P R 1893

16. Custom—Adoption of step-son—Mara Jats of Ludhiana tahsil—Riwaj-i-am—Presumption.

Found, that by custom among Hindu Mara Jats of Ludhiana tahsil, the adoption of a step-son who was not a waris was invalid in the presence of warisan yak jaddi. Nos. 98 P. R. 1884, 23 P. R. 1886, and 38 P. R. 1890, referred to. JIWAN SINGH v. LAL SINGH. 48 P R 1894

17. Custom—Adoption of non-agnate—Adoption by deed without observance of ceremonies—Aulakh Jats of Ajnala tahsil, Amritsar district.

Defendant No. 1, who was an Aulakh Jat of the Ajnala tahsil in the Amritsar district, on the 31st March 1884, executed and registered a deed in which he declared that he had brought up defendant No. 2, who was the son of his wife, a Pattar Jat of the Jullundur district, by a former husband, and had adopted him after the performance of the usual ceremonies, defendant No. 2 being at the time about 22 years of age. On the 25th July 1888, defendant No. 1 executed a deed of gift of his ancestral land and house in favour of defendant No. 2. In the deed he made no mention of the previous deed of adoption, but declared that he had brought up the donee as a son, that the latter had served him as a son and would continue to serve him as such as long as he lived. At mutation, which was effected on the 5th February 1889, it was settled that one B. S., brother of defendant No. 2, should be recorded as owner of the land as well as defendant No. 2, and no mention was made of the previous adoption of the latter. Plaintiffs, who were the donor's collaterals in the seventh degree of relationship, sued for a declaration that the gift would not affect their reversionary interest on the death of defendant No. 1, and denied both the factum and the validity of the adoption of defendant No. 2. They relied, inter alia, upon the entry in the Riwaj-i-am that among Jats of the got to which they and defendant No. 1 belonged, no person of another got can be adopted or a gift made in his favour. The lower Courts having decided against plaintiffs on both grounds, they appealed to the Chief Court.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

E.—ADOPTION OF STRANGERS—concld.

Held, with reference to the entry in the Riwaj-i-am and on the evidence, that even if the burden of proof was originally on the plaintiffs, it had been shifted to defendants, and that defendants had failed to prove that, among Aulakh Jats of the Ajnala tahsil, Amritsar district, a sonless proprietor is, by custom, competent to adopt a step-son in the presence of collaterals related to him in the seventh degree and without their consent.

No. 50 P. R. 1893 (F. B.), referred to. SUNDAR SINGH v. BUDHA SINGH.

122 P R 1894

18. Custom—Adoption—Adoption of a distant agnate in presence of near collaterals—Khakka Jats of the Amritsar district.

Found, that by custom among Khakka Jats of the Amritsar district the adoption of a distant agnate is valid in the presence of near collaterals. NIDHANA v. SHAMAN.

10 P R 1908

F.—GENERAL PROHIBITION.

1. Custom—Adoption—Muhammadan Gujars of the Garshankar tahsil of the Hoshiarpur District.

Found, that it was not established that any custom of adoption prevailed among Muhammadan Gujars of the Garshankar tahsil of the Hoshiarpur district. NAURANG v. JANG.

105 P R 1891

2. Custom—Adoption—Hindu Rajputs, got Laddu, Una tahsil, Hoshiarpur district.

Found that the custom of Hindu Rajputs, got Laddu of the Una tahsil in the Hoshiarpur district, is opposed to the practice of adoption. BISHEN SINGH v. AMIR CHAND.

13 P R 1894

G.—ADOPTION BY WIDOW.

1. Widow—Sanction.

A widow adopting a son is not confined in her selection to the family of her deceased husband; she may adopt a stranger. The sanction of the kindred of her deceased husband is not imperative. MUSSAMMAT LUDEEA v KOOLLA.

3 P R 1866

2. By widow, effect of.

The effect of adoption by a Hindu widow under an authority to adopt, is to render the adopted son heir to the widow's deceased husband. GOPEE RAM v. BULDEO SAHAI.

91 P R 1866

3. Adoption by widow—Suit by reversioner to contest.

The widow of D. D. (a Hindu Khatri of a town in the Lahore district), adopted her daughter's son, to whom she made a gift of her husband's estate. Plaintiff, cousin of D. D., sued as heir presumptive to set aside the adoption. The Lower Courts found the adoption invalid, as the consent or authority of the husband had not been proved.

Held, that plaintiff's suit would lie; and while the Chief Court on special appeal could not interfere with the finding of the Lower Courts as to the invalidity of the adoption, held that after the widow's death, it would be open to the daughter and her son to establish, if they could, that they were heirs to D. D., to the exclusion of plaintiff. MUSSAMMAT JIND KOUR v. MAJLIS RAI.

23 P R 1876

4. Widow's power to adopt—Sanction of reversionary heirs—Estoppel.

Found, that there is no established custom among Hindus of the Azarwal caste in the city of Delhi by which a widow can validly adopt by her own sole act in the absence of authority from her husband.

Quære, if such adoption would be valid if made by the widow with the sanction of the reversionary heirs?

Where a Hindu widow about a year after her husband's death adopted B. S. (defendant 1), who then sold the ancestral property to G. (defendant 2) to whom it had been previously mortgaged, and it was found that plaintiff who was B. S.'s brother and so entitled to succeed equally with B. S. after the widow's death, was present at the adoption and took part in the usual ceremonies, held, in a suit brought by plaintiff after the widow's death to establish his right to joint enjoyment of the property with G. (B. S.'s vendee), that plaintiff was not estopped from making his claim, as his acts were not shown to have validated the adoption by the widow, and constituted B. S. sole heir; nor did it appear that G. the vendee had been misled by such acts; nor was plaintiff obliged to take measures to question the acts of his brother in dealing with the property in which the widow had a life interest, so long as the widow was alive. KIDAR NATH v. BANARSI DAS.

62 P R 1880

5. Power of widow to adopt—Absence of consent of husband or relatives—Subsequent consent by heirs.

An adoption by the widow of an hereditary cultivator of her husband's nephew, without authority from the husband during his lifetime, or from his relatives after his death, held, not to be a valid adoption so as to make the adopted son heir to the widow's husband. Held also, that the subsequent consent of some of the heirs to the succession of the adopted son did not supply the want of the necessary authority. RAMJAS v. BALDEWA.

80 P R 1880

6. Consent of heirs—Authority from deceased husband—Effect of adoption without such consent or authority.

In a suit to establish the validity of an adoption by a Jat widow, where the plaintiff failed to prove either that the adoption was made by the direct order of the widow's husband, or with the consent of the heirs, and to establish any special custom under which a widow could adopt a son to her deceased husband without such consent, held, that the adoption could only make plaintiff heir to the widow's own private property, and would not make him an adopted son of, or heir to, the deceased husband. MASANIA v. RAM RATTAN.

15 P R 1881

7. Adoption of heir by widow of one brother with consent of other brother—Effect of such adoption.

M. and R. were two brothers. After the death of M., Mussammat C., his widow, obtained her husband's half share of the land. She then adopted as her heir, with the consent of R. and by written deed, the present plaintiff, who was the son of M.'s daughter. It appeared that plaintiff used generally to live with his own parents, and not his adoptive mother, and further that on the death of R. his share of the property went to Mussammat C. and not to plaintiff.

In a suit by plaintiff, after the death of Mussammat C., to recover the whole of the property held by R. and Mussammat C., held that the adoption by the widow was, with the consent of the next reversioner, R. sufficient to make plaintiff heir to the property held by Mussammat C. at the time of the adoption, but that the said adoption did not avail to pass to plaintiff any right in the property of R. RAM SINGH v. JASWANT SINGH.

88 P R 1881

8. Bunyas of Hansi—Widow's power to adopt without authority of husband—Consent of kinsmen—Adopted son's right to inherit collaterally as well as lineally.

Found, that there is no established custom prevailing among Bunyas of Hansi whereby a widow can, without authority from her husband, by consent of kinsmen adopt a son, who would inherit collaterally as well as lineally. Kidar Nath v. Banarsi Das (No. 62 of 1880, Civil) cited. MUSSAMMAT CHUNI v. LALMAN DASS.

198 P R 1882

9. Gil Jats of Ferozepore—Adoption by widow with assent of next reversioner—Validity of such adoption as against the more remote reversioners.

In a suit for cancellation of an adoption of a daughter's son purporting to be made by a widow to her late husband with the assent of the nearest reversioner, but in which no authority from the husband was pleaded the parties being Gil Jats of the Ferozepore district, held, that the assent of the said nearest reversioner would do no more than bind himself had he succeeded to the estate, and could not be held (after his death in the widow's lifetime) to bind the next reversioners claiming not through him but as heirs of the widow's husband. LEHNA SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT DHARMO.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

G.—ADOPTION BY WIDOW—contd.

77 P R 1888

10. Khokhar Rajputs of tahsil Sharakpur, District Lahore—Adoption by widow of one of her husband's first cousins—Suit by another cousin to set it aside.

Held, that by the custom obtaining among Khokhar Rajputs of tahsil Sharakpur, District Lahore, a widow is competent to adopt one of her husband's first cousins to the exclusion of another. HAKIM v. MUSSAMMAT BAKHTAWARI.

182 P R 1889

11. Adoption by mother after succession had devolved on her son who died childless—Mother's authority to adopt.

Where a widow has by law or custom a power to adopt, the fact that she has succeeded to her deceased husband's estate, not as his direct heir but as heir to her son, makes no difference, and she continues to have the same power to adopt as she would have had if her husband had died childless. MUSSAMMAT GANGA v. LEKH RAM.

30 P R 1890

12. Custom—Adoption—Gift—Kathana Gujars of the Jhelum tahsil.

In a suit the parties to which were Kathana Gujars of the Jhelum tahsil, found that adoption is not recognized in that tribe, and that a gift of ancestral land by a widow in favour of one reversioner in presence of other reversioners of equal degree is invalid.

Ilam Din and others v. Mubarik and another (140 P. R. 1893), Gaman and another v. Nadir Din and others (35 P. R. 1896), Sahib Din and others v. Amira and others (16 P. R. 1889), and Muhammad and others v. Sharaf-ud-din and others (8 P. R. 1891), referred to. JUMMA AND OTHERS v. MUBARIK AND OTHERS.

70 P R 1901

13. Adoption by widow without authority from her husband—Validity of such adoption—Kashmiri Pandits of Punjab—Hindu Law.

Held, that Kashmiri Pandits of the Delhi district are proved to be governed in matters of adoption by custom and not by the principles of the Mitakshara form of Hindu Law, and that amongst the members of that tribe a widow has full power after her husband's death, and without his express permission in this behalf, to adopt any boy whom she selects, provided he is of the same tribe. MAHARAJ NARAIN v. BANOJI. 34 P R 1907

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

G.—ADOPTION BY WIDOW—concld.

14. Custom—Adoption by widow without husband's authority—Succession—Exclusion of daughter by collaterals—Agarwal banias, Ludhiana city.

Held, that among Agarwal banias of Ludhiana city who are not Jains, an adoption by a widow could not be effected without the authority of her husband.

Held also, that by a special custom among them near collaterals exclude the daughter in succession to ancestral property. CHAMPAT RAI v. DAULAT RAM. 68 P R 1909

15. Custom—Adoption—Jains of Delhi—Widow's power to adopt—Ceremonies and publication—Age of adopted son—Married man may be adopted—Also brother of widow's husband.

Held, that by special custom among Jains—

(a) adoption is a purely secular transaction without any religious meaning,

(b) a sonless widow may adopt without any authorisation of her husband,

(c) no special ceremonies are necessary, all that is required is consent on both sides and due publication by some means recognized among the brotherhood.

(d) the distribution of ladus is sufficient publication in Delhi,

(e) there is no limit to the age of the adopted son,

(f) a married man with children may be adopted and so may a brother of the husband of the adopting widow, and

(g) that it has not been proved that the adopted son must be younger than the adopting widow. MANAK CHAND v. MUNNA LAL.

95 P R 1909

H.—OBSERVANCE OF FORMALITIES: WHAT CONSTITUTES ADOPTION.

1. Forms and ceremonies.

Under the Punjab Civil Code, a disregard of strict rules of Hindu Law did not vitiate a bona fide adoption. MUKHUN v. NIKKA.

37 P R 1868

2. In a contention regarding succession to a plot of land, one party claimed as adopted son of the deceased proprietor. It was fonnd that the claimant had lived with and served the deceased for many years, was separated from his own brothers, and had not taken a share of the land left by his natural father, had been treated by deceased as his son, and had performed his funeral obsequies; but that no ceremony of adoption had taken place. Held, that the absence of the ceremony did not, under the circumstances,

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

H.—OBSERVANCE OF FORMALITIES: WHAT CONSTITUTES ADOPTION—contd.

invalidate the adoption. LEHNA SINGH v. CHEINA. 111 P R 1868

3. Where there was general evidence of plaintiff's adoption, but there had been no formal or ceremonial adoption, and the plaintiff, contrary to the custom of the caste of his alleged adoptive father, had married his daughter into the family. Held, that the plaintiff had prevented himself from taking the benefit of the adoption, as he had acted as if his status was not that of an adopted son. HURSUHAI v. BHOWANI DASS.

43 P R 1869

4. Defendant when about three months old, was taken over by B., a relation, who was childless, and lived with him for about forty years until B.'s death, cultivating his land and being supported by him. Held, that these facts were sufficient to support defendant's allegation that he was adopted by B. KANHYA v. GANESHA. 5 P R 1874

5. The custom for a childless village landholder to take a relation into his house in infancy and bring him up as his son, to render him his heir and successor, as if adopted in the manner known among Hindus, is a general village custom with both Muhammadans and Hindus. HASSAN v. SAMMA.

54 P R 1874

6. Hindu Jats, Hoshiarpur district—Appointment of heir—Presumption.

Where one B., a Hindu Jat of the Khajja got, residing in the Hoshiarpur district, took C., his brother's son, into his house in youth or infancy, intending that he should be his heir, and recorded his intention subsequently in a deed of adoption, and further, during his lifetime, took the final step towards carrying out his intention by putting C. in possession of his property, and applying for dakhil kharij in his name; there being no sufficient proof that B. had no power to constitute C. his heir; Held, that C. was entitled to succeed as heir to B.'s property, the presumption being that a childless Hindu Jat proprietor has power to appoint an heir from among his kinsmen. CHATRA v. DERA.

92 P R 1879

7. Death of adopted son without lineal heirs—Right of inheritance.

One A. S., who had succeeded to the property of one D. S., a Bhular Jat, adopted S. S., a Manhes Jat. On the death of A. S., S. S. succeeded to the property of his adoptive father, and also took a share of the property left by his natural father. On the death of S. S. without lineal heirs, his widow succeeded to the possession of the land. On her death, the present defendants, who were distant collateral relatives of D. S., in the male line, took possession of the property, whereupon the brothers' sons of S. S., brought the present suit to obtain possession of the land, as heirs of S. S.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

H.—OBSERVANCE OF FORMALITIES—WHAT CONSTITUTES ADOPTION—contd.

Held, that the plaintiffs where entitled to succeed in their suit.

Per LINDSAY, J.—Because the adoption of S. S. was in the Kritima form, and under such form of adoption S. S. did not become incorporated with the Bhular Jats, but his adoptive father's land passed away from the family of the Bhular Jats, and therefore descended, on S. S's. death, to his natural family.

Per SMYTH, J.—Because S. S's. adoption was one of the informal adoptions common among Jats in the Punjab, and in the absence of a custom to the contrary, the property of a son thus adopted which he has inherited from his adoptive father, passes on his death without direct lineal descendants, not to the heirs of the adoptive father, but to the natural heirs of the adopted son. DEWA SINGH v. NIHAL SINGH. 9 P R 1880

8. Appointment of heir by will

In a suit to set aside an adoption, where it was contended that a mere appointment by will executed shortly before the writer's death, could confer no rights of adoption on the appointed heir, held, that in each case where a power to adopt exists, the point for enquiry is, whether there was an intention to adopt, in the sense of a customary appointment as heir, and whether that intention has been manifested in the manner regulated by custom applicable to the parties concerned. SOBHA SINGH v. HAZARA. 103 P R 1880

9. Jats of the Gil got—Appointment of heir—Deed made shortly before the appointer's death.

Found, that by the custom prevailing among Jats of the Gil got, the mere execution and registration of a deed of appointment a few days before and in contemplation of the appointer's death, no previous intention to adopt having been manifested, is not sufficient of itself to confer upon the boy appointed the rights of an adopted son, or to be a valid exercise of a power to appoint him as the heir of the appointer. HAZARA v. ISHAR. 72 P R 1882

10. Jats of mauza Bagli Kalan in the Ludhiana district—Validity of adoption—Requisites for completion of adoption—Special local custom.

Found, that no special custom exists amongst the Jats of mauza Bagli in the Samrala tahsil of the Ludhiana district or in the neigebour hood, under which adoptions are not allowed, so as to make the adopted son an heir.

Where one F. S., some 4 or 5 years before his own death, and after the death of his wife went to live with one A. S., his nephew, and not long after this executed a deed in which he declared that having no male issue to perform his funeral obsequies, he had adopted the infant son of A. S., and that he should perform such ceremonies and succeed him as heir; and it appeared that the act of F. S. was done with the consent of A. S., the father of the child, and that F. S., continued to live with A. S. and the boy until his own death, and never did any act not consistent with the view that the child was to him as a son, held, that under the above circumstances, and in the absence of proof that anything more was by local custom essential, it was impossible to hold that there had not been a valid exercise by F. S. of his power of adoption. KISHEN SINGH v. ATTAR SINGH. 79 P R 1882

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

H.—OBSERVANCE OF FORMALITIES—WHAT CONSTITUTES ADOPTION—contd.

11. Appointment of heir—Muhammadans of Mahr caste in Chakwal tahsil—Will.

Found, that by custom in the Chakwal tahsil of the Jhelum District, Muhammadan proprietors of the Mahr caste can select one of their heirs, and by will in his favour confer on him a right of succession to the whole property. NIAZ ALI v. AHMAD DIN. 109 P R 1882

12. Adoption of Arora by Jat proprietor—Appointment of heir—Will—Deed of adoption.

The defendant, an Arora, claimed to succeed as the adopted son of a Jat proprietor, who had executed and registered a deed declaring the defendant to be his adopted son and entitled to succeed as such on his death.

Held, that no custom had been proved, which would render an adoption of a person of an entirely different caste valid, and further, that the defendant could not succeed as an appointed son, whom the deceased had designated as his heir, as though the deceased took charge of the defendant and his brother when they were children and required a protector, as they had been left orphans, no custom was proved under which a Jat proprietor could appoint such persons, who though dependant on him, were in no way related to him, as his heirs, and moreover the deed was itself the only evidence of such appointment.

Held also, that the deed, which purported to be a deed of adoption, could not be given effect to as a will; as it is essential to a will that the person making it should intend it to operate as such, and a statement by a man that another person is his adopted son, and therefore his heir, is not equivalent to a will in his favour, in case it is found that there was no valid adoption. CHAMBA v. JOWAHIR SINGH. 170 P R 1882

13. Riwaj-i-am providing for performance of ceremonies and limiting age of adopted son—General custom—Proof of special custom—Validity of adoption.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

H.—OBSERVANCE OF FORMALITIES—WHAT CONSTITUTES ADOPTION—contd.

In a suit to set aside an adoption by a childless proprietor of his grandnephew, the parties to which were Jats of the Dudwal got of the Amritsar tahsil the lower Appellate Court held that the adoption was invalid under the provisions of the Riwaj-i-am, which were to the effect that adoptions were valid if performed with due ceremonies, and if the adopted son was under the age of 12 years.

Held, that the general custom of the Punjab being in favour of the adoption, and the plaintiffs having failed to prove that it was the special custom of the tribe to which they belonged that adoptions should not be valid without ceremonies, or that an adoption of a son over 12 years of age was invalid, there was no sufficient cause for setting aside the adoption, which was accordingly upheld. Sundar Singh v. Chanda Singh (No 51 of 1881 Civil) cited. KHARAK SINGH v. RUPA SINGH. 96 P R 1883

14. Ghorewaha Rajputs—Appointment of heir.

Found, confirming, on review, the decision of the Chief Court in Moula Baksh v. Hame Khan (No. 71 of 1880, Civil), that no special custom exists among the Ghorewaha Rajputs of Jalandhar rendering invalid either adoption or the bringing up of a boy as a member of the family of a male proprietor who has no son, with the intention to make him heir to the property. Amir-ul-din v. Pira (No. 58 of 1879, Civil) cited. MOULA BAKSH v. HAME KHAN. 173 P R 1883

15. Entry in Riwaj-i-am fixing limit to age of son to be adopted—Presumption arising from such entry—Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), section 16.

In a suit for certain property which the defendant claimed to hold as the adopted son of the deceased owner, the lower Courts held the adoption to be invalid, as the defendant was at the time of his adoption a grown-up man, 25 years of age, the lower Appellate Court holding that, as the Riwaj-i-am applicable to the parties, in which the age of fifteen was fixed as the limit after which adoption could not take place, formed part of the second regular Settlement, it must, under section 16 of the Land Revenue Act, be presumed to be true in the absence of proof to the contrary.

Held, that the terms of the Riwaj-i-am gave rise to no presumption against the defendant, even if no adoption took place until he had reached the age of 25, the last clause of section 16 of the Land Revenue Act applying only to the Record of Rights prepared for any village or place under section 14, and having no application to a Riwaj-i-am prepared for the whole district, and not for any village or estate.

Case remanded for a fresh decision as to whether defendant had been validly adopted or appointed as heir of the deceased proprietor. UTTAM SINGH v. MANGAL SINGH.

24 P R 1884

16. Brahmin agriculturists of Rohtak district—Declaration of appointment of heir. In a suit, the parties to which were agriculturist Brahmins of the Rohtak district, found, that a mere declaration made before the Settlement authorities, by a proprietor that he had adopted a certain boy 3 years previously and desired to transfer his land to him, was not in itself sufficient by custom to constitute a valid adoption or appointment of the boy as heir. RABIDAT v. HAR LAL.

36 P R 1884

17. Muhammadan Ghorawaha Rajputs of the Ludhiana district—Appointment of heir.

Found, that no custom exists among the Muhammadan Ghorawaha Rajputs of the Ludhiana district, whereby a proprietor can appoint a relative as his heir by taking him into his house and bringing him up as a son and declaring that he has adopted him by executing a deed of adoption shortly before his death. Moula Baksh v. Hame Khan (No. 173 of 1883, Civil,) cited. SONDHA v. MUSSAMMAT JIWAN.

124 P R 1886

18. Appointment of heir—Declaration by adoptive father.

That the alleged adopted son was brought up in the house of the adoptive father, was married in his family and that he managed his land are not sufficient to prove adoption. To make a quasi adoption valid there must be a manifested intention on the part of the owner that the person is to be his heir. SUKHAN v. GURDITTA.

101 P R 1889

19. Custom—Adoption—Dhaliwal Jats, Ludhiana District—Adoption by deed—Course of treatment.

The mere execution of a deed of adoption by a Dhaliwal Jat of the Ludhiana tahsil in favour of a collateral found to have been neither preceded nor followed by any treatment of the said collateral as a son, held to be insufficient to constitute by custom a valid adoption. PARMAN v. GIAN SINGH.

94 P R 1893

20. Sindu Jats of Baga Purana, tahsil Moga, District Ferozepore—Adoption by deed—Recital in such deeds—Custom.

The plaintiff, D. S., since deceased, sued as the adopted son of his uncle K. S., to recover land that had been gifted by the latter to F. S., the donor's brother. The plaintiff alleged, but was unable to prove, that he had been adopted during infancy, and it appeared that apart from the deed there had been no act of adoption by K. S.

Held, that adoptions by deed alone by an old man without male issue, to the prejudice of his presumptive heirs, are not ordinarily, if at all, recognized by custom as valid, and that the plaintiff had failed to establish his title. FATTEH SINGH v. SUCHELA.

142 P R 1893

21. Formal and informal adoption—Hindu law—Custom.

Although if in any case the parties to an adoption are punctiliousas to the observance of ceremonies prescribed by the Hindu ritual, all due weight should be given to the fact in deciding whether the consequences in accordance with the custom of the parties are in accordance with the rules of the Hindu Law, the distinction between formal and informal adoptions rests on no basis of fact or principle and is altogether opposed to the spirit of the institution of adoption as it prevails in the Punjab, one feature of which is the little heed it gives to the observance of ceremonies.

Nos. 97 P. R. 1879; 9 P. R. 1880; 88 P. R. 1881; 14 P. R. 1884; 89 P. R. 1885; 84 P. R. 1887; and 12 P. R. 1892, referred to. JEHNU v. SAUDAGAR. 138 P R 1894

22. Custom—Adoption—Deed of adoption reciting previous performance of ceremonies and treatment of adoptee as son—Mussalman Naru Rajputs of Hoshiarpur District.

On the 10th October 1890 one S. K., a Mussalman Naru Rajput of the Hoshiarpur District, executed and registered a deed in which he declared that one A., the son of his deceased brother was his adopted son, and that he had adopted him some time previously with the usual ceremonies and had always treated him as a son. S. K. died about a month after the execution of the said deed On the 3rd October 1892, R. K., brother of S. K., executed a deed with similar recitals regarding S. A. R. K. died about twenty days after execution. The first Court found in favour both of the factum of adoptions and treatment as sons and also of the validity of the adoptions by custom, and the Divisional Judge, on appeal although finding that no formal adoptions had taken place, held that the documents executed by S. K. and R. K. were sufficient to constitute A. and S. A. the heirs of S. K. and R. K., respectively.

Held, by the Chief Court (concurring with the Divisional Judge as to the absence of any formal adoption), that there being no sufficient proof that the alleged adoptees had been treated or brought up as sons by the alleged adoptors, the mere paper adoptions, executed in anticipation of death and containing false recitals of already completed adoptions, were not valid adoptions by custom. INAM DAS v. RUKAN KHAN.

25 P R 1896

23. Custom—Adoption—Sandhu Jats of mauza Raja Jung, tahsil Kasur, District Lahore—Observance of formalities.

In a case among Sandhu Jats of mauza Raja Jang, tahsil Kasur, in the Lahore District, where the facts found were that the defendant, who was the grandnephew of the adopted father, had been openly acknowledged by him as such, and that a deed had been executed making him heir, and reciting an adoption, and whose betrothal had taken place whilst he was of tender years in the adoptive father's house. Held, that the adoption was valid, and could not be set aside at the instance of the collaterals.

Hazara v. Ishar (72 P. R. 1882), Sukhan v. Gurditta (10 P. R. 1889), Asa Singh v. Hari Singh (61 P. R. 1892), and Muhammad Din v. Sadir Din (67 P. R. 1901), referred to. BUTA SINGH v. DIAL SINGH.

67 P R 1902

24. Custom—Adoption—Hindu Jats of Gurdaspur District—Adoption by deed—Course of treatment—Observance of formalities.

Held, that among agricultural tribes, where the right of adoption is admitted or is found to prevail, and where the person selected is a proper person to be adopted, the execution and registration of a deed of adoption, coupled with the adopter's clear declaration in a Court of law, and continuous, previous and subsequent treatment, is sufficient to constitute by custom such an adoption valid even without proof of any other formalities.

Parman v. Gian Singh (94 P. R. 1893), Fatteh Singh v. Suchela (142 P. R. 1893), Sundar Singh v. Budha Singh (122 P. R. 1894), Inam Das v. Rukan Khan (25 P. R. 1896), Rattan Singh v. Mula Singh (4 P. R. 1884), Rahidat v. Har Lal (36 P. R. 1884), Thamman Singh v. Jit Singh (9 P. R. 1893), Jairam v. Manphul (4 P. R. 1892), Girdhari Lal v. Dala Mal (3 P. R. 1901), referred to. BUDH SINGH v. MULA SINGH.

40 P R 1905

I.—LOCUS STANDI OF REVERSIONERS AND OTHERS TO CONTEST ADOPTION.

1. Garhiwal got, Ludhana district—Suit by reversioners—Special custom.

In a suit the parties to which belonged to the Garhiwal got, and were residents of mauza

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

I.—LOCUS STANDI OF REVERSIONERS AND OTHERS TO CONTEST ADOPTION—concld.

Almaghir in the Ludhiana district the plaintiffs, who were the reversionary heirs, sued to set aside an adoption by defendant 1 of the second defendant, on the ground that such adoption would defeat their reversionary interest, and, further, that adoptions were not allowed by the custom of their got.

Held, that, if the power to adopt existed, it could not be successfuly contended that the adoptor was not entitled to select the person to be adopted, and the result in depriving the plaintiffs of their expectancy of succession was precisely what would follow if the adoptor had a son born to him, and if he could make a valid adoption, the adopted son must take the place of a natural son.

Held, further, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove any special custom of their own got, either altogether prohibiting adoption or entitling them to have the adoption of a relative one degree more remote than themselves set aside. RAON v. JASSU. 15 P R 1883

2. Suit by pattidars to contest adoption by widow of deceased owner—Locus standi of plaintiffs.

In a suit brought by the proprietors of the patti of the village in which the property in question was situated to set aside a deed of adoption executed by the widow of deceased pattidar in favour of the defendant, who was a cognate relation (viz., a descendant of the paternal aunt) of the deceased, held, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove that they, as the collective pattidari body consisting of various castes and tribes, were, in the presence of the defendants, the next reversioners, and consequently they were not entitled to maintain the suit. BUDH SINGH v. BASAWA SINGH. 178 P R 1888

J.—ASSENT OF SOME ONLY OF REVERSIONERS.

See Supra—(G)—ADOPTION BY WIDOW. 3 P R 1866

(K).—REPUDIATION OF ADOPTION.

1. Custom—Adoption—Evidence of Adoption—Right of adoptive father to repudiate the adoption.

In a suit by plaintiff, claiming as the adopted son of defendant No. 2 for a declaration that a mortgage by defendant No. 2 to defendant No. 1 would not affect his right to succeed to property after defendant No. 2's death, the defendants denied that plaintiff had been validly adopted. It appeared that about two years before suit defendant No. 2 had executed and registered a deed of adoption in favour of plaintiff, who was a near agnate relation, stating (which was found to be substantially correct) that ten years before the deed he had selected plaintiff to look after him and be of service to him, and, as he had no son, had adopted him at the date of the document. Plaintiff was about twenty-five years old at the date of suit, and had been married in his natural family, and it was not proved that he and his wife and children ever took up their permanent abode with defendant No. 2, but affectionate treatment on both sides was established, both before and after the deed, until a quarrel arose about a Muhammadan woman who frequented defendant No. 2's house. The parties were Hindu Jats of the Ludhiana tahsil, and the Riwaj-i-am recognized the execution of a deed of adoption in favour of an agnate relation as sufficient to constitute a valid adoption.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

K.—REPUDIATION OF ADOPTION—contd.

Held, that the plaintiff's locus standi as validly adopted son was under the circumstances sufficiently established, and that it was not open to defendant No. 2 to change his mind two years after the execution of the deed and seek to repudiate the relationship. THAMMAN SINGH v. JIT SINGH. 9 P R 1893

2. Adoption—Suit by adoptor for declaration that relationship between him and adopted son is dissolved—Disobedience and bad behaviour of adopted son—Revocation of adoption—Mahommadan Man Jats of Nakodar tahsil.

On the 20th June 1884, plaintiff, who was a Muhammadan Man Jat of the Nakodar tahsil, executed and registered a deed of adoption in favour of his sister's son who was at the time in his infancy. Subsequently plaintiff sued for a declaration that the deed of adoption was of no effect, on the grounds that the adoption, being by deed only was informal, and that the bad behaviour and disobedience of the adopted son rendered him unfit to so continue. Plaintiff finally prayed for cancellation of the deed of adoption and for a declaration that defendant was not his adopted son. The first Court passed a decree in plaintiff's favour, but this was reversed on appeal by the Divisional Judge. Plaintiff thereupon appealed to the Chief Court and the cause was remanded for inquiry as to whether by custom among Muhammadan Man Jats of the Nakodar tahsil, an adoption or appointment as heir could be revoked by the adoptor. As a result of the inquiry it was found that no Muhammadan Man Jat had ever been known, except in the present case, to have adopted a son.

Held, (i) that the suit could not be treated as one for the cancellation of the deed or for annulment of the adoption ab initio inasmuch as the deed was executed by plaintiff of his own free will and there was no allegation that it was obtained from him by means which would have rendered it either void or voidable, (ii) that, whatever the rights of plaintiff's collaterals might be plaintiff himself could not claim relief on the ground that the adoption was invalid by custom, and that in any event such claim to relief was barred by limitation, the deed having been executed more than 6 years previously to suit; and (iii) that there having been no contract, express or implied, on the part of defendant that he would always obey plaintiff, serve him and live with him, plaintiff was not entitled to a declaratory decree, that the tie which existed between him and defendant had been dissolved by the latter's disobedience. KADA v. NUR MUHAMMAD. 143 P R 1894

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

K.—REPUDIATION OF ADOPTION—concld.

L.—GIFTS TO ADOPTED SONS.

See CUSTOM II—ALIENATION (A) BY MALE PROPRIETOR; (i) PROVED. 83 P R 1900

See GIFTS AND WILLS IN FAVOUR OF DAUGHTERS AND THEIR SONS; (ii) NOT PROVED. 86 P R 1894

See GIFTS AND WILLS IN FAVOUR OF SISTERS AND THEIR SONS; (ii) NOT PROVED. 92 P R 1891
102 P R 1893

See GIFTS AND WILLS IN FAVOUR OF STEP-SONS; (ii) NOT PROVED. 98 P R 1892

See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW, GIFTS. 85 P R 1888

Khanadamad—Appointment of, to succeed to estate of sonless proprietor—Arains of Tahsil Zira, Ferozepore District.

Found in a suit the parties to which were Arains of tahsil Zira, Ferozepore District, that according to the custom of the tribe a khanadamad may be appointed to succeed to the estate of a sonless proprietor to the exclusion of his brothers and nephews. PIR BAKHSH v. ISA. 107 P R 1892

M.—SUCCESSION OF ADOPTED SON.

See CUSTOM VIII—INHERITANCE,—ADOPTED SON AND HIS HEIRS, passim.

See LAMBARDAR.

9 P R 1892 Rev.
10 P R 1892 Rev.
11 P R 1892 Rev.
12 P R 1892 Rev.
13 P R 1892 Rev.
2 P R 1899 Rev.

See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.

40 P R 1894
43 P R 1895 (F B)
22 P R 1898

1. Inheritance.

The adopted son cannot inherit from his natural parents, but he succeeds to the property of his adoptive father. Bhuggut Singh v. Boodhoo (No. 51 of 1867, Civil); and Gopee Rom v. Buldeo Sahai (No. 91 of 1866, Civil); but quære, whether he inherits collaterally as well as lineally. HURSAHAI v. BHAWANI DASS. 9 P R 1868

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

M.—SUCCESSION OF ADOPTED SON—contd.

2. Muhammadans—Child brought up from infancy—Appointment of heir—Inheritance—Hoshiarpur District.

N. M. was brought up from his infancy by K. B., lived with him and was married by him. In 1872 K. B. executed a deed of adoption, in which he declared that he regarded N. M. as his own begotten son and intended that he should inherit all his property. In 1873 K. B. caused mutation of names to be effected. It did not appear that N. M. was put in possession, but on the other hand there was no evidence that between 1873 and his death K. B. revoked his declaration that N. M. was his adopted son and was to be his heir. Held, that, under the circumstances, N. M. was entitled by custom to inherit the property of K. B. BUTA v. NUR MUHAMMAD. 70 P R 1878

3. Inheritance—Mahomedan Lohars of Lahore.

Found, that no custom exists among the Mahomedan Lohars of Lahore under which a person adopted or treated as an adopted son is entitled as such adopted son to succeed as heir to the estate of his adoptive father. MAHOMED FIROZDIN v. SIRAJDIN. 5 P R 1879

4. Jats of Amritsar District—Quasi-adoption according to Punjab custom—Right of such adopted son to inherit property in his natural family.

R. S., an only son, was adopted by his uncle according to the Punjab custom, that is, appointed to be his heir, and succeeded to the land of the latter. Held, that he was not thereby deprived of his right of inheritance in his natural family in the absence of proof of custom to that effect; and found, that no such custom was proved. MAJJA SINGH v. RAM SINGH. 43 P R 1879

5. Mussalman Rajputs.

Found that by the custom of Mussalman Rajputs of the Many got, a childless proprietor can do an act analagous to adopting a son, and thereby create a right of succession. NAJIB KHAN v. HUSAIN KHAN. 43 P R 1880

6. Death of adopted son without lineal descendants—Right of inheritance.

One N. S. was adopted by his uncle and step-father R. S. and, on the latter's death, succeeded to his estate. N. S. having died without lineal descendants, the representatives of his natural father retained possession of the estate. The plaintiffs, who were the representatives of N. S.'s adopted father, sought to recover a share in N. S.'s estate.

Held, in absence of a custom to the contrary, that in informal Jat adoptions such as the present, where the adopted son dies without lineal descendants, the succession passes, not to the heirs of the adoptive father, but to the natural heirs of the adopted son, and the plaintiffs' claim therefore failed. Dewa Singh v. Nihal Singh (No. 9 of 1880, Civil) followed. Fouja v. Kasu (No. 122 of 1879, Civil), Gogan v. Taloka (No. 163 of 1882, Civil), Ditta v. Muhammad Baksh (No. 146 of 1884, Civil), Jowahir Singh v. Amrik Singh (No. 9 of 1885, Civil) referred to. ARUR SINGH v. JOWALA SINGH. 89 P R 1885

7. Hir Jats of Garhshankar tahsil, Hoshiarpur District—Right of adopted son to succeed collaterally.

In a suit the parties to which were Hir Jats of the Garhshankar tahsil in the Hoshiarpur District, held, that the plaintiff who represented the adopted son of one S. deceased, and on whom the burden of proof lay, had failed to prove that the adoption was of such a kind that it carried with it the right to succeed collaterally as well as to the direct estate of the adoptive father.

Deva Singh v. Nihal Singh (No. 9 P. R. 1880), Jowala Singh v. Mussammat Lachmi (No. 14 P R. 1884) and Arur Singh v. Jawala Singh (No. 89 P. R. 1885), referred to. UTTAM SINGH v. WAZIR SINGH. 84 P R 1887

8. Succession—Agricultural Khatris—Succession to adopted son dying childless.

Held that in the absence of proof of the special custom applicable Khatris though living by agriculture in matters of succession are governed by Hindu Law. MUSSAMMAT RUKMANI v. MUSSAMMAT SALUKHNI. 147 P R 1889

9. Hindu Jats of Gurdaspur—Right of adopted son to succeed collaterally.

Found, that among the Hindu Jats of the Gurdaspur District, when a man adopts a near agnate relation in his childhood such adopted son does not after his adoptive father's death take the share of the estate of collateral relatives which the adoptive father would have succeeded to had he survived. BIR SINGH v. LANA SINGH. 181 P R 1889

10. Agricultural Brahmans of the Amritsar District—Succession to adopted son dying sonless.

Found, that no well-established custom prevails among agricultural Brahmins of the Amritsar District, whereby the estate inherited by an adopted son passes in the event of his dying sonless to his own natural heirs. In the absence of such a custom the Hindu Law was applied, and following it the right of the heir of the adoptive parent was considered superior to that of the heir of the adopted son. MUSSAMMAT SADA KAUR v. RAM SINGH. 21 P R 1890

11. Rights of appointed heir in adopting father's brother's land.

In a suit the parties to which were Ghariwal Jats, originally of the Hissar District but now settled in Ludhiana, held, that an appointed heir—daughter's son—was not entitled to succeed to the land left by the adopting father's brother even although the land was self-acquired, in the presence of near collaterals. No. 61 of 1880, referred to. SOBA v. KALU. 107 P R 1891

12. Succession of collateral heirs in his natural family of person adopted in default of lineal descendants.

Held, by the Full Bench, that there is no general custom prevalent amongst agriculturists in the Punjab by which the collateral heirs in his natural family of a man who has been adopted under a customary adoption succeed in default of his lineal heirs to the property which he acquired or inherited by virtue of his adoption.

Not only is there no such general custom but such a succession is quite opposed to the general principles which regulate the succession to land in the village communiites of the Punjab. SITA RAM v. RAJA RAM. 12 P R 1892 F B

13. Gujars of Kharian tahsil of the Gujrat District—Appointed heir—Collateral succession.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were Gujars of the Kharian tahsil of the Gujrat District, that no custom was proved by which an appointed heir becomes the representative of the person appointing him so as to entitle him to succeed to a share of land left by other members of the family. FAZLA v. ILAM DIN. 56 P R 1893

14. Gil Jats of tahsil Moga, Ferozepore District—Deceased sonless proprietor whose father was an adopted son—Rights of natural heirs of adopted son and of heirs of adoptive father.

The question for decision was whether, by the custom of the Gil Jats (Hindus) of the Moga tahsil of the Ferozepore District, the estate of a proprietor dying without male issue whose father was an adopted son devolved upon the natural heirs of the adopted son or upon the heirs of the adoptive father.

Held, following the Full Bench ruling reported as No. 12 P. R. 1892, that it was for the defendants to rebut the general presumption arising in the plaintiff's favour against the right of the collateral heirs in the natural line to succeed to property that had been inherited by virtue of adoption, such adoption being the customary appointment of an heir common among agriculturist Jats of the Province. WARYAM v. MAN SINGH. 72 P R 1893

15. Right of adopted son to succeed collaterally in adoptive father's family—

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

M.—SUCCESSION OF ADOPTED SON—contd.

Sohel Jats of Ajnala tahsil, Amritsar District.

Found, that plaintiff, upon whom was the onus probandi, had failed to prove a custom whereby among Sohel Jats of Ajnala tahsil in the Amritsar District, a non-agnate who has been adopted is entitled to succeed collaterally in the family of his adoptive father.

The distinction between the adoption of persons who are, and persons who are not, of the same got of the adoptor pointed out. MANGAL SINGH v. TILOK SINGH.

61 P R 1894

16. Collateral succession of adopted son—Rajputs of Una tahsil, Hoshiarpur District—Onus probandi.

Held, that the burden of proving the right of an adopted son to succeed collaterally in his adoptive father's family rests upon the party alleging such right.

Found, upon the evidence that the defendant upon whom the onus rested had failed to prove that by custom among Rajputs of the Una tahsil in the Hoshiarpur District, an adopted son is entitled to succeed to his adoptive father's brother.

Although if in any case the parties to an adoption are punctilious as to the observance of ceremonies prescribed by the Hindu ritual, all due weight should be given to the fact in deciding whether the consequences in accordance with the custom of the parties are in accordance with the rules of the Hindu Law, the distinction between formal and informal adoptions rests on no basis of fact or principle and is altogether opposed to the spirit of the institution of adoption as it prevails in the Punjab, one feature of which is the little heed it gives to the observance of ceremonies.

No. 97 P. R. 1879, No. 9 P. R. 1880, No. 88 P. R. 1881, No. 14 P. R. 1884, No. 89 P. R. 1885, No. 84 P. R. 1887, and No. 12 P. R. 1892, referred to. JEHNU v. SAUDAGAR

138 P R 1894

17. Succession of adopted son to share of birt*—Panjzati Brahmins of Amritsar city.*

Found, that no custom had been proved among Panjzati Brahmins of Amritsar city at variance with the rule of Hindu Law whereby an adopted son is entitled to succeed to a share of the family birt. BHAGAT RAM v. SHIV DATT.

141 P R 1894

18. Right of adopted son to succeed collaterally in his adoptive father's family—Sarsut Brahmins of Amballa District—Res judicata—Previous decision in favour of adopted son against the widow of the adoptive father's brother in respect of the latter's joint property how far binding on the daughters of such brother claiming to succeed as heirs to their father's separate property—Daughters not parties to former suit—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 13.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

M.—SUCCESSION OF ADOPTED SON—contd.

In 1876, in a suit brought by plaintiff against Mussammat I. B., the widow of one B., for a declaratory decree that after the death of the said widow, plaintiff was entitled to succeed, as the adopted son of A., brother of B., to the entirety of B.'s joint property, it was decided that plaintiff was the validly adopted son of A., and as such, entitled to succeed as claimed. To this suit the daughters of B., by Mussammat I. B., were not parties. Subsequently Mussammat I. B. made a gift of the separate property left by B. in favour of her said daughters, whereupon plaintiff sued for a declaration that such gift should not affect his reversionary rights after the death of the widow, and made Mussammat I. B., and her daughters co-defendants. The latter pleaded that plaintiff was not the validly adopted son of A., and that in any event, he was not entitled, by custom, to succeed as claimed. For plaintiff it was contended that the question as to his right to succeed as the adopted son of A. to property left by B. was res judicata by the decision in the former suit.

Held (per Plowden S. J., and Benton, J.; Frizelle, J., dissenting) that inasmuch as (i) the widow of B., succeeding to her husband's estate as his heir, represented the estate fully; (ii) reversioners claiming to succeed after her were bound by decrees relating to her husband's estate obtained against her without fraud or collusion; and (iii) the widow's daughters were not necessary parties to the former suit, the daughters though not made parties in the former suit were bound by a decision on a relevant issue tried and decided therein, and that therefore the question as to the validity of plaintiff's adoption was res judicata and was not affected by the fact that the property now in dispute was different.

But, held, further, that it was competent to the said daughters to plead in the subsequent suit that the adopted son of A. was not entitled by custom to succeed as heir to the separate property of B.

Found, after a remand for further inquiry, that by custom among Sarsut Brahmins of Amballa District, an adopted son is not entitled to succeed to the property of his adoptive father's brother to the exclusion of the latter's daughters.

I. L. R. XI Calc., 186 I. L. R. I. All. 282 and No. 139 P. R. 1888, referred to. MUSSAMMAT INDRA BAI v. GADU DHAR.

29 P R 1895

19. Collateral succession of appointed heir—Sidhu Jats of Gajjan Singhwala, Lahore District.

In a case, the parties to which were Sidhu Jats of Gajjan Singhwala in the Lahore District held, that a person who had been jointly adopted in accordance with the customary mode of adoption, or appointed as their heir by two of three brothers, who were descended from a common ancestor and held land in the same village, has no right of succession, as such adopted son or appointed heir, to the third brother who had not joined in the said adoption or appointment. WADHAWA SINGH v. GAJJAN SINGH.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

M.—SUCCESSION OF ADOPTED SON—contd.

53 P R 1895

20. Custom—Succession of adopted son in his natural family.—Riwaj-i-am.

Held, as regards the conflicting claims of the collaterals inter se, that an adopted son and his descendants are entitled to succeed in the natural family of such adopted son. RUKAN DIN v. MUSSAMMAT MARIAM.

68 P R 1898

21. Right of adopted son to succeed collaterally in adoptive family—Arains of Ludhiana tahsil.

Found, that by custom among Arains of the Ludhiana tahsil and District, an adopted son is not entitled to succeed collaterally in the family of his adoptive father.

Where, therefore, one S. who died leaving no descendants or male collaterals, made a gift of his land in favour of his daughter, Mussammat N., held, that the descendants of an adopted son of one D., a brother of S. had no locus standi to contest a deed of gift made by Mussammat N. in favour of defendants. FATEH MUHAMMAD v. NIZAM-UD-DIN.

18 P R 1900

22. Khatris of mauza Kawari, tahsil Pipli, Amballa District.

Held, that an adopted son was entitled to succeed in preference to the nephews of the adoptive father. HARNAMAN v. ATMA RAM.

24 P R 1900

23. Custom—Inheritance—Right of adopted son to succeed collaterally in adoptive father's family—Chima Jats of Daska tahsil of the Sialkot District.

Found, that by custom among Chima Jats of the Daska tahsil of the Sialkot District an adopted son is entitled to succeed to the estate of his adoptive father's collaterals in the same manner and to the same extent as a natural son of such adoptive father would have succeeded. MAKHAN SINGH v. DULO.

4 P R 1906

24. Custom—Inheritance—Right of the sons of an appointed heir who predeceased the adoptive father to succeed on the latter's death—Mahtons of Nowashar tahsil, Jullundur District.

Held, that by custom among Mahtons of Nowashahr tahsil in the Jullundur District, the sons of an appointed heir who predeceased his adoptive father are entitled to succeed on the latter's death to his estate.

Ralla v. Budha (50 P. R. 1893 F. B.) and Jehnu v. Saudagar (138 P. R. 1894), referred to. CHAJJOO v. DALIPA.

51 P R 1906

25. Custom—Inheritance—Right of the sons of an adopted son to succeed collaterally

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

M.—SUCCESSION OF ADOPTED SON—contd.

in their natural family—Moghals of Pind Dadan Khan tahsil.

Found, that by custom among Moghals of the Pind Dadan Khan tahsil the sons of an adopted son are entitled to succeed collaterally in their natural family. Diwan Singh v. Bhup Singh (45 P R. 1884) cited. GHELA v. HAIDER. 59 P R 1906

26. Custom—Inheritance—Succession to adopted son in default of lineal descendants—Inherited and acquired property.

Held that, although the property inherited by an adopted son by virtue of his adoption descends in default of his lineal heirs to the collaterals of his adoptive father, his self-acquired property passes to the heirs of his natural family.

Waryam Singh v. Man Singh (72 P. R. 1893), Sita Ram v. Raja Ram (12 P. R. 1892, F. B.), and Sher Singh v. Kishen Singh (4 P. R. 1900), referred to. PUNJAB SINGH v. KHAZAN SINGH. 88 P R 1906

27. Custom—Inheritance—Right of adopted son to succeed to his natural father in presence of brother—Jats of tahsil Panipat, Karnal District.

Found, that among the Jats of tahsil Panipat in the Karnal District an adopted son is not entitled to succeed to his share in his natural father's property in the presence of a brother. MUKH RAM v. NOT RAM. 100 P R 1906

28. Custom—Inheritance—Succession to adopted son dying sonless—Jats of Ludhiana District.

Found, that by custom prevailing among agricultural Jats of the Province, the estate held by an adopted son by virtue of his appointment as heir reverts in the event of his dying without male lineal decendants to the heirs of the adoptive father and not to the collateral heirs of the natural family.

Sewa Singh v. Wasawa Singh (58 P. L. R. 1901) dissented from.

Gholam Muhammad v. Muhammad Bakhs (4 P. R. 1891. F. B.) and Sita Ram v. Raja Ram (12 P. R. 1892, F. B.) followed GURDITTA v. ATTAR SINGH. 117 P R 1906

29. Custom—Inheritance—Right of adopted son to succeed collaterally in adoptive father's family—Chima Jats of Daska tahsil of the Sialkot District.

Found, that by custom among Chima Jats of the Daska tahsil of the Sialkot District an adopted son is not entitled to succeed collaterally in his adoptive father's family.

Makhan Singh v. Dulo, 4 P. R. 1906, dissented from. RAM DITTA v. TAKHT MAL. 50 P R 1908

30. Custom—Succession by adopted son to the collaterals of adoptive father—Kong Jats of the Daska tahsil, disirict Sialkot.

Held, that the defendant, the adopted son, on whom the onus lay, had failed to prove a custom by which an adopted son inherits to the collaterals of his adoptive father among Kang Jats of the Daska tahsil, district Sialkot. RALLA v. JAWAHIR SINGH. 61 P R 1909

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

M.—SUCCESSION OF ADOPTED SON—contd.

31. Custom—Succession by adopted son collaterally in adoptive father's family—Jats of Rohtak district—Riwaj-i-am.

Held, that among Jats of the Rohtak district an adopted son or his heirs can by custom succeed collaterally to property to which the adoptive father would have succeeded, if alive. MANSA v. SURTA. 99 P R 1909

32. Custom—Succession—Collateral succession of adopted son—Sikh Jats of mauza Chuhar Chak, tahsil Moga, district Ferozepore.

Held, that among Sikh Jats of mauza Chuhar Chak in the Moga tahsil of the Ferozepore district, an adopted son, who is of the same got as the adoptive father, is entitled by custom to succeed collaterally in the family of his adoptive father. DIAL SINGH v. SEWA SINGH. 103 P R 1909

33. Adopted son and his son succeed to property in natural family, agricultural tribes, Gurdaspur District.

Held, that the ordinary rule under the Customary Law is, that an adopted son does not lose the right of succeeding in his natural family except possibly in the eastern Punjab (i. e. the Delhi and Karnal districts), where the appointment of an heir approaches in nature more nearly to the adoption of the Hindu Law, and this applies a fortiori in the case of a son of the adopted son. JHANDA SINGH v. KESAR SINGH. 37 P R 1910

N.—LIMITATION.

—Suit involving the establishment of the validity of plaintiffs' adoption as the basis of his title—Period of limitation applicable.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 119. 3 P R 1904

—Suit by reversioner for declaration—Defendants' title based on an alleged adoption —Invalidity of adoption—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 120. 35 P R 1904

1. Indian Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 118*—Suit to declare an adoption invalid or as having never in fact taken place.*

Semble; The "alleged adoption" mentioned in Schedule II, article 118, Limitation Act, 1877, must be a transaction by person with some inherent right to adopt, and which is either denied as a fact by the plaintiff or challenged as being invalid upon some ground of law or custom, which does not go the length of asserting that the adoption, as an adoption, is wholly impossible. BHAGAT RAM v. TULSI RAM. 144 P R 1892

2. Suit for possession of land—Adoption —Limitation Act XV of 1871, Schedule II,

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

N.—LIMITATION—contd.

articles 142, 144 and 118*—Act IX of* 1871, Schedule II, article 129*—Jaj Jats of Garshankar* tahsil, Hoshiarpur District—Sonless proprietor—Factum of adoption.

The plaintiffs sued as heirs to recover from the defendants possession of the estate of K., who had died about a year before suit. It was pleaded as an answer to the suit that the third defendant, N. S., had been adopted by K. in June 1877, and that no suit having been brought to set aside such adoption, the present suit was barred by Article 118 of the second Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877.

Held, that the plaintiffs were not bound in a suit for possession to seek any direct relief by way of cancellation of the adoption; that the limitation applicable to the suit was provided for under article 142 or article 144, Schedule II, Act XV of 1877; and that the suit was within limitation.

Held, also, on the evidence, that no genuine adoption of N. S. had been proved to have taken place, the real transaction, viewed as a whole, being the appointment of three persons as heirs, which was not permitted by custom.

No. 116 P. R. 1890, F. B, referred to and distinguished. WAZIRA v. FATTU. 96 P R. 1893

3. Limitation Act (XV 1877), 2nd Schedule, article 118*—"Declaration that an alleged adoption is invalid or never in fact took place"—Suit for possession of immovable property.*

Held, by the Full Bench, that a suit which would fall under article 118 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877, cannot be barred under that article when it is found on the evidence that the alleged adoption never in fact took place or that there is no prima facie evidence that it did take place.

Per Plowden, S. J.—Inasmuch as there can be no adoption known to the law, whether the parties be governed by Hindu Law or by customary law, unless the adopter has manifested an intention to exercise his power to adopt, and as there must be in every valid adoption some external and visible act, or series of acts, done by the adoptor, or under express authority from him, which act or series of acts give effect to his intention, the mere fact that an allegation by the defendant that there had been an adoption had come to the knowledge of the plaintiff more than six years before suit is not sufficient to bar plaintiff's suit for possession of immovable property under article 118 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877. In such cases plaintiff's right to sue is based, not on the mere fact that an assertion of adoption has been made, but on the implied denial of plaintiff's title as heir, whether lineal or collateral, and where the defendant does not contest this title, there is no right to sue remaining upon which the law of limitation can operate.

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

N.—LIMITATION—concld.

I. L. R. XIII Calc., 308 (P. C.), and I. L. R. XX Calc. 487 (P. C), distinguished. SULTAN v. ILAHI BAKHSH. 73 P R 1894 F B

4. Limitation Act, 1877, 2nd Schedule, articles 91, 118, 140—Suit for possession of immovable property against an alleged adopted son—Suit instituted more than six years after alleged adoption, but within 12 years from date of estate falling into possession—Period of limitation applicable.

On the 17th February 1885, one H executed a deed of adoption in favour of defendant, a previous adoption in infancy being alleged, and on the 18th December 1887 mutation of names was made in defendant's favour. H. died in 1890, and on the 5th February 1895 plaintiffs instituted the present suit against defendant for possession of H.'s estate. Both lower Courts found that the adoption had, in fact, taken place, and dismissed plaintiffs' suit as barred by limitation.

Held, that the suit having been brought within 12 years from the date of the estate falling into possession, was within time under article 140 of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877 and was not barred under articles 91 or 118 by reason of plaintiffs' failure or omission to have the adoption set aside or declared invalid within the shorter period of limitation prescribed by those articles.

The principles of the law of limitation discussed and explained by Chatterji, J. RANGAN v. MAHTAB CHAND. 55 P R 1897

5. See D. ADOPTION OF SISTER'S SON, supra. 68 P R 1903

O.—RULE OF DECISION.

1. There is no custom against adoption amongst the Rajputs. GUJAR v. DUSOUNDI. 57 P R 1872

2. Kashmiri Sheikhs of Sialkot—Burden of Proof.

In a suit by the daughter and sister of one H., a Kashmiri Sheikh of the town of Sialkot, to recover their share of the said H.'s estate, which was resisted by one of the defendants as the adopted son of H., held, that the defendants had failed to discharge the onus which lay upon them of proving that the custom of adoption was recognized among the tribe to which the parties belonged, and therefore the adoption of the defendant by H. conferred per se no interest in his property on the defendant. Chamba v. Jowahir Singh (No. 170 of 1882, Civil) cited. MUSSAMMAT TALIA BIBI v. MUSSAMMAT BUDI. 130 P R 1884

3. Inheritance—Agricultural Brahmins of the Amritsar District—Succession to adopted son dying childless.

Found, that no well established custom prevails among agricultural Brahmins of the

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—contd.

O.—RULE OF DECISION—concld.

Amritsar District, whereby the estate inherited by an adopted son passes in the event of his dying sonless to his own natural heirs. In the absence of such a custom the Hindu Law was applied, and following it, the right of the heir of the adoptive parent was considered superior to that of the heir of the adopted son. MUSSAMMAT SADA KAUR v. RAM SINGH. 21 P R 1890

4. Adoption—Bedi Khatris of Pathankot Tahsil, Gurdaspur District—Adoption of wife's brother.

Held, that Bedi Khatris as a class though they may hold land are not strictly agriculturists, and that in matter of adoption they are governed by custom. SARUP SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT JASSI. 22 P R 1891

P.—ADOPTION OF SON AND STEPSON.

1. Only son.

Adoption of an only son is valid.—ADJOODHIA PERSHAD v. MUSSAMMAT DEWAN (No. 18 of 1870, Civil) ; HARRI SINGH v. GULABA (No. 50 of 1874, Civil) ; but amongst the Jats (Gill section) Ferozepore district, it is invalid. TEJA SINGH v. SOCHET SINGH. 33 P R. 1872

2. Age of adopted son.

There is no restriction as to the age at which a person may be adopted. BHUGGUT SINGH v. BOODHOO (No. 51 of 1867, Civil) ; MUKHUN v. NIKKA (No. 37 of 1868, Civil) ; and GUJAR v. DUSOUNDI. 57 P R 1872

3. Step-son.

Adoption of step-son (son of wife by former husband) is valid amongst the Jats of the Hoshiarpur district, whether or not there are living near or remote relations of the adopter. NATHA v. TAHLA. 45 P R. 1874

4. Badhal Jats of tahsil Ludhiana—Revocation.

In a suit to set aside an adoption, the parties to which were Badhal Jats of the Ludhiana tahsil, held, that the plaintiff had failed to prove that the adoption of a step-son of a different got was invalid by custom.

Held, further, that there was no evidence of a custom that an appointment of an heir, when once it had been completely made, was revocable at the will of the appointor. WAZIRA v. KAHNA. 98 P R 1884

5. Sindhu Jats of tahsil Chunian—Appointment as heir of member of another got.

Found, that among Sindhu Jats of the Chunian tahsil the appointment as heir of one who is not a member of that got is valid by custom, and the person appointed may be a step-son, whose father was not a Sindhu Jat. Natha v. Tahla (No. 45 of 1874, Civil) Sawan Singh v. Sant Singh (No. 1 of 1875, Civil), Waziran v. Kahna (No. 98 of 1884, Civil) and Albel Singh v. Vir Singh (No. 86 of 1885, Civil) referred to. GAGAN SINGH v. BULAKA SINGH. 23 P R 1886

CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—concld.

Q.—ADOPTION AMONG FAQIRS

1. Ascetic.—Adoption by an ascetic held to be invalid. TEKU v. BUSTI. 15 P R 1874

2. Natural son living, who had turned faqir.

Where at the time of an adoption, the natural son was still alive. but had turned faqir, the adoption was held valid. MOHRU v. MOTI. 52 P R 1875

IV—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE, DIVORCE.

—Effect of.
See HINDU LAW, BETROTHAL, GUARDIANSHIP.

—Suit for breach of—Place of suing.
See JURISDICTION. 57 P R 1874
147 P R 1882
JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT 8 P R 1886
35 P R 1875

—Fees, Marriage Fees.
See CUSTOM, CESSES AND DUES.
12 P R 1868
50 P R 1869
28 P R 1877
40 P R 1879
136 P R 1879
64 P R 1880
118 P R 1883
80 P R 1890

—Marriage-brocage contract—Void agreement—Public policy.
See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 23.
46 P R 1887
128 P R 1889
112 P R 1892
15 P R 1900

—Damages for breach of contract of betrothal—Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT - JURISDICTION OF. 43 P R 1887
See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, SCHEDULE 2, ARTICLE 35 (g).
132 P R 1889

—Succession to unpaid dower of a deceased female.
See CUSTOM—INHERITANCE.
43 P R 1908

—Marriage contracted before expiry of iddat.
See BIGAMY. 43 P R 1882 Cr.

—Remarriage of widow.
See CUSTOM, INHERITANCE,.
137 P R 1883
123 P R 1884
80 P R 1885
81 P R 1885
53 P R 1886
See CUSTOM, INHERITANCE WIDOW.
22 P R 1884
100 P R 1891

—Marriage, performed by mother, validity of.
See CUSTODY OF MINOR.
113 P R 1888

—Marriage of Muhammadan woman converted to Sikhism with a Sikh.
See ANCESTRAL PROPERTY.
50 P R 1895

1. Parties to suit for breach of betrothal. Under the Punjab Civil Court, held that when a betrothal contract had been entered into by a parent on behalf of his child, a suit for breach should be brought against the parent alone, and not against both parent and child. MAHOMED BUX v. MUSSAMMAT JEBUNT BEEBEE. 59 P R 1866

2. Betrothal to unborn child.
A contract of betrothal made in regard to a girl not born at the time of the contract is null and void. DIYALA v. BHAMA. 60 P R 1866

3. Buying a wife is not criminal. THE CROWN v. RODA. 19 P R 1867

4. Where money was paid by plaintiff on account of defendant, as a consideration for a bride for defendant, the plaintiff knowing for what purpose the money was required, held, that he might recover the money paid; the purchase of a wife not being malum in se, and being malum prohibitum, by the Punjab Civil Code, only as between the parties to the sale. SHAH GOOL v. IKRAM. 88 P R 1867

5. Guardian's power to betroth.
Where a parent makes a betrothal contract for his child and dies, the guardian is prevented by the contract from making another for the child. RAM CHAND v. LALJEE. 21 P R 1868

6. Damages for injured feelings are not an independent personal wrong, but the consequential damages of the breach of contract. Indemnification for expenses incurred in gifts relates to all presents made in consequence of the betrothal, and no such distinction can be made as that some are given "socially" and others "ceremonially." NUBEE BUKSH v. SUDDEEK. 22 P R 1861

7. Held, under the Punjab Civil Code, that although a suit would not lie to recover the consideration money paid to the parents of the bride elect to obtain their consent to the betrothal; yet a suit would lie to recover ornaments presented by a man to his betrothed in contemplation of marriage. GAMAN v. KABOOL. 69 P R 1868

8. Damages for procuring breach.
In a suit for damages for breach of betrothal contract, the Lower Court awarded damages against the parents of the girl, and also against her husband, on the ground that by marrying her he had promoted the breach of contract. Held, that the suit as against the husband would not lie. JHANGIE RAM v. DASS RAM. 83 P R 1870

9. Marriage brocage contract.
Where defendant agreed, in consideration of receiving Rs. 200, to find a wife for plaintiff, and the money was paid, but defendant did not perform his part of the contract, and it was found by the Court trying the case that defendant never intended procuring a wife for the plaintiff, but obtained the money under false pretences. Held, that a suit to recover back the sum of Rs. 200 (plaintiff having discovered the agreement to be void), was maintainable, but the Judges (Boulnois and Lindsay, JJ.,) considered the contract opposed to public policy. GAHU v. HAKU. 86 P R 1875

10. Suit for breach—Marriage of plaintiff after contract to another woman, pleaded in bar.
Plaintiff sued for damages for breach of betrothal contract. The plea was, that the plaintiff had married another woman, and for that reason, defendant refused to complete the contract. Held, that by law and custom, the plea was no bar to plaintiff's suit, but that the subsequent marriage went in mitigation of damages. The parties were Muhammadans of the Hissar district KANDHAL v. LAHIA. 59 P R 1876

11. Betrothal Contract, breach of—Money paid under void agreement—Act IX of 1872, section 57—Promises to do things legal and also other things illegal.
Where money has been paid by a bridegroom to the bride's father in consideration of the marriage of the latter's daughter, and the promised marriage has not been performed: Held, that such money can be recovered back by suit.

The transaction between the parties comprises two distinct and separable sets of promises within the meaning of section 57 of the Contract Act, and while one set, that relating to the marriage, is lawful, and amounts to a contract, the other set, that relating to the pecuniary consideration, may be unlawful as opposed to public policy, and therefore a void agreement. But whether such agreement be void or not, the person who paid the money is in either case entitled to recover it back in the event of the father of the girl refusing to celebrate the marriage. KAHNA v. KAHN SINGH. 106 P R 1879

12. Hindu Jats—Absence of ceremonies—Validity of marriage.
A Karewa marriage between a deceased Jat's widow and his brother upheld, although no marriage ceremony in the nature of Chadar Andazi or otherwise was proved.

Haku v. Mahtab Singh (No. 38 of 1879, Civil), cited and followed. MULA v. MUSSAMMAT CHANDO. 26 P R 1880

13. Reduction of dower—Reasonable amount.
In a suit for dower plaintiff claimed Rs. 4,000 from the heirs of her deceased husband out of a fixed dower of Rs. 7,000. The lower appellate Court gave plaintiff a decree for Rs. 3,045 and costs, out of which Rs. 1,045 was allowed on account of the penalty plaintiff had to pay as the deed of dower was unstamped, considering that a net sum of Rs. 2,000 was a reasonable amount for plaintiff to recover.

Held, by the Chief Court on defendants' appeal, that this amount was not unreasonable or improper under the circumstances of the case. MUHAMMAD WAZIR BEG v. MUSSAMMAT FATIMA BEGUM. 7 P R 1881

14. Karewa marriage during lifetime of former husband—Legitimacy of offspring. Bishnoi Jats.
In a suit among Bishnoi Jats of the Sirsa district, held, that a karewa marriage during the lifetime of the woman's former husband, who had put her away, was invalid by custom, and conferred no rights of inheritance on the offspring. BHANI v. JAG RAM. 36 P R 1881

15. Children of "dharel" widow—Widow legitimately married—Khatris of M. Majitha, Amritsar.
Found, that no special custom exists among Khatris of M. Majitha in the Amritsar district, whereby the children of a "dharel" mother succeed to the estate of their father to the exclusion of the widow legitimately married. DINA NATH v. MUSSAMMAT MANGO. 21 P R 1882

16. Suit for damages for breach of betrothal—Bride's father refusing to complete contract on ground that bridegroom was a confirmed gambler and unable to maintain a wife—Sufficiency of such plea as justification for breach of contract.
In a suit for damages for breach of betrothal contract it appeared that the defendants had betrothed their daughter to the plaintiff about 11 years before suit, when the plaintiff was about 2 years old, and the girl 7 or 8 years of age. It further appeared that the plaintiff had fallen into confirmed habits of gambling, and that the defendant in consequence assembled a panchayat a year and a half before suit, who advised him to wait for six months longer in the hope that the boy would reform. A short time before suit, he assembled a second panchayat, and brought to their notice that the boy had not reformed, and apparently asked if any one would be surety for his daughter's support if the marriage was carried out, but no security was then offered. About three weeks before suit, the plaintiff's maternal uncle summoned a third panchayat saying that the boy had improved, and offered a cousin of the plaintiff's as surety for the girl's maintenance if the marriage were carried out. The defendant, however, appeared to be dissatisfied with the offer and finally married his daughter elsewhere. With regard to the security said at last to have been offered, it was admitted that no deed was executed, and the proposed surety was not called as a witness, to show what extent of responsibility he was willing to take.

Held, that under the above circumstances the defendant was justified in breaking off a betrothal which offered no prospect of a suitable husband for his daughter, having first taken every means in his power to bring about a suitable arrangement before he did so. DHONU v. ISHAR DAS.

174 P R 1882

17. Suit for breach of betrothal—Liability of guardians of minor girl other than those who betrothed her.

In a suit for damages for breach of a betrothal contract brought against the mother of the girl and her two brothers, it was found that the girl had been betrothed to plaintiff by her mother and her father, since deceased: but it was contended by the two defendants, the girl's brothers, that they were not liable inasmuch as the contract had been entered into by the girl's parents.

Held, that as the said defendants were the present guardians of the girl, who was still a minor, and as they had knowingly repudiated the original contract and refused to complete it, plaintiff was entitled to a decree against all three defendants for damages to be paid by them if they did not marry the girl to plaintiff when she came to a marriageable age. Ram Chund v. Laljee (No. 21 of 1868, Civil), and Mussammat Golabi v. Santa (No. 7 of 1880, Civil), cited. GANDU v. ISHAR DAS.

197 P R 1882

18. Validity of marriage between Bujju Rajput and Brahmin woman—Failure to prove marriage—Legitimacy of issue of continuous cohabitation—Legality of custom legitimating such issue.

Plaintiffs claimed as the nearest male collaterals and legal heirs of one J. S., a Bujju Rajput, to inherit his estate. One of the defendants pleaded that she had lived with the deceased for many years prior to his death as his lawful wife, and that the minor defendant was her son by the deceased, and the rightful heir. The plaintiffs denied the factum of the marriage, and further contended that the deceased, who was himself a Bujju Rajput, could not contract a valid marriage with the defendant who was a Brahmin. In appeal to the Chief Court it was contended for the defendants, among other pleas, that even if there was no marriage in fact between the parents of the minor defendant, he was still entitled to inherit by custom on the ground of his mother's continued cohabitation with his father as a wife.

Held, that if the custom contended for merely inferred the existence of marriage from a long course of cohabitation between a man and woman in the avowed characters of husband and wife, and attached to it the legal consequences of marriage, there would be no valid reason for refusing to give effect to it; for marriage as a consensual contract would be most satisfactorily established by evidence of this description, from which the intention to contract a permanent union could be fairly inferred. But if the custom went further and attributed to mere cohabitation, apart from any such distinctive character, all the legal effects of marriage so called, that would be an invalid custom confounding concubinage with the true marriage relation, and conferring on illegitimate offspring the status and rights of legitimate children. Such a custom would be bad as encouraging immorality, and unjust as depriving the collateral heirs of their legal rights of succession.

Held further, that inasmuch as both by Hindu Law and custom a marriage between the deceased and the minor defendant's mother (who was a Brahmin woman) would have been invalid, the absence of marriage was immaterial in determining the rights of the parties; but even if such a marriage had been valid, the minor son would have had no right to succeed to the estate of his deceased father, as it had been found as a fact that no such marriage tie existed between the deceased and the defendant's mother, and mere cohabitation which did not partake of the distinctive character of a permanent union as husband and wife, would not confer legitimacy on the issue of such cohabitation. PIRTHI SINGH v. BHOLA.

29 P R 1883

19. Validity of second marriage in first husband's lifetime—Necessity for divorce in writing—Custom rendering second marriage valid irrespective of divorce—Bajwa Jats, Sialkot.

Found, that by the custom of the Bajwa Jats of the Sialkot district a second marriage in the first husband's lifetime is illegal, in the absence of proof of a divorce in writing by the first husband.

Held also, that a custom rendering a chadardaina marriage with a woman whose husband is alive valid, whether a divorce has been given or not would not be a good custom. MUSSAMMAT JASSAN v. NIHALA.

78 P R 1884 Note

See ALSO BAJA SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT CHANDO. 78 P R 1884

20. Non-payment of prompt dower—Muhammadan Law—Custom.

Quære, whether there is any rigid rule which is binding throughout the Punjab as between all husbands and wives who are by religion Muhammadans, that a wife who has not received her prompt dower is entitled either before or after consummation to refuse to reside with her husband. Mussammat Zebo v. Jewan Khan (No. 35 of 1873, Civil), and Mouladad Khan v. Wazir Shah (No. 45 of 1876, Civil), referred to. MUHAMMAD BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT BEGAM.

141 P R 1884

21. Capacity of minor to contrct to pay dower.

Quære, whether a Muhammadan minor can validly contract to pay dower. KHUDA BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT ABADI.

155 P R 1884

22. "Jhanjrara" marriages—Lalotra Brahmins of the Kangra district.

Found, that no special custom exists under which jhanjrara marriages among Lalotra Brahmins of the Kangra district are recognized. Zoolfoo v. Ahmed (No. 2 of 1872, Civil), and Gobinda v. Kahna (No. 22 of 1873, Civil), cited. MUSSAMMAT BUNDHO v. MUSSAMMAT LACHMI.

113 P R 1885

23. Non-payment of prompt dower before suit—Payment before decree.

In a suit for custody of wife, it appeared that the plaintiff had not paid or tendered before the institution of his suit the amount due to the defendant as prompt dower, urging that he had been excused such payment, but that on the Court finding against him on this point he paid the dower into Court, and obtained a decree for the possession of his wife.

This decree was upheld by the Chief Court on second appeal. Mussammat Zebo v. Jewan Khan (No. 35 of 1873, Civil) and Muhammad Bakhsh v. Mussammat Begam (No. 141 of 1884, Civil) cited. MUSSAMMAT MULKAN v. MUHAMMAD HUSAIN. 119 P R 1885

24. Custody of wife—Muzaffargarh district—Inter-marriage between Saiyad and Panja Shahi.

In a suit for custody of wife, in which the defendant denied the marriage and alleged that as she was a Saiyad and the plaintiff only a Panja Shahi faqir, she could not marry him, the parties being of the Muzaffargarh district, found, that no such customary bar had been shown to exist between Saiyads and others, so that a valid marriage could not take place between them, the difference being rather a social than a legal one. MEHAR SHAH v. MUSSAMMAT ZAINAB.

101 P R 1886

25. Suit for damages for breach of betrothal—Defendant justifying his refusal to carry out the oontract by custom—Onus probandi—Custom of Aroras—Riwaj-i-am.

In a suit for damages for breach of a betrothal contract, the parties to which were Aroras, it appeared that the existence of the contract and the subsequent refusal to perform it were facts not denied by the defendant, the father of the girl, but that the contention was, that owing to physical infirmities produced by supervening disease, viz., small-pox, contracted by plaintiff about two years after the betrothal, the plaintiff was not a fit person to contract marriage, and that the father of the girl was therefore excused by custom, from performing his promise of giving the plaintiff his daughter in marriage. It was admitted that the custom by which the parties were governed in matters relating to contracts of betrothal was correctly stated in the Riwaj-i-am prepared at Settlement, which provided that "if after "betrothal the boy or girl * * * * * "contracts any disease whereby the healthy "condition of the body may be permanently "impaired * * * * the other party "is at liberty to cancel the betrothal."

CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE, DIVORCE—contd.

Held, that the defendant, upon whom the onus under the circumstances lay, had failed to prove that the boy's health of body was permanently impaired, and that therefore the custom as embodied in the Riwaj-i-am justified him in refusing to perform the contract to give his daughter in marriage to the plaintiff's son. CHANDAN MAL v. MITTA RAM.

132 P R 1888

26. Remarriage of divorced wife—Legitimacy of offspring—Ghumman and Chimmah Jats of Sialkot.

Found, that by the custom of the Ghumman and Chimmah Jats of Sialkot, a woman who has received a written divorce from her husband, is free to contract a valid marriage, and the issue of the second marriage will be considered the legitimate children of their father. SUNDAR v. NIHALA.

84 P R 1889

27. Issue by a Rajput woman who occupied the position of a karewa wife—Legitimacy—Brahmin agriculturists of Rupar tahsil, Amballa district.

According to the custom obtaining among Brahmin agriculturists of the Rupar tahsil, Amballa district, the issue by a Rajput woman who stood in the position of a karewa wife is not excluded from inheritance. RALLA RAM v. ASA RAM. 48 P R 1890

28. Validity of marriage of a woman whose husband was alive, though insane—Legitimacy of issue of continuous cohabitation with such woman—Legality of custom—Legitimatizing such issue.

A custom that a married woman may, in the lifetime of her first husband, contract a second marriage with another man, and which recognises the issue by the second marriage as the legitimate heir of the second husband, is bad as being immoral, and is one to which a Court of Justice will not give effect. INDAR v JEWA. 49 P R 1890

29. Essentials of marriage—What does not amount to marriage.

Held, that a statement made by a Muhammadan father in his will that he had accepted a certain person as husband for his daughter is not equivalent to marriage. MUSSAMMAT GHULAM FATIMA v. MUSSAMMAT MAKSUDAN. 69 P R 1890

30. Jhanjrara form of marriage—Rajputs of sartora clan of Kangra.

Found that by the custom of Sartora Rajputs of the Kangra district a jhanjrara or widow marriage is valid. MUSSAMMAT DEOKIE v. RAM DHAN. 98 P R 1890

CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE, DIVORCE—contd.

31. Suit for damages for breach of betrothal contract—Recovery of money paid under the agreement.

Held, that a suit for damages for breach of a betrothal contract is maintainable. Sums advanced to the father of the girl may be taken into consideration in assessing such damages.

Civil Ruling No. 128 P. R. 1889, explained and distinguished.

Civil Ruling No. 106 P. R. 1879, followed. JESA RAM v GHAUSAM. 141 P R 1890

32. Apostacy—Dissolution of marriage—Singha Jats of Tarn Taran.

In a suit the parties to which were Singha Jats of tahsil Tran Taran, District Amritsar, found that no custom had been established whereby apostacy caused a dissolution of marriage. NARAINA v. HUKM SINGH.

152 P R 1890

33. Sunni Muhammadan—Prompt dower—Restitution of conjugal rights—Plea of non-payment of prompt dower—form of decree.

Non-payment of prompt dower is not a bar to the maintenance by the husband of a suit for restitution of conjugal rights, when the wife has once yielded her person to her husband. No. 164 P. R. 1889, I. L. R. VIII All. 149; I. L. R. XI Mad. 327 and I. L. R. XVII Calc. 170, followed.

But the Court, in the exercise of an equitable discretion, may, when granting the husband a decree for custody of his wife impose upon him, as a condition of the decree, the payment to her of the prompt dower. The principle appears to be that, when a plaintiff resorts to an Indian Court for specific performance of an obligation he has not an absolute right to insist upon the assistance of the Court. 11 M. I. A. 551, followed.

By Muhammadan Law, among the Sunni sect, a fair proportion of the dower must be considered as "prompt." What is a fair proportion must be determined with reference to the woman, the amount of dower, and, also what is customary. No. 109 P. R. 1880, followed.

Directions as to the form of decree. MUSSAMMAT AISHA BI v. MUHAMMAD SADIQ.

5 P R 1891

34. Muhammadan Law—Prompt dower—Restitution of conjugal rights—Plea of non-payment of prompt dower—Condition of decree.

In the case of a Muhammadan wife whose marriage has been consummated, and who was not a minor or insane, a plea of non-payment of dower is not a defence to a suit by the husband for restitution of conjugal rights.

At the same time, it is competent to a Court granting its aid to a husband seeking restitution of conjugal rights to grant it only upon terms of his securing the wife in the enjoyment of her personal safety and her other legal rights. Bazloor Raheem v. Shums-un-nissa Begum (11 M. I. Apps. 551; S. C. 2 Suth. P. C. Judgments, 59).

CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE, DIVORCE—contd.

Whether the decree in favour of the husband ought to be made conditional on the payment of the prompt dower is a matter of judicial discretion to be exercised with reference to the circumstances of the particular case.

The Full Bench Ruling No. 164, P. R. 1889, adopted the view affirmed by the High Court of Allahabad in Indian Law Reports, VIII All. 149, and by necessary implication overrule the decisions reported as No. 35 P. R. 1873, and No. 45 P R. 1876.

[NOTE—For a more detailed consideration of these principles, see No. 5 P. R. 1891.]

JAN MUHAMMAD v. CHANGA. 14 P R 1891

35. Custody of minor wife by minor husband—Hindu Jats of Rohtak.

In a suit the parties to which were Hindu Jats of Rohtak, held, that no custom had been proved by which a minor husband was entitled to the custody of a minor wife before she attains puberty. SHEO NAND v. SHEO CHAND. 64 P R 1891

36. Muhammadan Law—Dower—Debt—Necessity of a certificate under the Succession Certificate Act, 1889.

Dower whether prompt or deferred, is until paid a debt due from the husband to the wife, and as such is subject to the provisions of the Succession Certificate Act, 1889.

Although the said Act by section 4, forbids the Court "to pass a decree against a debtor of a deceased person for payment of his debt" except on the production of a certificate, there is nothing in the Act to prevent the Court from entertaining a suit, or even indicating that ordinarily, in the absence of a certificate, an order of dismissal is the proper order to pass. The certificate may be produced after institution of the suit, but prior to decree. SAYAD AHMED SHAFI v. MUSSAMMAT BUNYADI BEGUM. 88 P R 1891

37. Indian Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 103—Dower—Demand and refusal, nature of.

The demand and refusal to pay dower must be made in clear and unambiguous language, otherwise article 103, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, 1877, will not come into operation (Cf. XV B. L. R. 306.) MUSSAMMAT HAJRA v. MEHR ALI BEG.

63 P R 1892

38. The sons of a childless Sindu Jat proprietor, their mother being the wife of another man, must be deemed to be illegitimate. GANGA SINGH v. INDAR SINGH.

72 P R 1892

39. Marriage by chadar andazi*—Agricultural Brahmins of* tahsil Batala, Gurdaspur district.

CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE, DIVORCE—contd.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were agricultural Brahmins of mauza Tara, in the Batala tahsil of the Gurdaspur district, that a marriage by chadar-andazi between a Brahmin and a widow, called a dharel wife, is not valid by custom. NANAK v. BUA DITTA. 5 P R 1893

40. Marriage with a Brahmin woman—Right of son to succeed—Illegitimacy—Diwania Rajputs—Zafarwal tahsil, Sialkot district.

Found, after remand for further inquiry that by the custom of the Diwania tribe of Rajputs of the Zafarwal tahsil of the Sialkot district the issue by a kareva marriage of a Diwania Rajput with a Brahmin woman was illegitimate.

No. 29 P. R. 1883, referred to. NATHU v. GOKAL. 57 P R 1893

41. Suit by a Hindu Jat husband of Jullundur district for custody of wife whom he has deliberately abandoned.

The plaintiff executed an instrument by which he deliberately abandoned his wife, recording that he gave her up and had no further claim upon her. He now sued for the custody of his wife, who was living with another man. The parties were Hindu Jats of different gots of Jullundur district. Held that the husband had deprived himself of all right to the custody of his wife.

Quære.—Whether by custom in the Jullunpur district a Hindu Jat can divorce his wife. MUSSAMMAT UTTI v. HIRA SINGH. 78 P R 1893

42. Renunciation of wife by husband—Validty of custom—Ghumman (Hindu) Jats of Gurdaspur tahsil.

One Mussammat C. was originally the wife of K. S., but after K. S. had left her and his village she went to live with one I. S. and had by him a son, Lachu. K. S. returned to the village after an absence of eight or nine years but made no attempt to get back his wife. Upon the death of I. S. plaintiff sued to recover certain property left by the deceased, and contended (inter alia) that, even if custom recognized the union of Mussammat C. and I. S. as legitimate, such a custom would be immoral and should not be recognized by the Civil Courts.

Held, reversing the order of the Divisional Judge, that in cases such as the present the question of the validity of a marriage and the consequent legitimacy of children must be decided, not by any standard of abstract morality, but by custom, and that the question in each case being whether there has, in fact, been such a repudiation of the wife by the husband as amounts to a divorce, the reasonable inference from the circumstances of the present case was that K. S., on leaving his village, had renounced his rights as a husband and that his acts were equivalent to a divorce, entitling Mussammat C. to marry I. S.

Although divorce is not recognized eo nomine by Hindu Jats, it is in no way repugnant to the tribal law, by which they are governed in such matters, that a man who takes a wife should have the power of repudiating her, and that, when so repudiated, she should be free to marry another man. LACHU v. DAL SINGH. 33 P R 1896

43. Custom—Succession—Right of offspring of permanent union to succeed as legitimate—Union of Jats with woman of Jhewar caste—No formal marriage.

Found, that, by custom, when a permanent connection, like that of husband and wife, is formed by a Jat with a woman of a different caste (such as Nai, Jhewar Kalal and other similar castes), the children of such connection are treated as legitimate, whether or not a formal chadar-andazi has taken place between the parents.

In the present case, however, the Court found that an actual formal marriage had taken place between the father, a Jat of the Khaira got, and the mother, a Jhewari, of the defendant minor, who was therefore, in any case, entitled to succeed as legitimate. CHANDA SINGH v. MELA. 73 P R 1897

44. Legitimacy—Chadar-andazi marriage, proof of.

Plaintiff claimed to succeed to part of the estate of one K. on the ground that he was the legitimate son of K. by one Mussammat R. D. who, he alleged, had been married by chadar-andazi to K. after the death of her former husband, one M. Defendants denied that Mussammat R. D. had ever been married to K. and that plaintiff was K.'s son. It appeared that after the death of M. K. and Mussammat R. D. lived together, and were regarded by the baradari as man and wife, and that plaintiff after K.'s death was entered in the revenue records as K.'s son. The parties were residents of the Garhshankar tahsil, Hoshiarpur district.

Held, that under the circumstances above mentioned it had been sufficiently proved that the ceremony of chadar-andazi had actually been performed, and that, therefore, plaintiff was entitled to succeed as prayed.

Quære: Whether in the said district the ceremony of chadar-andazi is necessary to validate marriage. HAMIRA v. SUNDAR. 13 P R 1898

45. Issue of woman whom a man could not legally marry, but treated by him as his wife—Varaich Hindu Jats of tahsil Gujranwala—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that no custom had been proved amongst Varaich Hindu Jats of Gujranwala tahsil whereby, when a proprietor has through out his life lived with a woman whom he could not legally marry and has treated her as his wife and his sons by her as ordinary sons, such sons succeed to his estate on his death. HAKIM v. JAGAT SINGH. 87 P R 1898

46. Husband not entitled to custody of wife once divorced.

Where it appeared that plaintiff's wife, of whom custody was sought, had some time previously absconded with another man, against whom plaintiff instituted criminal proceedings under section 498 of the Penal Code, which he subsequently compromised by divorcing his wife, and that the defendant, R. S. thereafter married the said woman by karewa, held, that inasmuch as plaintiff had done all he could to divest himself of connection with, and responsibility for, his wife, the Court was not justified in putting in force the discretionary power vested in it and giving plaintiff a decree for the custody of his wife. HARNAM SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT KISHNI. 95 P R 1898

47. Sons by a Khatrani widow who lived with a Khatri as his dharel—Khatris of qasba Majitha, Amritsar district.

Held, that the offspring of a union between a Khatri and a Khatrani widow, where there had been no marriage, but the latter lived with the former as his dharel, were illegitimate.

Held, also, that no amount of recognition could alter the character of the union, or give a higher status to the offspring than that of illegitimate children.

Held, further, that a custom entitling such children to succeed to their natural father's property after the death of his lawful widow and to the exclusion of his brother's sons would be invalid, as confounding concubinage with the true marriage relation, and conferring on illegitimate offspring the status and rights of legitimate children. DINA v. KARAM CHAND. 52 P R 1899

48. Marriage by chadar-andazi between a Jat and a Brahman woman—Legitimacy of children of such marriage.

Found, that by custom when a permanent connection like that of husband and wife is formed by a Jat with a Brahman woman, the children of such connection are treated as legitimate whether or not a formal chadar-andazi has taken place between the parents.

Chanda Singh v. Mela (No. 73 P. R. 1897) and Hamira and others v. Sundar (No. 13 P. R. 1898), approved and followed. SAHIB DITTA v. BELA AND OTHERS. 50 P R 1900

49. Jat woman living as wife—Children—Legitimacy—Burden of proof.

Held, that a woman who lived for 18 years with a Jat, bore him children and was treated as his wife, her daughters being married by their father among his own baradari, it is to be presumed that she was the lawful wife of such a man and that the child born within 280 days after the death of his father was legitimate.

The register of births kept by a chaukidar of a village is not by itself conclusive proof of its contents and that the burden of proof of illegitimacy lies on the party alleging it. MANGAL SINGH AND OTHERS v. MUSSAMMAT CHANDI AND OTHERS. 51 P R 1900

50. Union between a Kahnan Jat of the Gurdaspur district and his deceased brother's wife—Children of such union—Legitimacy of.

CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE, DIVORCE— concld.

Found, that among the Kahnan Jats of the Gurdaspur district when a man takes the wife of his deceased brother into his house without any marriage ceremony, the children of such connection are treated by custom as legitimate. CHET SINGH AND OTHERS v. ASU. 54 P R 1900

51. Widow's lien for dower—Partition—Consent of heirs to possession of widow.

Where a Muhammadan widow, whose dower or any part of it is due and unpaid is in lawful possession of her deceased husband's property, she is entitled against the co-heirs (though not necessarily against any creditors of her husband) to retain possession of such property and object to partition until her dower debt is paid. MUSSAMMAT BENAZIR BEGAM v. AHMAD YAR KHAN. 80 P R 1900

52. Marriage—validity of a chadar-andazi marriage between a Minhas Rajput and a Mahajan woman of Gujrat district—Legitimacy of children of such marriage.

Held, that a chadar-andazi marriage between a Minhas Rajput and a Mahajan woman of the Gujrat district is valid, and the son of such a marriage is entitled to succeed to the estate of his deceased father. KHAIRU v. FAKIR CHAND. 57 P R 1909

53. Custom—Marriage—Validity of Karewa marriage between a Jat and Koli woman—Succession.

Held, that among Jats a karewa marriage of a Jat with a Koli woman is valid by custom, and such widow is entitled to succeed to the property of her late husband for her life. MUSSAMMAT AS KAUR v. SAWAN SINGH. 79 P R 1910

CUSTOM V.—CESSES AND DUES.

—Birt—Rule of succession in regard to birt dues.

See CUSTOM VIII—INHERITANCE, WIDOW. 17 P R 1891

—Suit by owner of canal for a share of the produce of land watered therefrom—Customary dues.

See JURISDICTION—CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 103 P R 1887

—Hak-buha.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 11 P R 1890 Rev.

—Kamiana—Non-agriculturist resident in village—Village cess.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 49 P R 1891

—Suit for value of skins of certain animals—Defendants pleading custom authorising them to secure such skins from the chumars of the village.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT, JURISDICTION OF. 34 P R 1887

—Suit for ' Kudhi Kamini '—Ground rent.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 21 P R 1888

—Suit for Atrafi dues.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 81 P R 1888

CUSTOM V.—CESSES AND DUES —contd.

—Haq Malikana—Customary dues.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 125 P R 1888

—Suit for Dharat.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 29 P R 1889

See CAUSE OF ACTION. 28 P R 1894

—Suit for birt realized by defendant and claimed by plaintiff as payable to him.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 13. 81 P R 1889

1. Talukdari dues.

Plaintiff, in August 1853, obtained a decree constituting him Talukdar, of the village of Noon in the Sialkot district, with a right to levy 12 maunds of grain per annum. In the Settlement record however which was subsequently prepared no mention was made of these talukdari dues. In November 1864 plaintiff sued to recover these dues for three years and obtained a decree from the Superintendent of Settlement which was confirmed by the Extra Assistant Commissioner. On appeal however to the Commissioner of Settlements he rejected the claim on the ground that plaintiff had received nothing since 1852, that he ought to have sued (Financial Commissioner's Book Circular XLVI of 1860, para. 7, Rule VI), within six years of the decree passed in 1853 and that as he had not done so the claim was barred by limitation. Held, by the Financial Commissioner, that even if the dues had not been realized year by year that was not sufficient reason for refusing plaintiff a decree; that plaintiff had up to twelve years from date of decree in 1853 wherein to sue and in a suit brought within that time the right to recover for three years' arrears. MEER BUKSH v. MEHTAB. 1 P R 1867 Rev.

2. Lambardari.

Held, that lambardari dues are not claimable from a mafidar unless he is also a proprietor in the village. HUZAREE LALL v. SALIG RAM. 42 P R 1867

3. The right to levy lambardari cesses at rates fixed at Settlement accrues year by year, and is not necessarily extinguished by disuse for several years though such disuse may lead to a presumption of abandonment. GOLAB SINGH v. BOOTA. 75 P R 1867

4. Marriage fees.

The collection of any cess (e.g., marriage fees) not entered in the Settlement record, held to be illegal. Junga v. Nagur Mull (No. 12 of 1868, Civil); unless there is a custom to collect the cess. ZUBURDAST v. MAHOMED BUKSH. 50 P R 1869

5. Marriage fees—Right of lambardar and co-sharers to them.

The right to huq bukree or marriage fees does not generally belong to the lambardar solely, by virtue of his office, but is an incident attached to the proprietary right of the land occupied by the cess-payers. ZUBURDAST v. MAHOMED BUKSH. 50 P R 1869

CUSTOM V.—CESSES AND DUES contd.

6. Puchotra — Wajib-ul-arz —Settlement record—Alteration of, without sanction of Government.

The parties to this suit signed the Wajib-ul-arz of their village at the Settlement in 1853, declaring they had never taken, or given, and did not intend to take, or give puchotra, the arrangement being made with the consent of the Settlement Officer and ratified by Government. In 1864, upon a reference from the Commissioner, Lahore, the Financial Commissioner, without the sanction of Government directed all claims to puchotra to be heard and decided on their merits, notwithstanding such entries in the Wajib-ul-arz which he held did not bind the parties.

Held, by BOULNOIS AND LINDSAY, JJ., that a revision or rectification of a Settlement record (Wajib-ul-arz) to be binding on the parties must be ordered by Government, and that the Financial Commissioner had no authority to declare that the existing entries did not bind the parties; that the provisions of the Wajib-ul-arz are binding till properly set aside, and the suit would not lie.

Held, by CAMPBELL, J., that the matter was not one for the parties to agree about, being a definite arrangement by Government for the remuneration of the lambardar; that no agreement on the subject should have found its way into the Wajib-ul-arz, and that the lambardar was entitled to his dues notwithstanding such entry. BHUGWAN SINGH v. KHAN SINGH. 55 P R 1871

7. Puchotra—Share of Sudder Malguzar—Claim to a recurring claim.

In the village there were two bodies of cultivators of different castes. Plaintiff and defendant were lambardars of their respective castes. Plaintiff's caste paid through him two-thirds of the Government revenue, and defendant's caste paid the remaining third through defendant. Held, that plaintiff was entitled to puchotra in proportion to the amount of revenue for which he was Sudder Malguzar—viz., two-thirds, and that the claim to puchotra being a recurring one, plaintiff was not precluded from now recovering two-thirds merely because he had in the time of defendant's predecessor drawn only one-third. BUDHA v. GULSHER. 14 P R 1873

8. Atrafi, or Kamiana.

Whether a particular class are liable to pay the cess, is a question of custom. Bhuggo v. Peer Buksh (No. 36 of 1867, Civil), and IMAM BAKSH v. NAZAR MAHOMED. 65 P R 1873

Quaere: whether the tax is legal under the Land Revenue Act. IMAM BAKSH v. NAZAR MAHOMED. 65 P R 1873

9. Suit for puchotra—Agreement not to take pleaded in bar—Punjab Government Circular Order, No. 536, 16*th April* 1872.

Plaintiff and defendant were brothers, and in 1864 litigation arose between them as to their respective shares in Pindi Gheb. The suit was compromised, and it was agreed that plaintiff and defendant were thenceforth to own certain specified shares, and plaintiff (who was village headman) was to release defendant from payment of puchotra.

CUSTOM V.—CESSES AND DUES —contd.

Plaintiff, notwithstanding this compromise, sued for Rs. 69-2 on account of puchotra for the year 1928, defendant not having been called upon to pay puchotra since 1864. Defendant pleaded the compromise abovementioned in bar of this suit. The Court of first instance decreed for plaintiff, but the Commissioner found for the defendant on the ground that the agreement of 1864 was binding on the parties. Held, that under Rule 9 of the Rules framed under sections 6 and 65 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, plaintiff was entitled to recover the puchotra, notwithstanding the agreement of 1864. MALIK OULIA KHAN v. MALIK FUTTEH KHAN. 73 P R 1873

10. Grazing dues—Revision at new Settlement.

Plaintiff, jagirdar and land-owner of mauza Hajipur, Zilla Karnal, sued defendants, his cultivators for grazing dues basing his claim upon the wajib-ul-arz of 1856, and decrees which he had formerly obtained for grazing dues against some of the defendants. In the Regular Settlement of 1847 the residents of the village were specially exempted, and this provision remained in force till 1856, when a revision was made imposing the dues.

Held, that plaintiff's rights to the dues was not established by custom or by the wajib-ul-arz of 1856 (for a new Settlement could not take away from any tenant rights acquired under or recorded in the old settlement) ; and that the decrees in former suits were relevant evidence under the Evidence Act, section 43, but not sufficient to bind those who were not parties to the suits, though they established the right of the plaintiff as res judicata against those defendants who were parties thereto. AZMUT ALI KHAN v. HARNAM. 61 P R 1875

11. The wajib-ul-arz did not show any existing custom to pay atrafi, but there was evidence that at intervals the proprietors managed to levy it from the kamins at various rates, and had brought two or three suits to recover the cess, which suits were compromised. Held, that a right to demand atrafi from the kamins had not been established. MOUJDIN v. WAZIR SINGH. 107 P R 1876

12. Right of lambardar to marriage fees.

The post of lambardar does not give its holders the exclusive right to levy marriage fees against his co-sharers in the village. MADAT KHAN v. TORA KHAN. 28 P R 1877

13. Chowdriat dues—Nowshera bazar

Plaintiff sued a for declaration of his right to one-fourth seer per maund on all foreign grain weighed within the Nowshera bazar

CUSTOM V.—CESSES AND DUES —contd.

in lieu of service as Chowdry, according to ancient custom. Found, by the Full Bench that no such custom was proved ; that it was only with the consent of the shop-keepers, defendants, that plaintiff, as Chowdry, could levy the fees ; and that unless with such consent, or as remuneration for services actually rendered at the request of parties, plaintiff was not entitled to levy the fees. DEVI DAS v. NARAINA. 45 P R 1878

14. Rayatana or Rayatgiri dues—Umballa city.

Found that, by custom, rayatana or rayatgiri dues are leviable from owners of houses in Mohalla Mehr in the Umballa city. AHMED HUSSAN v. MAHOMDA. 14 P R 1879

15. Levy of Thana Patti, or marriage fees.

A. S. and 35 others, proprietors of Patti Thambu Sahib, Kasba Mokatsar, district Firozpur, sued D. S. and 6 others, tenants with and without occupancy rights, for declaration of their right to levy Thana Patti, or marriage fees at weddings. The former Settlement contained a provision about the division of such dues among the proprietors, but the present Settlement papers and the Riwaj-i-am made no mention of them at all.

Held, by the Chief Court, affirming the finding of the Courts below, that the entry in the first Settlement record was only an agreement between proprietors, and did not bind the defendants D. S and others ; and that the plaintiffs A. S. and others, having failed to prove a custom of recovering such dues, or the continuous levying of them from defendants since Settlement, their suit was rightly dismissed. ARUR SINGH v. DAL SINGH. 40 P R 1879

16. Atrafi dues—Co-proprietor carrying on trade as artizan—Onus of proof.

Plaintiffs sued to recover from defendants, proprietors of Mauza Chougawan, tahsil Moga, District Firozpur, atrafi dues by reason of their being carpenters by caste and of their plying their trade as artizans in addition to cultivating their lands. Held, that the onus lay upon plaintiffs to prove that they were entitled by custom to realize atrafi from co-proprietors carrying on trade as artizans, and that, not having discharged themselves of this onus, they were not entitled to recover. NIDHANA v. SODHI VIR SINGH. 49 P R 1879

17. Kuri Kamini dues—Delhi district.

Found, that Kuri Kamini dues were leviable from shopkeepers in mauza Bahalgarh, tahsil Sonepat in the Dehli district. DEWAK RAM v. KOUR PIRTHI SINGH. 74 P R 1879

18. Dharat—Mauza Booteewala, tahsil Mukhtsar.

A custom found to exist in mauza Bhooteewala in the Muktsar tahsil, Firozpur district, whereby dharat is leviable on grain sold in the village. NAND SINGH v. BHOLA SINGH. 89 P R 1879

19. Kamiana dues, collection not authorised by entry in Settlement papers—

CUSTOM V.—CESSES AND DUES —contd.

Legality of collection.

Where plaintiffs, the proprietary body claimed payment of kamiana from defendants, who were non-agricultural residents in the village ; and there was no provision in the Settlement papers by which the collection of such dues was authorised :

Held, that where the collection of kamiana dues is authorised by custom, such collection may be lawful, although the proceeds have not been taken into account at Settlement or the collection been sanctioned by the Local Government. KHODA BUKSH v. DULLA. 118 P R 1879

20. Marriage fees, customary right to levy—Entry in Settlement Records.

Held, (applying the principle of the decision in Punjab Record Civil Ruling No. 118 of 1879) that the existence of a customary right to levy marriage fees may be proved independently of the Settlement record, and if proved may be enforced. MADA KHAN v. MALLA SINGH. 136 P R 1879

21. Hag tora or marriage fees—Mauza Hoti, Eusafzai—Legality of cess.

In a suit by the Khan of Tuppa Hoti, in the Eusafzai district, to recover a sum of money as haq tora, or marriage fees, from defendant, a Hindu shopkeeper residing in mauza Hoti, on the occasion of his marriage, the allegation for the plaintiff being that by custom he was entitled to levy such fees, held, per Curiam, that the plaintiff's suit must be dismissed.

Per PLOWDEN, J.—Because, assuming the alleged custom to be proved, it is not a valid custom such as can be enforced in a Court of law.

Per SMYTH, J.—Because it is shown that after the British annexation such fees were abolished by the British Government in Eusafzai and it is not proved that, notwithstanding the orders for such abolition, the fees have been since levied generally and as of right from the non-proprietary residents. GANDA v. KHWAJA MUHAMMAD KHAN. 64 P R 1880

22. Muhtarfa, or Haq Bua—Burden of proof—Hazara Settlement Regulation, section 48—Right to levy the cess.

In a suit for muhtarfa, or ground-rent, by the proprietors of Kot Najibulla, against defendants who were non-proprietary residents (weavers) of the same village, it appeared that the plaintiffs were entered in the Wajib-ul-arz of the village as the owners of the sites of the houses to which the suit related, and the defendants as owners of the materials or superstructure of the houses, but in the column for cesses payable by the occupants, no entry whatever appeared opposite to the names of any occupants.

Held that, under section 48 of the Hazara Settlement Regulation, the defendants must be presumed not to be liable to pay any dues, or haq bua, to the proprietors of the site, and the burden of rebutting this presumption rested upon the plaintiffs, the proprietors of the sites.

CUSTOM V.—CESSES AND DUES—contd.

Held, further, that the plaintiffs had failed to rebut such presumption in the present case, and had not proved that they were entitled to levy the dues. MIR AHMAD v. AMIR. 53 P R 1881

23. Mauza Nizamabad, Wazirabad—Right of proprietors to proprietary dues on sales of houses.

A custom found to exist in mauza Nizamabad in the Wazirabad tahsil of the Gujranwala district, under which the proprietors are entitled to ¼th of the proceeds of sales of houses in the village as proprietary dues.

Held also, that such a custom is not contrary to justice, equity, or good conscience. RULDU v. FATTEH ALI. 27 P R 1882

24. Mauza Chandnawa, Firozpur—Right of lambardars to levy atrafi from hereditary cultivators also working as artizans.

In a suit by the lambardarsof mauza Chandnawa in the Firozpur district to recover certain arrears of atrafi dues from several defendants who were alleged to be liable to pay the cess by reason of their being artizans, held, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove that by custom they were entitled to levy such dues from hereditary cultivators in the village, whenever such cultivators, being artizans, plied their trade as artizans, as well as cultivating their lands. Nidhana v. Sodhi Vir Singh (No. 49 of 1879, Civil) cited. KAHNA v. DYAL SINGH. 126 P R 1882

See also HIRA v. KHAZAN SINGH. 126 P R 1882 Note

25. Mauza Moga, Firozpur—Right to levy kamiana—Abandonment of right.

In a suit to recover kamiana brought by the lambardars of Tarf Jit Singh, mauza Moga in the Firozpur district, against the defendants, who were weavers and mochis, residents of the same Tarf, held, that abandonment of the right to collect such dues from artizans who were not proprietors nor hereditary cultivators in the village was not proved, and that by custom all the defendants (except one, who appeared to be a hereditary cultivator) were liable to pay such dues. KAMMAN v. BUDH SINGH. 146 P R 1882

26. Betrothal fees—Right of ala lambardar to levy from Khatri.

In a suit by the ala lambardar against the defendant, who was a Khatri, for one rupee on account of sarpanchi dues in connection with a betrothal, held, that the evidence failed to prove that a custom had always existed enabling headmen to levy fees on the betrothal of sons, and that this custom applied to Khatris. Madat Khan v. Malla Singh (No. 136 of 1879, Civil) referred to. DEVI DITTA v. GOBIND SAHAI. 118 P R 1883

27. Marriage dues—Agreement at Settlement—Oppressive exaction.

In a suit, the parties to which were both proprietorsof*mauza* Charsadda in thePeshawar district, the plaintiff sued as lambardar to recover certain marriage dues on account of the marriage of defendant's son. The lower

CUSTOM V.—CESSES AND DUES—contd.

Courts decreed Rs. 7, finding that, by the terms agreed on at Settlement, and attested by all the proprietors, the lambardar was entitled to collect this sum, of which one rupee went to himself and Rs. 6 to certain specified village servants. On second appeal it was contended that the levy of the dues was contrary to custom and oppressive.

Held, that as the due was levied in accordance with the above agreement, and formed a portion of the remuneration of the lambardar and of the village servants specified in the agreement, it could not be held to be oppressive to levy it, and no question of custom arose. Madat Khan v. Tora Khan (No. 28 of 1877, Civil), Arur Singh v. Dal Singh (No. 40 of 1879, Civil), and Ganda v. Khwaja Muhammad Khan (No. 64 of 1880, Civil) cited and distinguished. ABDUL HANAN v. MUHAMMAD AKRAM KHAN. 140 P R 1883

28. Mauza Koofri, tahsil Talagang, Jhelum—Marriage fees.

In a suit against the defendants, who were mochis, residents of the village of mauza Koofri in the Talagang tahsil of the Jhelum district, for one rupee each, as dues alleged to be payable to the plaintiff on the marriage of their daughters, found, that no custom was established under which the lambardars of the village were entitled to levy the fee claimed from the present defendants. KARIM BAKHSH v. SHARFA. 7 P R 1884

29. Mauza Dhodi, Pind Dadan Khan—Marriage fees.

In a suit by one of the proprietors (the sole lambardar) of mauza Dhodi in the Pind Dadan Khan tahsil, to recover Rs. 5 as hak bakri or marriage fees from the defendant, a Tirkhan resident, and occupancy tenant in the village found, that a custom existed entitling the plaintiff to the fee at the rate claimed. Zuburdust v. Mahomed Buksh (No. 50 of 1869, Civil) cited. KADA v. CHOUDHRI FATTEH ALI. 20 P R 1884

30. Mauza Karmunwala, tahsil and zilla Firozpur—Marriage fees—Liability of hereditary cultivator who has kamins of his own.

In a suit for marriage fees brought by the lambardars of Karmunwala in the Firozpur district against a Jat hereditary cultivator of the village, held, that no custom was established under which an occupancy tenant, who has kamins of his own, and contributes to the support of a faqir of his own, is bound to make any payment to the lambardars on occasion of marriages in his family. MALHA v. BAMAN. 31 P R 1885

31. Mauza Dudi, Pind Dadan Khan—Right of lambardar to levy marriage fees— Wajib-ul-arz.

A claim by the lambardar of mauza Dudi in the Pind Dadan Khan tahsil for Rs. 5, on account of "hak bakri" (a cess levied at the above rate for every daughter's marriage) against a shopkeeper and non-proprietor in the village, decreed in accordance with the entry in the Wajib-ul- arz of the village, defendant having failed to prove that such entry was incorrect.

CUSTOM V.—CESSES AND DUES—concld.

Kada v. Choudhri Fateh Ali (No. 20 P. R. 1884), observed upon and explained PHIRAYA v. SHAHBAZ KHAN. 30 P R 1888

32. Haq-tora—Betrothal fees—Right of lambardar to levy on behalf of menials—Kandi Patti Khel Adenzai.

In a suit by the lambardar against the defendant, a carpenter and proprietor of the house for Rs. 12 on account of hak-tora in connection with a betrothal and marriage.

Held, that the evidence failed to prove that a custom existed enabling the headman as such to levy fees from proprietors of houses for payment to certain village menials. NUR GUL v. HABIB KHAN. 80 P R 1890

See ALSO SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 33 P R 1887

33. *Village dues—Atrafi—Public policy.*

The levy of atrafi from such persons as are liable to pay the same to the village proprietary body is not opposed to public policy. CHAUGATTA v. NAND SINGH. 18 P R 1892 Rev.

34. Custom, validity of—Unreasonable custom—Chuhras of Kasur, Lahore district.

Plaintiffs, certain Chuhras of Kasur, claimed to be entitled by custom to half the value of the skins of all animals dying in the said town, as against Chuhras who actually disposed of the carcases, and would ordinarily have been entitled to the whole value of the skins.

Held, by the Full Bench, that such custom was invalid on the ground that it was unreasonable. BUDHA v. NANAK. 2 P R 1896 F B

35. Custom—Suit for value of buffalo skin in return for services rendered—Reasonable custom.

Held, that a custom under which plaintiffs claimed the value of a buffalo skin on the ground that they were entitled under the Wajib-ul-arz to the skin in return for certain customary services (begar) rendered by them was not unreasonable or invalid.

No. 2 P. R. 1896 and No. 49 P. R. 1897 distinguished. PARTAB SINGH v. BARU. 11 P R 1900

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND.

See JURISDICTION OF REVENUE COURT. 71 P R 1875, 40 P R 1876, 97 P R 1876

See JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT. 110 P R 1876, 80 P R 1877

See PARTITION. 17 P R 1867 Rev., 8 P R 1868 Rev., 66 P R 1869

See TENANCY ACT, SECTION 9. 2 P R 1871 Rev., 33 P R 1871, 30 P R 1872, 49 P R 1874, 9 P R 1876, 20 P R 1876

991

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

—Ala and adna maliks—Re-appearance of submerged land—Right of possession—Wajib-ul-arz.

See CONSTRUCTION OF DOCUMENT. 125 P R 1889

—Construction of document—" Kul haqiat Ka tisra hissa "—Inclusion or exclusion of share of shamilat

See CONSTRUCTION OF DOCUMENT. 42 P R 1897

—Suit to restrain proprietors of one patti from closing pathway over the shamilat of the village—Necessity to implead other proprietors of village.

See JOINDER OF PARTIES. 41 P R 1888

—Parties to suit—Dispute as to shamilat—Necessity to implead all co-sharers.

See JOINDER OF PARTIES. 108 P R 1889

—Portion of shamilat—granted to ala-lambardar in virtue of his office—Landlord and tenant.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 66 P R 1893, 123 P R 1893, 104 P R 1894, 105 P R 1894, 23 P R 1895, 28 P R 1895

—Suit for declaration of plaintiff's right to a partition of the village common land without consent of defendants.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 82 P R 1893

—Suit for possession of portion of common land allotted by instrument of partition.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 63 P R 1894

—Suit for pre-emption - Sale of separate holding with share of shamilat—Physical possession—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, 2ND SCHEDULE, ARTICLE, 10 65 P R 1889

—Occupancy rights in shamilat—Proprietor—Agreement.

See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS. 155 P R 1889

—Pre-emption—Preferential rights of owner of land in same taraf to rights of purchaser, owner of land in shamilat.

See PRE-EMPTION, RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES. 169 P R 1889

—Pre-emption—House on village site—Suit between non-proprietary residents in village—Vicinage—Special custom.

See PRE-EMPTION, RIGHT OF, ON ACCOUNT OF VICINAGE OR RELATIONSHIP. 85 P R 1893

—Suit by non-proprietors for declaration of right to hold their houses free from certain fees and dues—Right to maintain suit.

See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, SECTION 42. 48 P R 1887

992

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

—Grant of a portion of the village common land to a person holding the office of ala lambardar rent free—Suit for dispossession by the proprietors of the land—Landlord and tenant—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 4, clause 5—Jurisdiction.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 101 P R 1911

—Mortgage of common land—Redemption—Right of one of several joint mortgagors to redeem the whole estate.

See MORTGAGE. 2 P R 1904

1. Joinder in suit of the full proprietary body.

Where the right to common land was in issue, held, that the whole proprietary body should be parties to the suit. HOOKMA SINGH v. FUTTEH SINGH (No. 103 of 1866, Civil) and KAHN SINGH v. GOBIND DASS. 39 P R 1866

2. Where a person was found to be owner of a holding in a village, held, that the presumption was that he was entitled to a share in the common land; but if there had been non-user for more than twelve years, the right must be presumed to have been abandoned. KISHEN LALL v. MOOTSUDDEE. 52 P R 1866

3. Digging kunker.

A deed purporting to convey the right of entry to dig kunker in common land, is not valid unless all the proprietors join in it. ANDERSON v. TAYLOR. 70 P R 1866

4. Ejectment by others than the full proprietary body.

The user of shamilat land is very different from the occupation of a plot of private property. The owner of private lands may be taken conclusively to part with the property which another occupies without leave or license for seventeen years, but there are circumstances in the case of common land belonging to a village, to rebut any such presumption. A suit was brought by a lambardar, backed by the majority of the proprietors, who were then proceeding to partition, to eject an occupier of 17 years' standing. Thirty-eight proprietors were in favour of ejectment; and fourteen for the defendant's remaining. Held, that these fourteen should be joined as defendants; and on that being done, a decree might be passed to eject the occupier on giving compensation. GULAB SINGH v. HEERA LAL. 92 P R 1866

5. Delay on the part of the co-proprietors in objecting to a sale by one of the proprietary body, entitles a bonâ fide purchaser for value to be maintained in possession. BUKSHAN v. NOOR MAHOMED. 96 P R 1866

6. Ejectment of tenant-at-will by proprietary body.

A khewatdar cultivating common land by consent of his co-proprietors, may become a tenant-at-will of the rest of the co-proprietors, and may be ejected; but the act of ejectment must proceed from the proprietary body generally and not from a portion only. NEHAL SINGH v. RUTTUN SINGH. 99 P R 1866

993

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

7. Sub-proprietors' right.

In certain cases sub-proprietors may receive a proportionate share in the shamilat. Both parties were Gukkurs, the dominant tribe in the village. Appellants had been out of proprietary possession for 20 years and were recorded as malik qabzas; on this ground the lower Courts would not allow appellant a share in the shamilat. Held, that as the Settlement Officer had intermediately recognized a distinction between malik qabzas who were Gukkurs and malik qabzas who belonged to other castes, the rule which excluded sub-proprietors from a share in common land might be relaxed, and that appellants should receive a share in the shamilat proportionate to their khewat holding or actual possession. ROOSTUM KHAN v. AZEEMOOLLAH. 5 P R 1867 Rev.

8. Hereditary cultivator.

Under the general system of property established in this province, a hereditary cultivator is not entitled to a share in the shamilat or common land of the village. Therefore a claim to such share set up by a hereditary cultivator was, in the absence of any express provision on the subject in the Wajib-ul-arz, held to be untenable. AKBUR v. FUTTEH SHAH. 8 P R 1867

9. See 110 P. R. 1876 BELOW FOR. 18 P R 1867

10. Mafidar's right.

A right to share in the common land does not necessarily attach to the biswadars of a mafi plot within the village. ABDOOL SUMUND v. ROOLDOO. 45 P R 1867

11. Lambardar.

The office of lambardar confers no right per se, to dispose of the common land. NEBA MULL v. ROOPA 48 P R 1867

12. The devotion of a piece of land (not being gora deh or common building site) to a common village purposes, as the location of a faqir, requires to be established by long use for the particular object; failing which, if the occupant be not one of the proprietary body he can be ejected by the majority of the proprietors. HEERA MULL v. GOLAB SINGH. 56 P R 1867

13. Artizans located on the common by the majority of the proprietors cannot, in the absence of special damage to any one and of provision by the contrary in the Wajib-ul-arz, be ejected to the majority. LUCHMUN v. TEJ RAM. 43 P R 1868

14. A mafidar is not entitled to share in the shamilat, merely by reason of his being an assignee of the Government revenue; but if he be also proprietor of the mafi holding, whether he is entitled to share in the shamilat or not will depened upon how he obtained the proprietorship of that holding. BUSSAWA SINGH v. GOLAB SINGH.

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

44 P R 1868

15. Waste Land.

The waste land attached to a mehal consisting of an aggregate of independent wells, does not necessarily belong exclusively to the owner of the site of the principal village which gives its name to the whole mehal. KAEM SHAH v. MOHUMDA. 64 P R 1868

16. A faqir who has been allowed without opposition to squat on the common, and to plant trees thereon and enjoy the fruit, cannot be disturbed by hereditary cultivators of the land, though it is open to the proprietary body to dispute his right. GOORDIT SINGH v. GABEEA. 103 P R 1868

17. Co-parceners—Allotment on partition.

The Wajib-ul-arz gave to the lambardars the right of allocating shamilat land to the cultivators, and reserved the prior right to a co-parcener to break up land bordering on his cultivated field ; but it was not clear from the Wajib-ul-arz whether sanction of a lambardar was required for breaking up shamilat land not situated on the borders of his field. The land in dispute did not border upon the cultivated fields of the plaintiff, who was a lambardar, nor of defendants, whose eldest brother was also a lambardar. The land was first broken up by defendants, but plaintiff objected to this from the first, and never assented to defendants' possession. Held, that until application was made to divide the shamilat, the defendants' possession must be maintained, but not so as to necessitate allotment to them of the land in dispute on a partition of the shamilat, and that if the land should be allotted to another co-parcener, defendants must surrender possession. KURM v. HUSSUN ALI.

34 P R 1869

18. A claim allowed where the consent of the proprietary body had been given some years before in partition proceedings. Ameera v. Dan Singh (No. 25 of 1868, Civil) ; and where the Wajib-ul-arz provided for it. GOLAB SINGH v. KANH SINGH. 84 P R 1869

19. Transfer—Consent of joint proprietors.

With regard to village affairs, a temporary alienation of a portion of joint-property without the consent of the joint-owners may be valid. The allotment of a portion of shamilat land to a head lambardar is not a transfer which requires the consent of all the shareholders. JUGGUT SINGH v. BAGH SINGH.

4 P R 1870 Rev.

20. Gift of share in divided land—Right of donee to shamilat.

Defendants held certain shares in the divided land of the village by gift from the original proprietors. Held, that the defendants were entitled in virtue of their separate holdings to share in the common land according to the usual division of the profits of the common land among the proprietary body. MAHOMED SADIK v. ABDULLA.

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

52 P R 1871

21. Appropriation of part of shamilat—Assent of majority of proprietors disregarded.

The contention between the parties was as to whether a piece of shamliat land should be used for the site of a serai. Inasmuch as it appeared that the dispute had arisen out of the attempts of certain individual members of the proprietary body to get possession of a piece of shamilat ground for themselves, and that the object for which the ground was to be used was only colourable, the Chief Court held that, whatever might be the rights of disputing parties in a village community where a bonâ fide dispute had arisen as to the use of the common land, it could not allow the assent of the majority of the proprietors of the thoke to which the shamilat belonged, to outweigh in this case the declared wish of the minority. HIDAYAT ALI v. AKBAR ALI.

76 P R 1873

22. The proprietary body of muaza Chatera, zillah Rohtak, gave a portion of the shamilat as dhol (or rent free) to a faqir. The proprietors of Pana Begwan, objecting to the conduct of the faqir, sued to oust him, the proprietors of Pana Chaja wishing to retain the grantee in possession.

Held, that the suit of the proprietors of Pana Begwan would not lie ; that their proper course was to apply for partition RATU DAS v. INDRAJ 40 P R 1875

23. Grazing—Rights of common pasture.

The Wajib-ul-arz of village B was as follows : " The cattle of the entire village, without distinction of proprietors and non-proprietors, shall continue to graze in future in the same manner as they have grazed from old times ; no grazing dues shall be collected." The plaintiffs resided elsewhere, and resorted to village B merely for the purposes of cultivation.

Held, that their right to depasture cattle free of charge in village B was limited to such cattle as they bonâ fide used for cultivating the lands held by them in that village, and did not extend to all the cattle they might possess; but that the right extended to all parts of the waste of village B on which the proprietors grazed their cattle. A claim asserted by the proprietors of one village to common of pasture in another, must be supported by the very fullest and clearest evidence when the Wajib-ul-arz is silent on the point. BHUP SINGH v. SARDHA SINGH. 108 P R 1876

24. No decree regarding rights in common land can be made adverse to the proprietary body unless they are parties to the suit either as a body or through their ordinary representatives. BOOTA v. WUZEERA (No. 18 of 1867, Civil), and JAFIR KHAN v. FIROZ KHAN. 110 P R 1876

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

25. User by kamins—Right to continue the user.

Where certain paper-makers had by the consent of the proprietary body erected trade-buildings on the common land a few years previously, and a partition had followed, held, that the purchaser from the proprietor to whom fell that portion on which the buildings stood could not eject the paper-makers. DASONDHI v. GHULAM ALI.

3 P R 1877

26. The plaintiffs, weavers, claimed the right to have and use holes or pits in the abadi for the purpose of their trade, the defendant, a proprietor, to whom that portion of the abadi had been allotted on partition, resisting the claim. The plaintiffs had used the holes for many years, and the Lower Court found that by custom they were entitled to use them.

Per BOULNOIS, J.—It is open to the proprietary body to allow persons to occupy part of the commom land for their use and benefit in such a way as to acquire a right of user ; and under some circumstances, especially after a long lapse of time, it is not open to the proprietary body, or individuals claiming under it, after a partition, to oust the occupants. It is not a question whether there has been occupation for 12 years or not.

Per BOULNOIS and CAMPBELL, JJ.—The custom having been satisfactorily found by the lower Courts, the plaintiff's claim must be admitted.

Per LINDSAY, J.—The custom had not been satisfactorily found, and in the absence of proof of custom, plaintiffs should establish an easement. DEWA SINGH v. BILLA.

4 P R 1877

27. Held, that a non-proprietor (tenant) can by long use and prescription obtain a right to use part of the common land for the purpose of his agricultural employment, i. e., by erecting a bara or cattle-trough on the common land.

Held, further, that such a user will survive partition of the common land, so long as the non-proprietor (tenant) continues in the occupation of his cultivating land, and so long as he uses the bara as a tenant properly should. GHOUSA v. ABADAN. 34 P R 1877

28. Appropriation of shamilat for specific object—Dissent of minority of proprietors.

Held that, in the absence of any custom, the will of the majority of a village community cannot prevail against that of the minority when the question is one as to the disposal of the common property in such a way as to preclude all use of it by the owners. SOHEIL SINGH v. ABDULLA. 78 P R 1877

29. Abadi—Village site—Sale of vacant site occupied by proprietor for many years—Consent of co-sharers—Custom.

Where the abadi was recorded in the Wajib-ul-arz as the common property of the village proprietors, held (no special custom being proved), that the fact of one of the proprietors having held a vacant site in the abadi gave him no right to sell it to one who was not a member of the village community, without the consent of the co-sharers. HEBA v. RAM SINGH. 24 P R 1878

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

30. Ejectment—Suit by one of several co-sharers.

A suit by one of several co-sharers in a plot of land to eject a tenant of such land will not lie. All the co-sharers must join in the action. ATTAR SINGH v. DEWA SINGH. 17 P R 1879

31. Lease against wishes of proprietary body—Lambardars, powers of, in respect of common land.

The lambardars of the village of Rurki in the Rohtak district, gave a contract to K. for the manufacture of saltpetre out of certain lands which were the undivided common property of the village proprietors, 264 in number.

Four proprietors brought a suit against K. and the lambardars, to restrain K., the contractor, from manufacturing saltpetre, on the ground that they had not consented to the contract and objected to the manufacture. On taking the votes of the proprietary body, it was found that 162 objected and 10? were in favor of the manufacture being permitted.

Held, as the majority of the village proprietors were opposed to the grant of a lease for the manufacture of saltpetre from the common land of the village, as no custom was shown to exist in the locality under which lambardars had the power to grant such a lease in opposition to the wishes of the proprietary body, and as the lambardars had no such power in virtue of their office, that the plaintiffs were entitled to the relief claimed. KASHINATH v. LEKH RAM. 30 P R 1879

32. Malik Kabza—Right to share of common lands—Onus of proof.

The status of malik khudkasht or malik kabza does not ordinarily confer a right to share in the common lands of a village. Where, therefore, plaintiffs occupying that status sued for a declaration of their right to such share, held, that the burden of proving that they were entitled to it, lay upon them.

The fact that a malik khudkasht or malik kabza has been allowed to break up and cultivate portions of the common lands without being called upon to pay anything more than the revenue and cesses assessed on such la d. is not ordinarily sufficient to show that he holds the land as of right in virtue of his status as such malik khudkasht or malik kabza. SEWA SINGH v. GANESHA. 53 P R 1879

33. Right of one proprietor to sue for share of produce of portion of common land.

The plaintiff, who had established his right to a fourth share in the common land of the village, but had failed to obtain partition from the revenue authorities, sued the defendants, co-proprietors of the village, for the value of his share of the produce of a portion of the common land which they cultivated.

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

Held, that as the defendants did not cultivate as tenants of the plaintiff, and were not liable to be ejected or have their rent enhanced in a suit brought by him alone, and as, moreover, they were rightly in possession of the land under a well defined and recognized title, the suit was not maintainable. JAMUN SHAH v. AHMED SHAH. 65 P R 1879

34. Sale of mango grove by majority of proprietors—Dissent of minority—Suit by purchasers to compel partition of trees.

Where a majority of the proprietary body sold to the plaintiffs the trees standing in a mango grove, which was joint undivided property of all the proprietors, whereupon the plaintiffs brought a suit to compel the dissentient proprietors to partition off their share in the trees.

Held, that the sale passed no interest whatever in the trees of the grove: that the plaintiffs could stand in no better position as against the defendants (the dissentient proprietors) who were no parties to the sale, than their own vendors. That these vendors could not before partition claim any particular trees as their own; and could not have claimed partition of the trees as distinct from the soil on which they stood; and that therefore plaintiffs' suit failed. The decision in Punjab Record, No. 70 of 1866, cited and followed. GUJAR v. SAHAB SINGH. 109 P R 1879

35. Construction of enclosure with consent of co-sharers—Subsequent suit by minority of proprietors for removal of enclosure.

Where all the co-sharers of the village consented to the construction of a thorn hedge on the common land of the village, held, that a suit by a minority of the proprietors for the removal of the hedge was not maintainable, it not being shown that the enclosure was being devoted to any use materially different from what was contemplated when the assent was given, nor that any damage accrued to plaintiffs from the continuance of the hedge. KHET SINGH v. KISHNA. 158 P R 1879

36. Hoshiarpur district.

Found, that no established custom exists in mauza Bassimoda, in the Hoshiarpur district, whereby a non-proprietary occupant of a site in the village can make a valid transfer of house and site, otherwise than with the consent of the proprietors. SOUDHA v. USMAN KHAN. 8 P R 1881

37. Mauza Bahtar, Rawalpindi—Power of sale.

Found, that by the custom of the village of Bahtar in the Fattehjhang tahsil of the

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

Rawalpindi district, non-proprietary residents have power to sell the houses in their occupation. KALA KHAN v. SARU. 48 P R 1881

38. Mauza Bilgah, Jullundur district—Power of non-proprietor to sell his house without permission of proprietors—Proprietors' right to site.

Held, that a non-proprietary resident of mauza Bilgah in the Phillour tahsil of the Jullundur district may sell his house without the permission of the proprietors, though he has no power to sell the site. RAMJI DAS v. HAMIR CHAND. 9 P R 1882

39. Acquiescence—Suit for cattle-enclosure—Long possession by plaintiff—Power of village proprietors to evict where possession has not lasted for 12 years—Customary right of occupant to retain possession.

Plaintiff sued to recover possession of a piece of land adjacent to and enjoyed with his house as a cattle enclosure, on the ground of his long possession and recent dispossession by defendants. Defendants pleaded that the land was shamilat of the village, was not the plaintiff's cattle-yard, and had never been in his possession. The lower Courts found that plaintiff had held the cattle-enclosure for a long time, and accordingly held that his possession could not be disturbed by the defendants.

Held, that the judgments of the lower Courts could be supported on the simple ground that the occupation of the land adjacent to the plaintiff's residence as a cattle-enclosure had long been acquiesced in by the defendants, the village proprietors, and that such occupation by general custom was not liable to be determined at the mere will of the proprietors at any time if it had not lasted for 12 years, such acquiescence implying a tacit consent to the occupation of the enclosure as annexed to the residence, and that consent not being liable to be revoked merely at the caprice of those who gave it. Dasondhi v. Ghulam Ali (No. 3 of 1877, Civil), Deva Singh v. Billa (No. 4 of 1877, Civil) and Ghousa v. Abadan (No. 34 of 1877, Civil) referred to. NARAIN SINGH v. HAMIR SINGH. 36 P R 1882

40. Suit for removal of Chabutra—Co-sharers altering character of portion of common land without consent of the proprietary body.

It is not competent to one or two co-sharers alone, and without the consent of the proprietary body, to take possession of a portion of the common land of the village and to alter its character in such a manner as to exclude permanently the remaining co-sharers from the possession or use of it.

Where therefore the defendants (who were three of the co-sharers of the village) erected a chabutra in front of their houses on a portion of the common land of the village which was used as a lane, thus narrowing the lane to the material inconvenience of the persons using it, held, that the plaintiffs (the remainder of the proprietary body) were entitled to a decree to the effect that the defendants must remove the chabutra, and restore the site to the condition in which it was before the erection of the chabutra. GHAN SINGH v. SADDA SINGH.

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

73 P R 1882

41. Mauza Bagha Purana, Moga tahsil—Right of non-proprietors to sell their dwelling-houses with the sites—General custom—Proof of special custom.

The general rule, applicable to agricultural villages in the Punjab, is that a non-proprietary resident in such village cannot, unless there be a well established custom to the contrary, sell his dwelling-house with its site to a stranger without the permission of the proprietors of the village.

Found, that no well-established custom exists in the village of Bagha Purana in the Moga tahsil of the Ferozepur district, opposed to the general custom, allowing non-proprietary residents to sell their sites without the consent of the proprietors.

To prove a local custom that the owners of the houses are also full owners of their sites, and can dispose of them without permission, it is not enough to show that some sales of sites have taken place which were not objected to, and that in a particular case some of the proprietors objected without success. Proof of particular sales having taken place without objection would be very good evidence of the title of the purchaser to the lands actually sold ; but while such sales would give a good title to individuals in particular portions of the village site, they would not prove that the rights of the proprietary body over the remainder of the site had been extinguished, and that possession whether by proprietors or non-proprietors had come to be the only measure of right. Mya Das v. Futteh Din (No. 25 of 1875, Civil), Bika Singh v. Lakhu (No. 92 of 1880, Civil), Sahiba v. Prema (No. 93 of 1880, Civil), Ramji Das v. Hamir Chand (No. 9 of 1882, Civil), and Bishen Chand v. Jawanda Mal (C. A. No. 1313 of 1876, unpublished), cited. KHARK SINGH v. ALLADITTA.

85 P R 1882

42. Lease of common land by some co-sharers without consent of rest—Validity and effect of such disposition.

In a suit brought to enforce specific performance of a lease executed by some of the proprietors of the village, whereby they transferred to the plaintiff all their rights and interests in the shamilat land of the village, the defendants who contested the case pleaded inter alia that the lease of joint property like shamilat land by only some of the co-sharers without the consent of the rest was invalid.

Held, that the fact of some of the proprietors not having joined in the lease did not, in the absence of a contrary custom (which was not alleged to exist in the present case), render the contract void and inoperative.

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

Although in certain villages a local custom may exist whereby a co-sharer may be restrained from alienating even for temporary purposes his own share except under specified conditions, there is nothing on general legal grounds to prevent a co-sharer from validly disposing of his own share in common property, and thereby substituting the purchaser or alienee in his own stead as a tenant in common with the rest of the proprietary body, so long as such a disposition does not interfere improperly with the enjoyment by the latter of the property in the usual manner. Anderson v. Taylor (No. 70 of 1866, Civil), and Gujar v. Sahab Singh (No. 109 of 1879, Civil) referred to. JHANDA v. NANA LAL.

148 P R 1882

Cited and followed in GURADITTA v. JOWALA SHAH. 102 P R 1883

43. Suit by proprietors to oust occupancy tenants from baras—Tenants' right to retain possession.

In a suit by the proprietors of the village to oust the defendants, who were occupancy tenants, from certain baras or enclosures situated near the village site and occupied by defendants, it was found that the defendants had been in possession of the baras for a long time and had been using them for the storage of bhusa and for agricultural purposes.

Held, that the defendants' occupation of the baras should not be disturbed so long as they remained hereditary tenants in the village, and used the baras for purposes connected with the tenancy of their lands. Ghousa v. Abadan (No. 34 of 1877, Civil) followed. SHEOJI RAM v. PAUKAR.

152 P R 1882

44. Mauza Bhirwal, tahsil Chunian—Right of non-proprietor to sell the site of his house

In a suit for possession of a house in mauza Bhirwal, tahsil Chunian, Lahore district, on the ground of purchase from a non-proprietary resident in that village, held, that the plaintiff had failed to establish any custom, contrary to the generally prevailing custom in the Punjab, whereby a non-proprietary resident could dispose of the site as well as the materials of his house ; the evidence establishing that while the materials might be sold, the site was the property of the proprietors of the village and could not be transferred by sale without their consent. NANDA v. PUNJU SINGH. 193 P R 1882

45. User by kamin—Presumption from long user—Bara.

Plaintiff, who was a kamin and a non-proprietor, claimed a bara or enclosure situated in the common land, from which he alleged the defendant's the proprietors, had ejected him. It was found that plaintiff had had possession of the bara for about 25 years, but there was no proof that the plaintiff had received actual permission from the proprietors to occupy the land

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

Held that, considering the plaintiff's long possession, it was fair to infer that he obtained such permission from the owners, and that he had acquired a right of user in the enclosure. Dewa Singh v. Billa (No. 4 of 1877, Civil, F. B.) cited. LALA v. PARMESARYA. 73 P R 1883

46. Suit by one proprietor to eject occupant of common land—Joinder of proprietary body—Right to sue—Decree for ejectment.

Plaintiff, one of the proprietors of the village, sued to eject defendant from a plot of land in the village abadi upon which the defendant had constructed a hut, alleging that the building interfered with the discharge of water from his roof, which was accustomed to flow on to the land now built upon. The lower Appellate Court, after impleading the remainder of the proprietary body as defendants, gave a decree to the effect that the defendant was to be ejected from the land in suit, which decree purported to be in favour of the plaintiff and 38 co-proprietors, who, when joined as co-defendants, agreed with the plaintiff in demanding the defendant's ejectment from a portion of the common land.

Held, that a decree in the above form could not be sustained in the present case ; that the plaintiff as a mere member of the proprietary body was not entitled eo nomine to maintain the suit, unless he could show that by long possession of the site in question he had acquired a title which, against a trespasser, was entitled to protection ; and if the proprietary body as such, or a majority of them, claimed to eject the defendant as a mere trespasser, they must bring a suit for that purpose, the present suit not being of that character. NANU v. RAM SAHAI.

99 P R 1883

47. See 148 P. R. 1882 ABOVE. 102 P R 1883 Note

48. Mauza Parawala, tahsil Phalian, zillah Gujrat—Right of non-proprietor to sell his house.

In a suit for cancellation of a sale made by a non-proprietor of a house situated in mauza Parawala, tahsil Phalian, in the Gujrat district, held, that the defendant had failed to prove that a custom had grown up allowing sales by non-proprietary residents of the village in general. JIT SINGH v. IMAM BAKSH. 151 P R 1883

49. Mauza Chiryawala, tahsil Kharian—Power of non-proprietors to alienate their houses.

Held, that no special custom was shown to exist in mauza Chiryawala in the Kharian tahsil of the Gujrat district, allowing non-proprietary residents to alienate their houses without the consent of the owners. GURDIT SINGH v. FATTEH ALI. 6 P R 1884

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

50. Mortgage of undivided share in shamilat—Legality of mortgage—Possession by Mortgagee of share subsequently falling to mortgagor at division.

There is no rule of law prohibiting the mortgage by an owner of his share in shamilat and before it has been divided.

In such a case when the mortgagee has taken up a certain definite share at the time of the mortgage, and that share has subsequently fallen to the mortgagor at division, and has been held since by the mortgagee, held, that the said mortgagee is entitled to hold such share as mortgagee in preference to a subsequent alienee of the mortgagor. BULAKI v. BAHALA SINGH.

37 P R 1884

51. Mauza Mudki, Ferozepur—Transfer by one proprietor of his right of occupancy of a piece of shamilat land to another proprietor.

Found, that no custom exists in mauza Mudki in the Ferozepur district by which a proprietor in possession of a piece of shamilat land within the site of a qasbah is restrained from transferring his right of occupancy in such land to another proprietor. BHAGWAN DAS v. FUTTEH SINGH. 42 P R 1884

52. Mauza Chabal, tahsil Tarn Taran, Amritsar—Power of non-proprietor to transfer his right in a site on which he has been allowed to build.

Found, that no custom exists in mauza Chabal in the Tarn Taran tahsil of the Amritsar district, whereby a non-proprietor who has been allowed by the proprietors to build on a site given by them acquires a transferable right in such site. Ramji Das v. Hamir Chand (No. 9 of 1882, Civil), Kharak Singh v. Alladitta (No. 85 of 1882, Civil), and Bishen Chand v. Jawanda Mal (C. A. No. 1313 of 1876, unpublished), cited. PREM SINGH v. NATHU RAM. 73 P R 1884

53. Mauza Somryal, tahsil Daska, Sialkot —Right of non-proprietary resident to sell his house with right of occupancy of the site.

Found, that a non-proprietary resident at muuza Somryal in the Daska tahsil of the Sialkot district, who is the owner of the building in which he has resided, can by custom sell the house as it stands, including the right to occupy the site, but that such sale merely gives the purchaser the same right of occupancy in the site which his vendor had, he being liable to the payment of the same dues to which the vendor would have been liable. Mya Das v. Fatteh Din (No. 25 of 1875, Civil), Alla Ditta v. Dina (No. 125 of 1879, Civil), Bika Singh v. Lakhu (No. 92 of 1880, Civil), and Kharak Singh v. Alladitta (No. 85 of 1882, Civil), cited. MEWA SINGH v. HAKAM ALI.

87 P R 1884

54. Non-proprietary resident claiming proprietary right in site which he occupies—Burden of proof.

In cases where a non-proprietary resident claims to have a proprietary right in the site occupied by him, the main issue is whether he has such right, and the burden of proof rests on him in the first instance to show that he has it, and not on the proprietary body to show that he has not. The latter may rely in the first instance on the facts that they are the proprietary body, and that the proprietary body is as a rule owner of the habitable site, and therefore any body controverting their general title has to establish his proposition affirmatively. Alla Ditta v. Dina (125 of 1879, Civil), and Kharak Singh v. Alladitta (No. 85 of 1882, Civil) cited. AMAN SINGH v. KALLA.

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

119 P R 1884

55. Non-proprietor's right of residence in house on village site—Right to materials of house—Property in site after materials have been removed—Wajib-ul-arz.

Where the Wajib-ul-arz of the village provided that if a non-proprietor had built a house the materials of which were worth more than Rs. 30, he could sell the materials of the house with the right of residence therein, held that such right of residence could not be taken to include the right of residence on the bare site after the house had been removed from it, or to render the bare site alienable at the pleasure of non-proprietors after they had taken away their materials. HAR SARUP v. HANWANTA. 7 P R 1885

56. Right of village proprietors to restrain alienation of shamilat—Right of majority to restrain permanent alienation.

Where a suit is brought to restrain the permanent alienation of the common land, i. e., an alienation calculated to prevent any part of the common land from being hereafter divisible among the owners, there is no reason why a minority of the village proprietors should not sue: but where the alienation is not permanent, but the rights of the alienee, whatever they may be, are subject to the the future division of the shamilat, then the will of the majority will prevail. Hidayat Ali v. Akbar Ali (No. 76 of 1873, Civil), Soheil Singh v. Abdulla (No. 78 of 1877, Civil) and Kashinath v. Lekhram (No. 30 of 1879, Civil) cited. HAR SARUP v. HANWANTA.

7 P R 1885

See also GULAB v. LALJI. 7 P R 1885 Note

57. Suit by proprietors to oust occupancy tenant—Tenant's right of occupation—Tenant using the site for purpose other than that for which it was given—Custom.

Held, that by custom a hereditary cultivator who occupies a portion of the shamilat land with the consent or acquiescence of the proprietor for storing manure for agricultural purposes cannot be disturbed in his possession so long as he remains a tenant in the village and uses the site for the purposes for which it was given; but if he diverts the site to other purposes, as for instance to build upon, and disclaiming the title of the proprietors sets up an adverse title himself, he forfeits his right of user and is liable to ejectment at the suit of the proprietors. Narain Singh v. Hamir Singh (36 of 1882, Civil), and Sheoji Ram v. Paukar (No. 152 of 1882 Civil), cited and followed. BHANI v. BHAG MAL. 65 P R 1885

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

58. Suit for removal of cattle-trough erected by a co-sharer without the consent of the proprietary body—Altering character of common land in such a way as to prevent other proprietors from using it in the way they intended it should be used.

Twenty-nine of the proprietary body of the village brought a suit against the remaining proprietors (14 in number) for the demolition of a cattle-trough erected by one of them on common land, alleging that the trough had been erected seven months before suit and that it caused inconvenience to the people of the village. Defendants replied that the trough had been erected eighteen years previously on joint land in possession of one of their number, and that it caused no inconvenience. The first Court gave a decree for demolition of the trough, but, on appeal, the Judicial Assistant Commissioner held that the plaintiffs had not a cause of action cognizable by the Civil Courts and dismissed the suit. On appeal, the Commissioner reversed the Judicial Assistant's order, holding that the suit would lie.

Held that the plaintiffs could maintain the suit, not simply on the ground that the cattle-trough caused obstruction to a public road, but on the ground that one of the proprietary body had taken possession of joint land and had altered its character in such a way as to prevent the remaining proprietors from using it in the way they intended that it should be used. Ghan Singh v. Saddha Singh (No. 73 of 1882, Civil), cited. CHUHAR SINGH v. DHAUNKAL SINGH. 74 P R 1885

59. Suit for removal of wall and dahliz—Co-sharers have no right to exclusive possession of joint property or to alter the condition of any portion thereof without the consent of the proprietary body—Acquiescence in wrongful act.

In a suit for a mandatory injunction to compel defendants to remove certain obstruction erected by them on common land, the lower Courts dismissed the suit on the ground that the plaintiffs' conduct in allowing nearly a year to clapse before suing, amounted to acquiescence in the wrongful act committed by the defendants and barred them from claiming an injunction.

Held, following, Ghan Singh v. Sadda Singh (No. 73 of 1882, Civil), that co-sharers have no right to take exclusive possession and alter the conditions of any portion of joint property without the consent of the other co-sharers, and that, as the defendants in the present instance took advantage of the temporary absence of the plaintiffs to hurriedly run up the obstructions complained of, and plaintiffs on their return to the village at once objected to the acts of the defendants and continued so to object, the fact that they allowed almost a year to elapse before bringing their suit could not disentitle them to the relief claimed, as mere delay in enforcing a right does not constitute acquiescence.

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

To constitute a bar by acquiescence the conduct of the party entitled to offer opposition to the act of the other must be such as to give rise to a reasonable belief of his consent, and the other must have been induced thereby to do something from which he might otherwise have abstained. Gouhar v. Fazla (No. 53 of 1878, Civil) and Tronson v. Official Liquidator, Punjab Bank (No. 38 of 1881, Civil) cited. GHASITA MAL v. GOGA.

121 P R 1885

60. Mauza Hatin, tahsil Nuh, zillah Gurgaon—Right of non-proprietors to sell the sites of their houses.

Found that no well established custom exists in mauza Hatin in the Nuh tahsil of the Gurgaon district under which non-proprietors can sell the sites of the houses occupied by them so as to extinguish the rights of the proprietary body in the village site. KALLU v. AMIAN SINGH. 40 P R 1886

61. User by Kamins—Erection of kothas without permission of proprietors—Suit for ejectment—Right of minority of proprietors to maintain suit—Forfeiture of rights of user—Custom.

A suit brought for the demolition of certain buildings erected by the defendants on common land without the consent of the proprietary body, held, to be maintainable by a minority of the proprietary body, the act complained of amounting to an infringement of their rights as co-owners, which alone was sufficient to sustain the action.

Where it appeared that the defendants who were weavers, and who had been permitted to erect their looms on a portion of the common land, subsequently built kothas on the land without the consent of the proprietors, whereupon the plantiffs, a portion of the proprietary body, sued to eject them from the land, held, that though so long as the defendants used the land for carrying on their trade, they could not under a well-recognized custom be ejected, when they diverted the site to another purpose not warranted by the grant and built upon it, they forfeited their rights of user and were liable to ejectment. Her Sarup v. Hanwanta (No. 7 of 1885, Civil), and the earlier cases therein relied upon cited AMIN CHAND v. DASOUNDHA SINGH.

54 P R 1886

62. Non-proprietary resident of Mauza Badli, Hoshiarpur—Right of succession by remote collateral of last occupant of house on village site—Custom—Onus probandi.

Plaintiff, a non-proprietor of the village of Badli in the Hoshiarpur tahsil, claimed to succeed to the house of a deceased non-proprietor to whom he was only remotely related. The proprietors resisted the claim on the ground that the right of succession by non-proprietors to the sites in the village was limited to direct descendants (son, grandson, &c.) and collaterals as near as nephews only.

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

Held that, under the circumstances of the case, it lay upon the plaintiff to show that collaterals more distantly related than a nephew were by custom entitled to succeed, and that he had failed to discharge the onus cast upon him in the present case. ATTRA v. MODA. 37 P R 1887

63. Custom—Non-proprietor resident on village site—Right of ejectment by proprietor.

In a suit by the proprietors of the village for ejectment of a non-proprietary resident, held that the plaintiffs had failed to prove a special custom whereby they could eject such non-proprietary resident from a house built by him, so long as he remained in the village and paid the customary fees or rendered the customary services. Muhammad Alam v. Ajab (No. 34 P. R. 1882) cited and followed. ZARIF v. AKBAR. 50 P R 1888

64. Appropriation by one proprietor of houses built for common purposes—Suit for ouster of such proprietor—Joinder of proprietary body—Will of majority.

Plaintiffs, who were some of the proprietary body of the village, sued on the allegation that one of the defendant proprietors had set up an exclusive title to certain houses, which had been built on common land for common purposes by the whole proprietary body. The lower Appellate Court dismissed the suit on the ground that a proprietor holding common property could only be ousted by a clear majority of the proprietors, holding that such a majority did not exist against the defendant in the present case.

Held, reversing the above order, that in a case like the present, even a single proprietor would have a right to protect himself by a suit in Court against such an infringement of his rights. NAZAR SINGH v. HIRA SINGH. 74 P R 1888

65. Mauza Nagar, Rohtak—Succession to houses held by non-proprietary residents—Power to alienate such houses—Custom.

Held, that no special custom was proved to exist in mauza Nagar in the Rohtak District, by which only direct lineal heirs were entitled to succeed to the houses of non-proprietary residents in the village, and that the right to succeed therefore extended also to near collaterals. Attra v. Moda (No. 37 P. R. 1887), distinguished.

But, held further that, by the custom of the same village, non-proprietors, who either are or are in the position of mere kamins have no right to sell or mortgage either the sites of their houses or a right of residence therein. WALI MUHAMMAD KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT SURJI.

76 P R 1888

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

66. Mauza Kanet Khalil, tahsil Gujar Khan—Right of non-proprietors to alienate their houses and site without the permission of the proprietor—Right to sell materials—Custom.

Held, that no well-established custom was shown to exist in the village of Kanet Khalil in the Gujar Khan tahsil (contrary to the general prevailing custom of agricultural villages in the Punjab) by which a non-proprietary resident could sell his house and site without the permission of the proprietor of the site, nor was it even proved that he could sell the materials. Mya Das v. Fatteh Din (No. 25 P. R. 1875), Bishen Chand v. Jawanda Mal (No. 1313 of 1876, unpublished), Rehmat Khan v. Kutha (No. 3 P. R. 1879), Alla Ditta v. (Dina No. 125 P. R. 1879), Bika Singh v. Lakhu (No. 92 P. R.) 1880), Sahiba v. Prema (No. 93 P. R. 1880) Soudha v. Usman Khan (No. 8 P. R. 1881, Mir Ahmad v. Amir (No. 53 P. R. 1881), Ramji Dass v. Hamir Chand (No. 9 P. R. 1882), Kharak Singh v. Alladitta (No. 85 P. R. 1882), Prem Singh v. Nathu Ram (No. 73 P. R. 1884), Mewa Singh v. Hakam Ali (No. 87 P R. 1884), and Kallu v. Amian Singh (No. 40 P. R. 1886), cited. TEJA SINGH V. MIRZA SAYAD MUHAMMAD KHAN.

124 P R 1888

67. Mauza Hassellanwala, tahsil Phalian, Gujrat District—Right of non-proprietors to transfer the sites of their houses.

Found, that no custom exists in mauza Hassellanwala in the Phalian tahsil of the Gujrat District, according to which non-proprietors generally can transfer the sites of their houses without the consent of the proprietors. MAYA DAS v. JAN MUHAMMAD.

13 P R 1889

68. Mauza Ghartal, tahsil Daska, Sialkot—Right of non-proprietors to sell their houses.

Found, that no established custom exists in mauza Ghartal in the Daska tahsil of the Sialkot District by which non-proprietors can sell even their houses, apart from the sites, without the consent of the proprietors. BUTA MAL v. RULDU. 40 P R 1889

69. Mauza Bhagowal, Gujrat District—Right of non-proprietors to transfer their houses.

Found, that in mauza Bhagowal in the tahsil and district of Gujrat, non-proprietors can by custom transfer the materials of their houses on the abadi without the consent of the proprietors, but that such customary right does not involve a power to transfer the site also. KHUDA YAR v. KAPUR SINGH.

50 P R 1889

70. Mauza Chabal Kalan, tahsil Tarn Taran, Amritsar District—Succession to houses of non-proprietors—Near and remote collaterals.

In a suit for possession of a house by the collaterals (related in the 6th and 7th degree) of the deceased non-proprietary resident in mauza Chabal Kalan in the Tarn Taran tahsil of the Amritsar District, in which it appeared that the deceased was not an absolute owner of the house in question and the site, held, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove any custom whereby the right of succession extended beyond very near collaterals. KARAM CHAND v. HAKAM SINGH. 71 P R 1889

71. Mauza Ambadher, tahsil Doaba, zillah Peshawar—Right of proprietors to eject non-proprietors from their houses.

Found that no custom prevails in mauza Ambadher, in the Doaba tahsil of the Peshawar District, by which the proprietors of the village can eject a non-proprietary resident from a house occupied by him, and which was built by him or his ancestors, even on payment of the value of the materials of the house. HAMID KHAN v. TOTA SINGH. 88 P R 1889

72. Co-sharers—Exclusive possession of one—Dispossession—Suit for restoration of possession—Proper parties.

In a suit for possession of a plot of shamilat land, it was alleged that the plaintiffs had reclaimed the land and had long been in possession, but that the defendants had recently ousted them. Both parties were co-sharers in shamilat. The Divisional Judge dismissed the suit on the ground that plaintiffs could not sue for exclusive possession of joint property. Held, that one co-sharer may, under certain circumstances, take and keep exclusive possession of a portion of shamilat land for his own use until partition, and that another joint owner is not by reason of the land being shamilat necessarily entitled to disturb his possession.

Held, also, that it was not necessary to make all the co-sharers parties to the suit, as there was no dispute as to the land being shamilat. WAZIR SINGH v. MAHTAB SINGH. 108 P R 1889

73. Grazing rights—Common land—Occupancy tenants—Proprietor's right to partition and cultivate.

In a suit by occupancy tenants against proprietors for a declaration of right to graze their cattle on the original common land, the lower Appellate Court held that the plaintiff's right was conditional on the land continuing shamilat, and that, as the land had been partitioned in 1871, the right ceased. The plaintiffs based their claim on the Wajib-ul-arz prepared previous to partition, which provided that all the village cattle were to graze in future upon the common land of the village, without distinction of proprietors or non-proprietors. Held, that this provision did not mean either that the grazing right extended over the shamilat as it was constituted at the time of settlement, or that the right extended over the shamilat as constituted for the time being. The provision could not exclude absolutely the liability of a shamilat-i-deh to be partitioned at the will of the proprietors collectively. At the same time the partition could not of itself, by converting the property divided from joint into several, extinguish the right of grazing over it. The right of grazing over what was shamilat at the time of settlement and the proprietary right therein, may and do co-exist side by side, both before and after partition. Neither right overrides the other so as to extinguish it, but each right limits and is limited by the other. The proprietary rights of the proprietors whether collectively before, or individually after, partition may be fully exercised, so long as this exercise leaves a sufficient area to graze the cattle of the non-proprietors. But the mere act of partitioning the shamilat does not entitle the non-proprietors to sue the proprietors to have a portion of the original shamilat sufficient to graze their cattle demarcated and reserved by a Civil Court. When, however, a large portion of the original shamilat has after partition been enclosed or reduced to cultivation and the non-proprietors' grazing rights are seriously thereatened they may jointly sue the proprietors to prevent any further interference with what remained open of the original shamilat, or possibly to have some portion of the enclosed or cultivated land thrown open, so as to secure to them the proper enjoyment of the grazing right. HIRA v. NATHU. 119 P R 1889

74. Partition—Pattis—Village site—Common land.

Each of two pattis in a village claimed exclusive proprietary right in a plot of land. It appeared that the village site was not divided into blocks belonging to several parties, but that the land belonging to them was her mer or scattered over the village-site. It was also found that in Sambat 1920, defendants' patti sold some portion of the land in dispute to persons who were still in possession. Held, that considering how the land was distributed among the pattis, this did not prove that the defendants were entitled to the rent. Where adjoining pattis own common land, the general rule is that their rights in it are measured by the extent of land they hold in the village. MASTAN SINGH v. DEWA SINGH. 151 P R 1889

75. Gora-deh—Erection of sugar-press by one proprietor—Suit for its demolition by another—Appreciable injury—Alteration of character of joint property.

A., one of the proprietors in a village, erected a belna or sugar-press and a kotha in the goradeh. B., another proprietor, sued for a declaration that A. had no right to erect the buildings complained of and for their removal. Held that the erection caused no injury or inconvenience to the plaintiff who could protect his rights by applying for partition of his share in the shamilat. Plaintiff could succeed only on proof that the act was intended as an assertion of individual right, which, if unchecked, might deprive the proprietors of a portion of the common land altogether and prevent its being hereafter divisible among the co-sharers, or that the user by defendant materially interfered with plaintiff's own right of user. GHULAM MUHAMMAD KHAN v. BUTA. 187 P R 1889

76. Alienation—Powers of chief headmen and headmen of village to alienate portions of common land—Suit by other co-sharers to set aside sale and for possession—Previous sales by headmen of shamilat plots without objection by co-shares—Estoppel.

The chief headmen and headmen of a village sold a portion of the shamilat land, not as agents and on behalf of the proprietary body, but as principals. Other co-sharers sued to set aside the sale and for possession. The purchaser pleaded that the vendors represented the proprietary body and had as such sold plots of shamilat land previously without objection by the rest of the proprietors, whereby he had been induced to believe that the sale of common land was within the scope of the authority of the vendors.

Held that the vendors had no authority to sell common land. They were agents of the proprietary body for certain purposes only, i. e., for management of common land. Held also that it had not been shown that the plaintiffs had ratified the previous sales. MALLIK BASSU v. MRS. C. BRYAN. 191 P R 1889

77. Right of hereditary tenants to cut wood and grass from the common land of the village for purposes of sale—Profits a prendre—Easement—Mauza Mangharwal, Hoshiarpur District.

Certain hereditary tenants of mauza Mangharwal, District Hoshiarpur, claimed the right to cut wood and grass from the village shamilat not only for their own agricultural purposes, feeding cattle, &c., but for sale. The proprietors resisted the claim.

Held, that the tenants had failed to prove that they had any such right by easement or custom. ABDULLA v. PRABHU DIAL. 29 P R 1890

78. Village site—Custom—Ejectment of non-proprietor from house made habitable by him—Compensation—Mauza Jhawarian, tahsil Shahpur.

In the village of Jhawarian, tahsil Shahpur, proprietors by custom make over houses without roofs or in an unfinished condition to non-proprietors for use and eject them at pleasure either on payment of compensation or on permission granted to remove the materials.

Held, that this custom was good and binding. BUTA v. MOTI RAM. 37 P R 1890

See also EJECTMENT. 62 P R 1899

79. Non-proprietors, mortgage of houses by—Custom.

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

Found, that in the village of Kot Mahmud Khan, in the Tarn Taran tahsil of the Amritsar District, (which, apparently, was not historically speaking, a mere village homestead, but had been the seat of Nawab Mahmud Khan, a Governor under the Mughal Emperor, and had been founded by him), the proprietors were not competent to object to a mortgage of a kutcha house which had recently belonged to a non-proprietor, a Khatri ekka-driver, possession of which had been taken by his father's sister's son and mortgaged to one of the village proprietors and a goldsmith.

No. 73 P. R. 1884 and Nos. 9 and 85 P. R. 1882, referred to. GURDITTA MALL v. MOTA SINGH. 102 P R 1891

80. Partition—Shamilat taraf and shamilat deh—Ala lambardar—Muafi land held by ala lambardar in which he had no proprietary right.

In a claim to partition certain shamilat taraf and shamilat deh land, it was sought to exclude the muafi land, which was shamilat taraf, held by the ala lambardar by virtue of his office and in which he had no proprietary right.

Held, that there was no reason for excluding this land from partition. This land was entered in the revenue records as common land of certain tarafs of the village and the records contained nothing which precluded the holding from being brought into partition. ARJAN SINGH v. SUCHET SINGH. 15 P R 1892

81. Joint owners—Erection of building by one on common land—Absence of special damage to others.

The defendant, who was a proprietor in Gohana (Rohtak District), erected a pakka building upon a portion of the abadi—208 yards in extent—or common property of the village. The building was commenced within a very few months before suit, and was immediately objected to by at least one of the plaintiffs. It was completed in spite of the plaintiffs' protests, and appeal to the Revenue authorities at or about the date when the present suit was launched The defendant spent Rs. 1,000 or thereabouts upon the building, which was adjacent to, if not built on to his own house. No acquiescence on the plaintiffs' part was established.

The plaintiffs, sixteen proprietors of Gohana, sued to have the building demolished. They did not succeed in proving any substantial damage from the building over and above the fact that defendant had probably monopolized a larger share of this particular portion of the common land than would fall to him at a division.

Held, that the plaintiffs' appeal must be dismissed upon the ground that, it not being satisfactorily established that any substantial mischief had accrued to the plaintiffs from the completed building erected at considerable expense, the lower Court had exercised a wise discretion in refusing to order its demolition. HIDAYAT ALI KHAN v. BASIT ALI KHAN. 54 P R 1892

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

82. "Custom"—Village menials—Sale of their houses by, without consent of proprietors.

Found, that in the village of Haria in the Bhera tahsil, Shahpur District, no custom was established permitting menials to sell their houses without the consent of the proprietary body. MIRZA v. SAMDILI. 99 P R 1892

83. Shamilat land—Suit by khewatdar to obtain share in village common land—Wajib-ul-arz.

Plaintiff, who was a khewatdar in the village although not an original proprietor, sued for a declaration that he was entitled to a share of the common land of village Pindi Maddu in proportion to his holding. In the Wajib-ul-arz of the village it is laid down that the common lands are to be partitioned proportionately to the khewat holdings and certain particulars are given as to the permission to occupy and cultivate the shamilat and as to the disposal of those lands when partition takes place. In accordance with this permission plaintiff had been cultivating a considerable extent of the common lands.

The defendants contended that as plaintiff was not originally a proprietor in the village but only a purchaser, he was not entitled to any share in the common land.

The deeds of sale by which plaintiff or his predecessor in title became purchasers of lands in the village contained no reservation to the vendors of the common land which belonged to them.

The lower Courts dismissed the claim, the Divisional Judge, holding that plaintiff was not entitled to claim a share in the common land because such share was not specifically included in the deeds of purchase.

Held, that the plaintiff by the deeds of sale acquired certain holdings and became a khewatdar and the khewat carried with it as appurtenant to it a proportionate share of the common land. PAREM CHAND v. SARDARA. 10 P R 1894

84. Gift of share of land in village—Right of donee to share in village shamilat—Onus probandi.

Held, that in the case of a deed of gift whereby a share in certain land in a village is gifted to a person, the onus of proving that the deed carries with it, as accessory thereto, a proportionate share of shamilat lies, when the deed is silent upon the subject, upon the person who asserts that the gift operates to grant more than it purports to grant.

No. 65 P. R. 1889 and Civil Appeals Nos. 239 and 1389 of 1890 (unpublished), cited. FAZAL SHAH v. SIKANDAR ALI. 115 P R 1894

85. Village site—Abadi—Suit for partition of village site—Bhayachara village divided into "pattis" and "dheris."

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

Plaintiffs, alleging themselves to be owners of a one-third share in the village of Bhadana, Lahore District, sued for partition of the whole of the village site according to a particular scheme, and based their claim solely on an entry in the Settlement record that " the " abadi-deh is shamilat and is divisible hasab " rasad khewat." The defendants pleaded that the entry was incorrect; that the tenure of the village was bhayachara, and that there was no shamilat in the abadi which was divisible. The District Judge having found that there was no divisible common land of the village in the abadi, gave plaintiffs a decree, in accordance with defendants' admission, for partition solely of any common land within their patti that might be found unoccupied. Plaintiffs appealed to the Divisional Judge, who reversed the decree of the lower Court and granted plaintiffs a decree for separation of their share in the shamilat abadi-deh, but did not specify the exact land assigned thereby to plaintiffs. Defendants appealed to the Chief Court, and it was held that the onus of proving that there was shamilat in the abadi which could be partitioned and that partition thereof was feasible rested upon the plaintiffs, and that they had failed to rebut the statement in the earlier Settlement record that the village site was not liable to partition.

The nature of an ordinary village site as a subject of partition discussed by Benton J. ISHWAR SINGH v. ATMA SINGH. 117 P R 1894

86. Custom—Right of non-proprietors to alienate without consent of Kamboh proprietors—Transfer of house in Khem Karan, Kasur tahsil, Lahore District.

Found, that by the custom of Khem Karan, in the Kasur tahsil of the Lahore District, non-proprietors, though they have no rights in the sites of their houses, can transfer the houses themselves, with a right of residence, without the consent of the Kamboh proprietors. BHAG SINGH v. KHANAYA MAL. 38 P R 1895

87. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 5 (1) (d), 10—Occupancy rights in common land—Jagirdar—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, section 9 (2)—Pattidari village.

Held, following No. 15 P. R. 1880, Rev., that section 9, clause (2) of the Tenancy Act, 1868, read with section 10 of the Tenancy Act, 1887, should be construed to mean that no right of occupancy in the common lands of a pattidari village community should be acquired by a pattidar of the village under Chapter II of the said Acts, there being in this respect no distinction between pure and impure pattidari villages.

No. 1 P. R. 1897, Rev., referred to and considered.

The distinction between a pure and an imperfect pattidari village does not depend upon the maintenance or disuse of ancestral shares, but upon the existence or absence of shamilat-i-deh belonging to the village proprietors as a body. If there is no such shamilat-i-deh the tenure is pure pattidari: if there is such, the tenure is pattidari Ghairmukammal. JHANDU KHAN v. SAMMAN.

1 P R 1899 Rev.

88. Shamilat land—Suit by khewatdar to obtain share in village common land—Relinquishment of part of claim.

Plaintiffs and defendants were representatives of two families who originally owned each a half share of a certain putti. Previous to 1864 plaintiffs' ancestors had been absentees, but in that year they returned and instituted a suit against the ancestors of the defendants for possession of their original half share. The dispute was eventually compromised, the plaintiffs agreeing to accept 7 ghumaos of land and to relinquish the remainder of their claim. In 1896, the village shamilat was divided, 202 canals 7 marlas falling to the share of the patti owned by the parties. Shortly after plaintiffs applied for partition of the latter. The application was opposed by defendants, who denied that plaintiffs had any share in the land so allotted : the plaintiffs were referred to a regular suit to establish their right by the Revenne Courts. They therefore filed a suit for half of the shamilat that had fallen to the share of their patti. The first Court dismissed the suit as barred by sections 13 and 43 of the Civil Procedure Code, inasmuch as the present claim should have been included in the suit brought by the plaintiff's predecessors in 1864. On appeal the Divisional Judge held that plaintiffs were entitled to a decree for possession of a share in the shamilat proportionate to their holding of 7 ghumaos.

Held, that the suit as laid was not barred by reason of section 43, Code of Civil Procedure, even if that section could otherwise be applied, as the plaintiffs' predecessors were under no obligation in 1864 to expressly sue for a share in the shamilat in addition to their claim for possession as khewatdars of part of the holding, and that when the 7 ghumaos were awarded to them, they became in respect of such land full proprietors with a right to the enjoyment of everything appurtenant to their holding.

Kishen Lal v. Mootsuddee (52 P R. 1866), Prem Chand v. Sardara (10 P. R. 1894,) Baju Shah v. Hukma (42 P. R. 1897), Fazal Shah v. Sikandar Ali (115 P. R. 1894), and Maluk Singh v. Muhammad (65 P. R. 1889), followed. BURA AND ANOTHER v. JHANDA AND ANOTHER.

113 P R 1900

89. Common land—Gora-deh—Erection of kotha by non-proprietary resident with the permission of a proprietor in possession—Absence of special damage.

A non-proprietor was allowed by one of the proprietors of the village to build a kotha on a portion of the gora-deh which he (the proprietor) had previously used himself as a cattle pen. The plaintiff and the proprietor in the village sued for demolition; the defendant and the consenting proprietor admitted that on the vacation of the site by them it would revert to the whole proprietary body.

Held, that in the absence of proof of substantial damage to the plaintiff his suit must fail, as he had not proved that he had ever exercised any specific rights over the site, or that the consenting proprietor had disposed of more than would fall to his share on partition, or that the alienation was a permanent one.

Hidayat Ali Khan v. Basit Ali Khan (54 P. R. 1892), followed; Paras Ram v. Sherjit (I. L. R. IX All. 661), Shadi v. Anup Singh (I. L. R. XII All. 436), Najju Khan v. Imtiaz-ud-din (I. L. R. XVIII All. 115), Soheil Singh v. Abdulla (78 P. R. 1877), Har Sarup v. Hanwanta (7 P. R. 1885), Amin Chand v. Dasaundha Singh (54 P. R. 1886), Ghulam Muhammad Khan v. Buta (187 P. R. 1889), and Kanakayya v. Narasim Hulu (I. L. R. XIX Mad. 38), referred to. RAM v. PIR BAKHSH.

33 P R 1901

90. Common land—Joint vacant piece of land in mohalla—Right of suit of some of the inhabitants of the mohalla affecting such land—Plaint—Alternative reliefs—Injunction when to be granted—Discretion of Court—Damages.

The plaintiffs sued to recover possession of a piece of land situate in front of their houses and shops alleging that it had been jointly enjoyed by them, and that the defendants Nos. 1 and 2 having obtained a fictitious deed of sale of a portion thereof from defendant No. 5 had taken possession and commenced to build thereon, the relief sought being either a decree for possession of the land or an injunction restraining the defendants Nos. 1 and 2 from building thereon. The lower Appellate Court gave the plaintiffs, "as members of the community," a decree for possession, and also issued a permanent injunction to the defendants prohibiting the erection of any building on or other interference with the land in suit.

Held (i) that the claims were not inconsistent, the difference being between sole right and joint right, and that the plaintiffs were at liberty to claim in the alternative exclusive possession or an injunction to restrain the defendants from interfering with their rights as co-sharers in the land in suit ;

(ii) that the land in suit not being a public thoroughfare, the suit lay ;

(iii) that the plaintiffs were entitled to sue in their own right for a relief common to themselves and others, and that the failure to sue on behalf of those others was not a bar to their suit ;

(iv) that inasmuch as the exclusive occupation by the defendants would have materially injured the plaintiffs they were entitled to the injunction issued by the first Court.

Raja Bijoy Keshub Roy v. Obhoy Churn Ghose (16 W. R. 198), Muhammad Sharif v. Shamsher Khan (11 P. R. 1891), Mussammat

Parpati and others v. Kaur Singh (85 P. R. 1896), Nur-ul-Hussein v. Sheosahai Lal (I. L. R. XX Cal. I. P. C.), Ningapa v. Shivappa (I. L. R. XIX Bom. 323), Raghubar Dial and others v. Kesho Ramaunj Das (I. L. R. XI All. 18), Amin Chand v. Dasaundha Singh and others (54 P. R. 1886), Hira Lal v. Bhairon (I. L. R. V All. 602, F. B.), Baiju Lal Parbatia and others v. Bulak Lal Pathuk (I. L. R. XXIV Calc. 385), Tanudin and others v. Pandu and others (I. L. R. XVIII Bom. 699), Baldeo Bharthi v. Bir Gir and others (I. L. R. XXII All. 269), Framji Cursetji v. Gokul Das Madhowji (I. L. R. XVI Bom. 338), The Shamnagger Jute Factory Coy., Ld., v. Ram Narain Chatterjee (I. L. R. XIV Calc. 189), Joy Chander Rokhit v. Rippo Churn Rukhit (I. L. R. XIV Calc. 236), and Ram v. Pir Bakhsh (33 P. R. 1901) referred to. GUJAR MAL AND OTHERS v. RAM RICHPAL AND OTHERS.

91 P R 1901

91. Limitation Act, 1877, section 28—Suit for recovery of possession of common waste land encroached upon by a trespasser—Limitation—Adverse possession—Burden of proof—Suit by some of the several co-sharers against the trespasser affecting common land—Effect of non-joinder of other co-sharers—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 30—Decree, form of.

In suits for the recovery of possession of immovable property when resisted by a plea of adverse possession, the plaintiff is bound to prove possession and dispossession within twelve years, but where the property in dispute, up to a short time before suit, remained waste and unoccupied, held, that the plaintiffs were not required to prove acts of possession within twelve years of suit, they had only to prove a prima facie title not extinguished by limitation in such a case. Waste land allowed to remain so by the proprietor cannot be held to be a discontinuance of possession, and the onus is in such a case shifted on to defendant to prove when his possession became adverse.

Held, also, that one or several of many co-sharers can sue to prevent invasion of their common property by a mere trespasser, and that in such a case a decree for sole possession, or for possession on behalf of other co-sharers, should not generally be given, the proper form of decree should be for the restoration of the property to its condition prior to the trespasser's invasfon, and so preserve the invaded rights which the plaintiff and other co-sharers possessed in the property.

Tanudin v. Pandu (I. L. R. XVIII Bom. 699), Inayat Husen v. Ali Husen (I. L. R. XX All. 182), Muhammad Ali Khan v. Khaja Abdul Guny (I. L. R. IX Calc. 744), Muhammad Yar v. Ghulam (49 P. R. 1884), Hira Lal v. Bhairon (I. L. R. V All. 602), and Hidayat Ali Khan v. Basit Ali Khan (64 P. R. 1892), cited Mohima Chunder Mozoomdar v. Mohesh Chunder Neogi (I. L. R. XVI Calc. 473), The Secretary of State for

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

India in Council v. Vira Rayan (I. L. R. IX Mad. 175), and Jafar Hussain v. Mashuq Ali (I. L. R. XIV All. 193), referred to. RAMZAN ALI v. BASHARAT ALI AND OTHERS.
105 P R 1901

92. Common land—Purchase of separate holding in a village—Suit by purchaser for a declaration that he is entitled to a share in the shamilat—Inclusion or exclusion of share of shamilat—Burden of proof.

Held, that as the rights of a proprietor in the shamilat of a village are not a mere accessory to the land separatety held by him, and that a sale of the latter does not ipso facto convey any rights in the former to the purchaser.

A clause in the Wajib-ul-arz providing that shares in the shamilat are proportional to the khewat lands held by each proprietor cannot confer any rights in the common land on the purchaser not conveyed by his deed of sale.

Maluk Singh v. Muhammad (65 P. R. 1889) and Baju Singh v. Hukma (42 P. R. 1897) cited; and Prem Chand v. Sardara (10 P. R. 1894) referred to. RAM DAS AND OTHERS v. AMIR SHAH AND OTHERS. 113 P R 1901

93. Partition—Partition of shamilat-deh including the land which had been assigned to an ala lambardar in virtue of his office—Compensation for disturbance or improvements—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 69, 72.

Plaintiffs sued for partition of the shamilat-deh including land which had been assigned to an ala-lambardar in virtue of his office, and which since his death had remained in possession of his heirs. The deceased ala-lambardar and his brother had sunk a well, built a house, and made an enclosure wall on the land the subject-matter of the dispute. The points in dispute were whether the occupants of that plot on being dispossessed of so much of it as exceeded their shares were entitled to compensation for improvements or disturbance; and, if so, whether such compensation should be paid by the proprietors who under the partition would benefit by the improvements or by the whole body of persons who sought partition.

Held, on the analogy of the proviso to section 69 of the Tenancy Act, that the heirs of the original ala-lambardar were not entitled to any compensation for disturbance, but that they were entitled to receive compensation for improvements as a condition precedent to partition from those vlllage proprietors only who would benefit by the improvements for the cost of so much of the same as such heirs would cease to enjoy.

In estimating the compensation to be awarded for auy improvement the Revenue Officers should act upon the principles laid down by section 72 of the Tenancy Act.

Salig Ram v. Badhawa Mal (3 P. R. 1886. Rev.), referred to and followed. SHERA v. ALI BAKHSH. 9 P R 1902 Rev.

94. Mortgage—Mortgage of common holding—Part of mortgaged land already heavily encumbered—Remedies of mortgagee.

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—contd.

A being in possession of a part of the common holding, mortgaged certain specific portions out of it to B. Subsequently the mortgagee, being deprived of his security on account of the mortgagor's title being defective and the existence of a prior mortgage, claimed to have his security made good out of the remainder of the common land forming part of the mortgagor's share.

Held, that as the mortgagee was deprived of his security by the wrongful act of the mortgagor, he was entitled to have his security made good to him out of the common holding in possession of the mortgagor.

Byjnath Lal v. Ramoo-deen Chowdry (21 W. R. 233), Beli Ram v. Mussammat Shahzada Begum (101 P. R. 1894), Ajij-ud-din Sahib v. Sheikh Budan Sahib (I. L. R. XVIII Mad. 492), and Babu Rai v. Nathu (32 P. R. 1900), referred to. SUNDAR SINGH v. NATHA.
89 P R 1903

95. Mortgage—Mortgage of common land—Redemption—Right of one of several joint mortgagors to redeem the whole estate.

The plaintiff having purchased 36 shares out of a total of 180 shares in the common land of their village, which had been previously mortgaged by certain of the sharers to the defendants, claimed to redeem the whole of the mortgaged land on payment of the whole of the mortgage money, and joined the other mortgagors as co-defendants with the mortgagees. The mortgagees resisted the claim on the ground that the plaintiffs were not entitled to redeem the whole, and that their only right was to redeem a share equal to that purchased by them.

Held, that a part owner of the equity of redemption could not insist on redeeming his own share only the right of redemption being a right to redeem the whole property mortgaged, the plaintiffs were entitled to the decree asked for subject to the equities between them and their co-owners.

Naro Hari Bhave v. Vithalbhat (I. L. R. X Bom., 648), Hall v. Heward (L. R. 32 Ch. Dn. 430), Pearce v. Morris (L. R. 5 Ch Dn., 227) and Charter v. Watson (L. R. 1 Ch. Dn, 175), cited and followed.

Marakar Akath Konda Rakayil Mamo v. Punjapatath Kuthi (I. L. R. VI Mad. 61), distinguished.

X Thillai Chetti v. Ramanatha Ayyan (I. L. R. X Mad. 295), not followed. BAHRAM KHAN v. SAIDAL KHAN. 2 P R 1904

96. Custom—Right of village menials to build a mosque over the site occupied by them without consent of the proprietors—Mauza Bakipur, Amritsar District.

Held, that as a kamin generally gets land from the proprietary body on the implied understanding that it is only to be used for purposes of residence and for plying his trade, he is not competent to build a mosque or temple on it without the consent of the proprietors. KALU AND OTHERS v. WASAWA SINGH AND OTHERS.
19 P R 1904

CUSTOM VI.—COMMON LAND—concld.

97. Partition—Common land—Right of proprietors to partition land used for tethering cattle.

Held, that village common land used by the co-sharers for tethering cattle is not precluded from being brought into partition. MAKHAN SINGH v. ISHAR SINGH.
136 P R 1906

98. Common land—Partition—Suit for partition of portion of common land.

Held that a suit for partition of a portion of the shamilat is not maintainable, and consequently a purchaser from a co-sharer is not entitled to obtain partition of his share alone in the village common land SHEO NATH v. PARMA NAND. 32 P R 1908

99. Common land—Possession of one co-sharer—Adverse possession—Abandonment.

Held, that as in common holding the possession of one co-sharer is the possession of all, mere occupation and enjoyment by one to whatever period it may extend to does not constitute an adverse possession as against the other co-sharer, unless the one in possession is able to show most clearly and emphatically his own adverse possession or abandonment by other.

An absentee in a common holding who leaves his property in the hands of a co-sharer, asserts his rights to succeed to a relative on the opening out of a succession in the village and objects on the first invasion of his rights by the person left by him in charge of his share of the holding cannot be deemed to have abandoned his property, as in sach cases mere length of time or absence does not affect his rights. RAM CHAND v. KIRPA RAM. 120 P R 1908

CUSTOM VII.—EASEMENTS AND PROFITS.

— Right of hereditary tenants to cut wood and grass from the common land of the village for the purpose of sale—Profits a prendre—Mauza Mangharwal, District Hoshiarpur.
See COMMON LAND. 29 P R 1890

— Suit to restrain the proprietors of one patti from closing a pathway over the shamilat of the village—Necessity to implead the other proprietors of the village.
See JOINDER OF PARTIES.
41 P R 1888

— Suit for injunction against defendant to remove obstruction to plaintiff's widow—Valuation of suit.
See JURISDICTION. 52 P R 1887

1. An owner of land is at liberty to erect a water mill on his own ground without the consent of other owners of land in the same village, provided he so uses the water as not to injure others below him who have a right to its use. NOOR MAHOMED v. KHANEE MOOLA.
12 P R 1867

2. Flow of water.

A claim to demolish an embankment erected by a person on his own land which intercepts

1021

CUSTOM VII.—EASEMENTS AND PROFITS—contd.

the natural flow of water on to the land of another, cannot be maintained by the other so long as a reasonable and fair quantity of water is allowed to pass. WAZEERA v. SIPADAR KHAN. 33 P R 1867

3. Right of way—Grant—Easement of necessity.

A gateway was opened in 1847 between two estates, the joint property of a certain family. The property was afterwards divided, and one of the estates came into A's possession (a stranger), who in 1867 was sued by those in possession of the other estate to have the doorway closed. Plaintiff's suit was decreed, on the grounds that A's right to the way was not supported by any express grant or as an easement of necessity; and after the division of the two estates, the joint enjoyment of the way ceased. BARLOW v. MANAGER OF SKINNER ESTATES. 44 P R 1867

4. A right of way imports the right of passing in a particular line, and not the right of varying it at pleasure. KHEWAN v. DEWAN JOWAHIR MULL. 80 P R 1867

5. Opening door-way.

Claim to close a door-way newly opened by defendants leading into a court-yard the joint property of the parties.

Held, that defendant was at liberty to open a door-way in his own house opening on to common property—provided he did not thereby render such common property less useful to the co-sharer, or deprive the latter of any right which he otherwise would have had. HEERA SINGH v. TELOO. 46 P R 1868

6. Disturbance of privacy—Opening of door or window upon a neighbour.

With regard to the usages and habits of the natives, the right of privacy in a dwelling house is protected, and the invasion of it may give a cause of action; for instance, where defendants opened a new door-way in an upper storey in such a way as to invade the privacy of plaintiff, held, that the Court could make a special order directing the closing of the door. NANUCK CHUND v. LALLA. 21 P R 1869

7. Privacy—Right to complain of disturbance of, depends upon the decree of privacy to which plaintiff is entitled.

Though with regard to the usages of the country, the right of privacy in dwelling houses is recognized, yet the Court will not necessarily interfere in every case of disturbance of privacy, but will look to the degree of privacy to which the plaintiff is under the circumstances of the particular case entitled. Therefore, where the houses of defendant and plaintiff faced each other in a street common to both parties and to a third person, and the defendant by sitting in his own door-way could see the plaintiff's women if they sat in front of plaintiff's house, it was held that the plaintiff's degree of privacy was not so great as to preclude the defendant from making a window in his own house which looked upon the plaintiff's premises. GOHREE v. JAINTEE. 91 P R 1869

1022

CUSTOM VII.—EASEMENTS AND PROFITS—contd.

8. Extinguishment of easement, by showing intention to permanently abandon the use, or by inducing owner of servient tenement to believe it was so abandoned.

The plaintiff's premises abutted on the defendant's, and both originally formed part of a single tenement. Twenty-five years before suit, defendant sold to plaintiff's father the portion which plaintiff occupied at the time of the suit, and secured by deed to plaintiff's father the use of an ancient drain which existed under both houses. For six years before action brought, plaintiff ceased to use the drain, and it was alleged by defendant that plaintiff could carry off his drainage without using the drain in question. In a suit by plaintiff to compel defendant to keep open the drain, it was held, that if plaintiff had for any space of time discontinued the use of the drain, and caused defendant to incur expense in altering or filling it up in belief that the drain had been permanently abandoned, or if he had manifested any intention of permanently abandoning the use of the drain, the servitude might be considered extinguished. PUNDIT RAI LALL v. HAFIZ KHODA BUKSH. 97 P R 1869

9. Extinguishment—Cessation of enjoyment—Evidence.

Mere cessation of enjoyment of an easement does not necessarily extinguish the right; but the cesser of use, coupled with any act or omission on the part of the owner of the dominant tenement indicative of an intention to abandon the right, is equivalent to an express release of the easement. Interruption of the use of a drain, without objection on the part of the claimant, for three years, coupled with other circumstances indicating intention, held to extinguish the easement. KHODA BUX v. PUNDIT JEEA LALL. 30 P R 1871

10. Opening windows—Invasion of privacy.

Defendant opened a window which looked down upon the contiguous houses and into the court, yard belonging to the plaintiff, who complained that his privacy was thereby invaded. By going upon the roof of his house, the defendant could also look into the plaintiff's court yard. Held, per BOULNOIS and LINDSAY, JJ. (CAMPBELL, J. dissenting) that it was not a case in which the Court could restrain the defendant from exercising his ordinary right of opening new windows.

Semble, per BOULNOIS and LINDSAY, JJ.). The right to disturb a neighbour's privacy by opening new windows (subject to the neighbour's right of building against them within 20 years) should be recognized with reference to the English law and recent High Court decision. SHIBDAYAL v. GOLAB. 96 P. R. 1876

1023

CUSTOM VII.—EASEMENTS AND PROFITS—contd.

11. Light and air.

Plaintiff's house stood at right angles to defendant's house and adjoined it. In the upper story of plaintiff's house were two small windows; defendant built a balcony to his house some twenty feet from the ground but not in a way to diminish the access of light and air to plantiff's small windows. Plaintiffs then enlarged the windows in such a way that he encountered inconvenience from the balcony—the end of the balcony crossing in a vertical direction the enlarged opening. Held, that as the erection of the balcony did not infringe the existing prescriptive rights of the plaintiff, the fact that it interfered with the enlarged windows gave him no right to any relief, to grant wnich would be to impose a new burden on the defendant. RALLA RAM v. HUZURI MALL. 99 P R 1876

12. Support to roof from neighbouring wall.

Where the plaintiff had the right to support from the wall of defendant's house for the beams of the roof of plaintiff's house, held, that he had not also the right to alter the position of the beams and in raising his roof to insert the beams in another part of defendant's wall. SHIB DIYAL v. SUDDA NUND. 21 P R 1877

13. Afghans of Basti Ghuzan, Jalandhar city—Right of privacy—Easement—Suit to compel defendants to build a screen on upper story of their house—Proof required from plaintiffs in such case.

When a suit is brought to restrain the owner of a house from adding an upper story to his own house, or to compel him to make some addition for the protection of the plaintiff's privacy strict proof should be demanded from the plaintiff (1) that the custom of domestic privacy is observed among that section of society of which he is a member, and (2) that the domestic privacy of individuals is generally regarded among the community of the locality where the plaintiff resides, as being of so much importance that by common consent it is considered incumbent upon owners of land and houses either to abstain from elevating their houses, or to elevate them with precaution against the violation of such privacy.

Where, therefore, in a suit, the parties to which were residents of Basti Ghuzan in the city of Jalandhar, the plaintiffs, who were Afghans, sued to compel the defendants to build a screen on the top of the upper story recently added to their house, so that persons using the roof of the latter should not command a view of the interior of the plaintiffs' premises, and it was proved that the plaintiffs and the tribe of Afghans to which they belonged did observe the practice of domestic privacy, but the evidence failed to establish the second point noted above, held that the lower Appellate Court had properly refused to grant the relief sought by the plaintiffs, leaving them to the remedy which lay in their own power, namely, to deal as they might think best with their own premises in order to protect their own domestic privacy. Nanak Chund v. Lalla (No. 21 of 1869, Civil), Gohree v. Jaintee (No. 91 of 1869, Civil), and Shibdayal v. Golab (No. 96 of 1876, Civil), cited. YASIN v. GOKAL CHAND.

1024

CUSTOM VII—EASEMENTS AND PROFITS—contd.

19 P R 1882

14. Amballa district—Easement—Profit à prendre—Right of one village to cut brushwood in neighbouring village for repairs to watercourse—Reasonableness of custom.

In a suit between the representatives of two of the villages in the Mani Majra illaqa of the Amballa district, in which the plaintiffs sued to establish their right to cut brushwood for the repair of their watercourse from the defendants' lands in the neighbourhood of the watercourse, it was found that the said right had been long exercised by the plaintiffs.

Held further, that the custom under which the right was exercised was not unreasonable one. NODHA v. KAPURIA. 31 P R 1882

15. Right of way—Defendants closing old and opening out new right of way over their fields—Actual damage—Allegation by plaintiff of probable prospective damage—Right to injunction—Pecuniary compensation—Obligation upon servient owner not to render plaintiff's right of way less easy than before—Failure to prove such effect—Dismissal of suit.

Plaintiff sued to restrain defendants from closing an old and opening out a new right of way over their (defendants') fields, alleging ancient user of the old way, and fears that the opening out of the new passage which was close to plaintiff's land, would cause damage to such land by cattle straying across and destroying the cultivation.

Held, that the defendants had an undoubted right to create a new right of way over their own land, so long as by doing so they did not injure their neighbours : that the damage alleged by the plaintiff, not being actual but prospective damage, was too remote to entitle him to the remedy he was seeking of a permanent injunction; that if the defendants by allowing cattle to come upon their land afterwards negligently suffered them to stray into and to do damage to the plaintiffs' property that might be a wrong to the plaintiff for which the defendants might be liable to an action, but that the remedy in such a case would be adequately met by pecuniary compensation and would not entitle the plaintiff to ask for a perpetual injuction against the use of the new right of way, and that therefore the plaintiff was not entitled to ask to close up the new passage.

Held, further, that as regards the substitution of the old by the new line of road-way the only obligation upon the defendants, the servient owners, was that they should not render the plaintiff's right of way less easy than it had been hitherto, and that the plaintiff having failed to prove that the new line would have any such effect, his claim must be dismissed. BUTA SINGH v. HAMIR SINGH. 22 P R 1888

1025

CUSTOM VII.—EASEMENTS AND ROFITS—contd.

16. Right of way—Public thoroughfare—special damage—Public and private injuries.

Plaintiff sued to restrain defendant from preventing his passing through a covered porch, which opened on each side into a lane, each lane being admittedly a public lane, and each having at the end of it a house belonging to plaintiff, alleging that he had used this route for over twenty years. It appeared that by passing through these lanes and the porch the distance between plaintiff's two houses was considerably diminished. The Lower Appellate Court, finding it proved that the porch was a public thoroughfare, held that the plaintiff's suit would not lie as he had not sustained any "special damage."

Held, reversing the order of the lower Appellate Court, that the plaintiff was entitled to succeed in his suit. The injury complained of by the plaintiff was a private injury, in that he had been deprived, by the wrongful act of the defendant, of a right which he had hitherto peaceably enjoyed, and been driven to a circuitous, and therefore inconvenient, route, and that this injury would be equally a private injury to him, whether the right of the public to pass through the porch was or was not interfered with at the time. BELI RAM v. KAKU. 39 P R 1888

17. Right to use of water—Natural stream.

In the case of a natural stream flowing through several owners' land, the persons through whose lands it passes are all entitled to a reasonable use of the water, and in the absence of evidence as to the exact share enjoyed, the presumption is that they are equal. AHMAD ALI v. MALAK HASHU. 49 P R 1888

18. Grant by owner of tenement of part of that tenement—Easements passing to grantee of such grant—Reservation of rights over tenement granted—Express and implied reservation—Easements of necessity—Right to support from adjoining buildings.

On the grant by the owner of a tenement of part of that tenement as it is then used and enjoyed, there will pass to the grantee all those quasi easements of an apparent and continuous character, i.e., all those easements which are necessary to the reasonable enjoyment of the property granted and which have been and are at the time of the grant used by the owners of the entirety for the benefit of the part granted.

If the grantor intends to reserve any right over the tenement granted, it is his duty to reserve it expressly in the grant; but this rule is subject to the exception relating to way and other easements of necessity; an easement of necessity being one without which the enjoyment of the severed tenements could not be had at all.

1026

CUSTOM VII.—EASEMENTS AND PROFITS—contd.

A right of support for buildings from the subjacent and adjacent soil and from adjoining buildings arises by implied grant, in the absence of express stipulation, in every case where a grant of land for purposes of building is made by the owner of the adjoinining house. ATTAR SINGH v. JAWAHIR LAL. 60 P R 1888

19. Kasur city—Party wall—Joint ownership—Easement.

In a suit in which plaintiff sought a declaration that he was at liberty to raise a wall which separated his house from that of the defendants, and which he claimed to be a joint wall, which defendants denied, the plaintiff alleged a general custom of Kasur (where the parties resided) under which the mere existence of rafters on an intervening wall constituted the owner of the premises to whom the rafters belonged a joint owner of the wall itself, and entitled him, even without the consent of the other adjoining owner, to raise the wall as he pleased—the adjoining owner, merely having the option of purchasing a share of the super-added wall by paying half its cost.

Held, that the plaintiff had failed to establish the custom contended for, and further, that it was very doubtful whether such a custom could operate to convert what was originally granted as an easement into a right of a much higher kind, constituting the person, to whom permission was given to place his rafters on the wall, a joint owner of the wall itself. CHIRAGH DIN v. BUTA. 82 P R 1888

20. Easement—Light and air—Obstruction—Injunction or damages—Specific Relief Act, 1877.

The plaintiffs owned a three-storeyed house in the city of Amritsar; the defendants owned a house alongside consisting of a single storey.

The defendants added a second and third storeys to their house so as to obstruct the plaintiffs' right to light and air on the defendants' side of the plaintiffs' house.

The plaintiffs, on the commencement of defendants' operations, served the defendants with notice not to interfere with their rights (which the defendants ignored), and then instituted a suit two-and-a-half months afterwards.

Held, that the plaintiffs were entitled to a mandatory injunction.

Form of relief to be given to the plaintiffs under such injunction considered. KIRPA RAM v. GURBAKHSH. 2 P R 1893

21. Easement, acquisition of—Use of water from natural stream—Rights of riparian owners—Limitation Act, 1877, section 26.

Plaintiffs alleged that they were the owners of a water-mill, situated on the banks of the river Leh, which they and their predecessors in title had worked on the same spot since the year 1863 by appropriating all the water of the river at that place; that defendants, who had purchased a plot of land on the opposite bank of the river at a place higher up the stream, were constructing a watermill of their own, and for the purpose of working the same, were diverting the water at the said place by a channel; that the defendants were thereby depriving the plaintiffs of the exclusive use of the water to which they had been accustomed and would so diminish the supply as to cause material loss and inconvenience to plaintiffs in the working of their said mill. Plaintiffs, therefore, prayed that a perpetual injunction be granted restraining defendants from so diverting the water of the river and from cutting the channel. Defendants pleaded, inter alia, that, in any event, plaintiffs were not, as a matter of law, entitled to the injunction prayed for, inasmuch as plaintiffs' user had not been "as an easement" or "as of right" because (a) they had been enjoying nothing in excess of their natural rights as riparian owners, and (b), in any case, they had been asserting no rights as against riparian owners higher up the stream, whose mere omission to exercise rights similar to those actually enjoyed by plaintiffs neither curtailed nor destroyed such rights.

Held, that the rights acquired by plaintiffs being rights in excess of their own natural riparian rights, and in derogation of the natural rights of all adjacent riparian owners, whether above or below stream, were rights of easement within the meaning of section 26 of the Limitation Act, 1877, and anything done or threatened by the defendant which would interfere with such prescriptive rights would give rise to a cause of action and afford grounds for an injunction.

I. L. R. XI Mad. 16, referred to. SARDAR KIRPAL SINGH v. LAL KHAN. 35 P R 1895

22. Suit for declaratory decree that plaintiffs are entitled to perform certain religious ceremonies on behalf of an indeterminate class of persons on property belonging to third parties—Customary right—Unreasonable custom—Easement.

Plaintiffs, four Brahmins of Mooltan city, sued the defendants, Marhotra Khatris of the same place, for a declaration in respect of a house in the latter's possession, to the effect that they were entitled, by custom, to take their jajmans of certain specified castes to a certain portion of the said house in order to worship the goddess Bhawani at the time of various ceremonies and festivals, and prayed also for an injunction prohibiting defendants from rebuilding it in such a way as to prevent plaintiffs from performing such worship, and ordering them to restore the portion already demolished to its former condition. Defendants denied the competency of the plaintiffs to sue and their right to perform such worship without defendants' consent, but disclaimed any intention to prevent it. They also asserted their ownership over, and their right to build, the house. The first Court having held that plaintiffs were competent to sue, and were entitled to worship as claimed, defendants appealed to the Divisional Judge, who upheld the findings of the lower Court, but held that the defendants were owners of the house in dispute and modified the decree by granting an injunction prohibiting defendants from interfering with the plaintiffs' customary right of access to and worship in the specified portion of the house when accompanying their jajmans there, but limited their right to the above. Defendants appealed to the Chief Court, but plaintiffs did not file any cross-objections to the findings of the Divisional Court.

Held, that the house in dispute not being a place of public worship, but private property, the right of plaintiffs to perform their worship therein, irrespective of the consent of the owners, could only exist by virtue of some special custom, but that in the present case the alleged custom was too uncertain and unreasonable to be enforced at law or to form the foundation of a suit for an injunction.

Held, further, that the evidence entirely failed to establish any local custom recognizing the existence of the right claimed. SONU MAL v. DARYAI. 4 P R 1896

23. Easement—Suit for declaratory decree that plaintiffs have a right to dry tobacco on certain land—User for twenty years and upwards—Dominant tenement.

Plaintiffs, who were snuffgrinders, and millowners, sued for a declaration that they were entitled to dry tobacco on certain land adjacent to their mills, and proved that they had used the said land for that purpose for more than twenty years before suit. Defendants contended that there was no dominant tenement and that plaintiffs were merely licensees.

Held, distinguishing I. L. R. VIII All. 69, and Civil Appeal No. 90 of 1893, that plaintiffs were entitled to the declaration prayed for, there being ample evidence that a drying ground in the immediate proximity of the mills was essential to their use, and that the land in question had been used by plaintiffs for that purpose as of right for more than twently years. ILAHI BAKHSH KHAN v. DIN MUHAMMAD. 14 P R 1897

24. Easement—Right of way—Public or private road—"Question of law"—Limitation Act, 1877, section 26—User of road by public for less than 20 years—Presumption as to dedication—English law.

The principles of the English law regarding the presumed dedication of a road to the public arising from user of such road by the public, being founded on reason and common sense and conducive to public convenience, are applicable to India.

Held, therefore, that the user of a road by the public, openly and as of right, is sufficient, apart from the law laid down in the Limitation Act, 1877, section 26, to raise a presumption of its dedication to their use, though such presumption might be rebutted by evidence of the owner's intention that the public should only have a permissive user.

In the present case the evidence clearly showed that the road in dispute had been used as a public road for at least ten years prior to suit, but the Divisional Judge, treating the case as one of prescription, found in favour of defendants because 20 years had not elapsed since the road was opened (section 26 of Limitation Act, 1877).

Held, under the circumstances as above set forth, that there was a presumption, that the road had been dedicated to the use of the public, and found, upon the evidence and facts of the cause, that defendants had failed to rebut such presumption.

The right of the public to pass over a public road is not in the nature of an easement properly so called, nor is it acquired by prescription under section 26 of the Limitation Act, 1877.

A preliminary objection on behalf of the defendants that there was no ground for admitting a further appeal in the case as there was no "question of law" involved, overruled on the grounds that the questions (a) whether plaintiff had not acquired a right of way over the road in dispute either by long user or grant; (b) whether the road came under the category of a public or a private road, involved consideration of points of law and were not simple questions of fact.

Held, further, that the Divisional Judge's error in law in deciding the point under section 26 of the Limitation Act was of itself a sufficient ground for admitting a further appeal, though it was not the ground on which the appeal was admitted by the Judge in Chambers. RANA GANPAT SINGH v. KANGRA VALLEY SLATE COY. 62 P R 1898

25. Suit alleged to be based on easement and decreed on custom—Inconsistent right—Right to stack grain in front of shop—Customary right—Validity of custom.

Plaintiff, a grain-dealer, filed a suit against defendant for the issue of a perpetual injunction restraining defendants and their servants from the use of the site, of which the area was specified, in front of his shop which was situate in a rectangular collection of shops to which access was obtained by openings at the four corners. The use was stacking or spreading grain. The Divisional Judge remanded the case, on appeal, for inquiry as to (i) "whether defendants or any of them had prevented plaintiffs from exercising over the land in dispute the rights which he had been exercising, and (ii) whether such rights were justified by the practice and usage of the chauk." A return having been made to the order of remand, the Divisional Judge decreed the claim on the ground that a custom was proved to exist in the bazar entitling each shop-keeper therein to use the land in front of his shop for stacking grain, &c. Defendants appealed to the Chief Court, and it was contended, on their behalf, that (a) the suit was based on easement and was decreed on custom, an inconsistent right not set up or disclosed by plaintiff; (b) the site was public property and that a prescriptive or customary right could not be asserted in respect of such property; (c) that plaintiff had exercised the alleged right merely on sufferance; and (d) that the alleged custom could not be maintained as it was variable and uncertain.

CUSTOM VII.—EASEMENTS AND PROFITS—contd.

Held, overruling the said contentions, that (a) the recital in the plaint of some of the elements of an easement, as defined in the Limitation Act, did not alter the fact that the claim was for maintenance of the right which had been maintained, and that in any event the defendant had an opportunity of meeting the case, founded on custom in remand; (b) that the site had not been proved to have been dedicated to the public or used by the public except for the purpose of access to the shop of plaintiff and possibly to the shops of others in this bazar, the soil of bazar being entered in the official papers as occupied by the owners or the residents, and (c) that the custom alleged by the plaintiff was neither unreasonable nor uncertain, nor opposed to public policy, the fact that the precise amount of grain to be stacked was not settled not introducing an element of uncertainty.

Nos. 2 and 4 P. R. 1896, and No. 49 P. R. 1897, and I. L. R. XX All. 200, distinguished. I. L. R. IX All. 434 followed. JHANDU v. DIWAN CHAND. 7 P R 1899

26. Limitation—Adverse user of land for more than twelve years.

Held, that the user by plaintiffs of a certain ladder, one end of which rested on defendant's land, and of a platform which projected over the said land even if such user were adverse and had extended over a period of twelve but less than twenty years, neither extinguished the right of defendant in the said land nor gave plaintiffs a right of easement in respect thereof.

I. L. R. III Bom. 174, not followed.

On the evidence, found, that plaintiffs had failed to establish adverse possession. SHARAF HUSSAIN v. RAM KISHAN DAS. 68 P R 1899

27. Discharge of water and drainage—Removal of obstruction—Right of access for the purpose of supervision of the right to discharge water and drainage—Pecuniary compensation—Perpetual injunction—Specific Relief Act, Chapter IX.

The premises owned by the appellant and respondent were owned by one Babu Mohan Bannerjee, on whose death his sons by one wife became owners of the appellant's premises, while his sons by another wife became owners of the respondent's premises. In about 1880 both sets of premises were entirely re-constructed. In 1884 a plot of land to the east of the respondent's premises was sold for building purposes to a stranger, which necessitated the rain and refuse water drainage of the respondent's premises being turned from eastward to northward, and the respondent's premises, including his bath-rooms, remained up to the date of suit practically unchanged from the state in which they were when the change in drainage was effected by the owners of both sets. In February 1896 the present appellant who has derived his title from the owners of one set of the premises, erected a wall which obstructed the rain and refuse water of respondent's premises from going to the public drain by passing through his courtyard. The respondent filed a suit on 6th April 1896, and the District Judge passed a decree in his favour which was confirmed by the Divisional Judge. On appeal to the Chief Court, held, that the right to discharge the drainage was an apparent and continuous easement which passed to the respondent from his predecessor in title, that an injunction was necessary for the enjoyment of the respondent's premises, pecuniary compensation would not afford adequate relief as the effect of the obstruction would render the premises unfit for habitation, and that the right of access for the purpose of supervision of the drainage was a necessary adjunct to the right of drainage, and that the doctrine of apparent continuous easement applies to India. SULTANI v. RAM SARAN DAS. 49 P R 1900

CUSTOM VII.—EASEMENTS AND PROFITS—contd.

28. Right of passage included by implication—Construction to be placed on the order of a Judicial Court—Justice and equity—Easement of necessity.

The respondent obtained a decree for possession of a one-fourth share of the entire house on payment of Rs. 350 for cost of repairs to the appellant. In execution a partition was made by the Divisional Judge who awarded the respondent the upper and lower stories of the kothri marked "A" on the plan, but made no mention of any passage through the appellant's portion of the house. There was no dispute as respects the property to be awarded to respondent in lieu of his one-fourth share under the original decree, but the respondent insisted that he had the right of passage through the appellant's share of the house and the right of user thereof for all purposes necessary for the enjoyment of the portion awarded to him. This the appellant objected to on the ground of infringement of the privacy of his females, and that the value of his share would be practically destroyed. And further contended that respondent could not claim the right as an easement of necessity as he could open a passage to his house from the lane which ran to the north of kothri "A," or from his own house whtch adjoins the one partitioned.

Held, that as no express provision was made for the right of way in the order of the Divisional Judge partitioning the property,

CUSTOM VII.—EASEMENTS AND PROFITS—concld.

the order being clear by itself, and as the respondent could easily open a passage from the street or from his other house and could not therefore claim the right of way as an easement of necessity, such right of way could not be presumed to be implied in the order. MUHAMMAD ASHRAF KHAN v. MIR MUHAMMAD KHAN AND OTHERS. 76 P R 1900

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION.

See ALSO UNDER HINDU LAW.
MUHAMMADAN LAW
CUSTOM—III. APPOINTMENT OF HEIR; (M.—SUCCESSION OF ADOPTED SON AND HIS HEIRS).
LAMBARDARI (SUCCESSION TO OFFICE)
RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION (SUCCESSION TO OFFICE OF Mohant).
PUNJAB LAND REVENUE ACT (SUCCESSION TO Jagir).

A.—RULE OF DECISION.

1. Minor Cis-Sutlej Chiefs—Rules of Inheritance—Custom of the families—Females do not succeed.

The orders of Government, considered by the light of the correspondence on the subject, show that the families of the minor Cis-Sutlej Chiefs have been allowed to follow their own rules of inheritance, apparently established during the independence of those Chiefs, but at all events confirmed by those orders. Held, that such orders have the force of law. Held also, that the rules acted upon in these families both before and since 1849, do not permit the succession of females; that in this respect there is no distinction between movable and immovable property, and that such females are only entitled to maintenance suitable to their condition. JUSMAER SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT HUR KOUR. 40 P R 1869

2. Hindu Jats—Representation—Burden of proof.

Held, that among Hindu Jats of the Umballa district, it is not necessary for the party alleging a customary right of representation, which extends to collateral, as well as to lineal succession, to give evidence in order to establish such a custom. CHANDA v. MUSSAMMAT GUJOR. 91 P R 1879

3. Agarwal Baniyas of the Gurgaon district—Hindu law.

Found, that the Agarwal Baniyas of the Gurgaon district do not follow strict Hindu Law, but a custom which allows representation amongst collateral heirs. KANHYA LAL v. KISHNA. 39 P R 1884

4. Khatris of Lahore—Immoveable property ancestral and acquired—Hindu Law.

In a suit for inheritance the parties to which were Khatris of the Lahore district, found, that the said parties had adopted and were governed by the local custom, so far as regards succession to ancestral immoveable property, but that it was not proved that that custom overrode the Hindu Law in regard to any other kind of property, and that in respect to such property the rule of succession to be applied was the Hindu Law, which gives a preference to the associated over the disassociated brother. ABNASHI RAM v. MUL CHAND. 44 P R 1884

5. Kakazais of Lahore—Muhammadan Law.

Found, that among Kakazais of Lahore there is no well established custom, contrary to the Muhammadan Law, regulating the inheritance to the property of a proprietor dying without male issue. MUSSAMMAT FAZL-UN-NISSA v. CHIRAGH DIN. 10 P R 1885

6. Ranjha Jats of tahsil Bhera, zilla Shahpur—Muhammadan law.

In a suit for cancellation of a mortgage made in favour of one son and the sons of another son to the prejudice of the descendants of a third son, the parties to which were Ranjha Jats of the Bhera tahsil of the Shahpur district, found, that inheritance in the family of the parties was governed by custom, which allowed representation, and not by strict Muhammadan Law, which would exclude a grandson whose father died in the grandfather's lifetime from sharing with his uncles in his grandfather's estate. RUKN-I-ALAM v. FAZL AHMAD. 26 P R 1885

7. General rule as to interest of descendants in different degrees from a common ancestor—Sonless proprietor.

As a general rule among agriculturists, whether Hindus or Muhammadans, the descendants in different degrees from a common ancestor are usually regarded as equally interested in matters of succession to sonless members of the family. NUR MUHAMMAD v. LAL. 130 P R 1888

See also SHARF v. MUSSAMMAT SAHIBJI. 130 P R 1888 Note

8. Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872), section 5—Custom the primary rule of decision in the matters specified in the section—Onus of proving alleged custom

Section 5 of the Punjab Laws Act discussed and explained.

The intention of the above section is, that the primary rule of decision in all questions relating to the matters specified shall be custom, where a custom exists, and that the Hindu and Muhammadan Law shall only be applied where no such customary rule prevails. The section does not presume that custom is to govern the parties to the exclusion of the ordinary law, but it prescribes that it shall govern them in certain matters in the first instance, and though, except in certain cases where the custom contended for is so general, that it may be presumed to exist, the person who alleges a custom contrary to some precept of his personal law is primâ facie bound to prove that custom, the regulation or this burden depends on a rule of procedure or evidence only, in order to ascertain whether the special custom does or does not exist. The rule of decision remains the same, and its operation is merely suspended until the ascertainment of a fact, e.g., the existence of a custom. If a custom is proved, it must be applied to the exclusion of the personal law; if it is not the second branch of the rule must then receive effect. Mussammat Uttar Kaur v. Atma Singh (No. 47 P. R. 1870), referred to. MUSSAMMAT LORENDI v. MUSSAMMAT KISHEN KAUR. 149 P R 1888

9. Custom—Alienation—Bokhari Saiyad Shiahs of Kasba Sadhowra, Ambala district—Suit by collaterals in the seventh remove from the common ancestor—Muhammadan Law—Agricultural custom—Widow's tenure of her husband's estate—Life interest—Power of gift.

In a suit to set aside an alienation made by widows of a Bokhari Saiyad Shiah family, residing at Kasba Sadhowra, Ambala district, the collaterals (related in the tenth degree from the common ancestor) contended that the widows having succeeded to the entire estates of their respective husbands, it was clear that devolution to property was not governed by Muhammadan Law; and that in the absence of such rule the general custom governing the agricultural classes of the Punjab applied, whereby widows succeeded to a life tenure only, with no power of alienation, and that they (the collaterals), however distantly related, were competent to have the gift set aside.

Held, that the contention was not correct. Given that the widows did not succeed according to strict Muhammadan Law, it did not follow (i) that they took only a life interest similar to that of a Hindu widow and such as is commonly found among agriculturists in this province; and (ii) that any reversioner, however remote, could sue to contest their alienation.

Held, further, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove that the widows had not by custom governing the parties a limited power of gift. RAHMAT HUSSAIN AND OTHERS v. MUSSAMMAT FAHIM-UN-NISSA AND OTHERS. 25 P R 1890

10. Bedis of Mohalla Wahidpur, tahsil Garhshankar, Hoshiarpur district—Sale without necessity of ancestral land—Objection of near kinsmen—Burden of proof.

Held, in a suit the parties to which were Bedis of mauza Mohalla Wahidpur in the Garhshankar tahsil of the Hoshiarpur district, a non-agricultural class, though in the present case holding land in the village, the tenure of which was incomplete bhaiachara, but having no share in the shamilat that the plaintiffs had failed to discharge the burden, which under the circumstances lay upon them, of proving that certain alienations of divided ancestral land by a deceased collateral male without necessity were liable to be set aside as contrary to custom.

A presumption that may be applicable to Jats or other tribes who have long followed agriculture as a landholding occupation is therefore not necessarily applicable in the case of non-agricultural tribes who have acquired land in villages. KHAZAN SINGH AND OTHERS v. MADDI AND OTHERS. 122 P R 1893

11. Punjab Laws Act, section 5—First rule of decision in cases of succession—Duty of Court trying such cases to determine what law was applicable to the facts, whether Hindu or Muhammadan Law, or the customary law.

Where the plaintiffs claimed to inherit certain property in accordance with Muhammadan Law, which law was alleged to be identical with the custom by which the parties to the suit were governed, and the lower Courts finding that Muhammadan Law was not applicable, dismissed the suit.

Held, that an adjudication upon the legal rights of a suitor cannot properly be refused merely because the suitor erroneously alleges that he is governed by law, while he is really governed by customary law; and that it was for the Court to determine what law was applicable to the facts, whether the Hindu or Muhammadan Law, or the customary law; and having determined what law was applicable, to apply it to the ascertained facts. MUSSAMMAT FATIMA BIBI v. GUL. 127 P R 1893

12. By Hindu Law, though a widow is not competent of herself to institute partition proceedings in respect of her deceased husband's property, yet when such proceedings have been commenced by an heir entitled to demand partition and the paternal estate is divided by the sons after their father's death the widow is entitled for her life to a share equal to that of a son, and it is immaterial whether she is allotted a share as a defendant or claims it as a plaintiff.

In questions relating to inheritance, partition, alienation and the like, where the parties are high caste Hindus of good position, residents of a town and, though holding land, non-agriculturists, depending for their livelihood on avocations other than cultivation of land, while the Court should see in the first instance whether there is any custom bearing on the question in issue, no presumption in favour of the existence of such a custom should be made and its existence should be left to be established by the evidence of the parties. MUSSAMMAT PAL DEVI v. FAKIR CHAND. 60 P R 1895

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

A.—RULE OF DECISION—contd.

13. Succession to childless mukarraridar in Pindigheb tahsil, Rawalpindi district—Claim by collaterals whose common ancestor never held the land—Customary right of succession—Status of mukarraridar in said district—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 59—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, sections 5, 7.

In the Rawalpindi District a mukarraridar is a tenant, but there is a difference between his status and that of a tenant with ordinary rights of occupancy.

Held, therefore, that the succession to a deceased mukarraridar of the said district is not governed by section 59 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and that his right devolves according to the law applicable to the parties, as if it were a proprietary right.

In the case of a deceased childless mukarraridar of the Pindigheb tahsil, Rawalpindi district, who had acquired his right by constructing a well in the land of a proprietor with his consent, found, that the question of succession was governed by custom, and that by such custom collaterals, whose common ancestor had never held the lands in dispute, were entitled to succeed, subject to the life interest of the widow of the deceased. MAYA DAS v. MALIK AULIA KHAN.

10 P R 1896 Rev.

14. Section 5 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, does not require it to be presumed that in the matters therein specified a custom governs the parties to the exclusion of their personal law, but merely prescribes that it shall govern them in such matters in the first instance. All that the said section lays down is that an enquiry should first be directed to ascertain whether there is any custom applicable to the parties in respect of those matters, and if one is established that it shall furnish the rule of decision to the supersession of their personal law. When, therefore, a person alleges a custom contrary to some precept of his personal law, he is primâ facie bound to prove that custom. MUSSAMMAT FAKHIR-UN-NISSA v. MALIK RAHIM BAKHSH.

23 P R 1897

15. Custom—Succession—Muhammadan carpenters of Moolton city—Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872), section 5 (b).

Held, that among Muhammadan carpenters, resident in Mooltan city, there being no definite custom as regards succession at variance with Muhammadan Law, the rules of that law must be followed. ABDUL HAKIM AND OTHERS v. MUSSAMMAT BILOCHNI.

47 P R 1900

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

A.—RULE OF DECISION—contd.

16. Custom—Succession—Succession of daughter—Sheikhs of Badli, Rohtak district—Non-agriculturists—Onus probandi—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 5.

In a suit the parties to which were Sheikhs of the village of Badli, in the Rohtak district, found, in the absence of a custom to the contrary, that the daughters succeed in preference to collaterals such as the defendants. Where primâ facie it is apparent that the parties to a suit were not ordinary agriculturists or carrying on the pursuit of agriculture, but had been employed for generations in State service, there is no initial presumption in favour of the existence of a custom under section 5 (a) of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872. In such cases it should be ascertained whether the rule of descent is governed by custom or by the personal law of the parties. MUSSAMMAT FATIMA v. ARJMAND ALI. 41 P P 1901

17. Custom—Inheritnce—Koreshis of Gujranwala—Muhammadan Law.

In a suit the parties to which were Koreshis of the town of Gujranwala and not agriculturists, and the property in dispute was situate in that town, found, in the absence of a special custom to the contrary, that the rule of inheritance was governed by Muhammadan Law.

Ahmad Din v. Mussammat Fazlan (175 P. R. 1883) cited. MUSSAMMAT KARAM BIBI AND OTHERS v. HUSSAIN BAKHSH AND ANOTHHR.

92 P R 1901

18. Custom—Inheritance—Shiah Sayads of Umballa City—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 5—Muhammadan Law.

In a suit, the parties to which were non-agriculturist Shiah Sayads residing in the Kazi mohalla of Umballa city and owning little land outside, held, that the plaintiffs had failed to establish that they were governed by agricultural custom under which collaterals related in the fifth degree have a right to succeed to non-ancestral house property situated in the Umballa city or cantonments to the exclusion of a grandmother succeeding her grandson, or a married daughter succeeding her mother.

Held, further, that in matters of succession under dispute the parties were governed by Muhammadan Law and being Shiah Sayads by the Imamia Code.

As the Punjab Laws Act gives equal protection to those governed by their personal law as well as to those governed by custom, there can be no legal presumption in any case coming before a Court in the Punjab that it is to be governed by custom rather than the personal law of the parties. But in every case where a custom is set up it is the duty of the person alleging it to prove where it is not admitted that it exists and is applicable to the points in issue. MUHAMMAD HUSSAIN v. SULTAN ALI. 54 P R 1903

19. Custom—Inheritance—Muhammadan Kashmiris of Lahore city—Muhammadan Law.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

A.—RULE OF DECISION—contd.

In a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan Kashmiris of the city of Lahore engaged in trade and manufacture, found that in matters of inheritance they were governed by Muhammadan Law and not by custom.

Miran Bakhsh v. Allajawai (25 P. R. 1882). Kasim Ali v. Zinat-un Nissa (35 P. R. 1891), Sardar Bibi v. Sayad Ali Shah (4 P. R. 1888), Lorendi v. Kishan Kaur (149 P. R. 1888), Har Narain v. Deoki (24 P. R. 1893). Fakhar-un-Nissa v. Malik Rahim Bakhsh (23 P. R. 1897), Abdul Hakim v. Mussammat Belochni (47 P. R. 1900), Mussammat Fatima v. Arjmand Ali (41 P. R. 1901), Mussammat Karam Bibi v. Hussain Bakhsh (92 P. R. 1901), Moti Ram v. Sant Ram (103 P. R. 1902), Mussammat Jumna Devi v. Chuni Lal (30 P. R. 1903), Mangtu v. Chuni Lal (51 P. R. 1903), Muhammad Hassain v. Sultan Ali (54 P. R. 1903), Husani Begam v. Sahani Begam (51 P. L. R. 1904), Lal Din v. Mussammat Junian (114 P. R. 1893), and Ram Lal v. Mussammat Miran (3) P. R. 1896), referred to. MAULA BAKHSH v. MUHAMMAD BAKHSH.

54 P R 1906

20. Custom—Inheritance—Land acquired in a village other than that of the owner's origin—Right of descendants of a commom ancestor who resided in village of owner's origin to succeed by reason of mere community of descent—Rule of decision in cases of successions, etc.—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 5.

Held, by the whole Court that it has not been laid down by Lakha v. Hari (64 P. R. 1893) and other rulings on the point that mere community of descent does not give agnates of a deceased landowner a right of succession to acquired land left by him in a village in which they do not own any land.

Such a rule is neither borne out by the results of judicial enquiries nor deducible from the general principles of customary law.

Ichhri v. Jowihira (18 P. R. 1896), Sham Ram v. Hemi Bai (73 P. R. 1896) and Khuda Yar v. Sultan (103 P. R. 1900) considered and discussed.

Held, also that among parties generally following customary law it is permissible to fall back as a last resort on their personal law for the decision of the point in issue where no definite rule of the former law applicable to the case before a Court can be found. DAYA RAM v. SOHEL SINGH.

110 P R 1906 F B

21. Custom—Inheritance—Succession to unpaid dower of deceased female—Rajputs of Ludhiana district—Muhammadan Law.

Held, that in matter of succession to unpaid dower of a deceased female the Muhammadan Rajputs of the Ludhiana district (who in matters of succession generally are governed by the general rules of agricultural custom of the Province) are governed by Muhammadan Law. FAQIR MUHAMMAD v. MIRAN BAKHSH.

43 P R 1908

1039

CUSTOM VIII. MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

A.—RULE OF DECISION—contd.

22. Custom—Inheritance—Koreshis of Guliana, tahsil Gujar Khan, Rawalpindi district—Muhammadan Law.

In a suit the parties to which were Koreshis of Guliana in the Gujar Khan tahsil of the Rawalpindi district, belonging to a family of Pirs who practise Pir Muridi, found that in matters of inheritance they were governed by Muhammadan Law and not by custom. MUSSAMMAT BAKHT BANO v. CHIRAGH SHAH. 45 P R 1908

23. Chief of Kunjpura—Succession—Family custom—Primogeniture—Right of junior members of the family—Muhammadan Law.

In a suit by the younger brothers against the eldest for partition of the Kunjpnra estate held, that it is established that by family custom all the property which once appertained to that State (which ceased to exist as a semi-independant State in 1894) descended to the eldest son, the others being entitled to maintenance only, but that the rule of succession to lands and property acquired since 1849 was subject to the personal law of the parties. MUHAMMAD AHSANULLA KHAN v. MUHAMMAD IBRAHIM ALI KHAN. 47 P R 1908

24. Custom—Inheritance—Kilchi Moghals of Mudki, tahsil Ferozepore—Muhammadan Law.

Held that in matters of succession Kilchi Moghals of Mudki in the Ferozepore tahsil are governed by Muhammadan Law and not by the general rules of agricultural custom. NIZAM v. BHANA. 71 P R 1908

25. Custom—Inheritance—Natkani Bilochis of Sanghar tahsil, Dera Ghazi Khan district—Rights of collaterals to succeed in preference to a daughter—Muhammadan Law.

Held that the plaintiff upon whom the onus lay had failed to establish that in matters of succession the Natkani Bilochis of the Sanghar tahsil in the Dera Ghazi Khan district were governed by custom and not by Muhammadan Law, or that collaterals were entitled to succeed to the exclusion of a daughter. GHULAM HAIDAR v. PHAPHAL. 92 P R 1908

26. Custom—Inheritance—Non-agricultural Awans of Ludhiana city—Muhammadan Law—Attestation of Riwaj-i-am.

Held that in matters of succession the Awans of Ludhiana city who were for generations past dependent either upon service or other independent means of livelihood were governed by Muhammadan Law and not by custom.

The mere attestation of a Riwaj-i-am by a non-agriculturist who had acquired agricultural land in a village as a means of investment is not ipso facto sufficient to prove that in matters of alienation or succession his family residing in a town followed the ordinary customary rules of dominant agricultural tribes. JAMIAT-UL-NISA v. HASHMAT-UL-NISA. 124 P R 1908

1040

CUSTOM VIII. MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

A.—RULE OF DECISION—concld.

27. Custom—Inheritance—Shamsi Khojas of Lahore—Muhammadan Law—Right of representation.

Found that in matters of succession the Shamsi Khojas of Lahore were governed by custom and not by Muhammadan Law and that among them the sons of a pre-deceased collateral were entitled to succeed by right of representation in presence of their uncle. MEHTAB-UD-DIN v. ABDULLAH. 140 P R 1908

28. Hindu Law—Brahmins of mauza Mankiala, tahsil Gujar Khan, district Rawalpindi—Onus probandi.

Held, that apart from local and special circumstances and conditions, the initial presumption in regard to Brahmins is, that they are governed by Hindu Law, and that the defendants, on whom the onus probandi rested, have failed to prove that Brahmins of mauza Mankiala, tahsil Gujar Khan, district Rawalpindi, follow agricultural custom in matters of succession. MUSSAMMAT MAYA v. GURDIT SINGH. 1 P R 1910

29. Hindu Law—Succession—Tarkhans of Amritsar city.

Held, that Hindu non-agriculturists residing in a city are, in the absence of proof of a custom by specific instances modifying Hindu Law, presumably governed by that law, and that among Hindu Tarkhans of the Amritsar city a grandnephew as a sapinda succeeds in preference to a great-grandnephew and to the widow of a sapinda whose husband predeceased the widow of the last male owner. SARDUL SINGH v. KARM SINGH. 30 P R 1910

B.—PAGVAND AND CHUNDAVAND.

1 Raien tribe.

Sons succeed per capita and not per stirpes amongst the Raien tribe, in the Ludhiana and Jullundur districts. EESSA v. KAIMOOLLA. 74 P R 1870

2. Pagvand and chundavand—Half-brothers—Aroras of Moolton

Among the Aroras of the Mooltan district, if a man has sons by two wives, the property is divided equally between them by custom of pagvand; and if one of the sons die without male issue, his property is divided amongst the his own brothers and their issue, to the exclusion of the half-brothers. CHAHDA v. WALLIA MAL. 25 P R 1873

3. Bagri Jats, Ferozepore district—Pagvand and chundavand.

Found, that by custom amongst the Bagri Jats of the Ferozepore district inheritance is according to the pagvand rule (per capita) and not the chundavand rule (per stirpes). AMRIKA v. SARMUKH 105 P R 1876

4 Jats—Pagvand—chundavand

Found, that chundravand was not the customary rule of succession amongst Jats of mauza Kolaran, tahsil Rupar, district Umballa, and neighbouring villages. ALA SINGH v. LEHNA SINGH. 34 P R 1879

1041

CUSTOM VIII. MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

B.—PAGVAND AND CHUNDAVAND—contd.

5 Pagvandda—chunvand—Onus probandi—General custom.

Inheritance as a rule goes per capita (according to the pagvand rule) and not per stirpes (chundavand). It therefore lies upon the parties alleging the special custom of chundavand to establish such custom; and, in the absence of such proof, the general custom of pagvand will apply without any proof being necessary. DHYAN CHAND v. MEHTAB SINGH. 101 P R 1879

6. Acharjis of M. Bhawani, Hissar district—Pagvand.

Found, that no well-established custom of division by the rule of chundavand exists amongst Acharjis of mauza Bhawani in the Hissar district. KANHU RAM v. DEVI SAHAI. 81 P R 1884

7. Sidhu Berar Jats of Moga tahsil—Pagvand.

In a suit the parties to which were Sidhu Berar Jats of the Moga tahsil of the Firozpur district, held that no well established custom of chundavand was proved to prevail so as to govern the inheritance among the class or family to which the parties belonged, and that therefore the general custom of pagvand must be held to apply to the case. Dhyan Chand v. Mehtab Singh (No. 01 of 1879, Civil) cited. ATAR SINGH v. NIHAL SINGH. 125 P R 1884

8. Hindu Jats (Sindhu got) of tahsil Jagadhri, zilla Amballa—Pagvand.

In a suit, the parties to which were Sindhu Jats residing in the Jagadhri tahsil of the Amballa district, held, that the defendant had failed to prove that chundavand was the recognized rule of inheritance in the tribe to which the parties belonged, and that therefore the general rule of pagvand must prevail. Albela v. Pat Ram (No. 21 of 1881, Civil) referred to PARTAB SINGH v. NATHA SINGH. 127 P R 1884

9. Padda Jats of Gurdaspur—Pagvand.

Found, that no well established custom of inheritance by the rule of chundavand prevails among Padda Jats of the Gurdaspur tahsil. CHATTAR SINGH v. HEM SINGH. 62 P R 1885

10. Sindhu Jats of Kot Jagraj, Gurdaspur—Pagvand.

In a suit the parties to which were Sindhu Jats of Kot Jagraj in the Gurdaspur tahsil, found to have originally settled there from Kana Kacha in the Lahore district found, that when a proprietor dies leaving sons by different wives, the inheritance is by custom divided according to the pagvand rule, and not in accordance with chundavand. CHARN SINGH v. SOBHA SINGH. 63 P R 1885

11. Chundavand—Chibhs—Gujrat district.

Found, that among the Chibhs of the Gujrat district the general custom is to treat the offspring of each Rajput wife, and not the sons individually, as the units between which property should be divided on the father's death. ATA MUHAMMAD KHAN v. FAUJDAR KHAN. 77 P R 1885

See also MUSAHIB KHAN v. AGAR KHAN. 77 P R 1885 Note

12. Chundavand—Aulakh Jats, Amritsar district.

In a suit to have it declared that certain property was not liable to division according to chundavand, the parties to which were Aulakh Jats of the Amritsar district, the lower Court after a remand for further enquiry as to custom found that the rule of chundavand was applicable to the parties, and therefore dismissed the plaintiffs' claim It appeared that at Settlement one of the plaintiffs attested the Riwaj-i-am in which the custom of the Aulakh Jats was recorded as chundavand, and was a party to an entry of the holding in dispute and other holdings as belonging half to the plaintiffs, whose father was then dead, and half to himself, his brothers and nephews.

Held, on an appeal by plaintiffs to the Chief Court, that the evidence on remand certainly did not show that the custom was erroneously entered as chundavand, and as the shares of the parties entered at settlement raised a strong presumption that chundavand was the custom, which was also deposed to by several witnesses, the appeal must be dismissed. BISHEN SINGH v. MANGAL SINGH. 48 P R 1886

13. Hindu Jats (Sanwan got, Rohtak district—Chundavand.

In a suit the parties to which were Hindu Jats of the Sanwan got, residents of mauza Daolu, tahsil Jhajjar, zilla Rohtak, found, that chundavand was the customary rule of succession applicable to the parties. Sahiba v. Ameer Chund (No. 82 of 1866, Civil) referred to. SITA v KHUBA. 53 P R 1886

14. Pathans of Amritsar district.

In a suit, the parties to which were Pathans of the Amritsar district, found, that the pagvand was the rule of succession applicable to the parties. SHER KHAN v. SULTAN KHAN. 35 P R 1889

15. Muhammadan family residing in Yusafzai parganah.

Found, in a case of a Muhammadan family who originally came from the Hastnagar parganah, but had resided for two or three generations in the Yusafzai parganah in which the land in dispute lay, that the customary rule of succession applicable to the parties was chundavand. ABDUL RAHMAN v. KHALIL-UR-RAHMAN. 51 P R 1889

16. Chohl Jats of Lahore district—Whole and half blood.

In a suit, the party to which were Chohl Jats of the Lahore district, found, that the rule of succession applicable to the parties was pagvand and that no distinction was recognized between whole and half blood as between surviving brothers and their descendants. HIRA v. FAIZ BAKHSH. 75 P R 1889

17. Sanghera Jats of tahsil Zira, zilla Ferozepore.

In a suit, the parties to which were Sanghera Jats of tahsil Zira, zilla Ferozepore, held that no well-established custom of chundavand had been proved to prevail, and therefore the general custom of pagvand must be held to apply to the case. PARAS v. IMAM DIN. 178 P R 1889

18. Succession by collaterals—Pagvand (per capita) and chundavand (per stirpes)—Whole and half blood—Burden of proof.

Held, by the Full Bench, that in cases of collateral succession arising in the Punjab, of which the decision is governed by custom, and in which a portion of the property of a common ancestor of the deceased and of the claimants is in dispute :—

When it appears—

(a) that the property of the common ancestor was distributed according to the rule of chundavand ; or

(b) that the property of the common ancestor was distributed according to the rule of pagvand ;

the Court may presume, until the contrary is proved, in case (a) that the whole blood excludes the half blood ; and in case (b) that the whole blood and half blood succeed together :

Explanation of the grounds for his opinion, and remarks on the burden of proof by Plowden, J.

Appendix of decided cases collected with remarks thereon by RIVAZ, J. GHOLAM MUHAMMAD v. MUHAMMAD BAKHSH. 4 P R 1891 F B

19. Baryah Rajputs, Jullundur district.

In a suit, the parties to which were Baryah Rajputs of the Jullundur district held, that by reason of the presumption arising from the distribution of the estate on the death of the common ancestor, the collaterals were governed by the pagvand rule in succeeding to the share of another collateral.

No. 4 P. R. 1891, followed. SUKHE KHAN v. SOHNE KHAN. 110 P R 1891

20. Randhawa Jats of tahsil Ajnala, Amritsar district.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Hindu Randhawa Jats of the village of Chamiari in the Ajnala tahsil of the Amritsar district, that by the existing custom of such Jats in this village, the chundavand and not the pagvand rule of distribution applied to the deceased father's land.

Remarks on the custom in the Amritsar district being in a state of transformation from chundavand to pagvand. HUKM SINGH v. SOCHET SINGH. 134 P R 1892

21. Samrai Jats, tahsil Batala, District Gurdaspur.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were Samrai Jats of tahsil Batala, Gurdaspur district, that they were governed by the chundavand and not by the pagvand rule of succession. GANDA SINGH v. TEHL SINGH. 84 P R 1893

22. Bundher Jats of Kohli Khurd, Ludhiana tahsil.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were Bundher Jats of mauza Kohli Khurd in the Ludhiana tahsil, that the chundavand rule of inheritance prevailed.

Nos. 176 and 178 P. R. 1889, and Nos. 4 and 110 P. R. 1891, referred to. KAKU v. BHAGWAN SINGH. 119 P R 1893

23. Ghumman Jats of mauza Sambaryal, Daska tahsil, Sialkot district.

Found, that the customary rule of succession among Ghumman Jats of the Asman mahal of mauza Sambaryal, Daska tahsil in the Sialkot district, is that of "chundavand." NATHA SINGH v. HARNAM SINGH. 3 P R 1894

24. Mitha Khels of Peshawar tahsil.

In a case the parties to which were Mitha Khels of Peshawar tahsil, found, that plaintiffs had failed to prove that they, as collaterals of the whole blood of one Syad Khan were entitled to succeed to the whole of his estate to the exclusion of defendants, collaterals of the half blood. GHAZAN KHAN v. MUHAMMAD AMIR KHAN. 68 P R 1896

25. Jhawar Jats of Amritsar tahsil—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that defendants, upon whom the onus rested, had failed to prove that among Jhawar Jats of tahsil Amritsar succession is governed by the chundawand and not by the pagvand rule, SANT SINGH v. SOHAN SINGH. 46 P R 1897

26. Sindhu Jats of Bagiana Kalan, Chunian tahsil, Lahore district—Burden of proof.

In a case in which the parties were Sindhu Jats of Bagiana Kalan, Chunian tahsil, Lahore district, found, that plaintiffs, upon whom the onus rested, had failed to prove that in questions of succession the parties were governed by the chundavand and not by the pagvand rule. KUNDAN v. SUNDER SINGH. 74 P R 1898

27. Kataria Jats of mauza Mokhra, Rohtak tahsil.

In a case the parties to which were Kataria Jats of mauza Mokhra in the tahsil and district of Rohtak, found, that plaintiffs had failed to prove that the custom of chundavand succession prevails universally among the Kataria got of Jats of Rohtak generally or in the family to which the parties belonged. GOPAL v. SHEWAG RAM. 12 P R 1899

28. Awans of Talagang tahsil, Jhelum district.

Found, that among Awans of the Jhelum district the tribal rule of succession is that of pagvand, and that defendant, upon whom the burden of proof rested, had failed to prove a special family custom of chundavand at variance therewith.

The chundavand and pagvand rules of succession are not on equality, and it is for the party alleging the applicability of such a custom as that of chundawand to establish it clearly. GHOLAM MUHAMMAD v. ABBAS KHAN.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

B.—PAGVAND AND CHUNDAVAND—contd.

22 P R 1899

29. Custom—Succession – Chundavand and pagvand—Bedi Khatris of mauza Chavinda, tahsil Zafarwal, Sialkot district.

In a case to which the parties were Bedi Khatris of mauza Chavinda, Zaffarwal tahsil, Sialkot District, found, that the plaintiff has failed to establish his allegation that the parties were governed, by the chundavand, rule. BAWA SANT SINGH v. GANGA SINGH AND OTHERS.
47 P R 1901

30. Custom—Inheritance—Pagvand or Chundavand—Whole and half-blood—Rathis of Danwan got of tahsil Palampur, Kangra District.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Rathis of Palampur tahsil, that the customary rule of succession applicable to the parties was chundavand, and that the collaterals of whole blood of a deceased sonless proprietor were entitled to succeed to the half blood. MUSSAMMAT KUNDO AND OTHERS v. SHIB DIAL AND OTHERS.
22 P R 1902

31. Custom—Inheritance—Pagvand and chundavand -Naru Rajputs of Hoshiarpur—Whole and half-blood.

In a suit the parties to which were Naru Rajputs of tahsil Hoshiarpur where the ancestral land had been divided on the chundavand and not on the pagvand principle held that the agnates of the whole blood had preference over the agnates of the half-blood.

Jahangir v. Ghulam Kadir (45 P. R. 1890), Gholam Muhammad v. Muhammad Bakhsh (4 P. R. 1891) F. B. Mohar Singh v. Kala Singh (32 P. R. 1891, Sohel Singh v. Uttam Singh (48 P. R. 1891), Pir Bakhsh v. Karim Bakhsh (22 P. R. 1895), and Ahmad Shah v. Mussammat Talia Bibi (34 P. R. 1900), referred to. NATHA AND OTHERS v. HURMAT AND OTHERS.
22 P R 1903

32 Custom—Inheritance—Pagvand or Chundavand—Sheikhs of Mulana, District Umballa.

In a suit the parties to which were Sheikhs of Mulana in the Umballa district, found, that the customary rule of succession applicable to the parties was pagvand. KAMAR DIN v. NASIR-UD-DIN.
11 P R 1905

33. Custom—Inheritance—Pagvand or Chundavand—Yusafzai Pathans of Dujana, Rohtak district.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Yusafzai Pathans of mauza Dujana in the Rohtak district, that they were governed by the pagvand and not by the chundavand rule of succession. ISHRAT ALI KHAN v. AHMAD ALI KHAN.
29 P R 1905

34. Custom—Inheritance—Pagvand or Chundavand—Samra Jats of tahsil Hafizabad, Gujranwala district.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Samra Jats of tahsil Hafizabad, Gujranwala district, that they were governed by the pagvand and not by the chundavand rule of succession. LABH SINGH v. SUNDAR SINGH.

148 P R 1908

35. Custom—Inheritance—Pagvand or Chundavand—Sarai Jats of Dholpur, tahsil Batala, Gurdaspur district.

Found in a suit the parties to which were Sarai Jats of mauza Dholpur in the Batala tahsil of the Gurdaspur district, that they were governed by the chundavand and not by the pagvand rule of succession. LABH SINGH v. NARAIN SINGH.
5 P R 1909

36. Custom—Inheritance—Pagvand or Chundavand—Gujars of mauza Hailakh, tahsil Shakargarh, Gurdaspur district.

Found in a suit the parties to which were Gujars of mauza Hailakh in the Shakargarh tahsil of the Gurdaspur district, that they were governed by the pagvand and not by the chundavand rule of succession. RANJHA v. BULANDA.
14 P R 1909

37. Custom—Inheritance—Pagvand or Chundavand—Sials of Jhang district—Alienation—Gift to one son in excess of his share—Equalisation of shares.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Sials of the Jhang district, that they were governed by the pagvand and not by the chundavand rule of succession.

Held, that a gift of land to one son in excess of his ordinary share effected by a father in order to equalise the shares of his sons is not ordinarily void. AHMAD v. HAJI MAHMUD.
50 P R 1909

38. Custom—Succession—Chundawand or Phagwand—Sidhu Musalman Jats, mauza Pakhowali, tahsil Gurdaspur—Riwaj-i-am.—

Held, that notwithstanding the entry in the Riwaj-i-am of the Gurdaspur district in favour of the chundavand rule, the onus probandi that this rule exists among Sidhu Musalman Jats of mauza Pakhowali, tahsil Gurdaspur, is on the person asserting it, and that he had failed to prove it.
58 P R 1911

C.—SUCCESSION OF SONS AND GRANDSONS.

1. Mahomedan Law—Sons and Grandsons—Right of representation.

S. A., died leaving him surviving K. A., a son, and two grandsons, S. and M., the sons of A. A., who predeceased his father S. A. In a suit by K. A. claiming, under Mahomedan Law, the entire estate of S. A. deceased,

Found, that custom recognized the right of representation, and, therefore, that the grandsons were not excluded from inheriting. KADAR ALI v. SIKANDAR ALI.
60 P R 1878

2. Hindu Jats—Contract of Marriage—Absence of ceremonies—Legitimacy of offspring.

One J, a Hindu Jat, on the death of D. S., his collateral relative, took the latter's widow, Mt. D., to his house. It was not proved that any marriage ceremony of the nature of chadarandazi or otherwise was performed: but Mt. D. lived with J. till his death, (a period of 14 or 15 years) as his wife: was treated by him as such, was regarded as such by the people of the village, and bore sons to J.—Held, in a suit brought on J.'s death to oust the widow and her son by J. from the deceased's property, that J.'s son was entitled to inherit, as it was reasonable to presume that a contract in the nature of marriage was entered into between J. and the woman sufficient to legitimatize the offspring. HAKU v. MEHTAB SINGH.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

C.—SUCCESSION OF SONS AND GRANDSONS—contd.

38 P R 1879

3. Succession—Eldest grandson.

Held, that the son of an eldest son who predeceased his father if of full age and thoroughly fit has a better claim to succeed to the lambardarship than the eldest surviving son. IMAM BAKHSH v. KASU.
9 P R 1880 Rev.

4. Mandal family—Muhammadan Law—Legitimacy—Acknowledgment.

Held, by the Privy Council, that no custom was established in the Mandal family varying the general rule of the Muhammadan law relating to inheritance, or to the effect of the acknowledgment of son.

The rule of Muhammadan law that the acknowledgment and recognition of children by a Muhammadan as his sons gives them the status of sons, capable of inheriting as legitimate sons, applied to the facts found by the Privy Council. NAWAB MUHAMMAD AZMAT ALI KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT LALLI BEGUM.
17 P R 1882

5. Mahajans of Karnal—Children of grandsons who died before the deceased claiming to succeed with grandsons.

In a suit the parties to which were Mahajans of Karnal, found, that by custom the grandsons of a deceased Mahajan did not succeed as a class to the exclusion of the children of grandsons who died before the deceased, but that tne latter succeeded with their uncles by right of representation of their deceased father. Devi Sahai v Mangal Sein (No. 81 of 1874, Civil) cited ADJUDHIA PARSHAD v. DWARKA DAS.
71 P R 1882

See also AJUDHIA PERSHAD v. DWARKA DAS. 71 P R 1882 Note

6. Pathans of Attock—Muhammadan law.

In a suit for inheritance, the parties to which were Pathan zamindars of the Attock tahsil, found, that by custom the right of representation accrues to grandsons in presence of an uncle, when their father has predeceased their grandfather.

Kadar Ali v. Sikandar Ali (No. 60 of 1878, Civil) cited. FAIZ TALAB v. KARM KHAN
80 P R 1882

7. Gil Jats of tahsil Ajnala—Formal adoption—Appointment of heir.

Found, that by the custom prevailing among the Gil Jats of the Ajnala tahsil, though where a regular adoption has taken place, the adopted son succeeds not only lineally, but also to collaterals, the mere appointment of an heir does not give the right to succeed to collaterals. Badhawa Singh v. Ganesha (No. 97 of 1879, Civil), Dewa Singh v. Nihal Singh (No. 9 of 1880, Civil), and Ram Singh v. Jaswant Singh (No. 88 of 1881, Civil), cited. JOWALA SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT LACHMI.

14 P R 1884

8. Gil Jats of tahsil Moga—Appointment of heir—Right of appointed heir to succeed to property left by descendants of his natural father.

In a suit the parties to which were Gil Jats, residents of M. Ramonwala, tahsil Moga, zilla Firozpur, found, that an appointed heir does not by custom forfeit his right to succeed as heir to property left by his brother's sons along with the sons of another brother. DIWAN SINGH v. BHUP SINGH.
45 P R 1884

9. Brahmin agriculturists of Hoshiarpur district—Right of adopted son to succeed in his natural family.

Found, that among Brahmin agriculturists of the Hoshiarpur district an adoption of the customary kind prevailing in the Punjab does not involve an exclusion of the adopted person from the succession to his natural family. NARAIN v. RADHA.
42 P R 1886

10. Brahmins of Sialkot district—Son's right to enforce partition of ancestral property—Liability of son's interest in ancestral property to attachment and sale in execution.

Found that, among Brahmins of the Sialkot district, a son cannot by custom enforce partition of ancestral immovable property during his father's lifetime.

Held, therefore, in a suit among Brahmins of Pasrur in the above district, that a son's interest in joint ancestral property in possession of his father is not liable to attachment and sale in execution of a decree against the son. Heera Singh v. Sobha (No. 11 of 1870, Civil), Devi Suhai v. Mungal Sein (No. 81 of 1874, Civil, F. B.), Mussammat Thakuri v. Ganda Mall (No. 78 of 1879, Civil), Dhanpat v. Haku (No. 58 of 1880, Civil, F. B.) and Banke Rai v. Madho Ram (No. 153 of 1883, Civil) referred to. NATHE RAI v. MANNU RAM.
113 P R 1886

11. Sayads of Kharkhanda, Rohtak district.

Found, that the Sayads of Kharkhanda, Rohtak district, were not bound by the strict Muhammadan Law of representation, but by the usual custom among agriculturists, whereby sons succeed even though their parents may have pre-deceased them. Kadar Ali v Sikandar Ali (No. 60 P. R. 1878) cited and followed. MIR MUMTAZ ALI v. JAWAD ALI.
82 P R 1887

12. Khojas of Kasur—Exclusion of daughters by sons.

Found, that among the Khojas of Kasur, by custom, in the succession to immovable property of an owner who dies leaving male and female issue the sons exclude the daughters. MUSSAMMAT ALLA JOWAI v. MUSSAMMAT FATIMA.
52 P R 1888

13. Muhammadan Law—Distant relations—Chauhan Rajputs of Hoshiarpur.

In a case relating to the estate of a Chauhan Rajput of the District of Hoshiarpur, in the absence of a well-established custom, the Muhammadan Law was held to govern the parties in the matter of inheritance, and under that law the grandsons and great-grandsons of the great-grandfather of the deceased proprietor were held not to come under any of the three classes of heirs, sharers, residuaries, and distant relations. DHANNI v. KHARA.
54 P R 1890

14. Gujars of Rawalpindi district—Power of father to exclude son.

In a suit the parties to which were Gujars of the Rawalpindi District, found that a father had no power by custom to disinherit a son. ILAHI BAKHSH v. HASU KHAN.
43 P R 1891

15. Custom—Agriculturists—Succession to the estate of a female inherited from her father.

In a suit for succession of land left by a female who had inherited it from her father, and who first married her cousin and by him had a son and who after her first husband's death married another man by whom she had three sons, held, that the son of the first marriage could not exclude the sons of the second marriage on the ground that he was the collateral of the original owner. The collaterals of a deceased person who has been succeeded by a female as his heiress have no locus standi with regard to his property so long as the female's male lineal descendants are in existence. ALAM AND OTHERS v. AKBAR ALI.
52 P R 1901

16. Custom—Inheritance—Right of grandson whose father has pre-deceased the grandfather in the estate of the latter—Kaka Khels of Parang Kandi Akhund Khel, of Peshawar district.

Found, that by custom among Kaka Khels of Parang Kandi Akhund Khel, of Peshawar district the son of a father who has pre-deceased him succeeds to the property of the grandfather as representing his father and is not passed over. KHARUD MIAN v. BADSHAH.
50 P R 1904

17. Custom—Inheritance—Right of grandson whose father has pre-deceased the grandfather in the estate of the latter—Muhammadan Kashmiris of Banga, tahsil Nawashahr, Jullundur district.

In a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan Kashmiris of Banga, tahsil Nawashahr, Jullundur district, found that in matters of inheritance they were governed by custom and not by Muhammadan Law, and that among them the son of a pre-deceased son was entitled to succeed to his grandfather's estate by right of representation. SIRAJ-UD-DIN v. MUHAMMAD FARUK.

8 P R 1907

18. Custom—Inheritance—Succession of illegitimate son in presence of daughter lawfully born—Saidhu Jats of Nakodar tahsil, Jullundur district.

Found, that by custom among Saidhu Jats of the Nakodar tahsil, Jullundur district, an illegitimate son is not entitled to succeed to his mother's property in the presence of a daughter lawfully born of that mother. MEHNGA v. ASO.
22 P R 1909

19. Custom—Inheritance—Right of collaterals who had abandoned his ancestral holding and resided in a different village.

Held, that the fact of a person having abandoned his ancestral holding and severing his connection with his village of origin and settling in another village for good, does not necessarily debar him or his sons from succeeding to his or their collaterals' property in the ancestral village. RAJ MAL v. SANDHI.
41 P R 1809

20. Haq-i-dastar—Eldest son entitled to larger share—Janjiana Siyals, mauza Kharanwala, District Jhang.

Held, that by a special custom prevailing among Janjiana Siyals of mauza Kharanwala, in the Jhang district, the eldest son is entitled upon final partition to receive certain extra land in addition to his share by way of "Haq-i-dastar" or "Haq-i-pagri." MIAN KHAN v. SAMAIL.
4 P R 1910

D.—SUCCESSION OF (PRE-DECEASED) SON'S WIDOW.

1. Varaiches of Gujrat—Right of widow whose husband has pre-deceased his father to share with the brothers of the deceased.

Found, that a custom exists amongst Varaiches of the Gujrat District, whereby the widow of a man who pre-deceases his father is entitled to succeed on her father-in-law's death to the share of her pre-deceased husband. MUSSAMMAT HAYAT BIBI v. SULTAN.
75 P R 1888

2. Gujars of tahsil Kharian, Gujrat District—Right of widow of son who has pre-deceased his father to succeed to her husband's share—Representation.

Found, that by custom among Gujars of the Kharian tahsil of the Gujrat district, the widow of a son who has pre-deceased his father succeeds to the share which her husband would have succeeded to, had he survived his father. MUSSAMMAT FAZLAN v. KAMMAN.
8 P R 1889

3. Chimbah Jats of Sialkot district—Right of widow of son who has died sonless before his father.

In a suit the parties to which were Chimbah Jats of the Sialkot district, found that no

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

D.—SUCCESSION OF (PRE-DECEASED) SON'S WIDOW—contd.

custom existed by which the widow of a son, who had died sonless before his father, was entitled to succeed to what would have been her husband's share had he survived his father, but that such share was taken by the surviving brother, leaving the widow only a right to maintenance. MUSSAMMAT JIWAN v. HARI SINGH. 62 P R 1889

4 Sayad agriculturists of Unchagaon, Delhi district—Succession of widow of only son who pre-deceased his father.

In a suit, the parties to which were Sayad agriculturists of mauza Unchagaon, Delhi district, the widow of an only son who pre-deceased his father claimed to succeed by custom to a life-interest in his father-in-law's estate.

Held, that the burden of proving such a custom lay on her, and that she had failed to discharge it. MUSSAMMAT ASMAT-UN-NISSA v. SAYAD AHMAD ALI. 123 P R 1890

5. Hoshiarpur Jats—Widow of son who has pre-deceased his father—Right to succeed—Maintenance.

Held, that no custom had been proved whereby, among Hoshiarpur Jats, the widow of a son who had pre-deceased his father, was entitled to succeed to her husband's share of the land, and not to maintenance only. CHET SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT RATAN KAUR 93 P R 1891

6. Katana Gujars of tahsil Kharian, Gujrat district—Rights of widow of son who has pre-deceased his father - Representation.

Found, that by the custom of Khatana Gujars, tahsil Kharian, Gujrat District, the widow of a son who has pre-deceased his father is not entitled to succeed to the share which her husband would have taken had he survived.

No. 8 P. R. 1889, not followed. MUHAMMAD KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT HUSSAIN BIBI. 97 P R 1891

7. Widow of son who has pre-deceased his father—Muhammadan Gorewaha Rajputs, Garhshankar tahsil, Hoshiarpur district.

Found, that among Muhammadan Gorewaha Rajputs of the Garhshankar tahsil, Hoshiarpur district, the widow of a man who pre-deceased his father succeeds by custom on the father's death to the estate to which her husband would have succeeded if he had survived his father—the succession being to the usual widow's estate without power of alienation, except for valid necessity. SANDAL KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT AKKI. 23 P R 1892

8. Hindu Mahton of mauza Bohan, tahsil Hoshiarpur—Right of widow, whose husband pre-deceased his father, in the estate of the father who died leaving a son.

The parties to the suit were Hindu Mathons of the Hoshiarpur tahsil. The question for decision was whether the widow of a pre-deceased son takes on the death of his father a son's share in the ancestral land, without the consent of the other sons or direct lineal heirs, that is to say, takes it as of right for her lifetime.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

D.—SUCCESSION OF (PRE-DECEASED) SON'S WIDOW—contd.

Held that the burden of proof was on the widow, who asserted this unusual right, and that it was not proved that the defendant-widow had by custom the right she claimed irrespective of the assent of the heirs male. TEJA SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT ATRI. 115 P R 1893

9. Widow of son who has pre-deceased his father—Panwan Jats of Tarn Taran tahsil, Amritsar District—Onus probandi.

In a case the parties to which were Panwan Jats of the Tarn Taran tahsil, Amritsar District, found, that the plaintiff upon whom the onus probandi rested, had failed to prove that the widow of a son who had pre-deceased his father was entitled by custom to succeed to her deceased husband's share and not merely to maintenance.

No. 75 P. R. 1888, No. 93 P. R. 1891, and No. 115 P. R. 1893, referred to. MUSSAMMAT RUP KAUR v. KISHEN SINGH. 9 P R 1895

10. Widow of pre-deceased son—Muhammadan Rajputs of tahsil Chunian, Lahore district.

Found, in a case the parties to which were Muhammadan Rajputs of tahsil Chunian, Lahore district, that the plaintiff had failed to prove that a widow whose husband had pre-deceased his father was by custom entitled for life to what would have been her husband's share of the father's estate, along with the other brothers of her husband. SOHNA v. MUSSAMMAT BHAGO. 50 P R 1897

11. Custom—Inheritance—Right of widow of son who has pre-deceased his father—Isa Khel Pathans of tahsil Isa Khel, Mianwali district.

Held, that by custom among Isa Khel Pathans of the Isa Khel tahsil of the Mianwali district the widow of an only son who pre-deceased his father is entitled to succeed to a life interest in her father-in-law's estate. MEHR KHAN v. AZIZ-ULLAH. 84 P R 1908

12. Custom—Inheritance—Widow of son who has pre-deceased his father—Randhawa Jats of Amritsar district.

Found, that by custom among Randhawa Jats of the Amritsar district the widow of a pre-deceased son succeeds to the property of her father-in-law against the brother of the last male owner. PREMI v. KHUSHAL SINGH. 30 P R 1909

13. Succession of widowed daughter-in-law in presence of near collateral—Onus of proving a special family custom—Quraishies of Ferozepore city.

Held, that the defendant on whom the onus lay had failed to prove that among the Quraishies of Ferozepore city a widowed daughter-in-law succeeds to the property of her father-in-law in the presence of a near male collateral of the latter. No special family custom excluding the operation of Muhammadan Law was proved in this case.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

D.—SUCCESSION OF (PRE-DECEASED) SON'S WIDOW—concld.

MUSSAMMAT AISHA BIBI v. AZIZ-UD-DIN. 50 P R 1910

E.—SUCCESSION OF BROTHER.

1. Brothers—Separation—Hindu Law.

G. J. and K. were brothers. K. separated and G. and J. continued to hold in common. Five years after this separation, J. died, and left a widow, who held with G.; after her death the descendants of K. claimed half of J.'s share from the descendants of G. Held, that by custom among the agriculturists where the case arose (Umballa district), the descendants of K. were entitled to the half share claimed. BHOLA v. NANKU. 18 P R 1872

2. Associated and unassociated brothers—Parganah Phillour.

N. (deceased) and one of his brothers (defendant's father) were joint in estate but not in food; and after the death of his father, defendant and N. were similarly associated. The remaining brothers of N. (the plaintiffs) were separate in food and estate both with regard to N. and each other. Plaintiffs claimed a share in N.'s estate. The parties were Jats of Parganah Phillour. Found, that by custom the associated brother or his son did not exclude the unassociated brother. RODA v. AMAR CHUND. 75 P R 1873

3. Hindu Law—Associated and dis-associated brothers.

The grandfather of plaintiffs, father of K. (deceased), and grandfather of defendants were brothers. Plaintiff's grandfather lived separately from the father of K. and grandfather of defendants who were associated. Held, that plaintiffs had no claim by law or custom to a share in the estate of K. TEKHU v. WALIAH. 8 P R 1876

4. P. S. had another brother, D. S, who was separate; who died leaving H. S. (plaintiff) and D. sons, and two grandsons, G. and P. (plaintiffs), by a third son.

In a suit by H-S. G. and P. to recover a share of the estate of P. S. deceased found that the custom of the Jats of the Ludhiana district did not exclude disasssociated nephews from inheriting in the presence of associated nephews. Held, therefore, that plaintiffs were entitled to recover one-third of the estate of P. S. HAZARA v. JAMITA. 76 P R 1879

5. Associated and disassociated brothers—Agricultural Brahmins of tahsil Zira, Firozpur.

Among agricultural Brahmins of Dharm Kot, of tahsil Zira, Firozpur, found that, by custom, a disassociated brother is not excluded from sharing equally with an associated brother the property of a deceased brother. RAM DITTA v. BISHEN. 123 P R 1879

6. Brahmin agriculturists of M. Tatta Basaon, tahsil Gujranwala.

Found, that among Brahmin agriculturists of M. Tatta Basaon in the Gujranwala tahsil an associated brother of a deceased proprietor does not by custom exclude the son of a brother who was not associated with the deceased from his share of the property. Khurka v. Soojan Singh (7 P R 1870), and Phaggan v. Buta Singh (9 P R 1877), referred to. MAYA DAS v. BISHEN DAS.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

E.—SUCCESSION OF BROTHER —concld.

23 P R 1884

7. Widow marrying her husband's brother —Succession to her late husband's estate in presence of his brother—Hindu Sikh Jats of Ferozepore district.

Held, following 117 P. R. 1888 (Mussammat Jai Devi v. Harnam Singh) and 46 P. R. 1891 F. B. (Mussammat Desi v. Lehna Singh) that among Hindu Sikh Jats of Ferozepore district a widow having married her husband's brother no longer remains the widow of her first husband, and consequently, after the death without issue of her first husband's son, she cannot succeed to a life interest in her deceased husband's estate in preference to his brothers.

88 P. R. 1900 (Punjab Singh v. Mussammat Chandi) and 115 P. R. 1900 (Mussammat Indi v. Bhanga Singh) distinguished. HARNAM SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT MAHAN KAUR.
64 P R 1910

F.—SUCCESSION OF BROTHER'S WIDOW.

Arains of Nakodar tahsil—Brother's widow —Male collaterals in seventh degree.

Found, that by the custom of Arains of Nakodar tahsil, the widow of a brother succeeds to the exclusion of male collaterals in the seventh degree. RANI v. MAKHI.
146 P R 1889

G.—SUCCESSION OF HUSBAND.

1. Sayals of Jhang district—Right to succeed to daughter who has inherited from her father—Collaterals claiming in preference to daughter's husband—Onus of proof.

In a suit the parties to which were Sayals of the Jhang district, it appeared that on the death of one N. without sons, he was succeeded by his widow, and on her death, by N.'s minor daughter P., who was successful in a suit brought against the present plaintiffs and other agnates to have her right to her father's estate declared. On the death of P. at the age of ten years plaintiffs claimed the estate as being the heirs of N. in the male line, and were resisted by the defendant, the cousin and husband of P., who claimed the property as P.'s sole representative.

No custom having been proved by either side (though both sides distinctly relied upon custom), held that the plaintiffs were entitled to a decree, as, under the circumstances of the case, the burden was upon the defendant to prove that the effect of his marriage was to constitute him a nearer heir than the agnate relations, and so exclude those who would have otherwise succeeded, and he had failed to discharge the onus which thus lay upon him. MUHAMMAD v. AMIR.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

G.—SUCCESSION OF HUSBAND —concld.

31 P R 1889

2. Land gifted to sister who has died childless—Right of husband in presence of brother of deceased—Mauza Rajoki, tahsil Gujrat.

The husband and the brother's sons of the deceased, Mussammat Bibi Rani, who had died childless, were rival claimants for the land left by her which had been given to her by her brother (father of the plaintiffs). The plaintiffs and the donee were Varaiches of the Gujrat tahsil.

Held, that it was for the defendant (the husband) to prove a custom entitling him to succeed to land given to his wife only, and intended for her benefit and that of her children, and that he had failed to establish any such custom. CHAUGHATTA v. MOHKAM DIN.
75 P R 1893

3. Custom—Inheritance—Right to succeed to wife who has inherited from her father—Ancestral property.

Held, that among Hindu Jats of the Moga tahsil, Ferozepore district, a husband is not entitled to succeed to the ancestral property in possession of his wife inherited from her father, especially where her possession was only permissive.

Lehna v. Mussammat Thakri (32 P. R. 1895), referred to. KALA SINGH v. BUTA SINGH.
16 P R 1903

H.—SUCCESSION OF WIDOWS.

1. Widows.

The general custom of the Punjab is that Muhammadan widows inheriting land from their husbands take only a life interest without power of alienation (except with consent or for necessity) and without a right to partition. TALEWUND KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT KHAN ZADEE
5 P R 1868

and SHER ALI v. MUSSAMMAT NUR JIHAN
56 P R 1872

The same custom found to exist in the Mooltan district amongst childless Muhammadan widows. BHAWUL SHAH v. MUSSAMMAT ROSHUN BEEBEE.
87 P R 1868

And in Gurgaon SEPAH DAR KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT BEGUM.
8 P R 1874

2. According to the custom of the Khojas of Kussoor, the entire property of a man who dies without sons, devolves on the widow in full proprietorship, to exclusion of sisters and their heirs. MUSSAMMAT BEGUM v. MUSSAMMAT HIJANEE.
27 P R 1868

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

H.—SUCCESSION OF WIDOWS—contd.

3. Raiens of Karnal—Widow's life interest.

Held, that among Raiens of Karnal no special custom was established, as distinguished from the general custom of the Punjab under which a widow or a mother succeeding by inheritance to land takes only a life interest in the property. MUSSAMMAT IZZO v. MUSSAMMAT LADO.
34 P R 1880

4. Partition—Widow—Joint holding—Separate possession.

Plaintiff sued for a decree declaring that the defendant, who was the widow of his deceased brother, and entitled to a ½ share in the holding in dispute on the usual life interest of a widow, could not claim partition of the joint holding. No custom was proved which precluded the widow from obtaining separate possession of her husband's share.

Held, that plaintiff was entitled to a decree declaring that though defendant was owner of the ½ share of the holding upon the usual widow's tenure, and entitled to be put into separate possession of such share for her life, she was not entitled to have a partition of the proprietary right effected. Nupa Singh v. Mussammat Sobrai (116 P R 1879), and Mussammat Hussan Bibi v. Fatteh Mahomed (156 P R 1879), cited. MUSSAMMAT MANSOMAN v. ABDUL KADIR KHAN.
65 P R 1881

5. Widow's right to separate possession—Moghals of Rawlapindi.

Held, there being no special custom established among the parties (Moghals of the Rawalpindi district) as to the mode of enjoyment by the widow of her husband's property, that the said widow was entitled in the present case to a declaration of her right to the estate jointly with the nephew, their respective shares being ⅔rd and ⅓rd and the widow being entitled to separate possession of ⅓rd of the estate for her life, the specific lands to be enjoyed by her being ascertained as usual by the Revenue authorities. Nupa Singh v. Mussammat Sobrai (116 P R 1879), and Mussammat Hussain Bibi v. Fatteh Mahomed (156 P R 1879), cited. MUSSAMMAT BAKHT BEGUM v. FAJA KHAN.
104 P R 1881

6. One brother and the widows of two other brothers acquiring property—Daughter's right to succeed as heir to her mother's share

One of three brothers (Muhammadans) and the two widows of the remaining two brothers, joined in purchasing land, each becoming owner of a third share. After the death of the three original purchasers the widow of the first brother claimed the whole of the land as heir of her husband, to whom she alleged the whole land passed on the death of the two purchasing widows

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

H.—SUCCESSION OF WIDOWS—contd.

Held, in a suit by the daughter of one of the two widows who joined in the purchase, to establish her right to succeed to the third share acquired by her mother, that she was so entitled as the only blood relation of her mother, the land not being the ancestral property of the husband, but acquired after his death by the widow with her own funds. MUSSAMMAT JINDO v. MUSSAMMAT KAKO. 105 P R 1881

7. Dhillon Jats of Firozpur—Sonless widow's right of inheritance in presence of sons of her husband by another wife—Widow's right to maintenance—Mode of calculating such maintenance.

In a suit, the parties to which were Dhillon Jats of the Firozpur district, held, that no custom was proved under which, among Dhillon or any other class of Jats, a sonless widow was, in presence of sons of her husband by another wife, entitled to succeed as heir to a share of her husband's land; but that she was entitled to maintenance which might be assigned to her in the form of a portion of her husband's land, to be made over to her for her own use upon the usual tenure of a widow, such portion being determined with reference to the circumstances ordinarily taken into consideration in determining the amount of maintenance to be assigned to a widow from her husband's estate, such as the size of the estate, the number of persons to be provided for, the fair wants of a person in her position and rank of life, &c. JAIMAL SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT MANO. 11 P R 1882

8. Sudhs of Lahore—Widow's interest in her husband's property—Burden of proof.

In a suit the parties to which were Sudhs of Lahore, it was contended by the defendant that a special custom existed among Sudhs whereby a sonless widow takes an absolute interest in the property, movable or immovable, of her husband with full power of disposal over it, and on her death the property, if not previously disposed of by her, devolves by inheritance on her heirs and not on the heirs of her husband.

Held, that the burden of proving the custom was on the defendant, and that he had failed to discharge it. LAL MAL v. DEWA SINGH. 192 P R 1883

9. Manhas Rajputs of tahsil Shakargarh, Gurdaspur—Co-widow—Right of karewa widow to succeed equally with other widow.

In a suit the parties to which were the two widows of a Manhas Rajput, resident in the Shakargarh tahsil of the Gurdaspur district, held, that the plaintiff (upon whom under the circumstances the onus lay) had failed to prove a custom in her favour excluding the defendant, who was a co-widow by a karewa marriage, from succeeding to a share in the deceased husband's estate. MUSSAMMAT DAKHO v. MUSSAMMAT GANO. 22 P R 1884

10. Syads of Firozpur—Widow's life interest.

Found, that among Syads of Firozpur and the neighbourhood when a landowner dies without leaving descendants in the male line, or without having appointed an heir, his widow by custom succeeds to the estate as heir according to the ordinary custom governing the widow's estate. GHULAM HUSAIN v. MUSSAMMAT FATTEH BANO. 102 P R 1884

11. Kasuria Pathans of Bannu—Widow's right of inheritance—Muhammadan Law.

In a suit the parties to which were Kasuria Pathans who had for some time been settled in Bannu, found, that the inheritance descended according to custom and not according to Muhammadan Law, and held, that the plaintiff (who was a distant cousin of the deceased proprietor) had failed to prove that he had by such custom any right to recover any part of the estate from the widow of the deceased so long as she lead a moral life, and did not re-marry. MUSSAMMAT DAULAT BIBI v. ATTA MUHAMMAD KHAN. 89 P R 1886

12. Sayads of Kharkhanda, Rohtak district—Rights of widows succeeding to their husband's property.

In a suit, the parties to which were Sayads of Kharkhanda in the Rohtak district, held that no custom was proved by which widows succeeded to more than a life interest in their deceased husbands' estate or were able to make alienations to the prejudice of the next heirs otherwise than for necessity. MIR MUMTAZ ALI v. JAWAD ALI. 82 P R 1887

13. Pathans of Panipat, Karnal—Widow's interest in deceased husband's property—Onus probandi.

The question for decision was, whether in the family of the parties, who were Pathans of Panipat in the Karnal district, residing in the town but owning land outside, a widow's interest in her husband's property was that of a full proprietor or a life interest only.

Held, that the plaintiffs (upon whom under the circumstances of the particular case the burden of proof lay) had failed to establish a custom under which whatever the widow succeeded to was held by her not as full proprietor but on a life tenure only. HASAN KHAN v. HUSAIN BAKHSH. 85 P R 1887

14. Gardezi Sayads of Mooltan district—Widow's right of inheritance—Muhammadan Law.

In a suit, the parties to which were Gardezi Sayads of the Mooltan district in which the plaintiff sued to recover the immovable property of his deceased brother in the hands of the widow of the deceased, held, that no positive custom was proved regulating the rights of the parties, and that no customary rule being established notwithstanding the failure of the plaintiffs to establish that Muhammadan Law was followed. Muhammadan Law must furnish the rule for the case by force of the provisions of the Punjab Laws Act. MUSSAMMAT SARDAR BIBI v. SAYAD ALI SHAH. 4 P R 1888

15. Sudhs of tahsil Tarn Taran—Widow's right to succeed to her husband's share in joint estate.

In a suit for partition of a shop and house the parties to which were Sudhs of the Tarn Taran tahsil, held that the plaintiff, the widow of one of two brothers, who were joint in estate, had succeeded in proving a custom whereby she was entitled to succeed to the share held by her husband in the property in dispute. MUSSAMMAT LORENDI v. MUSSAMMAT KISHEN KAUR. 149 P R 1888

16. Rajputs of Hoshiarpur—Widow's right to succeed to her husband's collaterals.

Found that by the custom governing the Rajputs of the Hoshiarpur district, a widow after her husband's decease not only holds possession of his estate, but also inherits (on the same tenure) any property that would have come to her husband had he survived. EDA KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT AMERI 177 P R 1889

17. Brahmins of Pehowa, Umballa district—Widow—Succession to dues.

Held, after further enquiry upon remand, that there is no custom among the Brahmins of Pehowa in the Umballa district who practise as parohits, whereby in regard to birt dues the rule of succession is that a widow succeeds to her deceased husband's dues equally with sons. MUSSAMMAT MAYA DEVI v. MUSSAMMAT TABI. 17 P R 1891

18. Boriah Rajputs (Hindus) of the Sandal got, mauza Abber, Una tahsil, Hoshiarpur district—Right of widow to succeed collaterally in same way as her deceased husband.

Found, that by the custom governing Hindu Rajputs of the Hoshiarpur district, a widow of a deceased proprietor succeeds collaterally to a share of the estate of another childless proprietor (after the death of the latter's widow) either equally with other male collaterals descended from the same common ancestor, or to the exclusion of male collaterals not so descended. In other words, in the matter of collateral succession, the widow is in the same position as her husband would have been had he been alive when the succession opened out.

Civil Judgments, No. 992 of 1886 (unpublished) and 177 P. R. 1889, referred to. PURAN v. MUSSAMMAT RAJ DEVI AND MUSSAMMAT MOHRO. 56 P R 1891

19. Rains of Sirsa district—Marriage of widow of donee to donor.

The widow of I., deceased, married K. (a cousin of deceased), who had made a gift of the land in suit to I. I. also left him surviving a mother, daughter and sisters. The parties were Rains of the Sirsa district.

Held, that the parties were governed by custom and not by Muhammadan Law, and that by the former the widow was entitled to remain in possession of the land notwithstanding her second marriage, and that the plaintiffs (the cousins of I.) were not entitled to succeed to any share of I.'s estate during the lifetime of his widow. KANDAL v. BHIWAN. 100 P R 1891

20. Basal Banias of Jullundur city—Childless widow—Rights of, in husband's estate.

In a suit, the parties to which were Basal Banias of Jullundur city, found, that by custom a childless widow, whose husband had been in joint possession of jointly acquired property (movable and immovable) with one of two or more brothers, was not entitled to succeed to her deceased husband's share. MUSSAMMAT NIHAL DEVI v. BEHARI LAL. 103 P R 1891

21. Hindu Rajputs, Hoshiarpur district—Right of widow to succeed collaterally in same way as her deceased husband.

Found, that by the custom governing Hindu Rajputs of the Hoshiarpur district, a widow in possession of her husband's estate succeeds to property left by her husband's collaterals on the same footing as the husband himself would have done if living.

No. 56 P. R. 1891, followed. MUSSAMMAT SHIBBO v. BUTA. 111 P R 1891

22. Khanna Khatris residing at Peshawar.

Found, that no special custom at variance with Hindu Law was proved that among Khanna Khatris carrying on business in the cantonment of Peshawar a widow was excluded from her legal share receiving maintenance only. HAR NARAIN v. MUSSAMMAT DEOKI. 24 P R 1893

23. Aulok Jats of Ferozepore tahsil—Possession of husband's separate land—Maintenance.

The plaintiffs, widows, respectively, of K. S. and F. S. sued T., widow of a third brother, W. S., for recovery of two-thirds of W. S.'s estate on the ground that T. had by her remarriage with B. S., a fourth brother, forfeited her life interest in W. S.'s estate. K. S. and F. S. had predeceased W. S.: the khata had been held jointly by the four brothers in equal shares and remained joint till after the death of the last surviving brother, B. S.

Held, that the claim of the plaintiffs was to represent their husbands, and that the onus was on them to establish their right to inherit. The right of a widow is primarily to be maintained though she commonly, unless the deceased husband was joint, receives possession of his land for her life. The right of a widow to inherit collaterally is exceptional; and found that the evidence in the present case was insufficient to establish the existence of any such custom among Hindu Jats in the Ferozepore district. MUSSAMMAT ASO v. MUSSAMMAT TABI. 77 P R 1893

24. Kashmiri non-agriculturist weavers residing in the town of Sialkot—Widow's estate.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Kashmiri weavers residing in the town of Sialkot, that the widow, in presence of collaterals, succeeded for life to the property of her deceased husband. LAL DIN v. MUSSAMMAT JAINAN. 114 P R 1893

25. Habib Khel Pathans of Khalil Tappa, Peshawar district—Several widows holding jointly—Right of succession to share of a deceased widow in presence of a collateral.

One Mir Alam, a Habib Khel Pathan, Peshawar district, left four widows, who succeeded jointly to his estate. In a suit brought by the plaintiffs, as a reversioner, for possession of the share vacated by the death of one of the widows.

Held, that in the absence of any special rule of custom to the contrary, the share of the deceased widow passed by survivorship to the remaining widows.

Per PLOWDEN, S. J.—In the absence of any evidence to the contrary, the presumption is that all the widows take the entirety of the separate land on one group, that is, with a joint title in a legal point of view, with the legal consequence that the death or remarriage of one only enlarges the interest of the rest, and gives no opening for a right of succession so long as the title continues joint. NUR AFZAL v. NUR SHAH KHANAM. 128 P R 1893

26. Jats (Hindu) of tahsil Ajnala, Amritsar district—Widow's right to succeed to the estate of her husband's deceased brother in presence of collaterals—Burden of proof.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Jats (Hindu) of the Ajnala tahsil, Amritsar district, that by custom the widow of a predeceased brother was entitled to succeed to the estate of a late deceased brother as against collaterals not descended from the father of the said brothers. BAHADAR SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT NIHALI. 133 P R 1893

27. Right of widows in presence of a son—Awans of Rawalpindi district—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that no custom was proved by which among Awans of Rawalpindi district, a widow is entitled to a share in the property of her deceased husband in the presence of a son. MUSSAMMAT AMBO v. GHULAM HASSAN. 59 P R 1894

28. Right of reversioners to sue during lifetime of widow—Gil Jats of Ludhiana district.

One Bh., a Gil Jat of the Ludhiana district, died leaving certain land which went half to his widow, Mussammat S. and half to Dh., his son by another wife. On the death of Dh., his share passed to Mussammat C. K. Plaintiffs, who were the sons of Bh.'s two brothers, sued to deprive Mussammat S. of her half share on the ground of her unchastity, and made the sons of Bh.'s two other brothers, whose equal claims they admitted, and Mussammat C. K. co-defendant. Defendants pleaded that Mussammat S. had not, as a matter of fact, forfeited her rights by unchastity, but that in any event Mussammat C. K. was the next reversioner, and during her lifetime plaintiffs could not sue. The first Court dismissed the suit on this ground, but the Divisional Judge held that inasmuch as Mussammat S. had obtained her share under the chundavand rule, plaintiffs (with the sons of the other two brothers of Bh. who refused to join plaintiffs in suing) were the next reversioners and could maintain the suit. He therefore remanded the case for inquiry as to whether Mussammat S. had in fact forfeited her right. Mussammat C. K. appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, that the order of remand must be set aside. By general custom as well as by the custom among Jats of the Ludhiana district, the widow of a sonless proprietor is entitled to succeed on a life tenure to any estate or share to which her husband would have succeeded, and Mussammat C. K.'s rights as next reversioner were not affected by the fact (which was not proved) that the chundavand rule governed the parties, or that Bh., had made a distribution of his estate.

56 P. R. 1891 referred to. MUSSAMMAT CHAND KAUR v. RAM SINGH. 20 P R 1895

29. Widow's estate—Sayads of Ambala district.

In a case the parties to which were Sayads of the Ambala district and (as found by the Chief Court) governed by custom and not Muhammadan Law, held, that the widow of a sonless proprietor succeeded on his death to the whole of his property, which was partly ancestral and partly self-acquired, under a customary rule which it was not proved constituted her full owner of the property in the sense that on her death it would descend to her heirs and not to those of her late husband or gave her an unrestricted power of alienation which would enable her to give away the whole of the property to her brothers. WAJID ALI v. LATAFAT ALI. 11 P R 1896

30. Succession of widow—Right of stranger in possession to plead that widow was disqualified by mental defect from inheriting.

Held, that the lower Court had erred in dismissing the suit on the ground that the plaintiff was disqualified by mental defect from inheriting. Defendants being admittedly strangers whose sole title to the property was based on a will, the validity of which was denied on plaintiff's behalf, the first question that necessarily arose in the case was as to the validity or otherwise of that will, for if it was valid, plaintiff's suit must fail, whereas if it was invalid, defendants would be mere trespassers, and, as such, not entitled to take possession of the property, and then plead that plaintiff could not succeed by reason of mental defect, a plea of such kind being open only to a person who had a valid title in the land. MUSSAMMAT JAINDI v. KASHI RAM. 19 P R 1899

31. Widow—Life estate or maintenance.

Found, that defendants, upon whom the onus rested, had failed to prove a special custom whereby the karewa widow of a sonless proprietor could be compelled to accept a fixed maintenance instead of succeeding to the family holding for life. RALIA v. MUSSAMMAT RATTAN KAUR. 54 P R 1899

32. Custom—Inheritance—G a r d e z i Sayads of Mooltan district—Widow's right of inheritance—Muhammadan Law.—Wajib-ul-arz—Application of Wajib-ul-arz to an owner who is not specifically mentioned therein.

In a suit the parties to which were Gardezi Sayads of the Mooltan district, found that the parties were governed as regards the matter in question by custom, and not by Muhammadan Law, and that among them a sonless widow was entitled to succeed to her husband's estate or life.

The Wajib-ul-arz of a village should be presumed to apply to all landowners in the village as a body unless they are specifically exempted. Mussammat Ghulam Zohra v. Ruku Abdullah Shah (18 P. R. 1899) followed and Mussammat Sardar Bibi v. Sayad Ali Shah (4 P. R. 1888) distinguished. SAYAD RAHIM SHAH AND OTHERS v. SAYAD HUSSAIN SHAH AND OTHERS. 102 P R 1901

33. Custom — Inheritance — Bukhari Sheikhs of mauza Bakarwala, Delhi district—Right of widows succeeding to their husbands' property—Burden of proof.

In a suit the parties to which were Bukhari Sheikhs of mauza Bakarwala, in succession the parties were governed by custom and not by Muhammadan Law, and that a widow succeeded to the whole of her husband's property on the ordinary widow's life tenure. Held, also, that the defendant upon whom the burden of proof lay had failed to establish a custom under which the widows succeeded to the whole estate of her husband as absolute owner with full power of alienation. MUHAMMAD ANWAR-UL-HAQ v. HABIB-UL-RAHMAN. 74 P R 1902

34. Custom—Inheritance—Right of reversioner whose grandfather was converted to Muhammadanism to succeed to ancestral property—Agricultural Jats of Sialkot district—Act XXI of 1850.

On the death of the widow of a sonless Hindu Jat proprietor, the defendants, who were the nearest collaterals of her husband, but whose grandfather had been converted to Muhammadanism, succeeded to her husband's immovable property. The plaintiffs, who were distant collaterals of the widow's husband, sued for possession of his property, on the ground that the conversion of the defendant's grandfather to Muhammadanism entailed the forfeiture of all rights to the ancestral property which the defendants, his descendants, might otherwise have possessed.

Held, that the plaintiffs' contention must fail. Under Act XXI of 1850 the convert could have succeeded to the property notwithstanding his conversion, and there was no valid reason why his descendants, who derived their right through him, should not be entitled to succeed to it. Act XXI does not apply only to the convert himself, but affords relief to the descendants of that convert.

Bhagwant Singh v. Kallu (I. L. R. XI All. 100) and Gulab v. Mussammat Ishar Kaur (63 P. R. 1895), cited.

Kanshi Ram v. Jiwan (82 P. R. 1890), not approved. MAHNA v. CHAND. 104 P R 1902

35. Custom—Inheritance—Chohan Rajputs of Rawalpindi district—Right of a childless widow to succeed to a share of her husband's property along with his sons by another wife—Maintenance.

Held, that among Chohan Rajputs of the Rawalpindi district there is no custom whereby a childless widow can claim any definite share of her husband's estate in the presence of the sons of her husband by another wife, but that she is entitled to a definite portion of her husband's estate to be allotted to her for life sufficient for her maintenance, which may be, under the circumstances of a case, equal to that allotted to a son

Mussammat Ambo v. Ghulam Hassan (59 P. R. 1894) and Jaimal Singh v. Mussammat Mano (11 P. R. 1882), referred to. SHER KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT BIBI. 30 P R 1905

36. Custom—Inheritance—Widow's right to succeed to her husband's collaterals—Bhanant Rajputs of Hoshiarpur district.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Bhanant Rajputs of the Garhshankar tahsil, Hoshiarpur district, that by custom a widow, even though she was not in possession of her husband's estate, was entitled to succeed to property left by her husband's collateral, for life, in the same way as her husband himself could have succeeded had he been alive at that time.

Eda Khan v. Mussammat Ameri (177 P. R. 1889), Puran v. Mussammat Raj Devi (56 P. R. 1891), Rani v. Makhi (146 P. R. 1889), Mussammat Shibbo v. Buta (111 P. R. 1891), and Bahadur Singh v. Mussammat Nihali (133 P. R. 1893), referred to. ANAR DEVI v. KAULAN. 43 P R 1905

37. Custom—Inheritance—Rights of widows succeeding to their husbands' property—Majawars of Mailsi tahsil, Multan district.

In a suit, the parties to which were Majawars of the Mailsi tahsil in the Multan district, held that no custom had been proved by which widows succeed to more than a life interest in their deceased husband's estate. GHULAM MUHAMMAD v. NUR SAIN. 66 P R 1905

38. Custom—Inheritance—Brahmans of Karnal city—Widow's right to succeed to her husband's share in joint ancestral property.

Held, that among non-agricultural Brahmans of Karnal city a widow is entitled to succeed to the share held by her deceased husband in joint ancestral property. GOKAL CHAND v. RAJA DEVI. 83 P R 1905

39. Custom—Inheritance—Right of widow to succeed collaterally in same way as her deceased husband—Johal Jats of the Jagraon tahsil, Ludhiana district.

Found, that by custom among Johal Jats of the Jagraon tahsil of the Ludhiana district a widow of a sonless proprietor was entitled to succeed on a life tenure to property left by her husband's collaterals, in the same way as her husband himself would have succeeded had he been alive at the time the estate was created.

Mussammat Chand Kour v. Ram Singh (20 P. R. 1895), Puran v. Raj Devi (56 P. R. 1891), Bahadur Singh v. Nihali (133 P. R. 1893), Mussammat Rani v. Makhi (146 P. R. 1889) Mussammat Anar Devi v. Mussammat Kaulan (43 P. R. 1905), Shibbo v Buta P. (111 P. R. 1891), and Eda Khan v. Amiro (177 P. R. 1889,) cited and discussed.

Mussammat Aso v. Mussammat Tabi (77 P. R. 1893), Fatteh Ali v. Abdulla (112 P. R. 1900), Mussammat Khemi Bai v. Bhiwani Das) (69 P. R 1896), referred to. SADDAN v. KHEMI. 15 P R 1906

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

H.—SUCCESSION OF WIDOWS—contd.

40. Custom—Inheritance—Widow's right to succeed to her husband's collaterals—Alienation by widow—Locus standi of the widow of a collateral to contest alienation—Ghirths of Kangra district—Specific Relief Act, 1877, section 42.

Held, (i) that by custom among Ghirths of the Kangra district a widow was entitled to succeed collaterally to any property to which her husband if alive could have succeeded, and (ii) that a widow so entitled to succeed was competent to contest the validity of an alienation made by the widow of a collateral of her husband.

Puran v. Raj Devi (56 P. R. 1891), Shibbo v. Buta (111 P. R. 1891), Chand Kaur v. Ram Singh (20 P. R. 1895) referred to. LAHORI v. RADHO. 72 P R 1906

41. Custom—Inheritance—Right of widows in presence of a step-son—Arains of Ludhiana district—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that among Arains of Ludhiana district there is no custom whereby a widow was entitled to succeed to the property of her deceased husband equally with her step-son.

Shada v. Jio (107 P. R. 1886), referred to. ELLAHI BAKHSH v. KHEWNI. 116 P R 1906

42. Custom—Inheritance—Gurmani Bilochis of Dera Ghazi Khan tahsil—Widows and daughter's right of inheritance—Muhammadan Law.

Held, that in matters of succession Gurmani Bilochis of the Dera Ghazi Khan tahsil were governed by custom and not by Muhammadan Law and that among them a widow is entitled merely to maintenance and a married daughter does not in any case succeed to any portion of her father's ancestral property in the presence of male collaterals of the latter. BAKHT SAWAI v. SARDAR KHAN. 119 P R 1907

43. Custom—Inheritance—Sahswal Rajputs of the Fatehjang tahsil, Attock district—Widow—Life estate or maintenance.

In a suit the parties to which were Sahswal Rajputs of Fatehjang tahsil of the Attock district, held that no special custom had been established under which a childless widow of an inferior caste was entitled to maintenance instead of a life interest in her deceased husband's property. PIR BAKHSH v. SARDAR BANO. 73 P R 1908

44. Custom—Inheritance—Widow's right of inheritance—Life estate or maintenance—Khatri Sodhis of Ferozepore district.

Found that the plaintiff upon whom the onus rested had failed to prove a special custom whereby among Jagirdar Khatri

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

H.—SUCCESSION OF WIDOWS—concld.

Sodhis of Ferozepore district a widow of a deceased proprietor was entitled merely to maintenance and not to a life estate in the landed property of her deceased husband. HUKAM SINGH v. BHAGWAN DEVI. 133 P R 1908

45. Custom—Inheritance—Widow's right to succeed to her husband's collaterals—Brahmans of the Shakargarh tahsil, Gurdaspur district.

Found, that by custom among Brahmans of the Shakargarh tahsil in the Gurdaspur district a widow was entitled to succeed collaterally for her life to any property to which her husband, if alive, could have succeeded. SATGUN v. BHAGWAN DAS. 7 P R 1909

46. Custom—Inheritance—Widow's right to succeed to her husband's collaterals—Udasi Sadhs of tahsil Muktsar, District Ferozepore.

Found, that by custom among Udasi Sadhs of the Muktsar tahsil of the Ferozepore district a widow of a sonless proprietor was entitled to succeed collaterally to any property to which her husband, if alive, could have succeeded. MAHAN KAUR v. SUNDAR DAS. 40 P R 1909

47. Custom—Inheritance—Right of widow to succeed to her husband's collaterals—Bhullar Jats of Amritsar and Gurdaspur districts.

Found, that by custom among Bhullar Jats of the Amritsar and Gurdaspur districts a widow of a sonless proprietor was entitled to succeed collaterally to any property to which her husband, if alive, could have succeeded. GURDIAL SINGH v. ARUR SINGH. 51 P R 1909

48. Barren widow claiming a definite share in her husband's estate along with his son by another wife—Mughals of tahsil Rawalpindi.

Held under the Riwaj-i-am of Rawalpindi district, which in the absence of evidence throwing doubt on its correctness, should be followed, that among Mughals of Badia Qadir Bakhsh, tahsil Rawalpindi, a barren widow is entitled to a definite portion of her husband's estate for life by way of maintenance in the presence of his son by another wife. AMIR v. MUSSAMMAT SHARF NUR. 49 P R 1910

49. Collateral succession of widow—Muhammadan Jats of tahsil Nakodar, District Jullundur.

Held, that by custom among Muhammadan Jats of tahsil Nakodar, District Jullundur, a widow succeeds collaterally to the property to which her husband would have succeeded, if alive. FATTA v. JIWAN. 98 P R 1910

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

I.—REMARRIAGE AND UNCHASTITY OF WIDOW.

1. Widow's unchastity.

Held, that a Hindu widow guilty of unchastity forfeited her life interest in the estate of her deceased husband. RAMDHUN v. MUSSAMMAT KARM KOUR. 85 P R 1868

But that case was itself subsequently reviewed (p. 209, P. R. 1869, Note), and overruled by Mamraj v. Bhola (78 P. R. 1869), when it was held that by Act XXI of 1850 the general Hindu Law is, in the absence of local custom, repealed, viz., that unchastity depriving a widow of caste deprives her also of her estate inherited from her deceased husband.

2. Remarriage of widow with her deceased husband's brother—Forfeiture of life estate in first husband's property—Sikh Jats, Sirsa district.

Found, that by the custom of the Sikh Jats in the Sirsa district a widow marrying her husband's brother does not ordinarily forfeit her life estate in the property left by her first husband. Mussammat Rajo v. Ramrukh (C. A. No. 1211 of 1876) referred to. PREMA v. MUSSAMMAT PARDHAN. 137 P R 1883

3. Aroras of Multan—Hindu widow—Unchastity.

Found, that according to the custom prevailing in the Multan district, a Hindu widow forfeits her husband's estate by unchastity after it has vested in her. Ramdhan v. Mussammat Karm Kour (No. 85 of 1868, Civil), Mamraj v. Bhola (No. 78 of 1869, Civil), and Guttea v. Mussammat Jowalo (No. 92 of 1869, Civil), referred to. MUSSAMMAT GELI BAI v. GELA RAM. 158 P R 1883

4. Muhammadan Chimba Jats of the Gujranwala district—Forfeiture by widow of her husband's estate for unchastity.

In a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan Chimba Jats, resident in the Gujranwala district, held, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove any special custom whereby a widow could be deprived of her husband's ancestral land by reason of unchastity. Mussammat Geli Bai v. Gela Ram (No. 158 P. R. 1883, Civil) cited. KARAM DAD v. MUSSAMMAT BEGAM. 118 P R 1884

5. Remarriage of widow—Forfeiture of estate—Right of next heirs to claim forfeiture against the widow—Remoteness of heirship no bar to such claim.

The plaintiffs claimed possession of the estate of the defendant's deceased husband, on the ground that, by remarrying, she had, by the custom of the tribe, forfeited her rights in the said estate. It was found that the plaintiffs were the next heirs of the deceased, but in an extremely remote degree, comprising the whole of the proprietors of the village, descended from one common ancestors. The question was whether heirs so remote could interefere to claim a forfeiture against the widow.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

I.—REMARRIAGE AND UNCHASTITY OF WIDOW—contd.

Held, that the remoteness of their relationship did not deprive the plaintiffs of their right of succession, the general rule being that succession passes to the next heir without any restriction as to the degree of relationship. If there were no natural heirs at all, the succession would pass to the whole of the proprietary body, or to the Crown. This would certainly be the case if the interest of the incumbent in the estate were terminated by death, and, if the occurrence of a particular contingency had the same effect as death in terminating the incumbent's interest, there appeared no reason why the next heirs, however remote, should not put forward their claim on the occurrence of this contingency. MUSSAMMAT BHUPIA v. JAMNA DAS. 80 P R 1885

6. Sheikhs, Rohtak district—Widow—Remarriage—Forfeiture of first husband's estate.

Found, that by custom among the Sheikhs of the Rohtak district, which is in accordance with the general custom which prevails among agriculturists, (whether Hindu or Muhammadan), the widow forfeits her first husband's estate by re-marriage, and that the rule does not differ when the second husband is not a member of the first husband's family. MUSSAMMAT HAKIMAN v. AMIR ALI. 81 P R 1885

7. Ahirs of Delhi—Unchastity of widow—Forfeiture of estate—General custom.

In a suit the parties to which were of the Ahir tribe, resident in the Delhi tahsil held, that no special custom was proved whereby unchastity works a forfeiture of the estate which a widow has inherited from her husband.

There is no general custom in the Punjab making forfeiture of her estate the result of unchastity on the part of a Hindu widow. Mamraj v. Bhola (No. 78 P. R. 1869), Mussammat Geli Bai v. Gela Ram (No. 158 P. R. 1883), and Karam Dad v. Mussammat Begam (No. 118 P. R. 1884), cited. MUSSAMMAT BHURIAN v. MUSSAMMAT PURAN. 105 P R 1885

8. Rors of Karnal tahsil—Re-marriage of widow with her late husband's brother—Forfeiture of first husband's estate.

In a suit, the parties to which were by caste Rors of the Karnal tahsil, held, that no special custom was established by which a widow, who has married a brother of her late husband, is entitled to recover her first husband's share in the estate against the other brothers, and that therefore under the general custom she must be held to have forfeited the estate by such re-marriage. Mussammat Rajo v. Ramrukh (C. A. No. 1211 of 1876) cited. MUSSAMMAT LACHMI v. HARJAS. 123 P R 1884

Cited in SITA v. KHUBA. 53 P R 1886

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

I.—REMARRIAGE AND UNCHASTITY OF WIDOW—contd.

9. Jats of Kaithal tahsil—Immorality of widow—Forfeiture of estate.

Found, that among the Jats of the Kaithal tahsil in the Karnal district, a widow who is notoriously immoral loses her right to retain her husband's land to which she has succeeded with the customary life interest. GURMUKH SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT KHEM KOUR. 75 P R 1886

10. Pathans of Hoshiarpur—Unchastity of widow—Forfeiture of estate.

Found, that by the custom of Pathans of Hoshiarpur unchastity in a widow involves the forfeiture of her rights in her deceased husband's estate.

Mussammat Geli Bai v. Gela Ram (No. 158 P. R. 1883), cited. MUSSAMMAT NUR BEGAM v. SADAR-UD-DIN KHAN. 2 P R 1888

11. Two widows succeeding in equal shares to estate of deceased proprietor—Remarriage of one widow—Non-forfeiture of her share by such widow—Death of second widow—Right of surviving widow to succeed to share of deceased widow.

One G. S. died leaving an estate to which his two widows, Mussammat D., the present plaintiff, who made a karewa marriage with the brother of G. S., and Mussammat J. succeeded in equal shares. In a suit brought by Mussammat J. against the present plaintiff and in a subsequent suit brought by the brothers of G. S. as reversioners which was dismissed as res-judicata, it was held that the karewa marriage of Mussammat D had not by custom caused a forfeiture of her own share in G. S.'s estate. Mussammat J. having died, plaintiff claimed to succeed as surviving co-widow to her half share which had been taken by the brothers of G. S. and the lower Courts allowed her succession.

Held, that under the circumstances the plaintiff's claim had been rightly decreed. DIDAR SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT DHARMON. 25 P R 1888

12. Hindu Rajputs of Gurdaspur District—Unchastity of widow—Forfeiture of estate.

In a suit the parties to which were Rajputs residing in mauza Lohara, tahsil Shakargarh in the Gurdaspur District, held, that no custom was proved by which the unchastity of a widow involved the forfeiture by her of her husband's estate.

Mamraj v. Bhola (No. 78 P. R. 1869) Mussammat Geli Bai v. Gela Ram (No. 158 P. R. 1883) and Mussammat Nur Begam v. Sadar-ud-din Khan (No. 2 P. R. 1888), cited. PARTABA v. MUSSAMMAT PHANGO. 90 P R 1888

13. Bagri Jats of Sirsa District—Unchastity of widow—Forfeiture of estate—General custom—Hindu law.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

I.—REMARRIAGE AND UNCHASTITY OF WIDOW—contd.

Found, that there is no established custom among the Bagri Jats of the Sirsa District whereby a widow forfeits her estate by unchastity after the death of her husband.

There is no general custom in the Punjab by which a Hindu widow forfeits her husband's estate when vested in her, by an act of unchastity. In the absence of a proved special custom where the parties are Hindus, the Hindu Law applies, and according to that law the widow's estate is not forfeited.

Mamraj v. Bhola (No. 78 P. R. 1869), Mussammat Geli Bai v. Gela Ram (No. 158 P. R. 1883), Karam Dad v. Mussammat Begam (No. 118 P. R. 1884) and Mussammat Bhurian v. Mussammat Puran (No. 105 P. R. 1885) cited. FATTEH SINGH v. KALU. 107 P R 1888

14. Sus Jats of Hoshiarpur—Succession of mother—Remarriage.

Found, that by the custom of the Sus Jats of Hoshiarpur a mother is excluded from the succession to her son's estate when he has left uncles and cousins, at least when she has contracted a second marriage before her son's death.

Hira Singh v. Sobha (No. 11 P.R. 1870) and Mussammat Roopan v. Hakim Singh (No. 37 P. R. 1870), referred to. MUSSAMMAT JAIDEVI v. HARNAM SINGH. 117 P R 1888

15. Muhammadan Dogars of Hissar District—Grand-mother and grand-uncle—Remarriage—Forfeiture of estate.

In a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan Dogars of the Hissar District, held that the defendant, the grand-mother of one M., a boy who had died without male issue, was entitled to succeed to the estate which M. had inherited from his grand-father in preference to the plaintiff who was M.'s grand-uncle; and further that the said defendant had not forfeited her rights by a remarriage with a member of the same branch of the family as that to which her first husband belonged.

Mussammat Roopan v. Hakim Singh (No. 37 P. R. 1870), Mussammat Lachmi v. Harjas (No. 123 P. R. 1884), Mussammat Hakimon v. Amir Ali (No. 81 P. R. 1885), and Partaba v. Mussammat Phango (No. 90 P. R. 1888) referred to. GAMAN v. MUSSAMMAT AMAN. 171 P R 1888

16. Re-marriage of widow—Hindu Jats of Moga tahsil.

In a suit the parties to which were Hindu Jats of Moga tahsil of the Ferozepore District, found, that no custom existed under which a widow who had contracted a karewa marriage with a near relative did not forfeit her life interest in her first husband's estate. MUSSAMMAT RAMON v. BAISAKHA SINGH. 90 P R 1889

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

I.—REMARRIAGE AND UNCHASTITY OF WIDOW—contd.

17. Utal Jats, village Utalna, Ludhiana District—Custom—Widow—Unchastity.

In a suit the parties to which were Utal Jats, village Utalna in the Ludhiana District, found, that according to custom a widow by unchastity forfeits her interest in her deceased husband's estate. No. 107 P. R. 1888 referred to. MUSSAMMAT SOBHI v. BHANA. 25 P R 1891

18. Remarriage of Hindu widow—Rights in deceased husband's property—Act XV of 1856—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 5—Effect of the Act of 1856 upon a custom recognizing the remarriage of widows.

R. S. a Sandhu Jat (Hindu) of the Chunian tahsil, Lahore District, died 14 years before suit, leaving 456 ghumaos of land. The land then devolved on his two sons, who both died without issue, the second death, that of P. S. who was unmarried, being about a year before suit.

The plaintiff D. was the widow of R. S. and mother of P. S.: she claimed to be the heir of P. S., son of R. S., her late husband and herself, as his mother: and as such she demanded possession from the defendants.

The defendants were the collateral heirs of P. S. distantly related, but still the heirs subject to the right, if any, of the plaintiff D. The defendants' case was that the plaintiff married a second husband soon after the death of R. S., and that whatever rights she had as widow of R. S. she lost by remarriage. The second marriage was denied, but was found to be proved.

Held, by the Full Bench that D. had no right to succeed, and that her claim failed.

Per PLOWDEN and RIVAZ, JJ., because the question of her right to succeed to the ancestral estate of the deceased, P. S., was a question to be decided according to custom under section 5 (a) of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, and was not affected by the provisions of Act XV of 1856; and that according to custom she had not the right claimed.

According to custom the plaintiff was not entitled to succeed as mother: according to custom she was no longer the widow of the father of the deceased, and therefore had no title to the estate in dispute against reversioners.

Act XV of 1856 is an authoritative interpretation, as regards the Courts, of the Hindu Law on the subject of the remarriage of a Hindu widow, and the consequences and incidents of such a marriage. In any case in the Punjab to which the Hindu Law is to be applied in furnishing the rule of decision under clause (b) of section 5 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, Act XV of 1856 must receive full effect as being a legislative exposition of the Hindu Law. But this is quite consistent with the view that the Act does not alter or abolish any custom regarding succession or marriage, which is not at variance with section 1 of the Act, and which, that Act apart, is the rule of decision prescribed by clause (a) of section 5 of the Punjab Laws Act.

Per BENTON, J., because the whole Act (XV of 1856) is universally applicable to cases of widow remarriage among Hindus, whether the persons concerned be subject to Hindu or to customary law, and the said Act on its true interpretation bars the present claim. MUSSAMMAT DESI v. LEHNA SINGH. 46 P R 1891

19. Rains of Sirsa District—Gift—Marriage of widow of donee to donor.

The widow of I, deceased, married K. (a cousin of deceased), who had made a gift of the land in suit to I. I. also left him surviving a mother, daughter and sister. The parties were Rains of the Sirsa District.

Held, that the parties were governed by custom and not by Muhammadan Law, and that by the former the widow was entitled to remain in possession of the land notwithstanding her second marriage, and that the plaintiffs (the cousins of I.) were not entitled to succeed to any share of I.'s estate during the lifetime of his widow. KANDAL v. BHIWAN. 100 P R 1891

20. Right of widow who has been guilty of unchastity to succeed to her deceased husband's estate.

The plaintiff lived in adultery for eighteen years with one Bur Singh, and bore him children, while her husband was undergoing a sentence of transportation, and on his return she was repudiated by her husband, who died shortly afterwards.

The plaintiff claimed possession of her husband's land as his widow against his agnate kinsmen; and alleged that her husband had taken her back into his house. It was found that he had not done so.

The parties were Sikh Jats of the Amritsar District.

Held, that by custom the plaintiff had no right to her husband's land against the agnate heirs.

A wife among exogamous tribes, such as Jats, Hindu or Sikh, is entitled to be maintained from her husband's property as being a member, not of his family of origin (of which she is not a member by birth, being of another got), but of his household. If during his life she quits his house to reside with another man, or is turned out of it by the husband for adultery, she ceases to be a member of the household, and her title to maintenance, as a right, comes to an end.

The same principle may be traced in the custom as to widows. MUSSAMMAT KAURI v. JAMIAT SINGH. 34 P R 1893

21. Hinjra Jats of Amritsar tahsil—Remarriage by karewa of widow who continues to live in her husband's house—Absence of ceremony—Forfeiture of estate.

The defendant, on the death of her husband, J. S. continued to reside in the house common to the two brothers, J. S. and S. S., and she had a daughter by S. S. The plaintiffs, brothers of J. S. and S. S., thereupon sued for their share of the estate of J. S., which they contended had been forfeited by the defendant in consequence of her cohabitation with her husband's brother.

The parties were Hinjra Jats of the Amritsar tahsil.

Held, that by custom such cohabitation did not necessarily entail a forfeiture of widow's interest in her husband's land.

No. 137 P. R. 1883, No. 53 P. R. 1886, and No. 90 P. R. 1889, referred to. HIRA SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT RAMI. 74 P R 1893

22. Sayads of Kharkhanda, tahsil Sampla, Rohtak District—Forfeiture by widow on re-marriage—Burden of proof.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were Sayads of Kharkhanda in the Sampla tahsil of the Rohtak District, that the defendant had failed to establish her right to retain her husband's land after her remarriage.

Held also that the burden of proof had been rightly placed upon the defendant to prove the custom pleaded by her.

No. 60 P. R. 1878, No. 82 P. R. 1887, No. 173 P. R. 1889, and No. 71 P. R. 1892, referred to. MUSSAMMAT UMAT-UL-ALA v. MUSSAMMAT SAID-UL-NISSAR. 143 P R 1893

23. Sayads of Kharkhanda, tahsil Sampla, Rohtak District—Forfeiture by widow on remarriage—Continuing to live in first husband's house.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were Sayads of Kharkhanda, tahsil Sampla, Rohtak District, that they followed the general custom of the agriculturists amongst whom they live, and that this custom provides that a widow on remarriage forfeits her first husband's estate.

But this is subject to the very important proviso that she leaves her first husband's house and goes to reside with her second husband. If she continues to live in her first husband's house she retains his estate.

No. 143 P. R. 1893, referred to. MUSSAMMAT EMNA BEGUM v. JAWAD ALI. 144 P R 1893

24. Pathans of Kharkhanda, tahsil Sampla, Rohtak District, who intermarry with Sayads—Forfeiture by widow on remarriage—Residence in house of first husband after second marriage.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were Pathans of Kharkhanda, tahsil Sampla, Rohtak District, who intermarried with Sayads, that they followed the ordinary custom by which remarriage by a widow entails forfeiture of her first husband's land.

1075

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

I.—REMARRIAGE AND UNCHASTITY OF WIDOW—contd.

Held also, that the parties were governed by the proviso to that custom, that where the widow after remarriage does not go to reside in the house of her second husband, but continues to reside in her first husband's house, she retains for life her first husband's estate also. MUSSAMMAT ILAHI BEGUM v. MIR WILAYAT ALI. 145 P R 1893

25. Forfeiture of life estate by widow by reason of unchastity—Sikh Jats of Amritsar District.

Found, that plaintiff had established the existence of a custom among Sikh Jats of the Amritsar District, whereby a widow, who abandons her deceased husband's household and contracts an irregular but more or less permanent union with another man, forfeits her life estate in her late husband's land. WADHAWA SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT RAJ DEVI. 40 P R 1899

26. Remarriage of widow with her deceased husband's brother—Forfeiture of life estate in first husband's property—Gil Sikh Jats of Bhanjal, tahsil Fazilka of the Hissar (old Sirsa) District.

Held, following Prema v. Mussammat Pardhan (No. 137 P. R. 1883), that amongst Sikh Jats in the Sirsa District a widow marrying her husband's brother retains by custom her life estate in her first husband's property. PUNJAB SINGH AND ANOTHER v. MUSSAMMAT CHANDI AND ANOTHRR. 88 P R 1900

27. Remarriage of Sikh Jat woman with her deceased husband's brother—Forfeiture of life estate in her former husband's property—Sikh Jats of the Ferozepore District.

Held, that amongst Sikh Jats in the Ferozepore District, a widow marrying her husband's brother does not forfeit by custom her life estate in her former husband's property.

Lachu v. Dal Singh (No. 33 P. R. 1896), Chanda Singh v. Mela (No. 73 P. R. 1897), and Harsarn Das v. Nandi (I. L. R. XI All., 330), followed. MUSSAMMAT INDI v. BHANGA SINGH AND OTHERS. 115 P R 1900

28. Custom—Inheritance—Unchastity of widow—Effect of, in regard to estate vested in her—Hindu Law.

A Hindu widow who had inherited the estate of her deceased husband in the absence of a special custom to the contrary is not liable to forfeit that estate by reason of her unchastity after the death of her husband.

Fatteh Singh and another v. Kalu and another (107 P. R. 1888), and Moni Ram Kolita v. Kheri Kolitani (I. L. R. V. Calc., 776. P. C.) followed. MUSSAMMAT ATRI v. DIDAR SINGH AND OTHERS. 76 P R 1901

29. Forfeiture of widow's estate—Effect of unchastity of widow subsequent to

1076

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

I.—REMARRIAGE AND UNCHASTITY OF WIDOW—concld.

taking possession—Somal Jats of tahsil Phillour, district Jullundur.

Held, that it was not established that by custom prevailing among Somal Jats of the Phillour tahsil in the Jullundur District a widow forfeits her right by reason of unchastity subsequent to taking possession of her late husband's estate. MUSSAMMAT MALAN v. RURA. 74 P R 1910

J.—MAINTENANCE.

—Widows, right to—

See CUSTOM I—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—LOCUS STANDI OF REVERSIONER AND WIDOW. 127 P R 1894

See CUSTOM I—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—GIFTS, 16 P R 1893

See CUSTOM VIII—H.—SUCCESSION OF WIDOW, 24 P R 1893, 77 P R 1893

See CUSTOM VIII—H.—REMARRIAGE OR UN-CHASTITY OF WIDOW, 34 P R 1893

See HINDU LAW, WIDOW. 72 P R 1888, 112 P R 1888, 10 P R 1889, 190 P R 1889, 60 P R 1895

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, ARTICLE 38. 123 P R 1889

1. Singhpooria Jagirdars.

According to the custom of this class, a childless widow is entitled to receive for life some portion of her deceased husband's holding, in addition to any cash allowance assigned for her maintenance: she may even succeed for life to the whole of the land, if the quantity be not excessive. SIRDAR SOBA SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT ATTUR KOUR. 30 P R 1868

2. Gift of land—Equitable charge for maintenance of donor—Restraint of alienation.

W. S. (plaintiff) adopted K. S. (defendant), and made a gift of his land to him, giving him possession, on the condition that the donor was to receive from the donee Rs. 30 per annum and grain to the amount of 30 maunds per annum. K. S. mortgaged a portion of the land to C. S. after W. S. had obtained a decree of Court, ordering his maintenance in pursuance of the above arrangement. Held, that W. S. had an equitable lien on the land for his maintenance, and that K. S. could not alienate the land or any portion of it unless he made sufficient provision for W. S. or left unalienated sufficient for the maintenance of W. S. WAZIR SINGH v. KHAZAN SINGH. 17 P R 1874

3. Customary right of widow of Jagirdar to obtain maintenance from Jagir income—Jurisdiction of Revenue Court.

1077

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

J.—MAINTENANCE—contd.

Held, that by the custom of the Amballa district, the widow of a deceased Jagirdar can claim from the heirs of the deceased a portion of the Jagir income as maintenance.

Held, further, that a claim of the above nature may be heard by the Revenue Courts. SANT SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT CHANDAN. 19 P R 1880 Rev.

4. Illegitimate son—Rathor Rajputs of Jodhpur State—Misconduct of illegitimate son.

Found, that by the custom of Rathor Rajptus of the Jodhpur State, an illegitimate son by a concubine is entitled to maintenance for life from his father's estate, provided he does nothing seriously detrimental to the interests of the head of the family, but on his death his children are not entitled to maintenance from the legitimate son of his father, unless with the consent, and at the pleasure of such a son. SHIMBU SINGH v. RAJA SARHAL SINGH. 40 P R 1880

5. Dodh Rajputs—Family custom—Rights of widow—Maintenance.

A special custom found to exist in the family of the Rana of Manaswal in the Hoshiarpur district, differing from that of the Dodh Rajputs, by which the widows of a childless Rana do not succeed as heirs to the estate of their late husband, but are entitled only to maintenance. RANI HAMEL DEVI v. RANA LEHNA SINGH. 52 P R 1886

6. Muhammadan Arains of Firozpur—Widow's maintenance—Right to share of deceased husband's land in presence of sons of another wife.

In a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan Arains of the Firozpur district, found, that a childless widow is not by custom entitled as of right to a share of her deceased husband's land by way of maintenance in presence of sons by another wife. C. A. No. 1131 of 1873 (unpublished), Ranjha v. Mussammat Rajji (No. 22 P. R. 1878, Nupa Singh v. Mussammat Sobrai (No. 116 P. R. 1879, Mussammat Hussan Bibi v. Fatteh Mahomed (No 156 P. R 1879, Jaimal Singh v. Mussammat Mano (No. 111 P. R. 1882,), C. A. No. 124 of 1884 (unpublished), and C. A. No. 381 of 1886 (unpublished) refered to. SHADA v. MUSSAMMAT JIO. 107 P R 1886

7. Arrears of—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, sections 5 and 6—Muhammadan Law—Justice, equity, and good conscience.

Held, (i) that the maintenance of a wife is a question relating to marriage and governed by the personal law of the parties as laid down in section 5, Punjab Laws Act; (ii) that the Muhammadan Law by which the parties were governed does not permit of a claim being made for arrears of maintenance unless the same has been previously.

1078

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

J.—MAINTENANCE—concld.

determined or agreed to by the parties. MIRZA SURAYA JAH v. MUSSAMMAT HAJRA SULTAN ZAMANI BEGAM. 57 P R 1890

8. Held under the Riwaj-i-am of Rawalpindi district, which in the absence of evidence throwing doubt on its correctness should be followed, that among Mughals of Badia Qadir Bakhsh, tahsil Rawalpindi, a barren widow is entitled to a definite portion of her husband's estate for life by way of maintenance in the presence of his son by another wife.—AMIR v. MUSSAMMAT SHARF NUR. 49 P R 1910

K.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS.

1. Although amongst the Muhammadan Rajputs of the Jullundur district there is a strong feeling against succession to ancestral land in the female line, yet the succession of daughters is not unknown, and there is no clearly defined custom on the subject. MEERAN BUKSH v. PEEROO. 29 P R 1868

2. But held, that there being no proof of any custom in point, cousins were excluded by the daughter and her son. MUNSA RAM v. PUNNOO. 38 P R 1870

3. Succession of Females—Daughters—Brahmins—Sialkot district—Acquired Property—Nephews.

Plaintiffs sued for a house under the following circumstances.—M, whose acquired property the house was, died leaving a widow and daughter. The widow succeeded to the house, and made a gift of it to her daughter, who allowed her son, one of the defendants, to sell the house to the other defendant. The widow having died, the plaintiffs, nephews of M., asserted their claim to the house. The family were Brahmins, of the Sialkot district (tahsil Daska)—Found, that by custom the daughter of M. excluded his nephews from inheriting the property in suit. RAJ RUP v. LADHU. 51 P R 1873

4. A died without male issue, leaving daughters, who were married and living in other villages than A's. After his death, his widow succeeded to his estate, and upon her death, M and others, cousins of A, claimed to succeed to his land. The wajib-ul-arz stipulated that a widow might succeed when her husband left no male issue, and that after her, the near relatives of tbe husband should succeed. Held by LINDSAY and WILKINSON, JJ. that M and his co-suitors were excluded by the daughters and their sons. Held by CAMPBELL, J., that in such a case the custom of the Punjab excluded the daughters and their sons, and that M and his co-suitors were "near relatives" of A within the wajib-ul-arz and entitled to succeed. MOLUK v. MUSSAMMAT DYAN. 2 P R 1874

5. Mahomedan Jogis of Lahore—Daughters.

Found, that no custom existed amoug Mahomedan Jogis of Lahore excluding daughters from inheritance in the presence of sons. MUSSAMMAT MEHTAB BIBI v.

1079

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

K.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS—contd.

MUSSAMMAT SHAHZADI. 56 P R 1879

6. Syads of Shia sect, in M. Sadhoura, Umballa Division.

B. A., the common ancestor of the parties, died leaving three sons—K. B., H. B. and T. B. and one daughter. The three sons succeeded equally to their father's immovable property, the daughter taking no share.

On T. B.'s death, about 45 years ago, leaving a widow and three daughters (the present defendants), the widow succeeded to her husband's one-third share in the estate H. B., who died about 16 years ago, leaving a widow and two sons and two daughters was succeeded by his two sons, to the exclusion of the widow and daughters; subsequently the elder of the two sons died leaving a widow who succeeded to his share. K. B. died about 11 years ago, leaving a widow who succeeded to his one-third share of the estate, and upon whose death dakhil kharij of this one-third share was formally effected in favour of the descendants of H. B., and the widow of T. B., equally. The property remained joint up to suit; and the parties were Syads of the Shia sect. In 1873 T. B.'s widow gifted her husband's one-third share, and the one-sixth share entered in her name on the death of K. B's widow, to her three daughters and their sons. In a suit by the daughter-in-law and grandson of H. B., against the donor and donees, to set aside the gift—

Held, (upholding the orders of the Lower Courts) that as regards the one-third share of the property which devolved on T. B.'s widow on T. B.'s death, the gift was valid, as by custom the daughters of T. B. were entitled to succeed to their father's share on their mother's death; but that, as regards the one-sixth share alleged to have been inherited on the death of K. B.'s widow, the gift was invalid as on the death of K. B.'s widow, the whole of his share devolved by custom on the male descendants of H. B., K. B's brother REHMAT ALI v. MUSSAMMAT HAMID-UL-NISSA. 75 P R 1879

7. Awans of mauza *Dehwal,*tahsil Khoshab, district Shahpur—Daughters—Collaterals.

By custom among Awans of M. Dehwal in the Khoshab tahsil, Shahpur district, where a proprietor dies, leaving unmarried daughters but no sons, the daughters succeed to his land, and hold it until their marriage; but upon their marriage they cease to have any interest in the land, which then passes to the collaterals in the male line. MUSSAMMAT PANA BIBI v. KHODAYAR. 81 P R 1879

8. Daughter's right of residence in house left by father.

Found, that among Awans residing in mauza Daiwal, tahsil Khushab, in the Shahpur district, daughters, even though married, have by custom a right of residence for their lifetime in the house property left

1080

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

K.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS—contd.

by their father. MUHAMMAD YAR v. MUSSAMMTA PANAH BIBI. 72 P R 1880

9. Gujars of Firozpur—Daughters—Distant collaterals—Acquired property— Onus probandi.

There is no general custom of inheritance among Gujar agriculturists in the Punjab by which distant collaterals in the male line are entitled to succeed to land not derived from a common ancestor but acquired by the deceased person himself, in preference to the daughter of such person.

Held therefore, in a suit among Gujars of Firozepur district, that the onus of proving such a custom lay on the plaintiffs, who were grandsons or great grandsons of deceased's second cousins.

Held further, that plaintiffs had failed to prove the existence of such a custom. ALA v. MUSSAMMAT RAJO. 77 P R 1881

10. Koreshis of Wazirabad—Daughters—Muhammadan law.

Found, that there is no special custom contrary to Muhammadan law among Koreshis of Wazirabad by which daughters are excluded from taking their legal shares in their father's property by their father's brothers AHMAD DIN v. MUSSAMMAT FAZLAN. 175 P R 1883

11. Hindu Baniyas of Peshawar city—Daughter's right to succeed in presence of nephews—Hindu law.

In a suit for partition of an ancestral house in Peshawar city, the parties to which were Hindu Baniyas, not forming an undivided family, found, that by the rule of succession applicable to the parties daughters were preferred to nephews. Prem Singh v. *Mussammat Chandi (*No. 150 P. R. 1879, cited. LAKHMI DAS v. KISHEN CHAND. 9 P R 1884

12. Aggarwala Baniyas of Jagadhri, Amballa district—Succession of daughters—Brothers and nephews—Acquired property.

Found, that no uniform custom exists among Aggarwala Baniyas of Jagadhri in the Amballa district by which brothers and nephews exclude daughters from succession to acquired property Lakhmi Das v. Kishen Chand (No. 9 P. R 1884, Civil) cited. MUSSAMMAT MENGLAM v. LEKHRAJ. 110 P R 1884

13. Bhular and Panu Jats of Kasur tahsil—Gift of land to females or their husbands—Succession to such land on failure of male issue of the donees.

Found, that there is no established custom among Bhular and Panu Jats, or among Jats generally in the Kasur tahsil or the neighbourhood, under which on a gift of land to sisters or daughters or their husbands, and on failure of male issue of the donees, the property reverts to the heirs of the donors, and does not descend to the heirs of the donees. Gogan v. Taloka (No. 163 P. R., 1882), cited. JOWAHIR SINGH v. AMRIK SINGH.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

K.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS—contd.

9 P R 1885

14. Golras of Rawalpindi—Right of daughter to succeed in preference to collaterals—Daughter marrying within her "khandan."

In a suit the parties to which were Golras of M. Jodh, tahsil and zillah Rawalpindi, the plaintiff, a married daughter, claimed to succeed as heir of her father, (his widows being dead), and of her cousin, one Mussammat R., to the land in suit in preference to the defendants, who were distant collaterals. The Wajib-ul-arz was to the effect that daughters will succeed unless there are brothers or uncles or their issue, provided they do not marry out of their own "khandan."

Held, that there was no reason for regarding the word "khandan" as used in the Wajib-ul-arz in any but its ordinary popular sense of "family," and as the plaintiff's husband was a distant agnate, it rested with the defendants to show that such a marriage was not a marriage in the "family," and that in the absence of such proof, the plaintiff could not be held to be disqualified on the ground of being married out of the family. MUSSAMMAT MIRZA NUR v. BAHADUR ALI.

16 P R 1885

15. Gujars of Lahore—Daughter's right to succeed in preference to nephew.

Found, that by the custom of Gujars resident in the city of Lahore, a daughter succeeds in preference to a brother's son. GOPAL v. MUSSAMMAT MAMU.

41 P R 1885

16. Arains of Kaithal tahsil, Karnal—Unmarried daughter's right of succession in presence of male collaterals.

In a suit the parties to which were Arains of mauza Shadipur in the Kaithal tahsil of the Karnal district, found, that on the death of a landowner of the tribe leaving an unmarried daughter, but no widow or descendant in the male line, such daughter was entitled by custom to succeed to his land in presence of collateral relative of the deceased in the male line, related in the 4th or 5th degree. Mussammat Izzo v. Mussammat Lado (No. 34 P. R. 1880), referred to. BHAGA v. MUSSAMMAT SANDI.

52 P R 1885

17. Kakazais of Batala—Succession of daughters—Widow.

Found, that according to the custom of the Kakazai residents of the town of Batala a daughter, whose mother is dead, succeeds to her share of the inheritance left by her father who has died without male issue, as she is not excluded by the surviving widow of the deceased. MUSSAMMAT SALIA BIBI v. MUSSAMMAT PIRAN DITTI.

57 P R 1885

18. Zargars of Amritsar—Succession of daughter—Onus probandi—Daughter's life interest—Power of alienation—Necessity.

In a suit, the parties to which were Zargars of the Amritsar district, it appeared that the plaintiff was suing for a house left by one R., who died in 1876, which had been taken possession of by the defendant, the second cousin and nearest male collateral of R., as heir at law, the said defendant having obtained actual possession by paying off a mortgage by R., while plaintiff relied on a deed of sale in his favour of 1880 by Mussammat M., daughter of the deceased R.

Held, that the defendant (upon whom under the circumstances the onus had been rightly laid) had failed to prove any custom under which a male collateral, as distantly related as he was, excluded a daughter from succeeding to her father.

But, held, further, that as Mussammat M. was not shown to have succeeded otherwise than as a daughter under the ordinary rules of inheritance, the presumption was that her interest in the property was, like that of a widow, a life interest only, and that therefore plaintiff could only maintain the validity of the sale to him by proving that it was for necessity.

It being found that part only of the consideration stated in the deed could be accepted as advanced for necessary expenditure, the Court granted plaintiff a decree for possession as mortgagee with a lien on the property to the extent of the sum so advanced, declaring that when defendant or the next heirs of R. paid off such lien they might recover possession. DEVI DIAL v. HIRA SINGH.

68 P R 1887

19. Khojas of Kasur—Exclusion of daughters by sons and of sisters by daughters.

Found, that among the Khojas of Kasur, by custom, in the succession to immoveable property (1) of an owner who dies leaving male and female issue, the sons exclude the daughters, and (2) of an owner who dies without male issue leaving daughters and a sister, the daughters exclude the sister. MUSSAMMAT ALLA JOWAI v. MUSSAMMAT FATIMA.

52 P R 1888

20. Khatris of Peshawar city—Succession of daughter and daughter's son in presence of nephews.

Found, that among Khatris of the Peshawar city a daughter and her son by custom succeed in preference to a nephew of the last male owner.

Lakhmi Das v. Kishen Chand (No. 9 P. R. 1884, cited. NATHU MUL v. BIHARI.

67 P R 1888

21. Gilani Sayads of Mooltan—Succession of daughters—Muhammadan Law—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), schedule II, articles 127, 144—Joint family—Adverse possession—Minority.

Found, that among the Gilani Sayads of Mooltan there is no definite customary rule regarding the succession of daughters modifying the Muhammadan Law, and that therefore in cases of dispute the said Muhammadan Law must be followed.

Mussammat Sardar Bibi v. Sayad Ali Shah (No. 4 P. R. 1888), cited. NASIR-UD-DIN SHAH v. MUSSAMMAT LAL BIBI.

89 P R 1888

22. Athbans Brahmins of Amritsar city—Succession of daughter in preference to near agnates.

Found that among Athbans Brahmins of Amritsar city, there is no well-established custom whereby self-acquired real property, on the death of the acquiror's widow, descends to the near agnates to the exclusion of a daughter.

Munsa Ram v. Punnoo (No. 38 P. R. 1870), Raj Rup v. Ladhu (No. 51 P. R. 1873), Hira v Mula (No. 44 P. R. 1879), Mussammat Bhagwandevi v. Nihal Chand (No. 73 P. R. 1879), Prem Singh v. Mussammat Chandi (No. 150 P. R. 1879), Ami Chand v. Ghasita Mal (No. 143 P. R. 1882), Lakhmi Das v. Kishen Chand (No. 9 P. R. 1884), Mussammat Menglam v. Lekhraj (No. 110 P. R. 1884), and Nathu v. Bihari (No. 67 P. R. 1888), cited. MUSSAMMAT MULO v. PHULO MISSAR.

108 P R 1888

23. Pathans of Sirsa district—Exclusion of daughters—Muhammadan Law.

Found, that there is no well-established custom amongst agricultural Pathans in the Sirsa district, by which daughters are excluded from a share in their father's property in the presence of sons. KUTAB-UD-DIN KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT AMIR BEGAM.

36 P R 1889

24. Sabazwari Sayads of Shakargarh tahsil—Distant collaterals.

In a suit, the parties to which were Sabazwari Sayads of mauza Dinpanah in the Shakargarh tahsil of the Gurdaspur district, and in which the collaterals of a deceased sonless proprietor (the nearest of whom was related to the deceased as his second cousin once removed) were claiming in opposition to the daughter of the deceased, held that no custom was proved by which collaterals, so distantly related as plaintiffs, excluded a daughter. RAMZAN SHAH v. SOHNA.

60 P R 1889

25. Sayads of Jullundur—Succession of daughters and their sons before collaterals.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

K.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS—contd.

By the custom governing the Sayads of Jullundur the immoveable property of a deceased proprietor dying sonless and leaving a widow and daughters devolves after the widow's death upon the daughters and after them upon their sons, to the exclusion of male collaterals so far removed as the 4th degree from the common ancestor. MUSSAMMAT FATIMA v. GHULAM MUHAMMAD SHAH.

172 P R 1889

26. Naru Rajputs of Hoshiarpur—Succession of females—Construction— "Karabati."

In a suit among Naru Rajputs of Hoshiarpur tahsil, found that daughters were by custom entitled to succeed in preference to collaterals more remote than the descendants of the great-grandfather of the deceased proprietor.

"Karabati" means not only a male collateral but a near male collateral. RANJHE KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT KAMAN.

179 P R 1889

27. Sayads of Kharar, Umballa district—Non-agriculturists owning land—Custom—Succession.

In a suit the parties to which were Sayads of Kharar in the Amballa district, not agriculturists in the strict sense of the term though owning land but not cultivating themselves, found that though by custom sons exclude daughters, there was no well-established custom by virtue of which collaterals can claim to exclude them. The rules of Muhammadan Law therefore applied.

No. 4 P. R. 1888 referred to. KASIM ALI v. MUSSAMMAT ZINAT-UN-NISSA.

35 P R 1891

28. Unmarried daughter—Maintenance out of or succession to deceased father's estate—Hindu Jats, Ludhiana district.

Found, that among Hindu Jats of the Ludhiana district, custom recognises the right of the unmarried daughters to be maintained out of the estate of the deceased father, and even in some cases a right to possession of the estate until marriage. MUSSAMMATS KISHNO AND PARTAPO v. RAMAN.

50 P R 1892

29. Right of daughter to exclude nephews—Jhiwars (Awans) of Rawalpindi.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Awans by tribe and Jhiwars (water-carriers) by occupation, in the town of Rawalpindi, that no custom was proved entitling a daughter to exclude a brother and nephews in succession to acquired immoveable property (a water-mill). MUSSAMMAT SHARFAN AND FIROZ v. KAMMU. 115 P R 1892

30. Kalru Jats, Mooltan district—Exclusion of nephews by daughters of deceased.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Kalru Jats (Muhammadans) of tahsil and District Mooltan, that no uniform custom was established by which daughters were excluded by brother's sons from taking the share of their father's estate falling to them under Muhammadan Law.

No. 12 P. R. 1889, referred to and followed. KHANAN v. MUSSAMMAT JATTI.

116 P R 1892

31. Awans of Daudzai tahsil, Peshawar district—Right of daughter to inherit in presence of near male collaterals.

By custom prevailing among the Awans of Doaba Daudzai tahsil of the Peshawar district, a daughter, in the presence of near male collaterals, is only entitled to maintenance and not to possession of her father's land, provided that the collaterals are willing to maintain and marry her. MUSSAMMAT MIRJAN v. RAHMAT. 31 P R 1893

32. Land devolving on owner's death to daughter—Nature of daughter's estate.

Held, that although often, by custom, when a man dies without male issue his ancestral land, before passing into the possession of his collateral kinsmen, passes into that of his widow, and, on her death, into that of his unmarried daughter, there is no custom known to the Court by which land devolves upon a married, but widowed daughter, and devolves after her death upon her unmarried daughter for life nor is there any authority for the statement that an unmarried granddaughter succeeds her mother and excludes both collateral kinsmen and also a married granddaughter and her issue and a deceased grandson's daughter. ZAIDULLA v MADAR.

18 P R 1894

33. Succession—Daughters—Suit by reversioner to contest daughter's succession—Compromise—Subsequent suit by same reversioners to set aside alienation by daughters.

See CUSTOM I.—C. ALIENATION BY DAUGHTER. 47 P R 1894

34. Succession of married daughter—Khattars of Rawalpindi district—Suit by married daughter for declaration that she was entitled to reversionary right after death or remarriage of widow.

One M. K., a Khattar of the Rawalpindi district, died some years ago leaving two widows, Mussammat B. and Mussammat M. N., and a married daughter, Mussammat N. K., the present plaintiff. The widows thereupon succeeded to the estate in equal shares and mutation was effected in their favor. In 1883 Mussammat B. gifted her half share in the estate to one Nawab Khan, the son of her husband's sister, and Mussammat N. K. sued for a declaration that the gift would not affect her reversionary interests on the death or remarriage of Mussammat B., Mussammat M. N., the other widow, being made a co-defendant because she refused to join the plaintiff in suing. The District Judge dismissed the suit on the ground that inasmuch as females were never regarded as reversioners in the same sense as male agnates, the plaintiff if really entitled to succeed as her father's heir, succeeded in the same way as a son would succeed, and should therefore have sued for possession of the estate, allowing maintenance to the widows. The Divisional Judge, on appeal, refused to allow the plaintiff to amend her plaint to one for possession, and dismissed the appeal. The plaintiff appealed to the Chief Court, and it was argued, on her behalf, that the suit as instituted was maintainable.

Held, that the right of the widows was superior by custom to that of the daughter, that as there were no male kindred, there was no one who had a better right than the daughter to succeed on the death of the widows, and that her only remedy, if any, was by suit for a declaratory decree. The case was therefore remanded under section 562, Civil Procedure Code, for disposal on the merits. MUSSAMMAT NUR KHANAM v. MUSSAMMAT BANI BEGAM.

90 P R 1894

35. Succession of married daughter in presence of collaterals—Riwaj-i-am—Muhammadan Gujars of Ludhiana district—Res judicata—Waiver.

On the death in 1854 of one Shahbaz, a Muhammadan Gujar of the Ludhiana district and a landed proprietor in mauza Bhukri Khurd, his widow, Mussammat Raso, was entered in the village records as proprietor of his lands and in 1861 gifted the said lands to her two sons-in-law, B., plaintiff's husband, and M. The reversionary heirs of Shahbaz thereupon sued to set aside the gift and obtained a decree to the effect that the gift would be considered effectual only for the widow's lifetime and that after her death whosoever proved his title would be considered the proprietor. In 1878 the widow gifted the same lands to her two daughters, plaintiff and Mussammat J., wife of M. The reversioners again brought a suit which was decided in their favour in both the first and the Appellate Courts, and on the death of the widow in 1886 they sued B. and M. for possession of Shahbaz's lands and obtained a decree for their respective shares in the same. Subsequently plaintiff sued the said reversioners and her own husband, B., claiming the lands of Shahbaz, her father, on the ground that by custom among Muhammadan Gujars of the Ludhiana district, the daughter of a sonless proprietor who has never left her father's house is, on the father's death, entitled to succeed to the exclusion of her father's male relatives. Plaintiff relied in support of her claim upon the entry in the Riwaj-i-am. Defendants, with the exception of plaintiff's husband, who admitted the claim, denied plaintiff's right and pleaded, inter alia, that the matter was res judicata; that plaintiff by her conduct in the previous litigation had waived her title to succeed as heir of her father, and that in any event she was not entitled to so succeed by custom. The first Court decreed plaintiff's claim, but the decree was reversed, on appeal, by the Divisional Judge, on the ground that plaintiff had by her conduct waived her right to succeed as her father's heir. Plaintiff appealed to the Chief Court, and it was Held, that inasmuch as the officer who tried and decided the suit in 1878, when the reversioners contested the gifts by the widow to her two daughters, would not have had jurisdiction to try the present suit, plaintiff's claim was not res judicata by reason of the former decision.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

K.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS—contd.

Held also, that as plaintiff could not have objected to the gift to her sister and her sister's husband during the lifetime of her sister and her mother, her conduct did not amount to waiver of her right to succeed, after their death, as the heir of her father.

Found lastly, that by custom among Muhammadan Gujars of the Ludhiana district, a married daughter who has never left her father's house to live elsewhere from the time of her marriage has a preferential right of succession to his estate as against his collaterals on the failure of male lineal descendants, and that defendants, upon whom the onus probandi rested, had failed to prove that the custom in their got was different from the general custom. MUSSAMMAT BASRI v. MOHKAM. 146 P R 1894

36. Succession of married daughter to exclusion of collaterals—No definite act of donation by sonless proprietor—Gujars of Gujrat district—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that by custom among Gujars of the Gujrat district, a married daughter is entitled to succeed her father, a sonless proprietor, in a case where, though no definite act of donation is proved, it is a fair inference from the established facts that the sonless proprietor settled that daughter and her husband in his house and on his land with a view to their succeeding him as his heirs to the exclusion of his collaterals. MUSSAMMAT BAGGI v. MAMUN. 31 P R 1895

37. Moghals of Patti in tahsil Kasur—sonless proprietor—Appointment of daughters to be heirs.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Moghals of Patti in the Kasur tahsil of the Lahore district, that by custom it was competent to a sonless proprietor to appoint his daughters to be his heirs and succeed to his land, to the exclusion of collaterals.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

K.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS—contd.

No. 126 P. R. 1890, referred to. BUDHA BEG v. MUSSAMMAT BUDHAI BEGAM. 71 P R 1895

38. Land acquired by last owner's father and situate in a village other than that of the owner's origin—Claim by descendants of a common ancestor who resided in village of owner's origin—Succession of daughter—Rawats of Hoshiarpur district.

Two brothers, T. and S., Rawats, originally resided in the village Chak Gujran, in the Garshankar tahsil, Hoshiarpur district, but subsequently migrated, T. to mauza Chak Raotan, also in the Garshankar tahsil, where he acquired certain land of which his descendants, the plaintiffs, were in possession at time of suit, and S. to mauza Chak Bhairon Majra, in the Rupar tahsil, Umballa district, where he acquired the land in dispute. After the deaths of S. and S.'s son L., the latter's daughter, Mussammat I., who was married to a Rawat proprietor of mauza Bhairon Majra, entered upon actual possession of the land. Thereupon plaintiffs who were the collaterals of L. but admittedly owned no land in mauza Bhairon Majra, instituted the present suit. The Divisional Court finding that plaintiffs had proved themselves to be the collateral heirs of L. decreed the claim, holding that defendant had failed to prove a custom under which the daughter succeeded in preference to the collaterals of the last owner.

Defendant appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, that under the special circumstances of the case, the land not being ancestral and plaintiffs not being residents of the village in which it was situate, the onus rested upon plaintiffs to prove that they were entitled to oust the daughter from her father's inheritance, and that they had failed to discharge it. MUSSAMMAT ICHHRI v. JOWAHIRA. 18 P R 1896

39. Succession of unmarried daughter in presence of nephew—Burden of proof—Razzar Pathans of Peshawar district—Riwaj-i-am.

In a case in which the parties were Razzar Pathans of Peshawar district, found, that by custom an unmarried daughter is only entitled to maintenance till marriage, and does not succeed to any landed property in the presence of male kindred of her father. MANDAS v. MUSSAMMAT SHAH WASIM. 44 P R 1896

40. Succession of daughter—Acquired property situate in village other than that of proprietor's origin—Non-agriculturists—Dhal Khatris of Muzaffargarh district—Onus probandi—Riwaj-i-am.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

K.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS—contd.

In a case, in which the parties were non-agriculturists, Dhal Khatris of the Muzaffargarh district, found, that plaintiffs, upon whom the onus lay, had failed to prove that in the succession to property which a sonless proprietor had acquired in a village other than that of his origin, daughters were excluded by near collaterals who resided in a different village.

The entry in the Riwaj-i-am and the weight to be attached thereto discussed. SHAM RAM v. MUSSAMMAT HEMI BAI. 73 P R 1896

41. Sons and daughters—Punjabi Arains of Sabz Mandi, Delhi—Non-agriculturists—Onus probandi—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 5, clause (a).

In a case where the parties, though originally of Punjabi Arain descent, had for many generations lived amongst, and given themselves out as, Muhammadan Sheikhs of Sabz Mandi, a suburb of Delhi, and, though owning land, did so rather as market-gardeners and capitalists than as true agriculturists, held that the onus of proving that in matters of succession they were governed by a family custom whereby sons excluded daughters and not by their personal law—in the present case Muhammadan Law,—was upon defendants who asserted it; and found upon the evidence and the facts of the case, that defendants had failed to establish the existence of any such family custom, or to prove that the parties were not governed by Muhammadan Law.

Section 5 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, does not require it to be presumed that in matters therein specified a custom governs the parties to the exclusion of their personal law, but merely prescribes that it shall govern them in such matters in the first instance. All that the said section lays down is that an inquiry should first be directed to ascertain whether there is any custom applicable to the parties in respect of those matters and if one is established, that it shall furnish the rule of decision to the supersession of their personal law. When, therefore, a person alleges a custom contrary to some precept of his personal law, he is prima facie bound to prove that custom. MUSSAMMAT FAKHAR-UN-NISSA v. MALIK RAHIM BAKHSH. 23 P R 1897

42. Right of daughter to succeed to her father's first cousin—Kanets of Kangra district.

Found, that plaintiff had failed to prove that, by custom among Kanets of Kangra district, a woman is entitled to succeed to the estate of her father's first cousin after the succession and subsequent death of the latter's widow to the exclusion of the agnatic heirs.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

K.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS—contd.

Semble.—Among Kanets of the Kangra district a daughter is entitled to succeed to her father's estate to the exclusion of remote collaterals. MUSSAMMAT MANSO v. RATNU. 3 P R 1898

43. Unmarried daughters of sonless proprietor—Life estate or maintenance—Khots of mauza Udharwal, tahsil Chakwal, Jhelum district.

Found, after remand for further inquiry, that by custom among Khots (Kahuts) of the village of Udharwal, tahsil Chakwal, in the Jhelum district, unmarried brotherless daughters are entitled to possession of the lands of their father for life, or so long as they remain unmarried. MUSSAMMAT NUR BHARI v. DULLA. 56 P R 1899

44. Lahori Khatris of Batala—Succession of brothers and nephews in preference to daughters and their sons—Hindu Law.

Held, that plaintiff had failed to prove that Lahori Khatris of Batala are governed by custom in matters of succession. BABU PHERU MAL v. RAM KISHEN. 87 P R 1900

45. Custom—Succession — Succession of daughter—Sheikhs of Badli, Rohtak district—Non-agriculturists—Onus probandi—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 5.

In a suit the parties to which were Sheikhs of the village of Badli, in the Rohtak district, found, in the absence of a custom to the contrary that the daughters succeed in preference to collaterals such as the defendants. Where primâ facie it is apparent that the parties to a suit were not ordinary agriculturists or carrying on the pursuit of agriculture, but had been employed for generations in State service, there is no initial presumption in favour of the existence of a custom under section 5 (a) of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872. In such cases it should be ascertained whether the rule of descent is governed by custom or by the personal law of the parties. MUSSAMMAT FATIMA AND OTHERS v. ARJMAND ALI AND OTHERS. 41 P R 1901

46. Custom — Inheritance — Unmarried daughters of sonless proprietors—Succession to deceased father's estate in presence of distant collaterals—Hindu Jats of Panipat tahsil, Karnal district.

Found, that by custom among Hindu Jats of Panipat tahsil, Karnal district, unmarried daughters of a sonless proprietor are entitled as the most sure, certain and secure form of maintenance for them to the possession of the landed property of their fathers for life so long as they remain unmarried in presence of collaterals seven degrees removed from the deceased, their estate being of the same nature as that of a widow. Mussammat Kishno v. Roman (50 P. R. 1892), Rustam Khan v. Mussammat Jio (139 P. R. 1892), Zaidull v. Modor (18 P. R. 1894), referred to. 12 P R 1902

CUSTOM VIII—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

K.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS—contd.

47. Custom—Inheritance—Right of daughter to inherit in presence of son—Sayads of Bannu.

Found, that among the Sayads of Bannu tahsil unmarried daughters are entitled to succeed to their share in their father's property in accordance with Muhammadan Law in the presence of sons. KHAMIM SHAH v. AMIRZADA SHAH. 62 P R 1904

48. Custom—Inheritance—Aroras of Amritsar city—Succession of brother in preference to a daughter—Hindu Law—Burden of proof.

Held, that the defendant upon whom the onus lay had failed to establish that in matters of succession the Aroras of Amritsar city were governed by custom and not by Hindu Law, or that collaterals were entitled to succeed to the exclusion of a daughter. RADHO v. HARNAMAN. 99 P R 1907

49. Bunjahi Khatris of Rawalpindi city. Custom excluding daughters not proved. 102 P R 1907

50. Custom—Inheritance—Exclusion of collaterals of the seventh degree by daughter—Muhammadan Chohan Rajputs of Kharwan, tahsil Jagadhri, Ambala district—Burden of proof.

Found, that plaintiffs have failed to prove that by custom among Chohan Rajputs of mauza Kharwan, tahsil Jagadhri in the Ambala district, collaterals of the seventh degree were entitled to succeed in preference to a married daughter of the deceased sonless proprietor.

There is no general presumption that regardless of tribe and creed agnates, however remote, exclude daughters from succession to ancestral property. ABDUL KARIM v. SAHIB JAN. 5 P R 1908

51. Custom—Inheritance—Right of daughter to succeed to her father in presence of nephews—Sayyads of Basti Sayyadan, tahsil Shujabad, Multan district.

Found, that among Sayyads of Basti Sayyadan, tahsil Shujabad, in the Multan district, there is no custom whereby a daughter was entitled to succeed to her father's estate in preference to the nephews of the deceased. AHMAD SHAH v. AHMAD SHAH. 68 P R 1908

52. Custom—Inheritance—Succession of daughters in presence of distant collaterals—Hindu Chohan Rajputs of the Naraingarh tahsil, Ambala district—Burden of proof.

Found, that no custom is established among Chohan Rajputs of the Naraingarh tahsil, Ambala district, by which daughters are excluded from succession to ancestral property by male collaterals related in the sixth degree.

The burden of proof as to whether remote collaterals such as of the sixth degree exclude daughters rests on the party who asserts its existence. BHOLI v. MAN SINGH 86 P R 1908

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

K.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS—contd.

53. Custom — Inheritance — Right of daughter to succeed to her father in presence of collaterals—Laghari Bilochis of tahsil Sanghar, Dera Ghazi Khan district—Muhammadan Law.

Held, that among the Laghari Bilochis of the Sanghar tahsil of the Dera Ghazi Khan district, daughters are entitled to succeed to their share in their father's ancestral property in accordance with Muhammadan Law in the presence of his male agnatic heirs, descendants of his grandfather. SABHAI v. ALI. 136 P R 1908

54. Custom—Inheritance—Right of daughter to inherit self-acquired land in presence of near male collaterals—Hindu Rajputs of Kangra district.

Found, that defendant had failed to prove that by custom among Hindu Rajputs of the Kangra district near male collaterals were entitled to succeed to the self-acquired property of a sonless proprietor held by him in a different village in preference to his daughter. NIDHU v. RAM SINGH. 2 P R 1909

55. Custom—Inheritance—Rights of daughter to succeed to her father in presence of collaterals—Muhammadan Prachas of Bhera city.

Found, that by custom among Muhammadan Prachas of the Bhera city daughters are entitled to succeed to the urban immovable property of their father to the exclusion of male collaterals. GHULAM HASSAN v. FAZAL DIN. 15 P R 1909

56. Custom—Succession—Daughter's right to succeed to property gifted to her grandfather in preference to male descendants of donor.

Held, that daughters are heirs under Hindu Law as well as under Customary Law, and that under Customary Law, the male descendants of a donor are not entitled to oust the female descendants of the donee in the direct line. GURDIT SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT PREM KAUR. 84 P R 1909

57. Custom—Succession of daughter to her mother's estate—Sayads of mauza Masanian, tahsil Batala, district Gurdaspur.

Held, following Shah Nawaz v. Azamat Ali (No. 40 P. R. 1907) that Sayads of mauza Masanian, tahsil Batala, district Gurdaspur, are governed by the general rules of agricultural custom of the Punjab.

Held also, that land which has come to a daughter from her father and has become her absolute property and has been gifted by her to her husband, reverts to her on his death and descends to her daughter as her heir, and not to the collaterals of her deceased husband. MUSSAMMAT ALLAH RAKHI v. ZAKAR-HUSSAIN. 96 P R 1909

58. Succession of daughter—Gujars of Ludhiana district—Ancestral property—Will—Appointment of future khana-damad.

Held, that land acquired by pre-emption, the price of which was raised by mortgage of part of ancestral land, is not itself ancestral land.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

K.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS—concld.

Held also, that it has not been proved that among Mussalman Gujars of the Ludhiana district a sonless proprietor has the power to alter the ordinary rule of succession by will, in the sense that he can will ancestral land in absolute ownership to a daughter in presence of near collaterals or that he can by will appoint a future possible husband of his infant daughter to be his khana-damad.

Held, further, that an unmarried daughter among these Gujars does hold her father's estate until death or marriage. NABIA v. MUSSAMMAT FATTO. 2 P R 1910

59. Land inherited by daughters—Daughters' daughter and sister and sisters' sons exclude collaterals—Muhammadan Rajputs, Hoshiarpur district.

Held, that among Muhammadan Rajputs of Hoshiarpur (an endogamous tribe) where daughters have succeeded to their father's land as heirs, excluding his collaterals, their daughters are entitled to succeed to their mother's estate in the absence of direct male heirs, on the death of any of them, and a sister or her sons would also exclude the collaterals in respect of such property. ILAHI BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT BUDHI. 5 P R 1910

60. Custom—Succession—Generally daughter succeeds in preference to pattidars—Wajib-ul-arz--Riwaj-i-am—Onus probandi—Jats of mauza Kharindwa, tahsil Thanesar, district Karnal.

Held, that exclusion of daughters by pattidars is opposed to the general custom, and that the burden of proving a special custom entitling them to exclude the daughter is on the pattidars.

Also, that an entry in the record of rights and Riwaj-i-am in their favour, unsupported by any instances, is not sufficient to discharge the onus and that the onus had not been discharged. GANPAT RAI v. MALLA MAL. 11 P R 1911

61. Custom—Succession to gifted land on death of donee sonless—daughters' succession—reversion to donor.—

Held that in the absence of proof of a special custom daughters of the donee, who has died sonless, succeed in the same way as sons, and that they pass on the succession to their children, the land reverting to the donor's line only in the event of the total extinction of descendants of the donee.

84 P. R. 1909 followed. KHUDA BAKHSH v. SHAMAS. 68 P R 1911

L.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS' SONS AND DAUGHTERS.

1. Dakot Brahmins of Rupar—Daughter's son.

Found that, by the custom of the Dakot Brahmins of Rupar, a daughter's son cannot inherit to the exclusion of near collaterals—

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

L.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS' SONS AND DAUGHTERS—contd.

(cousins and nephews). HIRA v. MULA. 44 P R 1879

2. Hindu Law—Gift of house to daughter—Collaterals.

One M. gave a house, situate in Kartarpur to M. R his daughter, in token of his love, more than 12 years prior to the institution of the present suit. On the death of M. R. plaintiffs, collateral male relative of G., brother of M. R. claimed to recover the house from M. T. daughter of M. R.,

Held, no custom to the contrary being proved, that M. T. was entitled to inherit the house under the Hindu Law.

Ameer Singh v. Kanh Singh (No. 56 P. R. 1870), approved. SHIB DYAL v. MUSSAMMAT TABI. 88 P R 1879

3. Mahtams of Hoshiarpur—Daughter's son—Collaterals.

Found, that no established custom exists among Mahtams of the Hoshiarpur district by which daughters' sons, as a class, have a right of inheritance superior to collaterals as nearly related as the fifth generation. BUTA v. AMAR SINGH. 55 P R 1881

4. Daughter's son succeeding to property of his maternal grandfather—Death of daughter's son without male issue—Right of heirs of original proprietor to object to alienation by widow.

In a suit for cancellation of a deed of sale by a widow of property situated in M. Boh in the Amballa district, found, that when a daughter's son has succeeded to his maternal grandfather, whether by gift or otherwise, and dies leaving no male issue, the property according to custom does not revert to the relatives in the male line of the original proprietors, so as to entitle them to restrain alienations by his widow, but descends like other property belonging to him to his own heirs, his mother's relatives having therefore no right to object to the widow's alienations. DASAUNDHA SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT PARTAB KOUR. 53 P R 1882

5. *Khatris of Lahore—Daughter's son—*Khana-damad.

Found, that no well established custom was shown to exist among the parties (who were Khatris of Lahore city) which would exclude daughters' sons from the succession to ancestral immovable property in the presence of a brother's son.

Quære, whether such a custom, if proved, would have been applicable to a case where the daughter's husband had been taken by the father (whose property was in dispute) to live with him as a khana-damad, and the daughter's sons had been born and brought up in the said proprietor's house. AMIR CHAND v. GHASITA MAL. 143 P R 1882

6. Mehmars of Ludhiana—Collaterals beyond the 6th degree claiming to exclude daughter's sons whose father was a khana-damad—Right of sons of khana-damad to succeed by representation where their father has pre-deceased their grandfather.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

L.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS' SONS AND DAUGHTERS—contd.

Found, that no custom exists among Mehmars of the Ludhiana district, whereby the male collaterals of the deceased beyond the 6th degree exclude the daughter's sons of a sonless proprietor, when their father had been a khana-damad and intended to succeed his father-in-law.

Held also, that the evidence fairly established a custom whereby the sons of a resident son-in-law succeeded by representation to their father's rights in their grandfather's estate where the father has predeceased the grand-father. SANTU v. MUSSAMMAT MANU. 172 P R 1882

7. Aroras of Amritsar—Daughter's son—Nephew.

In a suit the parties to which were Aroras of Multan origin, but residing at Amritsar, held, that no custom was established whereby in the absence of a gift or something to show that the deceased intended to make his daughter's son his heir, such a relative was entitled to succeed to the immovable property of his maternal grandfather in preference to a nephew. MOKANDA v. BALLI SINGH. 85 P R 1884

8. Mirasis of Firozpor district—Daughter's son—First cousin once removed.

Found, that no custom exists among Mirasis of the Firozpur district, contrary to the Muhammadan Law, by which a first cousin once removed can succeed in preference to a daughter's son whose mother has succeeded to his father's immovable property. WARIAMAN v. MUSSAMMAT RUPAN. 113 P R 1884

9. Muhammadan Jats of tahsil Gujrat—Right as between heirs of the donor and donee to succeed to land gifted to a daughter's son.

In a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan Jats of the Gujrat tahsil, held, that no custom was proved to exist under which, where land had been gifted to a daughter's son, the inheritance passed on the death of the donee, not to the donee's heirs, but to the donor or his heirs. Dasaundha Singh v. Mussammat Partab Kour (No. 53 P. R. 1882) and Gogan v. Taloka (No. 163 P. R. 1882) cited. DITTA v. MUHAMMAD BAKSH. 146 P R 1884

10. Bhats of Sonepat, Delhi district—Right of collaterals of donee to succeed in preference to the collateral relatives of the donor.

In a suit the parties to which were Bhats of the Sonepat tahsil in the Delhi district held, that no special custom was proved under which, in default of lineal heirs of the donee (a daughter's son), property received by gift would revert to the family of the donor. MANGAT v. WAZIR SINGH. 82 P R 1885

11. Kambohs of Lahore district—Daughters' and sisters' sons—Collaterlas.

In a suit the parties to which were Kambohs of the Lahore district, held, that the plaintiffs had failed to establish a custom whereby the sons of a daughter or the sons of a sister of a sonless proprietor inherited ancestral land in preference to an agnate as nearly related as a second cousin of the last male owner.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

L.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS' SONS AND DAUGHTERS—contd.

Mussammat Bhagan v. Gahna (No. 177 P. R. 1883), Sawan Singh v. Nihal Singh (No. 48 P. R. 1885), and Budhu v. Chiragh (No. 3 P. R. 1886), cited. THAKUR SINGH v. TARA SINGH. 40 P R 1888

12. Right of daughter and daughter's son to succeed—Sindhu Jats.

The pedigree table prepared at Settlement showed that in the course of many generations there was not a single instance of a daughter's succession to sonless proprietors. The Wajib-ul-arz and the Riwaj-i-am clearly excluded the daughter from succession of her father's estate—Held, therefore, that without finally deciding whether daughters and daughters' sons were by custom excluded from succession among Sindhu Jats, the tribe to which the parties belonged, the plaintiffs position was sufficiently well established by the evidence to entitle them to maintain the suit as the nearest reversioners. RAM DITTA v. KISHEN SINGH. 4 P R 1890

13. Sayyads of Kharkhauda, Rohtak district—Doughter's son succeeding to property of his maternal grandfather—Death of daughter's son without male issue—Right of heirs of original proprietor to succeed.

L. and Z. were two brothers, Sayyads of Kharkhauda, in the Rohtak district. Z. was succeeded by his widow, daughter and daughter's son, S., in consecutive order, S. died childless, leaving a widow, A., who remarried. B., the son of L., claimed the property on her remarriage. Held, that B. had failed to prove a custom where on the death of a daughter's son dying childless, the estate to which he had succeeded by gift or otherwise reverts to the relatives in the male line of the original proprietor. AMAN ALI v. MUSSAMMAT AMINA BEGAM. 46 P R 1890

14. Daughter's son — Muhammadan Awans, Ludhiana district.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan Awans of the Ludhiana district that agnates whose common ancestor was in the tenth generation from the deceased, were entitled to succeed in preference to the daughter's son. SHARF-UD-DIN v. NABIA BAND ISMAIL 64 P R 1892

15. Right of daughter's son to exclude nephews—Jhiwars (Awans) of Rawalpindi.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Awans by tribe and Jhiwars (water-carriers) by occupation, in the town of Rawalpindi, that no custom was proved entitling a daughter's son to exclude a brother and nephews in succession to acquired immovable property (a water-mill). MUSSAMMAT SHARFAN AND FIROZ v. KAMMU. 115 P R 1892

16. Daughter's son—Trikha Brahmins of Jhang district.

Found, that the parties, who were Trikha Brahmins of the Jhang district, were governed by custom and not by Hindu Law, and that among them a daughter or a daughter's son was not entitled to succeed in the presence of the first cousin once removed of the deceased sonless proprietor. MOHAN LAL v. DEVI DAS. 43 P R 1899

17. Self-acquired land—Daughter's sons succeed in preference to distant collaterals—Telis of Pachnand, Shahpur district—Burden of proof.

Held, that the land not being ancestral and plaintiffs not being owners in the village in which it was situated, the onus rested upon them to prove that they had a superior claim to defendants, who were the original owner's daughter's sons, and that they (plaintiffs) had failed to discharge it.

Ala v. Mussammat Rajo (No. 77 P. R. 1881), Miran Bakhsh v. Mussammat Alla Jawai (No. 25 P. R. 1882), Mussammat Zainab v. Amir (No. 174 P. R. 1889) and Lokha v. Haria (No. 64 P. R. 1893), followed. Mussammat Ichhri v. Jowahira (No. 18 P. R. 1896), Ram Mal v. Mussammat Miran (No. 30 P. R. 1896), and Sham Ram v. Mussammat Hemi Bai (No. 73 P. R. 1896), referred to. KHUDAYAR AND OTHERS v. SULTAN AND OTHERS. 103 P R 1900

18. Custom—Inheritance—Lodhi Pathans of mauza Dhogri, tahsil Jullundur—Right to succeed to daughter who has inherited from her father—Collateral claiming in preference to daughter's daughters—Reversion to collateral heirs of last full owner in presence of daughter's daughters—Reversion to collateral heirs of last full owner in presence of daughter's daughter.

In a suit the parties to which were Lodhi Pathans of mauza Dhogri, tahsil Jullundur, where on the death of one N. without sons he was succeeded by his daughter M. the plaintiffs claimed the property by customary right of inheritance as daughters M. whom they represent as the last full proprietor. The defendant, a collateral of N, in the 6th degree, while admitting that daughters succeeded a fathers pleaded that by custom collaterals succeeded in preference to daughter's daughters or daughter's son, found, that under the custom established by the plaintiffs they succeed as daughters of the last full owner in preference to collaterals, held that defendant had failed to prove a custom whereunder there is a reversion to the collateral of the last male owner in the presence of the daughter's daughters.

Ladhu v. Mussammat Daulati (126 P. R. 890), Kutb v. Mussammat Abidan (19 P. R. 887), Karm Din v. Umar Bakhsh (3 P. R. 1888), Muhammad v. Amir (31 P. R. 1889), Sita Ram v. Raja Ram (12 P. R. 1892), Chaughatta v. Mokam Din (75 P. R. 1893), Nihal v. Mohlar (19 P. R. 1897) and Sher Muhammad Khan v. Muhammad Khan (5 P. R. 1895), referred to. WAZIR ALI KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT ASMAR BUB. 61 P R 1902

19. Custom—Inheritance—Bunjahi Khatris of Rawalpindi—Right of collaterals to succeed in preference to daughter's sons and grandsons—Hindu Law.

Held, that the defendant upon whom the onus lay had failed to establish that in matters of inheritance the Bunjahi Khatris of Rawalpindi city were governed by custom and not by Hindu Law, or that collaterals were entitled to succeed to the exclusion of daughter's sons and grandsons of the deceased sonless proprietor. BURA MAL v. NARAIN DAS. 102 P R 1907

20. Custom—Inheritance—Right of descendants of a daughter of the deceased's ancestor to succeed in preference to village community.

Held that in accordance with the recognized principles of customary law direct descendants of a daughter and daughter's son of a deceased proprietor's ancestor are entitled in the absence of all male collaterals to succeed to the estate of the latter in preference to a heterogeneous proprietary body of a different got.

Badhawa v. Dewa Singh (No. 141 P. R. 1893) dissented from. WARYAMA v. HIRA NAND. 63 P R 1908

21. Custom—Inheritance—Exclusion of daughter's son by collaterals—Rajputs of Attock district.

Found, that among Rajputs of the Attock district daughter's sons are not entitled by custom to succeed in preference to collaterals who were descendants of the grandfather of the last male owner. JAHAN KHAN v. SHAHAMAD. 134 P R 1908

22. Custom—Inheritance—Khatris of Satghara, Montgomery district—Succession of collaterals in preference to a daughter's son—Hindu Law—Burden of proof.

Held, that the plaintiffs upon whom the onus lay had failed to establish that in matters of succession the Khatris of Satghara were governed by custom and not by Hindu Law or that collaterals were entitled to succeed to the exclusion of a daughter's son. GANPAT RAI v. KESHO RAM. 34 P R 1909

M.—EXCLUSION OF DAUGHTERS.

1. Succession of females—Daughters.

According to the general custom of the Punjab, married Hindu or Muhammadan daughters are not entitled, in the presence of nephews, to inherit a share of their father's landed estate, but only to maintenance. WAGA v. MUSSAMMAT MEHUR BEEBEE.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

M.—EXCLUSION OF DAUGHTERS—contd.

78 P R 1868

2. Muhammadan Rajputs of Hoshiarpur. Plaintiff, fifth in descent from the common ancestor, claimed the property of M. K., deceased, to the exclusion of his daughter. The parties were Muhammadan Rajputs of the Hoshiarpur district. The Wajib-ul-arz provided that when a proprietor died without male issue his widow should succeed, and her husband's karabtian should look after her, and on her death the karabtian of her husband should succeed. Witnesses were called to prove the custom, of whom about twenty deposed adversely to the claim of the daughter, and about twelve in her favour. Held, that the oral evidence and the Wajib-ul-arz showed that the daughter did not succeed; and that the word karabtian referred to next heirs male. MUSSAMMAT SAHABJAN v. KARM BUKSH.

80 P R 1875

3. Muhammadan Tarkhans of Lahore district—Muhammadan Law.

Held, that no established custom was proved to exist among Muhammadan Tarkhans of the Lahore district, by which either a daughter or a grandson of the paternal uncle has an exclusive right of inheritance to a deceased landholder. By Muhammadan Law the daughter was held entitled to one-half of her father's estate, and the grandson of the paternal uncle, as a residuary in his own right, to the remaining half. MUSSAMMAT JOWAI v. CHUHAR. 87 P R 1879

4. Exclusion of daughters by near collaterals—Burden of proof.

The general customary rule among Hindus in the Punjab is that daughters and their sons are excluded by near male collaterals.

Where, therefore, plaintiff, the nephew of a deceased Hindu landowner, sued to set aside an alienation by the deceased's widow of part of her husband's land, and was met by the defendants with the contention that the deceased's daughters were the next heirs to the land, held, that it lay upon the defendants to prove that by custom daughters and their sons succeeded in preference to nephews. PREM SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT CHANDI. 150 P R 1879

5. Meos of Ludhiana—Daughter—Paternal uncle's son.

Held, that there is no established custom among Meos, by which a married daughter living with her husband and separately from her father, takes the father's estate to the exclusion of a paternal uncle's son, or nephew. PIRAN DITTA v. MUSSAMMAT TABI. 31 P R 1881

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

M.—EXCLUSION OF DAUGHTERS—contd.

6. Manjh Rajputs of Nakodar tahsil, Jalandhar—Collaterals—Daughters.

In a suit among Manjh Rajputs of the Nakodar tahsil of the Jalandhar district, found, that collaterals descended in the male line from the great-grandfather of a deceased proprietor were by custom entitled to succeed in preference to the daughters of the deceased. MUSSAMMAT NURAN v. JIWA.

176 P R 1882

7. Mujawars of shrine of Data Gang Baksh—Muhammadan law—Exclusion of daughters by widows on failure of male issue.

In a suit regarding the succession to the private property of one A., a Mujawar of the shrine of Data Gang Baksh, found, that the inheritance was governed not by Muhammadan Law, but by custom, the custom being that sons excluded widows, and on failure of male issue, widows excluded daughters.

The two widows of the deceased were therefore held entitled to succeed to his property half and half. MUSSAMMAT AMIR BEGAM v. MUSSAMMAT MEHR BIBI. 38 P R 1883

8. Muhammadan Sayals of Jhang district—Daughters—Male collaterals.

Found, that there is no well-established custom among Muhammadan Sayals of the Jhang district under which daughters succeed in preference to male collaterals. MUSSAMMAT SAHBAN v. GHAZI. 50 P R 1885

9. Kalra Jats of Mooltan district—Succession of daughters—Brother's sons.

In a suit the parties to which were Kalra Jats of the Mooltan district found that no custom was proved by which daughters succeeded to their father's immovable property to the exclusion of brother's sons. MUSSAMMAT KHAIRAN v. KHANAN.

12 P R 1889

10. Gardezi Sayads of Mooltan district—Widow's life interest—Daughter's right of succession—Exclusion of daughters by collaterals.

In a case of succession among Gardezi Sayads of tahsil Sarai Sidhu in the Mooltan district, found that the plaintiffs were entitled by custom to succeed on the death of the widow of their uncle's son, in the presence of his daughter's daughter, to the property held by the widow, the custom being that, in the absence of sons a widow succeeds to a life interest in her husband's immovable property to the exclusion of a daughter, and that uncle's sons on the death of the widow exclude a daughter's daughter. MUSSAMMAT GHULAM ZOHRA v. RUKN ABDULA SHAH. 18 P R 1889

11. Sheikhs of Amballa tahsil—Daughter—Collateral.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

M.—EXCLUSION OF DAUGHTERS—contd.

Found in a suit among Sheikhs of the Amballa tahsil that no customary rule prevailed whereby a daughter had any right to succeed to agricultural land and village houses in preference to male collaterals. GHULAM KADIR v. SHAIB-UL-NISSA.

44 P R 1889

12. Hindu Varaiches of Pasrur tahsil, Sialkot district—Collaterals in eighth degree—Onus probandi.

In a suit among Hindu Varaiches of the Pasrur tahsil of the Sialkot district, in which the plaintiffs (collaterals in the eighth and more remote degrees) were claiming the land of a deceased sonless proprietor in opposition to a daughter, held that the latter, upon whom the onus probandi lay, had failed to prove that by custom the collaterals who were opposed to her were too remote in relationship to be able to claim in opposition to her, and that the plaintiffs were therefore, entitled to succeed in their claim. GURDITTA v. MUSSAMMAT PREMAN.

48 P R 1889

13. Pathan agriculturists of Peshawar district—Collaterals—Married daughters—Right of collaterals suing without joinder of others equally entitled to recover whole property.

In a suit by certain collaterals in the estate of a Pathan agriculturist of the Peshawar district, it appeared that the said agriculturist was succeeded by his widow, who died leaving two daughters, who, with their husbands, were the present defendants. It also appeared that the parties were governed by custom, and not by Muhammadan Law, and that by the custom, daughters when married had no share; but as the pedigree-table showed that plaintiff's father had a brother whose descendants appeared to be also entitled to share in the inheritance, the lower Court decreed the plaintiff's claim to the extent of one-half of the estate only. Neither party raised any plea in the lower Courts as to the non-joinder of any other co-sharers as parties.

Held, that as the defendants had no right to any customary share, the plaintiffs were entitled to a decree for the entire estate. NIZAM DIN v. MUSSAMMAT FARIGA.

68 P R 1889

14. Lodhran Jats—Jagirdars of Geeron got, Ludhiana district—Exclusion of females.

In a suit among Lodhran Jat Jagirdars of the Ludhiana district, found, that a special custom exists—contrary to the general custom of Jat agriculturists in the Punjab—whereby females are altogether excluded from inheritance.

The rule in section 8, Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872), deals with the devolution of revenue assignments only, with which alone the Government is concerned, and has nothing to do with private property. MUSSAMMAT MUL KAUR v. SARDAR MAHTAB SINGH. 16 P R 1890

15. Right of daughter married into another tribe to succeed in presence of her father's brothers—Uthera Jats of Kotgarh in the Dera Ismail Khan tahsil.

The plaintiffs, Uthera Mussalman Jats of tahsil Dera Ismail Khan, claimed the estate of their brother B. who died without male issue leaving an only daughter, the defendant, who had married into another tribe. For the defendant, it was contended that by Muhammadan Law she was entitled to inherit.

Held, that the entry in the Riwaj-i-am and the instances cited in the case were in accordance with the general principle of tribal succession, and that the defendant had failed to prove that, contrary to an almost universal custom, a daughter married into another tribe succeeds to her father's estate in preference to his near collaterals. SULTAN v. MUSSAMMAT SUBHAI. 73 P R 1893

16. Brahmins of mauza Kadirabad, tahsil Phalian, district Gujrat—Daughter—Collaterals.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Brahmins and high caste Hindus of the Phalian tahsil, Gujrat district, that daughters and their sons are excluded by collaterals.

No. 85 P. R. 1889 and No. 18 P. R. 1890, referred to. PRABH DIAL v. DEVI DIAL. 116 P R 1893

17. Succession of married daughter—Ganga Jats of Muzaffargarh district—Limitation—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, in a case the parties to which were Ganga Jats of the Muzaffargarh district, that a daughter who has married outside her own khandan loses whatever right she might have had by custom to succeed to her father's estate. MUSSAMMAT FATIMA v. KHANDA. 25 P R 1895

18. Succession of daughter in presence of collaterals related in the fifth degree—Pathans of Kala Afghanan, Batala tahsil, Gurdaspur district—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, in a case the parties to which were Pathans of Kala Afghanan in the Batala tahsil of Gurdaspur district, that collaterals related in the fifth degree were entitled by custom to succeed in preference to daughters. MUSSAMMAT JIWI v. SARDAR KHAN. 39 P R 1895

19. Succession of daughter—Agarwal Banias of Bhiwani in Hissar district.

Found, that among Agarwal Banias of Bhiwani in the Hissar district, daughters are not entitled by custom to succeed in preference to collaterals. NARSINGH DASS v. RAM LAL. 55 P R 1895

20. Succession of daughter in presence of near collaterals—Lodhi Pathans of Hoshiarpur district.

In a case in which the parties were Lodhi Pathans of the Hoshiarpur district, found, that the onus of proving that daughters were entitled to succeed to ancestral property in the presence of near collaterals was on defendants, and that they had failed to sustain it. NAJABAT KHAN v. ABDUL RAHMAN KHAN. 27 P R 1896

21. Succession of daughter in presence of brother—Telis of Lahore—Muhammadan Law.

In a case in which the parties were Telis of Lahore district, held, that the parties were governed by custom and not by Muhammadan Law, and that as they were members of a labouring and quasi-agricultural class, there was a strong presumption (which plaintiffs had failed to rebut) that brothers excluded daughters in the succession to house property. RAM MAL v. MUSSAMMAT MIRAN. 30 P R 1896

22. Succession of daughters—Muhammadan Sayyal Rajputs of Jhang district.

Found, that by custom among Muhammadan Sayyal Rajputs of Jhang district, a daughter, who is married to a distant agnate, is not entitled to succeed in preference to male collaterals. BAKHU v. AMIR. 47 P R 1896

23. Succession of daughter.

Held, that no special custom had been proved to exist among the parties whereby daughters were entitled to succeed in the presence of male collaterals. MUSSAMMAT GULAB KHATAN v. MIAN MUHAMMAD. 5 P R 1898

24. Respective rights of daughters and collaterals—Sabzani Lund Bilochis, Dera Ghazi Khan district—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that defendants had failed to prove that, by custom among Sabzani Lund Bilochis of Dera Ghazi Khan district, daughters are entitled to succeed in preference to collaterals.

In such cases the mere fact that the daughter has married in the tribe and is in actual possession of the land gives her no right of succession superior to that of the collaterals. MUSSAMMAT EMNA v. SAJAWAL KHAN. 37 P R 1898

25. Succession to sonless proprietor—Exclusion of brother and brother's son by daughters—Agricultural Sayyads of Jullundur tahsil—Burden of proof.

Found, that defendant upon whom the onus rested had failed to prove that by custom among agricultural Sayyads of Jullundur tahsil, a daughter married out of the family excludes a brother or brother's son. NABI BAKHSH AND OTHERS v. MUSSAMMAT ZEBO. 86 P R 1900

26. Succession of daughter in preference to a collateral related in the fifth degree—Pathans of Hoshiarpur—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, in a case the parties to which were Pathans of Hoshiarpur that the onus of proving that daughters were entitled to succeed to ancestral property in preference to a collateral related in the fifth degree was on defendant, who had failed to discharge it. An entry in a Riwaj-i-am unsupported by instances is not sufficient to override the ordinary custom.

Mussammat Jivi v. Sardar Khan (No. 39 P. R. 1895), Najabat Khan v. Abdul Rahman Khan (No. 27 P. R. 1896), approved and Chirag Din v. Mamman (No. 28 P. R. 1893), referred to. NIZAM DIN v. SHAHAB-UD-DIN AND OTHERS. 108 P R 1900

27. Custom—Inheritance—Aroras of Kasur, District Lahore—Exclusion of daughters by brother—Burden of proof.

In a case the parties to which were non-agricultural Aroras, a shop-keeping and money-lending class of Kasur, Lahore district, held that the onus of proving that in matters of succession they were governed by a family custom whereby brothers excluded daughters was upon plaintiffs, who asserted it. Found upon the evidence that the plaintiffs had proved that by custom in his brotherhood or family, brothers of a deceased sonless proprietor were entitled by custom to succeed in preference to a daughter. Mussammat Lacho Bai v. Asa Nand (No. 144 P. R. 1882), Mokand v. Bal Singh (No. 85 P. R. 1884) and Pitamber v. Ganesha Ram (No. 148 P. R. 1890), referred to. ANANT RAM v. HUKMAN MAL 62 P R 1902

28. Custom—Inheritance—Jatoi Biloch of the Muzaffargarh district—Right of sister in presence of daugher—Muhammadan Law.

In a case in which the parties were Jatoi Biloch of the Muzaffargarh district, held, that the parties were governed by Muhammadan Law and not by custom and that a sister of a sonless proprietor was entitled to inherit half of the property as a residuary, the other half going to the daughter or a sharer. MUSSAMMAT BAKHT WADI v. SAYAR KHAND. 66 P R 1902

29. Custom—Inheritance—Succession of daughters in presence of distant collaterals—Naru Rajputs of Mamun Mazra, Thanesar tahsil, Karnal district.

Held, that defendants had failed to prove that by custom among Naru Rajputs of Mamun Mazra in the Thanesar tahsil of 1105

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

M.—EXCLUSION OF DAUGHTERS—concld.

Karnal District, daughters are entitled to succeed to ancestral property in preference to collaterals related in the fifth degree. SAMANDA v. MUSSAMMAT NURBI.

36 P R 1905

30. Custom—Inheritance—Right of daughter to succeed to her father in presence of collaterals—Muhammadan Jats, tahsil Leiah, Dera Ismail Khan District.

Found, that defendant had failed to prove that by custom among Muhammadan Jats of the Leiah tahsil in the Dera Ismail Khan District a daughter is entitled to succeed to her father's estate to the exclusion of his near collaterals. MALIK NUR v. AISHAN.

105 P R 1906

31. Custom—Inheritance—Sarsut Brahmans of Gurdaspur—Right of collaterals to succeed in preference to daughters and their sons—Hindu Law.

Held, that in matters of succession Sarsut Brahmans of Gurdaspur are governed by the general rules of agricultural custom and not by Hindu Law, and consequently daughters and their sons are excluded by near agnates of the last male proprietor. NANAK CHAND v. BASHESHAR NATH.

3 P R 908

32. Custom—Inheritance—Brahmans of Rawal in the Rawalpindi tahsil—Right of collaterals to succeed in preference to daughter—Hindu Law.

Held, that in matters of succession Brahmans of Rawal in the Rawalpindi district are governed by the general rules of agricultural custom and not by Hindu Law, and consequently daughters are excluded by near agnates of the last male proprietor. DEVI DITTA SINGH v. DROPTI.

56 P R 1909

33. Held, that by a special custom among Agarwal banias of Ludhiana city, near collaterals exclude the daughter in succession to ancestral property. CHAMPAT RAI v. DAULAT RAM.

68 P R 1909

N.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTER'S HUSBAND (KHANADAMAD)

1. Khanadamad (resident son-in-law) Gujrat.

Found, by the custom of Parganah Gujrat, that a son-in-law, who has been brought up and married in his father-in-law's house, has lived there continuously to his death, and been joint in cultivation with him, is entitled to succeed to his land with the consent of the widow, and in accordance with the expressed desire of the deceased proprietor. SHAH MUHAMMAD v. MUSSAMMAT IMAM BIBI.

56 P R 1878

1106

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

N.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTER'S HUSBAND (KHANADAMAD)—contd.

2. Ancestral property of natural family, right to claim in.

Held no custom to the contrary being proved, that a khanadamad (resident son-in-law) or his descendants are not precluded from claiming a share in the ancestral property of their natural family, merely by reason of the fact that such khanadamad had succeeded to the estate of his father-in-law. BADHAWA v. GANDHELLA.

68 P R 1878

3. Gujrat district—Varaitch tribe—Khanadamad, (resident son-in-law)—Appointment of heir.

Found, by the custom of the Varaitch tribe in the Gujrat district, that a childless propietor may take his daughter's husband to live with him and cultivate his land for him and inherit it when he dies. KARIM BAKSH v. HAKU.

24 P R 1879

4. Mauzah Allowal, Ludhiana district—Land given to "khana-damad"—Failure of direct heirs of donee.

Found, that there is no established custom in mauzah Allowal, in the Ludhiana district, by which land given to a "khanadamad" on failure of direct lineal heirs of the donee reverts to the heirs of the donor. FOUJA v. KASU.

122 P R 1879

5. Sahus of Montgomery—Khana-Damad.
Found, that among Mahomedan Sahus of the Montgomery district, there is no established custom (at variance with the general custom of the Punjab) which renders the selection of a son-in-law as heir invalid or confers on him no rights of inheritance. AHMAD v. DAD.

66 P R 1880

6. Daughter and daughter's husband—Khanadamad—Appointment of heir—Daughter's right to succeed in preference to collaterals.

Where the Courts below found, that when the defendant was married, her father took her and her husband to live with him in his own house, intending to make them his own heirs, and it appeared that on the death of the defendant's father her mother succeeded and held for 15 years, but the defendant and her husband continued to live with the mother, the latter managing the cultivation, held, that the defendant was entitled to succeed in preference to the plaintiffs, who were collateral relatives. Shah Muhammad v. Mussammat Imam Bibi (No. 56 P. R. 1878, Civil), and Karim Bakhsh v. Haku (No. 24 P. R. 1879, Civil) cited. MUHAMDA v. MUSSAMMAT GAURIAN.

162 P R 1882

7. Khana-damad—Right of daughter to succeed where she and her husband were not actually married till after her father's death—Intention of deceased.

1107

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

N.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTER'S HUSBAND (KHANADAMAD)—contd.

In a suit by the nephews of one F. B deceased, to recover his land from his daughter, the defendant, the latter pleaded that her father, the said F. B. had brought her husband, B. from another district, and married him to her, and kept him in his house, as a resident son-in-law. It appeared that though there was an express intention on the part of F. B. to make B. his son-in-law, in furtherance of which he had brought B. to live with him, the marriage was not actually effected in the lifetime of F. B. on account of the youth of the parties, but by his widow after his decease.

Held, that as the intention of F. B. to make B. his son-in-law was proved, the non-performance of the marriage in F. B.'s lifetime was no bar to the defendant's succession. Karim Bakhsh v. Haku (No. 24 P. R. 1879, Civil) and Muhamda v. Mussammat Gaurian (No. 162 P. R. 1882, Civil) referred to. RULDU v. MUSSAMMAT HYAT BIBI.

133 P R 1883

8. Mussalman Varaichs of Gujrat—Rights of daughters whose husbands have lived with deceased proprietor—Collaterals.
In a suit the parties to which were Mussalman Varaichs of tahsil Gujrat the plaintiffs who were cousins of one J. deceased, claimed his land in preference to his three daughters, the defendants. It was found that two of the defendants and their husbands had lived with J. one from her marriage and the other for some years up to J.'s death, the third daughter and her husband not so residing with J.

Held, that the plaintiffs were not entitled to the land claimed, as at least one of the defendants had by custom a title superior to that of the plaintiff. Ditta v. Khudayar (No. 46 P. R. 1878, Civil), Shah Muhammad v. Mussammat Imam Bibi (No. 56 P. R. 1878, Civil), Jowahir v. Faiz Bakhsh (No. 137 P. R. 1879, Civil), Husain Bakhsh v. Ghulam Kadir (No. 65 P. R. 1880, Civil) Gul Ahmed v. Sahibzada (No. 45 P. R. 1881, Civil), Imamdin v. Nurdin No. 85 P. R. 1881, Civil), Mehr Din v. Mussammat Neki (No. 67 P. R. 1882, Civil), and Muhamda v. Mussammat Gaurian (No. 162 P. R. 1882), Civil), cited. NATHU v. MUSSAMMAT KARMBHARI.

15 P R 1884

9. Wes Jats of Phalian tahsil, Gujrat district—Rights of married daughters—Khanadamad—Nephew.

Found, that among the Wes Jats of the Phalian tahsil of the Gujrat district, the fact that a sonless proprietor has kept his daughter and her husband in his house and has during his lifetime placed them in cultivating possession of a portion of his landed estate, intending them to be his heirs to that extent, is sufficient by custom to defeat the claims of a brother's son to inherit that share of the estate. Waga v. Mussammat Mehur Beebee (No. 78 P. R. 1868, Civil), Mahomed v. Walidad (No. 164 P. R. 1879, Civil), Mehr Din v. Mussammat Neki (No. 67 P. R. 1882, Civil), and Sultan v. Fatah Din (No. 127 P. R. 1883, Civil) referred to. JOWAYA v. MUSSAMMAT FAZLAN. 45 P R 1885

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

N.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTER'S HUSBAND (KHANA-DAMAD)—contd.

10. Jats of Varaich got of tahsil Phalian—Property gifted to khana-damad—Succession to such property as between collaterals of donor and donee.

Found, that no special custom exists among Muhammadan Jats of the Varaich got of tahsil Phalian in the Gujrat district, by which property gifted to a khanadamad who dies without issue, descends to the collateral heirs of the donor in preference to the collaterals of the donee. Fouja v. Kisu (No. 122 P. R. 1879, Civil), Dasaundha Singh v. Mussammat Partab Kour (No. 53 P. R. 1882, Civil) Gogan v. Taloka (No. 163 P. R. 1882, Civil) Ditta v. Muhammad Bakhsh (No. 146 P. R. 1884, Civil), Jowahir Singh v. Amrik Singh (No. 9 P. R. 1885, Civil) and Mangat v. Wazir Singh (No. 82 P. R. 1885, Civil) cited. ATRA v UMRA. 1 P R 1886

11. Among Awans of the Kharian tahsil of the Gujrat district gifts to daughters whose husbands are resident with the donor are valid by custom, though gifts to daughters whose husbands are not so resident are invalid. JIWAN v. WAZIR. 39 P R 1887

12. Among Gujars of the Gujrat district no custom had been proved to exist extending to the husband of a niece the principle of the species of quasi adoption under which a man succeeds as khanadamad which is usually confined to the case of a husband to a man's own daughter. UMRA v. MUSSAMMAT BEGAM. 8 P R 1888

13. Among Lalla Jats of Gujrat no custom had been proved to exist entitling sister's sons to claim on the ground that they had lived with the deceased like khanadamads. FAZLA v. ALLA BAKHSH. 128 P R 1890

14. Chauhans (Muhammadan Rajputs) of Jhelum tahsil.

In a suit the parties to which were Chauhans (Muhammadan Rajputs) of Gara Uttam Singh in the Jhelum tahsil, held, that by custom a deed of gift by a sonless proprietor in favour of his five sons-in-law was valid in the presence of nephews of the donor.

No. 53 P. R. 1884 and 132 P. R. 1890, referred to. KARM BAKHSH v. FATTA. 108 P R 1891

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

N.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTER'S HUSBAND (KHANA-DAMAD)—contd.

15. Gujars of Kharian tahsil (Resident son-in-law.

Found, that among Gujars of the Kharian tahsil gifts to daughters whose husbands are resident with the donor are valid by custom. No. 39 P. R. 1887, referred to. The fact of the daughter's doli being taken to her father-in-law's house in another village after her marriage did not operate to render the gift invalid. MUHAMMAD v. MUSSAMMAT HAYAT BIBI. 109 P R 1891

16. The course of decisions, that among Muhammadan Jats and Gujars of the Gujrat district—whose customs in this respect appear to be identical—gifts to daughters whose husbands are khana-damads, are permitted, but not gifts to daughters whose husbands do not answer the above description, referred to and followed.

No. 39 P. R. 1887 and No. 109 P. R. 1891, referred to. KAMMAN v. NATHU. 96 P R 1892

17. Found, in a suit the parties to which were Arains of tahsil Zira in the Ferozepore district, that according to the custom of the tribe a khana-damad may be appointed to succeed to the estate of a sonless proprietor to the exclusion of his brother and nephews. PIR BAKHSH v. ISA. 107 P R 1892

18. Found in a suit the parties to which were Manjh Rajputs (Mussalmans) of Raisur tahsil and District Ludhiana, that no custom was established by which a resident son-in-law succeeded as heir to his father-in-law in the presence of collaterals. RUSTAM KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT JIO. 139 P R 1892

19. Khana-damad—Title of, to father-in-law's land in presence of collaterals—Burden of proof.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Faoni Rajputs (Muhammadans) of mauza Chaper Chari in the Kharar tahsil of the Umballa District, that by custom a khana-damad has no title in his wife's right or his own to hold the land of his wife's father against the collaterals of the latter, after the death of the father's widow.

The burden of proof is upon a resident son-in-law who claims to have, as such a customary right of inheritance, to prove that he has by custom the right claimed to the exclusion of the ordinary heirs.

Semble.—It seems well established now that where the usage of khana-damad is recognized as giving rise to customary rights, the purpose is to benefit the daughter's sons, the daughter and her husband only benefitting incidentally. GHULAM BHIKH v. MASSANIA. 22 P R 1893

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

N.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTER'S HUSBAND (KHANA-DAMAD)—contd.

20. Among Bariar Jats of tahsil Sialkot gift of whole ancestral land to the daughter of a brother who with her husband had resided in the donor's house and rendered him service held to be invalid. MUSSAMMAT TABAN v. BHAGA. 33 P R 1893

21. Right of khanadamad—Gujars of the Awan got, tahsil Kharian, Gujrat district.

Found in a suit, the parties to which were Gujars of the Awan got tahsil Kharian Gujrat district, that the custom relied upon by the defendant, namely, that as resident son-in-law (although not resident from the date of the marriage) he was entitled to inherit the estate of his deceased father-in-law, was not established, the evidence in the present case carrying the custom no farther than that laid down in the Riwaj-i-am and previously reported decisions of this Court, namely, that if a daughter and son-in-law are resident continuously from the time of marriage the land goes to the daughter and her sons in preference to collaterals even without a gift.

No. 56 P. R. 1878, No. 24 P. R. 1879, No. 162 P. R. 1882, and No. 15 P. R. 1884, referred to. AMANULLA v. GHULAM MUHAMMAD. 134 P R 1893

22. Isa Khel (or Niazi) Pathans of the Bannu district - Rule of succession to land not ancestral but acquired in a village to which a member of the family has migrated from the village of origin in a different tahsil.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were Isa Khel (or Niazi) Pathans of the Bannu district that succession to the land in dispute, which was not ancestral but acquired and situate in a village to which a member of the family had migrated from the village of origin in a different tahsil, was governed by the custom of the Mianwali tahsil in which it was situate.

Held also, that the plaintiffs as collaterals of the deceased owner had not proved a better title than that of the defendant the khana-damads. MUHAMMAD AZIM KHAN v. HASSAN KHAN. 138 P R 1893

23. Muhammadan Basra Jats of mauza Jaguwala in the Raya tahsil are not competent to make a gift to a daughter without the consent of the next heirs, even when the donee is found to be the wife of a khana-damad. MUSSAMMAT PARDHAN v. WAZIRA. 11 P R 1894

24. A Bangial Jat of Gujrat district can make a gift of all his land to a daughter whose husband is a resident son-in-law, notwithstanding that the residence has not been since the date of marriage. HASSAN MUHAMMAD v. ILAM DIN. 50 P R 1894

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

N.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTER'S HUSBAND (KHANA-DAMAD)—contd.

25. Gift by sonless proprietor to daughter's and sister's son—Gaurewaha Rajputs, Garshankar tahsil, Hoshiarpur district—Succession of khana-damad.

Found, that by custom among Gaurewaha Rajputs of Garshankar tahsil in the Hoshiarpur District, gifts by a sonless proprietor to a sister's son or grandson and to a daughter's son are inadmissible in the absence of an adoption of the donee.

No. 173 P. R. 1883, No. 174 P. R. 1883, No. 152 P. R. 1884, No. 113 P. R. 1891, and No. 50 P. R. 1893 (cited as No. 813 of 1891, unpublished) referred to. SULTAN BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT MAHIAN. 64 P R 1894

26. Gift by sonless proprietor to khana-damad—Awans of Sialkot district—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that by custom among Awans of the Sialkot district a sonless proprietor is competent to make a gift of one-half of his land in favour of a resident son-in-law who has inherited no share in his own father's land.

No. 39 P. R. 1887, cited. ALI BAKHSH v. NATHU. 93 P R 1894

27. Gift to resident son-in-law—Heritable interest—Awans of Sialkot district—Onus probandi.

One F. who was the grandson of F. K., an Awan of the Jand got of the Sialkot tahsil, married one of his daughters to H. M., an Awan of a different got and village, and in 1867 made a gift of land by deed in his favour and delivered over possession to him. This gift the kinsmen of F. descended from the said F. K. sought to set aside, but their suit was dismissed after a reference to arbitration. On the death of H. M. the donee, without issue, defendants who were the collaterals of F. descended from the common ancestor, took possession of the land gifted as aforesaid, whereupon plaintiffs, the brothers of the deceased donee, sued to recover possession as his heirs. The lower Courts having laid the burden of proof upon the defendants and decreed plaintiff's claim, defendants appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, with reference to the deed of gift and the entry in the Riwaj-i-am, that the gift in question having been made to H. M. in his character of resident daughter's husband, and the presumption in the case of such gifts ordinarily being that the purpose of the donor is to make a settlement for the benefit of the daughter's sons, plaintiffs, upon whom the onus probandi rested, had failed to prove that H. M. had taken an interest heritabe by his collateral kinsmen.

No. 19 P. R. 1887, No. 3 P. R. 1888, No. 12 P. R. 1892 (F. B.), referred to. MIRAN BAKHSH v. ALA DITTA. 126 P R 1894

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

N.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTER'S HUSBAND (KHANA-DAMAD)—contd.

28. Succession—Nature of khana-damad's estate—Varaiches of tahsil Gujrat—Riwaj-i-am.

The parties in this case were Varaiches of Gujrat tahsil, and the plaintiffs who were related to the donor, Nur, in the fourth degree, sued to contest the right of defendant, a resident son-in-law, to retain after the death of his wife certain land which the said Nur had by will directed his widow to make over to his daughter and her husband, the defendant. The point for decision was as to the rights of a resident son-in-law in a case where the daughter of the proprietor had died without male offspring before her husband.

Held, that the rights of a resident son-in-law are the same, however he may have been appointed whether by gift to himself or by gift to his wife or by the expressed wishes of his father-in-law that he should succeed, the condition of residence having in all cases to be fulfilled, and that he is entitled to hold for life, irrespective of the failure to beget male offspring or of the decease of his wife during his lifetime.

No. 39 P. R. 1887, and No. 22 P. R. 1893, referred to. MAHLA v. SHAH MUHAMMAD. 134 P R 1894

29. Among Gujars of the Gujrat district, a married daughter is entitled to succeed her father, a sonless proprietor, by custom, in a case where though no definite act of donation is proved it is a fair inference from the established facts that the sonless proprietor settled that daughter and her husband in his house and on his land with a view to their succeeding him as his heirs to the exclusion of his collaterals. MUSSAMMAT BAGGI v. MAMUN. 31 P R 1895

30. Gift by sonless proprietor to married daughter—Khanadamad—Muhammadan Jats of Gujrat District.

Found, in a case, the parties to which were Muhammadan Jats of the Gujrat District, that a gift, followed by possession, by a sonless proprietor to a grand-daughter living with him, whose husband was a ghar-jawai, entitled the said grand-daughter and her sons to succeed to the donor's estate upon his death. KHAN MUHAMMAD v. ALAM. 92 P R 1895

31. Gift by a sonless Muhammadan Guman Jat of Tarn Taran tahsil, Amritsar district, of all his property in favour of his son-in-law, who was also his sister's son, was valid by custom. KHAN v. HIRA. 98 P R 1895

32. Gift by sonless proprietor to daughter's husband—Right of donee's children by second wife to succeed—Hindu Jats of Delhi tahsil.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

N.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTER'S HUSBAND (KHANA-DAMAD)—contd.

Plaintiffs sued for recovery of certain land which had originally been gifted by one D. to his resident son-in-law, S., who had died a few weeks before suit. Defendants, who were the sons of S. by a wife other than the daughter of the said D., contended that the gift in favour of their father was absolute, while plaintiffs contended that the gift was strictly conditional for the maintenance of D.'s daughter and any children she might have by S.

Held, following the rule laid down in No. 12 P. R. 1892 (F. B.), that on the death of S., plaintiffs, as the collaterals of D., were entitled to succeed to the said land in preference to defendants, who were not the "male children" of S. within the meaning of the ruling in No. 134 P. R. 1894. NIHAL v. MOHLAR. 19 P R 1897

33. Succession of married daughters whose husbands were khana-damads—Chohan Gujars of Kharian tahsil, Gujrat district—Evidence.

The true use of the khana-damad in customary law being to pass on the inheritance to the daughter's sons, there is no reason why the property of a sonless proprietor should not devolve upon several daughters, and through them on their descendants, provided that the conditions required by custom to create a valid title are satisfied.

Found, on the facts of the case, that the husbands of both his married daughters had been received by the sonless proprietor into his house as khana-damads with the intention of securing the succession to his estate to the said daughters and their respective sons, and that there was nothing opposed to the principles of custom in such action on the part of the said proprietor. DITTA v. MUSSAMMAT FAZLAN. 35 P R 1897

34. Right of son-in-law, whose wife has predeceased her father, to succeed—Girths of Kangra tahsil.

Found, after a remand for further inquiry, that, according to the custom of the Girths of Kangra tahsil, when the wife of a resident son-in-law predeceases her father and leaves no sons, her husband on the death of her father is not entitled to succeed, either absolutely or for life, to the latter's immovable ancestral property. BHOTU v. LAHRU. 54 P R 1897

35. Gift by widow in favour of daughter married after death of widow's husband—Khana-damadi—Gujars of Gujrat—Riwaj i-am.

In a case, in which the parties were Gujars of Gujrat district, found that the right under which a landowner has to make his daughter and her issue heirs in khana-damadi cases cannot be extended in favour of such landowner's widow, and that the widow is not entitled by custom to gift her late husband's land to her daughter. IBRAHIM v. MUSSAMMAT FATIMA. 67 P R 1898

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

N.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTER'S HUSBAND (KHANA-DAMAD—concld.

36. Gift by widow in favour of deceased husband's brother's daughter—Arains of Ludhiana tahsil—Khana-damadi.

In a case in which the parties were Arains of the Ludhiana tahsil, found, that a widow in possession of her deceased husband's estate for her life was not competent by custom to make a gift of a portion thereof to the daughter of her husband's brother in the presence of the said brother's son and other collaterals.

There is no recognized custom in the Punjab according to which mere residence of a daughter and her husband in the house of her father from the day of her marriage, there being also sons, would confer on the daughter and her sons any right of succession, the essential feature of the custom of khana-damadi being that, in default of male issue, a proprietor may take his daughter and her husband to live with him in order to supply the want of male issue. MUSSAMMAT LADO v. NABI BAKHSH. 6 P R 1900

37. Custom—Inheritance—Right of married daughters—Khana-damad—Exclusion of brothers and nephews—Muhammadan Bangial Jats of Kharian tahsil, Gujrat District.

Among Bangial Jats of Kharian tahsil, Gujrat District, by custom a married daughter is entitled to succeed her father, a sonless proprietor, who settled her and her husband in his house in order that they might perform services for him and manage his cultivation, intending to pass his estate to her and her sons to the exclusion of his brothers and nephews, even though the daughter's husband had been a resident son-in-law in his first wife's family, where the first father-in-law died before the second marriage.

Shah Muhammad v. Mussammat Imam Bibi (56 P. R. 1878), Karim Bakhsh v. Haku (24 P. R. 1879), Mehr Din v. Mussammat Niki (67 P. R. 1882) Muhammada v. Mussammat Gauriar (162 P. R. 1882), Nathu v. Mussammat Karam Bhari (15 P. R. 1884) Jowaya v. Mussammat Fazlan (45 P. R. 1885) and Mussammat Baggi v. Mamun (31 P. R. 1895) cited. SAMMAN AND OTHERS v. ALA BAKHSH AND ANOTHER. 106 P R 1901

38. Custom—Inheritance—Right of a son-in-law of a khanadamad to succeed—Gujars of Gujrat District.

Found, in a case the parties to which were Gujars of the Gujrat District that by custom the son-in-law of a khanadamad was not entitled even if he had been appointed khanadamad by his father-in-law to succeed as such to the estate of the father-in-law of the latter. SHARFO v. RAMZAN. 14 P R 1907

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

O.—SUCCESSION OF SISTERS AND THEIR DESCENDANTS—contd.

1. Sucsession of female—Sisters.

Sisters are not heirs by the custom of the Sikh Jats; the custom following the Hindu Law. MUSSAMMAT UTTUR KOUR v. ATMA SINGH. 47 P R 1870

2. Jats of Hoshiarpur district—Sister's son—Collaterals—Onus probandi.

The plaintiffs, who were the great grandsons of the common ancestor of themselves and the deceased, sued the defendant, a sister's son, for possession by right of inheritance of the deceased's property. No custom was proved under which a sister's son took as heir to the exclusion of collaterals as nearly related to the deceased as the plaintiffs.

Held, that the burden of proving such a custom clearly lay upon the defendant, and that not having discharged himself of it, the claim of the male collaterals must succeed. WAZIRA v. NATHA. 12 P R 1882

3. Bhatti section of Arains, Lahore and Amritsar—Sister—Brothers' sons.

Held, upholding the findings of the lower Courts, that no established custom exists among the Bhatti section of Arains in Lahore and Amritsar whereby sisters are excluded from inheritance by brothers' sons. MIRAN BAKSH v. MUSSAMMAT ALLAJAWAI. 25 P R 1882

4. Chanda Jats of tahsil Jagraon, district Ludhiana—Succession to land given by brother to his sister, who had been abandoned by her husband, for maintenance—Right of heirs of sister's husband to succeed in preference to those of donor.

Held, in a suit the parties to which were Chanda Jats of the Jagraon tahsil in the Ludhiana district, that the defendants had failed to establish a special custom, under which the succession to land, which had been given by a brother to his sister, who had been abandoned by her husband, for the maintenance of herself and her son, reverted on the death of the sister's son without direct lineal heirs, to the heirs of the donor, instead of going to those of the sister's husband. Fouja v. Kasu (No. 122 P. R. 1879, Civil) cited. GOGAN v. TALOKA. 163 P R 1882

5. Gujars of tahsil Kharian, zilla Gujrat—Right of collaterals to exclude sister of last owner—Muhammadan law.

In a suit for certain land, the parties to which were Gujars of the Kharian tahsil of the Gujrat district, held that the plaintiffs, who were male collaterals related in the 6th and 7th degree, had failed to prove that they were by custom entitled to exclude the defendant, who was the sister of the last owner of the property.

Held, therefore, applying the Muhammadan law, that the defendant was entitled to half of the inheritance, and the plaintiffs to the remaining half as residuaries. MAKHAN v. MUSSAMMAT NUR BHARI. 116 P R 1884

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

O.—SUCCESSION OF SISTERS AND THEIR DESCENDANTS—contd.

6. Muhammadan Gujars of the Rupar tahsil—Preferential title of female relation of last owner over co-proprietor of the village.

Held, in a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan Gujars of the Rupar tahsil, that no custom was proved by which a female relation so close in degree as a sister and first cousin of the last two male owners respectively was excluded by a co-proprietor of the village who was not even a distant agnate. MUSSAMMAT GHAUSAN v. SHAHZADA. 136 P R 1884

7. Sayads of Kharkhoda, Rohtak District—Sister's sons and male agnates.

Held, that by the custom applicable to the Sayads of Kharkhoda, Rohtak District, sister's sons inherit before male agnates as far removed as second cousins of the deceased. MIR MUMTAZ ALI v. JAWAD ALI. 82 P R 1887

8. Kambohs of Lahore District—Sister's sons—Collaterals.

In a suit, the parties to which were Kambohs of the Lahore District, held that the plaintiffs had failed to establish a custom whereby the sons of a sister of a sonless proprietor inherited ancestral land in preference to an agnate as nearly related as a second cousin of the last male owner.

Mussammat Bhagan v. Gahna (No. 177 P. R. 1883), Sawan Singh v. Nihal Singh (No. 48 P. R. 1885) and Budhu v. Chiragh (No. 3 P. R. 1886), cited. THAKUR SINGH v. TARA SINGH. 40 P R 1888

9. Arains of Lahore District—Niece—Sister.

In a suit, the parties to which were Arains of the Balli got resident in the Lahore District, held that the plaintiff had failed to prove any custom by which, as a niece, she was entitled to succeed in preference to sister of the last owner.

Miran Bakhsh v. Mussammat Allajawai (No. 25 P. R. 1882) cited. MUSSAMMAT IMAM BIBI v. MUSSAMMAT FAZAL BIBI. 180 P R 1888

10. Sayads of Kharkhoda (Rohtak)—Sister's son does not inherit before first cousins on father's side.

Found, that by the custom applicable to Sayads of Kharkhoda in the Rohtak District, a sister's son does not succeed before a paternal uncle's son.

No. 82 P. R. 1887, distinguished and commented upon. BUNYAD ALI v. FAIZ MUHAMMAD. 173 P R 1889

11. Ghelan Arain of Lahore District—Sister succeeds in preference to cousins.

Found, that by the custom governing the Ghelan Arains of the Lahore District, sister of a deceased proprietor succeeds in preference to his cousins. MUSSAMMAT ZAINAB v. AMIR. 174 P R 1889

12. Hindu Law—Sister's grandson— Bandhu—Brahmins of Multan.

Per curiam.—By custom obtaining among the Brahmins of Multan, a sister's grandson is entitled to succeed to the estate left by his grandmother's brother.

Per BENTON, J.—He is also entitled to succeed as a bandhu under Hindu Law, which presumably govern Brahmins, the enumeration of bandhus given in the commentaries not being exhaustive but illustrative only. MULTANI CHAND v. LALU MAL. 180 P R 1889

13. Brahmins of Gujrat—Right of sisters to succeed with sister's son.

Found, that by custom obtaining among Brahmans of Gujrat, a sister does not succeed together with sister's sons to the estate of her deceased brother. MUSSUMMAT DYAN v. JAI RAM. 47 P R 1890

14. Sheikhs of Jhajjar, Rohtak District —Succession of sister in preference to half brothers.

In a suit the parties to which were Sheikhs of Jhajjar, Rohtak District, found that no custom had been established whereby sisters succeeded in preference to the half-brother of the deceased proprietor. AHMAD ALI v. MUSSAMMAT FATIMA. 163 P R 1890

15. Moghuls of Kharkhoda, Rohtak District—Sister and sister's sons—Burden of proof.

Found, in the suit, the parties to which were the descendants of a common ancestor, a Moghul resident in the village or kasba of Kharkhoda in the Rohtak District, that it was proved that, by the custom of the village, a sister and a sister's son excluded descendants of the deceased's grandfather.

Held, also that the burden of proof lay in the first instance on the sister and sister's sons claiming in opposition to the male issue of the grandfather; but that they had made out a prima facie case shifting the onus to the other side.

As a general rule, by agricultural custom, females or the issue of females do not inherit ancestral land. Occasionally, daughters and daughters' sons do inherit after their father in the absence of sons. More rarely, sisters and their issue inherit after brothers. The right of females and their issue, to succeed when it exists, generally exists only in presence of remote collaterals, and the sons of a grandfather of deceased are not remote collaterals. FAIZ-UD-DIN v. MUSSAMMAT WAJIB-UN-NISSA. 71 P R 1892

16. Right of sister and sister's son—Dhariwal Jats, Fazilka tahsil, Ferozepore District.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were Dhariwal Jats of the Fazilka tahsil of the Ferozepore District, that no custom was established by which a sister and her son were entitled to inherit acquired landed property in preference to collaterals descended from the grandfather of the deceased owner. SOHNA SINGH AND MUSSAMMAT KISHNO v. KAHAN. 113 P R 1892

17. Bukhari Sayads of Jhang District.

In a case, the parties to which were Bukhari Sayad agriculturists of the Jhang District, found, that plaintiffs had failed to prove any custom whereby a sister's son was entitled to succeed to the exclusion of a collateral related in the fifth degree to the deceased proprietor. MUSSAMMAT JINDWADDI v. HASSAN SHAH. 41 P R 1895

18. Succession of sister's grandson in presence of male collaterals—Lodi Pathans of Jullundur District—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that among Lodi Pathans of the Jullundur District the grandsons of a sister of the last male owner are not entitled to succeed to ancestral property in the presence of near male collaterals of the deceased owner. FATTEH MUHAMMAD KHAN v. DAULAT KHAN. 46 P R 1895

19. Sarsut Brahmins owning land in Tarn Taran tahsil, Amritsar District—Sister's son.

In a case in which the parties were Sarsut Brahmins owning land in Tarn Taran tahsil, Amritsar District, found, that by custom the sister's sons are entitled to succeed to a daughter who in the absence of male lineal descendants had inherited her father's property in preference to the brother of her deceased husband. JAI DIAL v. SANTU. 74 P R 1899

20. Custom—Inheritance—Channar Jats of tahsil Lodhran, District Mooltan—Exclusion of collaterals by sister of deceased—Muhammadan Law—Burden of proof—Riwaj-i-am—Punjab Laws Act 1872, section 5.

Held, that in a suit the parties to which were Channar Jats of tahsil Lodhran, District Mooltan, that the burden of proof lay, in the first instance, on the sister claiming in opposition to the collaterals, but that the rules of inheritance detailed in the Riwaj-i-am of the tahsil were sufficient to shift the burden of proof, and that the collaterals having failed to establish a custom by which the collaterals descended from the great-great-grandfather of the deceased owner were entitled to inherit landed property in preference to a sister, and that in the absence of a proved positive custom regulating their rights, rules of Muhammadan Law must be followed in accordance with the provisions of section 5 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872.

Mussammat Sardar Bibi v. Sayad Ali Shah (4 P. R. 1888), and Nasir-ud-din Shah v. Mussammat Lal Bibi (89 P. R. 1888), cited. SHERAN AND OTHERS v. MUSSAMMAT SHARMAN. 117 P R 1901

21. Custom—Inheritance—Bhatias of Bannu District—Right of sister to succeed for life or until marriage.

In a suit, the parties to which were Bhatias of the Bannu District, held, that a sister was entitled to succeed for life or until marriage to the estate of her deceased brother. WASNA RAM v. MUSSAMMAT UTTAM BAI. 79 P R 1903

22. Custom—Inheritance—Sister succeeds in preference to village community—Hindu Jats of mauza Raipur, Umballa District—Riwaj-i-am.

Found, that by custom among Jats of mauza Raipur, Umballa District, in the absence of near collaterals the sister of a deceased sonless proprietor was entitled to succeed in preference to the village proprietors. BISHEN SINGH v. BHAGWAN SINGH. 28 P R 1904

23. Custom—Inheritance—Sister's son—Ghirths of Tika Bonehr of the village of Baldhar in the Kangra District.

In a suit, the parties to which were Ghirths of Tika Bonehr of the village of Baldhar in the Kangra District, held, that a sister's son of a childless male proprietor, who had rendered service to the deceased owner, was by custom entitled to succeed to the estate left by him in preference to the owners of the Tika who were utter strangers to the deceased. Mussammat Dyan v. Jai Ram (47 P. R. 1890). Shaman v. Sardoha (61 P. R. 1898), referred to. BALLU v. GUR DYAL. 95 P R 1905

24. Custom—Inheritance—Right of sister's son to succeed in preference to the Jagirdar ala malik—Takhar Rajputs in Dada Siba jagir. Kangra District.

In a case the parties to which were Thakar Rajputs of the Dada Siba jagir in the Kangra District, held, that the defendant had failed to establish a custom whereby a sister's son inherited his maternal uncle's ancestral property in preference to the jagirdar ala malik. GURDITTA v. JAI SINGH. 72 P R 1907

25. Custom—Inheritance—Sister's right to succeed as a daughter of the penultimate male holder.

Held, by the Full Bench that among parties following customary law the position of a sister of a male proprietor without issue cannot be assimilated for purposes of inheritance to that of a daughter, and she must therefore in such matters be regarded as a sister of that proprietor and not as a daughter of his father. HAMIRA v. RAM SINGH. 134 P R 1907 F. B.

26. Custom—Inheritance—Dogars of Amritsar district—Sister succeeds to acquired property in preference to collaterals of the sixth degree.

Found, that by custom among Dogars of the Amritsar district a sister is entitled to inherit acquired landed property in preference to collaterals of the sixth degree. BHOLI v. KAHNA. 35 P R 1909

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

O.—SUCCESSION OF SISTERS AND THEIR DESCENDANTS —concld.

27. Custom—Inheritance—Sister succeeds in preference to collaterals—Panwars of mauza Bhotapir, tahsil Muzaffargarh.

Found, that among Panwars of mauza Bhotapir, tahsil Muzaffargarh, a sister succeeds to the ancestral property of a deceased proprietor in preference to his collaterals in the fifth degree. SAWAN v. SAHIB KHATUN. 44 P R 1909

28. Custom—Inheritance—Sister's right to succeed in preference to collaterals in the seventh degree—Afghans of mauza Nasran, tahsil Hoshiarpur.

Found, that the plaintiff, upon whom the onus rested, had failed to prove a custom whereby among Afghans of mauza Nasran, tahsil Hoshiarpur, a married sister was entitled to succeed to the ancestral property of her deceased brother in the presence of his male collaterals of the seventh degree. SAHIB v. NIAZ MUHAMMAD KHAN. 55 P R 1909

P.—SUCCESSION OF NEPHEWS AND NIECES.

1. Succession of males—Nephew excluded by brother—Rajputs.

The custom of the Rajputs is to allow a nephew, provided he has succeeded to his deceased father's estate, to share with his uncle the estate of a deceased uncle. GOPAL v. GHUSEETA. 63 P R 1871

2. Associated and disassociated nephews. It is the general custom that associated and disassociated nephews share equally in the estate of their deceased uncle. PHAGGAN v. BUTA SINGH. 9 P R 1877

3. Exclusion of daughter's son by nephews.

The question was whether nephews (Hindus) by custom excluded a daughter's son. The Lower Court found that they did; and on appeal to the Chief Court, LINDSAY, J. differed from this finding, but CAMPBELL, J. concurring in it, his judgment prevailed, and the appeal was dismissed under section 23, Act XXIII of 1861. MEHTAB SINGH v. PERTAB SINGH. 16 P R 1877

4. Muhammadans—Weavers of Jullundur—daughters—Succession of brothers' sons and grandsons—Ancestral house property.

Found that, by the custom among weavers of Jullundur, in the presence of daughters, brothers' sons and grandsons are not entitled to succeed to ancestral house property. MUSSAMMAT RABIA v. MAHOMED BAKSH. 69 P R 1878

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

P.—SUCCESSION OF NEPHEWS AND NIECES—contd.

5. Jats of Ludhiana district—Associated and disassociated nephews—Hindu Law—Joint Hindu family.

P. S. and his nephew J. (the only son of M. S. brother of P. S.), living as a joint Hindu family, owned certain land which was recorded in their joint names. Seven years ago P. S. died, when the entire holding was recorded as the sole property of J.

P. S. had another brother—D. S. who was separate; who died leaving H. S. (plaintiff) and D. sons, and two grandsons, G. and P. (plaintiffs), by a third son.

In a suit by H. S., G. and P. to recover the share of the estate of P. S. deceased, found that the custom of the Jats of the Ludhiana District did not exclude disassociated nephews from inheriting in the presence of associated nephews. Held, therefore that the plaintiffs were entitled to recover one-third of the estate of P. S. HAZARA v. JAMITA. 76 P R 1897

6. Hindu Jats of Mauza Sokiwar, tahsil Pasrur, District Sialkot—Right of representation—Association and disassociation.

In a suit, the parties to which were Hindu Jats of mauza Sokiwar, tahsil Pasrur, District, Sialkot, found that by custom grand-nephews and great-grand-nephews succeeded with nephews by right of representation, and that association with the deceased gave no preferential right of inheritance. CHET SINGH v. BUDHA SINGH. 129 P R 1890

7. Aroras of Dera Ismail Khan and Bhakkar—Exclusion of daughter by nephew—Rights of representation—Uncle and nephew.

In a suit among town Aroras of Dera Ismail Khan and Bhakkar, found that by custom (i) nephews succeed equally with brothers by right of representation, and (ii) that nephews succeed in preference to daughters to the ancestral and acquired immovable property of a sonless owner. PITAMBER v. GANESHA RAM. 148 P R 1890

8. Succession of niece—Arains of Lahore District.

In a case in which the parties were Arains of the Lahore District, found, that a niece is not entitled by custom to succeed in preference to a first cousin once removed. PIR BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT TABAN. 46 P R 1896

9. Custom, Inheritance—Tewari Brahmins of Amritsar city—Right of nephew to succeed in preference to daughter's son—Hindu Law.

Held, that plaintiff has failed to prove that Tewari Brahmins of the city of Amritsar are governed by custom, by which a daughter's son is excluded in succession by a nephew, and that in the absence of such custom the personal law of the parties (Hindu Law) must prevail according to which a nephew has no right to succeed in preference to a daughter's son.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

P.—SUCCESSION OF NEPHEWS AND NIECES—concld.

Chandika Bakhsh v. Muna Kanwar (I. L. R. XXIV All., 273), and Mussammat Mulo v. Phulo Missar (No. 108 P. R. 1888) cited. Prabh Dial v. Devi Dial (No. 116 P. R. 1893), and Mohan Lal v. Devi Das (No. 43 P. R. 1899), distinguished. MUSSAMMAT JAMNA DEVI v. CHUNI LAL. 30 P R 1903

10. Custom—Inheritance—Hindu zargars of Dagshai—Exclusion of nephews by daughter's son—Hindu Law.

In a case, the parties to which were non-agricultural Hindu zargars trading at Dagshai who had migrated from the Saharanpur District, held, in the absence of a special custom to the contrary, that in matters of succession they were governed by the ordinary Hindu Law, and that daughter's sons were consequently entitled to succeed in preference to nephews.

Nihal Singh v. Hira Singh (No. 98 P. R. 1889) and Radha Mal v. Mussammat Kirpi (No. 100 P. R. 1901), referred to. BARU v. MAKHAN. 61 P R 1903

11. *Collateral residing in another village or village proprietary body—Escheat—*Onsprobandi.

Held, that a nephew of a deceased proprietor, who does not reside in the village where the deceased left land and is not a proprietor in it, succeeds to his uncle's property in preference to the proprietors of the village—And that the initial onus, generally speaking, would lie on the proprietary body to show that they had a right to exclude a near agnatic relative of the deceased owner from the inheritance.

Held also, that a right of escheat to the proprietary body cannot be presumed to exist; it must be affirmatively proved. DASOUNDA SINGH v. MANGAL. 18 P R 1910

Q.—SUCCESSION OF COUSIN.

See CUSTOM VIII—INHERITANCE—K. DAUGHTERS. 68 P R 1887 60 P R 1889

1. Abbas Kheyl Pathans of Bannu tahsil —Right of representation—Children of first cousin who died before the deceased claiming to succeed with first cousins.

In a suit the parties to which were Abbas Kheyl Pathans of Bannu tahsil, found that the defendant, on whom, under the circumstances of the case, the burden of proof lay, had failed to prove that by custom first cousins of a deceased Pathan succeeded to his property to the exclusion of the children of a first cousin, who died before the deceased: MIR AZAM v. SHER DOST. 3 P R 1890

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

Q.—SUCCESSION OF COUSIN—concld.

2. Custom—Inheritance—Pathan agriculturists of the Bannu tahsil—Right of representation among collaterals.

Held, following the ruling in Civil Judgment No. 3 P. R. 1890, that the defendant had failed to establish any custom under which among Pathan agriculturists of tahsil Bannu, the nearest collaterals exclude those more remote in cases of collateral succession. PAINDA KHAN v. SHAHWALI KHAN. 99 P R 1893

3. Custom—Inheritance—Succession per stirpes—Mughal Khels of Bannu.

In a case, in which the parties were Mughal Khels of the Bannu District, and (as found by the Chief Court) governed by custom and not by Muhammadan Law, found, that, in the succession to a deceased unmarried female, the sons of her deceased brother were entitled to inherit per stirpes with her brother who was alive. AKBAR KHAN v. ZAFAR KHAN. 51 P R 1896

R.—SUCCESSION OF STEP-MOTHER.

A step-mother does not by Hindu Law or custom succeed to the estate of her step-son. MUSSAMMAT KIRPI v. RAMJAS. 153 P R 1889

S.—SUCCESSION OF STEP-SON.

1. Nakodar, Jullundur district—Kung Jats—Step-sons.

Found, that no custom existed amongst Kung Jats of Nakodar entitling step-sons as a class to succeed to the lands of their deceased step-father, in the presence of male collaterals, even where such step-sons had long lived with, and been brought up by, their step-father. SAWAN SINGH v. RULDO. 18 P R 1879

2. Custom—Inheritance—Bangal Jats of the Ludhiana tahsil—Adoption of step-son—Right of step-son to succeed as a collateral in family of step-father.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Bangal Jats of the Ludhiana tahsil, that an adopted step-son of another got does not succeed collaterally in the family of his step-father, nor does he by such adoption become a member of the family of the ancestor of his adoptive father or enter the Bengal got. WAZIRA V. KAHNA. 111 P R 1893

3. Custom—Inheritance—Right of a son of a widow by her second husband in the estate of her first husband—Sikh Jats of Sirsa tahsil.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

S.—SUCCESSION OF STEP-SON—concld.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were Sikh Jats of the Sirsa tahsil, that the son of a widow by her second husband was not entitled to succeed by custom to the property of her first husband, in the presence of male collaterals of the latter. KANWAR SINGH v. SAMPURAN SINGH. 75 P R 1906

T.—WHOLE AND HALF-BLOOD.

1. Jats of Hoshiarpur district—Whole and half-blood—Hindu Law.

Found, that there is no established custom among Jats of the Her got in the Hoshiarpur district, whereby relatives of the half-blood are entitled to succeed equally with the relatives of the whole blood to the property of a deceased landowner.

Held, therefore, in the present case, (following the Hindu Law) that the succession of the half blood must be postponed in favour of the whole blood. MEHTAB SINGH v. JOWAHIR. 21 P R 1880

2. Succession—Whole and half-blood.

Held, by the Financial Commissioner, that as between sons of the same father by different wives a full brother has not by custom or feeling of the country any better right than a half brother to succeed to an office like that of lambardar. JOT RAM v. AMIN LAL. 3 P R 1883

3. Khosa Rajputs of Moga tahsil.

Found, that no established custom exists by which nephews of the half-blood succeed equally with those of the whole blood among Khosa Rajputs in tahsil Moga, district Firozpur. Mehtab Singh v. Jowahir (No. 21 P. R. 1880, Civil) cited. MAHTABA v. JAIMAL SINGH. 187 P R 1883

4. Jats of M. Bilgah, tahsil Phillour, Jalandhar.

Found, that no custom exists among the Jats of mauza Bilgah in the Phillour tahsil and the neighbourhood, under which brothers or cousins, some of the half-blood and some of the full blood, share alike in the property left by a brother or cousin, those of the full blood excluding those of the half-blood, as is the rule according to Hindu Law. MohtabSiugh v. Jowahir (No. 21 P. R. 1880, Civil) cited. BUTA v. GURMUKH. 5 P R 1884

5. Succession—Claims of cousin of the whole blood and uncle of the half-blood—Custom.

In a case of succession to the office of lambardar in which the dispute was between the cousin of the whole blood and the uncle of the half-blood of a deceased lambardar.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, following Jot Ram v. Amin Lal (No. 3 P. R. 1883, Revenue), that as between sons of the same father by different wives a full brother has not by custom or feeling of the country any better right than a half-brother to an office like that of lambardar. On the contrary, the feeling would be in favor of the brothers succeeding to the post in order of age without any distinction of full or half-blood. KAMMA KHAN v. PAHLWAN KHAN. 8 P R 1886 Rev.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

T.—WHOLE AND HALF BLOOD—contd.

6. Hindu Jats (Sanwan got), Rohtak district.

In a suit the parties to which were Hindu Jats of the Sanwan got, residents of mauza Daolu, tahsil Jhajjar, zillah Rohtak, found that by custom relations of the whole blood excluded those of the half-blood. Sahiba v. Ameer Chund (No. 82 P. R. 1866, Civil) cited. SITA v. KHUBA. 53 P R 1886

7. Hindu Jats of tahsil Rupar, District Amballa—Whole and half-blood.

In a suit the parties to which were Hindus Jats of the Rupar tahsil of the Umballa District, found that by custom brothers of the whole blood and brothers of the half-blood were entitled to inherit equally to the estate of a deceased brother.

Golab Singh v. Nihal Singh (No. 112 P. R. 1868) cited. GOPAL SINGH v. NAINU. 71 P R 1887

8. Bhatti Rajputs of Shahpur District—Whole and half-blood.

In a suit the parties to which were a branch of Bhatti Rajputs of the Shahpur District, held that the plaintiffs had failed to prove a custom under which in their tribe the whole and half-blood succeeded equally.

Chahda v. Willia Mal (No. 25 P. R. 1873) Mehtab Singh v. Jawahir (No. 21 P. R. 1880), Mehtaba v. Jaimal Singh (No. 187 P. R. 1883) and Buta v. Gurmukh (No. 5 P. R. 1884) cited. SARDAR BAKHSH v. AHMAD YAR. 150 P R 1888

9. Dogar Jats of Ferozepore District.

Found that among Dogar Jats of the Ferozepore District, there is no established custom, whereby, in succession to a brother's estate, a half-brother can claim to succeed to a share in the presence of a full brother. MUHAMMAD v. HASHMAT. 11 P R 1889

10. Muhammadan Rajputs of Pipli tahsil —Whole and half-blood—Muhammadan Law.

In a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan Rajputs of the Pipli Tahsil of the Umballa District found that the custom as to inheritance fluctuated between chundavand and pagvand, and that when the former prevailed, the whole blood excluded the half and that no custom at variance with the Muhammadan Law being adequately established under the Punjab Laws Act, the Muhammadan Law must be fallen back upon, which gave the preference to the whole blood. ALA DIN v. BARKAT.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

T.—WHOLE AND HALF BLOOD—contd.

57 P R 1889

11. Jats of Ludhiana tahsil—Relations of whole blood and of half blood.

Found that by the custom of Jats of the Ludhiana tahsil relations of the whole blood do not exclude those of the half blood. MAHTAB SINGH v HIRA SINGH.
176 P R 1889

12. Naru Rajputs of Hoshiarpur.

In a suit, the parties to which were Naru Rajputs of the Hoshiarpur District found that by custom the half blood succeeded with the whole blood. JAHANGIR KHAN v. GHULAM KADIR. 45 P R 1890

13. Succession by collaterals—Whole and half blood—Burden of proof.

Held by the Full Bench, that in cases of collateral succession arising in the Punjab, of which the decision is governed by custom, and in which a portion of the property of a common ancestor of the deceased and of the claimants is in dispute:—

When it appears—

(a) that the property of the common ancestor was distributed according to the rule of chundavand, or

(b) that the property of the common ancestor was distributed according to the rule of pagrand;

the Court may presume, until the contrary is proved, in case (a) that the whole blood excludes the half blood; and in case (b) that the whole blood and half blood succeed together. Explanation of the grounds for his opinion, and remarks on the burden of proof by Plowden, J.

Appendix of decided cases collected with remarks thereon by Biraz J. GHOLAM MUHAMMAD v. MUHAMMAD BAKHSH.
4 P R 1891 F B

14. Muhammadan Jats, Hoshiarpur District.

In a suit the parties to which were Muhammadan Jats of the Hoshiarpur District, found that the full brother of a deceased proprietor was not entitled to succeed to the whole estate of the deceased to the exclusion of the relations of the half blood, viz, the half brothers and cousins of the deceased.

No. 4 P. R. 1891, referred to. KALA v. BURA. 12 P R 1891

15. Succession by collaterals—Whole and half blood.

H. S. had issue by two wives. At a division in 1868, the land was allotted among his descendants in two groups according to wives, and each group had ever since dealt with its portion separately.

The old rule of distribution in the village was chundavand and not pagrand.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

T.—WHOLE AND HALF BLOOD—contd.

Held, that the facts pointed to the conclusion that in the distribution in 1868, the parties to it intended that thenceforward each group of sons should hold its own portion independently of the other, and as each group of whole blood relations had ever since held its portion separately from the other, this was virtually a chundavand distribution by the descendants of H. S., and in the absence of proof of a customary right, the plaintiffs, as members of one group had no title to the share of B. a deceased sonless member of the other group, as against other members of the same group, representing their deceased father, a full brother of B.

No. 4 P. R. 1891, referred to. MOHR SINGH v. KALA SINGH. 32 P R 1891

16. Sikhan Jats, mauza Barwali, Ludhiana District.

In a suit the parties to which were a family of Sikhan Jats of mauza Barwali in the Ludhiana District, found, that relations of the whole blood excluded those of the half blood in the inheritance to the estate of a deceased sonless proprietor.

No. 4 P. R. 1891, followed. No. 71 P. R. 1887, and No. 176 P. R. 1889, distinguished. SOHEL SINGH v. UTTAM SINGH. 48 P R 1891

17. Sheikhs of mauza Saman, tahsil Attock.

Found, in a suit between the whole and the half blood, the parties to which were Sheikhs of mauza Saman, tahsil Attock, Rawalpindi District, descended from a Hindu ancestor, who became a convert to Islam some six or seven generations back, that the custom of the family being found to be pagrand, the burden of proof that the whole blood excluded the half blood in succession to a deceased brother lay upon the defendant, the full brother of the deceased, and had not been discharged.

No. 4 P. R. 1891, referred to. FAIZULLA v. ABDUL HAMID. 58 P R 1892

18. Sidhu Barar Jats of Fattehabad tahsil in the Hissar District.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were Sidhu Barar Jats of mauza Budladha in the Fattehabad tahsil of the Hissar District, that the relations of the whole blood excluded those of the half blood in succession to a deceased collateral.

The family land having been divided on the chundavand and not on the pagrand principle, the onus was on the plaintiffs, the half blood relations, to establish that they were entitled to share with the defendants, the relations of the whole blood, in the inheritance of the deceased.

No. 125 P. R. 1884, and No. 4 P. R. 1891 (F. B.), referred to. RURA v WAZIR SINGH.
143 P R 1892

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

T.—WHOLE AND HALF BLOOD—contd.

19. Jats of tahsil Moga, Ferozepore District.

G., a Jat of mauza Raman in the Moga tahsil of the Ferozepore District, had issue by two wives. The quantity of land found with the descendants of each wife corresponded neither with a pagvand nor a chundavand division. There was little to indicate that the sons of G., after their father's death, formed two separate groups, including the sons of each mother.

Held, in accordance with the Riwaj-i-am prepared at the recent settlement, that the rule of partition applicable was pagvand and that the kinsmen of the whole blood had no advantage in succession over those of the half blood.

No. 12 P. R. 1891, and No. 32 P. R. 1891 referred to. BASAWA SINGH v. LEHNA SINGH.
4 P R 1893

20. Hindu Jats, Nawashahr tahsil, Jullundur District.

The plaintiffs and defendants were kinsmen equally near, by collateral descent, of one J. S., who died without male issue, but the plaintiffs were of the half-blood and the defendants of the whole blood by relation to the common ancestors' wives. The parties were Hindu Jats of Nawashahr tahsil, Jullundur District.

Held, upon a consideration of the entries at the first settlement and on the distribution of the land of the common ancestor in the Riwaj-i-am that the plaintiffs were entitled to succeed equally with the defendants. KAHNA v. WAZIRA. 68 P R 1893

21. Succession—Chundavand or pagvand.

One M. had issue by two wives and divided his land in his lifetime between K. his son by Mussammat B., and J. and M., his sons by Mussammat N., giving to the former two-fifths and to the two latter three-fifths of the said property. It was admitted that the two groups held their respective shares separately under different khatas, and that J. and M. held jointly up to the time of the latter's death, whereupon K., B. and S., the sons of K., sued for a share of M.'s property, on the ground that, by custom among their tribe, the half blood succeeded equally with the whole blood.

Held, that the principle of the Full Bench decision, reported as No. 4 P. R. 1891, applied to the present case, where the father himself distributed his family per stirpes, notwithstanding that he did not allot exactly equal shares to the descendants of each wife, allotment according to groups formed by such descendants being a far more essential feature of such division than equality of the shares given to each group.

Held, on the evidence, that plaintiffs had failed to show that they were by custom entitled to succeed, in the face of the said distribution and allotment, to a share in the property of M.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

T.—WHOLE AND HALF BLOOD —contd.

Nos. 32 and 48 P. R. 1891, cited. PIR BAKHSH v. KARIM BAKHSH. 22 P R 1895

22. Succession per stirpes—Mughal Khels of Bannu.

In a case, in which the parties were Mughal Khels of the Bannu District, and (as found, by the Chief Court) governed by custom and not by Muhammadan Law, found that, in the succesion to a deceased unmarried female, the sons of her deceased brother were entitled to inherit per stirpes with her brother who was alive. AKBAR KHAN v. ZAFAR KHAN. 51 P R 1896

23. Awans of Talagang tahsil, Jhelum District.

Held, that defendants, who were the descendants by one wife, had failed to prove that on the death of their father they had formed themselves into a separate family so as to exclude from collateral succession the other branches of the family.

The Riwaj-i-am contained a clause to the effect that sons by a woman of an inferior tribe do not take a full share of an inheritance, but are merely allowed some land by way of maintenance. It appeared that certain of the plaintiffs were descendants of N. K., the common ancestor of the parties, by a Bilochi woman, and that on the distribution of N. K.'s estate these plaintiffs, who were then minors, received only one share between them instead of two.

Held, that (even if effect were to be given to the provision in the Riwaj-i-am) it had not been proved that the mother of these plantiffs was a woman of "an inferior tribe," and it was probably because these plaintiffs were not then in a position to assert their rights that they had been put off with less than their rightful share on the original distribution. GHULAM MUHAMMAD v. ABBAS KHAN. 22 P R 1899

24. Kutb Shahi Awans of mauza Paur Miana, tahsil Attock—Riwaj-i-am.

In a case, in which the parties were Kutb Shahi Awans of mauza Paur Miana, tahsil Attock found that nephews of the full blood were not entitled by custom to exclude nephews of the half blood in succession to the lands of their common maternal uncle, the former not having been any more than the latter associated with the deceased in any separate family group. HAYAT MUHAMMAD v. NAWAB. 29 P R 1900

25. Succession by collaterals—Whole and half blood.

Held, that, though the rule of descent, is generally determined with reference to the original mode of distribution of property left by a common ancestor, yet when brothers of the whole blood subsequently form separate groups and so regulate succession among themselves as to alter the original rule of distribution, the presumption arising from the original rule of distribution ceases to operate owing to the altered conditions, and following the principles laid down in Ghulam Muhammad v. Muhammad Bakhsh (No. 4 P. R. 1891, F. B). the whole blood now excludes the half blood in this family of Qureshis of mauza Pindi Miani, tahsil and district Gujrat. AHMAD SHAH v. MUSSAMMAT TALIA BIBI. 34 P R 1900

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

T.—WHOLE AND HALF BLOOD —concld.

U.—SUCCESSION OF MOTHER.

See CUSTOM VIII.—I. REMARRIAGE OR UNCHASTITY OF WIDOW.
117 P R 1888
171 P R 1888

1. Gujars of Gujrat—Mother's right to succeed to estate of deceased son in presence of collaterals.

Found, that by the custom prevailing among Gujars of the Gujrat district, a mother takes her son's estate, when he dies childless in preference to collaterals distantly related. MUSSAMMAT JINAT BIBI v. MUHAMMAD YAR. 95 P R 1882

2. Mother's right to succeed to the property of her childless son in preference to her husband's collaterals.

In a suit for possession of immovable property situated in M. Chawar in the Gurdaspur district, found, that by the local custom a mother inherits the property of her childless son in preference to the collateral heirs of her late husband. SHAM SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT SADDAN. 49 P R 1883

3. Gharbari Gosains of the Kangra Valley—Mother claiming in preference to widow of deceased holder.

Found, that there is no well established custom among Gharbari Gosains of the western part of the Kangra Valley by which a mother is preferred to the widow of a deceased holder of shrine property. MUSSAMMAT LAKHI v. MUSSAMMAT JAI DEVI. 135 P R 1884

4. Custom—Succession—Mother—Succession of sister or sister's son in presence of collateral related in fifth decree—Bukhari Sayads of Jhang District.

In a case, the parties to which were Bukhari Sayad agriculturists of the Jhang District, found (i) that where a widow succeeds in default of male issue, a mother of the deceased owner has, by custom, only a right to be maintained in the presence of such widow: where, however, such maintenance takes the form of possession being given of a half share in the estate, there is the strongest prima facie presumption (which in the present case had not been rebutted that the mother holds on a life tenure only, without power of alienation except for necessity; and (ii) that plaintiffs had failed to prove any custom whereby a sister or a sister's son was entitled to succeed to the exclusion of a collateral related in the fifth degree to the deceased proprietor. MUSSAMMAT JINDWADDI v. HASSAN SHAH. 41 P R 1895

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

U.—SUCCESSION OF MOTHER—contd.

V.—SUCCESSION AMONG PROSTITUTES.

1. Brothel-keeper claiming to succeed to estate left by her nochi—Invalid custom.

Held, by a majority of the Full Bench (Plowden, J., dissenting) that a custom by which the keeper of a brothel is entitled to succeed by right of inheritance to the estate left by her nochi is invalid and one which should not be enforced by the Court, as it is not only an immoral custom, but opposed to good conscience. Har Dyal v. Imam-ud-din (C. A. No. 1411 of 1875) referred to. MURAD BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT DOWLA. 89 P R 1884

2. Kanchanis of Delhi—Succession to childless female adopted according to the practice of the caste—Muhammadan Law.

In a suit the parties to which were by caste Kanchanis resident in Delhi, held, that the evidence failed to establish any definite custom applicable to the parties concerned at variance with the Muhammadan law, regulating the succession to a childless female "adopted" according to the practice of the Kanchanis. MUSSAMMAT GHASITI v. MUSSAMMAT BANNO JAN. 95 P R 1884

3. Kanchans of Amballa—Succession of daughters—Absolute right in property inherited.

Found, that among Kanchans of Amballa there is no established custom limiting the interest which a Kanchan woman takes in property which she inherits; but that she is absolute owner of such property, and has full power of alienation over it. SHAHZADA v. RAMDIYA. 98 P R 1885

4. Kanchans of Delhi—Brothers and sisters—Muhammadan Law.

In a suit the parties to which were Kanchans of Delhi, the dispute was as to the right of inheritance to a female Kanchan, who died leaving the property in dispute, and brothers and sisters of legitimate birth surviving her. It appeared that the female in question had left the family brothel of which she was formerly a member and become a member of another institution of which at the time of her death she was the last survivor, so that there was no competition as to inheritance between her natural heirs and any surviving member of the brothel which she had joined.

V.—SUCCESSION AMONG PROSTITUTES—concld.

Held, that there was no custom of inheritance applicable to the above case: that the Muhammadan Law must therefore prevail, and that under that law the brothers were entitled each to one-fourth, and the sisters each to one-eighth of the estate of the deceased.

Mussammat Gasiti v. Mussammat Banno Jan (No. 95 P. R. 1884), referred to. MUSSAMMAT GHASITI v. MUSSAMMAT AMIR JAN.
166 P R 1888

5. Married and unmarried daughters—Kanjars of Lahore.

Found, that by the custom of Kanjars of Lahore, married daughters are not excluded by unmarried daughters in succession to their father's estate. MUSSAMMAT JIWAN v. MUSSAMMAT KARM-UN-NISSA.
148 P R 1889

6. Prostitutes of Lahore—Muhammadan Law.

Found, in a suit, the parties to which were profe sed prostitutes residing at Lahore, that no special custom was proved regulating the succession to the property of a collateral, and that, therefore, Muhammadan Law must be applied. NATHU v. MUSSAMMATS IDO AND MIRAN.
62 P R 1892

7. Kanchans of Delhi—Muhammadan Law—Invalidity of transaction intended for the furtherance of prostitution.

B., a Kanchan of Delhi, died in 1871, leaving a substantial property. She survived her parents; had left no issue, but left her surviving two brothers and four sisters.

All the parties to the present dispute belonged to the people of Kanchans, among whom the business of brothel-keeping and prostitution is carried on by families or communities who are recruited by adoption of females to females.

B. had left her own family to be adopted by one D., who was the head of another establishment of the same kind, and she had succeeded to the whole of D.'s property on her death.

The question was, how the property of B. was to devolve?

All the parties professed the Muhammadan religion.

Held, by the Privy Council, that there was no severance of B. from her natural family by the adoption, and that it was impossible to say that such customs as were alleged to exist among the Kanchans were not contrary to the policy of the great religious community to which the Courts found that all the parties belonged.

The decree of the Chief Court, finding that there was no custom of inheritance applicable to the case, and that the brothers and sisters were entitled to the shares allowed by Muhammadan Law, upheld by the Privy Council. MUSSAMMAT GHASITI v. UMRAO JAN.
52 P R 1893 P. C.

W.—MISCELLANEOUS.

1. Succession to ownership of land.—Suit for possession of the holding of a deceased khewatdar.

The parties belonged to the same patti as deceased; defendants claimed the whole as belonging to the same thola; plaintiffs, who belonged to other tholas, claimed to share on the ground that all were descended from a common ancestor, the original sole proprietor of the patti. Held, that, in the absence of proof of village custom, the fact that defendants were liable for the Government revenue before plaintiffs, and that they had paid up a balance before getting possession of the land, was sufficient to establish a superior right in them. MEGHA v. KHUZANA.
54 P R 1868

2. Karewa Marriage—Rajputs.

The descendants of a union according to the Karewa form of marriage are, by custom, excluded from inheriting amongst the Rajputs.—ZOOLFOO v. AHMED (No. 2 P. R. 1872, Civil); the custom is the same with the Brahmins, Firozpur district. GOBINDA v. KHANA.
22 P R 1873

3. Associated and disassociated cousins—Duty of Court to inquire into custom.

Two brothers, Doorga Dat and Boodh Singh, separated. The former had two sons (Bugwan Singh and Mangal Sein, the defendants in the suit), and the latter a son, Girdharee Lal. Bugwan Das, who had three sons (plaintiffs) died in the lifetime of Boodh Singh. Mangal Sein and Girdharee Lal re-associated, and so remained until the death of the latter. The three sons of Bugwan Das sued Mangal Sein for a half share of Girdharee Lal's property. The parties were bunniahs in the Umballa district. Found that, by custom the plaintiffs, though disassociated, were entitled to the half share claimed.

Held, by a Full Bench that, unless the parties to a suit expressly declare that they desires to abide by Muhammadan or Hindu Law (as the case may be), the Court is bound, under section 5 of Act IV of 1872, to enquire whether a custom exists contrary to the general rule of law, although the parties themselves have not sued upon or pleaded any sush custom. DEVI SUHAI v. MANGAL SEIN.
81 P R 1874

4. Disassociation—Hindu Jats.

In the absence of a clear separation by which all claim for the future is relinquished to family property that may fall in by the death of any of the members of the family, holding land separately does not bar the right of succession by heirship to a share in a holding held jointly by others of the family. JAGGA v. RAM CHAND.
102 P R 1876

W.—MISCELLANEOUS—contd.

5. Byraghi Faqir.

Held, that in the absence of an established custom to the contrary, a Byraghi faqir who has not given up the world, does not forfeit his rights to succeed in his natural family. BANSI v. MIHAN SINGH.
24 P R 1880

6. Kadiri Faqirs of Khangah Shahgadda.

Found that no established custom prevails among Kadiri Faqirs of Khangah Shah gadda in the village of Garhi Sahu in the Lahore district, whereby a chela succeeds to the exclusion of all the natural heirs, however near in degree, of a deceased gaddinashin. ALAM SHAH v. BULAKI SHAH.
57 P R 1880

7. Jats of Pipli tahsil, Amballa District.

Found, that among Jats of the Pipli tahsil in the Amballa district, association with the deceased gives no preferential right of inheritance among heirs otherwise equally entitled. Khurka v. Soojan Singh (No. 7 P. R. 1870, Civ l) cited. ALBELA v. PAT RAM.
21 P R 1881

8 Succession to land gifted to sister on death of donee and her husband without heirs—Reversion to collateral heirs of donor.

In a suit by the plaintiffs, the first cousins and next agnates of one M. claiming to succeed to certain land which had been gifted by N. to his sister on the occasion of her marriage with M. found, that, on the death of the donee and her husband without sons, the land reverted to the sons of the donor and did not descend to the plaintiffs, the collateral heirs of M.

Fateh Din v. Mussammat Karm Behari (Civil Revision No. 342 of 1885, unpublished), and Kutba v. Mussammat Abidan (No. 19 P. R. 1887), cited. KARM DIN v. UMAR BAKHSH.
3 P R 1888

9. Proprietor of two villages making partition between his sons and grandsons—Right of the branch of the family settled in village A. to succeed jointly with those settled in village B. to the land of one son dying without heirs in village B.—Complete separation—Survivorship.

One M. S. who had five sons and ten grandsons, and was sole owner of two villages, B and G. made in his lifetime an absulute partition without any reservation between his sons, assigning village B. to two sons (with their five sons), and village G. to three sons (with their five sons). Neither on M. S.'s death which occurred some fifty years before suit, nor subsequently, was any attempt made at any adjustment or redistribution, but one of the G. branch of the family having died without lineal descendants and his widow who succeeded him having recently lost her rights by remarriage, the branch of the family in village B. claimed to succeed equally with the surviving members in village G. to the share of the land which belonged to the deceased in village G.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

W.—MISCELLANEOUS—contd.

Held, that the view most consonant to the custom of family land-holding in the Punjab and to the equity and reason of the case was to hold that M. S. had effected a complete partition, and that by custom all the heirs in village G. must be exhausted before any of the members in village B. could come in, and that the conduct of the parties all along showed that they always recognized, as far as circumstances permitted, a complete separation, which would naturally produce this result. KALLA SINGH v. TAHAL SINGH. 143 P R 1888

10. Girths of Kangra District—Self-acquired land not situate in village of owner's origin, but in a village to which he had migrated—Gift by widow of son to her daughter's sons—Claim by descendants of a common ancestor who resided in the village of owner's origin—Custom—Burden of proof.

The parties were Hindu Girths of the Kangra District. The land in dispute was situate in mauza B. and was self-acquired by one A. who had migrated from N. the village of his origin.

A.'s son K. died sonless leaving a widow who gave the land to her daughter's sons.

The plaintiffs, residents of N. were descendants of an ancestor of A. and claimed the land.

Held, that the true issue arising was whether the plaintiffs were by custom heirs to the deceased in respect of land held by him in a different village; and that the burden of proof was on the plaintiffs.

P. R. No. 77 of 1881, referred to. LOKHA v. HARI. 64 P R 1893

11. Custom—Succession—Hindu exogamous Jats of Musapur, tahsil Jullundur—Land vacated by death of last male descendant of donee—Suit by uncle's daughter's son—Rights of village proprietors—Burden of proof.

The plaintiff was uncle's daughter's son of A., the last male representative of R., to whom the land in suit had originally been gifted by one of the village proprietors. The defendants (the proprietors of the village) were Jats of a different got. The lower Courts, finding that there was no custom embracing the issue exactly in point, gave the plaintiff a decree on the ground that he was entitled to succeed by Hindu Law.

Held, by the Chief Court, that Hindu Law was not applicable to the case, the customary rule which governs the devolution of ancestral land amongst Hindu exogamous Jats being well ascertained; and that the plaintiff, not being in the line of ekjaddis or even of rishtedars of the last holder, was not an heir of the deceased in respect of his land, and that the onus, which had not been discharged, lay upon him to show a better title than that of the village proprietors who were in possession.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

W.—MISCELLANEOUS—contd.

A. (the deceased owner) was a Hindu Jat, and among Hindu Jats, being exogamous, the customary rule of succession to ancestral land is well established. The land of a sonless man devolves upon his warisan ekjaddi—male descendants in the male line only of a common ancestor—to the exclusion of females and their issue.

P. R. No. 43 of 1877, P. R. No. 136 of 1884 and P. R. No. 49 of 1886, distinguished., P. R. No. 12 of 1822 referred to. BADHAWA v. DEWA SINGH.

141 P R 1893

12. Right of thuladars to succeed to deceased childless co-proprietor—Presumption—Onus probandi.

One D. S. a Kalal, got Kaithal, died in 1865, leaving certain lands and no heirs except his widow, Mussammat T. who held possession of the said lands after the death of D S. and on the 18th May 1889 executed a deed of gift in favour of her brother's son, Ude Ram, reciting that she had adopted him as her son under authority given her by her husband and transferred to him a house in the city of Umballa and a greater part of the land in dispute. Mussammat T. died on the 31st December 1891, and thereafter, certain suits were instituted in respect of the said lands and were all heard together, the present suit being by the proprietors of the thula to which D. S. belonged, who claimed to succeed, in virtue of their co-proprietorship to the lands left by D. S.

Held, that, inasmuch as Ude Ram was in possession of the said lands it was incumbent on plaintiffs to prove a superior title thereto, and that they had failed to do so.

The members of a village community are not the ultimate heirs of any co-sharer among them, who dies without heirs, in every instance without regard to the constitution of the village or the facts of the particular case which comes up for decision. KIRPA RAM v. UDE RAM.

77 P R 1896

13. Right of collaterals also related through female line to succeed in preference to nearer collaterals—Sayads of Umballa.

Found, that plaintiffs had failed to prove that, by custom among Sayads of Umballa tahsil and District, distant male collaterals who were also related through the female line, had rights of succession superior to nearer male collaterals. NAWAB ALI v. NATHU

40 P R 1897

14 Ala and adna maliks—Mauza Manabad, tahsil Moga, Ferozepore District.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—contd.

W.—MISCELLANEOUS—contd.

Held, that mauza Manabad, tahsil Moga, Ferozepore District, an ala malik is merely entitled, as a taluqdar, to 5 per cent. on the revenue, and further, that on the death of an adna malik without issue, the latter's estate does not revert to the ala maliks, but to the collaterals of the deceased.

Semble.—In the said village, which is divided into pattis, on the death of an adna malik his land would, for default of nearer heirs, become shamilat of the patti, and be divided among the pattidars. SARDAR SARUP SINGH v. SUNDAR. 9 P R 1898

15. Custom—Succession to childless proprietor—Exclusion of near collaterals by proprietors of village—Village founded within boundaries of old village—Right of collaterals residing in latter to succeed to land in former—Riwaj-i-am.

In the present case it appeared that mauza Ferozabad had been founded by the grandfather of the two deceased proprietors, the succession to whose lands was in dispute within the boundaries of mauza Rania. The two proprietors having died childless, the proprietors of mauza Ferozabad claimed to exclude the near collaterals who lived in mauza Rania, and based their claim on an entry in the Wajib-ul-arz to the effect that on the death of a landowner without issues his near collateral should succeed provided he lived in the same patti; otherwise the landowners of that patti should succeed. There was no such en ry in the Wajib-ul-arz of mauza Ferozabad, but it was contended that the entry in question applied eqnally to that village inasmuch as it had been founded from the other.

Held, that the said entry was very unusual and not very reasonable, and should not, therefore, be extended to mauza Ferozabad so as to give the proprietors of that village a preferential right over the near collaterals.

Held, further, that the decision of the Court in No. 64 P. R. 1893, did not apply to the present case, inasmuch as the founder of mauza Ferozabad did not go and acquire land in a remote village, but merely assisted in founding a new village within the boundaries of his old village, and also because the collaterals, as descendants of the founder, were claiming property which, so far as they were concerned, was ancestral property. RUKAN DIN v. MUSSAMMAT MARIAM. 68 P R 1898

16. Custom—Succession—Suit between co-proprietors of village in which the land was situate and deceased's near agnates residing in another village—Finding in a previous suit that one of the co-proprietors was deceased's collateral, effect of—Res judicata—Dhillon Jats of Naraingarh, Amritsar District.

Plaintiffs, who were residents of Bhutiwala in the Ferozepore District, claimed certain land left in Naraingarh, Amritsar District, by one Mussammat Premi, widow of Attar Singh, a Dhillon Jat, on the ground that they were descendants of Budh Singh, grandfather of Attar Singh, one plaintiff being his son and the others grandsons and great-grandsons. The defendants were Dhillon Jats of Naraingarh, but claimed no relationship with the deceased and belonged to a different taraf to that of Attar Singh. On the death of Mussammat Premi defendants obtained mutation of names in their favour despite the objections of plaintiffs, who, therefore, instituted the present suit. In the first Court defendants pleaded, inter alia, that plaintiffs were not the agnates of the deceased's husband, and that being residents of another village and district, and having had no connection with Naraingarh or the family of the deceased, they were excluded by law and custom. The first Court drew issues, in accordance with the pleadings, and decided them all in favour of plaintiffs. Defendants appealed to the Chief Court on the same grounds as were urged in the lower Court, and at the hearing it was also contended on their behalf that plaintiffs' claim was barred by a judicial decision of the Assistant Commissioner of Amritsar, dated 25th August 1871, by which defendants were declared reversioners of the deceased widow, and obtained a decree setting aside, as far as their interests were concerned, a certain mortgage effected by her of part of the land left by her husband. The ground upon which the defendants' contention was based was that in the former suit, the widow represented the interests of the reversioners, and that the decision that one of the defendants was her reversioner bound the present plaintiffs if they were the persons by agnatic descent entitled to succeed to the estate left by her.

Held, overruling the said contention, that the finding in the former case was merely to the effect that the defendant in question was a collateral of the widow, and as such was competent to contest the widow's mortgage, and that the said finding in no way precluded plaintiff from proving that they were nearer collaterals, and had a preferential claim to succeed to the property.

Found, upon the evidence, that plaintiffs were nearer collaterals than the defendants.

Held, therefore, that the plaintiffs' relationships being established, they were the warisan ek jaddi of the deceased widow's husband, and their common ancestor had been in possession of the land in suit, and that in such a case there was no authority for holding that the collaterals, because residents in another village, were excluded by the other proprietors, in the deceased's village, though not related to him. CHET SINGH v. SAMAND SINGH. 78 P R 1898

17 Forfeiture of inheritance by a person who has murdered or been instrumental in murdering another to the latter's estate—Public policy.

In 1891, plaintiff was convicted by the District Magistrate of Hazara of the abetment of the murder of his half-brother, Ahmad Khan, and sentenced to seven years' rigorous imprisonment and fine, &c. The defendant, the mother of the deceased, Ahmad Khan, succeeded to his property; the plaintiff on completion of his sentence instituted the present suit for possession of his half-brother's property, and based his claim on the ground of his being a customary heir to his murdered brother. The defendant contended that plaintiff was excluded from inheriting on the principle of Muhammadan law, which precludes the slayer inheriting from the person whom he has slain, and that she was as mother under the circumstances entitled to a life interest.

Held, that plaintiff was disentitled to succeed upon that principle of public policy and justice which demands that no criminal should benefit by the result of his crime, and that it is unnecessary to consider either the Muhammadan or Customary law on the point.

Held, further, that even if it could be shown (as admittedly it could not) that a custom expressly recognized the right of a person who had abetted the murder of his relation to inherit that relation's property, it would be contra bonos mores and therefore invalid. MUSSAMMAT SHAH KHANAM v. KALANDHAR KHAN. 74 P R 1900

18. Custom—Succession—Preferential rights of collaterals of donor who died childless as against the collatearls of the donee.

One S. D., who was blind from birth, made a gift of his land to. S A., one of his grand-nephews. Plaintiff's father thereupon sued for cancellation of the gift, the suit being dismissed on the ground that the alienation being in favour of an agnate was valid by custom. The donee, S. A., died childless in 1894, and his widow also before the present suit. The plaintiffs, who were grand-nephews of the donor, sued for their share of the property gifted, and contended that on the death of the donee without male issue the property reverted to the heirs of the donor.

Held, that on the death of the donee without male issue the ancestral property reverted to the donor's collaterals as a body, and that the donee's brothers could not claim a preferential right to it as against the collaterals of the donor.

Sita Ram v Raja Ram (No. 12 P. R. 189?), Lehna v. Mussammat Thakri (No. 32 P. R. 1892), and Mussammat Aso v. Mussammat Tabi (No. 77 P. R. 1893), referred to. FATEH ALI AND OTHERS v. ABDULLA AND OTHERS. 112 P R 1900

19. Waraich Jats of Gujrat tahsil—Failure of direct heirs of donee—Right of heirs of donor to succeed to property gifted in preference to those of donee—Suit by a reversioner for possession of immovable property—Defendant in possession under will made by testator without title—Reversioner not barred by reason of his having failed to contest such will within three years.

In a suit the parties to which were Waraich Jats of the village of Kaka in the Gujrat District, found that when a gift of ancestral property has been made to a daughter's son in virtue of that relationship and he dies without issue, the property reverts on the death of the original donee to the heirs of the donor and not to those of the donee.

Held, that a suit by a reversioner to recover possession of immovable property in the hands of a defendant under an alleged will cannot (where the testator had no power to dispose of the property by will) be barred by reason of his (the reversioner) having failed to contest the validity of such will within a period of three years.

Sita Ram v. Raja Ram (12 P. R. 1892, F. B.) Muhammad v. Mussammat Umar Bibi (129 P. R. 1893), Ghulam Muhammad v. Muhammd Rakhsh (4 P. R. 1891, F. B.) Fauja v. Kasu (122 P. R. 1879), Dasaunda Singh v. Mussammat Partab Kaur (53 P. R. 1882), Gogan v. Taloka (163 P. R. 1882), Ditta v. Muhammd Bakhsh (146 P. R. 1884), Mangat v. Wazir Singh (82 P. R., 1885), Atra v. Umra (1 P. R. 1886), Aman Ali v. Mussammat Amina Begam (46 P R. 1890), and Fatteh Ali v. Abdulla (112 P. R. 1900). referred to. HAYAT MUHAMMAD v. ALA BAKHSH. 19 P R 1903

20. Custom—Inheritance—Right of pattidars to succeed to a co-sharer who died without heirs—Onus probandi—Mauza Murtazapur, tahsil Kaithal, Karnal District.

In a suit brought by the proprietors of the patti for the possession of land left by a co-sharer of another tribe who had died without heirs on the allegation that they, as co-proprietors of the patti, had a customary right of succession.

Held, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove that by custom they, as mere pattidars, were entitled to succeed as ultimate heirs to the estate of the deceased co-sharer who was of a different tribe. HARNAM SINGH v. PARTAB SINGH. 102 P R 1906

21. Absconding offender — Attachment and sale of ancestral property subject to Punjab Customary Law—Effect of such sale upon the rights of inheritance of the absconder's male lineal descendants and collaterals—Criminal Procedure Code, 1898, sections 87, 88.

Held by a majority of the Full Bench (Johnstone, J., dissenting), that where ancestral immovable property held by a person subject to Punjab Customary Law is attached and sold by order of a Criminal CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—concld.

W.—MISCELLANEOUS—concld.

Court under section 88 of the Code of Criminal Procedure the sale conveys the life interest of that person only and does not extinguish the right of inheritance after his death of his male lineal descendants or of collaterals descended from the original holder of the property. SADHU SINGH v. SECRETARY OF STATE. 18 P R 1908 F B

22. Custom—Inheritance—Right of the proprietary body of the pana to succeed to a co-sharer in preference to the deceased's aunt's son—Mauza Balana, tahsil Panipat, Karnal District.

In a suit brought by the proprietary body of the pana for possession of land left by a co-sharer of another tribe who had died without male lineal descendants, held that the plaintiffs had failed to prove that by custom they as mere co-sharers in the pana were entitled to succeed in preference to the aunt's son of the deceased proprietor.

Query.—Whether joining another person as a co-sharer in the village as a bhum bhai amounts to a gift so as to render applicable the rule of reversion as prevailing in cases of pure gifts? NIHALA v. RAHMATULLAH. 137 P R 1908

23. Custom—Inheritanee—Gift of landed property by way of dowry to a female—Mutation in favour of her husband—Death of donee without issue—Right of husband in presence of donor.

Held, that a gift of landed property expressly made by way of dowry to a female on the occasion of her marriage enures solely for the benefit of the donee and her issue, and in case of her dying childless reverts to the donor.

The mere circumstance of her husband's name having been entered as donee in mutation proceedings does not after her death entitle him to retain possession of the property. KHAIRAN v. NAURANG KHAN. 54 P R 1909

CUSTOM IX.—MERCANTILE USAGES.

1. Amritsar City -Mercantile usage—Deposit of property—Depositor borrowing money from bailee—Lien on property deposited.

A mercantile usage found to obtain in the city of Amritsar by which where a person leaves any property with another and then borrows money from him, the money will be understood to be advanced on the security of the property and the sale-proceeds from it will be credited towards the debt. PIRTHI MAL v. GOPI NATH. 34 P R 1886

2. Shah and Gumashta—Shahpur District—Repayment of capital when agency is dissolved—Priority in payment.

The plaintiff, as the principal in a Shah and Gumashta business in the Shahpur

CUSTOM IX.—MERCANTILE USAGES—concld.

District, sought, on the closing of the business, to establish his right to be repaid the capital advanced by him from the assets in hand before the defendant was repaid, notwithstanding that the latter had advanced capital to a greater extent than the plaintiff.

Held, that no special custom had been proved to exist under which the principal would be first repaid the capital advanced by him, the general rule among the bankers and traders of the Shahpur District being that on the closing of a business each party gets back the capital advanced by him less his share of the losses, and that no question of priority would arise. NARSINGH DAS v. HIRA NAND. 79 P R 1895

CUSTOM X.—RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS.

(a) Suit by persons interested in shrine.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTIONS 92, 93. 94 P R 1885

(b) Suit for share of offerings.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTIONS 92, 93. 76 P R 1886

(c) Claims to pre-emption by proprietors of.
See PRE-EMPTION. 100 P R 1885
153 P R 1884

(d) Suit to set aside alienation of shrine property.
See RIGHT TO SUE. 75 P R 1884
27 P R 1885

(e). Suit by worshippers to restrain alterations of temple property—Right to maintain suit without the consent of the Advocate General.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE, CODE, 1908, SECTIONS 92, 93 29 P R 1897

(f). Suit for removal of Mahant and for declaration of right to appoint a successor and to enforce the provision of a will.
See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, SECTION 7 (iv) (c). 58 P R 1893
See APPEAL XI, VALUATION OF— 58 P R 1893
56 P R 1895

(g). Customary right of certain persons to perform certain religious ceremonies on behalf of an indeterminate class of persons on property belonging to third parties.
See CUSTOM VII—EASEMENTS AND PROFITS. 4 P R 1896

1. Maintenance.

In a claim for maintenance by a disciple of a religious institution, held, that it was wrong to award plaintiff "a reasonable supply of necessaries," and in the event of further disputes between plaintiff and the guddeenashin a fixed sum; the proper decree was to award simply that plaintiff was entitled to such maintenance as befitted his condition. HOOSAIN SHAH v. HUSSUN SHAH. 84 P R 1866

CUSTOM X.—RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS—contd.

2. Succession.

Plaintiff claimed to succeed to a thakoordwara in possession of defendant, on the ground that plaintiff was the chela of the last mahant. Held, that as defendant had built the thakoordwara with the consent of the mahant, and had been named by the latter as his successor with the consent of the city people, while plaintiff's title as chela was not clearly made out; defendant was entitled to be maintained in possession. POORUN CHUND v. SOONDUR DASS. 32 P R 1867

3. Succession.

Parus Ram, Gooroo, had two chelas, Mungal Dass and Ramjee Dass (plaintiff). Before his death, Parus Ram verbally appointed Mungul Dass, the senior chela, to succeed him until Ramjee Dass should have attained his majority; Mungal Dass subsequently died, having by a written will constituted his chela, Rugbeer Dass (defendant), to be his heir and successor. Ramjee Dass claimed to succeed under the original appointment of Parus Ram. Rugbeer Dass contended that Parus Ram could not appoint more than his immediate successor. Held, that the custom of the institution did not sanction the appointment of an intermediate director of the guddee pending minority of the intended successor, so as to give a title to the latter. Plaintiff's suit dismissed, and the appointment of Rugbeer Dass upheld. RAMJEE DASS v. RUGBEER DASS. 52 P R 1867

4. Birt.

Where there are two parohits in a village, either has a right to collect birt from those of the villagers who prefer him as their priest; but effect may be given by the Courts to any valid contract between the priests for division of the fees. RAM KISHEN v. DOONEE CHUND. 62 P R 1867

5. Management of affairs of the institution.

A muafi had been released by Government for the support of a thakoordwara. The grant was originally made to S. B., who left four chelas (one of whom was the plaintiff). After the death of S. B. the chelas jointly administered the grant. Defendant claimed the exclusive right to administer, on the ground that he was mahant in succession to S. B.—Held, that even if defendant had succeeded S. B. as mahant by virtue of his connection with another temple (which was not satisfactorily shown), there was evidence of a custom to support plaintiff's case, viz., that the administration of the grant should be given to the disciples jointly. In cases of disputes as to the management of religious endowments, the general presumption is that the mahant alone is entitled to administer; but the decision as regards any particular institution must be guided by the custom pertaining to that institution. RAM SOOKH DASS v. PERMESHREE DASS. 76 P R 1867

1144

CUSTOM X.—RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS—contd.

6. No Muhammadan or Hindu official can claim a prescriptive right to render certain services to any member of his faith. GHUNIA v. BOOTA. 94 P R 1867

7. Protection of sacred buildings.

A, a Hindu, purchased a piece of land from B a Muhammadan, owner of the village, and built a temple and located a priest thereon. At Settlement the priest was recorded mafidar for life; and on his death the descendants of B took possession while the descendant of A claimed the proprietary rights. The Lower Courts found for the descendants of B. Held, in appeal, that the latter could not destroy the temple as long as there were worshippers at the shrine. ASA NUND v. RAJA SHUMSHER KHAN. 3 P R 1868 Rev.

8. Property—Inheritance.

Property attached to a khangah, if not specially devoted to religious uses, may be subject to the ordinary laws of inheritance. HOSSEIN SHAH v. ZAHOOR SHAH. 67 P R 1868

9. Sujadanashin and Mutwalli.

The offices of the two are distinct; the former is charged with the spiritual affairs of the endowment, and the latter is trustee of its temporal affairs. HOSSEIN SHAH v. ZAHOOR SHAH. 67 P R 1868

10. Wakf.

No property should be considered wakf unless specially appropriated by the donor. HOSSEIN SHAH v. ZAHOOR SHAH. 67 P R 1868

11. A grant of land, made by the proprietors to a person in consideration of his acting as imam of the village mosque, is of the nature of a grant to a village servant, and tenable only during the pleasure of the grantors. But if the grant be made jointly by the village proprietary body, and their shares are joint, the grant is resumable only as a whole and not piecemeal; and it cannot be resumed until proprietors representing the major part of the property of the village, desire to resume it. MAZOOLA v. BAHADUR KHAN. 70 P R 1868

12. Wakf.

The consignment and delivery of consecrated real property to a Mutwali is not necessary to render a wakf legal; a bare declaration in words is sufficient, and no particular formality or ceremony is necessary to make the declaration binding and the appropriation complete; but there should be clear proof that such a declaration has really been made; and this should not be hastily presumed from casual remarks let fall by the alleged appropriator in the course of conversation unsupported by his acts and conduct. The only things capable of being appropriated by user alone are those mentioned in Chapters VII and VIII, Book IX of Baillie's Digest of Muhammadan law, viz., mosques, caravanserais, cemeteries, inns, reservoirs, ways and aqueducts. Buildings susceptible of use for secular as well as religious purposes, such as imambaras, cannot be so appropriated. Once created, a wakf is irrevocable. THAKOOR DASS v. MUSSAMMAT HAJEE BEGUM. 100 P R 1868

1145

CUSTOM X.—RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS—contd.

13. Succession—Custom.

The Punjab Civil Code (Section XXII, para 6) laid down the general rule, but did not obviate the necessity of an enquiry into the usage of a particular institution. The Chief Court directed an enquiry into the customary succession of a dharmsala and the neighbouring dharmsalas occupied by the same section of faqirs, where the contest was whether plaintiff was to succeed on the ground of discipleship, or the defendant on the ground of his election by the neighbouring faqirs. ADJODDIA DASS v. DEVI DASS. 73 P R 1869

14. Mutwalli—Tenure of office by, consistent with right of worshippers to restrain his acts—Power of, to determine what is for benefit of mosque.

In a suit brought by the worshippers at a mosque to restrain the Mutwalli from encroaching upon the enclosure of the mosque —Held, that the plaintiff's remedy was not necessarily by obtaining the removal of the defendant from the office of Mutwalli; but it was consistent with the defendant's right to be Mutwalli and to continue in the trust, that the plaintiffs should have the right to restrain him by an order of Court from doing a particular act. Held, also, that the defendant's right to encroach upon the enclosure of the mosque depended either upon his power as Mutwalli to determine whether the encroachment was for the benefit of the mosque, independently of the opinion of the plaintiffs; or upon the question whether the defendant bona fide permitted the encroachment for the benefit of the mosque. Found, also, that the defendant had not as Mutwalli power to determine whether or not an encroachment of the sort was for the benefit of the mosque independently of the opinion of the worshippers. WULLEE OOLA v. KURREEM BUKHSH. 81 P R 1869

15. Sikh temple at Umritsar—Office of "Grunthee" or "Guddee Nasheen" not a descendible inheritance.—Special offerings intended for use of "Grunthee" are not joint family property.

The plaintiffs and defendant were cousins, and grandsons of one Mukkun Singh, who was some time Grunthee of the Temple at Umritsar. During Mukkun Singh's lifetime the defendant had officiated as Grunthee or Guddee Nusheen, and continued to do so after his grandfather's death. Certain special offerings called ardass went to the Grunthee, and these offerings the defendant shared with the plaintiffs during their grandfather's lifetime, and for a time after his death. Disputes then arose, and the defendant refused any longer to share the ardass with the plaintiffs. Held, that in the absence of an agreement binding between the parties that the plaintiffs should receive a share of the ardass, they had no claim to any such share; that the office of Guddee Nusheen was not a descendible inheritance; that the ardass was not joint family property, but went separately to the Guddee Nusheen, though he was a member of a joint undivided Hindu family; and that only what was thrown into the joint family fund must be divided equally between the parties. NOWRUNG SINGH v. BHUGUT SINGH. 4 P R 1870

1146

CUSTOM X.—RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS—contd.

16. Power of Court to appoint imam—Act XX of 1863, section 22.

Under Act XX of 1863, a Court can declare the right of a particular person to appoint the imam of a mosque, but cannot nominate the imam or declare a given nomination to be right. BUDDER DIN v. MULLIK ATTAR. 35 P R 1871

17. Right of member of parohit's family to a share in birt.

Defendant, a parohit, received birt or fees from pilgrims who stopped at defendant's house. Plaintiff, on the ground of relationship, claimed from the defendant a share of these fees; the defendant resisted the claim with the plea that he obtained the fees by performing services, and the plaintiff without rendering any services was not merely as a relative entitled to a share in the fees. The Lower Courts held this plea a good answer to the action, and dismissed plaintiff's suit. Held, by the Chief Court remanding the case for a new trial, that such a suit as the plaintiff's might be maintainable if there were any relation of ancestral right or contract or customary proceeding between the parties, giving rise to a liability on the part of the parohit to allow his relative to share in the fees. RAM RUTTUN v. GORI. 38 P R 1872

18. Suit for profits of a shrine—Res Judicata—Effect of decision upon property in foreign territory—Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court.

Sodi Utum Singh had four sons—viz., Ranjit Singh (father of plaintiff) by his first wife, and the three defendants by his second wife. Plaintiff sued for Rs. 148-8-3, being a share of the profits of a share at Kiratpur in the Jullundur district, claimed by him on the ground that by custom the sons of the senior or first married wife were entitled to a tenth share in addition to what they would obtain on division. Plaintiff based his claim on a decision of the Political Agent, Ambala, (dated 14th December 1837), which then determined a dispute between the defendant and plaintiff's father relating to Utam Singh's estate, and which, the plaintiff now contended, judicially established the custom in his favour and made the matter res judicata. The Political Agent's order was—"to divide the estate in the "following way—viz., that each of the four "brothers was to have an equal share, and "Sodi Ranjit Singh, (plaintiff's father,) the "eldest son, was to have a tenth share of "all the property, both movable and im-"moveable, in addition to his regular share." Held, that this decision only affected property situated in British territory, and did not therefore extend to the Kiratpur shrine, which at the time of the decision was in territory under the rule of Maharajah Ranjit Singh; and that the matter in suit was not consequently res judicata. Held also that the claim was not one of the nature cognizable by Small Cause Court. SODI BRIJ BULLAB SINGH v. SODI KARTAR SINGH. 41 P R 1872

CUSTOM X.—RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS—contd.

11. Private or separate estate of members—Custom.

Plaintiff, mahant of a religious institution, sued the defendant, a member or suniassi, in order to be recorded proprietor of certain land, as head of the institution, which land defendant alleged he had purchased from his own resources. Held, that the position of suniassis being in many cases such that they could not acquire private property, and all that they acquired went to the benefit of the institution, the proper points for inquiry were,—first, what was the custom of suniassis generally as to holding private property; secondly, what was the practice of this institution, and was that practice sufficiently in conformity with general custom to be enforceable. TOTA PURI v. PADAM PURI. 21 P R 1874

20. Succession of females.

Plaintiff, a female, found to be entitled to succeed as mahant of a religious institution, having been nominated successor by the deceased mahant. MUSSAMMAT MUNNIA v. JIWAN DAS. 76 P R 1874

21. Nature of relationship—Office of parohit—Hereditary right of heir of deceased parohit to sue for fees paid to another parohit.

A. and B. were members of a family of parohits. Under an arrangement between the ancestors of both, it was settled that A.'s ancestor C. should receive the fees paid by the jujmans during two months of each year. This arrangement was carried out during C.'s lifetime, and after his death his widow received the dues in his place. At her death certain jujmans erroneously thinking that B. was the heir of C. and that A had no pretensions to be such heir, paid their fees to B. during the said months. A., C.'s daughter's son, sued B. to recover the amounts so paid.

Held, by a Full Bench (BOULNOIS, LINDSAY and CAMPBELL, JJ). affirming the order proposed by PLOWDEN, J. and dissenting from that of FITZPATRICK, J. that the suit would lie.

CUSTOM X.—RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS—contd.

Per PLOWDEN, J.—The office of parohit was herditary as amongst his successors and descendants, and gave the heir the right to share the emoluments of the office; but the relation of parohit and jujman was voluntary, the latter being at liberty to pay his fees to the priest of his own choice, and the parohit being entitled to exercise his office in his individual capacity and retain the fees paid to him in that capacity as his own,—in what capacity a particular fee was received being a matter of evidence in each instance. A. as daughter's son of C. was the heir of C. and entitled to recover from B. the fees received by the latter during the appointed months.

Per FITZPATRICK, J.—At a time when the exclusive right of a parohit to minister to and receive fees from his jujmans, was recognized by the Courts, the claim of A. would have been maintainable, but as the office was now, as between parohit and jujman, voluntary, the question of hereditary right could not arise. A contract between the relations of a deceased parohit as to officiating at different seasons and their shares in the fees, might be enforced, and a fee paid to one parohit but intended for a whole collective body, might be recovered from the receiver of it. As A sued as heir of C, his suit should be dismissed. GOBIND v. SADDA. 7 P R 1877

22. Donation made to member of family of priests—Express exclusion of specified parohit from benefit of donation.

Where a jujman in making a donation (birt) to a member of a family of priests intentionally and expressly excludes another member of the family from the benefit of the donation, held, that the latter is not entitled upon the mere ground of hereditary right to recover the whole or a part of the donation so made to the recipient. MATHRA v. KANHYA. 119 P R 1879

23. Jurisdiction of Civil Court—Suit for the right to a religious office—Custom—Kangra Bhojkis of Bhowan shrine—Right to officiate at temple.

A suit by a family of priests for a decree prohibiting another branch of the family from conducting religious services in a shrine, held, to be cognizable by the Civil Courts.

Found that by the custom of the Bhojkis of the Bhowan shrine at Kangra, only Bhojkis by wives who are the daughters of Kangra Bhojkis are entitled to officiate at the temple, and not sons of Kangra Bhojkis by daughters of Jawala Mukhi or Naina Devi Bhojkis. BHAG MAL v. SANT. 21 P R 1880

24. Suit on mortgage bond—Omission by defendant to plead that the mortgaged property was wakf—Subsequent suit by defendant in former case to release from attachment the mortgaged property on the ground of its being wakf.

CUSTOM X.—RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS—contd.

The plaintiff in the present case was sued as a defendant in a former suit based on two mortgage bonds, the prayer of the plaint being in the alternative either for payment of principal and interest or for possession of the mortgaged property. The then defendants pleaded that the money lent had been returned: the fact of the mortgage was not denied, but no plea was raised that it was inoperative as against the property on the ground that it was wakf. The present suit was for a declaration that the mortgaged property, which the plaintiff had attached in execution of the money decree obtained in the first suit, was wakf, and for its release from attachment.

Held, that the plaintiff might and ought to have pleaded in the former suit that the mortgage was inoperative to bind the property of which the plaintiff sought possession in the alternative that the plea would have been relevant and would, if decided in the defendant's favour, have been a complete answer to the prayer for possession, and that therefore the present suit was rightly dismissed as res judicata. BANNE SHAH v. KARM CHAND. 89 P R 1881

25. Alienation by manager of property attached to institution—Necessity.

A mahant, who holds the position of manager of the property of a religious institution, has the power in that capacity to alienate such property, if it is necessary to resort to this means of raising money for the purposes of the institution.

In considering whether it was necessary to raise money for the purposes of the institution the income as well as the necessary expenses of the institution must be taken into account, and it should further be shown how much of the money was required for such purposes: the power to incur debts binding the institution must be measured by the necessity of incurring them. Shahabal v. Ram Das (No. 95 P. R. 1879 Civil) referred to. BISHEN DAS v. GHASITA. 39 P R 1882

26. Relative position of mujawars and sajjada-nashin of shrine—Liability of mujawars to dismissal at will of sajjada-nashin—Custom of Peshawar district—Suit for declaratory decree.

A suit brought by certain mujawars of a shrine in the Peshawar district for a declaration that they were entitled to receive a third share of the offerings of the shrine whilst the defendant (who it appeared was the sajjada-nashin) was entitled to the other two-thirds, dismissed on the ground that it was fully established by the evidence in the case that mujawars generally in the shrines of the Peshawar District were servants liable to be dismissed by the sajjada-nashin at pleasure and that the plaintiffs had failed to prove that they, owing to the post having come down to them from three generations, or for any other cause, were on a more privileged footing; and that this being so, they were not entitled in a suit for a declaratory decree, to require the Courts to define and ascertain their rights. MUHAMMAD TAHIR v. NAJIBULLA. 154 P R 1888

27. Succession to office of mahant—Custom of Institution—Onus of proof—Nomination or election—Will of deceased mahant.

Plaintiff sued to dispossess defendant from a shrine and property which he held as mahant elected by the brotherhood, on the strength of a will executed by the last mahant, nominating him as his successor and alleged to have been confirmed (after registration) before the brotherhood.

Held that to succeed in his suit, plaintiff had to show that he had a better title than defendant, that is, that according to the rule of succession governing that particular shrine he, as nominee of the last mahant, had a right to oust defendant, and that as he had failed to prove this, his suit failed. GURDIT SINGH v. RANJIT SINGH. 87 P R 1889

28. Custom—Alienation—Nirmala Sadhs of Amritsar—Power of chela to alienate property inherited from guru.

Found that by the custom of Nirmala Sadhs of Amritsar, a chela who succeeds to the estate of his Guru has no power to alienate any portion of that estate. RAM SINGH v. NIHAL SINGH. 136 P R 1889

29. *Custom—Succession—Bairagis of Rawalpindi—Nomination—Election—*Chela.

J., the mahant of a Bairagi shrine at Rawalpind, executed a will whereby he nominated his own brother R., as his successor. It was found that the will was not executed in the presence, or with the consent, of the members of his religious brotherhood, and that R. had never been initiated as a chela. Held that by the custom applicable to the institution to which the deceased mahant belonged, a mahant may appoint his successor from among his chelas with the approval of an assembly of the religious brotherhood, and some of the respectable Chowdhris of the place, and if one has not been so appointed in the life-time of the said mahant, that he is elected by an assembly of the brotherhood on the death of his predecessor, and that defendant's nomination, not being of this character, failed and must be set aside. BABA RAM KAUR DAS v. GOPAL DAS. 175 P R 1889

30. Suit to recover possession of shrine—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 539—Right of sewaks *or worshippers to remove a mahant for alleged misconduct—*Onus probandi.

In a suit by a person claiming as the lawful mahant of a shrine for recovery of possession thereof and of the lands attached thereto, defendant who had been elected mahant by the worshippers of the shrine pleaded inter alia that section 539, Civil Procedure Code, 1882 (Section 92 of the Code of 1908,) barred the suit. Held, that section 539 had no application to such a suit, ; that section deals with two classes of cases—(i) where there is an alleged breach of any trust created for public, charitable or religious purposes, and (ii) where the direction of the Court is necessary for the administration of any such trust. On the facts of the case, held, that the defendant, on whom the onus lay, had failed to prove—(i) that by general or special custom the worshippers of a shrine were competent to remove a mahant, and to appoint his successor, and (ii) that the plaintiff had acquiesced in his removal. BAWA SUKHRAM DAS v. BURHAM PURI. 122 P R 1890

31. *Nirmala Sadhs—mahant—Nomination of* chela by, as his successor—Consent of gurbhai.

Found that no custom was proved whereby among Nirmala Sadhs the nomination of a chela by a mahant as his successor was invalid as having been made without the consent of a gurbhai. BHAI CHET SINGH v. BHAI NIHAL SINGH. 87 P R 1891

32. Sadhs—Alienation—Power of father to alienate his life estate.

Found, that no special custom applicable to the parties who were sadhs (Bairagis) was proved justifying a departure from the usual rule in the Punjab, that a proprietor with a restricted power of alienation can, even in the case of ancestral property, deal with such property so as to bind the heirs during his life-time. FATTEH SINGH v. HARI AND OTHERS. 112 P R 1891

33. Golden Temple, Amritsar—Succession of gaddi-nashin,—Custom as to—Survivorship.

In determining the right of succession to the office of gadai-nashin, the only law to be observed is to be found in the custom and practice, which must be proved by evidence.

Hitherto the rule of succession in the case of the Darbar Sahib, or Golden Temple at Amritsar, has been that the gaddi-nashins have nominated successors, who have been installed in each case without objection.

Held, that no good grounds existed for applying the doctrine of survivorship to a case such as this, there being no analogy between three gaddi-nashins, who were to all intents and purposes separate and not joint, and the case of an undivided Hindu family among whom the doctrine of survivorship prevails.

Held, also, that it would not be just or equitable to reduce the customary number of gaddinashins from three to two, merely to benefit the plaintiff and to the detriment of the institution and its supporters. BHAI BHAGAT SINGH v. HARNAM SINGH. 49 P R 1892

34. Dharmsala—Right of worshipper at, to contest alienation of property attached to—Application of section 539, Civil Procedure Code.

The plaintiffs were worshippers at a dharmsala, and interested in the maintenance of the institution and preservation of the property intact.

Held, that in this capacity they had a locus standi to challenge certain alienations of property alleged and found to be waqf and attached to the dharmsala, not as self-constituted representatives of the body of worshippers who should have obtained an order under section 30, Civil Procedure Code, butas persons themselves interested in the preservation of the property.

Held, further, that section 539, Civil Procedure Code, (Section 92 of the Code of 1908) has no application to a suit of this description. SEWA SINGH v. BUDH SINGH. 66 P R 1892

35. Right to sue—Habitual worshipper at mosque—Ejectment of trespasser.

In a suit by one who was a habitual worshipper at a certain Muhammadan mosque, of which he was also a neighbour and a supporter or well-wisher, for the ejectment of the defendant from certain land alleged to be attached to the mosque and to have been unlawfully encroached upon, the Divisional Judge dismissed the plaintiff's suit, holding that he was not competent to maintain it.

Held, that the suit would lie. Every Muhammadan who has a right to use a mosque is competent to maintain a suit against any one who interferes with the exercise of his such right to use: and by the same analogy every Muhammadan has a right to maintain a suit against persons who commit an injury upon property which has been devoted to the support of a mosque. MUHAMMAD UMAR v. RAM CHAND. 87 P R 1892

36. Custom—Succession to office of mahant—Dharmsala Thakar Bhawal Singh, Amritsar—Nomination of successor—Approval of brotherhood.

In a suit regarding the succession to the office of mahant of the dharmsala of Nirmala Sadhs, known as Thakar Bahawal Singh, situate outside the city of Amritsar, held, that by custom the rule of succession was that the mahant may nominate his successor, but that the nomination will not prevail unless the brotherhood formally approve the appointment.

If there be no nomination, then the brotherhood meet and formally appoint.

If the mahant misconducts himself the brotherhood have the power to dismiss him.

The brotherhood, strictly speaking, are those connected by spiritual ties with the founder of the institution, although it apparently may be held to include also the whole sect who are also related to each other by spiritual ties.

No. 37 P. R. 1891, referred to. ARBEL SINGH v. BAJ SINGH. 105 P R 1892

37. Muhammadan shrine, Dera Ismail Khan District—Succession to land and offerings—Alienation—Religious office.

1153

CUSTOM X.—RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS—contd.

J. M., who died about a year before suit, was owner of half the land attached to the Shah Habibwala khangah in the Dera Ismail Khan District and was entitled to a half share in the management and offerings of the shrine; he settled this property on N. M., his sister's son, on condition that he (the grantor) should receive maintenance during his life-time.

The plaintiffs, members of the family and related to J. M. in the fourth degree (computed in accordance with the opinion expressed in No. 126 P. R. 1890) were entitled to a two-thirds share of the other moiety of the management and offerings, sued to set aside the above arrangement on the grounds (1) that the property was waqf; and (2) that J. M. was not competent to make the alienation.

Held, that by custom the plaintiffs were entitled to inherit the share in the management and offerings in preference to N. M., a sister's son, his place being after collaterals related in the fourth degree.

Held, also, that assuming that J. M. as proprietor could alienate only for necessity, there appeared to be satisfactory reasons for holding that the alienation of the land was justified by necessity. The land was simply heritable property unconnected with the shrine, save that hitherto both had belonged to the same people.

Held, also, that the shrine must be regarded as a religious institution of a sort. It could not be regarded as a waqf, it being nowhere laid down that a mausoleum raised to a saint is to be so treated. The succession to the superintendence and management of the shrine are to be determined by the rules and customs which have hitherto been applied to the particular institution, as in other like cases.

Held, further, that the transfer of a share in the shrine and the offerings was akin to the transfer of a religious office and was invalid. I. L. R VI Mad. 76, referred to and followed. NUR MUHAMMAD v. GHULAM HABIB.

106 P R 1892

38. Management of religious institution. Founder's rights.

There is no authority for the proposition that the management of a Hindu religious or charitable institution is on the footing of a joint tenancy and that the succession goes to the survivor. SAIN DAS v. MUSSAMMAT SAHIB DEVI. 140 P R 1892

39. Mahant, appointment or deposition of—Powers of bhekh—Jurisdiction of Civil Court—Chitta Akhara, Amritsar City.

Questions of succession and appointment to, and dismissal from, the office of mahant must be governed by the evidence in each case.

In a case relating to the mahantship of the Chitta Akhara, Amritsar City, found, on the evidence, that the bhekh, or college of mahants, when composed of the mahants of the principal akharas at Amritsar, including mahants nominated by the guru of the mahant who has to be dealt with, has full power to remove a mahant for misconduct, and that in the event of a vacancy in the mahantship, whether caused by the removal or otherwise of the mahant, a successor can be validly appointed only with the sanction of, or ratification by, the bhekh.

1154

CUSTOM X.—RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS—contd.

Held, that when a mahant has been appointed by the bhekh, a Civil Court should not interfere with the appointment except for very cogent reasons.

Quære: whether a Civil Court, after it has once held that a bhekh has power to depose a mahant for misconduct and has actually deposed him, can go into the question whether such mahant's conduct was or was not bad. GIYAN PARKASH v. HUZURA SINGH.

3 P R 1899

40. Suit by plaintiff as mutwali of mosque—Dismissal of suit and death of plaintiff pending appeal—Application by persons named by plaintiff in plaint as co-mutwalis to be brought on record as legal representatives—Burden of proof.

One I B. sued as mutwali of a certain mosque, and in his plaint named the present appellants as joint mutwalis with him, but at the time resident at Mecca. I. B., whose suit was dismissed in the District Court, appealed to the Chief Court but died pending the appeal, whereupon the appellants applied to be brought on the record as the legal representatives of the deceased. The Chief Court refused to allow this to be done until appellants had proved by a regular suit that they were joint mutwalis with deceased, the appeal of I. B. being meantime postponed. Appellants accordingly instituted the present suit, but their claim was dismissed. On appeal to the Chief Court it was contended that inasmuch as appellants had been named by I. B. as his co-trustees, there could be no objection to their obtaining a decree declaring them his legal representatives for the purpose of continuing the appeal originally preferred by him, without going into the question of how they may have become co-trustees.

Held that, in accordance with the previous order of the Chief Court, it was incumbent on appellants to prove their status as joint mutwalis with the deceased before their application to be brought on the record could be entertained.

Held, on the evidence, that appellants had failed to prove that they were the duly appointed joint mutwalis of the mosque in question, and that accordingly, whether defendants' title to retain possession of it was good or bad, appellants had no right to interfere in its management. ABDUL HAMID v. AHMAD HUSSAIN. 28 P R 1900

41. Jurisdiction of Civil Court to remove kardar or manager from the management of the endowed property—Locus standi of plaintiff—Act XX of 1863, sections 14 and 18—Regulation XIX of 1810.

1155

CUSTOM X.—RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS—contd.

In a suit which was instituted after sanction of the District Judge under section 18 of Act XX of 1863 by some of the tenants of the land endowed on two temples in Kulu along with several others against the defendants, who was the kardar or manager, asking for a decree for the money value of the property belonging to the temples, which was alleged to have been misappropriated by the defendant, the first Court gave a decree for the major portion of their claim and directed his removal from the office of kardari. On appeal the Divisional Judge found that the defendant was not responsible for the loss for property, but upheld the order of his removal. The defendant preferred a further appeal to the Chief Court on the grounds—

(i) that the order of dismissal was without jurisdiction, as Act XX of 1866 was not applicable;
(ii) the plaintiffs had no locus standi;
(iii) no legal permission has been obtained; and
(iv) the order of dismissal was not justified

Held, that Bengal Regulation XIX of 1810, was extended to the Punjab by general rules and order which were given the force of law by the Indian Councils Act, and that Act XX of 1863 is applicable to this Province; that the endowment, the subject-matter of the present dispute, was one of the nature of those contemplated in that Act; that the suit had been rightly instituted after obtaining permission under section 18; and that the facts that the application asking permission made no mention of the Act, and that all the plaintiffs were not applicants for permission to sue did not constitute defects vitiating the order for the dismissal of defendant from managership.

Budder Din v. Malik Attar (35 P. R. 1871), and Sukhram Das v. Sunder Mal (75 P. R. 1884), referred to. GOKAL RAM v. KAHANI RAM AND OTHES. 95 P R 1900

42. Management of—Funds of the temple—Worshippers not entitled to call for accounts from the mahant unless there is proof of a custom or practice entitling them to do so—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 539—Sanction—Court cannot grant relief outside the sanction.

Where the plaintiffs had applied for permission under section 539 of the Code of Civil Procedure to sue to have a committee appointed by a Civil Court for the management of a certain religious trust, and to obtain such other relief as they might be entitled to under the said section and the Collector had merely "accorded permission."

Held, that the suit must be limited to matters covered by the sanction and that the plaintiffs were not competent to sue for the removal of the defendant from the office of mahant, the Court having no authority to enlarge the scope of the suit and to grant any other reliefs other than those included in the terms of the sanction.

CUSTOM X.—RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS—contd.

Held also, that the mahant of a religious institution is presumed to be the manager of the institution over which he presides, and is not bound to submit accounts for the information or approval of the worshippers at the shrine unless it is proved by evidence that it is the custom and practice of the institution for him to do so. Civil Courts are not justified in forcing a scheme of management on a religious or charitable institution unless there is clear proof that there has been such mismanagement or misconduct as calls for judicial interference. PREM SINGH v. LABH SINGH AND OTHERS.

89 P R 1901

43. Religious Institution—Alienation of immovable property belonging to a shrine—Power of mahant*—Necessity—Burden of proof.*

Held, that the powers of a mahant of a religious institution in matters of alienations of the endowment property are analogous to those of a Hindu widow. He can only alienate for the necessary purposes of the institution, and it should be shown that such purposes could not be fulfilled by contracting debts, and that the ordinary income of the endowment was not available, and was insufficient for them, and that the debts could not be disharged from the income.

The lender advancing money to such a person on the security of trust property must show that he has made a proper enquiry as to the necessity, which will be tested by the principles enunciated above.

Prosunno Kumari Debya v. Gulab Chand Baboo (14 B. L. R. 450), and Shahabal v. Ram Das (95 P. R. 1879) cited. KASHI RAM v. BAWA TOLA. 3 P R 1902

44. Religious Institution—management of Religious Institution—Founder's right—Bungah Nur Mahlyanwala, attached to Golden Temple, Amritsar.

Held, that the bungahs in the outer quadrangle of the tank of the Golden Temple, according to Hindu Law, were (where the nature of the property remains unchanged and its management at the discretion of the founder or his representatives) imperfect trusts and not religious institutions pure and simple and that the bungahs were not equal in status to mahants. KISHEN SINGH v. SARDARNI PARTAB KAUR. 81 P R 1902

45. Religious Institution—Liability of debts incurred by mahant*—Duty of lender when advancing money to heads of religious institutions—Necessity.*

Held, that it is not sufficient for persons who lend money to heads of religious institutions and desire to charge the institution with liability to show that the purposes for which the loans are taken are necessary, but they must also show that they made inquiries and satisfied themselves that on the occasion on which they made the advance the loan was justified by the state of the institution's finances.

CUSTOM X.—RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS—contd.

Kashi Ram v. Bawu Tola (3 P. R. 1902), cited and followed. GURMUKH SINGH v. SUNDER SINGH. 45 P R 1903

46. Religious institution—Suit by person interested in endowed property for dispossession of an assignee of the last manager—Limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 120.

In 1899 plaintiff brought a suit as a worshipper to contest an alienation made in 1889, by the last manager of the endowed property and asked for the dispossession of the assignee in favour of the endowment, held, that the limitation applicable to such suit was that prescribed by article 120 of the Second Schedule to the Limitation Act, and that time began to run for the purposes of limitation from the date of the alienation.

Narain Singh v. Isher Singh (8 P. R. 1899), Behari Lal v. Muhammad Mutaki (I. L. R. XX All. 482), and Chukkun Lal v. Lolit Mohan Roy (I. L. R. XX Calc. 906), referred to. ASA RAM v. PARAS RAM. 9 P R 1904

47. Religious Institution—Mahant—Right of supporters or worshippers to remove a mahant for immorality.

In a suit by a person claiming as the lawfull mahant of a dera for recovery of possession thereof and of the lands attached thereto, where it appeared that the plaintiff enticed away a young widow from the village and had gone off with such property belonging to the dera as he was able to seize, and deserted the dera which had been entirely supported by the villagers, and in the arrangements for which they had always taken a predominant part, and had after the plaintiff's desertion installed another mahant in his place and to which appointment the bhekh had taken no exception, either as to the rejection of plaintiff or as to the appointment of the substitute in his place.

Held, that the plaintiff's conduct being unworthy of his office, the worshippers of the dera were fully justified in removing and competent to remove him and to appoint his successor.

Bawa Sukhram Das v. Barhampuri (122 P. R. 1890), and Giyan Parkash v. Hazura Singh (3 P. R. 1899), referred to. ASA RAM v. HARI SINGH. 53 P R 1904

48. Religious Institution—Endowment—Succession to endowed property—Right of a son or widow to succeed—Udasi Sahds.

Held, that according to general principles regulating the devolution of endowed property belonging to a religious institution of Udasi sahds, where the last incumbent dies without leaving a spiritual disciple or chela, the endowment reverts to that order, and that a claim by a son or widow of the last incumbent to succeed to such property under the ordinary law of inheritance is not maintainable. HER DEVI v. CHARN DAS. 101 P R 1905

CUSTOM X.—RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS—concld.

49. Religious Institution—Succession to office of mahant*—Right of a son to succeed—Udasi Sahds of Ludhiana District.*

Held that, by the custom prevailing among married (Bindi) Udasi Sahds of the Ludhiana District, the son of a deceased Bindi mahant of a religious institution has a right as such to succeed to the office and property appertaining to such institution.

Her Devi v. Charan Das (101 P. R. 1905) and Ram Singh v. Nehal Singh (136 P. R. 1889) referred to. DASAUNDHI RAM v. KHAZAN DAS. 112 P R 1906

50. Right of a head of a religious institution to succeed to occupancy rights in his representative capacity—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 59.

Held, that where occupancy rights belong to a religious institution the chela of the last incumbent who has become mahant of the institution is entitled to succeed to them in his representative capacity as head of such institution. SHER SINGH v. SAYA RAM DAS. 2 P R 1907 Rev.

51. Religious institution—Mahant—Suit relating to appointment and removal of—Right to sue without obtaining sanction—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 539.

Held, that a suit for the removal of the incumbent mahant of a dharmsala who has misbehaved as mahant and misused the funds of the institution and for the appointment of the plaintiff in his place falls within the scope of section 539 of the Code of Civil Procedure (section 92 of new Code) and is not maintainable without obtaining previous sanction of the Collector to the institution of such suit. DALIP SINGH v. SHAR SINGH. 78 P R 1907

52. Religious Institution—Removal of a duly constituted manager—Discretionary power of a temple committee to remove the existing manager and to appoint his successor—Procedure—Religious Endowments Act, 1863, sections 14, 18—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 539.

Held, that a duly constituted manager of a religious institution cannot be removed from his office otherwise than by a civil suit instituted with a previous sanction obtained under either sections 14 and 18 of Act XX of 1863 or section 539 (new section 92) of the Civil Procedure Code.

It is not open to a self-constituted temple committee in the event of dispute with the manager either to suspend or remove him from office or to appoint another in his place.

Application to the Punjab or Bengal Regulation. XIX of 1810. BANSI DHAR v. CHHANGA RAM. 7 P R 1903

53. Mortgage of property attached to religious institution—Suit by mahant to set aside various mortgages made by his predecessor in office to several persons—

CUSTOM X.—RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS—concld.

Limitation for such suit—Starting point of Limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, articles 134, 144—Misjoinder of causes of action and parties—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 28, 45.

Held by the Full Bench (1) that the limitation applicable to a suit by a mahant to set aside a mortgage of waqf property attached to a religious institution by his predecessor in office on the ground that the alienor had no power to alienate such property is that prescribed by article 144 of the Second Schedule to the Limitation Act and not that prescribed by article 134, and that it begins to run from the date of the plaintiff's appointment as mahant, i. e., the date on which he becomes entitled to possession by virtue of his appointment.

(2) That a suit for possession of land and also for a sum of money realized by the defendants as rent from persons to whom the said land had been leased, is not bad for misjoinder of causes of action. BASHESHAR LAL v. NATHA SINGH. 30 P R 1908 F B

Note.—But see 127 P. R. 1908 F. B. and altered Article 134 in the Indian Limitation Act, 1908.

54. Sale by mahant of immovable property belonging to his shrine—Suit by his successor to recover property—Limitation for such suit—Starting point of limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, Article 134.

Held by the Full Bench that where immovable property conveyed in trust to a mahant of a religious institution for the time being for the benefit of the institution is sold by him for value, a suit by his successor in office to recover the property so alienated is governed by article 134 of the Indian Limitation Act, and is barred if the purchaser has been in possession of such property for more than twelve years from the date of his purchase. HAR GIAN DEO v. BALDEO DAS. 127 P R 1908 F. B.

55. *Custom—Religious institutions—*Darbar Sahib, Amritsar—Adopted son—Succession to rozina dues—Hindu Law not applicable

Held, that an adopted son does not come under clause (b) of the Dastur-ul-aml of Darbar Sahib, Amritsar, and therefore cannot succeed to the rozina dues of the said institution; the matter is not one to be decided under Hindu law but under the custom and practice of the institution. HIRA SINGH v. GUR BAKHSH SINGH. 94 P R 1909

CUSTOM XI—SERVANT'S' WAGES.

1. Custom—Reasonable or unreasonable custom—Gold lace weavers of Amritsar.

A custom of the gold lace weavers of Amritsar, whereby the employer of a workman becomes liable to the previous employer of such workman for any balance due to the former for wages received in advance by the latter, held to be unreasonable as opposed to equity, justice and good conscience. ARURI v. KALLU. 49 P R 1897

CUSTOM XI.—SERVANTS' WAGES—concld.

CUSTOM XII—VILLAGE MENIALS.

1. Custom—Village menials—Sale of their houses by, without consent of proprietors.

Found that in the village of Haria in the Bhera tahsil, Shahpur District, no custom was established permitting menials to sell their house without the consent of the proprietary body. MIRZA v. SAMDILI. 99 P R 1892

2. Custom—Right of village menials to build a mosque over the site occupied by them without consent of the proprietors—Mauza Bakipur, Amritsar District.

Held, that as a kamin generally gets land from the proprietary body on the implied understanding that it is only to be used for purposes of residence and for plying his trade, he is not competent to build a mosque or temple on it without the consent of the proprietors. KALU AND OTHERS v. WASAWA SINGH AND OTHERS. 19 P R 1904

CUSTOM XIII—WELLS.

See IRRIGATION.

1. Co-sharers—Suit for share in the wheel of well on payment of share of expenses.

In a suit by some of the co-sharers in a well in mauza Taju Chak, tahsil Tarn Taran, for a one-fourth share of a wheel added by the other co-sharers at their own cost, held, that the plaintiffs were entitled to succeed in their suit by virtue of a custom under which where a sharer constructs an additional wheel in a well at his own expense, the other sharers are entitled to come in and share its use on payment of their proportion of the cost. NATHA SINGH v. GURDIT SINGH. 9 P R 1887

2. Irrigation—Sinking wells by persons other than owners of land—Mauza Bhukkar—Tahsil and District Shahpur—Claim by owners of the fabric of a well to share in its water.

The plaintiffs in this case claimed a right to irrigate their lands from a certain well on the ground that they were assignees of certain sharers in the fabric of the well. Defendants denied their right to do so.

Held, that by the custom prevailing at mauza Bhukkur in the Shahpur District and the neighbourhood generally, persons other than the owners of the land irrigable by a well may contribute to the cost of sinking a well as a speculation, on the understanding that they can let their share of the water to others who require it for lands irrigable by the well. TAHIR v. GHULAM 168 P R 1889

1. Share in well for irrigating agricultural land—Land suit—Course of appeal.

CUSTOM XIII.—WELLS—concld.

A suit for a share in a well sunk for the purpose of irrigating agricultural land is a "land suit" and the course of appeal is to the Divisional Court. The land on which the well is sunk is used "for purposes subservient to agriculture" and the well itself is a "structure on such land" within the definition of "land" in section 4 subsection (1), Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. IMAM DIN v. MOHKU. 62 P R 1891

CUSTOM XIV—WAJIB-UL-ARZ.

See CUSTOM, III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—C. ADOPTION OF DAUGHTER'S SON. 120 P R 1881

See LAMBARDARS. 13 P R 1881 Rev. 2 P R 1882 Rev. 4 P R 1883 Rev.

See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS. 100 P R 1881

See PARTITION. 9 P R 1885 Rev.

See PRE-EMPTION. 49 P R 1881 14 P R 1882 114 P R 1884 58 P R 1885 69 P R 1885 103 P R 1885

—Suit for cancellation of condition in, providing for partition by mutual consent of proprietors or by order of competent authority (ba hukm sirkar).

See RIGHT TO SUE. 100 P R 1884

—Agreements in, between landlord and tenant.

See TENANCY ACT (XXVII OF 1868), SECTION 2. 42, 43 and 108 P R 1881 1, 22, 32, 116 and 183 P R 1882 50, 90 and 121 P R 1883 8, 21 and 161 P R 1884 104 P R 1885 9 P R 1886

—Construction of wajib-ul-arz.

See CONSTRUCTION OF DOCUMENTS. 125 P R 1889

See CUSTOM II—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—GIFTS AND WILLS IN FAVOUR OF DAUGHTERS AND THEIR CHILDREN (proved). 133 P R 1890

See IRRIGATION. 66 P R 1837

See PARTITION. 11 P R 1896 Rev.

See PRE-EMPTION — CONSTRUCTION OF wajib-ul-arz, passim.

See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 2. 3 P R 1888 Rev. 3 P R 1889 Rev.

See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 36. 196 P R 1889

See WATER-COURSE. 37 P R 1899

1. The decision of the Chief Court (No. 160 P. R. 1890), that in a case where the Wajib-ul-arz of the old Settlement provided for the succession of collaterals to an occupancy tenant, while that of the new settlement contained no similar provision but merely declared that occupancy tenants would be dealt with according to law, and that a suit brought after the new Wajib-ul-arz had come into force must be decided in accordance therewith, and not under the old Wajib-ul-arz, overruled upon application for review of judgment. HARJALU v. WAZIRA 87 P R 1891

CUSTOM XIV.—WAJIB-UL-ARZ —contd.

2. The parts of a Wajib-ul-arz referring to custom are not provisions intended to be in force for a limited period only,—they are statements that a certain custom exists. The statement may or may not be correct, but if it is correct, there would be a natural presumption that the custom continued to exist, and it would be for those alleging that a change had subsequently taken place to prove the allegation.

The production of a later Record of Rights containing entries opposed to the earlier one would no doubt be some proof of such a change, but there would then merely be a balance of evidence on either side: it could not be said that the second Record destroyed or abrogated the earlier one.

No. 107 P. R. 1887, referred to. RAHIMAN AND SOHNA v. BALA. 8 P R 1892

3. An agreement recorded in the Wajib-ul-arz between the proprietors of a village as to the persons to whom the right of pre-emption would belong in future cannot prevail against the provisions of section 12, Punjab Laws Act, 1872, as amended, which give a detail of the persons to whom the right to pre-empt property in a village belongs in the absence of a custom to the contrary. Such agreements are not saved by the section, and the law must therefore prevail against them. JAFAR KHAN v. FAZAL MOHI-UD-DIN. 44 P R 1892

4. Entries in Wajib-ul-arz that a landowner desirous to alienate his holding first should make an offer to certain specified persons are not agreements but are sufficient evidence to prove a custom. DILSUKH RAM v. NATHA SINGH. 98 P R 1894 F B

5. Entries in Settlement Records relating to questions of rent are ordinarily only binding during the currency of the settlement in which they were made, and cannot be held to constitute an agreement which debar, the landlords in such cases from enhancing their tenant's rent for all time. MAMRAJ v. MUSSAMMAT SARAYAN. 5 P R 1895 Rev.

6. Entry in a Wajib-ul-arz when relating to custom should not be understood as one in force for a limited period only, and such entry must be deemed sufficient proof of the custom stated therein in the absence of evidence to the contrary and throws on the party denying its validity the onus of proving that it was wrong.

The fact that the provisions of a former Wajib-ul-arz were not repeated in the present

CUSTOM XIV.—WAJIB-UL-ARZ —concld.

Wajib-ul-arz are not sufficient to rebut the presumption in favour of the correctness of the previous entry as a record of custom. MASTA v. POHLO. 52 P R 1896

7. An entry in the Wajib-ul-arz to the effect that an occupancy tenant has the power of sale does not enable the widow of a deceased tenant to mortgage her right of occupany. SURAB v. CHIRAGH. 3 P R 1897 Rev.

8. Where a Wajib-ul-arz gives a right of pre-emption to collaterals, it follows, either as a necessary inference from such provision or on general grounds, that those who are more nearly related would, as in cases of succession, exclude the more remote. NARAIN SINGH v. HARI SINGH. 28 P R 1899

9. Application of, to an owner who is not specifically mentioned therein.

Held, that the Wajib-ul-arz of a village should be presumed to apply to all landowners in the village as a body unless they are specifically exempted. SAYAD RAHIM SHAH v. SAYAD HUSSAIN SHAH. 102 P R 1901

10. An entry in a Wajib-ul-arz should not be considered as conclusive evidence of a custom, specially where the custom set up is one opposed to the principle founded on universal law and justice. GHULAM MOHAY-UD-DIN v. FAIZ BAKHSH. 97 P R 1902

See ALLUVION AND DILUVION. 15 R P 1904

11. Effect of aentry in, especially when inconsistent with that of the subsequent Wajib-ul-arz.

See PRE-EMPTION. 78 P R 1904

12. Value of chakwar Wajib-ul-arz—Conflict between earlier and later Wajib-ul-arz.

See PRE-EMPTION. 44 P R 1907

D.

DAKHIL KHARIJ.

1. Appeal from order passed in mutation proceedings.

See APPEAL, VII Revenue. 6 P R 1881 Rev 6 P R 1883 Rev

2. Defendant who had obtained dakhil kharij of his deceased brother's estate denying that he represented such estate.

See ESTOPPEL. 104 P R 1882

3. Ordering dakhil kharij does not constitute the matter res judicata. HEERA SINGH v. JAGEER BEG. 3 P R 1868

4. It is an administrative act only—a record of an accomplished fact; its performance or omission neitner creates nor destroys a right. PATHAN v. SHEIKH AHMED 34 P R 1872.

DAKHIL KHARIJ—concld.

5. Mutation proceedings have no judicial character. The process is a mere declaration of fact. It is the entry in a register of the name of the proprietor of the land, and the object of the proceeding is to keep the revenue registers up to date in order that the Collector may know whom to look to as responsible for the payment of revenue. The person to enter in the register is the person in possession—the de facto proprietor. SIRDAR NURAN KHAN v. NAWAB IMAM BAKSH KHAN. 6 P R 1883 Rev.

DAMAGE—SPECIAL.

. Erection of kotha on gora-deh by non-proprietary resident with the permission of a proprietor in possession—Absence of special damage.

See COMMON LAND. 33 P R 1901

2. Easement—Obstruction to private right of way—Necessity of special damage.

See EASEMENT. 64 P R 1901

3. Public thoroughfare—Suit to remove obstruction—Special damage.

See EASEMENT. 39 P R 1888
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURT 73 P R 1877

4. Actual pecuniary.

See JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT. 143 P R 1884 11 P R 1886

DAMAGES.

1. Breach of marriage contract—Injured feelings—What damages for presents are recoverable.

See BETROTHAL. 22 P R 1869

2. For procuring breach of betrothal.

See BETROTHAL. 83 P R 1870

3. For breach of betrothal.

See BETROTHAL. 174 P R 1882 197 P R 1882

4. *Suit for damages for breach of betrothal contract—Defendant justifying his refusal to carry out the contract by custom—*Onus probandi.

See BETROTHAL. 132 P R 1888

5. Suit for damages for breach of betrothal contract—Recovery of money paid under the agreement.

See BETROTHAL. 141 P R 1890

6. House in Cantonments—Liability of landlord to repair—Damages for injuries caused from non-repair.

See CANTONMENTS. 38 P R 1877

7. Carrier of passengers—Damages for in convenience.

See CARRIERS No. 10 77 P R 1867

8. Suit for damages for wrongful seizure of cattle.

See CATTLE TRESPASS ACT 1871, SECTION 20. 92 P R 1877

1165

DAMAGES—contd.

9. Suit for damages for wrongful act—Previous suit for injunction restraining same wrongful act.

See Cause of Action—I. Distinct Causes of Action. 190 P R 1888

10. Unascertained—Set off.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, O. VIII, R. 6. 47 P R 1885

11. Suit for damages for malicious prosecution.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, O. XXII, R. 4. 4 P R 1897

See Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court. 86 P R 1874
11 P R 1886

12. Application for attachment before judgment—Suit by former defendant for compensation on ground that such application was made maliciously and without reasonable cause—Burden of proof.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, O. XXXVIII, R. 5. 86 P R 1895

13. Injunction when to be granted—Discretion of Court—Damages.

See Common Land. 91 P R 1901

14. Suit for damages for money paid for expenses of marriage afterwards found to be a nullity.

See Contracts. 107 P R 1879

15. Measure of damages for not accepting goods sold.

See Contracts. 51 P R 1866

16. Measure of damages of goods delivered to a carrier at one place to be conveyed to another and lost en-route.

See Contracts. 10 P R 1866 Civ. Ref.

17. Measure of damages in cases of guarantee.

See Contracts. 106 P R 1866

18. Measure of damages for breach of contract of sale of corn.

See Contracts. 15 P R 1867

19. Measure of damages for refusing to enter into a partnership according to agreement.

See Contracts. 68 P R 1867

20. Measure of damages for breach of contract for supply of sleepers at a given rate.

See Contracts. 103 P R 1867
59 P R 1868

21. Suit for compensation for non-fulfilment of contract which was voidable by reason of the misrepresentation of the defendant but was not rescinded.

See Contracts. 60 P R 1882

22. Betrothal—Barter of one girl in marriage for another—Breach of promise of marriage—Void agreement—Public policy—Measure of damages.

See Contract Act, 1872, section 23. 50 P R 1903

23. Breach of contract to transfer business—Measure of damages.

See Contract Act, section 73. 20 P R 1889

24. Bond payable by instalments—Interest payable on default from date of bond—Penalty—Compensation for breach of contract.

See Contract Act, 1872, section 73. 99 P R 1894
36 P R 1894

1166

DAMAGES—contd.

25. Compensation for breach of contract—Sum named to be paid in case of breach.

See Contract Act, section 74. 106 P R 1887

26. Penal contract—Reasonable compensation.

See Contract Act, 1872, section 74. 3 P R 1875

27. Penalty—Liquidated damages.

See Contract Act, 1872, section 74. 25 P R 1879
51 P R 1879

28. Suit for damages for defamation arising out of evidence given in a criminal trial.

See Defamation. 25 P R 1867
48 P R 1868
146 P R 1879

29. Remoteness of—Measure of damages.

See Defamation. 140 P R 1882

30. Defendants closing old and opening out new right of way over their fields—Actual damage—Allegation by plaintiff of probable prospective damage.

See Easement. 22 P R 1888

31. Easement—Light and air—Obstruction—Injunction or damages.

See Easement. 2 P R 1893

32. Suit for damages for false and malicious report to the police authorities.

See False Information. 19 P R 1879

33. Redemption—Interest—Damages by way of compensation for breach of contract—Charge on property mortgaged.

See Interest. 8 P R 1890

34. Mortgage—Absence of covenant to pay interest after due date—Allowance of by way of damages—charge.

See Interest. 73 P R 1892

35. Suit for damages or the money value of the share of the produce which plaintiff, muafidar, was entitled to receive from the defendant.

See Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts. 52 P R 1890

36. Suit for damages for wrongful seizure of produce.

See Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts. 80 P R 1891

37. Purchaser of growing crop undertaking to clear land of it by stipulated time—Suit by owner of land for damages and value of crop.

See Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts. 14 P R 1894

38. Suit for compensation for forcibly cutting and carrying away reeds.

See Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts. 119 P R 1894
Small Cause Court Act, 1887, schedule II, article 11. 94 P R 1900

39. Suit for damages for breach of contract.

See Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court. 2 P R 1866
35 P R 1875
8 P R 1866

40. Suit for damages for an assault.

See Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court. 53 P R 1868

1167

DAMAGES—contd.

41. Suit for damages by purchaser of land tortiously prevented from cultivating it.

See Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court. 29 P R 1870

42. Suit for compensation for land taken up by Government.

See Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court. 59 P R 1881

43. Suit to recover value of movable property attached and sold in execution.

See Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court. 97 P R 1883

44. Suit for damages for stoppage of a watercut.

See Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court. 8 P R 1885

45. Suit for damages on account of defamation.

See Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court. 143 P R 1884

46. Suit by one lambardar against another for dues alleged to have been wrongly collected and retained by the defendant—Damages.

See Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court. 2 P R 1887

47. Suit for damages for breach of betrothal contract—Damages for injured affections as well as for actual expenditure.

See Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court. 43 P R 1887

48. Suit for, after avoiding sale on the ground of fraud—Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court.

See Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court. 49 P R 1904

49. Suit by tenant against landlord for repairs of premises tenanted.

See Landlord and Tenant. 14 P R 1868

50. Implied warranty of premises being safe and habitable—Damages—Remoteness.

See Landlord and Tenant. 33 P R 1875

51. Monthly tenant wrongfully holding over—Damages.

See Landlord and Tenant. 33 P R 1898

52. Landlord and tenant—Notice to quit or to pay higher rate of rent—Tenant holding over after tenancy—Landlord's right to demand enhanced rent—Tenants obligation to observe fresh terms—Damages for use and occupation.

See Landlord and Tenant. 5 P R 1904

53. Liquidated damages and penalty.

See Liquidated Damages and Penalty. 26 P R 1871
69 P R 1873

54. Suit for—in respect of an act done by a public body—Period of Limitation.

See Limitation Act, 1877, section 24. 72 P R 1909

DAMAGES—contd.

55. For malicious prosecution.
See MALICIOUS PROSECUTION.
4 P R 1868
11 P R 1886
40 P R 1884
4 P R 1887
30 P R 1889
112 P R 1901
60 P R 1902

56. Infringement of patent—Measure of damages.
See PATENT. 115 P R 1889

57. Liability of pretended agent—"Loss or damage"—Compensation how to be estimated.
See PRINCIPAL AND AGENT.
160 P R 1882

58. Liability of Railway Company for.
See RAILWAY COMPANY.
127 P R 1882
92 P R 1883

59. Suit for damage sustained in consequence of defendant's neglect to drain his garden.
See RIGHT TO SUE. 30 P R 1883

60. Plaintiff failing in suit for land because defendant had made over title-deed to the original donors—Measure of damages.
See RIGHT TO SUE. 116 P R 1883

61. Husband's right to maintain a suit in his own name for slanderous imputations against his wife—Special damage.
See RIGHT TO SUE. 27 P R 1887

62. Suit for damages caused by a Civil action.
See RIGHT TO SUE. 162 P R 1889

63. Competency of minor to sue for damages for breach of his betrothal contract made by his father.
See RIGHT. 3 P R 1909

64. Suit for, for breach of betrothal contract.
See RIGHT. 82 P R 1909

65. Damages for defamation of character—Actual pecuniary damage.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 98 P R 1888

66. "Damages" as used in section 6 of Act XI of 1865.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 100 P R 1888

67. Suit for damages for non-delivery of goods by Government Railway Company.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, SECTION 15. 97 P R 1894

68. Suit for damages for trespass and diversion of watercourse.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, SECTION 15. 71 P R 1896

69. Suit for damages for wrongful ouster, based on lease—Question of plaintiff's title as lessee involved.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, ARTICLE 11. 80 P R 1896

70. Act IX of 1872, section 74—Bond providing for higher rate of interest in default of payment within a certain time—"Sum named" in case of breach—Power to award reasonable compensation not exceeding the amount so named

DAMAGES—contd.

Held, by the Full Bench, that a provision in a promissory note for the payment of a higher rate of interest in default of payment of the principal debt and a lesser rate of interest within a certain time, may be regarded as a provision for the payment of a "sum named" in case of breach, within the meaning of section 74 of the Contract Act, in accordance with which the Court is not bound to award more than reasonable compensation not exceeding the amount so named.

It is otherwise where the higher rate of interest becomes payable not on breach, but in pursuance of the contract. Tek Chand v. Morice (No. 5 P. R. 1877), Honda Mal v. Muhammad Baksh (No. 25 P. R. 1879) and Barma Mal v. Gokal Chand (No. 51 P. R. 1879), cited. ABDULLA v. MUSSAMMAT KULVANTI. 150 P R 1883

71. Act IX of 1872, section 74—Compensation for breach of contract—Interest—Penalty—Reasonable compensation.

Plaintiff sued on a bond executed by defendant in his favour for Rs. 500, the condition in which was that the money should be paid in full by a specified date, or in default the obligor agreed to pay a sum of Rs. 300, by way of interest, in addition to the principal sum of Rs. 500.

Held, that the case fell within the provisions of section 74 of the Contract Act, and the Courts had full power to award "reasonable compensation" only to the plaintiff for the defendant's failure to pay the Rs. 500 on the date fixed by the bond. Bhora Mal v. Devi Din (No. 40 P R. 1882) distinguished. Abdulla v. Mussammat Kulvanti (No. 150 P. R. 1883, F. B.) followed. ILAHI BAKHSH v. KHIWANI. 55 P R 1885

72. Compensation—Death caused by actionable wrong—Compensation to family of deceased—Competency of son to maintain action against the wrong-doer—Act XIII of 1855—Measure of damages.

Held, that an action for compensation for loss occasioned by the death of a person caused by actionable wrong can be sustained under Act XIII of 1855 by a representative of the deceased for the benefit of the deceased's wife, parent and children against the persons guilty of the wrongful act.

Held, also, that even in cases where the estate of the deceased survived for the benefit of his family, the relatives are entitled to compensation in respect of their reasonable expectations of the value of the deceased's services which are lost to them.

The Secretary of State v. Muhammad (85 P. R. 1894) and Queen-Empress v. Saif Ali (17 P. R. 1898, F. B.), referred to. MAHI v. AMBO. 56 P R 1905

73. Husband and wife—Suit by husband for dissolution of marriage—Death of respondent—Abatement of suit.

Held, that a suit by a husband for dissolution of marriage abates on the death of the respondent pending the suit, and that such DAMAGES—concld.

abatement entails the abatement of a claim for damages against the co-respondent. S. v. S. & B. 60 P R 1906

74. A suit for damages for malicious prosecution will lie against a Municipal Committee. AMAR NATH v. MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, KARTARPUR. 86 P R 1906

75. Upon a wrongful renunciation of contract by tenant before time, the measure of damages is the loss of rent suffered by the landlord from the non-performance of the contract at the appointed time after deducting such sum as he might by reasonable efforts recover from another tenant. LACHMI NARAIN v. VERNON.
137 P R 1906

76. Damages for breach of contract—Mesaure of—Indian Contract Act, IX of 1872, section 74.

Held, that in cases in which ex-necessitate rei it is impossible to fix the exact amount of damages actually resulting from a breach of contract, Courts of equity do not interfere with the contract of the parties who, in anticipation of the breach, have stipulated that a fixed sum should be regarded as the measure of compensation to be paid by the person violating the contract. In such cases the Courts will not exercise the power conferred by section 74 of the Indian Contract Act of reducing the contract damages. MIR HAZAR KHAN v. SAWAN ALI. 81 P R 1910

DAMS, SUIT FOR REMOVAL OF.

Suit for removal of dams—Value of subject matter.
See JURISDICTION. 163 P R 1888

DAUGHTER.

1. Appointment of, as heir.
See CUSTOM—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—B.—APPOINTMENT OF DAUGHTER.
8 P R 1888
71 P R 1895

2. Gift to.
See CUSTOM—I. A. ALIENATION—(1) (e) GIFTS TO DAUGHTERS, &c.
67 P R 1882
177 P R 1883
147 P R 1883
17 P R 1904
67 P R 1904
28 P R 1905
93 P R 1905
14 P R 1906
88 P R 1907
58 P R 1908
67 P R 1908
31 P R 1910
58 P R 1910
13 P R 1911
23 P R 1911

DAUGHTER—concld.

3. Reversion of estate, gifted to.
See CUSTOM—VIII. MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—K. SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTER. 9 P R 1885

4. Will in favour of—
See CUSTOM—I. A. ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—1 (e) GIFTS AND WILLS IN FAVOUR OF DAUGHTERS, &c.—(i) PROVED. 122 P R 1884
93 P R 1885
93 P R 1905
62 P R 1906
15 P R 1907
11 P R 1908
70 P R 1908
25 P R 1910

(ii) NOT PROVED. 28 P R 1905

5. Alienation by—
See CUSTOM—I. (c).—ALIENATION BY DAUGHTER. 17 P R 1885
18 P R 1906
61 P R 1906
1 P R 1907
121 P R 1908
135 P R 1908

6. Succession of—
See CUSTOM—VIII. MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—K. SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTER—Passim.

7. Exclusion of—
See CUSTOM—VIII. MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—(M) EXCLUSION OF DAUGHTER—Passim.

8. Marriage of, by mother without father's consent—Disqualification of father by reason of leprosy—Delegation of authority.
See HINDU LAW, MARRIAGE. 64 P R 1884

DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

1. Right of reversioner to contest alienation by a sonless proprietor in presence of daughter-in-law.
See CUSTOM—ALIENATION. 29 P R 1903

2. Succession of widowed daughter-in-law in presence of near collaterals.
See CUSTOM—VIII. MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—D. SUCCESSION OF (PREDECEASED) SON'S WIDOW—Passim.

DAUHTER'S DAUGHTER.

1. Bequest of ancestral property to—
See CUSTOM—I. A. ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—(1) (e) GIFTS AND WILLS IN FAVOUR OF DAUGHTERS AND THEIR CHILDREN—(ii) NOT PROVED. 67 P R 1904

2. Held that among Muhammadan Rajputs of Hoshiarpur district, where daughters have succeded to their father's land as heirs, excluding his collaterals, their daughters are entitled to succeed to their mother's estate in the absence of direct male heirs. ILAHI BAKSH v. MUSSAMMAT BUDHI. 5 P R 1910

DAUGHTER'S DAUGHTER—concld.

DAUGHTER'S SON.

1. Adoption of—
See CUSTOM—III C. ADOPTION OF DAUGHTER'S SON OR GRANDSON—Passim.

2. See HINDU LAW—I. ADOPTION. 93 P R 1909 P. C.

3. Gift to—
See CUSTOM—I. A. ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—(1) (e) GIFTS, &c., TO DAUGHTERS, &c.—Passim.

4. Reversion of estate gifted to—
See CUSTOM—VIII. MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—L. SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTER'S SONS, &c. 53P R 188 2
146 P R 1884
82 P R 1885

5. Will in favour of—
See CUSTOM—I. A. ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—(1) (e) GIFTS AND WILLS IN FAVOUR OF DAUGHTERS AND THEIR CHILDREN. 7 P R 1886
56 P R 1881
62 P R 1906

6. Succession of.
See CUSTOM—VIII. MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—L. SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTER'S SONS, &c.—Passim.

DEATH.

1. Of respondents—Plea of ignorance till after expiry of limitation does not justify departure from order XXII, Rule 4 (3), Civil Procedure Code, 1908.
See APPEAL—I. CIVIL. 60 P R 1911

2. Death caused by actionable wrong—Contributory negligence.
See CAUSE OF ACTION—IV. MISCELLANEOUS. 85 P R 1894

3. Presumption of death—Rule of Muhammadan Law superseded by Evidence Act.
See EVIDENCE ACT, SECTION 108. 42 P R 1892

DEATH OF PARTY.

1. Suit to cancel gift of hereditary land against donor and donee—Death of one appellant (the donor defendant) after filing of appeal—absence of application to place legal representative on record.
See ABATEMENT OF APPEAL. 109 P R 1881

DEATH OF PARTY—contd.

2. Death of appellant during pendency of appeal—Suit against Sovereign as Ruler of State—Public Functionary.
See ABATEMENT OF APPEAL. 51 P R 1886

3. Appeal filed against decree inadvertently passed against deceased defendant—Effect of decree passed against non-existing person—Proper order to pass in appeal filed by person calling himself the legal representative of the deceased defendant.
See APPEAL—VI. PROCEDURE IN— 31 P R 1886

4. Death of respondent during pendency of appeal—Revision to apply within time to substitute legal representatives of deceased—Right to sue surviving against surviving respondents alone—Suit for partition of undivided estate of joint family—Necessity for placing divided brother or widow of deceased co-parcener on the record.
See ABATEMENT OF APPEAL. 86 P R 1886

5. Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877), sections 368, 372—Death during pendency of appeal of defendant-respondent—Appellant omitting to apply within 60 days to place deceased's legal representative upon the record—Suit for immovable property.
See ABATEMENT OF APPEAL. 76 P R 1884

6. Abatement of appeal owing to death of respondent—Application to set aside order of abatement.
See ABATEMENT OF APPEAL. 22 P R 1885

7. Death of respondent—Omission to apply within 60 days to place representative of deceased on record—Sufficient cause for not applying within such period.
See ABATEMENT OF APPEAL. 39 P R 1885

8. Application to make the representative of a deceased respondent a respondent—Sufficient cause for not applying within the prescribed period—Ignorance of law.
See ABATEMENT OF APPEAL. 81 P R 1886

9. Of respondent in a suit for dissolution of marriage.
See ABATEMENT OF SUIT. 60 P R 1906

10. Appeal from decree passed by inadvertence against or in favour of a party who was dead at the time.
See APPEAL—II. COMPETENCY OF 7 P R 1889

11. Death of sole appellant—Nullity of decree—Remedy.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 3. 78 P R 1891

DEATH OF PARTY—contd.

12. Death of sole appellant—Abatement of appeal.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 3. 23 P R 1889

13. Suit by widow with life interest to recover from collaterals property of her deceased husband—Legal representative of such widow for the purpose of continuing the suit or appeal on widow's death.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 3. 97 P R 1893

14. Death of sole plaintiff after conclusion of case, but before delivery of judgment—Decree drawn up in favour of deceased plaintiff.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 3. 20 P R 1898

15. Death of respondent during pendency of appeal—Legal representative.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 4. 29 P R 1888

16. Application to implead the legal representative of a deceased respondent—Sufficient cause for not applying within the prescribed period—Ignorance of law.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 4. 43 P R 1889

17. Death of respondent—Duty of appellant to bring the right person on the record—Duty of Court.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 4. 5 P R 1890

18. Death of respondent pending appeal—Application by appellant to have certain persons brought on record as deceased's legal representatives—Similar application by third party who alleges himself to be deceased's legal representative—Procedure.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 4. 66 P R 1894

19. Death of one of several defendants pending appeal—No application by plaintiff within prescribed period to put legal representative of deceased on the record.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 4. 53 P R 1896

20. Suit for damages for malicious prosecution—Death of appellant pending appeal.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 4. 4 P R 1897

21. Death of one respondent member of insolvent firm pending appeal by creditor—Partial abatement of appeal—Survival of right to sue.

See INSOLVENCY. 69 P R 1888

22. Application to have representative of deceased respondent made a respondent.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 171 B. 113 P R 1882

DEATH OF PARTY—concld.

23. Application to substitute heirs of deceased respondent.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 171 B. 165 P R 1882

24. Death of respondent during pendency of appeal—Limitation for application to place legal representative on record—Abatement of appeal.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 171 B. 133 P R 1884

25. Application to place representative of deceased respondent upon the record.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 171 B. 81 P R 1886

26. Application to have the representative of a deceased respondent made a respondent.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 171 B. 103 P R 1886

27. Application to place legal representative of deceased defendant-respondent on the record after prescribed period.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 171 B. 42 P R 1887

28. Pre-emption—Death of claimant pendente lite—Abatement of suit.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW—RULE OF, WHEN SUPERSEDED. 98 P R 1898

29. Of one of several defendants—Application for substitution—Sufficient cause for not applying within prescribed period.

See PARTIES. 113 P R 1907

30. Suit by plaintiff as Mutwali of mosque—Dismissal of suit and death of plaintiff pending appeal.

See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION. 28 P R 1900

DEATH-BED GIFT.

1. Death-bed gift—Hiba bil-iwaz—Muhammadan Law.

See CONTRACT ACT, SECTION 25. 61 P R 1893

2. See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 91. 52 P R 1895

3. By Muhammadan Law, a gift made inter vivos by a father to his married daughter, followed by possession, is valid, provided it be not made in a death disease. A death-disease is not necessarily a disease of which a man dies, but a disease which is generally looked upon as fatal, or from which he is in daily expectation of death. MEERAN BUKSH v. PEEROO. 29 P R 1868

4. Death-bed gift and legacy—Consent of some of the heirs—Revocation.

A death-bed gift or a legacy, under Muhammadan Law, does not require the consent of all the heirs: if some consent and the rest dissent, the gift or legacy is valid quoad the shares of the former. Such consent cannot be revoked, if given after the donor's or testator's death. FUZL AHMED v. ROSHUN DIN. 37 P R 1872

DEATH-BED GIFT—concld.

5. A gift obviously made in contemplation of death within the meaning of the Muhammadan Law relating to death-bed dispositions was inoperative. FATTA v. BAKHRA. 15 P R 1895

DEBT.

1. Equitable assignment of.
See ASSIGNMENT OF DEBT.

2. Attachment of.
See ATTACHMENT.

3. Certificate for collection of.
See CERTIFICATE UNDER ACT XXVII OF 1860.

4. Contracted for immoral purposes—Liability of ancestral or acquired property for.

See HINDU LAW—ANCESTRAL PROPERTY

5. Acknowledgment of.
See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 230 (3). 43 P R 1910
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 19. PRINCIPAL AND AGENT. 55 P R 1910

6. Barred as against principal, discharge of, by surety.

See PRINCIPAL AND SURETY.

DEBTOR AND CREDITOR.

1. Suit against representative of deceased debtor—Proof of receipt of assets.
See RIGHT TO SUE. 11 P R 1881

2. Suit by creditor impeaching alienation by debtor.
See RIGHT TO SUE. 10 P R 1882

3. Suit for an account.
See RIGHT TO SUE. 122 P R 1881

4. The relationship between banker and customer is that of debtor and creditor, and the right of the customer to recover a deposit could become barred by time. BHOWANI DASS v. BHAI NUNDGOPAL. 17 P R 1869

5. Debtor and Creditor—Money-lender and zemindar—Bond—Usurious rate of interest—Act IX of 1872, clause (1), section 16, and section 19—Undue influence—Act I of 1872, section 114—Presumption.

Plaintiff, a village money-lender, sued defendant, a zemindar, for Rs. 700 principal and interest, due on a bond. Defendant admitted execution of the bond, but pleaded that the greater part of the claim consisted of interest at an usurious rate, and prayed for an examination of the accounts. It was found that the parties had had dealings as debtor and creditor for a considerable time previous to the execution of the bond: and that of the amount claimed Rs. 145 only was principal, while the remaining Rs. 555 was charged for interest. The Lower Court therefore decreed Rs. 145 and Rs. 197-1-3 interest, total Rs. 342-1-3.

Held, per Curiam, that the orders of the Lower Courts should be upheld.

DEBTOR AND CREDITOR—contd.

Per SMYTH, J.—Because, having regard to the fact that the bond was extortionate and unconscionable, and considering the relations between the parties, they were justified in the absence of rebutting proof from plaintiff in holding that the bond was executed under "undue influence" as defined in clause (1) section 16 of the Contract Act, and were therefore justified under section 19 of the same Act in treating the bond as void, and in decreeing to plaintiff only the amount equitably due.

Per PLOWDEN, J.—Because the bare facts, that the parties to a contract, the subject of litigation, are village money-lender and a zemindar, may justify a Court in presuming (within the meaning of section 114 of the Evidence Act) that the zemindar did not give a free consent to the terms of the particular agreement, when such presumption is not inconsistent with the other facts disclosed, though there be no other evidence on the part of the zemindar to prove that he had been induced by the exercise of undue influence to consent to the terms of the particular agreement. RAMDHAN v. JIWAN KHAN. 110 P R 1879

6. Contract Act, 1872, sections 28 and 127, Ill. (b)—Promise by creditor to forbear to sue debtor—Void agreement—Agreement partly void and partly enforceable.

Forbearance by a creditor to sue a debtor, or a promise to forbear either absolutely or for a time, is not unlawful. On the contrary, there is express authority in section 127, illustration (b) of the Contract Act, for holding that a promise to forbear for a time is lawful, and by consequence a promise to forbear absolutely, and the forbearance itself, are lawful.

Where the agreement between the parties consisted of a promise by the plaintiff to forbear to sue a third party absolutely or for a time, and in consideration thereof the defendants made certain promises to indemnify plaintiff for any loss he might incur thereby, held, that such agreement would be void under section 28 of the Contract Act only as far as it restricted the plaintiff from suing his debtor. Upon performance by plaintiff of his promise, such performance having taken place at defendant's desire, plaintiff would be entitled to enforce defendant's promise according to its tenor. MATHRA DAS v. MAHOMED DIN. 120 P R 1879

7. Debtor and creditor—Registered bond—Agriculturists—Rate of interest—Undue influence—Presumption.

Where defendants, who were agriculturists, entered into a bond with plaintiffs whereby they agreed to pay interest on the principal sum at the rate of 24 per cent., per annum, which bond was duly registered before the Tahsildar of the locality, held (reversing the orders of the Lower Courts) that under the circumstances of the case and in the absence of evidence of the exercise of undue influence on the defendants, the lower Courts were not warranted in reducing the rate of interest agreed upon from 24 per cent. to 6 per cent. per annum. RADHA v. GOLAB SINGH. 145 P R 1879

8. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 45—Misjoinder of causes of action—Creditor claiming in one suit to enforce two bonds executed separately by father and son—Undue influence—Unconscionable bargain—Dispensing power of Courts of equity—Interest—Penalty.

The creditor of two Muhammadans, father and son, sued in one case to enforce two bonds of different dates and by different executants on the ground that the obligors formed a joint family and were as such liable on each bond.

Held that the plaintiff could not join the two causes of action and must elect which of the bonds he would proceed against in the present case.

The bond on which the plaintiffs elected to proceed provided as follows: "that the "obligors owed obligee Rs. 396 cash and "443 maunds of wheat; that the cash would "be paid on a certain date without interest; "that in default interest would be paid at "the rate of 2 annas per cent. per six "months; that as regards grain, 1¼ times "as much grain would be delivered on a "certain other date, and in default obligors "would go on paying 1¼ times as much of "the amount due for each year, year by year." In other words, the agreement was to pay the money with single interest at 25 per cent. per annum and to pay compound interest on the grain at the rate of 50 per cent. per annum.

It was contended for the defendant that (i) the interest agreed upon should be treated as a penalty, and (ii) the agreement should not be enforced, having been obtained by the exercise of undue influence.

Held, (i) that the interest agreed upon could not be looked upon as a penalty, as it was payable not on the breach of the agreement but in pursuance of the contract on the occurrence of a certain contingency; (ii) that the defendants had failed to prove that they reposed confidence in the plaintiff, or that the latter had any real or apparent authority over them and had obtained an undue advantage by the exercise of this confidence or authority, or that any of the circumstances existed from which undue influence as defined in section 16 of the Contract Act could be presumed. From the mere circumstance that a man has made a bad bargain, it does not follow that this was due to abuse of confidence or authority; (iii) that as the rule as to undue influence in contracts has been fixed by statute for this country, the statutory rule should be followed, although it is less flexible and does not permit the much wider discretion enjoyed by the Courts in England. I. L. R. IX All. 74 and 228, not followed. GOKAL CHAND v. KHWAJA ALI SHAH. 32 P R 1890

9. Undue influence—Money-lender—Unconscionable bargain—Court's right to interfere—Contract Act, 1872, section 16.

DEBTOR AND CREDITOR—concld.

A professional money-lender advanced to a person in distress for money and in fear of summary dismissal as warrants were out on his pay Rs. 1,755, taking from him promissory notes for Rs. 5,510, bearing interest at Rs. 24 per centum per annum. Upon a suit by the lender against the borrower for recovery of the amount due on the promissory notes

Held that the bargain was oppressive and unconscionable, and the plaintiff was under the circumstances disclosed only entitled to recover the principal sum advanced by him with simple interest at the rate of Rs. 18 per centum per annum. RAM DAS v. NETTO. 115 P R 1908

DECLARATORY DECREE.

1.—DECLARATION OF TITLE.
2.—SUITS CONCERNING DOCUMENTS.
3.—REVERSIONARY RIGHTS.
4.—ENFORCING OR REMOVING LIEN OR ATTACHMENT.
5.—RELATIONSHIP.
6.—MISCELLANEOUS.

1. Declaration of Title.

1. Suit for declaration of title—Adverse entry in Revenue Papers.
See CAUSE OF ACTION—IV. MISCELLANEOUS. 20 P R 1900

2. Suit for declaration of confirmation of title in land without consequential relief.
See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, SECTION 12. 2 P R 1889

3. Valuation of suit for—
See JURISDICTION. 98 P R 1886

4. Limitation to suit for—
See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 120.
27 P R 1881
88 P R 1882
19 P R 1883
111 P R 1884

5. Suit by a person in possession for a declaration of title in immovable property—Cause of action against defendant—Adverse entry in revenue papers—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 120. 140 P R 1907

6. Suit for declaration of ownership—Adverse possession of co-sharer.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 144. 116 P R 1900

7. Suit for declaration of occupancy status of highest class—Duty of Court to consider whether plaintiff entitled to an inferior right than that claimed.
See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS. 3 P R 1898

8. Suit for—Previous suit for correction of Settlement Record.
See RES JUDICATA. 190 P R 1883

9. Suit by creditor impeaching alienation by debtor—Fraud—Declaratory decree.
See RIGHT TO SUE. 10 P R 1882

10. Declaration of right to build a wall—Subsequent obstruction by defendant—Right of plaintiff to maintain a fresh suit for an injunction.

1.—Declaration of Title—contd.

See RIGHT TO SUE. 111 P R 1882

11. Criminal Procedure Code, 1882, sections 133 and 137—Public place—Right to sue for declaration of rights in Civil Court.

See RIGHT TO SUE. 34 P R 1892

12. Suit by non-proprietors for declaration of their right to hold their houses free from certain fees and dues.

See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, SECTION 42. 48 P R 1887

13. Plaintiff alleging title as well as possession asking for declaration as to possession only—Judicial discretion.

See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, SECTION 42. 48 P R 1892

14. Trees—Conflicting provisions in Settlement Record—Form of suit.

The Settlement record contained conflicting provisions as to right in trees; the ikrarnamah signed by the proprietors allowing the hereditary cultivators to cut trees for agricultural purposes with the proprietors' consent; the tenants' ikrarnamah giving the right without such consent. One of the proprietors sued to have his "rights "declared to enter his tenants' lands and "cut trees which had grown spontaneously." The Lower Courts decreed that plaintiff could not enter the lands without the tenants' consent, and that the tenants could not cut trees without the landlord's permission. The landord appealed to the Chief Court and the tenants preferred a cross-objection. Held, that the suit did not lie; that if the parties felt aggrieved the proper course was to sue under section 20 of Act XXXIII of 1871 to correct the record, the Government and other persons interested being joined. KANH SINGH v. DASAUNDHA SINGH.

111 P R 1876

15. Absentee—Sale by proprietor of his own lands as also land held by him for an absentee proprietor.

S. and others, village proprietors, sold to D. the lands held by them, and executed a deed of sale. Part of the land so sold and conveyed by deed was the property of G., an absentee proprietor, and was held by S. and others merely on the footing on which the lands of absentees are ordinarily held by members of the proprietary body present in the village.

In a suit by D. against S. and others for a decree declaring that he had purchased the lands conveyed by deed to him, the facts of the case being such that D. could maintain, and the Court in the exercise of its discretion would grant such a decree, held by Fitzpatrick and Plowden, JJ. (Lindsay J., dissenting) that the circumstance that part of the lands sold and conveyed belonged to G., an absentee, was not a ground for refusing D. a declaratory decree.

Held, further, that the only decree to which D. was entitled was one declaring that there was a completed transfer from S. and others to D. of all such right, title and interest in the property described in the deed of conveyance as the vendors were competent to convey. DAD v. SUBA. 68 P R 1877

16. Act VIII of 1859, section 15—Consequential relief—Title to future interests.

A declaratory decree is not to be made under section 15, Act VIII of 1859, unless there is a right on the part of plaintiff to consequential relief, which, although not asked for, might, if asked for, have been given, or unless the declaration of right may be made the foundation of relief to be had in another Court.

The Courts will not try questions of title as to future interests, where neither claimant has a right to present possession, especially questions of title which may never arise.

The decision of the Privy Council in the Shivagunga case (15 B. L. R. 83) cited and followed. LEKH RAJ v. HARCHARAN.

94 P R 1879

17. Specific Relief Act (I of 1877), section 42—Suit for half share of property alleged to be joint ancestral—Question of possession and enjoyment—Plaintiff when entitled to further relief—Relief where the property is joint ancestral—Decree for delivery of possession of undivided share—Injunction.

Plaintiff sued for a declaratory decree of half the proprietary title in mauza P., and for a declaration of right to a one-half share of the malikana of mauza B. claiming that the land and malikana were ancestral estate, that the parties were an undivided Hindu family, and that each party was in possession of his right. Defendant denied that the land and proprietary dues claimed were ancestral, or that plaintiff had ever been in possession of the rights claimed. It appeared that the land in mauza P. was not in the actual possession of either party, being cultivated by tenants paying rent.

Held, that it was incumbent upon the lower Courts upon the pleadings to decide whether or not the plaintiff was in possession, that is, in actual enjoyment of the right he claimed in either village. If he was, that is to say, if he was de facto collecting or receiving as proprietor from the defendant a half share of the rents or profits due or realised from the tenants in the village of P., or a half share of the proprietary dues in the village of B. then he was entitled to a declaration of his proprietary title, upon proof of his own title which the defendant denied. If, on the other hand, the plaintiff had not such de facto possession, there was further relief, within the meaning of the Specific Relief Act, which the plaintiff might and ought to have claimed.

Held further, that assuming the allegation to be true that the parties were members of a joint Hindu family, whose estate had not been divided, the denial of the plaintiff's title to share in what was alleged to be a portion of the ancestral estate, and his exclusion from participation in the profits of such portion by the defendant, was undoubtedly a cause of action, and one which admitted of relief other than a mere declaration of title to such portion. The plaintiff could ask, and the Court could decree, delivery of possession of the undivided share in the land of P. owned by plaintiff and defendant jointly, either with or without an injunction to restrain the defendant from interfering with the future enjoyment by plaintiff of his share, and a similar injunction could be granted as regards the future enjoyment of his share of the malikana of mauza B. SODHI HARNAM SINGH v. SODHI SUNDAR SINGH. 73 P R 1881

18. Specific Relief Act (I of 1877), section 42—Suit for declaratory decree dismissed in accordance with award of arbitrators—Appeal by plaintiffs on ground that first Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit for a declaration only.

Plaintiffs, who alleged that they were heirs of one D. S. deceased, and that the female defendants in possession of his estate were wasting the said estate, prayed for a perpetual injunction. Issues were fixed and referred to arbitrators by consent of the plaintiffs in person and of the defendants, through their recognized agent. The award, which was adverse to the plaintiffs, was confirmed by the first Court, who dismissed the suit, and a subsequent appeal to the Commissioner was also rejected. Plaintiffs then preferred a second appeal to the Chief Court, and urged that inasmuch as they were heirs of the last proprietor and entitled to possession of the land in suit, and yet did not sue for possession but for a declaratory decree, the Courts had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit, and ought to have dismissed it at once.

Held, that the above contention could not prevail, as the Courts had made no declaration of the plaintiffs' title, and further, as, assuming that the plaintiffs asked for a declaration of title, they also asked for relief in the form of a perpetual injunction, there was nothing in section 42 of the Specific Relief Act, nor any other ground, that deprived the Court of its jurisdiction. HARI SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT LACHMI.

1 P R 1882

19. Specific Relief Act (I of 1877), section 42—Suit by chumars to have their share in certain village perquisites declared—" Right as to any property "—Right to maintain suit.

DECLARATORY DECREE—contd.

1.—Declaration of Title—concld.

In a suit the parties to which were chumars of one of the panas of a village in the Rohtak district, the object of the plaintiffs was to have it declared that they were entitled to a ⅓rd share in the skins of all animals dying in their pana, according to the rules of inheritance, the said plaintiffs alleging in their plaint that the defendants had during the last year appropriated more of the profits than they were entitled to, and hence the present suit to have a declaration of their rights for the future.

Held, per Elsmie and Rattigan, JJ., (Smyth, J., dissenting), that the suit was not legally maintainable under the provisions of section 42 of the Specific Relief Act.

Per Rattigan, J.—Because the right claimed was not such a right to property as would entitle the plaintiffs to a declaration within the terms of the section, which contemplates a right to property which is in esse, though the right itself may be deferred, as that of a reversioner, and not a right to property in posse, or which is non-existent at the time the right is asserted, and which may or may never come into existence.

Per Elsmie, J.—Because what the plaintiffs were really suing for was a declaration that they, as against the defendants, were entitled to perform ⅔rds of certain village services, and to receive fees whether in the form of skins or otherwise, in that proportion, and could not therefore be said to be suing to establish a right as to any property

Held, per Smyth, J.—That the suit was maintainable, as the words "right as to any property" in section 42 of the Specific Relief Act, do not necessarily refer only to property actually in existence, but may also refer to property which accrues or is acquired in the future. RAMDIAL v. BUDHA.

115 P R 1883

20. Specific Relief Act, 1877, section 42—Suit for declaration—Further relief—Amendment of plaint.

Held, that a suit for a declaration should not be dismissed merely because the plaintiff being able to seek further relief has omitted to claim it. In such a case the Court must allow plaintiff to amend his plaint by asking for the further relief. HAZARA v. BISHEN SINGH. 128 P R 1907

21. Declaration of status of right—Specific Relief Act, 1877, section 42.

Where the property in dispute was in the actual possession of mortgagees and tenants and the mutation entry in favour of one party and that of girdawri in favour of the other, held that under such circumstances a suit for a mere declaration of title was maintainable. ABDUL KARIM v. SAHIB JAN.

5 P R 1908

DECLARATORY DECREE—contd.

2.—Suits Concerning Documents.

1. Suit to obtain a declaratory decree where no consequential relief is prayed for.

See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 17. 109 P R 1893

2. Suit for declaratory decree by person aggrieved by entry in a record of rights.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 89 P R 1895

3. Suit for cancellation of instrument and for declaration that a transaction of sale by occupancy tenant (to which plaintiff is not a party) is void.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 91. 135 P R 1888

4. Suit for declaration that an alleged will was a forgery, and that testator had no power to make such will.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 93. 5 P R 1898

5. Declaratory decree—Cancellation of instrument—Balance entered in account book professing to have been struck by a certain person—Written instrument—Threat of Civil suit—Reasonable apprehension of injury—Discretion of Court.

See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, SECTION 39. 12 P R 1890

6. Deed of grant, construction of—Adhlapi tenure—Declaratory decree.

See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, SECTION 42. 27 P R 1899

7. Gobind Das by will appointed a successor to the guddi of a certain religious institution; plaintiffs sued for a declaration of their right to succeed, Gobind Das being still alive. Held, that as the will could not take effect until after the death of Gobind Das, and might be revoked at any time, a suit to set it aside would not lie; and as plaintiff's rights were not in any way affected by the will, a suit for a declaration of their rights would not lie. PREM DAS v. GOBIND DAS.

58 P R 1873

8. Suit to set aside will of Hindu widow still living—Cause of action.

Held, that a suit will not lie for a declaratory decree setting aside a will made by a Hindu widow, still living and purporting to dispose after her death of the immoveable property of her husband, on the ground that the widow has no power to dispose of such property; no cause of action arising in such a case, till the widow's estate has come to an end. MUSSAMMAT BADHO BAI v. CHATTA RAM. 111 P R 1880

3.—Reversionary Rights.

1. Suit to declare an alienation of land to be not binding after grantor's death.

See APPEAL—VIII. SECOND.

145 P R 1892

2. Declaratory decree—Right of distant collaterals to question alienation by widow in presence of daughter's sons.

See CUSTOM—I. ALIENATION.—B. ALIENATION BY WIDOW—(d) Locus standi AND ASSENT OF REVERSIONERS. 4 P R 1890

DECLARATORY DECREE—contd.

3.—Reversionary Rights—contd.

3. Alienation by widow—Right of remote reversioner to maintain declaratory suit in presence of the widow's daughter.

See CUSTOM—I. ALIENATION—J. RULE OF DECISION. 149 P R 1908

4. Suit by married daughter for declaration that she was entitled to reversionary right after death or remarriage of widow.

See CUSTOM—VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION K.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTERS. 90 P R 1894

5. Alienation by Muhammadan widow—Widow handing over property to her deceased husband's adopted son.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 118. 45 P R 1892

6. Sale of land by female entitled thereto for her life—Subsequent alienation by vendee more than twelve years after previous sale—Suit for declaratory decree by reversioners of the female in respect of the second alienation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 125. 26 P R 1896

7. Suit to contest validity of sale—Right of plaintiffs to attack mortgage made in favour of vendee more than 12 years before suit—Merger of mortgage in sale.

See MORTGAGE, MERGER.

71 P R 1898

8. Alienations by a widow—Sui for declarations by reversioner against the widow and various alienees claiming under distinct titles—Misjoinder of causes of action—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 28, 45.

See MULTIFARIOUSNESS.

1 P R 1905

9. Suit for declaration of right to half share of joint undivided holding—Suit by co-sharer.

See PUNJAB LAND REVENUE ACT, 1887. SECTION 158 (2) (XVII).

12 P R 1899

10. Alienation by a widow (occupancy tenant)—Suit for declaration by reversioners.

See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, SECTION 42. 205 P R 1889

11. Speculative suit for declaratory decree by reversioner.

See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, SECTION 42. 42 P R 1898

12. Decree granted to plaintiff, nephew of N (Hindu) deceased, that an alienation effected by the widow of N should not affect plaintiff as reversioner, but that on the widow's death plaintiff should take possession. NARAIN DASS v. MUKHUN. 22 P R 1866

13. Held, that no suit for a declaratory decree can be maintained unless the plaintiff be entitled to consequential relief; that is the declaration of right can only be made when the decree is to be the foundation of relief to be obtained elsewhere. DEWAN KIRPA RAM v. SARDAR JOWAHIR SINGH.

19 P R 1874

3.—Reversionary Rights—contd.

14. Specific Relief Act (I of 1877), section 42—Right of collaterals to question alienation by widow in presence of daughter and daughter's son—Custom, Inheritance—Aroras of Mooltan—Right of daughter's son—Will—Right to declaratory decree with regard to alienation by will—Alienation of widow's right as mortgagee of house—Widow's power of disposal of movable property inherited from her husband.

Plaintiffs, who claimed to be the collateral heirs of one G. R. deceased, sued for a declaration that the alienation of two houses (one by way of will and the other by way of sub-mortgage) made by Mussammat L, one of the widows of the said G. R., was not binding on them. It was contended by the defendants that the plaintiffs were not entitled to maintain the suit as they were not the persons presumptively entitled to possess the property if they survived the widow. It was first alleged that a son of G. R., by another wife was still in existence and was the next reversioner, but this plea was eventually abandoned, it being found (after a remand had been made by the Chief Court for further enquiry on the point) that he was hopelessly imbecile and would therefore not be entitled to inherit by custom. It was, however, alleged that one K. C. would inherit as the adopted son of G R. and that if the adoption were not proved, G. R.'s daughter would succeed on the death of the widow, and, on her death, her son K. C. would succeed as daughter's son.

Held, that the existence of a daughter entitled to succeed on the widow's death would probably, if there were no daughter's sons, not be enough to bar the right of the person presumptively entitled next after the death of both the widow and the daughter to obtain such a declaration, for the daughter's interest in her father's property was, like the widow's, only a restricted interest, and on her death the property devolved on the line of the last male owner. But if the daughter's son was a nearer reversioner than the plaintiffs, either as daughter's son or as adopted son, as he would, in the event of his succession, take an absolute estate, it would be difficult to hold that the plaintiffs were entitled to any right as to the property which would enable them to maintain a suit for a declaratory decree under section 42 of the Specific Relief Act; and in any case if the daughter's son was found to be a nearer reversioner, the Court should in the exercise of its discretion refuse to give them a declaratory decree. MUSSAMMAT JIND KOUR v. MAJLIS RAI. 23 P R 1876

15. Plaintiff sued for a decree declaring that a sale effected by defendant I in favour of defendant II, should stand good only for the lifetime of the vendor as against the plaintiff, who, if he survived the vendor and the latter died childless, would be the next heir. Held, that the plaintiff was in a position similar to that of a reversioner suing a Hindu widow for waste or to contest an alienation; that a suit of the latter description involving a declaratory decree would lie, and therefore plaintiff's suit would also lie. The broad rule (that a declaratory decree cannot be made unless there be a right to consequential relief at the same time), does not apply to such cases. HIRA SINGH v. DHANA SINGH. 112 P R 1876

16. Suit by reversioner—Alienation by Hindu widow.

Where the right heir of a deceased Hindu sues to set aside so much of a conveyance made by the widow as will operate after the plaintiff's death, he is entitled to a decree, for even if it be necessary that he should show his right to consequential relief, at the same time, he does show it; as upon obtaining a decree, he can have the proper entries made in the revenue papers. NUR BUKSH v. MUSSAMMAT FAJJO. 121 P R 1876

17. Suit by distant reversioner, next reversioner being a minor.

Plaintiffs sued for a decree declaring that a mortgage by a widow was invalid. The next reversioner was an infant; and on his failing to succeed, plaintiffs would inherit. Held, that the suit would lie. MEHTAB KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT MEHTAB BIBI. 24 P R 1877

18. Suit by reversioners in respect of alienation by Hindu widow—Court Fees Act, VII of 1870, Schedule II, article 17, No. III.

Held, that a person entitled as a reversioner after a Hindu widow, can maintain a suit for a decree simply declaring (without giving any relief) that a conveyance by the widow is void in respect of anything beyond her life estate.

Held, further, that the plaint in such a suit is properly stamped with a stamp of the value of ten rupees under Schedule II, article 17, No. III of the Court Fees Act, 1870. BAKSHISH SINGH v. NARAIN SINGH. 70 P R 1877

19. It being found in the present case that the alleged adoption of K. C. was not established, and further that there was sufficient evidence of a custom prevailing among the class to which the parties belonged (Aroras of Multan) excluding daughters' sons to justify the Court in refusing to treat the daughter's son as the nearest reversioner, and to hold that the plaintiffs' suit should therefore not be entertained, held, that though no declaration should be given in regard to the validity of the will, which being a revocable instrument which had no operation during the widow's life, was not an alienation (following Mussammat Badho Bai v. Chatta Ram, No. 111 P. R. 1880, Civil), still the plaintiffs were entitled to a declaration that the mortgage was made without legal necessity, and was therefore void beyond the widow's lifetime.

With regard to the contention that the house mortgaged, not being the property of G. R., but having been held by him merely as mortgagee, the plaintiffs should not be allowed to dispute this alienation, held, that the mortgagee's interest while unredeemed was undoubtedly an interest in immovable property, and though the mortgagor might redeem, this did not enable the widow to dispose of her interest in the mortgage to persons not entitled to redeem, and, further, that a widow's powers of disposal of movable property inherited from her husband was subject to the same restrictions as in the case of immovable property, and that therefore the contention failed. MUSSAMMAT LACHO BAI v. ASA NAND. 144 P R 1882

20. Declaratory suit after the death of alienor in the lifetime of the widow.

Held, that where a suit for possession is impossible owing to the presence of females entitled to hold for life, a suit on the part of the reversioners for a declaration to the effect that an alienation by a sonless proprietor shall not affect their reversionary rights is maintainable, notwithstanding that the alienor is dead at the time when the suit is brought.

Held also, that article 1 of the Punjab Limitation Act is applicable to such a suit. JIWANA v. ABDULLAH. 64 P R 1909

21. Declaratory suit by reversioners—Alienation found to be in part without necessity—Form of decree.

Held, that in declaratory suits by reversioners to have an alienation declared void after the death of the alienor, if the Court finds, that the alienation is in part only for necessity, the decree should declare (1) that the alienation shall not take effect at all against the reversioners after the death of the alienor, and (2) that the reversioners shall not be entitled to possession until they have paid the sum found to be for "necessity." FAZAL AHMED v. SHAHAB DIN. 92 P R 1909

4.—Enforcing or removing lien or attachment.

1. Attachment—Property liable to be attached—Form of plaint for declaration that a judgment-debtor had a mortgage on certain property.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 63. 111 P R 1900

2. Suit to establish right to attach and sell property in execution of decree.

See JURISDICTION. 50 P R 1890

3 Suit by a decree-holder to establish his right to attach certain property.

See JURISDICTION. 121 P R 1890

4. Suits for declaratory decree that land has reverted to landlord free of maintenance—Suit by landlord to set aside transfer of right of occupancy.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 70 P R 1892

4.—Enforcing or removing lien or attachment—concld.

5. Suit for declaration that the defendant could not redeem the property mortgaged to plaintiff by two successive mortgages without paying off the debt due on the second mortgage.

See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, SECTION 42. 35 P R 1890

6. Right to consequential relief.

Plaintiff and M. were joint owners of a piece of land, and the latter mortgaged a portion of it to defendant by way of conditional sale. Plaintiff, who was in possession, sued to have the mortgage declared void. Held, that as plaintiff could not, if he obtained the decree prayed for, seek relief elsewhere, the declaratory decree could not be granted. MUTSADDI v. PARBHU. 6 P R 1876

7. Specific Relief Act, (I of 1877), section 42—Mortgage by one joint owner—Suit by other joint owner that the mortgage does not bind him—"Further relief."

Held, that where A. and B. are joint owners of several properties, and B. denying that one of such properties is joint, deals with it as his exclusive property by mortgaging it without transfer of possession, a suit by A. for a declaration that the mortgage does not bind him because the property is joint, is maintainable under section 42 of the Specific Relief Act, the plaintiff in such a case not being able to seek "further relief" within the meaning of that section. RAM RAKHA v. NARINJAN DAS. 182 P R 1883

5.—Relationship.

1. Suit by adoptor for declaration that relationship between him and adopted son is dissolved.

See CUSTOM III—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR —K. REPUDIATION OF ADOPTION. 9 P R 1893

2. Marriage—Suit for a declaration that the defendant is not the lawful wife of the plaintiff—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain such a suit when an order for maintenance passed under section 488 of the Criminal Procedure Code is in force against the plaintiff

See HUSBAND AND WIFE. 26 P R 1903

3. Suit for a declaration that the defendant is not the lawful wife of the plaintiff—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain such a suit when an order for maintenance passed under section 488 of the Criminal Procedure Code is in force against the plaintiff.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURT. 50 P R 1901

4. Suit by adopted son to contest alienation by Hindu widow—Possession of widow adverse to the adopted son—Suit by the adopted son more than six years after interference with his right—Suit to obtain declaration of the validity of an adoption.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 119. 3 P R 1904

5. Suit by a wife for a declaration that by reason of certain acts her husband had lost his conjugal rights against her.

See MARRIAGE. 31 P R 1908

6. Suit for declaration of invalidity of marriage of defendant 1 with defendant 2.

See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, SECTION 42. 205 P R 1889

7. Suit for declaration that plaintiff being the adopted son was entitled to succeed to his deceased adoptive father's share of the family birt.

See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, SECTION 42. 141 P R 1894

8. Suit to have plaintiff declared the son of defendant.

Plaintiff sued to have himself declared the son of defendant (who had married the mother of plaintiff, his—defendant's—brother's widow). Defendant asserted that plaintiff was his nephew, son of his wife by her first husband. Held, that the suit for the declaration prayed for would lie, as consequential relief (e. g., asserting claims and protecting rights, &c., which plaintiff otherwise could not enforce) would follow the result of the suit. JAGAT SINGH v. JIT SINGH. 41 P R 1876

9. Act I of 1877, section 42—Consequential relief.

In a suit brought to obtain a declaration that the alleged adoption of the defendant by one D. was invalid, in which it appeared that the plaintiffs and defendants were equally entitled as heirs of D., if the adoption were invalid, the plaint asked for no consequential relief, but the motive of the suit was stated to be to enable the plaintiffs to partition the property of which they alleged and the defendants denied that they were in joint possession.

Held, that the suit must be dismissed on the ground that the Courts were not competent under section 42 of the Specific Relief Act to give the plaintiffs the relief they sought, inasmuch as they had omitted to seek further relief. RAM CHAND v. RADHA KISHEN. 63 P R 1882

10. Specific Relief Act (I of 1877) section 42—Suit by plaintiff to be declared the eldest son of his father—"Legal character."

A suit by plaintiff asking for a declaratory decree that "he is the eldest son of the late N. S." held, not to be maintainable under section 42 of the Specific Relief Act, as the mere fact of being the first born son does not, in the absence of special facts (which must be alleged), disclose any cause of action; in other words, the being an eldest son is not a "legal character" within the meaning of the above section. JAI SINGH v. UTTAM SINGH. 148 P R 1884

6.—Miscellaneous.

1. Suit for declaratory decree that plaintiffs are entitled to perform certain religious ceremonies on behalf of an indeterminate class of persons on property belonging to third parties.

See CUSTOM VII—EASEMENTS AND PROFITS. 4 P R 1896

2. Suit for declaratory decree that plaintiffs have a right to dry tobacco on certain land.

See CUSTOM VII—EASEMENTS AND PROFITS. 14 P R 1897

3. Jurisdiction of a Civil Court to entertain a suit for a declaration that a partition effected by the Revenue authorities was not binding on the reversioners of one of the parties.

See JURISDICTION. 104 P R 1900

4. Suit for declaration that land was not subject to partition.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 39 P R 1892

5. Held, that a declaratory decree can have no operation in reference to a person not a party to the suit. MUSSAMMAT RAZEE KOUR v. ZALIM. 29 P R 1866

6. Suit to declare right to dispose of a girl in marriage.

Plaintiff, paternal uncle of a girl, sued the girl's mother for a decree that he had the right to dispose of the girl in marriage, and that the defendant should not marry her to any one without plaintiff's consent. The Lower Courts decreed that a marriage brought about by the mother without the consent of the girl's uncle (plaintiff) would be illegal. The parties were Muhammadans. Held, that plaintiff could not obtain a declaratory decree as prayed for, and that the orders of the Lower Courts were wrong; but that, if the mother did any act which infringed the uncle's rights as guardian or set aside his authority, he might then sue to restrain her. MUSSAMMAT JANNAT v. NOWRANGA. 42 P R 1876

7. Plaintiff in position to maintain a suit for possession—Discretion of Court—Objection taken on second appeal.

The plaintiff sued for a declaration of his right to succeed to the office of muhant of a shrine, being at the same time in a position to maintain a suit for possession.

Held, that the Courts should, as a general rule, in such cases, in the exercise of the discretion allowed them, refuse to grant a declaratory decree and require the plaintiff to sue for possession.

DECLARATORY DECREE—contd.

6.—Miscellaneous—contd.

The objection that the Court of first instance had exercised a wrong discretion in permitting plaintiff to sue for a declaratory decree having been taken for the first time on second appeal, the Chief Court refused to interfere in the matter. BAIKUNT DAS v. HUKAM DAS. 55 P R 1877

8. Specific Relief Act (I of 1877), section 42—Creditor suing for a declaration that defendant is a member of the firm indebted to him—Further relief—Power to sue one partner alone for partnership-debt.

A suit by plaintiff for a declaration that defendant was a member of a firm which was indebted to and liable to him as such, held, to be barred by the proviso to section 42 of the Specific Relief Act, as under the provisions of the Contract Act the plaintiff could seek further relief than a mere declaration of title by suing to recover the partnership-debt from defendant as one of the partners, subject to any order which the Court might pass under section 32 of the Civil Procedure Code. LAUNKRA LAL v. MOHAR SINGH. 93 P R 1884

9. Specific Relief Act (I of 1877), section 42—Right to erect a fish-trap—"Right to property."

Held, that a right to erect a "chip" or fish-trap is a "right to property" which may form the subject of a declaratoy decree to be passed under section 42 of the Specific Relief Act. MAKHAN v. GOKUL. 32 P R 1885

10. Specific Relief Act (I of 1877) section 42—Declaratory decree—Consequential relief.

Plaintiff, the grandfather of two minor girls, sued for a declaration that he was their guardian for the purpose of marrying them, but asked for no consequential relief, although the plaint averred that defendant, the mother of the girls, was going to betroth them elsewhere.

Held, that the suit was barred by the proviso to section 42 of the Specific Relief Act, inasmuch as further relief could have been asked for, viz., an injunction to restrain the defendant from giving away the girls in marriage. GHULAM NABI v. MUSSHMMAT ABIDAN. 125 P R 1886

11. Satisfaction of decree out of Court—Civil Procedure Code 1882, section 258—Suit for declaration that the decree had been satisfied—Maintainability of such suit.

Held, that notwithstanding the provisions of section 258, Civil Procedure Code 1882, a suit for a declaration that a decree had been satisfied is maintainable. DIWAN SINGH v. AMIR SINGH. 16 P R 1910

12. Declaratory suit, to effect that plaintiff is the real decree-holder of a decree obtained by defendant—Court fees—Consequential relief—Specific Relief Act, I of 1877, section 42.

DECLARATORY DECREE—concld.

6.—Miscellaneous—concld.

Held, that in a suit for a declaration that plantiff is the real holder of a decree obtained by defendants against a third party and praying also that the decree be transferred to the plaintiff the latter prayer is mere surplusage and may be disregarded—the result being that no consequential relief has been sought in the plaint and a ten-rupee Court-fee stamp is adequate.

Held also, that it is for the lower Court to decide whether the plaintiff could seek further reliefs which would bring the proviso to section 42 of the Specific Relief Act 1877, into operation. GANESHI LAL v. BENI PRASHAD. 1 P R 1911

13. Declaratory suit in respect of right to realise birt—Parohit and jujmans. Maintainability of such suit.

Held that plantiff's claim to a decree declaratory of their so-called right as heirs of one Buta to realise birt could not be recognized by a Civil Court, the so-called right not being property within the meaning and for the purpose of section 42 of the Specific Relief Act, 1877. GURDAS v. BHAG. 96 P R 1911

DECREE.

1.—ADJUSTMMENT OF.
2.—AMENDMENT OF.
3.—CONSTRUCTION OF.
4.—DRAWING UP OF.
5.—EFFECT OF.
6.—EFFECT OF VOLUNTARY SATISFACTION OF.
7.—EX PARTE.
8.—FORM OF.
9.—OBTAINED BY FRAUD.
10.—INSTALMENTS.
11.—INTEREST ON.
12.—MESNE PROFITS.
13.—MODIFICATION OF.
14.—MORTGAGE.
15.—NEW.
16.—NULLITY OF.
17.—PARTIES.
18.—PARTITION.
19.—PRE-EMPTION.
20.—REBUILDING OF PARNALA.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 152.
DECLARATORY DECREE.
DECREE OR ORDER.
EXECUTION OF DECREE.

1.—Adjustment of Decree.

1. Mortgage—Construction of mortgage deed—Satisfaction of judgment debt—Uncertified adjustment of decree.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1882, SECTION 257 A. 54 P R 1894

2. Adjustment of decree not certified—Adjustment not between decree-holder and judgment-debtor.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 2. 137 P R 1888

DECREE—contd.

1.—Adjustment of Decree—concld.

3. Money paid out of Court in satisfaction of, and not certified—Suit to recover.

See RIGHT TO SUE.

4. Execution proceedings—Jurisdiction of Court to entertain application after full satisfaction of the decree being entered.

Section 244 of the Civil Procedure Code does not apply to a Court which has fully executed a decree and has thereby become functus officio, it applies only to a Court executing a decree at the time when an application connected with execution is made. CHOADRI GURMUKH SINGH v MUSSUMMAT MIRZA NUR. 63 P R 1901

2.—Amendment of Decree.

1. Amendment of decree—Variance between decree and judgment must be patent on the documents—Power of lower Court to amend decree confirmed on appeal by higher Court.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 152. 94 P R 1888

2. Duty of Court executing decree—Clerical error—Amendment of decree—Stay of exection.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 152. 78 P R 1889

3. Decree of Appellate Court confirming decree of District Court—Jurisdiction of District Court to amend original decree.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 152. 32 P R 1896

4. Decree not in conformity with judgment—Application by decree-holder to amend decree rejected as time-barred.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 152. 12 P R 1897

5. Decree not in conformity with judgment—Application by plaintiff to amend decree after it has been upheld by the Chief Court—Jurisidiction.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 152. 59 P R 1900.

6. Amendment of decree—Appeal—Revision.

See REVISION IN CIVIL CASES. 101 P R 1888

3.—Construction of Decree.

1. Delivery of property—Certain date—Construction of decree.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 48. 159 P R 1889

2. Execution of decree—Certain date.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 48. 199 P R 1890

3. Annual or monthly payments—Decree directing payment at a certain date.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 48. 13 P R 1892 F B

4. Decree for specific movables or their value—Construction.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908 O. XXI, R. 32. 64 P R 1890

DECREE—contd.

3.—Construction of Decree—contd.

5. Final decree—Leave to appeal to Her Majesty in Council.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 109. 12 P R 1896

6. Conditional decree—Possession to be given on certain payment being made—Mortgage—Adverse possession.

See CONSTRUCTION OF DOCUMENT. 137 P R 1889

7. Decree payable by instalments not fixed prior to decree—Executing Court fixing amount of instalments—consent of decree-holder.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE. 46 P R 1881

8. Power of executing Court to look at judgment to explain ambiguous parts of decree.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE. 45 P R 1882

9. Decree silent as to interest—Variances between judgment and decree—Power to realise interest in execution.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE. 13 P R 1886

10. Decree for payment of money in accordance with written compromise.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE. 84 P R 1885

11. Merger of decree in subsequent arrangement.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE. 51 P R 1885

12. Agreement for carrying out decree.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE. 195 P R 1882

13. Arrangement for satisfaction of, by temporary alienation of land of which sale is sought.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE. 114 P R 1886

14. Against elder member of undivided family—Power to go behind decree in subsequent suit to show that the debt was a family debt and the decree binding on the minor members.

See HINDU LAW, UNDIVIDED FAMILY. 70 P R 1883

See MORTGAGE. 78 P R 1885

15. Decree varied by agreement.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1871, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 167. 46 P R 1876

16. Adjustment of—Agreement to make payments at a certain date.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 179. 61 P R 1886

17. Directing payment at a certain date—Limitation for application to execute.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 179. 29 P R 1885

18. Decree made on a compromise that after expiration of fifteen years plaintiff would be entitled to possession.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 179. 126 P R 1892

19. Decree providing that execution shall take place after expiry of a certain period.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 178. 65 P R 1897 F B

DECREE—contd.

3—Construction of Decree—contd.

20. Decree payable by instalments—No condition as to default.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II ARTICLE 179. 48 P R 1900.

21. Decree, Construction of—Decree payable by instalments—Default in payment of instalments—Execution of decree—Limitation.

Held, in the case of a decree for money payable by instalments with a proviso to the effect that in case of default of payment of any instalment the defendant should pay the amount decreed in a lump sum, that the decree-holder had the option to take advantage of any default, and was entitled to execute his decree for any of the instalments that were not barred by limitation, and was not bound to apply for execution within three years from the date of the first default.

Karakaralasa Appayya v. Karaman Pappaya (I. L. R. III Mad. 256), Ram Gulpo Bhattacharji v. Ram Chander Shome (I. L. R. XIV Calc. 352), and Shankar Prasad v. Jalpa Prasad (I. L. R. XVI All. 371), cited.

Shib Dat v. Kalka Parsad (I. L. R. I. All. 443), Monmohan Roy v. Durga Churn Gree I. L. R. XV Calc. 502), Sital Chand Nahr v. Hydermall (I. L. R. XXIV Calc. 281), Kanheya Lal v. Fattu (48 P. R. 1900), and Bihari Lal v. Baness (109 P. R. 1889), referred to. ALLAH BAKHSH v. BHAWANI.

100 P R 1902

22. Decree—Decree for possession of immovable property—Omission to specify boundaries or numbers of property decreed—Construction—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 207.

In a case for possession by pre-emption of a certain area of land and of a house, the Court decreed the claim and described the property decreed as the property "in suit" without specifying its boundaries or khasra numbers.

Held, that the decree was not imperfect so as to be incapable of execution, inasmuch as the details given in the plaint in the case could be read into the decree, and that the executing Court should have proceeded to execute with the help of those details.

GORDHAN DASS v. RUGHNANDAN DAS.

74 P R 1905

23. Pre-emption—Conditional decree—Appeal by purchaser for enhancement of purchase money—Duty of Appellate Court to extend time allowed for payment of price when confirming-decree of first Court—Construction of decree of Appellate Court confirming decree of original Court but silent as to time for payment of purchase money—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 214.

Held, by the Full Bench (Reid, J. dissenting)—

(i) that an Appellate Court when deciding an appeal by a purchaser from a decree for pre-

DECREE—contd.

3.—Construction of Decree—concld.

emption and dismissing the same is not bound to fix a period subsequent to the date of its decree within which the price fixed by the Court of first instance is to be paid;

(ii) that the decree of an Appellate Court dismissing the purchaser's appeal on the ground that the price fixed by the Court below in a pre-emption suit was correct but silent as to time for the payment of pre-emptive money must be construed to have incorporated all the terms of the decree confirmed including the provision fixing the date or time for payment, and that in such cases the time allowed must be calculated from the date of the orginal and not of the appellate decree. WASAWA SINGH v. LAL SNGH.

48 P R 1906 F B

24. Decree—Decree based on a judgment in terms of an award—Award charging jagir income with the amount due—Decree silent as to such charge—Execution of decree—Power of Court to refer to judgment or award to interpret the decree—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 206—Pensions Act, 1871, section 11.

A decree was passed against the defendant-appellant (a Mandal jagirdar) for Rs. 6,000 payable by instalments. The decree was based on a judgment given in terms of an award. The award specified the instalments, and further declared that the amount due should be a charge on the jagir income of the defendant-appellant. The decree was altogether silent as to the charge.

Held (1) that the jagir income being a pension within the meaning of section 11 of the Pensions Act, 1871, was not liable to attachment;

(2) that the judgment and award could not be referred to to explain the decree which was clear and unambiguous in its terms; that the decree might be amended under section 206 of the Civil Procedure Code, but until that was done, the decree must be read as it stood, and not, by a strained interpretation, taken to contain a provision which would be illegal. QAMARUD-DIN KHAN v. LACHMI NATH. 95 P R 1906

Cf. ALSO QAMAR-UD-DIN KHAN v. MANI RAM. 96 P R 1906

25. Decree—Construction of decree—decree in favour of appellant with costs.

Held, that the proper interpretation of the words "appeal dismissed or accepted with costs" is that the costs of the Appellate Court alone are awarded and not that of the Conrts below.

Ramji Das v. Charanji Lal (45 P. R., 1887), followed. BAKHSHI RAM v. GUMANO

18 P R 1907

DECREE—contd.

4.—Drawing up Decrees.

1. Necessity for drawing up decree when Appellate Court dismisses appeal at preliminary hearing—Necessity for Judge to sign decrees himself.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XLI, R. 11. 7 P R 1888 Rev.

2. Decree of first Court reversed by Divisional Court—Further appeal dismissed without summoning respondent—Necessity for drawing up decree.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XLI, R. 11. 9 P R 1900

5.—Effect of Decree.

1. Effect of decree passed against deceased defendant.

See APPEAL—VI. PROCEDURE IN—

31 P R 1886

2. Decree professing to follow an award of arbitrators, but not in accordance therewith.

See ARBITRATION. 60 P R 1896

3. Appeal from decree made under section 102.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 8. 32 P R 1889

4. Decree drawn up in favour of deceased plaintiff.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 3. 20 P R 1898

5. Compromise of suit—Finality of decree—Allegation of fraud by party to compromise.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXIII, R. 3. 114 P R 1882, 24 P R 1893

6. Compromise of suit—Finality of decree in accordance therewith—Unauthorised compromise.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXIII, R. 3. 48 P R 1895

7. Suit on foreign judgment—Decree passed in absentem and ex parte *by Foreign Court—Jurisdiction of Court—*Actorsequitur forum rei—Cause of action.

See FOREIGN JUDGMENT.

112 P R 1894

8. Decree of Civil Court passed without jurisdiction—Power of Revenue Court to ignore such decree.

See PUNJAB LAND REVENUE ACT, 1887, SECTION 158 (2) (XVII).

2 P R 1895 Rev

9. Suit to compel registration—Omission by plaintiff to present his deed for registration within 30 days of obtaining a decree in such suit—Effect of such omission—Lapse of decree.

See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 75. 70 P R 1887

10. Two suits tried together by consent of parties—No appeal from decree in one suit.

See RES JUDICATA.

23 P R 1897

11. Effect of decree as regards minor who was unrepresented in former suit.

See RES JUDICATA. 38 P R 1897

DECREE—contd.

5.—Effect of Decree—concld.

12. Appeal after execution of decree.

Where a plaintiff obtains a decree for part only of his claim, and sues out execution of that decree, his right of appeal against the order disallowing the remainder of his claim is barred. MAHOMED KHAN v. FIDA MAHOMED.

82 P R 1868

13. A Court may make a decree declaring a lien respecting property situated out of its jurisdiction, when the defendant is within the Court's jurisdiction. SIMLA BANK v. DUDDY Obsolete. See SECTION 16, CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE.

77 P R 1875

14. Agreement to liquidate decree by instalments—Validity of contract—Appeal by judgment-debtor subsequent to agreement—Dismissal of appeal.

Plaintiff having obtained an ex-parte decree against defendant, which was appealed unsuccessfully to the Commissioner, proceeded to attach defendant's property in execution, whereupon a written agreement was entered into by the parties by which defendant undertook to liquidate the decree by specified instalments, which agreement was ratified before the execution Court, and proceedings in execution stayed. Two days after such ratification defendant filed a petition for revision (for which an appeal was afterwards substituted) in the Chief Court, praying for reversal of the Commissioner's judgment.

Held, that the appeal must be dismissed, as the arrangement entered into to liquidate the decree was not a voidable contract, but a reasonable arrangement for a good consideration, and one which should be enforced. SIRDAR AMRIK SINGH v. RAMBHAJ.

161 P R 1879

15. Decree in favour of plaintiff for a part of his claim—Execution of such decree by plaintiff—Subsequent appeal for remainder—Estoppel.

Held, that a plaintiff who has obtained a decree for a part of his claim and has executed the same is not by the mere fact of his having taken out execution of that decree debarred from prosecuting the appeal as regards the remainder of his claim which had been disallowed by the first Court.

Mahomed v. Fida Mahomed 82 P. R. 1868 over-ruled. RAGHU MAL v. BANDU.

31 P R 1907 F B

16. Decree in contravention of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900—Effect of.

Held, that a decree passed in violation of the terms of section 3, clause 2 of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900, is not a nullity. Section 9 of Punjab Act I of 1907, amending the Punjab Land Alienation Act, 1900, provides for such a case. DARGA DITTA v. MANA SINGH. 60 P R 1909

6.—Effect of voluntary satisfaction of.

Appeal by judgment-debtor who has voluntarily satisfied decree.

See ESTOPPEL. 142 P R 1888

DECREE—contd.

7.—Ex parte Decree.

1. Application to set aside ex parte decree—Transfer of officer who passed the decree.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 13. 153 P R 1890

2. Order under section 108 of the Civil Procedure Code setting aside an ex parte decree—Revision.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908. O. IX, R. 13. 125 P R 1892, 60 P R 1897 F B

3. Ex parte decree—Defendant present at first but absent at adjourned hearing—Order for case to proceed ex parte*—Application to set aside* ex parte decree—Rejection of such application—Appeal.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 13 82 P R 1895

4. *Money paid into Court—*Ex parte decree upheld—Application by decree-holder for payment of deposit.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 13. 8 P R 1898

5. Ex parte decree confirmed on appeal—Power of original Court to subsequently set aside such decree.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 13 30 P R 1900

6. Jurisdiction of District Judge to re-open an ex parte decree which was appealed against to the Chief Court by the plaintiff.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE 1908, O. IX, R. 13. 4 P R 1901

7. Ex parte decree—death of judgment-debtor—Competency of the legal representative of the judgment-debtor to have the ex parte decree set aside.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 13. 36 P R 1903

8. Application by defendant to have ex parte decree set aside—substituted service, effect of.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 13. 42 P R 1904

9. Setting aside ex parte decree on condition of payment of costs.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 13. 60 P R 1904

10. Setting aside decree ex parte against a defendant.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 13. 72 P R 1905

11. Transfer of exparte money decree—Competency of transferee to prosecute suit on original cause of action if the ex parte decree is set aside.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 16. 78 P R 1905

12. Lis pendens—Mortgage—Mortgagor's title based on ex parte *decree—*Ex parte decree subsequently set aside—Rights of mortgagee.

See LIS PENDENS. 56 P R 1896

13. Suing defendant in wrong name.

A summons was erroneously addressed to the defendant under the name of Faddy instead of Free. The summons was served upon Free, but he did not appear to answer the suit, and an ex parte decree was given against him. When execution was applied for, the error was detected.

DECREE—contd.

7.—Ex parte Decree—contd.

Per BOULNOIS, J, (ROBERTS, J. concurring). If Lieutenant Free had appeared to the summons and the suit had been decided against him, or the name and description of the defendant in the summons even without his appearance had been so close as to admit of no reasonable doubt, the plaintiff could proceed on this record notwithstanding the misnomer. All he would have to do would be to identify his defendant as the person whom he meant to sue, whom he did actually summon, and against whom in reality, with whatever error of name, the decree was made, But in this case, the name in the summons admits of doubt as to whether Lieut. Free must have known himself to be the man intended to be summoned. It admits of this doubt apparently, and although such a doubt might be removed on enquiry, as, for instance, if it appeared that he had gone by this alias, yet the circumstances of this case render it likely that the plaintiff could not show that the defendant, although so miscalled, ought to have appeared on the summons. If there was no sufficient summons the proceedings fall to the ground, and no warrant can issue. It is not necessary for the defendant to come in and set aside the proceedings under section 119 of the Civil Procedure Code. That is a course which might be adopted by a person who appeared on the face of the summons to have been properly summoned, but in fact was not. There can be no doubt that the proper course for the plaintiff in this case is to sue again, as if nothing had been done. In fact, no proceedings, on this view, have been taken against Lieut. Free, and no warrant can issue or be executed against him on this record. But care must be taken, in reference to cases like this, to avoid establishing a principle, that every man must necessarily be sued by his right name, for it is only so far as the error may have reasonably led to actual mistake that the proceedings are vitiated ; and when the defendant has appeared to the summons, I do not believe that there is any occasion to sue again. NIDHAN v. FREE.

9 P R 1866 Civil Ref.

14. Where the defendant was falsely personated at the hearing, held, that the decree passed in the suit for the plaintiff was ex parte. JAMAL DEEN v. NIHAL SINGH.

87 P R 1869

15. Section 119.

Plaintiff obtained a decree ex parte against the defendant for possession of certain property, and a few months afterwards applied for execution. The usual notice to show cause was issued, but, the defendant being absent, was not served. Upon the defendant's non-appearance, the Assistant Commissioner issued the order to carry out execution of the decree. Subsequently, the plaintiff filed and attested a dakhlnama, upon which the proceedings were consigned to the record-room. About a year afterwards, the defendant applied under section 119 of Act VIII of 1859, to set aside the ex parte decree urging that he had no notice either of the suit or of the execution of decree, and that he was still in possession of the land. Held, that no process for enforcing the judgment had been executed, and consequently the application was not barred by time. MOOLA SINGH v. WASAWA SINGH.

DECREE—contd.

7.—Ex parte Decree—concld.

94 P R 1869

16. Sections 119, 239—Ex parte decree—Application to set aside, made after time—Discretion of Court to admit—Informality in process of execution under section 239—Effect of.

On 28th April 1876, C. H. and W. obtained an ex parte decree against J. K., in execution of which certain shops were attached on 29th June 1876. On 2nd August 1876, J. K. applied under section 119, Act VIII of 1859, to have the ex parte decree set aside. The process of execution issued under section 239, Act VIII of 1859, was informal, because (a) no copy of the prohibitory order was attached to the door of the Court, or other conspicuous part of the Court-house, and (b) the order was not read aloud in any place on or adjacent to the shops sought to be attached.

Held, by PLOWDEN AND ELSMIE, JJ., that no legal process of execution was executed under section 239 within 30 days of the application made by J. K. on 2nd August 1876, and therefore, that his application was within time.

Per FITZPATRICK AND PLOWDEN, JJ.—A Court has no discretion to set aside an ex parte decree on application made more than 30 days after process for enforcing the decree has been executed, even though it appear that the defendant had, as a matter of fact, not known of the execution till within 30 days before he made his application.

A party insisting upon the provisions of a severe and stringent law, like that relating to ex parte decisions, is bound to see that every formality is strictly complied with; where this is not done a Court is bound to hold for the purposes of section 119, Act VIII of 1859, that no process has been executed. CHOWDRI HIAT v. JAI KISHEN.

32 P R 1878

8.—Form of decree.

1. Arbitration—Consent of all the parties to the suit—Section 506, Civil Procedure Code—Appellate Court remanding an appeal under section 562 as regards one defendant and dismissing the appeal as regards the other defendants—More than one decree in same suit.

See ARBITRATION. 3 P R 1892

2. Unauthorised alienation by occupancy tenants—Suit by landlord against tenant and mortgagee—Form of decree.

See CUSTOM I—(I)—ALIENATION OF OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.

6 P R 1893 Rev.

DECREE—contd.

8.—Form of decree—contd.

3. Sunni Muhammadan—Prompt dower—Restitution of conjugal rights—Plea of non-payment of prompt dower—Form of decree.

See DOWER. 5 P R 1891

4. Purchase of property by father in the name of one of his sons—Mortgage by such son—Suit to contest that mortgage by other heirs of the father—Form of decree.

See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION.

6 P R 1893

5. Suit for redemption of mortgage—Decree silent as to relief it gave to the plaintiff.

See MORTGAGE—REDEMPTION.

34 P R 1896

6. Form of decree in suit where some of the several co-sharers sue a trespasser affecting common land.

See PARTIES. 105 P R 1901

7. Pre-emption—Compensation for improvements made by original purchaser—Form of decree.

See PRE-EMPTION, COMPENSATION FOR IMPROVEMENT. 91 P R 1892

8. Occupancy rights—Decree—Specification of land.

In making a decree for ejectment, the decree must specify the precise lands from which a tenant is to be ejected. Similarly a decree declaring occupancy rights under section 5, sub-section (1) (c), Tenancy Act, 1887, should specify the precise lands of which the tenant was in possession on the 21st October 1868, and in which he is found to have acquired occupancy rights. MUSSAMMAT ALA DI BEGUM v. TILOKA.

6 P R 1891 Rev.

9. Decree—Form of, in cases for redemption of mortgage—Decree for redemption should not be conditioned on payment within fixed time.

Held, that as a mortgagor in the Punjab, who has obtained a decree for redemption, is not debarred by reason of such decree from maintaining a second suit for redemption of the same mortgage where he has not availed himself to enforce the former decree, a Court should not in a decree for redemption fix any time limit for the payment of money found to be due under the mortgage and attach a condition that on failure to pay the right of redemption would be barred.

Shibbu Mul v. Paira Singh (86 P. R. 1877), Nathu Singh v. Rura (14 P. R. 1881), Balmookand v. Ramji Lal (20 P. R. 1887), Ram Singh v. Nodh Singh (93 P. R. 1879), Periandi, v. Angappa (I. L. R. VII Mad. 423), Karuthasami v. Jaganatha (I. L. R. VIII Mad. 478) and Nainappa v. Chidambaram (I. L. R. XXI Mad. 18), referred to. HIMAYAT ALI v. JOWALA SARUP. 100 P R 1905

10. Declaratory suit by reversioners—Alienation found to be in part without necessity—Form of decree.

Held, that in declaratory suits by reversioners to have an alienation declared void after the death of the alienor, if the Court

DECREE—contd.

8.—Form of Decree—concld.

finds, that the alienation is in part only for necessity, the decree should declare (1) that the alienation shall not take effect at all against the reversioners after the death of the alienor, and (2) that the reversioners shall not be entitled to possession until they have paid the sum found to be for "necessity." FAZAL AHMED v. SHAHAB DIN. 92 P R 1909

9.—Obtained by Fraud.

1. Setting aside decree passed on compromise—Minor guardian ad litem—Fraud in equity—Knowledge.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908 O. XXIII R. 3 24 P R 1893

2. A suit lies to set aside a decree obtained by fraud. MALAK SHAHBAZ v. MOWAZ. 31 P R 1868

10.—Instalments.

The rule (in Judicial Commissioner's Circular No. 80 of 1858) that instalments were not to extend over more than two years without the consent of the parties, had ceased to be in force in 1867. KHOOSHEE RAM v. KOUR SEIN. 69 P R 1867

11.—Interest on decree

See INTEREST.

12.—Mesne profits.

Decree for redemption and possession on payment of a certain sum—Modification of decree—Final decree making redemption conditional on payment of larger sum—Suit for recovery of mesne profits which accrued between date of obtaining possession under first decree and payment under final decree.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 60 P R 1890

13.—Modification of Decree.

1. The correction of an error and consequent modification of the decree of a Court of first instance by the Collector on appeal gives a further appeal on the whole case to the Commissioner under section 80, proviso (iii), Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. JAIMAL AND FATTU v. MAIDHAN. 3 P R 1891 Rev.

2. Reversal of whole decree on appeal by one of several plaintiffs or defendants when the decree proceeds on ground common to all. 26 P R 1881
71 P R 1883

3. An Appellate Court can only modify judgment or decree so far as it affects the appellant, without interfering as to parties who do not appeal. RAM DITTA v. MOHKAM. 46 P R 1892

14. Mortgage.

See MORTGAGE—REDEMPTION.

DECREE—contd.

15.—New Decree.

Review of judgment—New decree—Appeal.
See APPEAL II—Competency of. 85 P R 1891

16. Nullity of Decree.

1. Appeal from decree passed by inadvertence against, or in favour of, a dead party.
See APPEAL II—Competency of. 7 P R 1889

2. Decree in favour of deceased appellant.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII R. 3 78 P R 1891

3. Decree drawn up in favour of deceased plaintiff.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII R. 3. 20 P R 1898

4. Decree in contravention of the Punjab Aleination of Land Act (1900)—Effect of—held, that a decree passed in violation of the terms of section 3, clause (2), of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act, XIII of 1900, is not a nullity. Section 9 of Punjab Act (1) of 1907, amending the Punjab Land Alienation Act, 1900 provides for such a case. DARYA DITTA v. MANA SINGH. No. 60 P R 1909

17.—Parties.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 9 P R 1889

1. Surety. 151 P R 1890

A decree cannot be executed against one who, after decree passed, becomes surety for its performance. BUNSIDHAR v. BEHARI LALL. 62 P R 1871

2. Execution against one who undertakes to satisfy a decree.

Plaintiff obtained a decree against A. personally for a sum of money. B., on the ground that A. was his (B.'s) agent, and that the subject-matter of the suit concerned B. and not A., agreed to satisfy the decree. Held, that execution of the decree could not be had against B. whose undertaking might furnish a separate cause of action. DIWAN RAM CHAND v. MUHAMMAD SULTAN. 75 P R 1876

18.—Partition.

1. Decree for partition of estate—Partition referred to Collector—Powers of Civil Courts to interfere.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1882, SECTION 54. 73 P R 1889

2. Order fixing plaintiff's share in suit for partition and directing partition—Decree.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXVI R. 3. 37 P R 1896

19.—Pre-emption.

1. Decree for pre-emption omitting to state consequence of non-payment of pre-emptive price within the time prescribed thereby for payment—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 214.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XX R. 14. 53 P R 1903

2. Pre-emption suit—Execution of decree—Transfer of right to execute decree for present possession, right of ownership

DECREE.—concld.

19.—Pre-emption—concld.

being reserved—Refusal of execution Court to allow transferee to execute decree, suit by transferee to establish his right.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI. R. 16. 78 P R 1896

3. Decree for pre-emption—Question whether decree-holder has paid money into Court within time. 1908
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 38 P R 1898

4. Decree for pre-emption directing money to be paid into Court by certain date, but not stating consequences of non-compliance.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE, II, ARTICLE 179. 47 P R 1898

5. Decree subject to payment of a certain sum within a fixed period, and also awarding plaintiffs their costs—Payment of such sum within the specified period less the costs awarded.
See PRE-EMPTION—PAYMENT INTO COURT. 70 P R 1888

6. Decree of lower Court fixing time for payment modified subsequently to expiry of such period, by decree of Appellate Court.
See PRE-EMPTION—PAYMENT INTO COURT. 10 P R 1895

20.—Re-Building of Parnala, Decree directing.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI. R. 32 107 P R 1889

DECREE OR ORDER.

1. Decree or order—Order refusing to entertain a plea—Civil Procedure Code, Act V of 1908, section 2, clauses (2) and (14)—right of appeal.

The purchaser of the equity of redemption sued the mortgagee for a perpetual injunction to restrain the latter from effecting certain repairs. One of the pleas of the defendant was that he held a mortgage from a co-owner in the mortgaged property, from whom he had a separate mortgage empowering him to effect the repairs. The District Judge held that he was in law debarred from going into the question of the rights of a co-owner and refused to go into them. The defendant thereon preferred an appeal to the Divisional Judge from the order of the District Judge on this point. The Divisional Judge held that the order amounted to a preliminary decree and was consequently appealable.

Held, that the order of the District Judge was not a preliminary decree but merely an order as defined in section 2 (14) of the Code of Civil Procedure and that no appeal lay therefrom to the Divisional Judge. KANSHI NATH v. NATHU RAM. 41 P R 1911

2. Decree (preliminary)—meaning of—Civil Procedure Code, Act V of 1908, section 2 (2)—appeal—revision.

Held, that in the definition of "decree" in section 2 (2) of the Civil Procedure Code of 1908 the words "rights of the parties" must be taken to be the rights of the parties inter se in regard to the subject-matter of the suit and that preliminary orders passed upon :—

DECREE OR ORDER—contd.

(a) an objection, as to part of the suit, based upon the terms of the Pension Act ;

(b) a question as to how that portion of the claim dealing with profits is to be determined ;

(c) a demand by defendant that security should be taken from plaintiff before the case proceeds further ; and

(d) an allegation by the defendant that the total Court-fee stamp now required from plaintiff is largely deficient ; are consequently not decrees and not appealable.

Held also, that as an appeal will lie from the decree in the suit, the Court must decline to interfere with the orders on revision.

146 P. R. 1908 distinguished. MIR UMAR ALI v. MUSSAMMAT NASIB-UN-NISA. 82 P R 1911

3. Preliminary decree—Civil Procedure Code, Act V of 1908, section 2 (2)—order returning plaint for amendment—appeal—revision—declaratory decree in respect of right to realise birt—parohit and jujmans—Specific Relief Act, I of 1877, sections 40 and 54.

Where the first Court passed the following order :—" Plaintiffs cannot bring a suit for " declaration of birt and should bring a suit " for injunction" and added—" order an- " nounced to counsel of parties and plain- " tiff's counsel are directed to comply with " the order till 14th August 1909, for which " date the case is postponed."

Held, that this was merely an order returning the plaint for amendment within a specified period and not a preliminary decree within the meaning of section 2 (2), Civil Procedure Code, and that consequently no appeal was competent under the provisions of the Code.

Held also, that although the order was only interlocutory, the very peculiar circumstances of the case justified the Chief Court in dealing with it on the revision side.

Held also, that plaintiff's claim to a decree declaratory of their so-called right as heirs of one Buta to realize birt could not be recognized by a Civil Court, the so-called right not being property within the meaning and for the purpose of section 42 of the Specific Relief Act, 1877.

[The relations between a parohit and his jujmans discussed.]

8 P. R. 1901 differed from, and

7 P. R. 1877, Strimathoo Mootho v. Darasinga Tevar, (1875) 15 B. L. R. 108 (P. C.), Samarindra Chandra Deb v. Birendra K. Deb, (1908) I. L. R. 35 Calc., 789—794 and 115 P. R. 1883, referred to.

Held further, that the objections to the grant of a declaratory decree are equally fatal to the grant of an injunction, in the absence of a specific agreement between the parties (vide section 54, Specific Relief Act).

DECREE OR ORDER—concld.

Rajavalad Shivapa v. Krishnabhat, (1879), I. L. R. 3 Bom. 232 and Daya Rum Hargovan v. Jetha Bhat Lakhmiram, (1896) I. L. R. 20 Bom. 784, referred to. GURDAS v. BHAG, &C. 96 P R 1911

DEDICATION OF ROAD TO PUBLIC.

Right of way—Public or private road—User of road by public for less than 20 years—Presumption as to dedication—English Law.

See EASEMENT. 62 P R 1898

DEEP-STREAM RULE.

See ALLUVION AND DILUVION.

DEFAMATION. 13 P R 1900

1. Husband's right to maintain a suit in his own name for slanderous imputations against his wife—Special damages.

See RIGHT TO SUE. 27 P R 1887

2. Damages for defamation of character—Actual pecuniary damage.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT, 1885, SECTION 6. 98 P R 1888

3. Plaintiff sued defendant for damages, the latter having accused the former of murder, and plaintiff having been kept several days in custody upon the charge and then discharged. There being no express malice shown against defendant, and there not being an entire absence of reasonable and probable cause for the accusation, plaintiff's suit dismissed. MAYA v. MUTHRA DASS. 25 P R 1867

4. An action does not lie for a defamatory statement made on oath in the course of litigation, relevant to the matter litigated, though the statement be untrue. MOHUN LALL v. LEVINGE. 39 P R 1868

5. A charged B with theft of his mare ; the criminal charge having failed, A sued B on the Civil side for restitution of the mare ; this suit having also failed, B sued A for damage for injury to reputation. Held, that to support this suit, it was not necessary to prove express malice—it would be sufficient to establish absence of reasonable and probable cause ; but such absence could not be inferred in this case, where the civil suit of A v. B failed by reason of the evidence being nearly balanced. MOTEE RAM v. HEERA NAND. 48 P R 1868

6. Libel—Public acts of a public man—Defamatory comments upon—Privileged, if made bona fide and upon reasonable grounds, though inferences not fully warranted—Not privileged, if reckless or coupled with unjustifiable invective.

Plaintiff was Sanitary Commissioner of the Punjab, and the defendants were connected with a newspaper published at Lahore. In May 1869 cholera broke out at Amritsar ; on the 29th of that month was reported to prevail by the Civil Surgeon to plaintiff ; on 15th June was reported epidemic by the Civil Surgeon, and increased in severity during the months of June, July, and August, the deaths amounting to several thousands. Plaintiff visited Amritsar on the 2nd August, and remained there till the 6th ; and during his visit made an inspection of the city with the Civil Surgeon, which the latter stated in evidence was "sufficient to give him " (plaintiff) a general idea of the sanitary " state of the city, of the nature of the " epidemic, and of the precautionary and " remedial measures that were taken by " himself (the Civil Surgeon) and the Civil " authorities." At the close of this inspection, in the course of which plaintiff and the Civil Surgeon had visited the filthiest parts of the city, plaintiff was sickened by a particularly foul stench to which the Civil Surgeon had led him by way of a joke, and returned to his buggy. This incident the Civil Surgeon afterwards jestingly related to one Rodgers, who thereupon wrote an article, which was published in defendants' newspaper on the 17th August, and which contained inter alia the following expressions : " Instead of search, patient and " investigating, the Doctor" (thereby meaning the plaintiff) " took to inglori- " ous flight. We do not want a man with " so delicate a nervous system that if he " meets with one foul smell he flies. " . . . . What boots such untiring " efforts and such unselfish devotion " (alluding to the Civil Surgeon) " now that " the enemy occupies the field, with such " allies as the utter carelessness of the " people, the idleness of the conservancy " contractor, and the cowardice of the " Inspector Chief of Nuisances " (meaning the Sanitary Commissioner). In an action for libel based upon this article, the Court held, that to determine whether or not the above comments were privileged, as being fair remarks upon the public acts of a public man, the question was whether Rodgers, the author of the article, had brought to the task of condemning plaintiff's conduct an honest sense of justice, and a reasonable degree of judgment, and moderation ; that the imputations must not only be honest, but if mistaken must be made upon some reasonable ground. Held, also that the shortness of plaintiff's visit to Amritsar and his delay in making the visit, upon which defendants insisted, did not reasonably permit the inference that he was actuated by a fear of the epidemic ; that the imputation of cowardice, resting upon what the Civil Surgeon had said in jest, was reckless, and in excess of the privilege of the occasion ; and that therefore the article sued upon was libellous and actionable without proof of express malice. DERENZY v. GRIFFIN. 8 P R 1870

7. Libel—Publication—Document sent by post—Jurisdiction.

DEFAMATION—contd.

Where the defendant posted a newspaper (alleged to contain a libel upon plaintiff) at Agra, addressed to C. at Lahore and the newspaper was delivered to C.'s servant at Lahore, and forwarded by him unopened to his master at Amritsar (where C. was temporarily staying)—held, that the publication was at Lahore, and the Civil Court at that place therefore had jurisdiction to entertain the suit. DENGO v. KIRBY.

33 P R 1874

8. Libel—Privilege—Charge of corruption against arbitrator by party to suit.

Plaintiff was umpire in a Civil suit to which defendant was a party in which defendant filed a petition objecting to the award and imputing corruption to the plaintiff and claimed to recover Rs. 3,000 damages for defamation.

Held, that the charge having been preferred in the course of a Civil suit to which the defendant was a party, the occasion was privileged, and that, even if the charge was false and unfounded and made from express malice, no action for damages would lie. ALI KHAN v. MALIK YARAN KHAN.

16 P R 1879

9. Suit for damages—Witness giving evidence in judicial proceeding.

Held, that a suit for damages for defamation of character in respect of evidence given by a witness on oath in a judicial proceeding is not maintainable. KUNDAN v. RAMJI DAS.

146 P R 1879

10. Exclusion of plaintiff from caste owing to defendant's imputations—Ground of action—Special damage—Remoteness of damage—Privilege—Reasonable cause for belief in truth of imputations—Measure of damages—Ground for second appeal.

The allegations upon which plaintiff's suit was based, and which were found to be proved, were that in consequence of certain statements which were falsely and maliciously published by the defendants to the effect that plaintiff's wife was a woman of low caste, between which and the plaintiff's own caste inter-marriage and intercourse of any kind were prohibited, the plaintiff's brotherhood had expelled him and his wife from caste, and that they had thus been deprived of the social status which they formerly enjoyed. It appeared that these statements were not only contained in a letter which the defendants had procured to be written and which they had subsequently read before the assembled brotherhood, but they were also repeated orally on the same occasion by the defendants who thus vouched for their accuracy.

Held, that the above facts furnished ample grounds for an action for defamation.

Held further, that the expulsion from caste could not be said to be too remotely connected with the publication of the defamatory statements to constitute damage for which the defendants were answerable, as although the act of a third party, the expulsion was the natural consequence of the defendants' conduct which they must have contemplated, and which therefore must be fairly attributed to their wrongful act.

DEFAMATION—concld.

Held also, that defendants' contention on the ground of privilege failed, as to entitle a defendant to succeed on such a plea, it is necessary to show not only that the occasion was privileged, but that it was made use of bonâ fide and without malice; the defendant must not only have believed in the truth of the statement he has repeated, but the belief must have been one for which there was reasonable and probable cause, formed after due enquiry and with proper caution: whereas in the present case the defendants had proved none of the above conditions, but were on the contrary found to have been actuated by express malice.

In the above case the plaint failed to set out the grounds upon which the amount claimed as damages was estimated, and no evidence was adduced by either party to guide the Court in estimating the proper amount to be awarded, but the defendants did not in the first Court plead that the damages claimed were excessive, nor did they raise the point in the lower Appellate Court, and only inferentially in second appeal to the Chief Court. Held, that under the above circumstances unless the amount awarded was palpably excessive, which it did not appear to be in the present case, the Court was not called upon to interfere at the stage of a second appeal. SANT v. BHAG MAL.

140 P R 1882

11. Defamation—Communication by clergyman to a lady attached to his mission as to her proposed marriage—Moral or Social duty—Qualified privilege.

Held that a communication from a clergyman in charge of a charitable mission to a lady attached to his staff intimating his disapproval of her proposed marriage (the ceremony of which he had previously promised to perform) and containing imputations affecting the moral character of the person whom she was about to marry is a privileged communication, and not actionable, unless malice is shown. X. V. Z.

83 P R 1908

DEFAULT.

See APPEAL. II.—COMPETENCY OF.

9 P R 1883

VI. PROCEDURE IN—

113 P R 1876
48 P R 1878
61 P R 1878
139 P R 1879

CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 8 and 9 Passim.
O. XVII, R. 2 and 3 Passim.
O. XLI, R. 11 and 19 Passim.
O. XXXIII, R. 7.

64 P R 1896

Order XLVII, rule 1.

1 P R 1889

DEFAULT—concld.

LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 14.
17 P R 1873
63 P R 1886

LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 168.
44 P R 1882
76 P R 1882

PRACTICE. 83 P R 1890

RES JUDICATA. 104 P R 1883
177 P R 1888 P. C.
80 P R 1899

REVISION IN CIVIL CASES.
75 P R 1881
34 P R 1890

SMALL CAUSE COURT, JURISDICTION OF. 52 P R 1889

DEFECT IN PROCEDURE.

See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTIONS 23, 26. 93 P R 1883

DEFENDANT.

1. Summons to, under wrong name.
See DECREE, 7 EX PARATE 9 P R 1866

2. Defendant—Absence of, from British India.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 13, Passim.

3. Death of one of several—Application for substitution—Sufficient cause for not applying within prescribed period.
See PARTIES. 113 P R 1907

DEFENCE.

Held that, in pre-emption suits, a vendee cannot improve his own position subsequent to sale and set this up in defence, so as to defeat the pre-emptor's suit. SANWAL DAS v. GUR PARSHAD. 90 P R 1909 F B

DEGREES OF RELATIONSHIP.

1. Mode of calculating degrees of relationship.

In calculating degrees of relationship, the proper course is to begin with the generation of the deceased and to count upwards until the common ancestor is reached, whose generation should be also included. All the descendants of the common ancestor, however remote, are entitled to succeed. LADHU v. MUSSAMMAT DAULATI.

126 P R 1890

2. Mode of calculating degrees of relationship.

The method of counting degrees of relationship in the Bannu district is from the collateral to the common ancestor, both being included. GIRDHARI RAM v. FAIZULLAH KHAN. 48 P R 1908

DELHI PALACE FORTIFICATIONS.

See COMPENSATION. 57 P R 1869

DELHI, EX-KING OF.

See ACT OF STATE. 2 P R 1872 P. C.

Claims against—Suit against Government of India for a bond debt of the Ex-King of Delhi.

DELHI, EX-KING OF—concld.

The money was advanced to the King in 1840; payments on account were made up to 1850, and then ceased. In 1852 plaintiff sued on the bond in the Civil Court of Delhi, but the case was thrown out for want of jurisdiction. In 1860, plaintiff claimed from Government, under an order of the Governor-General in Council, authorizing all loyal subjects having claims against the ex-King to come forward, and if the claims were approved, the Government would satisfy them.

The Punjab Courts found that, although plaintiff was loyal, yet the proofs were not sufficient, and that at the time the ex-King's estate was confiscated, this claim was hopeless; and held that the Government was under no obligation, legal or moral, to pay a bad debt, or to place plaintiff in a better position than he would have occupied had the ex-King remained in statu quo; that the paying of such claims at all was a mere act of grace and favour on the part of the Government; and that, as the claim was not brought within six years, it was barred by the law of limitation.

In appeal to the Privy Council, found, that the bond on which the claim was founded was genuine, and that no portion of the principal amount was paid; held, that in the peculiar circumstances of a case like this, the Government did no more than what was incumbent upon it in narrowly and jealously scrutinizing the claim, and that it was not required to satisfy a stale demand, but that the law of limitation did not apply to the present case. Judgment for appellant, for the principal amount, with interest from 1852, and costs. LALLA NARAIN DAS v. ESTATE OF EX-KING OF DELHI. Privy Council Judgment, 1868.

DEL CREDERE AGENT.

See PRINCIPAL AND AGENT. 98 P R 1869

DELIVERY.

Non-delivery of document by executant after registration—Validity and operation—Complete transaction.

See DOCUMENT. 40 P R 1906

DEMAND.

Demand of payment of principal and interest before issue of notice of foreclosure is a condition precedent to the validity of such notice. 16 P R 1888

See MORTGAGE—FORECLOSURE. 106 P R 1889

DEMOLITION OF BUILDINGS.

1. Erection of building by one joint owner on common land.

See COMMON LAND 54 P R 1892

2. Tenant's right to erect buildings on arable land without landlord's consent.

See OCCUPANCY RIGHT, 122 P R 1888

3. Erection of buildings by one man on the land of another.

See PRE-EMPTION—COMPENSATION FOR IMPROVEMENTS. 38 P R 1889

DEMURRAGE.

See RAILWAY COMPANY. 92 P R 1883

DEPOSIT.

See BANK. 17 P R 1869

See LIMITATION ACT, 1859, SECTION 1. 23 P R 1872 74 P R 1882

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLES 59, 60. 95 P R 1885

See IB., ARTICLE 145. 74 P R 1882

DESERTION.

See DIVORCE. 51 P R 1869

See RESTITUTION OF CONJUGAL RIGHTS. 82 P R 1908

DEVISE.

To defendant if no male child was born to testator—Birth of male child who died the same day—Defendant's right to succeed.

See WILL. 181 P R 1882

DEVOLUTION OF INTEREST PENDING SUIT.

1. Devolution of interest pending suit—Joinder of parties.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 10. 29 P R 1887

2. Transfer of interest pending suit or appeal.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 10 143 P R 1889

DHAREL MARRIAGE.

See CUSTOM—IV. BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE, DIVORCE. 5 P R 1893 52 P R 1899

DHAREL WIFE.

See CUSTOM—IV. BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE. 21 P R 1882

DHARMARTH.

See CUSTOM—I. A. (4) ALIENATION FOR RELIGIOUS PURPOSES. 51 P R 1884 159 P R 1884 3 P R 1885

DHARMSALA.

See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION. 66 P R 1892

—Claim for pre-emption by proprietors of.

See PRE-EMPTION. 100 P R 1885

DHART.

See CUSTOM—V. CESSES AND DUES. 89 P R 1879

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURT. 8 P R 1872

See CAUSE OF ACTION. 28 P R 1894

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 29 P R 1889

DHERI.

1. Bhayachara village divided into pattis and dheris—Suit for partition of village site.

See COMMON LAND. 117 P R 1894

DHERI—concld.

2. Whether the provisions of section 12, Punjab Laws Act, are applicable to a dheri or sub-division of a patti. JAFFAR KHAN v. FAZAL MOHI-UD-DIN. 44 P R 1892

DILUVION.

See ALLUVION AND DILUVION.

DIRECTORS.

1. Power and authority of—Public Company—Articles of Association—Ratification by Company of acts ultra vires of Directors.

See COMPANY. 17 P R 1901 57 P R 1902

2. Public Company—Contract on behalf of Company—Directors and officers—Warranty of authority—Duty of third parties to see that the Directors and officers are acting within their authority—Presumption as to observation of formalities requisite to confer authority upon Directors.

See COMPANY. 81 P R 1903

3. Public Company—Articles of Association—Directors exceeding borrowing powers—Adoption and ratification of ultra vires acts of Directors.

See COMPANY. 57 P R 1902

4. Acts done bonâ fide by Director, not properly appointed—Validity of.

See COMPANY. 46 P R 1911

DISCOVERY OF DOCUMENTS.

Suit for dissolution of marriage on the ground of wife's adultery—Power to order discovery of documents in the possession of wife or co-respondent to prove adultery.

See DIVORCE ACT, 1869, SECTION 51. 11 P R 1902

DISCRETION.

Held, that where the Courts below have refused to exercise in favour of the plaintiff their discretion to allow an amendment of the plaint after a very full consideration of the circumstances of the case, and the consequences of such refusal are in no way serious, the Chief Court should not interfere with that discretion, where it was not exercised arbitrarily or without the Courts knowing all the facts of the case and applying their minds to them. ABDUL GHAFUR v. MUSSAMMAT MEHAR-UN-NISA. 101 P R 1909

DISMISSAL OF LAMBARDAR.

See LAMBARDAR.

DISMISSAL OF SUIT—PRINCIPLES WHICH SHOULD REGULATE.

1. Dismissal of suit on the ground that the plaint was signed and verified by some only of the plaintiffs.

See APPEAL.—VI. PROCEDURE IN. 48 P R 1896

2. Dismissal of suit pending reference to arbitration.

See ARBITRATION. 10 P R 1899

3. Dismissal of suit—Subsequent suit between same parties.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XVII, R. 2, 3. 80 P R 1899

DISMISSAL OF SUIT—contd.

4. Dismissal of suit of pre-emption on the ground that the plaintiff did not expressly sue for the share of shamilat included in the sale.

See Plaint—Form of.

7 P R 1896

See Pre-emption—Loss, or Waiver of Right. 9 P R 1896

5. Suit for ejectment of widow—Court finding plaintiff not entitled to immediate possession, but declaring his right as heir on the widow's death—Dismissal of suit.

See Pleadings. 159 P R 1888

6. Dismissal of suit of pre-emption on ground that plaintiff after obtaining an ex-parte decree (afterwards set aside) had re-sold the land at first decreed to him—Legality of such ground of dismissal.

See Pre-emption—Loss of Waiver of Right. 22 P R 1887

7. Dismissal of suit by Appellate Court on a point not taken in the first Court.

See Principal and Agent

21 P R 1897

8. Suit for recovery of movable property and for an account—Plaintiffs claiming as owners by succession and as principals who had appointed defendants to manage their property—Statement by plaintiff that she had never appointed defendants as her agents—Dismissal of suit—Principles which should guide Courts in such cases.

Plaintiffs, in their plaint, alleged that one M. D. died on 6th Jeth 1948 Sambat, leaving plaintiffs as his heirs; that he had long been separate in business from his brothers, the defendants; that his property was self-acquired; that defendants, as the nearest male relatives of M. D., were appointed by plaintiff as their agents, and entrusted with the management of the entire movable property; that K. S., one of the defendants, took out a certificate under Act VII of 1889, for the collection of debts due to the deceased; that at plaintiffs' instance, K. S. was made to file accounts in Court, but that they were incorrect; that plaintiffs did not wish to allow the management of the property to remain any longer in defendants' hands, but that on plaintiffs demanding return of it from them they had refused to comply, and that, therefore, plaintiffs had been compelled to come into Court to ask for its restitution and for rendition of proper accounts. Defendants pleaded (inter alia) that plaintiffs were not entitled to succeed to the property of M. D., but only to maintenance; that plaintiffs had agreed to take, and had been receiving, maintenance from defendants, and that for this same reason and because they had admitted defendants as the brothers of M D., to be his rightful heirs, in consequence of which the said certificate had been granted to them, plaintiffs were precluded from bringing the present suit; that the accounts filed by them were correct; and that the greater part of the property was ancestral while no part of it was admitted to have been acquired by the deceased.

DISMISSAL OF SUIT—concld.

Plaintiffs' pleader, in reply traversed the said allegations, and Mussammat P., one of the plaintiffs, was then examined by the Court, and stated that she had never appointed the defendants as her agents, nor had she entrusted anything to them, and that they had "looted" all the property.

Thereupon the Court, holding this statement to be utterly inconsistent with the plaint, forthwith dismissed the suit without drawing any issues or making any inquiry, on the ground that no amendment of the plaint could be allowed under the circumstances, and that as the plaint disclosed a cause of action, the Court was precluded from rejecting it under Section 54, Civil Procedure Code.

Held, that the suit should not have been dismissed. Inasmuch as plaintiffs in their plaint based their suit on two distinct titles—(1) as owners of the property as heirs of M. D. and (2) as principals who had appointed defendants to manage the said property for them, plaintiffs were entitled, even if they had failed to establish the allegation of agency and trust, to fall back upon their ground of action as owners by succession of the said property, and their suit should not have been dismissed until this had been enquired into and decided.

As regards respondents' contention that inasmuch as the suit as laid in the plaint was simply one against agents for an account and for recovery of property belonging to the principals in their hands, while according to the statement of Mussammat P., it was one against a trespasser and wrong-doer for recovery of specific property, the two suits were of a wholly different character, held, that the original claim was based on plaintiffs' title as owners of the property and not merely as principals of the defendants, and that K. S., who had obtained the said certificate, was clearly accountable for all his realizations if plaintiffs' titte were made out.

Held, further, that even if plaintiffs were not entitled to an account, it might be a ground for not giving them that relief, but would not justify the dismissal of their claim for return of the property in defendants' hands. Mussammat Parbatti v. Kaur Singh.

85 P R 1896

DISMISSAL OF ZAILDAR.

See Zaildar.

DISQUALIFICATION OF JUDGE

Judge during pendency of suit concluding transactions of mortgage and sale with one of the plaintiffs—Bias—Cancellation of proceedings—Act XVII of 1877, section 46.

While a suit was still pending in his Court, the Judge concluded a transaction by way of conditional sale of a well and certain lands, which were situate close to his house, over which he claimed to have a right of pre-emption, and which he did not wish to pass into other hands, from one of the plaintiffs. It further appeared that within six days of passing a decree in the plaintiffs' favour, the said Judge purchased another portion of the lands watered by the same well, but which had not been included in the mortgage by way of conditional sale, from the same plaintiff.

DISQUALIFICATION OF JUDGE —concld.

Held, that the Judge had disqualified himself from acting as a Judge in the suit in which the said mortgagor and vendor was a co-plaintiff, as it was impossible to deny that his conduct was such as was calculated to throw a substantial doubt on the purity of his administration of justice in the case, and whether the above transactions had or had not in fact created a bias in his mind, they were at all events of such a character as to show that the Judge had put himself in a position that was inconsistent with a fair and unbiassed discharge of his duties.

Held further, that the proper course to pursue was to treat the proceedings of the said Judge as those of an incompetent Court by reason of bias, and thus dealing with the suit as one which had not yet been legally tried, to transfer the same for trial to another Court.

Held also, that there was no bar to the adoption of the above course by reason of section 46 of Act XVII of 1877, as disqualifications of the above kind arise out of procedure, and are not therefore governed by the above quoted section, which merely refers to disqualifications which prevent Judges from exercising their jurisdiction in limine, and not to disqualifications which arise from the conduct of a Judge in the course of a suit which he was competent to try in the first instance. Gulsher v. Hemraj.

7 P R 1883

DISQUALIFIED PERSON.

Incapacity of, to contract.

See Court of Wards. 18 P R 1884

DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE.

See Abatement of Suit. 60 P R 1906

See Custody of Wife,

193 P R 1889
78 P R 1893
95 P R 1898

1. Hindus—Suit by wife for dissolution of marriage—Ante-nuptial agreement—Public policy.

See Contract Act, section 23

15 P R 1900

2. Apostacy—Singh a Jats of Tarn Taran.

See Custom—IV.—Betrothal, Dower, Marriage and Divorce.

152 P R 1890

3. Renunciation of wife by husband—Validity of custom—Ghumman (Hindu) Jats of Gurdaspur tahsil.

See Custom—IV.—Betrothal, Dower, Marriage and Divorce.

33 P R 1896

4. Jurisdiction of courts in British India to hear suits for dissolution of marriage when the parties were married in England and have an English domicile.

See Divorce Act, 1869, section 2.

64 P R 1900

5. Dissolution of marriage by reason of wife's apostacy.

See Muhammadan Law Divorce.

106 P R 1891

DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE—concld.

6. A wife's conversion from Islam to Christianity effects a complete dissolution of her existing marriage with her Muhammadan husband. IMAM DIN v. HASAN BIBI. 85 P R 1906

DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP.

See UNDER PARTNERSHIP.

DISTANT KINDRED.

See UNDER MUHAMMADAN LAW—INHERITANCE.

DISTINCT SUBJECTS.

See CAUSE OF ACTION. 96 P R 1895

DISTRIBUTION OF ASSETS.

See SUCCESSION ACT, 1865, SECTION 282.

DISTRICT COURT.

Suit for custody of minor—Jurisdiction of Court other than District Court.

See CUSTODY OF MINOR. 10 P R 1897

DISTRICT JUDGE.

Power of, to assign function of trying a case to Additional District Court—Case in excess of pecuniary limit of latter Court's jurisdiction.

See PUNJAB COURTS ACT, 1884, SECTION 75. 46 P R 1898

DIVERSION OF WATER-COURSE, SUIT FOR.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, SECTION 15. 71 P R 1896

DIVORCE.

See CUSTOM IV. BETROTHAL DOWER, MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.
84 P R 1889
152 P R 1890
78 P R 1893
33 P R 1896
95 P R 1898

See HINDU LAW, MARRIAGE.
32 P R 1870
16 P R 1875

See MAHOMEDAN LAW, DIVORCE—Passim.

1. Money advanced to married woman to procure divorce from her husband and to pay her debts.

See CONTRACT ACT, SECTION 23. 46 P R 1887

2. Hindu Jats, Jullundur district—Suit by husband for custody of wife whom he has deliberately abandoned.

See CUSTODY OF WIFE. 78 P R 1893

3. Agreement to divorce.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW—DIVORCE. 193 P R 1889

4. Exclusion of unchaste wife from inheritance in absence of divorce.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW—INHERITANCE. 37 P R 1888

5. Appeal against the order of a single Bench dismissing an application for dissolution of marriage—Limitation for such appeal—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article

DIVORCE—contd.

151—Necessity for copy of decree appealed against accompanying a memorandum of appeal—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 541.

See APPEAL—V. LIMITATION OF. 22 P R 1903

6. Act IV of 1869—Desertion—Offer to return.

The wife left her husband without reasonable cause at Delhi in 1853. The husband then came to Lahore, and within a year after the original desertion the wife agreed to join her husband on getting from him Rs. 60 for travelling expenses from Delhi to Lahore. This the Court found to be a reasonable sum for the journey. The husband did not send the money, and the wife found her own way to Lahore. She afterwards at Lahore offered to rejoin her husband who was then cohabiting with another woman, on condition that he discontinued the cohabitation. This he refused. Held, that a primâ facie case of desertion for two years and upwards was not made out. ALEXANDER v. ALEXANDER. 51 P R 1869

7. Act IV of 1869—Limitation.

A suit for divorce under Act IV of 1869 cannot be barred by limitation; but delay in suing, unless satisfactorily explained, may bar the remedy.

The admissions of a respondent are not evidence against the co-respondent. GORDON v. GORDON. 53 P R 1870

8. Custody of children.

Where the respondent in a suit under the Indian Divorce Act, IV of 1869, broke up the common home by introducing prostitutes into the house and subsequently lived in adultery with a governess hired for the education of his children,—it was held that his conduct was such as to render him unfit to have the care of the children of the marriage, and there being nothing to show that the wife was unfit to be trusted with them, the Court decreed the custody of the children to the wife.

Under the Indian Divorce Act, the Court has a very wide discretion with regard to the custody of children, and is not bound by the ordinary law on the subject as administered by the Court of Chancery. GOAD v. GOAD. 69 P R 1870

9. Native Converts Act (XXI of 1866).

The "Principal Civil Court of Original Jurisdiction of the District," within the meaning of section 3 of the Native Converts Marriage Dissolution Act (XXI of 1866), is the Court of the Deputy Commissioner. IN RE SHERE SINGH. 44 P R 1871

10. Act IV of 1869, sections 13, 14—"Similar Petition" to Chief Court, under section 13, after appeal from District Court—Evidence—Prior acts of adultery—Relevancy—Misconduct of petitioner's agents—Discretionary bar.

The petitioner filed a suit for divorce in the District Court on the ground of his wife's adultery; the suit was dismissed, and the petitioner appealed to the Chief Court, his appeal being dismissed for default of prosecution. Held, that the petitioner could bring a similar suit in the Chief Court, but that there could not be a fresh case compounded of new acts of adultery and of acts previously in litigation.

DIVORCE—contd.

Evidence is admissible of acts of adultery prior to those complained of, as relevant to and bearing on the question whether the latter acts have been committed.

Where the agents of the petitioner employed by him to watch the respondent after his separation from her, by giving false information to her of the co-respondent's wishes and by carrying letters, brought about the meeting at which the adultery complained of took place, Boulnois, J., dismissed the petition under section 14 of the Indian Divorce Act. BEANLANDS v. BEANLANDS. 45 P R 1871

11. Act IV of 1869—Evidence—Condonation—Collusion—Custody of child.

Where there is proof of guilty affection and opportunity, the presumption is that adultery has been committed.

Words alone, however strong, cannot amount to condonation. There must be a return to conjugal cohabitation, and such a blotting out of the offence as restores the guilty party to his or her former position.

Where a husband is in possession of evidence of his wife's adultery, it is not sufficient, in order to establish condonation, merely to show that there was a return to cohabitation: it must also be shown that the husband gave credit to that evidence, and took his wife back, believing her to be guilty and intending to forgive her.

To support the plea of collusion, there must be an agreement between the husband and wife either to put forward a false case or to stifle a defence: or an agreement that the respondent shall assist the petitioner by furnishing evidence.

Where the Court granted a decree nisi on the ground of the wife's adultery, it ordered the petitioner to have the custody of the issue of the marriage (a female child, aged 3 years), and refused to make any order for the respondent to see the child. ADLEY v. ADLEY. 70 P R 1873

12 Presumption of adultery from visiting a brothel—Rebuttal of presumption.

A married man going to a brothel for the purpose of dressing himself for a calico ball, he being aware of the nature of the house, furnishes a violent presumption of his adultery, which must be rebutted by the very best evidence.

The respondent, who was an apothecary, left his wife at Lahore upwards of two years before suit, having obtained from her Rs. 2,000 to set up a dispensary at Mooltan. He did not set up the dispensary, or communicate with her, and she did not hear of him again until he was met in Calcutta by a friend from Lahore, whom he took to a house (which turned out to be a brothel), for the purpose, as the respondent said, of "tidying himself up a bit" for a calico ball. He also told his friend that he was the medical attendant of the inmates of the house.

In a suit for divorce instituted by the wife on the grounds of the respondent's adultery and desertion, and in which he did not appear to answer to the charges,—held, that the desertion for two years and upwards, was established, and (Campbell, J., dissenting as to this) that the presumption of adultery had not, under the circumstances, been repelled. McCulloch v. McCulloch.

84 P R 1875

13. Divorce Act (IV of 1869), sections 12, 14—Omission by Court to frame issues—Defective investigation—Countercharges—Duty of Court before pronouncing decree nisi.

In a suit for dissolution of marriage, where the Court recorded the statements of the petitioner and respondent and caused the documentary evidence produced by both to be filed, and thereupon proceeded at once to pronounce judgment granting a decree nisi without fixing issues upon the statements of the parties, nor causing any further enquiry to be made, although the respondent alleged acts of cruelty and adultery against the petitioner subsequent to her marriage, which allegations the petitioner denied:

Held, that the decree nisi should not be confirmed, as the investigation was defective to a substantial extent, with referenee to sections 12 and 14 of the Indian Divorce Act. Cooper v. Warne. 130 P R 1879

14. Dissolution of marriage—Sodomy committed by husband upon his wife without her consent.

Held, by the Full Bench, that carnal knowledge against the order of nature committed by a man with a woman is sodomy within the meaning of section 10 of the Divorce Act, and when it is committed by a husband upon his wife, she not being a consenting party, the husband is guilty of "sodomy" within the meaning of section 10, so as to afford valid grounds for a petition for dissolution of marriage. B. v. B.

68 P R 1882

15. Restitution of conjugal rights—Plea of cruelty—Cruelty of petitioner when ground for Seringpnfus etitio.

In a suit for restitution of conjugal rights brought by the husband under Act IV of 1869, the question for decision was whether such cruelty had been proved as constituted a legal ground why the application should not be granted. It appeared that the petitioner had entertained from the commencement of the cohabitation a suspicion regarding his wife's ante-nuptial conduct for which there was a merely fanciful and insufficient foundation, and which he abandoned before the Court hearing his petition, and that on one particular occasion the petitioner beat his wife, using a degree of violence which undoubtedly caused physical pain to her, and in consequence of which she lodged a criminal complaint against him and left him. It further appeared from the evidence that the petitioner handled his wife roughly on other occasions during the short period of their cohabitation, viz., two months; that their cohabitation had resulted in the pregnancy of the respondent with a child of which the petitioner claimed the paternity without contradiction, and lastly, that the husband had without unreasonable delay again sought the society of his wife by instituting the present proceedings.

Held that, under the above circumstances, it could not be said that there was any such probability of a recurrence of ill treatment on the petitioner's part amounting to legal cruelty as would justify the Court in refusing him the relief he sought; but that there ought to be a renewal of cohabitation before any decree involving final separation, the practical effect of a decree dismissing the present application, was pronounced.

It cannot be affirmed generally that every act of personal violence, or that every combination of acts of personal violence, voluntarily inflicted and productive of hurt or alarm, constitutes legal cruelty: the extent of the injury, the causes conducting to the use of violence by the husband, the circumstances under which it occurred, the probability of the recurrence of similar or greater violence, are all matters requiring consideration. Baptist v. Baptist. 101 P R 1882

16. Act IV of 1869—District Judge passing decree for dissolution of marriage (subject to confirmation) with costs against respondent—Power to execute the decree as to costs before confirmation.

The District Judge having made a decree in a divorce proceeding, under Act IV of 1869, dissolving the marriage subject to the confirmation of the Chief Court with costs payable by the respondent to the petitioner, an application was made by the latter for exclusion of the decree so far as it related to costs by issue of a warrant of arrest.

Held, that the decree of the District Judge must be regarded as a final decree as far as he was concerned, consisting of two parts, viz., the order dissolving the marriage and the order as to costs. Consequently the order as to costs was not a separate order and could not be treated as distinct from the decree for dissolution, and that decree including the order as to costs being subject to confirmation by the Chief Court no portion of it was in the meantime capable of execution. Coates v. Coates. 35 P R 1887

17. Countercharges—Custody of children.

In a suit for dissolution of marriage under the Divorce Act (IV of 1869), which was undefended, it appeared that, after service of the summons, a letter purporting to be from the respondent was received by the Judge by post, which letter imputed gross misconduct to the petitioner, such as if the respondent had appeared and put in a formal answer would have amounted to countercharges within the meaning of section 12 of the Act. The letter announced that the writer was unable to appear to defend for want of means.

Held, that the Court was not bound on this communication to take action under section 12 of the Act and inquire into the imputations made; as that section must be construed as limited to countercharges duly made by a party to the proceedings in accordance with the rules of procedure and practice applicable to such party.

The decree of the Judge of the District Court in the above case contained the following passage: "The Court further awards the petitioner the custody of the children."

Held, that this order should not have been contained in the decree for dissolution, as section 43 of the Act only enables the District Court to make, from time to time before its decree is confirmed, interim orders with respect to the custody, etc., of children: on confirmation of the decree it may make such provision as it thinks fit in this matter under section 43 of the Act. Burroughs v. Burroughs. 62 P R 1887

18. Petition for dissolution of marriage—Court refusing relief on ground of petitioner's adultery—Such refusal no bar to Courts granting relief on subsequent proceeding—Reference to previous record admissible in proof of petitioner's adultery—Duty of Court exercising jurisdiction under the Divorce Act.

Held, that the circumstance that in a former suit for dissoution of marriage under the Indian Divorce Act, the Court decided to exercise its discretionary power of withholding relief from the petitioner on the ground of his adultery, is no bar to the Court exercising that discretion in his favour in a subsequent proceeding notwithstanding his adultery be found proved.

Such discretion held to have been properly exercised in the petitioner's favour, where it appeared that, assuming he had been guilty of adultery since his marriage with the respondent, the adultery had been condoned: that such adultery had no connection whatever with the separation of the wife from her husband since the decision of the former suit, nor with her subsequent life of profligacy and prostitution.

Held further, that in a second suit for dissolution of marriage instituted under the above circumstances, the Court is at liberty to regard the record in the former suit upon reference to it without further evidence to find that the petitioner has been guilty of adultery.

In India, where there is no public officer corresponding to the Queen's Proctor, a Judge exercising jurisdiction under Act IV of 1869 ought to make a large use of his power to look into any matters which may come under his notice, affecting the proper exercise of the discretionary power of the Court to grant or withhold a divorce under specified circumstances, even though such matters are not brought to his notice

DIVORCE—contd.

by a party to the proceedings, or an intervenor. LISBEY v. LISBEY. 6 P R 1888

19. Permanent alimony—Order for, when to be made by District Judge—Examination of party.

Under the Indian Divorce Act, section 37, an order for permanent alimony cannot be made by a District Judge, until his decree in the suit has been confirmed by the High Court.

A party to a suit for dissolution of marriage is not entitled, as of rights to give evidence by affidavit. When a petitioner in a suit for dissolution of marriage offers himself or herself as a witness under the permission contained in section 51, clause 1, of the Act, it is desirable that the examination should be oral, and in the presence of the Court trying the petition. SKINNER v. SKINNER.

13 P R 1891

20. Jurisdiction of Courts in British India to hear suits for dissolution of marriage when the parties were married in England and have an English domicile.

Held, by the majority of the Full Bench (Robertson, J., dissenting) that the words "resides in India at the time of presenting the petition" in section 2 of the Indian Divorce Act preclude all questions of the effect which domicile may have on jurisdiction, and that the fact that the spouses are domiciled in England does not deprive the Court in India of jurisdiction to decree dissolution of marriage. WARWICK v. WARWICK.

64 P R 1900

21. Divorce—Suit for dissolution of marriage on the ground of wife's adultery—Power to order discovery of documents—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 59, 129.

The petitioner in a suit for the dissolution of his marriage on the ground of his wife's adultery served the co-respondent with an order under section 129 of the Civil Procedure Code, calling upon him to declare by affidavit all the documents which were or had been in his possession or power relating to any matter in question in the suit, and particularly all letters from either the petitioner or respondent to him. The co-respondent served the petitioner with an order, under section 59 of the Civil Procedure Code, to file a list of all documents relied upon by him in support of his suit. The co-respondent objected to the production of, or supplying information as to, any letters from the respondent to him and cited Redfern v. Redfern (L. J. (1891), 139) and DeBretton v. DeBretton (I. L. R. IV All. 49) and sections 51 and 52 of the Divorce Act, and the petitioner objected to the co-respondent's application on the ground that until issues had been framed or until the defence had been filed he did not know what documents might be relevant.

Held, that as in a suit by the husband for dissolution of his marriage on the ground of the adultery of his wife neither the wife nor the co-respondent could be compelled to give evidence unless they offered themselves as witnesses, the petitioner was not entitled to the information he asked for, except in so far as it applied to the correspondence between himself and the co-respondent, especially if it was for the purpose of proving the alleged adultery, and that the petitioner was bound under section 59 of the Civil Procedure Code to file a list of all letters and documents in his possession or power which he relied on relating to the adultery charged. C. v. C. AND B.

DIVORCE—contd.

11 P R 1902

22. Divorce—Dismissal by single Judge of application for dissolution of marriage—Appeal from such order of dismissal—Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 9.

Held, that an appeal lies from all decrees and orders passed by a single Bench in the exercise of its original jurisdiction in proceedings under the Indian Divorce Act, 1869, by virtue of section 55 of that Act, and section 9 A of the Punjab Courts Act. C. v. C. AND B. 18 P R 1903

23. Application of judicial separation on the grounds of adultery and cruelty—Decree on the ground of cruelty only—Right of petitioner to have the finding as to adultery set aside—Appeal.

On a petition for judicial separation filed by the wife on the ground of her husband's adultery and cruelty, the District Judge found the first charge unproved but the second charge proved and granted her a decree on that ground alone. The petitioner preferred an appeal to the Chief Court to set aside the finding of the District Judge as to the first charge.

Held, that inasmuch as the finding against the petitioner on the issue as to adultery could not affect her remedy for subsequent misconduct by her husband, the existence of that finding did not entitle her to appeal or to have that finding specifically embodied in the decree for the purposes of appeal.

Kayalash Chunder Koesari v. Ram Lal Nag (I. L. R. VI Calc. 206), Niamat Khan v. Phadu Buldia (I. L. R. VI Calc. 319, F. B.), Mrs. Mary Eliza Stephenson v. Unnoda Dossee (6 W. R. Mis. 18), Jamait-un-nissa v. Lutf-un-nissa (I. L. R. VII All. 606), Jamna Das v. Udhey Ram (I. L. R. XXI All. 117), Thakar Magan Deo v. Thakar Mahadeo (I. L. R. XVIII Calc. 647), Run Bahadur Singh v. Luche Koer (I. L. R. XI Calc. 301 P. C.), Bland v. Bland (35 L. J. P. and M. 104), Green v. Green (43 L. J. P. and D., 6.), Tomkins v. Tomkins (1 S. and T. 168). Curtis v. Curtis (28 L. J. P. 55), and Milford v. Milford (37 L. J. P. 77), referrred to. WINGROVE v. WINGROVE. 56 P R 1904

24. Judicial separation—Jurisdiction of Court over parties living abroad.

Held, that in matrimonial cases the place of original residence of the husband will sustain the jurisdiction of the Court, though the parties may have resided always and last cohabited together in other place after the marriage. The expression, reside or last resided in section 3 (3) of the Indian Divorce Act, means the fixed home of the husband and he must be regarded as residing, though he may not have any permanent abode or may be working for gain abroad. Skinner v. Orde (7 I. A. 196), referred to. A. v. A. 77 P R 1905

DIVORCE—contd.

25. Judicial separation—Cruelty—Charge of unnatural offence by wife without corroboration.

Held, that a charge of unnatural offence on her person by a wife against her husband in a suit for judicial separation cannot be accepted without corroboration as an act of legal cruelty justifying a decree of judicial separation. A. v. A.

77 P R 1905

26. Divorce—Jurisdiction of Chief Court, both parties residing within its jurisdiction though not together—Indian Divorce Act, IV of 1889, section 3 (1).

Held, that the Chief Court, Punjab, has jurisdiction to entertain a petition for divorce filed by a petitioner who last resided with her husband within the jurisdiction of the Bombay Court and at the date of filing the petition resided within the jurisdiction of the Chief Court, the respondent also residing at that date within the jurisdiction of that Court, though apart from the petitioner. GALE v. GALE.

47 P R 1911 (F B)

27. Divorce—When petitioner has himself been guilty of adultery—Indian Divorce Act, IV of 1869, section 14.

Held, that where the petitioner has during the marriage been guilty of adultery, the Court has discretion to pass a decree, in spite of such adultery (vide section 14 of the Indian Divorce Act, 1869) and that the Courts are bound by the rules which bind the English Courts under the English Divorce Act.

Held also, following Wyke v. Wyke (L. R. 1904, Probate 149), that adultery by the petitioner is, except under very peculiar circumstances, a bar to a decree, but that the circumstances in this case were of a nature to justify the passing of a decree. M. v. M.

70 P R 1911

28. Divorce—Petition by husband against wife who had a child 330 days after date of last access—Proof of adultery—Legitimacy of child—Indian Evidence Act, I of 1872, section 112.

Where the husband prayed for a divorce from his wife on the sole ground that the latter had given birth to a child 333 days after last cohabitation between them and the Court found that she had done so 330 days after the last cohabitation and that there was no evidence at all to prove immorality on the part of the wife, or adultery with any particular person.

1228

DIVORCE—concld.

Held, that there being no inherent impossibility of gestation of 330 or 333 days after cohabitation, this fact alone, though suspicious, was not conclusive as to the wife's adultery, and that the child must be held to be legitimate having regard to section 112 of the Evidence Act. P. v. P.

77 P R 1911

DIVORCE ACT, 1869.
See DIVORCE.

DOCTOR'S FEES.
See FEE FOR MEDICAL ATTENDANCE.

DOCUMENT.

Document—Non-delivery of, by executant after registration—Validity and operation—Completed transaction.

Held, in the case of a registered document for valuable consideration, that mere non-delivery thereof by its executant to the party claiming under the same is immaterial if after execution it has been presented for registration by the executant and acknowledged before the registering officer.

Doe v. Knight (5 B. & C. 692), cited and followed. KANSHI RAM v. TOTA RAM.

40 P R 1906

DOWER.
See MUHAMMADAN LAW—DOWER.

DRAWEE.
Not named by the drawer himself—liability of.

See NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS ACT, 1881. 71 P R 1909

DURESS.

1. Arrest and imprisonment in execution of decree—Subsequent application stating judgment-debtor's intention to apply to be declared insolvent—Rejection of application—Illegal confinement.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 55. 59 P R 1898

2. Where defendant signed an acknowledgment of a debt barred by limitation, under a threat that if he did not sign a suit would be filed against him and his arrest before judgment applied for, held, that the acknowledgment was void. HAMILTON v. SHOWERS.

62 P R 1873

3. An agreement to pay a decree by instalments made by a military officer under threat of arrest set aside as void. BANESS v. TURTON.

83 P R 1875

DUSTOORI.

Dustoori or commission—Public policy.

Held, that a claim for dustoori or commission on purchases is unlawful as being immoral and opposed to public policy. MADHO RAM v. BADR-UD-DIN. 91 P R 1910

DWELLING HOUSE.

Wife or widow's right of residence in.

See HINDU LAW—FAMILY DWELLING HOUSE. 36 P R 1907

1229

E.

EASEMENT.

1. Right of hereditary tenants to cut wood and grass from the common land of the village for the purpose of sale—Profits a prendre—Mauza Mangharwal, District Hoshiarpur.

See COMMON LAND. 29 P R 1890

2. Right of privacy.

See CUSTOM—VII. EASEMENTS AND PROFITS. 19 P R 1882

3. Profit a prendre—Right to cut brushwood.

See CUSTOM—VII. EASEMENTS AND PROFITS. 31 P R 1882

4. Suit for declaratory decree that plaintiffs are entitled to perform certain religious ceremonies on behalf of an indeterminate class of persons on property belonging to third parties.

See CUSTOM—VII. EASEMENTS AND PROFITS. 4 P R 1896

5. Suit for declaratory decree that plaintiffs have a right to dry tobacco on certain land—User for 20 years and upwards—Dominant tenement.

See CUSTOM—VII. EASEMENTS AND PROFITS. 14 P R 1897

6. Suit alleged to be based on easement and decreed on custom—Inconsistent rights—Right to stack grain in front of shop.

See CUSTOM—VII. EASEMENTS AND PROFITS. 7 P R 1899

7. Suit to restrain the proprietors of one patti from closing a pathway over the shamilat of the village—Necessity to implead the other proprietors of the village.

See JOINDER OF PARTIES.

41 P R 1888

8. Suit for injunction against defendant to remove obstruction to plaintiff's window—Valuation of suit.

See JURISDICTION. 52 P R 1887

9. Right of way.

See LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871), SECTION 27. 25 P R 1878

10. Abandonment—Discontinuance of right.

See LIMITATION (ACT XV OF 1877), SECTION 26. 68 P R 1880
38 P R 1886

11. Easement—Obstruction—Meaning of interruption.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 26.

73 P R 1905

12. An owner of land is at liberty to erect a water mill on his own ground without the consent of other owners of land in the same village, provided he so uses the water as not to injure others below him who have a right to its use. NOOR MAHOMED v. KHANEE MOOLA. 12 P R 1867 Rev.

13. Flow of water.

A claim to demolish an embankment erected by a person on his own land which intercepts the natural flow of water on to the land of another, cannot be maintained by the other so long as a reasonable and fair quantity of water is allowed to pass. WAZEERA v. SIPADAR KHAN. 33 P R 1867

1230

EASEMENT—contd.

14. Right of way—Grant—Easement of necessity.

A gateway was opened in 1847 between two estates, the joint property of a certain family. The property was afterwards divided, and one of the estates came into A's possession (a stranger), who in 1867 was sued by those in possession of the other estate to have the door-way closed. Plaintiff's suit was decreed, on the grounds that A's right to the way was not supported by any express grant or as an easement of necessity; and after the division of the two estates, the joint enjoyment of the way ceased. BARLOW v. MANAGER OF SKINNER ESTATES. 44 P R 1867

15. A right of way imports the right of passing in a particular line, and not the right of varying it at pleasure. KHEWAN v. DEWAN JOWAHIR MULL. 80 P R 1867

16. Opening door-way.

Claim to close a door-way newly opened by defendants leading into a court-yard the joint property of the parties. Held, that defendant was at liberty to open a door-way in his own house opening on to common property—provided he did not thereby render such common property less useful to the co-sharer, or deprive the latter of any right which he otherwise would have had. HEERA SINGH v. TELOO.

46 P R 1868

17. Disturbance of privacy—Opening of door or window upon a neighbour.

With regard to the usages and habits of the natives, the right of privacy in a dwelling house is protected, and the invasion of it may give a cause of action; for instance, where defendants opened a new door-way in an upper storey in such a way as to invade the privacy of plaintiff, held, that the Court could make a special order directing the close of the door. NANUCK CHUND v. LALLA.

21 P R 1869

18. Privacy—Right to complain of disturbance of, depends upon the degree of privacy to which plaintiff is entitled.

Though with regard to the usages of the country, the right of privacy in dwelling houses is recognized, yet the Court will not necessarily interfere in every case of disturbance of privacy, but will look to the degree of privacy to which the plaintiff is under the circumstances of the particular case entitled. Therefore, where the houses of defendant and plaintiff faced each other in a street common to both parties and to a third person, and the defendant by sitting in his own door-way could see the plaintiff's women if they sat in front of plaintiff's house, it was held that the plaintiff's degree of privacy was not so great as to preclude the defendant from making a window in his own house which looked upon the plaintiff's premises. GOHRFE v. JAINTEE.

91 P R 1869

1231

EASEMENT—contd.

19. Extinguishment of easement, by showing intention to permanently abandon the use, or by inducing owner of servient tenement to believe it was so abandoned.

The plaintiff's premises abutted on the defendant's, and both originally formed part of a single tenement. Twenty-five years before suit, defendant sold to plaintiff's father the portion which plaintiff occupied at the time of suit, and secured by deed to plaintiff's father the use of an ancient drain which existed under both houses. For six years before action brought, plaintiff ceased to use the drain, and it was alleged by defendant that plaintiff could carry off his drainage without using the drain in question. In a suit by plaintiff to compel defendant to keep open the drain, it was held that if plaintiff had for any space of time discontinued the use of the drain, and caused defendant to incur expense in altering or filling it up in belief that the drain had been permanently abandoned, or if he had manifested an intention of permanently abandoning the use of the drain, the servitude might be considered extinguished. PUNDIT RAI LALL v. HAFIZ KHODA BUKSH. 97 P R 1869

20. Extinguishment—Cessation of enjoyment—Evidence.

Mere cessation of enjoyment of an easement does not necessarily extinguish the right; but the cesser of use, coupled with any act or omission on the part of the owner of the dominant tenement indicative of an intention to abandon the right, is equivalent to an express release of the easement. Interruption of the use of a drain, without objection on the part of the claimant, for three years, coupled with other circumstances indicating intention, held to extinguish the easement. KHODA BUX v. PUNDIT JEEA LALL. 30 P R 1871

21. Opening windows—Invasion of privacy.

Defendant opened a window which looked down upon the contiguous houses and into the courtyard belonging to the plaintiff, who complained that his privacy was thereby invaded. By going upon the roof of his house, the defendant could also look into the plaintiff's courtyard. Held, per Boulnois and Lindsay, JJ. (Campbell, J., dissenting) that it was not a case in which the Court could restrain the defendant from exercising his ordinary right of opening new windows.

Semble, (per Boulnois and Lindsay, JJ.). The right to disturb a neighbour's privacy by opening new windows (subject to the neighbour's right of building against them within 20 years) should be recognised with reference to the English law and recent High Court decisions. SHIBDAYAL v. GOLAB. 96 P R 1876

22. Light and air.

Plaintiff's house stood at right angles to defendant's house and adjoined it. In the upper story of plaintiff's house were two small windows; defendant built a balcony to his house some twenty feet from the ground, but not in a way to diminish the access of light and air to plaintiff's small windows. Plaintiff then enlarged the windows, in such a way that he encountered inconvenience from the balcony—the end of the balcony crossing in a vertical direction the enlarged opening. Held, that as the erection of the balcony did not infringe the existing prescriptive rights of the plaintiff, the fact that it interfered with the enlarged windows gave him no right to any relief, to grant which would be to impose a new burden on the defendant. RALLIA RAM v. HUZURI MAL. 99 P R 1876

1232

EASEMENT—contd.

23. Support to roof from neighbouring wall.

Where the plaintiff had the right to support from the wall of defendant's house for the beams of the roof of plaintiff's house, held, that he had not also the right to alter the position of the beams, and in raising his roof, to insert the beams in another part of defendant's wall. SHIB DIAL v. SUDDA NUND. 21 P R 1877

24. Right of way—Defendants closing old and opening out new right of way over their fields—Actual damage—Allegation by plaintiff of probable prospective damage—Right to injunction—Pecuniary compensation—Obligation upon servient owner not to render plaintiff's right of way less easy than before—Failure to prove such effect—Dismissal of suit.

Plaintiff sued to restrain defendants from closing an old and opening out a new right of way over their (defendants') fields, alleging ancient user of the old way, and fears that the opening out of the new passage, which was close to plaintiff's land, would cause damage to such land by cattle straying across and destroying the cultivation.

Held, that the defendants had an undoubted right to create a new right of way over their own land, so long as by doing so they did not injure their neighbours: that the damage alleged by the plaintiff, not being actual but prospective damage, was too remote to entitle him to the remedy he was seeking of a permanent injunction; that if the defendants by allowing cattle to come upon their land afterwards negligently suffered them to stray into and to do damage to the plaintiff's property that might be a wrong to the plaintiff for which the defendants might be liable to an action, but that the remedy in such a case would be adequately met by pecuniary compensation and would not entitle the plaintiff to ask for a perpetual injunction against the use of the new right of way, and that therefore the plaintiff was not entitled to ask to close up the new passage.

Held further, that as regards the substitution of the old by the new line of road-way the only obligation upon the defendnts, the servient owners, was that they should not render the plaintiffs' right of way less easy than it had been hitherto, and that the plaintiff having failed to prove that the new line would have any such effect, his claim must be dismissed. BUTA SINGH v. HAMIR SINGH. 22 P R 1888

1233

EASEMENT—contd.

25. Right of way—Public thoroughfare—special damage—Public and private injuries.

Plaintiff sued to restrain defendant from preventing his passing through a covered porch, which opened on each side into a lane, each lane being admittedly a public lane, and each having at the end of it a house belonging to plaintiff, alleging that he had used this route for over twenty years. It appeared that by passing through these lanes and the porch the distance between plaintiff's two houses was considerably diminished. The lower Appellate Court, finding it proved that the porch was a public thoroughfare, held that the plaintiff's suit would not lie as he had not sustained any "special damage."

Held, reversing the order of the lower Appellate Court, that the plaintiff was entitled to succeed in his suit. The injury complained of by the plaintiff was a private injury, in that he had been deprived, by the wrongful act of the defendant, of a right which he had hitherto peaceably enjoyed, and been driven to a circuitous, and therefore inconvenient, route, and that this injury would be equally a private injury to him, whether the right of the public to pass through the porch was or was not interfered with at the same time. BELI RAM v. KAKU. 39 P R 1888

26. Right to use of water—Natural stream.

In the case of a natural stream flowing through several owners' land, the persons through whose lands it passes are all entitled to a reasonable use of the water, and in the absence of evidence as to the exact share enjoyed, the presumption is that they are equal. AHMAD ALI v. MALAK HASHU. 49 P R 1888

27. Grant by owner of tenement of part of that tenement—Easements passing to grantee of such grant—Reservation of rights over tenement granted—Express and implied reservation—Easements of necessity—Right to support from adjoining buildings.

On the grant by the owner of a tenement of part of that tenement as it is then used and enjoyed, there will pass to the grantee all those quasi easements of an apparent and continuous character, i.e., all those easements which are necessary to the reasonable enjoyment of the property granted and which have been and are at the time of the grant used by the owners of the entirety for the benefit of the part granted.

If the grantor intends to reserve any right over the tenement granted, it is his duty to reserve it expressly in the grant; but this rule is subject to the exception relating to

EASEMENT—contd.

way and other easements of necessity; an easement of necessity being one without which the enjoyment of the severed tenements could not be had at all.

A right of support for buildings from the subjacent and adjacent soil and from adjoining buildings arises by implied grant, in the absence of express stipulation, in every case where a grant of land for purposes of building is made by the owner of the adjoining house. ATTAR SINGH v. JAWAHIR LAL. 60 P R 1888

28. Easement—Light and air—Obstruction—Injunction or damages—Specific Relief Act, 1877.

The plaintiffs owned a three-storeyed house in the city of Amritsar; the defendants owned a house alongside consisting of a single storey.

The defendants added a second and third storey to their house so as to obstruct the plaintiffs' right to light and air on the defendants' side of the plaintiffs' house.

The plaintiffs, on the commencement of defendants' operations, served the defendants with notice not to interfere with their rights (which the defendants ignored), and then instituted a suit two-and-a-half months afterwards.

Held, that the plaintiffs were entitled to a mandatory injunction.

Form of relief to be given to the plaintiffs under such injunction considered. KIRPA RAM v. GURBAKHSH. 2 P R 1893

29. Easement, acquisition of—Use of water from natural stream—Rights of riparian owners—Limitation Act, 1877, section 26.

Plaintiffs alleged that they were the owners of a water-mill, situated on the banks of the river Leh, which they and their predecessors in title had worked on the same spot since the year 1863 by appropriating all the water of the river at that place; that defendants, who had purchased a plot of land on the opposite bank of the river at a place higher up the stream, were constructing a water-mill of their own, and, for the purpose of working the same, were diverting the water at the said place by a channel; that the defendants were thereby depriving the plaintiffs of the exclusive use of the water to which they had been accustomed, and would so diminish the supply as to cause material loss and inconvenience to plaintiffs in the working of their said mill. Plaintiffs, therefore, prayed that a perpetual injunction be granted restraining defendants from so diverting the water of the river and from cutting the channel. Defendants pleaded, inter alia, that, in any event, plaintiffs were not, as a matter of law, entitled to the injunction prayed for, inasmuch as plaintiffs' user had not been "as an easement" or "as of right" because (a) they had been enjoying nothing in excess of their natural rights as riparian owners, and (b), in any case, they had been asserting no rights as against riparian owners higher up the stream, whose mere omission to exercise rights similar to those actually enjoyed by plaintiffs neither curtailed nor destroyed such rights.

EASEMENT—contd.

Held, that the rights acquired by plaintiffs, being rights in excess of their own natural riparian rights, and in derogation of the natural rights of all adjacent riparian owners, whether above or below stream, were rights of easement within the meaning of section 26 of the Limitation Act, 1877, and anything done or threatened by the defendant which would interfere with such prescriptive rights would give rise to a cause of action and afford grounds for an injunction.

I. L. R. XI Mad. 16, referred to. SARDAR KIRPAL SINGH v. LAL KHAN. 35 P R 1895

30. Easement—Right of way—Public or private road—"Question of law"—Limitation Act, 1877, section 26—User of road by public for less than 20 years—Presumption as to dedication—English law.

The principles of the English law regarding the presumed dedication of a road to the public arising from user of such road by the public, being founded on reason and common sense and conducive to public convenience, are applicable to India.

Held, therefore, that the user of a road by the public, openly and as of right, is sufficient, apart from the law laid down in the Limitation Act, 1877, section 26, to raise a presumption of its dedication to their use, though such presumption might be rebutted by evidence of the owner's intention that the public should only have a permissive user.

In the present case the evidence clearly showed that the road in dispute had been used as a public road for at least ten years prior to suit, but the Divisional Judge, treating the case as one of prescription found in favour of defendants because 20 years had not elapsed since the road was opened (section 26 of Limitation Act, 1877).

Held, under the circumstances as above set forth, that there was a presumption, that the road had been dedicated to the use of the public, and found, upon the evidence and facts of the case, that defendants had failed to rebut such presumption.

The right of the public to pass over a public road is not in the nature of an easement properly so called, nor is it acquired by prescription under section 26 of the Limitation Act, 1877.

A preliminary objection on behalf of the defendants that there was no ground for admitting a further appeal in the case as there was no "question of law" involved, overruled on the grounds that the questions (a) whether plaintiff had not acquired a right of way over the road in dispute either by long user or grant; (b) whether the road came under the category of a public or a private road, involved consideration of points of law, and were not simple questions of fact.

EASEMENT—contd.

Held, further, that the Divisional Judge's error in law in deciding the point under section 26 of the Limitation Act was of itself a sufficient ground for admitting a further appeal, though it was not the ground on which the appeal was admitted by the Judge in Chambers. RANA GANPAT SINGH v. KANGRA VALLEY SLATE COY. 62 P R 1898

31. Limitation—Adverse user of land for more than twelve years.

Held, that the user by plaintiffs of a certain ladder, one end of which rested on defendant's land, and of a platform which projected over the said land even if such user were adverse and had extended over a period of twelve but less than twenty years, neither extinguished the right of defendant in the said land nor gave plaintiffs a right of easement in respect thereof.

I. L. R. III Bom. 174, not followed.

On the evidence, found, that plaintiffs had failed to establish adverse possession. SHARAF HUSSAIN v. RAM KISHAN DAS. 68 P R 1899

32. Discharge of water and drainage—Removal of obstruction—Right of access for the purpose of supervision of the right to discharge water and drainage—Pecuniary compensation—Perpetual injunction—Specific Relief Act, Chapter IX.

The premises owned by the appellant and respondent were owned by one Babu Mohan Bannerjee, on whose death his sons by one wife became owners of the appellant's premises, while his sons by another wife became owners of the respondent's premises. In about 1880 both sets of premises were entirely reconstructed. In 1884, a plot of land to the east of the respondent's premises was sold for building purposes to a stranger, which necessitated the rain and refuse water drainage of the respondent's premises being turned from eastward to northward, and the respondent's premises, including his bathrooms, remained up to the date of suit practically unchanged from the state in which they were when the change in drainage was effected by the owners of both sets. In February 1896 the present appellant, who has derived his title from the owners of one set of the premises, erected a wall which obstructed the rain and refuse water of respondent's premises from going to the public drain by passing through his courtyard. The respondent filed a suit on 6th April 1896, and the District Judge passed a decree in his favour which was confirmed by the Divisional Judge. On appeal to the Chief Court, held, that the right to discharge the drainage was an apparent and continuous easement which passed to the respondent from his predecessor in title, that an injunction was necessary for the enjoyment of the respondent's premises, pecuniary compensation would not afford adequate relief as the effect of the obstruction would render the premises unfit for habitation, and that the right of access for the purpose of supervision of the drainage was a necessary adjunct to the right of drainage, and that the doctrine of apparent continuous easement applies to India. SULTANI v. RAM SARAN DAS. 49 P R 1900

EASEMENT—contd.

33. Right of passage included by implication—Construction to be placed on the order of a Judicial Court—Justice and equity—Easement of necessity.

The respondent obtained a decree for possession of a one-fourth share of the entire house on payment of Rs. 350 for cost of repairs to the appellant. In execution a partition was made by the Divisional Judge who awarded the respondent the upper and lower stories of the kothri marked " A " on the plan, but made no mention of any passage through the appellant's portion of the house. There was no dispute as respects the property to be awarded to respondent in lieu of his one-fourth share under the original decree, but the respondent insisted that he had the right of passage through the appellant's share of the house and the right of user thereof for all purposes necessary for the enjoyment of the portion awarded to him. This the appellant objected to on the ground of infringement of the privacy of his females, and that the value of his share would be practically destroyed. And further contended that respondent could not claim the right as an easement of necessity as he could open a passage to his house from the lane which ran to the north of kothri " A," or from his own house which adjoins the one partitioned.

Held, that as no express provision was made for the right of way in the order of the Divisional Judge partitioning the property the order being clear by itself, and as the respondent could easily open a passage from the street or from his other house and could not therefore claim the right of way as an easement of necessity, such right of way could not be presumed to be implied in the order. MUHAMMAD ASHRAF KHAN v. MIR MUHAMMAD KHAN AND OTHERS. 76 P R 1900

34. Easement—Private right of way—Obstruction—Special damage, necessity of—Injunction.

In order to maintain an action for obstructing a way, a person must suffer some substantial damage peculiar to himself, beyond that suffered by the rest of the public who use the way, where the respondent purchased a tavela from the appellant about 25 years before suit and the appellant had within two years of the suit obstructed a way which had in the interval been used continuously by the respondent and others having business with him as the direct way to the tavela, and the only alternative way being circuitous and practically impassable for carts in wet weather, held, that the respondent had sustained a particular direct and substantial injury inasmuch as the value of the property (tavela) has been diminished by the obstruction, access thereto being necessary for the profitable enjoyment thereof, and was therefore entitled to maintain the suit.

EASEMENT—concld.

Winterbottom v. Derby (L. R. 2 Ex. 316), Ricket v. Metropolitan Railway (34 L. J. Q. B. 257), Siddeswara v. Krishna (I. L. R. XIV Mad. 177), Fattehyab Khan v. Muhammad Yusaf (I. L. R. XIX All. 434), and G. I. P. Railway Company v. Nauroji Pestonji (I. L. R. X Bom. 390), referred to. JOWAND SINGH AND OTHERS v. SARDAR INDAR SINGH. 64 P R 1901

35. Easement—Light and air—Obstruction—General principles.

Held, that the rule of decision in an action in respect to a right to light and air obstructed by a permanent erection is, whether in consequence of the obstruction the plaintiff has less light and air than before to such an appreciable a degree as to injure his property in point of value, comfort, convenience or usefulness, according to its character as a residence or a place of business or warehouse, and that an injunction is the proper remedy where substantial and wrongful injury has been done to the plaintiff's rights. VIR BHAN v. RAMJI DAS. 8 P R 1909

EASEMENT ACT, 1882.

Applicability of the Indian Easement Act to Punjab.

Although the Indian Easement Act is not in force in the Punjab, the Punjab Courts when deciding cases in which principles of law dealt with by the provisions of those Acts are involved may adopt those provisions as embodying the law applicable to the case, especially where the law enunciated therein coincides with the principles of equity, good conscience, and justice, and for which there is no statutory law applicable to the Punjab. BHAGWAN DEVI v. BUNYADI KHANUM. 85 P R 1902

EJECTMENT.

See ACQUIESCENCE.
JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT.
LANDLORD AND TENANT.

1. Wrongful ouster and wrongful possession of profits are different causes of action.
See CAUSE OF ACTION. IV. MISCELLANEOUS. 129 P R 1889

2. Ejectment of non-proprietary resident on village site by proprietor.
See COMMON LAND. 92 P R 1866
99 P R 1866
56 P R 1867
43 and 103 P R 1868
40 P R 1875
17 P R 1879
36 and 152 P R 1882
73 and 99 P R 1883
65 P R 1885
54 P R 1886
50 P R 1888
37 P R 1890

EJECTMENT—contd.

3. Ejectment of tenant who has improved his shop—Custom of Basti Ghuzan, Jullundar.
See CUSTOM. 40 P R 1885

4. Suit by mortgagee for possession of immovable property against third party in actual possession.
See JURISDICTION. 1 P R 1896 F B

5. Suit for ejectment of tenant.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 102 P R 1887
9 P R 1888 F B
110 P R 1889
162 P R 1890
19 P R 1893
53 P R 1893
41 P R 1894
46 P R 1894 F B
57 P R 1894
3 P R 1895
23 P R 1895
See LANDLORD AND TENANT. 16 P R 1887

6. Suit for recovery of possession of land allotted to plaintiff on partition—Ejectment.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 31 P R 1890

7. Suit by mortgagee for value of profits of mortgaged land—Illegal ejectment of mortgagee by mortgagor.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 68 P R 1891

8. Suit to recover possession from defendant on the basis that plaintiff is the proprietor of the land.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 18 P R 1893

9. Suit by mortgagee to recover possession on failure of mortgagor to pay rent.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 19 P R 1893

10. Suit by village proprietors to recover land granted to office of Ala Lambardar.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 123 P R 1893
104 P R 1894
105 P R 1894
23 P R 1895
28 P R 1895
See LAMBARDAR, ALA LAMBARDAR. 1 P R 1896 Rev.
OCCUPANCY RIGHTS. 1 P R 1897 Rev.

11. Suit for ejectment—Trespasser.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 40 P R 1893

12. Ejectment suit—Suit to establish proprietary rights.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 22 P R 1894

13. Suit to contest liability to ejectment.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 3 P R 1895

14. Suit by tenant who has been ejected for possession.
See LANDLORD AND TENANT. 52 P R 1881
112 P R 1886
64 P R 1898

EJECTMENT—contd.

15. Landlord and tenant—Liability to ejectment on the ground of non-payment of rent—Plea of absence of such condition—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 41.
See LANDLORD AND TENANT.
10 P R 1905 Rev.

16. Ejectment of proprietor by ex-mafidar.
See MAFIDAR. 184 P R 1883

17. Ejectment of tenant occupying for 12 years in Delhi District.
See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.
39 P R 1881
18 P R 1885
12 P R 1886

18. Ejectment of tenant.
See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1868.
SECTION 2. 128 P R 1883
SECTION 19. 87 P R 1881
13 P R 1882
19 P R 1886
SECTION 25. 91 P R 1881
96 P R 1881
18 P R 1883
39 P R 1883
111 P R 1883
SECTION 37. 136 P R 1883
12 P R 1885

19. Liability to ejectment on the ground of the alteration of the holding from arable to building land—Relief against forfeiture.
See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, SECTION 39.
4 P R 1904 Rev.

20. Ejectment—Compensation.
See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1887, SECTION 45. 9 P R 1890 Rev.
3 P R 1895

21. Landlord and tenant—Suit by tenant who has been served with a notice of ejectment—Suit instituted more than two months after the service of such notice.
See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1887, SECTION 45. 2 P R 1902 Rev.

22. Right to sue—Habitual worshipper at mosque—Ejectment of trespasser.
See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS.
87 P R 1892

23. Ejectment—Omission to direct tenant to file a statement of claim to compensation.
See REVISION IN REVENUE CASES.
6 P R 1892 Rev.

24. Suit by tenant to contest liability to ejectment—Suit withdrawn without permission of Court—Subsequent suit for the same matter.
See RES JUDICATA.
6 P R 1904 Rev.

25. Ejectment of tenant by landlord—Suit by tenant for refund of portion of rent paid in advance.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 44.
172 P R 1888

26. Takiadar.

The lambardars of the taraf in which a takia was instituted, sued to eject the faqir and takiadar. Held, that plaintiffs, though proprietors of the soil, could not eject the faqir (although he had not occupied 12 years), unless some specific misbehaviour were EJECTMENT—concld.

proved against him. GOLAM MAHOMED v. BARA SHAH. 7 P R 1866

27. Right of proprietors of site to eject non-proprietor from house built by the latter—Agreement—Mauza Ali Beg, Nowshera tahsil, Peshawar district.

Plaintiffs, proprietors in the village of Ali Beg, Nowshera tahsil, Peshawar district, sued to eject defendants, non-proprietors and dyers, from a house in the village on the allegations that the house was their ancestral property, that defendants had been put in possession thereof twenty years previously, and had occupied it bataur karaidar on condition that they paid certain dues and dyed plaintiffs' clothes when required, and that defendants had failed to observe the said conditions. The lower Courts found that there was no proof that the defendants had taken possession on the agreement that they might be ejected at will; that defendants had either themselves built the house or greatly enlarged it, and that in the absence of any proof of special custom, they must be held to occupy it on the ordinary village custom. The lower Courts further found that no such special custom had been proved, and dismissed the suit. On appeal to the Chief Court—

Held, accepting the facts as found by the lower Courts, that plaintiffs had failed to prove a special custom whereby they, as village proprietors and original owners of the site, were entitled at their pleasure or on the failure of defendants to pay dues, to eject the latter, who were non-proprietors with a right of residence, and to whom the building belonged. LODHI KHAN v. ALI JAN. 62 P R 1899

EJECTMENT, NOTICE OF.

See NOTICE OF EJECTMENT.

EJECTMENT OF TENANT.

See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT.

ELDEST SON.

Succession of eldest son to office of lambardar.
See under LAMBARDAR.

ELDEST GRANDSON.

Succession of, to office of lambardar.
See under LAMBARDAR.

ELECTION.

1. For office of lambardar.
See under LAMBARDAR.

2. Vendor's right of election in pre-emption.
See under PRE-EMPTION.

3. For office of zaildar.
See under ZAILDAR.

EMOLUMENTS OF VILLAGE OFFICE.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 66 P R 1893
123 P R 1893
104 P R 1894
105 P R 1894
23 P R 1895
28 P R 1895
See LAMBARDAR. (ALA LAMBARDAR).
1 P R 1896 Rev.
See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.
4 P R 1897 Rev

ENDORSEMENT.

See under PROMISSORY NOTE.

ENDOWMENT.

See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 120. 8 P R 1899

ENGLISH MORTGAGE.

Suit to recover the principal and interest due upon a simple deed of mortgage by sale of the mortgaged property.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 132.
112 P R 1890 F B

ENHANCEMENT.

Enhancement of Rent.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 2 P R 1890 Rev.
OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.
5 P R 1893
PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 2. 73 P R 1887
110 P R 1887
9 P R 1888 Rev.
3 P R 1889 Rev
PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 11. 9 P R 1887 Rev.
10 P R 1887 Rev.
11 P R 1887 Rev.
24 P R 1888
PARTIES. 3 P R 1905 Rev.

1. Rule of res judicata applies to suits of enhancement of rent. 142 P R 1884.
80 P R 1899

2. In a suit for enhancement of rent, defendant pleaded that he was proprietor and not tenant. The Commissioner decreed enhancement, leaving the defendant to sue for declaration of proprietary right in the Civil Court.

Held, that the Commissioner was bound to decide the question of title.

A Revenue Court has jurisdiction to decide all points necessary to the decision of the questions before it. MUNSHI v. KESAR.
2 P R 1890 Rev.

3. Fixing rent without regard to the section under which the tenants come.

It is a material irregularity to ignore the distinction made by law between the different classes of tenants, and to fix rent without regard to the section under which they come SHERA v. JALLA. 12 P R 1890 Rev.

4. Occupancy tenants—Suit by proprietor for enhancement of rent—Entry in Wajib-ul-arz of previous settlement—Status of tenants, inquiry as to.

In a suit by the proprietors for enhancement of rent, defendants, who were occupancy tenants, pleaded that in the Wajib-ul-arz of the previous settlement there was an entry to the effect that their rent could not be enhanced so long as they paid revenue and cesses under certain specified circumstances. This entry was not repeated in the Wajib-ul-arz of the present settlement, but the Commissioner held that the entry amounted to an agreement which, on its wording, was intended to run for ever, and that the proprietors were bound thereby.

Held, reversing the order of the Commissioner, that entries in Settlement Records relating to questions of rent are ordinarily only binding during the currency of the settlement in which they were made, and cannot be held to constitute an agreement which debars the landlords in such cases from enhancing their tenants' rent for all time.

Held, further, that in all suits for enhancement of rent, the status of the tenants, if in dispute, should be inquired into and determined before the question of enhancement can properly be dealt with. MAMRAJ v. MUSSAMMAT SAVYAN. 5 P R 1895 Rev.

5. Suit for enhancement of rent—Plea that landlord had sold the land to defendants. Written agreement to sell, reciting payment of purchase money—Consideration only partly paid.

In 1881 plaintiff's father served defendants, who were then recorded as tenants-at-will, with a notice of ejectment from the land in suit. The case was contested, but ended in a compromise, under which defendants were given occupancy rights under section 8 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, paying revenue and cesses only. It was further arranged between the parties that defendants should buy out the landlord's interest for Rs. 200, the transaction being reduced into writing in the form of two sale-deeds, each for Rs. 98, and each purporting to be a full conveyance. In both deeds it was stated that the whole purchase-money had been paid and delivery made.

In 1884, during revision of settlement, defendants applied for mutation of names, and plaintiff's said father stated that he, as landlord, had no objection, provided that the defendants carried out the conditions agreed upon in 1881, viz, paid him Rs. 150, the balance still due of the Rs. 200. The facts of the transaction of 1881 were then publicly gone into in the village, and it was held proved that the real contract between the parties was that the landlord had engaged to surrender his proprietary title to his tenants, provided that they first paid him Rs. 200 in full; that of that sum only Rs. 50 had been paid in fact, and that until the balance was paid, the recorded relations between the parties were to hold good, and mutation was not to take place.

Subsequently plaintiff sued defendants (as occupancy tenants) for enhancement of rent and obtained a decree in the Court of the Assistant Collector, who held that there had been no completed sale, defendants not having paid the full consideration or taken steps to have their change of title shown in the papers. This decree was reversed on appeal by the Commissioner, who held on the authority of the judgments of the Chief Court in Civil Appeal No 1911 of 1888 (unreported) and No. 132 P. R. 1879, that defendants were the legal owners of the land, and none the less so because they had not paid the full purchase money. Plaintiff appealed to the Financial Commissioner.

Held, that upon the facts of the case there had been no completed sale between the parties, and that plaintiff's suit should be decreed.

Although an otherwise completed contract of sale cannot be avoided by the mere fact that part of the consideration remains outstanding, it is the duty of the Court to go behind the written terms of a contract when such terms are challenged, and to enquire into the real nature of the contract between the parties. Further, when the ordeal of compulsory registration is evaded by the device practised in this case, the real nature of the contract should be enquired into with extraordinary care.

Civil Appeal No 1911 of 1888 (unreported) and No. 132 P. R. 1879, distinguished. GHANNYA SINGH v. NIHAL SINGH. 7 P R 1897 Rev.

6. Status of tenant—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 4, (10), (a), 5 (i) (c), 22 (i) (b)—"Water-advantage rate"—Land revenue—Foundation of village.

Held, that in a suit for enhancement of rent, the status of the tenant should be defined once for all inasmuch as future claim for further enhancement may depend upon the determination, and that the mere fact that under section 22 (i) (b) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, the tenants who claimed occupancy rights under section 5 (i) (c) would, even if their claim was established, be equally liable to the enhancement decreed, is no ground for refusing to determine their status.

Held, further, that for the purposes of section 5 (i) (c) of the Act, all that the Court should look to is the latest foundation of any village, and should disregard any plea on the part of the landlord in bar of the tenants' claims, to the effect that there had been some previous foundation of the village.

The canal advantage land-revenue rate levied in the Montgomery District is essentially part of the land-revenue and falls within the meaning of section 4 (10) (a) of the Act; and the landlords are entitled to have their rent calculated on the fixed land-revenue, plus the amount of such fluctuating canal-advantage land-revenue rate as may be from time to time ascertained.

The Courts are not bound to decree in every case the full enhancement permissible under section 22 of the Act. HIRA SINGH v. RULIA. 3 P R 1900 Rev.

7. Enhancement of rent—Landlord and tenant—Liability to pay compensation for improvement to tenant on enhancement of his rent—Matters to be regarded in assessment of compensation for improvements—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 22, 68, 72.

In a suit by the proprietors for enhancement of rent the defendant who was a section 6 tenant pleaded that he had sunk a well in the tenancy and was entitled to compensation. The first Court allowed enhancement to 6 annas per rupee of revenue on payment of Rs. 100 as compensation for the well. On appeal the Commissioner maintained the order as to enhancement, but set aside the order of compensation on the ground that the enhancement was made on the revenue assessed before the well was made, and that the landlord was not liable to pay compensation for the improvements from which he had derived no benefit.

Held, that although section 22 of the Tenancy Act under certain circumstances gives a discretionary power to a Court to allow an enhancement, yet where a tenant has made an improvement in his tenancy in accordance with the Act, the provisions of section 68 are imperative and his rent cannot be enhanced until he has received compensation for such improvement except in cases where the landlord has tendered a twenty years' lease under section 67 or where the tenant has had the benefit of the improvement for so long a time that under section 72 (e) he has become disentitled to any compensation.

Held, further, that where in a case of enhancement the tenant has enjoyed the benefit of the improvement for twenty years there is no necessity to compensate him, but where he has enjoyed the benefit for less than twenty years the full compensation should be reduced by the rule of proportion. NATHA SINGH v. BURA. 7 P R 1902 Rev.

ENHANCEMENT OF REVENUE.

See JAGIR AND MAFI ESTATES.

EQUITABLE ASSIGNMENT.

See ASSIGNMENT OF DEBT.

Rights arising out of a contract—Intention—Notice—Assignment of debt.

The rights arising out of a contract, when the matter of the contract permits it, are assignable in equity for a valuable consideration: such assignment may be made by any words or acts showing a clear intention to assign, and may be valid as against the assignor without any notice to the debtor. Nor is notice necessary as against third parties, including judgment-creditors of the assignor, who simply stand in the same position as the assignor. But the intention to create a charge must be shown, and therefore a promise to pay money when the debtor receives a debt due to him from a third person does not constitute an equitable assignment so as to charge the debt in the hands of such third person.

Defendant, who had a contract with the postal department for the maintenance of a certain postal stage at a monthly payment of Rs. 600, mortgaged to the plaintiff his chauki and horses with possession, and agreed with the plaintiff, his mortgagee, that the said monthly payment accruing to him under his contract would be paid to the mortgagee of which Rs. 200 should be credited to the mortgage-debt, and Rs. 400 should be applied to the maintenance of the horses.

EQUITABLE ASSIGNMENT— concld.

Held, that the interest affected in the above case wss one which admitted of being assigned, and further, that there was a sufficient indication of an intention to transfer or appropriate the debt to the plaintiff or for his use, the assignment thus falling within the principle of an equitable assignment and creating a valid equitable charge upon the fund. If defendant had received the money, he would have been bound to hold on account of the plaintiff, and if it had been attached in his hands, the plaintiff might have had it released under section 280 of the Civil Procedure Code. Mool Chand v. Jumayat Singh (No. 63 P. R. 1873, Civil) cited. GURDITTA MAL v. SULTAN MUHAMMAD. 60 P R 1884

EQUITABLE MORTGAGE.

— Presumption where third party pays off original mortgagee.

See MORTGAGE. 59 P R 1882

EQUITY.

See DEBTOR AND CREDITOR. 115 P R 1908

See FRAUD. 150 P R 1908

Meaning of, in Act IV of 1872, section 6.

The rules of "equity" referred to in section 6, Punjab Laws' Act, are rules of law, of the nature of broad and general principles, recognised by most systems of jurisprudence with greater or less distinctness, and applied in India where questions arise for which neither the written nor customary law provides (per BOULNOIS, J.,) GAMI v. SABIR. 91 P R 1875

EQUITY PURCHASE SUBJECT TO.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE. 148 P R 1879

EQUITY AND JUSTICE.

1. Unconscionable bargain— Dispensing power of Courts of Equity.

See CAUSE OF ACTION V. – MISJOINDER. 32 P R 1890

2. Future interest– Sum named—Penalty —Equitable relief.

See CONTRACT ACT, SECTION 74. 99 P R 1891

3. It is the person who seeks equity is compelled by the Courts to do equity.

See CUSTOM I. G — ALIENATION BY GUARDIAN. 192 P R 1889

4. Pre-emption—Rival claimants with equal rights—Vicinage—Procedure to be adopted in such cases.

See PRE-EMPTION, RIGHT OF, ON ACCOUNT OF VICINAGE OR RELATIONSHIP. 83 P R 1888

5. A Court in the exercise of an equitable discretion may, when granting the husband a decree for custody of his wife, impose upon him, as a condition of the decree, the payment to her of the prompt dower. The principle appears to be that when a plaintiff resorts to an Indian Court for specific performance of an obligation, he has not an absolute right to insist upon the assistance of the Court. MUSSAMMAT AISHA BI v. MUHAMMAD SADIQ. 5 P R 1891

EQUITY AND JUSTICE—concld.

6. Although when a person comes into Court to get the acts of his guardians during his minority set aside, and he is found to have benefited from those acts, a condition may be attached to the decree made in his favour, there is no authority for holding that a person suing to enforce a mortgage made by one who had no authority to effect such mortgage is entitled to a decree against the owner of the property for compensation for any advantage the owner may have derived from the transaction. DHARM SINGH v. ZAHAR-UL HUSAIN. 58 P R 1891

7. Decree for custody of wife in favour of a husband who was undergoing a sentence of transportation for life at the penal settlement of Port Blair in the Andaman islands being not in accordance with the principles of equity and good conscience that a young woman, who had hardly attained maturity when her husband was transported for life, should be directed to proceed to a penal settlement and cohabit with him there. MUSSAMMAT JOWALI v. KARM SINGH. 47 P R 1892

8. A plaintiff in a pre-emption case cannot claim any right on the basis of Muhammadan Law, or on what might be called general grounds of equity and good conscience. By the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, pre-emption is not one of the matters specified in section 5 as a matter to which, in the absence of proof of special custom, Hindu or Muhammadan Law is to be applied; and as the subject of pre-emption is specially provided for by other sections of the Act, it cannot fall under section 6 as a matter to be decided on grounds of equity and good conscience. MIRZA ANWAR ALI v. SHAM NARAIN. 8 P R 1893

9. A Court which dismisses an appeal upon the assumption that there was some rule of equity, justice, and good conscience is bound to specify the same in its judgment ROEBUCK v. HENDERSON. 54 P R 1896

EQUITY OF REDEMPTION.

See APPEAL XI.—VALUATION OF. 28 P R 1908

1. Mortgage—Mortgagee obtaining money decree against his mortgagor not allowed to purchase equity of redemption in the property mortgaged to him—Effect of prohibited purchase.

Held that a mortgagee under a conditional sale cannot by purchasing the equity of redemption in execution of a money decree obtained by him against his mortgagor, acquire a complete title as of purchaser in the property mortgaged to him so as to deprive the mortgagor of his legal privileges regarding the equity of redemption.

Such purchases being absolutely unlawful do not confer an irredeemable title on a mortgagee without his having recourse to the proper procedure prescribed for that purpose and without giving the mortgagor an opportunity to redeem. JAGAN NATH v. BUDHAWA. 2 P R 1907

EQITY OF REDEMPTION—concld.

2. Mortgage—Mortgage for a fixed period—Representative of the mortgagor not allowed to redeem before the expiry of the term—Long term alone does not amount to clogging the equity of redemption.

Held, that a period fixed for redemption by the parties in a mortgage bond cannot be regarded as one fixed without legal necessity and as such inequitable and unenforceable on the mere ground of its being unusually long, and the representative of the mortgagor cannot be allowed to redeem before the term fixed on that behalf, especially where it is shown to have been fixed by the mortgagor in good faith and with due regard to his best interest. PURAN SINGH v. KESAR SINGH. 39 P R 1907

3. Mortgage — Redemption — Suit by mortgagor for redemption—Dismissal of suit for default—Subsequent suit for the same object.

Held, that a dismissal under section 102 of the Code of Civil Procedure of a suit by a mortgagor for redemption of mortgaged property precludes the plaintiff under section 103 from bringing a fresh suit for the redemption of the same property.

Shankar Bakhsh v. Daya Shankar (I. L. R. XV Cal. 422), Mam Raj v. Chandwa Mal (117 P. R. 1891), and Imdad Ali v. Hurmat Ali, (32 P. R. 1905), referred to. GURDITTA v. NARAIN DAS. 43 P R 1907

4. Gift of equity of Redemption prior to expiry of mortgage term—Validity of such gift under Mohamedan Law.

Held, dissenting from Mohi-ud-din v. Manohar Shah (1882) I. L. R. 6 Bom., 650 and Ismail v. Ramji (1889) 23 Bom. 682, that under Muhammadan Law a gift by a mortgagor of immovable property of the equity of redemption was valid, placed the donee in the shoes of the donor, and necessitated notice to the donee of foreclosure although the donor was still alive. HARNAM SINGH v. SAJAWAL. 86 P R 1910

ERROR-IN-LAW.

See REVISION. 27 P R 1908

ESCHEAT.

1. Escheat to the proprietary body cannot be presumed to exist—Must be affirmatively proved.

Held, that a nephew of a deceased proprietor, who does not reside in the village where the deceased left land and is not a proprietor in it, succeeds to his uncle's property in preference to the proprietors of the village—And that the initial onus, generally speaking, would lie on the proprietary body to show that they had a right to exclude a near agnatic relative of the deceased owner from the inheritance

Held also, that a right of escheat to the proprietary body cannot be presumed to exist: it must be affirmatively proved. DASOUNDA SINGH v. MANGAL. 18 P R 1910

ESCHEAT—concld.

2. Custom—Succession—heirless estate—village community—escheat to Crown—Hindu Law.

Held, that the following propositions are applicable to the subject of escheat to the Crown:—

1. The right of the Crown to claim escheat rests not on customary or Hindu Law, though Hindu Law recognizes escheat, but on grounds of general or universal law.

2. The right can only arise in the absence of relations entitled by law or custom to inherit.

3. The right of the proprietary body as a whole to succeed in cases in which it exists is primarily based on real or assumed relationship to the holder of the land or to the member of the proprietary body from whom his title was derived.

4. Such a right should be assumed in the case of homogeneous estates or sub-divisions of estates where the owners are all or nearly all of the same tribe as the last holder of the land or the member of the proprietary body from whom he derived his title.

5. It should not be assumed in the case of heterogeneous estates or sub-divisions of estates held by persons of different tribes or different gots of the same tribe. The presumption in such cases is that the State has a right of escheat.

6. When the property in the land was originally derived by gift from a member of the tribe of the original proprietary body the right of the body should be recognized on failure of the donor's and donee's lines.

7. In any case in which the Wajib-ul-arz declares the right of the proprietary body to succeed to the land of heirless owners Government should set up no claim.

Held, accordingly, that the heirless land concerned, being situate in patti Mohra of mauza Kaliana, Thanesar tahsil, Karnal district, a village owned by an utterly heterogeneous proprietary body, where even the Jat proprietors are of different gots both in the village as a whole and in the patti concerned, and the land having been owned originally by a Jat of a got of which he was the only representative in the village and having been held after his death by his wife's nephews belonging to a village in the Ambala district, that there was no possible claim of successions in the proprietary body of the village or the patti as a whole or in the Jat proprietors separately, and it must be held that the land escheats to the Crown and must be recorded as Government property.

2 P R 1911 Rev.

ESTATE MEANING OF.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 13 PR 1895
30 P R 1895

ESTOPPEL.

See ALSO ABANDONMENT.
——ACQUIESCENCE.
——ALLUVION AND DILUVION.
——CONTRACTS.
——EVIDENCE ACT, SECTION 115.

ESTOPPEL—contd.

See FRAUD.
—— HINDU LAW. ANCESTRAL PROPERTY
——LANDLORD AND TENANT.
——MORTGAGE.
——PRE-EMPTION.
—— RES JUDICATA.
—— VENDOR AND PURCHASER.

1. Of party pleading his own mistake—Rigister of document in wrong district.

See REGISTRATION ACT (VIII OF 1871), SECTION 28. 67 P R 1883

2. Reference of case to arbitration—Award of arbitrators—Acceptance of award on date of delivery of both parties—Subsequent objection to award by both parties—Court setting aside award and adjudicating on case—Estoppel.

See ARBITRATION. 15 P R 1899

3. Suit to include whole claim—Plaintiff having several causes of action suing in respect of one only—Subsequent suit in respect of another cause of action.

See CAUSE OF ACTION IV.—MISCELLANEOUS. 23 P R 1894

4. Succession—Daughters—Suit by reversioners to contest daughters' succession—Compromise—Subsequent suit by same reversioners to set aside alienation by daughters.

See CAUSE OF ACTION. II.—FRESH 47 P R 1894

5. Commission to make partition after disposal of the suit—Irregularity in the procedure—Estoppel of party acquiescing.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXVI. R. 13 124 P R 1893

6. Joint suit by alleged partners inrespect of leases made in the names of certain individual members of the alleged partnership—Joint undivided Hindu family—Omission in plaint to specify grounds entitling plaintiffs to sue jointly in respect of such leases.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 80. 67 P R 1894

7. Minor—Compromise of suit—Sanction of Court—Statement of minor at mutation proceedings—Estoppel.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII R. 7 17 P R 1899

8. Powers of chief headmen and headmen of village to alienate portions of common land—Suit by other co-sharers to set aside sale and for possession—Previous sales by headmen of Shamilat plots without objection by co-sharers—Estoppel.

See COMMON LAND. 191 P R 1889

9. Estoppel of adoptive father to repudiate the adoption.

See CUSTOM. III K.—REPUDIATION OF ADOPTION. 4 P R 1893

10. Cause of action—Identity of defendants—Estoppel.

See CUSTOM I. B. —ALIENATION BY WIDOW, (c) NECESSITY. 58 P R 1896

11. Purchase of property by father in the name of his son—Alienation by son after the death of his father—Joint Hindu family—Suit by other heirs to contest such alienation—Estoppel.

ESTOPPEL—contd.

See HINDU LAW, ALIENATION. 6 P R 1893

12. Sale of land by female entitled thereto for her life—Subsequent alienation by vendee more than twelve years after previous sale—Suit for declaratory decree by reversioners of female in respect of the second alienation—Estoppel.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 125. 26 P R 1896

13. Interlocutory decision of lower Court not reversed on appeal, how far binding on Appellate Court on appeal from a final order in same proceeding.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 179. 89 P R 1894

14. Estoppel—Drawee of Bill of Exchange—Conduct.

See NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENT ACT, 1881. 71 P R 1909

15. Tenant recorded with consent of proprietors as occupancy tenant—Subsequent admission by tenant, made previous to 1887, that he was merely tenant-at-will.

See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS. 4 P R 1896 Rev.

16. Pre-emption on sale—Colourable transaction—Defendant alleging his own fraud—Executory contract—Estoppel—Par delictum.

See PRE-EMPTION—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS. 61 P R 1895

17. Pre-emption—Mortgage or sale—Right of mortgagee to plead that that mortgage was colourable to avoid pre-emption—Fraud—Condition in mortgage deed restricting equity of redemption—Estoppel.

See PRE-EMPTION—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS. 99 P R 1895

18. Partnership or co-ownership—Estoppel on account of failure to contribute towards the expenses of repairs.

See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17. 51 P R 1898

19. A person who stands negligently by and allows another to contract on the faith of a fact which he can contradict, cannot afterwards dispute that fact in an action against the person whom he has assisted in deceiving; but a wilful, negligent and culpable misrepresentation is not sufficient to create an estoppel of this kind, unless it is followed by an act on the part of the person deceived, in accordance with the misrepresentation. ANDERSON v. TAYLOR. 70 P R 1866

20. Misrepresentation—Choice of trustworthy sources of information—Belief.

The plaintiff released a right to the defendant, upon a misrepresentation by the latter. The Courts below concurred in finding that the plaintiff trusted to the statement of the defendant, they being friends, in preference to getting information of the facts eleswhere, which information he might however have obtained. On special appeal the Chief Court, upon the facts found, supported an order relieving the plaintiff from fulfilling the terms of the release. MELA RAM v. DEVRE DYAL. 75 P R 1869

ESTOPPEL—contd.

21. Contract between parties pleaded by defendant in bar of suit. Plaintiff estopped from reply that contract was illegal. I. HAKAM v. KAHNA. 10 P R 1870

22. The village of Malpura consisted of two pattis, one of Jats, the other of Brahmins. In 1837, the proprietors of both pattis were unable to pay the revenue demand, and the whole village, the plaintiffs alleged, was farmed, the Jats' patti to S. R. for thirty years, and the Brahmins' patti to another person. The defendant alleged that the village was not farmed but that the proprietors, whom plaintiffs now represented, in 1837 relinquished their proprietary as well as malguzari rights, and in support of this allegation produced a document which they contended was an istifanamah or deed of relinquishment. In 1852, C. B. purchased at a sale in execution of a decree, the rights of S. R. in the Jats' patti; and was recorded as proprietor; in 1858 C. B. sold his interest in the patti to Sita Ram, who effected dakhil kharij. Plaintiff now claimed on the ground that the 30 years' lease to S. R. had expired; defendant (claiming through Sita Ram) resisted the claim of the plaintiffs on the grounds (1) that there was no farm, but a relinquishment by the proprietors of all their rights; (2) that plaintiffs had allowed their full rights to be transferred (firstly to C. B., secondly to Sita Ram) without asserting an adverse title, and were thus barred by acquiescence; and (3) that more than 12 years' possession as proprietors by those through whom defendant claimed, also barred the plaintiff's suit. The lower Courts found as a fact that there was farm-lease to S. R. only and no relinquishment of proprietary rights, and decreed plaintiffs' claim. On defendant's special appeal to the Chief Court, it was held that as plaintiffs had no right of suit to recover possession until 1867 (the year the farm-lease expired) their suit was not barred; that as to their lying by in 1852 and 1858 when the transfers were effected, this was only some evidence that they had no claim and had actually relinquished their rights: and moreover their position in the village as cultivators did not entitle them to take part in its affairs, and they were not shown to have had express notice of the transfers. PHULA v. KRISHNA. 10 P R 1874

23. Plaintiff alleging his own fraud.

Plaintiff sued to cancel a deed of mortagage, alleging that the transaction was a fictitious one effected for the purpose of depriving plaintiff's nephew, his reversionary heir, of his right to the mortgaged property. Held, that plaintiff's suit must be dismissed, as he was estopped from alleging his own fraud. MUTSADDI v. BHAGWAN SINGH. 11 P R 1875

24. If the owner of property stands by and sees his property sold, without any objection on his part, to a bonâ fide purchaser, he cannot afterwards dispute the sale, and the property passes to the purchaser. JOWALA SINGH v. JEWAND SINGH. 87 P R 1875

25. Plaintiff sued defendant for a half-share of certain property, the estate of the D. S. deceased, on the ground that they were the descendants of a common grand-father. In 1870 H. S. sued the now defendant for a share in the same property on the ground of title by relationship to D. S.; and in that suit defendant, denying H. S.'s asserted relationship, stated that he and the now plaintiff were the only surviving heirs of D. S., being descendants from the same grand-father, and that defendant intended to give plaintiff his share. The now plaintiff was then joined as a defendant in that suit, which was in the end dismissed. The present suit was decreed in plaintiff's favour by the lower Courts on the ground that defendant's statement in the former suit was conclusive as to plaintiff's right to share D. S.'s property.

Held, that defendant's statement in the suit in 1870 did not necessarily estop him from now disputing plaintiff's title to a share in D. S.'s property; but that it must be shown that the plaintiff had acted upon the statement, the defendant intentionally causing him so to act, so as to raise an estoppel under section 115, Indian Evidence Act. Case remanded accordingly.

Per PLOWDEN, J. The defendant's statement as to intention availed nothing, unless it amounted to a contract. DULA SINGH v. KISHAN SINGH. 86 P R 1876

26. Plaintiff accepting the part of his claim decreed by the first Court—Subsequent appeal for remainder.

Held, that a plaintiff who without putting his decree in execution accepts the amount of his claim decreed by the first Court and paid in by judgment-debtor, is not by the mere fact of such acceptance debarred from appealing for the remainder of his claim. MUHAMMAD HASSAN v. GHOUS BAKHSH. 49 P R 1880

27. Suit for pre-emption—Parties to suit—Defendant who had obtainend dakhil kharij of his deceased brother's estate denyiug that he represented such estate.

In a suit for pre-emption in respect of certain property purchased by one M. S. and his brother jointly, which was instituted in the first instance against M. S. personally and as representative of his brother who had died before the date on which the suit was brought, it was objected by M. S. that his brother had left a widow, who, as one of his heirs, was entitled to one-fourth of his estate and who accordingly should be joined as a defendant in the suit. The first Court, considering that the widow should be made a party, passed an order to that effect, but the lower Appellate Court on the ground that the defendant M. S. had represented in certain proceedings before the Deputy Commissioner that he alone was entitled to succeed to his brother's share in the land in dispute, as well as to his shares in other lands and had procured dakhil kharij in respect of such shares in his own name alone, held that M. S. was estopped from denying that he was the representative of his late brother, and that the order of the first Court directing the widow to be made a party being wrong, her name should be removed from the record.

On the question of estoppel, held, that M. S. was not estopped by his conduct from alleging that he did not sufficiently represent the estate of his brother; that there was no reason to suppose that the plaintiffs were in any way misled by the statements alleged to have been made at dakhil kharij; that the widow was their own sister, and they were aware that by Muhammadan law she was entitled to succeed to a fourth of her husband's estate, and they at once admitted her right to a share of the land in dispute when the question was first put to them in the Deputy Commissioner's Court. KHAN MUHAMMAD SHAH v. MUHAMMAD JAN. 104 P R 1882

28. Admission of receipt of consideration befor registering officer—Effect of such admission.

In a suit by plaintiff as mortgagee for recovery of the produce of certain land which he alleged had been mortgaged to him by the defendants, who, while admitting the execution of the deed of mortgage, pleaded that they had received no consideration upon it, held, that the admission of receipt of consideration made by the mortgagor before the Registrar could not be held to operate as an estoppel in the case, as although such an admission was entitled to much weight as evidence, and might, in conjunction with other circumstances or possibly by itself, throw the onus on to the other side of rebutting the presumption of the receipt of money which it raised, it was not per se conclusive on the point. ALA BAKHSH v. SHAMA. 153 P R 1882

29. Suit for pre-emption—Foreclosure of mortgage—Omission of mortgagee to take preliminary proceedings under Section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806—Acquiescence by mortgagor in such omission—Right of mortgagee who had obtained decree for foreclosure to plead that such decree was illegal and gave rise to no right of pre-emption.

In a suit for pre-emption arising out of the foreclosure of a mortgage by way of conditional sale, it was urged (inter alia) on behalf of the mortgagee defendant, that the plaintiff could not claim pre-emption because the proceedings taken to foreclose the mortgage by the said defendant were not in accordance with the requirements of Regulation XVII of 1806, the result of which would be that, as between the mortgagor and mortgagee, the land in dispute must still be deemed to be held in mortgage and liable to redemption at the hands of the mortgagor with respect to which therefore no suit for pre emption could be maintained at the present time. It appeard that the mortgagee, instead of taking the preliminary proceedings contemplated by section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806, brought a regular suit for proprietary possession of the mortgaged land, and obtained a decree conditional on the mortgagor's failure to pay by a specified date the amount due on the mortgage-bond. The mortgagor not having paid the sum decreed against him within the stipulated period, the mortgagee applied for execution and was formally placed in proprietary possession of the mortgaged property. No appeal was preferred by the mortgagor either against the above decree, or against the order in execution placing the decree-holder in possession of the land, and the mortgagee was shown to have continued in possession ever since.

ESTOPPEL—contd.

Held, that the mortgagee was estopped from raising the contention noted above in the present case: that the mortgagor's conduct, both in not appealing from the decree for forclosure, and in allowing execution to take place under it, and also in not appealing from the decree of the lower Court in the present suit giving plaintiff a decree for pre-emption, was sufficient to indicate that he had acquiesced in the sale being made absolute; and this being so it did not lie in the mouth of the appealing defendant, the mortgagee, to repudiate a title which had been adjudicated in his favour at his own instance, in order to deprive the plaintiff of his right of pre-emption, which arose in consequence of that title being made absolute. Fatteh v. Sainditta (No. 76 P. R. 1877, Civil) referred to. JOWAHIR MAL v. KALANDAR KHAN. 155 P R 1882

30. Act I of 1872, section 115—Suit to establish adoption by defendant with her husband's authority—Defendant estopped by her conduct from denying such authority—Alteration of plaintiff's position by the adoption if found to be invalid—Representations made to plaintiff's father and not plaintiff personally, effect of—Necessity for precise finding that defendant, pardah-nashin woman, understood the nature of her acts.

Plaintiff sued to establish his adoption by the defendant, a pardah-nashin woman, as son to her husband, alleging that the adoption was authorized by him, and it was urged that the defendant was estopped by her own conduct from denying this allegation (within the meaning of section 115 of the Evidence Act) inasmuch as she intentionally led the plaintiff's natural father, who gave him in adoption, to believe and to act in the belief that she was adopting him as a son to her husband.

Held, that if the widow intentionally caused the boy's father to believe that she had authority from her husband to adopt, and that she received him in adoption in pursuance of that authority, there would be no reason why she should not be held estopped from denying this in the present case: that there was no doubt that if there had been a dattaka adoption as alleged, the plaintiff's position would be altered, and even if he might succeed, in case he failed to prove that adoption, in establishing his claim to a share in his father's estate, he would probably, in consequence of the adoption, be driven to litigation to recover this share, so that a decision that there was no valid adoption would not restore him to his original situation: that it was not material that the representations which led the plaintiff's father to consent to the adoption were not made to the plaintiff personally, the plaintiff's father being his lawful guardian, and the person who would naturally see to the protection of his interests, and if the defendant intentionally misled him, the plaintiff was entitled to take advantage of the estoppel; but that before arriving at a finding as to whether the defendant did as a fact adopt the boy as son to her husband, it was necessary for the Court to take into consideration her position as a pardah-nashin woman, and to be satisfied that she understood the nature of her acts, for though it was not necessary that she should have intended to divest herself of the estate in her husband's property, there should be an express finding, if the facts were so that she intended to adopt the boy, not merely as son to herself, but as son to her husband. SIRDARNI DHARM KOUR v. RANDHIR SINGH. 169 P R 1882

ESTOPPEL—contd.

31. Sale by occupancy tenant of his holding without landlord's consent—Landlord by his conduct affirming the transfer—Subsequent suit by landlord for pre-emption—Tenancy Act (XXVIII of 1868*), section* 34.

In a suit for pre-emption, it appeared that the land in question formed part of a holding cultivated by the 1st defendant (the seller), as tenant with right of occupancy, and of which the plaintiffs were the proprietors. The land in suit was sold on the 24th February 1880 by registered deed to the second defendant, who forthwith began to sink a well in the land, whereupon on the 5th March 1880 the plaintiff brought a suit against the purchaser and his brother for an injunction to restrain them from sinking the well on the ground that it was provided in the Wajib-ul-arz that a hereditary cultivator was not entitled to sink a well in his holding without his landlord's consent. On the 26th April 1880 the Court granted the injunction prayed for, and this order was upheld on the 11th June 1880 on appeal. Meanwhile, on the 21st May 1880, the plaintiffs had brought the present suit against the vendor and the vendee to enforce their right of pre-emption in respect of the right of occupancy sold. The lower Courts held that the vendor was not entitled to sell any portion of his occupancy holding without his landlord's consent, and this finding was confirmed by the Chief Court. But it was contended for the defendants (the appellants in the Chief Court) that as the plaintiffs brought the former suit in which they recognized the vendee's status as occupancy tenant under the sale and sued to restrain him in that capacity from sinking a well on the land, they were estopped from denying the validity of the sale and from claiming the benefit of it as pre-emptors.

Held, per Curiam, that the plaintiffs were estopped by their action in the former suit from denying the validity of the sale of the occupancy right.

Held further, by Plowden and Elsmie, JJ.,

ESTOPPEL—contd.

Smyth, J. dissenting as to this, that the said estoppel was a bar to the present suit, which purported to be one for pre-emption, by the landlords.

Per Plowden, J.—Under the last clause of section 34 of the Tenancy Act, a right of occupancy, other than a right under section 5, is not a transferable right of occupancy within the meaning of section 11 of Act IV of 1872, and such transfer, whether it be made without or with the consent of the land lord, create no right of pre-emption in the landlord or in any other person The transfer is invalid except with the previous consent of the landlord: if made without his consent, he can at his option affirm or annul it, but he has no other remedy open to him. If with full knowledge of the facts, he intentionally acts in such a manner as to affirm the transfer, he cannot afterwards disaffirm it.

Per Smyth, J. contra.—As the plaintiffs did not seek in the present suit to deny the validity of the sale, but, on the contrary, accepted it as a thing that had taken place, and sued to obtain the benefit of it, there was nothing in the former proceedings nor in the action of the plaintiffs which could be held to estop them from bringing the present suit. FAZL v. GODAR KHAN. 161 P R 1883

32. Sale of house, part of which was mortgaged to plaintiff—Plaintiff after the sale demanding and accepting payment of the mortgage-money without any reservation of his right of pre-emption—Subsequent suit by plaintiff for pre-emption—Plaintiff estopped from maintaining such suit.

In a suit for pre-emption it appeared that when the house of which plaintiff was claiming pre-emption was sold a ⅓rd share of it was under mortgage by one of the vendors to plaintiff, and that it was provided in the deed of sale that out of the nominal purchase money the amount due on the mortgage should be retained by the vendee for payment to the mortgagee. It further appeared that nearly two months after the sale the plaintiff gave a written notice to the vendee to pay the mortgage-debt threatening him with an action if he did not do so, but saying nothing in the notice about his right of pre-emption, whereupon the vendee paid the amount to the mortgagee who gave him a receipt. Subsequently plaintiff sued the vendee and the vendors for pre-emption, and among other pleas the vendee urged that plaintiff could not maintain this suit in view of the transaction above described.

Held that such contention was correct: that it was open to the plaintiff as between him and the defendant vendee either to dispute or to affirm the validity of the sale, that plaintiff as mortgagee having, without any reservation of his right as pre-emptor, called upon the vendee to pay up the mortgage-money and having accepted it from him had elected as between himself and the vendee to affirm the sale as valid and it was not open to him after such election to treat the sale as voidable. BAWA LEHNA SINGH v. JAGAN NATH. 138 P R 1888

ESTOPPEL—contd.

33. Appeal by judgment-debtor who has voluntarily satisfied decree.

Held, that a person against whom a decree has been passed is not estopped from appealing against the decree by the fact that he has voluntarily paid the decree into Court before the appeal was lodged. MULA SHAH v. KIRPA RAM. 142 P R 1888

34. Estoppel—Pleader's admission on a law point.

A party is not bound by his pleader's admission on a question of law. Estoppel refers to a belief in a fact and not in a proposition of law. NIHAL SINGH v. HIRA SINGH. 98 P R 1889

35. Estoppel—Pre-emption—Guardian of minor—Consent—Inability of guardian to contest his own acts.

A was entitled to pre-emption by reason of being a neighbour. He was also de facto guardian of a minor co-sharer in the land sold. After having taken part in the negotiations for sale he brought a suit for pre-emption on behalf of the minor. Held, that he was entitled to insist that it was his own interest that he gave up and to distinguish between his own personal right and that of the minor. Case No. 112 P. R. 1881 distinguished. KADIR BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT NUR BIBI. 121 P R 1889

36. Estoppel—Witness attesting will—Subsequently suing to set it aside.

Plaintiff signed a will as an attesting witness. His minor daughter was then heir to the property disposed of by the will. After the death of the testator the plaintiff's daughter died and thereupon, plaintiff as heir of his daughter, sued to set aside the will as made in derogation of her rights as heir. Held, that the plaintiff was estopped by his conduct from disputing the will. JUMMA v. IMAM BAKHSH. 138 P R 1889

37. Evidence Act (I of 1872), section 115.

A. having obtained a decree against B. for pre-emption of certain land, conditional on payment of the price within a specified time, mortgaged the land to B. and in consequence of this transaction did not pay the price on the due date into court for payment to B. He subsequently sued for redemption. B. pleaded that A. lost his right of pre-emption by reason of non-payment of price within the time fixed in the decree, and that he was not entitled to mortgage the land, not having completed his title as proprietor.

Held, that B. was estopped for raising this plea by his accepting the mortgage by A. He caused A. to believe that he was proprietor of the land and to act on that belief by not paying the money into Court by the specified date. GULRANG v. VASUA. 131 P R 1890

38. Par delictum—Party estopped from pleading his own fraud.

The plaintiff sued for possession of half a house which he alleged was the joint property of himself and the defendant; the latter relied upon a registered deed of sale to him from the plaintiff, purporting to sell his (plaintiff's) interest in the house. The plaintiff replied that this was a fictitious transaction entered into in fraud of his creditors.

Held, that the plaintiff was precluded by the rule of par delictum from relying on such an allegation. DOGAR MAL v. JAMIAT. 38 P R 1892

39. Estoppel — Fraud—Defrauded assignee pleading fraud of his assignor.

Held, that, assuming that ordinarily an assignee is debarred from alleging the fraud of his assignor in a suit against a defendant in pari delicto with such assignor, such rule cannot apply when the assignee is himself the defrauded party. III W. R. 92, cited and followed. MANGAL SEIN v. HIRA LAL. 32 P R 1894

40. Pre-emption—Suit by pre-emptor with superior rights against pre-emptor with inferior right, who has obtained a decree—Waiver of right—Acquiescence—Estoppel—Collusion between plaintiff and vendor.

Plaintiff sued for pre-emption of certain land sold on the 19th January 1891, the suit being instituted on the 8th January 1892. Certain other persons had previously sued the vendor and vendee in respect of the same land and had obtained a decree for pre-emption, and plaintiff now sued the decree-holders and joined the vendor and vendee as co-defendants. The decree-holders, while admitting plaintiff's superior right of pre-emption, pleaded (i) that they having shown superior diligence and obtained a decree, plaintiff had no cause of action against them so long as the decree subsisted; (ii) that plaintiff was estopped by his own conduct from suing; (iii) that the suit was not bonâ fide or for the benefit of the plaintiff, but was brought for the benefit, and at the instance, of the defeated vendee.

Held, as to the first plea, that plaintiff's right of pre-emption being admittedly superior to that of defendant's must primâ facie prevail, and inasmuch as the right of pre-emption attached to plaintiff as a personal privilege and inhered until lost by his own act, or exhausted by suit or barred by the law of limitation, plaintiff's said right was not affected by the existence of defendant's decree.

Held, as to the second plea, that notice of the original sale not having been given to plaintiff in the manner prescribed by law, plaintiff had no opportunity of electing whether he would prefer a right to purchase or would acquiesce in the sale, and could not, therefore, be said to have waived his right to accept an offer which was never made, and was within his rights in preferring his claim at any time within the period allowed him by law, and against any person, holding mediately or immediately under the original sale, who could not establish positively facts or conduct giving rise to an estoppel.

Held, as to the third plea, that, though plaintiff's conduct was suspicious, there was no sufficient certainty to justify the Court in holding that plaintiff's suit was for the benefit of the defeated vendee.

Per Bullock, J.—The nature of pre-emptive right being a personal privilege, exercisable only by the pre-emptor for his own benefit, his suit must fail if it be established that in suing he is seeking the benefit of it not for himself but for another.

No. 42 P. R. 1878, distinguished. BRIJ NATH v. JITA. 139 P R 1894

41. Estoppel—Evidence Act (I of 1872), section 115.

In 1889 the Pathan proprietors of Yaru Khel brought a suit against certain Sayads, who appeared to be inferior proprietors of some description, claiming certain land on the ground that it was shamilat-deh. One of the Sayads, K. H. S. admitted plaintiff's claim, and stated that he would not defend the suit or render himself liable to any costs of the litigation. The rest of the Sayads contested the claim, and in the result it was found that the land in dispute was the property of the Sayads and not shamilat-deh, and the suit was dismissed in all the Courts. Thereafter the Sayads remained in possession of the land, the holding being recorded joint of all the Sayads. In 1893 K. H. S. sold his recorded share to one S. S. and upon the vendee's application for partition, the rest of the Sayads sued to have it declared that K. H. S. had, by his admissions in the former case, lost his interest in the land, and had no rights left to him therein which he could convey to S. S. Both lower Courts decreed the claim, the Divisional Judge holding that S. S. as representative of K. H. S. was estopped from denying what the latter had deliberately stated in the previous suit.

Held, that the statement relied upon was an admission receivable in evidence against the party making it and any one claiming under him, but did not amount to an estoppel, because, (i) the principal of an estoppel—viz., that the statement made must be taken to be true for the purpose of subsequent proceedings—could not apply to a case where the former statement had been found by judicial decision to be and admittedly was false and not true; and (ii) it had not been shown that plaintiffs had at any time been in any degree misled into acting upon the representation or altering their position by reason of it. SOHAWA SHAH v. SHER ZAMAN SHAH. 49 P R 1895

42. Pre-emption on sale—Colorable transaction—Defendant alleging his own fraud—Executory contract—Estoppel—" Par delictum."

Plaintiff suit for pre-emption of certain land and based his suit on a statement made by defendant No. 1 before the patwari, and recorded in the latter's diary of the 2nd February 1894, to the effect that defendant No. 1 had sold his interest in the said land to his wife for Rs. 15,000. Upon this statement an entry was made to the above effect by the patwari in the naksha-intikal, and was duly attested by the kanungo on the 7th February in the absence, however, of the parties to the alleged sale. Defendant pleaded, inter alia, that there had been no sale, that the entry was fictitious, and tha no consideration had passed, and gave evidence to prove that the alleged transfer was a colorable transaction without change of possession, made for the purpose of evading certain claims on the part of the Tank State in which defendant had been employed as a Mir Munshi, and which had dismissed him and seized his property within its territory for alleged misconduct. The Divisional Judge held that no sale had taken place, and dismissed the suit. Plaintiff appealed to the Chief Court, and it was contended inter alia, on his behalf that defendant was legally precluded from setting up his own fraud and from pleading that the transfer was fictitious, and was estopped from urging the said pleas as against plaintiff, who had sued relying on the truth of defendant's statement before the Revenue officials.

ESTOPPEL—contd.

Held, that, there being no proof of the actual transaction beyond the defendant's admission, the statement of the defendant though it threw on him the burden of proving that there had been no sale, was not conclusive proof of the fact stated therein, unless it operated as an estoppel; nor did the fact that defendant had to allege his own fraud in order to show that no sale had actually taken place, preclude him from explaining the real nature of the transaction.

As regards the plea of estoppel held, that inasmuch as defendant's statement was not made to plaintiff or in order to make plaintiff act on it, and was not intended to come to plaintiff's knowledge, defendant could not be held to his statement to his detriment. HAFIZ ABDUL KARIM v. MUHAMMAD YUSAF.

61 P R 1895

43. Pre-emption—Mortgage or sale—Right of mortgage to plead that mortgage was colorable to avoid pre-emption—Fraud—Condition in mortgage deed restricting equity of redemption—Estoppel.

Plaintiffs alleging themselves to be purchasers for value of the equity of redemption of a mortgage of a house executed in favour of defendant, claimed redemption from the latter on payment of Rs. 1,400, the full amount of the mortgage-money. Defendant pleaded that the house was in reality sold, and not merely mortgaged to him, a mortgage-deed being executed instead of a deed of sale to avoid a suit for pre-emption, and that in any event, according to a condition in the mortgage-deed the mortgagor or his representative was not entitled to obtain possession till twelve years had elapsed from the date of the payment of the mortgage-money.

Held, that the condition entered in the mortgage-deed, that, even after redemption by payment of the mortgage-money, the mortgagor was to be debarred from ousting the mortgagee from actual possession for a period twelve years unduly fettered the mortgagor's equity of redemption and was one which no Court of Equity could be required to enforce.

Held, further, that plaintiffs having purchased for value from the representatives of the original mortgagors the equity of redemption which according to the deed, still remained vested in them, and there being nothing on the record which deprived plaintiffs of the character of bonâ fide purchasers for value, or indicated that they had any notice that their vendor had no interest left in the property to dispose of, the mortgagee was estopped from urging, as against them at any rate, that the transaction was other than it purported to be. GANDA MAL v. DHERI SHAH.

ESTOPPEL—contd.

99 P R 1895

44. Mortgage by widow—Decree of foreclosure against widow—Regulation XVII of 1806—Regularity of proceedings, presumption as to—Suit by reversioners for recovery of land after death of widow—Limitation Act, 1877, 2nd Schedule, article 141—Res judicata—Estoppel.

Held, that as against a person in possession of land under a title created by a widow, or in virtue of a decree for possession obtained against a widow, the reversioners have, under Article 141 of the Limitation Act, twelve years from the date of the widow's death within which they can sue for recovery of the land.

Held, further, that where a suit is brought against a female heiress in possession in respect of any matter which strikes at the root of her title to the property, a decree fairly and properly obtained against her binds all the reversioners, but, inasmuch as the widow's estate is ordinarily a limited one, and as she represents the reversioners only in special cases, in order that such decree should bind the latter, it must be shown, in the first instance, that the litigation was one in which the entire interest in the estate she held in possession was at stake, and then that she had sufficiently protected the reversioner's interests, and that there was a fair and proper inquiry.

A widow's position with reference to the reversioner's interests is like that of a trustee, and any failure or neglect on her part to defend those interests in any such litigation render a decree obtained against her valueless against the reversioners.

Where certain mortgagees had, during the widow's lifetime, obtained a decree of foreclosure against her under Regulation XVII of 1806, held, that as against the reversioners, who sued for recovery of the land after the death of the widow, the onus of proving that the said foreclosure proceedings were in due form, and that the right of redemption was extinct, was on the mortgagees, there being no presumption in favour of the regularity and propriety of such proceedings.

A plea of estoppel by conduct, held not established. HIRA SINGH v. SHER SINGH.

29 P R 1898

45. Suit for possession on ground that a certain sale was invalid as against plaintiff—Plea by defendants that plaintiff acquiesced in sale—"Acquiescence"—Estoppel.

Plaintiff sued for possession of certain land and houses which had been sold in 1876, by their near collateral, one K., a childless proprietor, in favour of defendant. The defendant pleaded, and the lower Court found, acquiescence in the sale on the part of plaintiffs disentitling them to set aside the alienation, and dismissed the suit. It was proved that plaintiffs, whether or not they knew of the alienation at the time it was effected, had knowledge of it in 1878, when they gave evidence on behalf of defendants in a case in which he sued a certain tenant of his for damages for cutting a tree; that they made no mention of their rights, though present on each occasion, when the defendant twice applied, in 1880 and 1886, for partition on the strength of his deed of purchase; that they also raised no objection to his acquiring the rights of certain hereditary tenants, and that, finally, many years after the sale they took up some land from the defendant for the purpose of cultivation and tilled it almost up to the date of suit. In the last case it appeared that plaintiff, subsequently to partition proceedings, exchanged certain land allotted to them for others which had fallen to the share of defendant, and executed certain documents, in one of which they expressly stated that they accepted the purchase by defendant in 1876, and waived all rights to object thereto. On behalf of plaintiff it was contended that inasmuch as all the above specified acts took place after the sale, plaintiffs were not thereby estopped from attacking the said transfer as they had not by any such act misled the defendants or induced him to enter into the sale transaction.

ESTOPPEL—contd.

Held, that plaintiffs were precluded by their acquiescence and express words from making the present claim, and that their suit had been rightly dismissed. NIHALA v. BIKHAM RAM.

81 P R 1898

46. Estoppel by conduct—Acknowledgment (by receipt of rent) by landlord of a tenant's right to succeed as an agnatic heir of an occupancy tenant ten years before suit.

In a suit by the landlord for possession of certain land which was formerly in possession of S. and R. N., two joint occupancy tenants, on the ground that the defendant had no right to occupancy right in the land as he was not an agnatic heir of the late R. N., who had died in 1888 and on whose death the defendant's father had applied for mutation in respect of half the land held by the deceased to be effected in his name, and that since that time the defendant's father or defendant had continued in possession with S. as joint occupancy tenants until he died childless in 1898 when defendant took possession of the whole holding, the plaintiffs having accepted rent from S. and defendant's father or himself for 1888 to 1898 for the land. The first Court gave a decree to the plaintiff on the ground that the land had not devolved from a common ancestor or that defendant or his father was an agnatic relation with R. N. The Divisional Judge, whilst agreeing with the first Court on the facts as found, dismissed the plaintiff's suit on the ground that in 1888 the plaintiff allowed the defendant's father to succeed as if the pedigree table was correct, and for ten years received from the defendant's father and defendant their share of the profit, found

ESTOPPEL—contd.

it was too late to object now. Held, that plaintiff have by their conduct estopped themselves from denying defendant's right to succeed to S. as his agnatic heir. GANDA v. RAMJI DAS. 73 P R 1900

47 In matters of alienations under customary law subsequent long silence sometimes amounts to conduct precluding a suit to set aside the alienation, but where the collaterals not only delayed to attack the alienation but were also concerned either in purchasing from the alienor to the exclusion of the collaterals, or cultivating under or exchanging with the defendants alienees the disputed lands, held, that they had acquiesced in the alienation, and were estopped from bringing the suit. AMIR AND OTHERS v. MUSSAMMAT ZEBO AND OTHERS. 42 P R 1902

48. Guardian of minor—Lease of a portion of the property by guardian—Inability of minor to claim pre-emption.

Held, that in a pre-emption suit the mere fact that the guardian of the minor plaintiff temporarily leased a small portion of the property in suit at a date between the transfer and institution of the suit did not amount to an estoppel. KISHEN SINGH v. JAI KISHEN DAS. 2 P R 1903

49. There can be no estoppel if the party to whom the representation is made was not led to do anything thereby which he would not have done otherwise. THAKUR DAS v. JASWANT RAI. 1 P R 1904

50. The fact that property not liable to attachment has been improperly attached on one or more occasions without objection does not debar the judgment-debtor from pleading exemption when it is subsequently attached. QAMAR-UD-DIN KHAN v. LACHMI NATH. 95 P R 1906

51. Where a plaintiff sued for a sum of money in the Revenue Court, and insisted throughout on its jurisdiction, and there prosecuted his suit to the Court of final appeal, and ultimately failed not on the question of jurisdiction but on the merits, it would be opposed to all principles of justice and equity to permit him to ignore entirely the previous proceedings on the ground that the Revenue Court had no jurisdiction, and to prosecute his claim de novo in a Civil Court. Such a plaintiff is equitably estopped from pleading want of jurisdiction in the forum which he himself selected. JAMIAT MAL v. KHAIR MUHAMMAD. 126 P R 1906

52. In a suit for rent it is not competent to the tenant to impeach the title of his landlord in whose favour he has executed a lease on the ground that his ostensible landlord was only a benamidar for a third party. BOGAR v. KARAM SINGH. 141 P R 1906

53. Custom—Alienation—Gift of land inherited by daughter in favour of her adopted son—Suit by reversioner of the last male owner for possession on ground that the gift was invalid as against them—Plea of estoppel by conduct and acquiescence—Inducing person to believe in and act upon the truth of anything—Evidence Act, 1872, section 115.

In 1832 'J', a sonless Ansari Sheikh of Basti Danishmandan in the Jullundur District, gifted his ancestral land in lieu of his wife's dower to his daughter 'M,' which in accordance with the wishes of the donor passed on her death in 1849 to her husband 'S.' In 1851, 'S' in turn gifted the said property along with what he had inherited from his own father to his daughter 'Z' in lieu of her mother's dower. Z married B and being childless adopted a boy M., defendant in this case, by a registered deed which was executed in 1887 and soon after settled the property, which had come to her from her father 'S,' on her adopted son by a deed of gift, dated 4th May 1888, mutation of which was duly effected in the course of the same year in favour of M as the adopted son of Z. In 1895 a private partition was made, the parties appearing before the revenue authorities and requesting that the arrangement be recorded and entries made in accordance thereof and allowing defendant in connection with this land to be described as the adopted son of Z. This arrangement was sanctioned on 11th June 1896 with full consent of all persons concerned, and the parties then took possession of their respective shares in pursuance thereof.

On the death of Z, which occurred on 4th May 1899, the plaintiffs instituted the present claim for possession on the allegation that they being the nearest collaterals were the rightful heirs to the property held by him, and that defendant had no title thereto, the deed of gift and his alleged adoption being both fictitious and invalid by law and custom. The defence inter alia pleaded estoppel by conduct and acquiescence.

Held, that the plaintiffs were precluded from making the present claim, the facts noted above showing acquiescence in the adoption and alienations. MUHAMMAD NIAZ-UD-DIN KHAN v. MUHAMMAD UMAR KHAN. 1 P R 1907

54. Estoppel—Decree in favour of plaintiff for a part of his claim—Execution of such decree by plaintiff—Subsequent appeal for remainder.

Held, that a plaintiff who has obtained a decree for a part of his claim and has executed the same is not by the mere fact of his having taken out execution of that decree debarred from prosecuting the appeal as regards the remainder of his claim which had been disallowed by the first Court.

Mahomed v. Fida Mahomed, 82 P. R. 1868, overruled. RAGHU MAL v. BANDU. 31 P R 1907 F B

55. *Custom—Alienation—Suit by reversioner to enforce his right in respect to land on the ground that the alienation had been without necessity which alienation had already been challenged by his father on the ground of pre-emption only—Locus standi—Estoppel by acquiescence.*

Held, that the fact that at the mutation of a sale of ancestral immovable property by a childless male proprietor the nearest reversioner expressed his readiness to take it over on payment of the sale price, but abstained from taking any action whatsoever in respect to it during his lifetime, is evidence to prove that it had been acquiesced in as a valid sale, and consequently the son of such reversioner is debarred from suing to impeach the sale as invalid for want of necessity. LAKHA SINGH v. JOTA SINGH. 35 P R 1907

56. Held, plaintiffs claiming title from an adopted son are not estopped by reason of their father having signed a sale-deed, as a witness, made by the widow of the adopted son and the latter's mother, in which they claim title derived from the adoptive father and from the collaterals of the adoptive father and not from the adopted son. RUP NARAIN v. MUSSAMMAT GOPAL DEVI. 93 P R 1909 P C

57. Estoppel—Civil Procedure Code, Act XIV of 1882, sections 13 and 43—Merger of mortgage in previous money decree—Cause of action—Relationship of landlord and tenant—Jurisdiction of Civil Court—Appeal under section 70 (1) (b)—Findings of fact.

In 1888 B. S., a usufructuary mortgagee, sub-mortgaged his rights to G. S., the terms being that the latter should be put into possession and that the former should be personally liable for the mortgage-money. In 1900 G. S. sued for principal and interest, alleging that he had never been put into possession and obtained a decree for the principal only against the property mortgaged, as according to the statement of B. S. (the defendant) G. S. had been holding possession. This decree was affirmed on appeal in 1901, but in consequence of the enactment of the Land Alienation Act, XIII of 1900, G. S. did not execute his decree and in 1907 he brought the present suit for possession on the ground that B. S. had denied his title in 1905. The lower Courts found that G. S. had constructive possession of the land till 1905, and that there was no new agreement between the parties in 1901 and decreed plaintiff's claim.

Held, that as the value of the suit and appeal for purposes of jurisdiction was less than Rs. 1,000 no further appeal lay, and the lower Appellate Court's findings of fact could not be impugned—

Held, also that—

(1) G. S.'s. allegations in the former suit did not estop him from alleging in the present suit that he was in possession of the property up to within 12 years of the present suit;

(2) the suit was within limitation;

(3) neither section 13 nor section 43 of the Civil Procedure Code, Act XIV of 1882, was a bar to the suit;

(4) the mortgage did not merge in the decree obtained by G. S. in 1900, and a cause of action on the mortgage survived; and

(5) the facts found did not establish the relation of landlord and tenant between the parties and the Civil Courts consequently had jurisdiction. BAHADUR SHAH v. RAM SINGH.

ESTOPPEL—concld.

32 P R 1910

EUROPEAN BRITISH SUBJECT

—Act IX of 1861, does not apply to.
See GUARDIAN. 23 P R 1867

EVIDENCE.

See under ACCOUNTS.
See under BURDEN OF PROOF.
See under EVIDENCE ACT, 1872.
See APPELLATE COURT—POWERS AND DUTIES OF—
109 P R 1876
115 P R 1876
84 P R 1877
28 P R 1878
102 P R 1879
DIVORCE. 45 P R 1871
70 P R 1873
84 P R 1875
77 P R 1905

1. Admissibility of documents not filed with plaint—Objection first raised in appeal.
See APPEAL—VI. PROCEDURE IN.
74 P R 1882

2. Recorded by one Judge—Power of Judge to whom case has been transferred to decide upon—Notice to parties.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XVIII, R. 15. 110 P R 1886

3. Admissible in proceeding under section 47 of the Civil Procedure Code.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 28 P R 1885

4. Evidence improperly recorded by first Court—Power of Appellate Court to remand cause on such ground.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XLI, R. 23. 45 P R 1896

. Relevancy of entries contained in a Riwaj-i-am and weight to be given under the Indian Evidence Act.
See CUSTOM—III C. ADOPTION OF DAUGHTER'S SON. 81 P R 1891

6. Evidence of adoption.
See CUSTOM—III H. ADOPTION—OBSERVANCE OF FORMALITIES.
101 P R 1889
94 and 142 P R 1893
138 P R 1894
25 P R 1896
67 P R 1902
40 P R 1905

6 (a). Secondary evidence—Admissibility of.
See EVIDENCE ACT, SECTION 90.
93 P R 1910

7. Admissibility of, to prove that a transaction in form of mortgage was really a sale.
See MORTGAGE—CONSTRUCTION.
131 P R 1894

8. Evidence of pre-emption.
See PRE-EMPTION—RIGHT OF, IN TOWNS—Passim.
PRE-EMPTION, RIGHT OF, ON SALE OF SHOPS—Passim.

EVIDENCE—contd.

9. Admissibility of, to prove that a transaction in form of a gift was really a sale.
See PRE-EMPTION—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS—Passim.

9 (a). Admissibility of evidence of conduct of parties subsequent to contract.
See EVIDENCE ACT, SECTION 92.
27 P R 1911

9 (b). In pre-emption cases—value of proof of uncontested instances and instances in neighbourhood.
See PRE-EMPTION IN TOWNS.
78 P R 1911

10. Admissibility of unregistered documents.
See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17—Passim.
CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 95. 14 P R 1893

11. Inadmissibility of unregistered documents.
See BURDEN OF PROOF.
26, 121, 122, 123 & 157 P R 1882
See REGISTRATION ACT (VIII OF 1871), SECTIONS 18, 19. 68 P R 1886
See REGISTRATION ACT (III OF 1877), SECTION 49—Passim.
. Admissibility of document registered in ong district.
See REGISTRATION ACT (VIII OF 1871), SECTION 28. 67 P R 1883

13. Admissibility of document registered after period allowed by law.
See REGISTRATION ACT (III OF 1877), SECTION 23—26. 93 P R 1883

14. Application for review on ground of discovery of new.
See REVIEW OF JUDGMENT.
145 P R 1882

15. Question as to admissibility of evidence was not a question of law involved within the meaning of section 40 (2) of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884.
See REVISION. 68 P R 1897

16. Admissibility of document improperly stamped.
See STAMP. 4 P R 1881
195 P R 1883
73 P R 1886

17. Admissibility of unstamped document.
See STAMP ACT, 1879, SECTION 3.
69 P R 1894
See STAMP ACT, 1879, SECTION 34—Passim.

18. Admission of document in evidence—Power of Appellate Court to question its admissibility.
See STAMP ACT, 1879, SECTION 34.
139 P R 1890
2 P R 1891

19. Of validity of will—Nature of proof—Testator dying shortly after will.
See WILL. 51 P R 1882

20. Held, before the passing of Act I of 1872, that the declarations of persons who, though not related by blood or marriage to the family, were intimately acquainted with its members and state, were admissible after the death of the declarant, in the same manner and to the same extent as those of deceased members of the family. MOHUNNEE RAM v. MOHUNNA RAM. 35 P R 1866

EVIDENCE—contd.

21. Held, that evidence having once been received, cannot afterwards be objected to; the objection should have been made before reception. ANDERSON v. TAYLOR.
70 P R 1866

22. Unstamped agreement, varying contemporaneous stamped agreement—Admissibility of.
Where there was a stamped agreement, and a contemporaneous unstamped memorandum of agreement, varying the terms of the former document. held, that the unstamped memorandum was not admissible in evidence. KHURHO v. BOOTA SINGH.
23 P R 1870

23. Where an investigation of accounts is submitted to a Commissioner under section 181, Civil Procedure Code, the Court is not bound to take any other evidence than that furnished by the Commissioner's report. KISHEN SHAH v. GURMOKH. 40 P R 1870

24. Admissions of a respondent are not evidence against the co-respondent in a suit under the Indian Divorce Act. GORDON v. GORDON. 58 P R 1870

25. Acknowledgment of debt.
Defendant sealed a balance of Rs. 233-4-6 against himself in plaintiff's book. Held, that the entry was admissible in evidence though unstamped. KALU v. BASANTA MAL.
33 P R 1873

26. But where the defendant wrote an acknowledgment of a debt in plaintiff's account-book, and the entry was not stamped,—held, that though, under Act XVIII of 1869, Schedule II, para. 5, the acknowledgment was not admissible against the defendant, the book itself was admissible as corroborative evidence of plaintiff's claim. DEVI DITTA v. MIAN SINGH. 43 P R 1874

27. Destruction of Settlement record—Secondary evidence.
The Patwari's papers held to be secondary evidence, the Settlement record being destroyed. FATTU v. DALELA.
1 P R 1875 Rev

28. A party to a suit for dissolution of marriage is not entitled, as of right, to give evidence by affidavit. When a petitioner in a suit for dissolution of marriage offers himself or herself as a witness under the permission contained in section 51, clause 1 of the Act, it is desirable that the examination should be oral, and in the presence of the Court trying the petition. SKINNER v. SKINNER. 13 P R 1891

29. Suit for declaration of exclusive possession—Finding that exclusive possession not proved—Decree according to evidence.
The plaintiffs alleging exclusive possession of two small plots of land, sued for a declaration of their title.
The first Court found their possession and title proved and gave them a decree.
On appeal, the Divisional Judge held that as the plaintiff's exclusive possession was not proved, their suit must be dismissed, and that they should sue for possession and prove their title, if so advised.
Held, that it was competent to the Court to decree title according to the evidence, even if exclusive possession was not shown, and even to amend the plaint and decree exclusive possession if desired.

EVIDENCE -contd.

I. L. R. XVII Calc., 814, referred to. BUTA v. SATAR BAKHSH. 67 P R 1891

30. Custom—Wajib-ul-arz—Evidence—Modification of custom.

The parts of a Wajib-ul-arz referring to custom are not provisions intended to be in force for a limited period only,—they are statements that a certain custom exists. The statement may or may not be correct, but if it is correct, there would be a natural presumption that the custom continued to exist, and it would be for those alleging that a change had subsequently taken place to prove the allegation.

The production of a later Record of Rights containing entries opposed to the earlier one would no doubt be some proof of such a change, but there would then merely be a balance of evidence on either side; it could not be said that the second record destroyed or abrogated the earlier one.

No 107 P. R. 1887, referred to. RAHIMAN AND SOHNA v. BALA. 8 P R 1892

31. Marriage may be presumed presumptively by the statement of the parties, or their general conduct towards each other. MUSSAMMAT SATARA BEGUM v. MUSSAMMAT HUSSAINI KHANAM. 16 P R 1897

32. Admission of fresh evidence by Appellate Court on further appeal—Discretion—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 56-8.

Held, that an appellant, who had deliberately declined to produce any evidence in the original Court and chose to stake his case on the record as it stood, ought not to be allowed on a further appeal another opportunity of producing fresh evidence on the ground that he was mistaken in that view. SUNDAR SINGH v. JALLANDAR. 51 P R 1905

33. Written statement—Defence must be confined to the pleas put in—Evidence inconsistent to the pleas not allowed—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 114.

As a general rule a defendant must be confined to the pleas he puts forward in his defence: and in a case for pre-emption, where the main plea put forward was the cancellation of the bargain by consent, but during the trial the defence tried to prove it as fictitious, held, that the defence was not entitled to rely on such an inconsistent plea, and that no evidence in support of such defence should have been allowed to go on record. RAM RAKHA MAL v. DEVI DAS. 89 P R 1905

34. An assignment of a mortgage of immovable property where the amount secured on the mortgage is over Rs. 100 even for a consideration of less than Rs. 100 is not admissible in evidence under section 49 of the Act if unregistered. RAM SARUP v. MUBARAK SINGH. 1 P R 1906

35. An unstamped pro-note cannot be received in evidence for any purpose even if the maker admits its execution. GANGA RAM v. AMIR CHAND. 66 P R 1906

36. The mere attestation of a Riwaj-i-am by a non-agriculturist who had acquired agricultural land in a village as a means of investment is not ipso facto sufficient to prove that in matters of alienation or succession his family residing in a town followed the ordinary customary rules of dominant agricultural tribes. JAMIAT-UL-NISA v. HASHMAT-UL-NISA. 124 P R 1908

EVIDENCE—concld.

37. Custom—Adoption—how manifested—registered deed of adoption—subsequent treatment—proof of.

Held, that in a case where the power of customary adoption by a sonless proprietor is not disputed, all that is necessary to constitute an adoption is the clear expression of an intention on the part of the adoptive father to adopt the boy concerned as his son, and a sufficient manifestation of that intention, by the execution and registration of a deed of adoption coupled with a clear declaration in Court and subsequent treatment as adopted son.

Proof of such subsequent treatment cannot, however, be reasonably demanded in a case where very soon after the execution of the deed of adoption, the reversioners of the adoptive father sue for a declaration that the adoption did not in fact take place, and where therefore the adoptive father cannot ex necessitate rei prove continuous subsequent treatment. 42 P R 1911

EVIDENCE ACT, 1872.

Section 2.

Muhammadan Law—Legitimacy—Period of gestation—Evidence.

The rule of Muhammadan Law, which fixes two years as the period of gestation, is a "rule of evidence" within the meaning of section 2, Indian Evidence Act, 1872: the effect of the section, when read with section 5 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, is that under the latter Act, the Courts are not bound by the rule of Muhammadan Law. No. 1 P. R. 1884, followed. WARAS MUHAMMAD v. ALI BAKHSH. 76 P R 1891.

Sections. 13 and 40

1. Admissibility of judgment inter partes. See RES JUDICATA. 70 P R 1875

2. Admissibility of judgment not inter partes.

See JUDGMENT. 56 P R 1906

Section 23.

Admission in deed of compromise.

On appeal a compromise was entered into, which was subsequently set aside on the ground that the agent of one of the parties to the suit was not empowered to enter into it. The Appellate Court, taking into consideration the facts admitted by appellant in the deed of compromise, dismissed the appeal. Held, that the Court was precluded by section 23, Act I of 1872, from making use of the admissions in the deed of compromise. ILAHIA v. MAKHAN. 83 P R 1877

Section 32.

Evidence Act (I of 1872), sections 32 (2), 65 and 90—Admissibility in evidence of copy of mortgage—Attestation by Kazi—Production from proper custody—Statement made in ordinary course of business—Secondary evidence.

In a suit for redemption of mortgage, the contention for the defendant was that the copy of the mortgage to the defendant's ancestors produced by the plaintiff, and in accordance with which his claim was decreed, was not admissible in evidence. It appeared that the said copy was attested by a certificate under the seal of a Kazi as a true copy of the mortgage in question, which itself bore the seal of the same Kazi and the attestations of certain specified witnesses. The certificate and seal attached to it were documents produced from proper custody, so that under section 90 of the Evidence Act it might be presumed that the certificate was that of the Kazi who had attested the original document. It was further admitted that it was part of the ordinary course of business of the said Kazi (who was dead) to attest documents, so that the certificate was admissible under section 32, clause (2) of the Evidence Act as a statement made by him.

EVIDENCE ACT, 1872—contd.
Section 32—concld.

Held, that the copy was admissible as secondary evidence as a copy made from or compared with the original, the original not being produced, and the defendant, in whose possession it should have been, denying that he had it. TEJU MAL v. ZULFAKAR SHAH. 49 P R 1882

Section 34.

See BAHI ACCOUNT. 80 P R 1910

1. Account-books—Revision—Small Cause Court Act, 1887, section 25.

The Small Cause Court gave plaintiff a decree on his account-books and evidence of his book-keeper, who deposed that the books were kept by him from memoranda supplied to him by plaintiff, the entries in the books being made on the days on which memoranda were supplied. The plaintiff did not himself give evidence in support of his claim, nor was his absence from the witness-box accounted for.

Held, that plaintiff having declined ot support his claim by the best evidence available was not entitled to succeed. HIRA BHAGAT v. GOBIND RAM. 63 P R 1897

2. Account-books—Relevancy of.

Held, that under section 34 of the Evidence Act, 1872, it is not a condition precedent to accepting entries in account-books as relevant that it should be proved how the accounts came to be written and that they were regularly kept in the course of business, though it is necessary that there should be other evidence in support of the liability sought to be established thereby.

Where, therefore, the gomashta, who kept the books and a member of the firm were examined as witnesses and testified that books were regularly kept, held, that their evidence though given by them as witnesses for the defence, was, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, sufficient corroboration of the accounts as a whole. BICHHA LAL v. JAI PARSHAD. 45 P R 1899

Section 35.

And sections 74, 80, 90—Public Record—Ancient documents—Presumption as to their genuineness—Production from proper custody—Mortgage—Acknowledgment of liability—

1273

EVIDENCE ACT, 1872—contd.

Section 35—concld.

Limitation Act, 1877, section 90.

In a case where the question of age of a person at a certain time was disputed, held, that the descriptive roll of that person prepared by a public officer in accordance with the law in force at that time and a patwari's statement about an entry in the Revenue papers (both of which documents were more than 50 years old) and the Municipal Register of Deaths were relevant under section 35 of the Evidence Act, and being public documents within the meaning of clause (iii) (1) of section 74 of that Act and produced from proper custody presumed to be genuine. ANIS-UL-REHMAN KHAN AND OTHERS v. BENI RAM AND OTHERS. 59 P R 1901

Section 42.

Judgments not inter partes are admissible in evidence when they relate to a question of custom which is a matter of a public nature. BUNYAD ALI v. FAIZ MUHAMMAD. 173 P R 1889

Section 43.

1. Relevancy of judgments in other suits.

Plaintiff, jagirdar and landowner of mauza Hajipur, zillah Karnal, sued defendants, his cultivators, for grazing dues, basing his claim upon the wajib-ul-arz of 1856, and decrees which he had formerly obtained for grazing dues against some of the defendants. In the Regular Settlement of 1847 the residents of the village were specially exempted, and this provision remained in force till 1856 when a revision was made imposing the dues. Held that plaintiff's right to the dues was not established by custom or by the wajib-ul-arz of 1856 (for a new Settlement could not take away from any tenant rights acquired under or recorded in the old Settlement); and that the decrees in former suits were relevant evidence under the Evidence Act, section 43, but not sufficient to bind those who were not parties to the suits, though they established the right of the plaintiff as res judicata against those defendants who were parties thereto. AZMUT ALI KHAN v. HARNAM. 61 P R 1875

2. Section 43—Judgment in criminal case —Admissibility of, in evidence in civil suit—inspection of, under section 138, Civil Procedure Code.

A sued for the custody of his wife, who pleaded cruelty. The only evidence taken was a judgment decreeing maintenance (under section 536, Act X of 1872) to the wife, and showing that she had left A owing to his cruelty. Held, that if the judgment was admissible in evidence, it was not conclusive. Quære—whether the judgment was admissible.

Per Lindsay, J.—The record of the criminal case might be inspected under section 138, Act VIII of 1859. FAKIR-UD-DIN v. MUSSAMMAT HOSEIN BIBI. 32 P R 1874

Section 65.

1. Section 65—Public document—Secondary evidence other than certified copy—Admissibility of, when document is lost.

Held, that secondary evidence of a lost

1274

EVIDENCE ACT, 1872—contd.

Section 65—concld.

public document, other than a certified copy, is admissible upon proof of loss or destruction of the original, and further proof that no certified copy of the original is available to the party seekng to prove the contents of the original.

Held, further, that so long as the original is in existence, no secondary evidence other than a certified copy is admissible. SYAD PIR SHAH v. GULAB SHAH. 63 P R 1878

2. And section 91—romissory Note—Instrument inadmissible in evidence—Original consideration—Stamp Act (I of 1879), section 34, and 1*st Schedule, article* 1—Construction of documents.

When a document is in admissible in evidence under section 34 of the Stamp Act, 1879, section 65 of the Evidence Act, 1872, does not allow, and therefore section 91 expressly forbids,secondary evidence of the document to be given. Whether there is a cause of action independent of the instrument upon which independent evidence may be given, depends upon the question whether plaintiff can allege any contract as the basis of his suit which is not the contract reduced to the form of the document excluded froms consideration under the aforesaid provision of law.

I. L. R. VII Calc. 260 and No. 4 P. R. 1881, No. 73 P. R. 1886, No. 61 P. R. 1888 and No. 82 P. R. 1891, referred to. BAKHSHI RAM LUBHAYA v. KAKA RAM. 42 P R 1895

Section 74 and Sections 80—90.

See SECTION 35 SUPRA. 59 P R 1901

Section 90.

1. Ancient documents—Presumption as to their genuineness.

Held, that in India where forgery and fraud are matters, comparatively speaking, of common occurrence, there is a very real and considerable danger in treating documents which purport to be ancient as established, merely because they are said to be more than thirty years' old and come from proper custody, and that although the Courts are empowered to adopt thte rule of presumption laid down in secion 90 of the Evidence Act, they are not bound to do so in all cases and must apply it with exceeding caution and may, if the circumstances of any particular case require it, call for proof of, or refuse in the absence of proof to accept as established, any document irrespective of its alleged age or of the custody from which it is produced.

Trailokia Nath Nandi v. Shurno Changoni (I. L. R. XI Calc. 539), Mussammat Phool Bibee v. Goor Surun Das (18 W. R. 485), Raikunth Nath Kundu v. Lukhun (9 Calc. L. R. 425), and Shaikh Husain v. Govardhan Das (I. L. R. XX Bom. 1), cited. AMIR v. NUR MUHAMMAD. 82 P R 1902

2. Indian Evidence Act, I of 872, section 90—Ancient document.

Held, that section 90, Indian Evidence Act, 1872, is not limited to cases in which the document is actually produced in Court and consequently secondary evidence of an ancient document is admissible without proof of the execution of the original, when the document is shown to have been lost and to have been last heard of in proper custody. SAWAN SINGH v. KARIM BAKHSH. 93 P R 1910

1275

EVIDENCE ACT, 1872—contd.

Section 90—concld.

Section 91.

See CAUSE OF ACTION—IV, MISCELLANEOUS. 42 P R 1895

See also under REGISTRATION ACT, SECTIONS 17 AND 49.

1. Promissory Note—Bill of Exchange—Original consideration—Stamp—Construction of instrument.

Though in certain cases where a negotiable instrument, taken on account of a pre-existing debt and as a conditional discharge of such debt, is inadmissible in evidence for want of a proper stamp or for some other reason, the creditor may, if payment be not made when the instrument falls due, revert to his original rights, and disregarding the instrument, sue for the original consideration, provided he has not endorsed or lost or parted with the instrument under circumstances which would make the debtor liable upon it to some third person, yet when the original cause of action is the instrument itself, and does not exist independently of it, e. g., when money is lent upon it, in such case there is no cause of action for money lent otherwise than upon the instrument itself, and the instrument, being the only contract between the parties, the plaintiff cannot (with reference to section 91 of the Evidence Act) establish his case without it. SHEO DAS v. KANHYA LAL. 61 P R 1888

2. Document, construction of—Promissory note or acknowledgment of liability—Suit based on document stamped with anna stamp—Admissibility of document in evidence—Right of plaintiff to fall back on originnal consideration—Evidence Act, 1872, section 91—Stamp Act, 1879, section 34.

Plaintiff in his plaint alleged that "on "the 17th June 1897 defendant raised Rs. 500 "cash at Lahore and wrote the promis-"sory note. He agreed to repay the money "by monthly instalments of Rs. 100, and "further agreed to pay Re. 1 per cent. per "mensem as interest," that demand for payment had been made, and that the cause of action arose on the expiry of the period for the payment of each instalmnt, the suit being filed on the 14th October 1897 for three instalment and interest as above stated. The document referred to had affixed to it an anna stamp, and was in the following terms:—"Received from Mr. E. G., Superintendent "Punjab Dairy, the sum of Rs. 500 only "as advance, repayable by instalments of "one hundred per month, and to bear "interest at Rs. 12 per cent.—17 June 1897." It was signed by the defendant.

The first Court dismissed the suit on the ground that the document upon which it was based was a promissory note payable otherwise than on demand, and, being insufficiently stamped as such, could not, under section 34 of the Stamp Act, 1879, be admitted in evidence for any purpose, even on payment of a penalty, in a civil suit. Plaintiff applied for revision of this order, and it was contended on his behalf that the document bore a dual character, as a promissory note and as an admission of liability, and was admissible in evidence as an acknowledgment. It was further contended that the Rs. 500 were made up of advances for milk made at various times and that plaintiff was in any event entitled to fall back upon the original consideration of the contract.

EVIDENCE ACT, 1872—contd.

Section 91—concld.

Held, that the document upon which plaintiff based his suit was a promissory note, payable otherwise than on demand, and, being insufficiently stamped as such could not, under section 34 of the Stamp Act, be received in evidence or acted upon in a civil suit.

Held, further, that plaintiff was not entitled to aver against his plaint, or to amend his plaint in such a manner as to sue on the original consideration.

Held also, that from the frame of the suit it was clear that the document sued on embodied the contract between plaintiff and defendant, and was the contract out of which defendant's liability arose, and that under section 91 of the Evidence Act the document was the best evidence of the contract, and no other evidence of the terms thereof could be given. MR. O'GORMAN v. MAHTAB SINGH. 92 P R 1898

Section 92.

1. Suits to cancel bonds executed in favour of separate parties in respect of the same transaction—Evidence Act, 1872, section 92.

See CAUSE OF ACTION—V. MISJOINDER. 5 P R 1896

2. Hundi—Separate oral agreement to pay interest—Admissibility of.

See INTEREST. 52 P R 1911

3. Section 92, provisos 2 and 3—Contract reduced into writing—Admissibility of evidence of oral agreement constituting a condition precedent to the attaching of any obligation under such contract.

The plaintiff sued to recover the amount due on two promissory notes in the following words:—

"To Lalla Asa Ram.

"With reference to our verbal conversation of this morning, I promise to pay you "hereafter the sum of Rs. (2,400 in one and "Rs. 400 in the other) on account of your "claim against Messrs. C. W. Kinlock and "Sons.—C. W. Kinlock."

The defendant pleaded that there existed a separate oral agreement constituting a condition precedent to the attaching of the obligation expressed in the two notes. The oral agreement was to the effect that the amount should not be paid in cash, but be obtained by plaintiff from profits that would accrue from his trading in the sale of cotton on commission jointly with defendant. In that trade the shares of defendant and plaintiff were to be equal, but until the sum of Rs. 2,800 should have been realized by plaintiff, the entire profits were to be his. And it was contended that the word "hereafter" used in the notes alluded to this arrangement.

EVIDENCE ACT, 1872—contd.

Section 92—contd.

Held, by BOULNOIS and CAMPBELL, JJ. (LINDSAY, J. dissenting) that the alleged oral agreement was inconsistent with the notes.

Held, further by BOULNOIS and LINDSAY, JJ. (CAMPBELL, J. dissenting) that evidence of the alleged oral agreement was admissible under proviso 3, section 92 of the Evidence Act (I of 1872).

Per LINDSAY, J.—The alleged oral agreement was not inconsistent with the notes, the evidence was therefore also admissible under proviso 2, section 92 of the Evidence Act (I of 1872). KINLOCK v. ASA RAM. 51 P R 1877

4. Evidence Act (I of 1872), section 92—Bond—Plea that bond was given for money lent for immoral purpose—Admissibility of evidence in proof of such plea.

In a suit on a bond, defendant admitted execution, but pleaded that it was invalid, as plaintiff gave her the money to enable her to build an apartment in which she could carry on her trade as a prostitute. The lower Court, on the ground that there was a recital in the bond that the money was required by the defendant to enable her to build a stable and shops, held, with reference to the provisions of section 92 of the Evidence Act, that it was not competent to the Court to admit evidence for the purpose of varying or contradicting the terms of the written agreement between the parties.

Held, that the first proviso to section 92 of the Evidence Act shows that any fact may be proved which would invalidate any document, such as fraud, illegality etc., that as it was alleged by the defendant that the bond was invalid by reason of its having been given to secure money lent to promote an immoral purpose, the defendant was entitled to show, as pleaded by her, the purpose for which she borrowed the money from the plaintiff, that such purpose was an immoral one, and that it was known to the plaintiff at the time that he lent her the money; and that if she succeeded in proving these pleas, the plaintiff's suit would fail. MUSSAMMAT ALLAJULAI v. OUNKAR LAL. 61 P R 1882

5. Evidence Act (I of 1872), section 92, Cl. 4—Admissibility of evidence of oral agreement substituting new contract for contract in writing—Act IX of 1872, section 62.

Held, that clause 4 of section 92 of the Evidence Act does not exclude evidence of a subsequent oral agreement substituting a new contract for one reduced to writing and registered according to law, the said clause only referring to a subsequent oral agreement to rescind or modify such contract. JAGGAT SINGH v. DEVI DITTA MAL. 169 P R 1883

6 Evidence Act (I of 1872), section 92,

EVIDENCE ACT, 1872—contd.

Section 92—contd.

Cl. 4—Contract in writing—Transaction rescinding or modifying contract—Merger of previous transaction in new contract.

In a suit for redemption of mortgage in which the defendant pleaded a sale of the mortgaged property, held, that evidence of the sale was not excluded by the 4th proviso to section 92 of the Evidence Act, on the ground that it rescinded or modified the mortgage, the addition of a new contract, in which the previous transaction merges, being a very different thing from rescinding or modifying the former contract. BADHAWA MAL v. HIRA. 30 P R 1884

7. Exclusion of evidence of oral agreement to vary or contradict written instrument—Admissibility of evidence of subsequent new oral agreement superseding the old contract.

The provisions of section 92 of the Evidence Act discussed and explained and compared with the provisions of the English law from which they are borrowed.

The general rule which is embodied in the above section, against allowing verbal evidence to vary or contradict written instruments, is aimed at the exclusion of contemporaneous verbal evidence of this character, and superadded to this rule is another, embodied in proviso (4) to the section, which prevents the admission of verbal evidence even of a subsequent oral agreement, the effect of which is to rescind or modify a contract, grant or disposition of property which is by law required to be in writing or which has been registered according to the law in force for the time being as to the registration of documents. The terms of proviso (4) do not, however, exclude evidence of a distinct subsequent new oral agreement superseding the old contract in toto.

The distinction between a substituted new agreement by novation and the mere alteration of an old contract is that in the former case the old contract is extinguished, while in the latter it remains binding subject to the alteration which the parties have agreed to. LAKHU RAM v. AMIR KHAN. 14 P R 1889

8. Joint suit by alleged partners in respect of cases made in the names of certain individual members of the alleged partnership—Joint undivided Hindu family.

Plaintiffs in their notice of action described themselves as Toll Bar contractors, Dharmpur, and residents of Simla, and stated that they intended to sue the Secretary of State for India in Council for damages for breach of the terms of three several leases granted to them and the plaint was in conformity with the said notice. The leases filed purported to be executed as follows :—(1) that for the first year by plaintiff III alone; (2) that for the second year by plaintiffs I and II alone; and (3) that for the third year also by plaintiffs I and II alone. The plaint contained no statement of the circumstances which entitled the three plaintiffs to sue jointly for damages in respect of each of the three leases, none of which purported to be granted to all of them, but in answer to defendant's first plea that he had contracted if at all with pliantiff III alone in respect of the first lease and with plaintiffs I and II alone in respect of the two other leases, plaintiffs replied that the contract was with all three and all were entitled to sue because "they were then and still are members of a trading partnership and also of an undivided Hindu family." Defendant having thereupon rejoined that the notice of action was insuffıcent the lower Court dismissed the plaintiffs' suit on a preliminary issue, that the mere fact that plaintiffs are partners or members of a joint Hindu family was not sufficient in law to include them all in the contract, if any—so as to enable them to sue jointly.

EVIDENCE ACT, 1872—contd.

Section 92—contd.

Held, that the fact that the lease for the first year was in the name of plaintiff III alone, and the two other leases in the names of plaintiffs I and II alone, was not of itself conclusive proof that plaintiffs were not jointly interested therein, and that section 92 of the Evidence Act, 1872, would not debar plaintiffs I and II from proving that they were interested in the first lease or plaintiff III from proving that he was interested in the two other leases. TANI MAHESHA v. SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA. 67 P R 1894

9. Provincial Small Cause Court Act, 1887, section 25—Revision—Wagering transaction—Written contract—Admissibility of evidence to prove that contract was void under section 30 of the Contract Act—Evidence Act, 1872, section 92.

The Judge of the Small Cause Court dismissed plaintiffs' suit on the ground that the evidence proved that the written agreement sued upon, which purported to be one for sale of silver, was not a bonâ fide transaction, no actual interchange of silver being contemplated but merely an adjustment of profit and loss with reference to a difference in the market rates. Plaintiffs applied to the Chief Court for revision of the order of dismissal on the ground, (1) that there was no evidence to show that delivery of silver was not intended, and (2) that oral evidence was inadmissible to contradict the terms of the written agreement according to which silver was to be delivered.

Held, that as there was evidence on which the Judge of the Small Cause Court might base his finding that the transaction was a wager, that finding should not be disturbed on revision.

Held, further, that the oral evidence was admissible, under the first proviso to section 92 of the Evidence Act, for the purpose of invalidating the written agreement.

I. L. R. XVII Mad. 480 and I. L. R. XII Bom. 585, followed; I. L. R. IX Calc. 791, not followed. DHOLAN DAS v. RALYA SHAH. 85 P R 1898

10. Mortgage or sale—Oral evidence to prove that an apparent sale was a mortgage—Admissibility of parol evidence to vary a written contract—Conduct of parties—Fraud or mistake.

Held, that under section 92 of the Indian

EVIDENCE ACT, 1872—contd.

Section 92—contd.

Evidence Act, 1872, oral evidence is not admissible to vary or alter the terms of a written contract in which there is no fraud or mistake, and in which the parties intend to express, in writing, what their words import, but that evidence of acts and conduct of the parties subsequent to the deed is admissible to show that something different from the written contract was intended by them.

Balkishen Das v. Legge (I. L. R. XXII All. 149), Muhammad Ali Hussain v. Mir Nazar Ali (V Calc. W. N. 326), and Kashee Nath Chatterji v. Chundu Charn Banerjee (5 W. R. 68) followed. Bhagwan Sahai v. Bhagwan Din (I. L. R. XII All. 387) and Ali Ahmad v. Rahmatulla (I. L. R. XIV All. 195), referred to. Baksu Lakshmun v. Govinda Kanji (I. L. R. IV Bom. 594), Behari Lall Doss v. Tejnarain (I. L. R. X Calc. 764), Hem Chunder Soor v. Kally Churn Das (I. L. R. IX Calc. 528), Venkatratman v. Reddieh (I. L. R. XIII Mad. 495), Rakken v. Allagappudayon (I L. R. XVI Mad. 80), Balkishen Das v. Legge (I. L. R. XIX All. 434), Preo Nath Shaha v. Madhu Sudan Bhuiya (I. L. R. XXV Calc. 603), and Govinda v. Jehsa Premaji (I. L. R. VII Bom 73), dissented from. ABDUL GHAFUR KHAN v. ABDUL KADIR AND OTHERS. 72 P R 1901

11. Admissibility of evidence to vary terms of a written contract.

In 1901 plaintiff sued for settlement of accounts. The case was referred to arbitration. The arbitrator having induced the parties to enter into a compromise to the effect that they had settled all the accounts and had no further dispute, forwarded the same to the Court together with a petition asking that the suit should be consigned to the record room. The parties acknowledged the terms of the compromise before the Court, whereupon the suit was dismissed.

Subsequently the plaintiff brought a second suit against the same defendant which was in substance to the same purport and for the same relief with the addition of a statement to the effect that the defendant had in the presence of the arbitrator promised to explain the accounts to him and to pay whatever sum was found due thereon, provided that a compromise was first filed in the case then pending, that although relying on that promise compromise had been filed in Court, the defendant had not yet rendered the accounts as agreed. The defendant objected that the alleged promise being wholly inconsistent with the terms of the compromise, evidence of such oral promise was inadmissible under the provisions of section 92 of the Indian Evidence Act.

Held, that the compromise should not be treated as the original contract between the parties, but must be held with reference to the surrounding circumstances and the acts, conduct and intention of the parties at the time of its execution to be a mere recital of the terms of the settlement for the information of the arbitrator and to support his petition to the Court, and verbal evidence was therefore admissible as to any covenant omitted in it.

EVIDENCE ACT, 1872—contd.

Section 92—concld.

Indarjit v. Lal Chand (I. L. R. XVIII All. 168), Sah Lal Chand v. Inderjit (I. L. R. XXII All. 370 P. C.) Hukam Chand v. Hira Lal (I. L. R. III Bom. 159), Banapa v. Sundar Das Jagjiwan Das (I. L. R. I Bom. 333), Kashee Nath Chatterji v. Chandy Charn Banerjee (5 W. R. 68), Abdul Ghafur Khan v. Abdul Kadir (72 P. R. 1901), and Prabh Dyal v. Gurmukh (98 P. R. 1902). THAKUR DAS v. JASWANT RAI. 1 P R 1904

12. And 94—Admissibility of evidence of conduct of parties subsequent to contract.

Held that, although, under section 92 of the Evidence Act, no evidence of any oral agreement or statement can be admitted as between the parties to a contract in writing for the purpose of contradicting, varying, adding to or subtracting from its terms, evidence of the conduct of the parties subsequent to the execution of the document is admissible—

(1) as it may serve to show what the real meaning of the contract was, and

(2) as it may operate as an estoppel when it amounts to part performance of the contract.

Held also, (a) that on the evidence produced in this case the defendant had succeeded in showing that the real contract was different from that set out in the Pro-note sued upon and was as alleged by defendant; and (b) that as the plaintiff had never set defendant right about the terms of the contract as understood by the defendant, the plaintiff was now estopped from setting up different terms. BULAKI MAL v. FLOYD. 27 P R 1911

Section 108.

Presumption of death—Rule of Muhammadan Law superseded by Evidence Act.

The rule of Muhammadan Law which refuses to presume a person dead until ninety years from the date of his birth is a rule of evidence, and not of substantive law, and is superseded in all cases in which the question of the presumption whether a man is alive or dead arises under section 108, Indian Evidence Act (cf. also section 2 of the Act). IMDAD ALI v. GHULAM JILANI. 42 P R 1892

Section 109.

See BURDEN OF PROOF.
See PARTNERSHIP. 11 P R 1897

Section 110.

See BURDEN OF PROOF.
See MORTGAGE, REDEMPTION. 38 P R 1893

Section 111.

See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 16. 77 P R 1903

Section 112.

1. Child born 330 days after date of last access—Legitimacy.
See DIVORCE. 77 P R 1911

2. Presumption as to paternity of child born of a married women during lifetime of

EVIDENCE ACT, 1872—contd.

Section 112—concld.
husband—Woman living with another person —Right of children to maintenance from such person.

Held, that the presumption that children born of a married woman during the lifetime of her husband are the legitimate offsprings of that woman and her husband is not conclusive proof of their legitimacy and must be regarded as fully rebutted where the woman admittedly lived for years with another person and they both asserted such children to be the offsprings of their union. In such a case the children thus begotten, though illegitimate, are entitled to receive maintenance from their natural father. BAHADUR SINGH v. VIRU. 28 P R 1906

3. Husband and wife—Legitimacy of children—Presumption as to legitimacy of child born after marriage.

Held, that on the birth of a child during marriage the presumption of legitimacy is conclusive, no matter how soon the birth occurs after the marriage. UMRA v. MUHAMMAD HAYAT. 79 P R 1907

4. Muhammadan Law—Acknowledgment —Child born more than 280 days after the dissolution of his mother's marriage but less than 6 months after second marriage,—legitimacy of—Indian Evidence Act, I of 1872, section 112.

One Mussammat R. was divorced by her first husband on the 1st October 1895. She married G. N. on the 4th February 1896 and bore a child on the 17th July 1896, the child was thus born more than 280 days after the dissolution of his mother's marriage with her first husband but less than 6 months after her marriage with G. N. The plaintiff contended that under Muhammadan Law no acknowledgment of paternity by G. N. could legitimise the child, and it was found that the iddat of repudiation had terminated before the marriage with G. N., although the child must have been procreated before the termination of that iddat. G. N. acknowledged the child and treated it as his own.

Held, that the marriage of Mussammat R. with G. N., though irregular, was not void, that when the child was born a marriage between his mother and G. N. subsisted; that section 112 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, was applicable to the case and the child was entitled to inherit to G. N. as his legitimate son. NUR-UL-HASAN v. MUHAMMAD HASAN. 78 P R 1910

Section 114.
See INTEREST. 110 P R 1879

See BURDEN OF PROOF. 121 P R 1882

See HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY. 13 P R 1883
86 P R 1886
45 P R 1899

Section 115.
See ESTOPPEL—Passim.

EVIDENCE ACT, 1872—concld.

Section 116.
Landlord and tenant—Suit by landlord for rent—Denial by tenant of landlord's title—Estoppel of tenant.

Held, that in a suit for rent it is not competent to the tenant to impeach the title of his landlord in whose favour he has executed a lease on the ground that his ostensible landlord was only a benamidar for a third party.

Jai Narayan Bose v. Kadimibani Dasi (7 B. L. R. 723), followed. Donzelle v. Kidar Nath (7 B. L. R. 720) and Mussammat Inderbuttee Kooer v. Shaikh Mahbub Ali (24 W. R. 44), dissented from. BOGAR v. KARAM SINGH. 141 P R 1906.

EXCHANGE.

1. Not a sale for purposes of pre-emption
See PRE-EMPTION—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS. 12 P R 1884
111 P R 1885
97 P R 1900

2. See PUNJAB TENANACY ACT, 1868, SECTION 7. 124 P R 1884

3. See REGISTRATION ACT, SECTION 17. 120 P R 1894

4. The registration of an instrument of exchange, the first portion of which was nothing more than a recital of what had already taken place: and the operative part merely provided for the payment of a penalty by either party who prevented the arrangement being fully and finally carried into effect was not compulsory. AMIR-UD-DIN v. JAMAL-UD-DIN. 26 P R 1891

5. A permanent transfer of land in a village for a sum of money, plus something that is not money, does not, merely because of such addition, of necessity cease to be a sale. GUL MUHAMMAD KHAN v. KHAN AHMAD SHAH. 29 P R 1893

6. An exchange which is intended to be an exchange is not a sale merely because the value of the properties exchanged is equalised by the addition of a comparatively small sum of money, or by the mere fact that the two deeds of sale were drawn up contemporaneously which was merely the method employed to arrange the transfer. NATHU MAL v. HAR DIAL. 97 P R 1900

7. Held, that a widow, in possession of her deceased husband's land, is not authorised by custom to effect an exchange of land except for necessity. MUSSAMMAT NIHALI v. LEHNA. 2 P R 1911

EXCISE ACT, XII OF 1896.

Partnership between a licensee under Act XII of 1896 and other persons—Valid contract—Public policy—Contract Act, 1872, section 23.

A., being the holder of a license under the Excise Act, XII of 1896, for wholesale vend of liquor entered into an agreement of partnership, with B. and C. in the business carried on under the license. One of the conditions subject to which the license was granted, was "No license is transferable."

EXCISE ACT, XII OF 1896—concld.

Held, (1) that under the circumstances of the case there had been no transfer of the license within the meaning of the rules;

(2) that the contract was not void as opposed to public policy but was capable of being enforced by one partner against the other.

Jai Narain v. Sultan Muhammad Khan (96 P. R. 1902), referred to. BASHESHAR DAS v. GOBIND RAM. 114 P R 1906

EXCLUSION FROM CASTE.

See CUSTODY OF WIFE. 18 P R 1877

EXCLUSION FROM INHERITANCE.

See HINDU LAW—INHERITANCE.

EXECUTION OF DECREE.

See ATTACHMENT.
See ARREST.

1. Appeal after execution of decree.
See APPEAL—II. COMPETENCY OF. 82 P R 1868

2. Execution—Imprisonment.
See APPEAL—II. COMPETENCY OF. 22 P R 1871

3. Appeal from order refusing to release judgment-debtor arrested in.
See APPEAL—II. COMPETENCY OF. 55 P R 1886

4. Order in execution by Munsiff in suit other than Small Cause not exceeding Rs. 500—Course of appeal.
See APPEAL—III. COURSE OF APPEAL. 115 P R 1886

5. Order passed by Munsiff in execution in suit not cognizable by Small Cause Court—Decree—Course of appeal.
See APPEAL—III. COURSE OF APPEAL. 4 P R 1887

6. Order passed in execution in small cause—Decree giving effect to compromise dealing with immovable property—Course of appeal.
See APPEAL—III. COURSE OF APPEAL. 55 P R 1887

7. Material irregularities in publishing or conducting the sale—Fatal defects—Non-compliance with the provisions of the Code as regards attachment.
See CAUSE OF ACTION—VI. SPLITTING CAUSE OF ACTION. 76 P R 1890

8. Ex parte decree—Application to set aside, made after time—Discretion of Court to admit.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 13. 32 P R 1878

1285

EXECUTION OF DECREE—contd.

9. Power of Court to execute decree in excess of the limits of its pecuniary jurisdiction as an original Court.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 6. 9 P R 1901

10. Application for attachment—Effect of objection by defendant dismissed for default.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 8. 62 P R 1894

11. Money paid into Court under section 108 of the Civil Procedure Code—Ex parte decree upheld—Application by decree-holder for payment of deposit—Execution of decree.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 13. 8 P R 1898

12. Decree silent as to instalments fixed by judgment—Power of executing Court to go behind decree—Stay of proceedings to allow amendment of decree—Stay of proceeding to allow amendment of decree—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 206, 239*—Court ordering execution to issue before any instalment had fallen due—Execution sale—Judgment-debtor alleging fraud and injury—Premature confirmation of sale.*
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XX, R. 6. 61 P R 1887

13. Decree too indefinite to be capable of execution.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XX, R. 6. 67 P R 1887

14. Decree of Court executing decree—Clerical error—Amendment of decree—Stay of execution.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 152. 78 P R 1889

15. Jurisdiction of Court to attach salary disbursed outside local limits of Courts' jurisdiction.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 39. 40 P R 1895

16. Sale of property outside jurisdiction of Court in execution of decree—Jurisdiction.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 38. 8 P R 1902

17. Power of Court to which decree has been transmitted to transmit to another Court for execution.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 42. 83 P R 1887

18. Twelve years' old decree.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 48—Passim.

19. Each of several assignees of portions of a decree not entitled to execution separately.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 48. 19 P R 1889

20. Decree—Provision for payment at a certain date.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 48. 199 P R 1890
13 P R 1892

1286

EXECUTION OF DECREE—contd.

21. Execution of decree—Application by representative of deceased decree-holder—Absence of certificate under Act VII of 1889, section 4*—Subsequent applications.*
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 48. 27 P R 1894

22. Hindu widow assigning decree obtained by her deceased husband—Effect of absence of certificate under the Act of 1889.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 16. 37 P R 1893

23. Pre-emption suit—Execution of decree—Transfer of right to execute decree for present possession, right of ownership being reserved—Refusal of execution Court to allow transferee to execute decree—Suit by transferee to establish his right—Procedure.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 16. 78 P R 1896

24. Execution of decree—Application for attachment and sale of property—Subsequent application for arrest of judgment-debtor—Form of application—Property duly attached and deposited with care-taker—Disappearance of attached property—Right of decree-holder to proceed against person of judgment-debtor.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 11. 21 P R 1899

25. Evidence admissible in proceeding under section 244 (c), Civil Procedure Code.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 28 P R 1885

26. Order refusing execution against surety—" Party to the suit "—" Decree "
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 104 P R 1886

27. Passed against person in his representative capacity—Party to suit.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 88 P R 1886

28. Question for Court executing the decree—Parties—Representative.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 12 P R 1887
47 P R 1887
87 P R 1887
97 P R 1887
58 P R 1888
9 P R 1889
151 P R 1890

29. Party to suit—Surety.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 99 P R 1887

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 145. 77 P R 1895

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XLI, R. 10. 136 P R 1892

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XLI, R. 23. 59 P R 1896

1287

EXECUTION OF DECREE—contd.

30. Mesne profits—
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 60 P R 1890

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 144. 28 P R 1896

31. Interest on money taken out of Court in execution of decree—Separate suit.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 82 P R 1896

32. Power of Court executing transferred decree to implead representative of deceased judgment-debtor—" Court which passed the decree "—Application for execution dismissed for default—Subsequent application without fresh certificate from Court which passed the decree.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 70 P R 1897

33. Application for execution of whole decree by one of several joint decree-holders—Dismissal of application.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 28 P R 1898

34. Partnership suit—Specific sum—Realisation by execution of decree or by separate suit.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908 SECTION 47. 48 P R 1900

35. Execution proceedings—Jurisdiction of Court to entertain application after full satisfaction of the decree being entered.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 63 P R 1901

36. Stay of execution pending suit between decree-holder and judgment-debtor.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 29. 41 P R 1904

37. Application by judgment-debtor that more had been realized from him than was due under the decree—Procedure.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 45 P R 1904

38. Attachment of property—Judgment debtor adjudicated insolvent and property vested in official assignee—Objection to attachment by judgment-debtor in interest of official assignee—Letter from official assignee praying for release of property.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI R. 24. 57 P R 1897

39. Legal representative not bound to pay all the creditors of the deceased—" Duly applied such property of the deceased," meaning of.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 52. 68 P R 1895

40. Against surety.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908 SECTION 145. 109 P R 1886

EXECUTION OF DECREE—contd.

41. Agreement to give time to judgment debtor—Sanction of "Court which passed the decree."
Under CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, (ACT XIV OF 1882), SECTION 257, now obsolete. 61 P R 1886

42. Court compelling decree-holder to grant time to judgment-debtor.
Under CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, (ACT XIV OF 1882), SECTION 257, now obsolete. 127 P R 1886

43. Agreement for satisfaction of judgment-debtor—Decree passed by Judicial Assistant Commissioner—Jurisdiction of District Judge to sanction such agreement after Judicial Assistant Commissioner's Court has ceased to exist.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1882, SECTION 257 (a). 25 P R 1887

44. Execution of decree—Payment by instalments—Agreement to give time for satisfaction of judgment-debt—Alteration of decree.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1882, SECTION 257 (a). 26 P R 1894

45. Uncertified adjustment of decree.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1882, SECTION 257 (a). 54 P R 1894

46. Bond executed in satisfaction of decree—Subsequent suit on bond.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1882, SECTION 257 (a). 16 P R 1900

47. Competency of one of several joint decree-holders to certify satisfaction of entire decree.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 2. 34 P R 1906

48. Uncertified adjustmant out of Court—Subsequent execution by decree-holder—Pleas of adjustment not maintainable.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 2. 44 P R 1906

49. Execution—Decree for restoration of parnala.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 32. 107 P R 1889

50. Execution of decree—Decree for specific movables or their value—Construction.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 32. 64 P R 1890

51. Sale of share of residential house by one of four Hindu co-sharers—House occupied by tenant—Right of vendee to joint physical possession.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 35. 16 P R 1898

52. Decree for partition of estate—Partition referred to Collector—Power of Civil Court to interfere.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 54. 73 P R 1889

EXECUTION OF DECREE—contd.

53. Attachment—Right of residence in house belonging to a shrine.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 60. 8 P R 1900

54. Execution of decree—Attachment of house mortgaged by agriculturists—Liability of such house to attachment.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 60 (c). 1 P R 1889

55. Attachment of houses belonging to agriculturists.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 60 (c). 47 P R 1897

56. Building site of houses occupied by agriculturists not liable to attachment and sale in execution of decree.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 60 (c). 59 P R 1902

57. Liability of jagir income to attachment.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 60 (g).
133 P R 1888
47 P R 1893
4 P R 1894 Rev.

58. Liability of political pension to attachment.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 60 (g). 137 P R 1890
35 P R 1900

59. Attachment of pay of Officer of British Regiment serving in India.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 60 (h). 59 P R 1897

60. Validity of attachment.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI R. 54. 83 P R 1898

61. Sale of attached property during the continuance of the attachment—Property belonging to a third person not a party to the decree.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 54. 139 P R 1893

62. Attachment and sale of immovable property in execution of decree—Private alienation of property after attachment and sale but prior to confirmation—Title of alienee against the auction purchaser.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 64. 11 P R 1906

63. Attachment—Property liable to be attached—Cause of action—Form of plaint for declaration that a judgment-debtor had a mortgage on certain property—Plaint—Relief claimed.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI. R. 63. 111 P R 1900

64. Application to share in assets by decree-holder who has not applied for execution.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 73 93 P R 1889

EXECUTION OF DECREE—contd.

65. Ratable distribution among rival decree-holders. 1908
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 73. 60 P R 1892

66. Suit for refund of sale proceeds paid in accordance with order for distribution under section 295.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 73. 65 P R 1895

67. "Assets realized by sale or otherwise in execution of a decree"—Money realized under an ultra vires attachment—Ratable distribution.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 73. P R 1903

68. Questions for Court executing the decree—Suit for compensation for injury caused by irregularity in conducting sale.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 78. 14 P R 1886

69. Irregularity in conducting execution sale—Failure to obtain sanction of Financial Commissioner—Substantial injury.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 90. 5 P R 1888

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 97. 95 P R 1888

70. Sale in execution of decree—Sale in favour of decree-holder—Objections to confirmation of sale—Substantial injury.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 90. 30 P R 1899

71. Salable interest of judgment-debtor.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 93. 42 P R 1896

72. Application under section 318, Civil Procedure Code, for possession of house purchased at sale in execution of decree—Refusal of such application—Subsequent suit for possession—House sold privately by judgment debtor before grant of certificate of sale—Irregularities in attachment and sale.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI. R. 95.
92 P R 1893

73. Incompetency of judgment-debtor to charge land farmed out by collector.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SCHEDULE, III. 42 P R 1899

74. Order by execution Court for imprisonment of judgment-debtor.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 55. 69 P R 1895

75. Arrest and imprisonment in execution of decree—Subsequent application stating judgment-debtor's intention to apply to be declared an insolvent—Rejection of application—Illegal confinement—Duress.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 55. 59 P R 1898

1291

EXECUTION OF DECREE—contd.

76. Correlation of—Subsistence allowance of civil prisoner—Clothing, bedding and cooking utensils of prisoner.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 39. 43 P R 1893

77. Insolvency—Decree-holder whose name has been entered as a creditor by a judgment-debtor executing his decree.
96 P R 1891

78. Death of decree-holder—Abatement of execution proceedings—Admission of application to set aside abatement after time—Sufficient cause—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 365, 366, 371, 372 A.—Limitation Act, 1877, section 5.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 3. 39 P R 1903

79. Applicability of section 373 of the Code of Civil Procedure to proceedings in execution of decree.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXIII, R 1. 37 P R 1892

80. Effect of section 373, Civil Procedure Code, on proceedings in execution of decree.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXIII, R. 1. 22 P R 1905

81. Partition suit—Decree omitting to specify the particular property decreed—Determination of such question by executing Court.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXVI, R. 13 31 P R 1887

82. Commission to make partition after disposal of the suit.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXVI, R. 13. 124 P R 1893

83. Stay of execution of decree for restitution of conjugal rights—Substantial loss to party applying.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908 O XLI, R. 5.
2 P R 1894

84. Stay of sale of immovable property in execution of decree—Appeal against which is pending.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XLI, R. 6. 120 P R 1890

85. Execution of decree of Appellate Court—Restoration of land to party dispossessed.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 144. 28 P R 1896

86. Custody of wife—Execution.
See CUSTODY OF WIFE. 7 P R 1868
2 P R 1871
15 P R 1876

87. Liability of son's interest in ancestral property to attachment and sale in.
See CUSTOM, INHERITANCE.
113 P R 1886

1292

EXECUTION OF DECREE—contd.

88. Decree payable by instalments—Default in payment of instalment—Limitation.
See DECREE—3. CONSTRUCTION OF.
100 P R 1902

89. Decree based on a judgment in terms of an award—Award charging jagir income with the amount due—Decree silent as to such charge—Execution of decree—Power of Court to refer to judgment or award to interpret the decree.
See DECREE—3. CONSTRUCTION OF.
95 P R 1906

90. District Judge passing decree for dissolution of marriage (subject to confirmation) with costs against respondent—Power to execute the decree as to costs before confirmation.
See DIVORCE.
35 P R 1887

91. Sale of ancestral property in satisfaction of father's debt, liability of son's share.
See HINDU LAW, ALIENATION OF ANCESTRAL PROPERTY.
87 P R 1887

92. Suit against a member of joint Hindu family—Death of defendant pending suit—Decree against son as legal representative—Right of son to question the legality of the debt covered by the decree in execution proceedings.
See HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY.
147 P R 1907

93. Right of decree-holder who has omitted to register his claim to take out execution against insolvent.
See INSOLVENCY. 150 P R 1882

94. Decree for partition—Execution—Jurisdiction.
See JURISDICTION OF REVENUE COURT.
126 P R 1879

95. Suit for attached property.
See JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT. 167 P R 1882
97 P R 1883
91 P R 1886

96. Power of Court to execute decree in excess of the limits of its pecuniary jurisdiction as an Original Court.
See JURISDICTION. 31 P R 1887

SEE CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 70 P R 1897

97. Suit to establish right to attach and sell property in execution of decree.
See JURISDICTION. 50 P R 1890
121 P R 1890

98. Sale by Collector at instance of Civil Court—Jurisdiction of Civil Court in execution of decree to confirm such sale.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 83 P R 1896

99. Execution of decree for money.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1859, SECTION 2.
7 P R 1878

1293

EXECUTION OF DECREE—contd.

100. Execution of decree.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1871, SCH. II, ART. 167. 5 P R 1875
51 P R 1876
89 P R 1876
46 P R 1876

101. Limitation—application made after 1st October 1877.
See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SECTIONS 1, 3. 23 P P 1883
143 P R 1883

102. Limitation—Acknowledgment of decree-holder's right to execute.
See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SECTION 19. 28 P R 1885

103. Application to revive suspended proceedings—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCH. II, ART. 178, Passim.

104. Limitation to application for.
See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCH. II, ART. 179, Passim.

105. Decree whose execution has become barred by limitation—Extinguishment of right.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 28.
3 P R 1887

106. Suit to recover amount paid out of Court in execution of decree
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCH. II, ART. 97. 63 P R 1892

107. Decree providing that execution shall take place after expiry of a certain period—Date from which limitation begins to run.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCH. II, ART. 178.
65 P R 1897 F B

108. Step in aid of execution—Revival of previous application.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCH. II, ART. 179. 27 P R 1888

109. Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCH. II, ART. 179.
CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 48. 109 P R 1889
40 P R 1898
9 P R 1891

110. Execution of decree—Limitation—Subsequent order—Modification or alteration of original decree.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCH. II, ART. 179.
89 P R 1894

111. Execution of decree—Attachment and sale—Sale subsequently set aside for irregularity—Resale without fresh attachment—Application for execution of decree or for revival of suspended proceedings.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCH. II, ART. 179.
106 P R 1894

1294

EXECUTION OF DECREE—contd.

112. Application for execution not in accordance with law— Step in aid of execution.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCH. II, ART. 179. 98 P R 1901

113. Mortgage by Hindu widow—Attachment in execution of decree obtained on the mortgage—Claim by collateral to attached property—Order passed against claimant to establish his title—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, ART. 11. 32 P R 1904

114. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 278—283—Attachment in execution of decree —Application by third party for removal of attachment—Default of claimant—Claim disallowed—Suit by claimant to establish right to attached property—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ART. 11. 87 P R 1904

Step-in aid of execution.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ART. 179. 18 P R 1904 55 P R 1904

116. Defective application for—when treated to be a step in aid of execution.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ART. 179. 116 P R 1907

117. Step in aid of.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ART. 179. 103 P R 1908 F B

118. Second suit for mesne profits.
See MESNE PROFITS. 44 P R 1869 72 P R 1875

119. Execution of decree for possession of immovable property—Obstruction by person other than the judgment-debtors—Procedure.
See OBSTRUCTION TO EXECUTION OF DECREE. 118 P R 1907

120. Execution of decree—Competency of judgment-debtor on a subsequent application for execution to raise objection on ground that a preceding application was barred— Res judicata—Limitation Act, 1877, section 11, articles 178, 179.
See PARTITION. 47 P R 1906

121. Sale of land in execution of decree—Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900, section 16.
See PUNJAB ALIENATION OF LAND ACT, 1900, SECTION 16. 45 P R 1902

122. Admissibility in evidence of certificate of sale without registration.
See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17 14 P R 1839

123. Omission to execute within thirty days decree obtained in suit to compel registration—Effect of such omission.
See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 77. 70 P R 1887

1295

EXECUTION OF DECREE—contd.

124. Suit for redemption of mortgage—Previous unexecuted decree for redemption—Right to maintain second suit.
See "RES JUDICATA." 20 P R 1887

125. Order releasing property from attachment—Finality of such order.
See RES JUDICATA. 90 P R 1902

126. Court refusing to execute decree on ground of indefiniteness—Power of Court to make enquiry or take evidence as to meaning of decree.
See REVISION IN CIVIL CASES. 16 P R 1894

127. Refusal to release property from attachment—Power of Chief Court to revise such order.
See REVISION IN CIVIL CASES. 8 P R 1897

128. Suit for land allotted in—Formal possession.
See RIGHT TO SUE. 75 P R 1882 103 P R 1884

129. Suit for money due under an arrangement made by the Court in satisfaction of decree.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT, JURISDICTION OF. 74 P R 1887

130. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 287, 311—Material irregularity in publishing or conducting a sale—Omission to state the nature of property.
See SALE IN EXECUTION OF DECREE. 47 P R 1905

131. Release of debtor after furnishing security—Right of decree-holder to recover the decree from surety by execution, Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 337 A.
See SURETY. 50 P R 1905

132. Execution cannot issue against the estate of a deceased person, unless there is some one on the record to represent the deceased. GOKUL SUDH v. WILLSEY. 65 P R 1867

133. Suit to set aside the sale of immovable property.
In a suit to set aside the sale of a house and premises in execution of decree it was found that the Court making the decree had no jurisdiction: and that the Court executing the decree sold before the expiration of the time required by law between advertisement and sale. Sale cancelled accordingly with mesne profits, as the purchaser had full notice from plaintiff, but the former allowed compensation for bonâ fide improvements. HAMILTON v. PATTERSON. 8 P R 1868

134. Execution sales.
Where there is substantial error as to the subject-matter of a sale in execution of decree, that sale cannot be repaired and made efficacious by a subsequent investigation as to the nature of the property sold,

1296

EXECUTION OF DECREE—contd

irrespectively of the terms of the sale. If the Court cannot definitely decide what the purchaser had right to consider as sold to him, the proper course is to cancel the sale. JOWREE MULL v. FENWICK. 89 P R 1868

135. Plaintiffs having established their right of pre-emption, obtained a decree for 8 beegas of land in defendant's possession. In execution, the Tahsildar (incorrectly) reported that the decree was merely for mutation of names, which had been effected, and not for a specific plot; and that plaintiff's refusal to give a dakhilnamah unless put into possession was due to spite. Upon this the Deputy Commissioner referred plaintiffs to the Civil Court which made the decree, or if so advised to a separate suit for the specific piece of ground claimed. Plaintiffs accordingly brought a separate suit, which the Deputy Commissioner (upheld in appeal by Commissioner) dismissed, on the ground that the matter was one for butwara and not for a Civil suit. The Chief Court dismissed the plaintiffs' appeal from this order on the ground that their proper remedy was to execute the original decree for possession which the lower Courts, on the incorrect report of the Tahsildar, had refused. BIRJ LALL v. BURKUT ALI. 109 P R 1868

136. Interest.
Where the decree did not provide for the payment of interest, held, that the Court executing the decree, or the appellate Court, could not award it, although the judgment-debtor promised to pay it while the decree was in course of execution. Such promise could go no further than to afford a new cause of action. Thakoor Dass v. Mahomed Buksh (No. 15 of 1866, Civil Reference), and JUSSOO MULL v. AZIM JOO. 30 P R 1869

137. Where the copy of a decree is transmitted for execution in another Court the former Court is prevented from executing the decree until the transmitted copy is returned with a certified result. KHOOSALA v. MUSUDDA SINGH. 49 P R 1869

138. Held, that a plaintiff was not entitled to claim in a Civil Court the execution of the order of a Revenue Officer awarding upon partition a certain portion of the common land of the village to him in virtue of his share. NIDHAN SINGH v. ATTUR SINGH. 54 P R 1869

139. A house in cantonments is not property in land within the notification (No. 1225 of 1866) requiring the sanction of the Chief Court for sale; "land" meaning immovable property subject to a settlement of land revenue. MOOTSUDDEE MULL v. ABDOOLA KHAN. 26 P R 1870

140. Act VIII of 1859, section 387—Execution of decree—Court executing decree of another Court—Power of, to inquire into adjustment.

EXECUTION OF DECREE—contd.

Proceedings in execution of a decree in a suit pending at the time of the introduction of Act VIII of 1859, are governed by that Act, and not by the old law. Section 387 of the Act does not relate to such proceedings.

Section 11 of Act XXIII of 1861 does not allow a Court executing the decree of another Court to determine questions relating to sums alleged to have been paid in Satisfaction of the decree. INNIS v. THE DELHI BANK.

51 P R 1870

141 The commanding Officer acting under section 177, Act V of 1869, does not represent the deceased. IN RE THE ESTATE OF JEMADAR NIHAL SINGH. 85 P R 1870

142. Act VIII of 1859, sections 206, 208—Payment without notice.

A and B obtained a joint decree against C, in which A's interest was Rs. 2,787-2-7 and B's Rs. 471. A assigned his interest in the decree to B, and under section 208, Civil Procedure Code, the Court ordered execution against C in favour of B solely. Subsequently A petitioned the Court to cancel the assignment, and allow him (A) to be again recognized as one of the decree-holders; the Court assented, and passed an order accordingly. B obtained an injunction to restrain C from paying A, and also appealed from the order cancelling the assignment. This order was reversed on appeal, the decree being held to be B's solely; but in the meantime, and before the injunction was served on C A received the amount of the decree from C, held, that B could not execute the decree against C. BERTOLA v. JEEWUN RAM. 29 P R 1871

143. Act VIII of 1859, section 206—Adjustment certified to Court.

Kishen Chand was liable as surety for the payment of the amount of a certain money decree. The judgment-creditor gave Kishen Chand out of Court a receipt for Rs. 1,150 stating in the receipt that the matter was settled as far as Kishen Chand was concerned. Subsequently the judgment-creditor applied for execution against Kishen Chand for the full amount of the decree Rs. 1,350. Kishen Chand produced the receipt in Court with a view to stay execution and the judgment-creditor, on being questioned admitted that he had signed the receipt, but urged that he had done so because Kishen Chand threatened to become bankrupt. The Court disallowed execution against Kishen Chund. On appeal the judgment-creditor again contended that the receipt was given under duress, and further, that as the adjustment was made out of Court, he should still be allowed to execute the decree against Kishen Chand. Held, that the adjustmen was virtually certified to the Court under section 206, and that the order of the Lower Court was correct. BHOWANI DASS v. KISHEN CHAND. 32 P R 1871

144. Execution against surety.

A decree cannot be executed againsts a person who after the decree is passed, becomes surety for the performance of it. BUNSIDHAR v BEHARI LALL. 62 P R 1871

EXECUTION OF DECREE—contd.

145. Act II of 1863, section 14—Execution of decree of Privy Council—Proper procedure pointed out.

A party seeking to execute a decree or order of Her Majesty in Council, should bring the decree or order to the High Court [in the Punjab, the Chief Court], and ask that Court to enforce and execute the decree; whereupon it becomes the duty of that Court, under section 14 of Act II of 1863, to give directions for that purpose to the Court by which the suit was originally tried. It is no objection to the execution of a decree or order of Her Majesty in Council, that the decree or order is declaratory only and not mandatory. It is the duty of the Privy Council, frequently and all that it can do, to make a declaration; and then the form in which that declaration is conceived, and the words in which the order is framed, amount to a direction to the High Court to clothe that declaration in the proper form of a mandatory order, and to give effect to the mandatory order so expressed. BARLOW v. ORDE. 3 P R 1872 P C

146. Act XXXIII of 1871, sections 42 and 43—Execution of decree of Civil Court—Lien for revenue.

There is no lien for revenue, until the revenue is in arrear under section 42, Act XXXIII of 1871, and attachment has been made under section 43 Therefore, where a Civil Court attaches in execution of decree the immovable property of an agriculturist, it is not necessary to arrange first for the payment of the revenue, paying the balance to the judgment-creditor, but the judgment-creditor is entitled to payment in full. OOMUR DEEN v. HASHUM. 52 P R 1874

147. Act VIII of 1859, section 203—Decree against representative—Obligation of representative of party to a contract—Liability of representative for waste or misapplication—Assets—Section 37, Act IX of 1872.

By section 37 of Act IX of 1872, "promises "bind the representatives of the promisors in "case of the death of such promisors be-"fore performance, unless a contrary inten-"tion appears from the contract." And by section 203, Act VIII of 1859, if a "decree "be against a party as the representative of "a deceased person, and such decree be for "money to be paid out of the property of "the deceased person, it may be executed "by the attachment and sale of any such "property, or if no such property can be "found, and the defendant fail to satisfy the "Court that he has duly applied such pro-"perty of the deceased as shall be proved "to have come into his possession, the decree "may be executed against the defendant to "the extent of the property not duly applied "by him, in the same manner as if the "decree had been against the defendant "personally."

Held, that the legal representative of the deceased, whether the latter were a Hindu or not, was only liable to perform the promise or pay the debts of the deceased, to the extent of the property of the deceased received by him. Held also, that the existence of assets and receipt or possession thereof by the representative must be enquired into before decree, unless a primâ facie case of receipt, or right to receive, not denied by the defendant, appeared; and that such case appeared on proof that the defendant was entitled to existing assets without proof that they had come into his actual possession. Held also, that a decree against the representative which did not specify that it should be payable out of the assets of the deceased, was an erroneous decree. MADHO DASS v. RADHA MAL.

EXECUTION OF DECREE—contd.

65 P R 1874

148. Execution of decree against representative—Act VIII of 1859, sections 216 and 217.

Plaintiff sued S for a debt, and before judgment S died. The suit was proceeded with against Mussammat B S's widow, and a decree was passed against her to be realised from S's assets. Mussammat B died without satisfying the decree; and the judgment-creditor applied for execution against G, alleging that G was S's representative. Held, that if G admitted that he was heir to S the Court executing the decree should enquire and find whether G held assets of S or not; but if G denied he was S's heir it would be necessary for the judgment creditor to establish in a regular suit (1) that G was S's legal representative, and (2) had taken his property. SHEO SEHAI v. MUSSAMMAT BHAGAN. 12 P R 1875

149. Refusal by Commissioner to sanction sale.

The Commissioner refused to sanction the sale of a house in execution of decree, on the ground that the debtor would greatly suffer from a sale by public auction. Held, not to be sufficient ground for refusing sanction. RATTAN CHUND v. KHUSHI RAM.

10 P R 1876

150. Agreement varying decee.

Where the parties to a suit, in the course of execution of decree, come to an arrange ment varying the decree, which compromise they file in Court, held that the Court executing the decree can enforce the terms of the agreement by process of execution, and that the jugdment-creditor is not driven to a regular suit on the agreement. BHAI CHARANJIT SINGH v. KASHI RAM.

16 P R 1876

151 Execution against one who undertakes to satisfy decree.

Plaintiff obtained a decree against A personally for a sum of money. B on the ground that A was his (B's) agent, and that the subject-matter of the suit concerned B and not A, agreed to satisfy the decree. Held, that execution of the decree could not be had against B, whose undertaking might furnish a separate cause of action. DIWAN RAM CHAND v. MUHAMMAD SULTAN.

75 P R 1876

152. Agreement varying decree.

S. R. obtained a decree for Rs. 5,565 against R. C., and commenced proceedings in execution. R. C., pending these proceedings, sued S. R. for an adjustment of accounts, and while his suit was going on, some house property of R. C., attached in the execution proceedings, was sold, S. R. being the purchaser, for Rs. 2,425. S. R. and R. C., in June 1872, filed razinamahs in regard to their respective claims; S. R.'s razinamah recited the purchase of the houses for Rs. 2,425, and stated that he relinquished the rest of his claim; the Court accepted the razinamah and struck the case off: R. C.'s razinamah stated that the accounts were adjusted and he had no further claim, and that if he paid Rs. 2,300 to S. R. within one year, he was to redeem or receive back the houses purchased by S. R.; the Court on this, dismissed R. C.'s suit. In July 1874 S. R. applied to the Court for possession of the houses; R. C. objected, urging that he had paid S. R. Rs. 2,375 in full satisfaction: the Court ordered possession to be given to S. R. without going into the question of this alleged payment.

Held, that the order giving possession to S. R. was illegal, inasmuch as the proceedings shewed that in June 1872, S. R. had certified satisfaction to the Court; and, further, his application for possession was not to enforce the decree of the Court, but to compel summary performance of an agreement substituted for that decree, which agreement was not one that could be enforced as a decree. RUP CHAND v. SANT RAM.

85 P R 1876

153. Suit by judgment-debtor to recover money paid out of Court—Fraud.

Held, that a suit by a judgment-debtor to recover money paid to a judgment-creditor, and which such judgment-creditor refuses to certify to the Court executing the decree, will lie upon equitable grounds, independent of fraud. MAMU v. KALU MALL.

66 P R 1877

154. Civil Procedure Code (Act VIII of 1859), section 206—Payments in satisfaction of decree made out of Court, but not certified to the Court.

D. obtained a decree against K. and S. A. for possession of certain mortgage land, subject to the condition that K. and S. A. were to continue in cultivation thereof for three years, paying D. the proprietors' share of the produce, out of which D. was to pay the Government revenue, and apply the surplus (if any) to paying off the principal debt, and in the event of the principal debt not being paid off, D. was to obtain cultivating possession. At the end of three years, D. applied for possession under the decree, alleging non-receipt of any payments under it, while K. and S. A. alleged payment in full satisfaction of the principal debt. Held, that the Court executing the decree was precluded by section 206, Act VIII of 1859 from recognizing the payments alleged to have been made out of Court, and which were not certified to the Court.

Semble, that even if it was intended that the payments under the decree obtained by D. should be made out of Court, K. and S. A. were not relieved from the duty of seeing that such payments were certified to the Court by D. DULLA v. KARM.

26 P R 1878

155. Sale of movable property—Title acquired by purchaser—Property wrongly attached and sold—Remedies of real owner of goods—Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877), sections 266 and 287.

Where movable property belonging to A was attached and sold in execution of a decree against B, held, that A was entitled to sue the auction-purchaser for the restoration of the specific movable or for its value.

The purchaser of movable property at an execution sale does not take an absolutely unimpeachable title to the property, and the fact that the real owner may have a remedy by a suit for damages against the execution creditor for causing the property to be attached and sold does not debar him from bringing a suit to recover the property itself from the auction-purchaser. MANGAL SAIN v. DABI DAS.

82 P R 1878

156. Act XXIII of 1861, section 11—Question arising in execution of decree—Separate suit—Res judicata.

Plaintiff sued to recover land of which possession was given to defendant in execution of a decree for pre-emption. In that suit the decree-holder (now defendant) paid into Court Rs. 124-3-3 and took credit for Rs. 50-12-9 costs payable by the judgment-debtor (now plaintiff) in accordance with an order of the Court executing the decree, which directed possession to be given on payment of the amount above-mentioned. Plaintiff claimed to recover possession on the ground that the decree became void on 14th July 1875, because the decree-holder (now defendant) had not paid in Rs. 175 in cash, and that the execution Court could not allow the decree-holder to pay less than that sum, or to pay any portion of it after July 14th.

Held, that the question raised being identical with that which occurred in the course of the former suit, it was "a question arising "between the parties to the suit in which "the decree was passed, and relating to the "execution of the decree," which by section 11, Act XXIII of 1861, was "a question to "be determined by the Court executing the "decree, and not by separate suit," and, therefore, that the second suit was barred. MEHTAB SINGH v. BELA SINGH.

32 P R 1879

157. Transfer of decree—Act VIII of 1859, sections 285, 286—Powers of Court to which decree has been transmitted.

Held, that the Court to which a copy of a decree has been transmitted for execution under section 286 of Act VIII of 1859, is only authorized to execute it within its own jurisdiction: and cannot authorise any other Court to execute the decree; as when such authority is necessary it can only be granted by the Court whose duty it was originally to execute the decree. BHAG SINGH v. BISHAMBER DAS.

129 P R 1879

158. Act X of 1877, section 315—Execution sale—Error in extent of saleable interest of judgment-debtor—Suit against decree-holder for purchase-money—Caveat emptor.

Held, that, neither section 315 of Act X of 1877, nor the principle of that section, applies to a purchase in execution of decree, where the judgment-debtor has a saleable interest in the property sold, and the only error is as to the extent of such interest.

The maxim of caveat emptor applied as between the auction purchaser and decree-holder in suit by former against latter for compensation in respect of loss consequent upon such error. BUTA SINGH v. CHATTAR SINGH.

131 P R 1879

159. Sale—Purchase of house subject to an equity—Notice.

Held, that a purchaser in execution of decree of a house subject to an equity created by the owner through whom he has derived title to it, with due notice of such equity, takes the house subject thereto. RAMJI DAS v. HIRA LAL.

148 P R 1879

160. Agreement to liquidate decree—Breach of such agreement by judgment-debtor—Remedy of decree-holder.

Where the parties to a decree, itself silent as to interest, entered into an agreement for liquidating the decree by instalments, which agreement provided that in case of the judgment-debtor's default, the decree-holder might at once execute his decree with interest, but it was found that the case was not one in which the arrangement between the parties had been acted on as a decree, held, the judgment-debtor having made default as aforesaid, that the decree-holder was not entitled to recover his debt with interest by summary proceeding in execution, but that he might either sue out execution for any sum still due on the decree, waiving his right to interest, or bring a separate suit for such sum as he might consider to be due with interest, i. e. sue to enforce the terms of the arrangement made between him and his debtor. SIRDAR AMIR SINGH v. JOWAHIR SINGH.

48 P R 1880

161. Agreement by third parties to liquidate decree—Power to execute decree against such parties—Jurisdiction—Consent.

An engagement entered into with a decree-holder by the sons of a judgment-debtor, who were themselves strangers to the original decree, to liquidate the decree against their father, held, by a majority of the Court (LINDSAY, J. dissenting), to be an agreement which the Court executing the decree was not competent to enforce summarily by process of execution.

Held, further, that consent of parties could not give the Court jurisdiction to permit the summary procedure provided for decrees made in regular suits to be substituted for a regular suit between the parties to the agreement.

Diwan Ram Chand v. Muhammad Sultan (No. 75 P. R. 1876, Civil), and Bunsidhar v. Behari Lall (No. 62 P. R. 1871) followed.

Held, contra, per LINDSAY, J., that the arrangement between the parties was substituted for the decree by consent of parties and of the Court, and effect subsequently given to the substituted decree through the same Court; that the sureties by order of Court and with consent of the decree-holder became parties to the suit: and that the decree could be executed against them in terms of the agreement. RAI BHAG SINGH v. HARDIT SINGH.

59 P R 1880

162. Assignment of decree—Suit to set aside attachment by assignee—Act X of 1877, section 232—Absence of written assignment—Objection to attachment by plaintiff on ground of such irregularity.

The assignee of a decree attached in execution as the property of the judgment-debtor certain monies in the hands of a third party. In a suit by one K. S. against the judgment-debtor and the assignee to set aside the attachment on the ground that the judgment-debtor had no attachable interest in the property in question, it was held by the Chief Court (reversing the orders of the lower Courts) that the judgment-debtor had no attachable interest in the monies: whereupon it was contended for the plaintiff that the attachment was null and void with reference to section 232, Act X of 1877, because the assignment of the decree was not in writing, as contemplated by that section.

Held, that this objection could not prevail, as for the purposes of the present suit, and more especially in special appeal, the Court was bound to presume that the Court executing the decree had done all things which the law prescribed to be necessary, and that an assignment in writing existed, though it did not appear to have been filed.

Held further, that in the present suit it was not open to the plaintiff to set up an irregularity in the execution proceedings which could only be contested as between the execution-creditor and the judgment-debtor, the sole question being one of title, which, if established would prove that the property in dispute was not liable to attachment as against the judgment-debtor.

Semble, that even the judgment-debtor could not recover back his money from the assignee merely because the execution proceedings were ultra vires, unless he could show that he had in some way been defrauded by the transaction. TOTA SINGH v. KAHN SINGH.

87 P R 1880

163. Decree payable by instalments not fixed prior to decree—Executing Court fixing amount of instalments—Act X of 1877, section 210—Consent of decree-holder—Irregularity—Appeal.

Where the original judgment in the case provided that the amount decreed might be paid by instalments, but did not fix their amount, and the decree was silent as to instalments, and it further appeared that an appeal by the decree-holder objecting to instalments was dismissed, after which in execution of decree the executing Court fixed certain instalments, the amount of which was doubled on appeal by the Additional Commissioner, held, on a second appeal by the decree-holder from the last mentioned order of the Additional Commissioner, that the debt must be taken to have been decided to be one payable by instalments, just as if the decree was in conformity with the judgment, and that therefore the consent of the decree-holder was not requisite for the fixing of instalments.

Held further, that though the fixing of the amount of the instalments at time of execution was irregular and ought to have been done before the decree was drawn up, yet this was not a sufficient ground for setting aside the order of the Additional Commissioner. KIDARNATH v. BHOLE KHAN.

46 P R 1881

164. Execution-sale—Auction-purchaser—Judgment-debtor having no saleable interest in property sold—Right of purchaser to recover his purchase-money from decree-holder under Act VIII of 1859—Act X of 1877, section 315, retrospective effect of.

In May 1877 the plaintiff became auction-purchaser of certain property attached at the defendant's instance in execution of decree. In 1879 the plaintiff brought the present suit to recover Rs. 507 from defendant, alleging that he had paid that sum into Court for the property purchased at the above sale, and that he had now been evicted from the property by the true owner.

Held, that plaintiff could not recover, as under Act VIII of 1859, which was in force at the time of the sale transaction, the rule of law was that the auction-purchaser bought at his own risk, and if he got nothing for his money the decree-holder was not liable.

Held, further, that plaintiff was not entitled to recover by reason of section 315 of Act X of 1877, as the provisions of that section are not retrospective, so as to subject a decree-holder who brought property to sale under Act VIII of 1859 to a liability towards the auction-purchaser to which he was not liable at the time of the sale. DEBI PERSHAD v. MUHAMMAD IBRAHIM.

99 P R 1881

165. Sale of house property—Sanction of Commissioner and Chief Court—Notification No. 3859, dated October 3rd, 1877.

Held, that under the terms of the Punjab Government Notification No. 3859, dated the 3rd October 1877, the sanction of the Commissioner is not required to sales of house property in execution of decree. Nor is the sanction of the Chief Court required to sales of such property. NIRMAL DAS v. MUHAMMAD YAR.

6 P R 1882

166. Act X of 1877, section 266—Attachment of pay—Native grass-cutter attached to European battery—Indian Articles of War (Act V of 1869)—Army Discipline and Regulation Act, 1879.

Held, that neither the Army Discipline and Regulation Act of 1879, nor the Indian Articles of War, 1869, contains any provision which exempts from attachment the pay of a Native grass-cutter attached to a battery of artillery of H. M.'s British Army while cantoned in British India, and not on active service within the meaning of that expression, as defined in the former Act. THALLI v. GANGA.

41 P R 1882

167. Jurisdiction of Court to execute decree exceeding the pecuniary limits of its jurisdiction for suits—Construction of decree—Power of executing Court to look at judgment to explain ambiguous parts of decree.

Held, that there is nothing, either in the Civil Procedure Code or in the Punjab Courts Act, to disable a Court the jurisdiction of which for the adjudication of original civil suits is restricted to suits not exceeding a certain pecuniary limit of value, from executing the decree of a competent Court for an amount exceeding that limit, when such decree is duly sent to it for execution either under section 223, Civil Procedure Code, or under section 34, Act XVII of 1877.

In a suit to recover a sum of money secured by the mortgage of a house, a compromise was come to by the parties, whereby the plaintiff agreed to accept Rs. 1,650 in full satisfaction of the claim. It was arranged that the payment of this amount should be deferred for 5 years, that as regards Rs. 1,200 the house should remain in the possession of the plaintiff as mortgagee, the rent being taken by him in lieu of interest, and that as regards the remainder, viz. Rs. 450, the defendant should pay interest year by year at the rate of 8 annas per cent. per mensem, it being further provided that if default was made in payment of such interest, so that at the end of any year the interest for that year remained unpaid, it would be competent to the plaintiff to enforce payment of the principal sum of Rs. 450, and any interest remaining due thereon by execution of decree. It was further provided that though defendant should have paid the interest on the Rs. 450 regularly year by year, if he failed to pay the Rs. 1,650 at the end of the five years, it would be competent to the decree-holder to put the decree in execution and realize the amount from the mortgaged and other property of the judgment-debtor. The Court gave judgment in accordance with this compromise, and after reciting its terms, directed that a decree for Rs. 1,650 be given in plaintiff's favour "in accordance with "the terms aforesaid" (ba shara sadr). A decree was drawn up accordingly on the 15th August 1872, which merely followed the concluding words of the judgment, and directed that Rs. 1,650 be paid ba shara sadr.

An application for execution of the decree having been made on the 7th May 1880 in which it was stated that the judgment-debtor had paid interest for 5 years, but not for the last 3 years, with regard to which it was contended that default of payment of the interest occurred 2 years after the date of the decree and more than 3 years before the making of the application held, that though as a general rule a decree must be construed by its own terms, and it is not advisable to incorporate anything into it or attach to it a meaning which the words of the decretal order do not properly and clearly express; still in the present case, as the decree was drawn up most carelessly, and the words ba shara sadr, if the Court looked merely to what went before them, were unmeaning, though they became at once intelligible if reference was made to the judgment, the Courts were fully justified in referring to the judgment and in giving to the words in question the meaning which a reference to the judgment clearly showed that they were intended to bear. RAM LAL v. NATHA SINGH.

45 P R 1882

168. Sale of land—Sanction for sale—Procedure—Duty of Deputy Commissioner and Commissioner—Act X of 1877, section 326.

It is the duty of the Deputy Commissioner on receiving from the Court executing a decree an application for sanction to sell land, to report in the proper column what measures he has taken to give effect to the provisions of section 326 of Act X of 1877, and to forward the statement to the Commissioner, whose duty it is to transmit the statement to the Chief Court after recording his own opinion in the proper column. No option is left to the Deputy Commissioner or Commissioner as to whether or no they will forward the statement to the Chief Court for sanction. BHAGWAN DAS v. BAGA. 96 P R 1882

169. Finality of order passed in execution proceedings—Application for execution—Omission to pass order of attachment—Subsequent application—Plea of limitation.

It was contended that an application for execution of decree was barred by limitation because inter alia the last previous application was itself beyond time. With reference to this objection, it appeared that no order for attachment was issued under the said application, it having been necessary first to issue notice to the judgment-debtor, after which the case having been postponed from time to time, was somewhat irregularly struck off the file, no objection that the proceedings were barred by limitation having been raised either by the Court or the judgment-debtor.

Quaere whether the above facts took the case out of the ruling of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in Mungal Parshad Dichit v. Grija Kant Lahiri (I. L. R. 8 Calc., 51) to the effect that when an order for attachment has been made by a competent Court, that Court must be considered to have determined that the execution was not barred, and such decision must be regarded as binding until it is reversed. LAKMI DAS v. GOBIND RAM. 105 P R 1882

170. Agreement as to how decree should be carried out—Effect of such agreement.

In a case of execution of a decree, it appeared that the parties to the decree attested an agreement before the Court in which the decree was being executed, whereby certain land was to be made over to the decree-holder for a period of years until the profits received by him equalled the amount of the decree, and that the Court, after attesting this agreement, directed that the case should be filed. Subsequently, after the assignee of the original decree-holder had made various attempts to execute the decree, the Court referred him to a civil suit to enforce the agreement above mentioned, and the assignee accordingly filed a suit to enforce the said agreement which was dismissed, on the ground that the original deed of agreement was unregistered. The decree-holder's assignee again applied for execution, but his application was thrown out on the ground that the original decree had been superseded by the agreement, which constituted a new contract, and which alone could give plaintiffs a right of action.

Held, that the above order was incorrect; that the said agreement was entered into by the parties not in supersession but in pursuance of the decree, the agreement in fact being as to how the decree should be carried out, and that the case should not have been struck off, but kept on the file of the Court till the decree was satisfied: that now that that agreement had been declared by a competent Court to be inoperative, there was no reason why the representative of the decree-holder should not be allowed to execute his unsatisfied decree in the absence of any other legal objections to his doing so. SALAMAT RAI v. AKBAR.

195 P R 1882

171. Finality of order passed in execution proceedings—Res judicata—Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877), section 13, Explanation IV—Order passed on objection by judgment-debtor—Plea of limitation raised during pendency of same proceedings.

Certain proceedings in execution of decree having been struck off on 21st February 1875, a fresh application was brought on 1st February 1878, which, together with a subsequent application, dated 10th March 1880, went off in default. Another application was filed in April 1881, and whilst this was still pending, an order for attachment of a house was passed on 28th June 1881, and an objection by the judgment-debtor that he had paid in full, was dismissed on the 27th October. While these same proceedings were still pending, the judgment-debtor for the first time filed an objection, on 5th December 1881, to the effect that the application of 1st February 1878 was barred as out of limitation.

Held, that though the decision of October 1881 was final under Explanation IV to section 13 of the Civil Procedure Code in regard to the objections actually taken, that decision did not operate as a bar to the plea of limitation subsequently raised in December 1881, as the decision of October being limited to objections actually taken could not be said to have decided the question of limitation; and it therefore remained open to the Court executing the decree as long as the application for execution was not disposed of, to entertain a plea that the application was barred by limitation. FATTEH MUHAMMAD v. LALJI MAL. 143 P R 1883

172. Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877), sections 312, 313, 315—Execution-sale—Application by purchaser for refund of purchase-money deposited on account of sale afterwards set aside—Purchaser's right to refund of amound paid to Sheriff out of the sale-proceeds.

Under section 315 of the Civil Procedure Code, when an execution sale is set aside under section 312 or 313, the purchaser is entitled to receive back his purchase-money from any person to whom the purchase-money has been paid.

Held, that under the terms of the above section, the purchaser is entitled to a refund of a sum paid to the Sheriff, who conducted the sale under the orders of the Court, out of the sale-proceeds. MUSSAMMAT PREM VANTI v. MOKAND LAL. 183 P R 1883

173. Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), sections 311, 312—Confirmation of execution-sale before period for making application to set it aside has elapsed—Irregularity in conducting sale—Sale at undervalue—Allegation that property was not liable to attachment.

No order confirming a sale made in execution of decree should be made under section 312 of the Civil Procedure Code, until the time (thirty days, vide Art. 166, Sch. II, Act XV of 1877) has elapsed within which an application under section 311 could be made.

Sale at an undervalue would only be a material ground of application under section 311 if there had been any irregularity in publishing or conducting the sale, as a proof that the applicant had sustained substantial injury, but does not in itself amount to such an irregularity.

An allegation that the property sold was not liable to attachment would not support an application under the same section, though it might be a ground for a separate suit, either to recover the property, so long as the sale had not been made absolute according to law, or to recover compensation from the decree-holder. ATAR SINGH v. LAJPAT RAI. 19 P R 1884

174. Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), section 266 (g)—Liability of jagir income to attachment—Pensions Act (XXIII of 1871), section 11—Attachment of assigned land revenue in hands of lambardars.

There is nothing either in clause (g) of section 266 of the Civil Procedure Code, or section 11 of the Pensions Act, which protects the income of a jagir from attachment in execution of decree.

Quære, whether assigned land revenue can be attached in the hands of the lambardars of the village before it has reached the assignee. KUNDAN LAL v. DALIP SINGH.

57 P R 1884

175. Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), section 266 (g)—Property liable to attachment—Pension payable by Government other than British Government.

Clause (g) of section 266 of Act XIV of 1882 refers to pensions payable by the British Government and not by other authorities, and has no application to a sum of money paid as a charitable allowance out of the revenues of the Mamdot estate. HAZARI MAL v. KHAN BAHADUR KHAN.

58 P R 1884

176. Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), section 315—Execution-sale—Saleable interest—Refund of purchase money.

Held, that an auction-purchaser of a house which has been sold in execution of decree can, after the sale has been set aside in a suit brought by a third party against the auction-purchaser and the judgment-debtor, recover from the judgment-creditor by summary process, under section 315 of the Civil Procedure Code, the money which he has paid for the house on the ground that the judgment-debtor had no saleable interest in the property. NIHAL CHAND v. JIWAN SINGH. 157 P R 1884

177. Merger of decree in subsequent arrangement—Arrangement enforcible by suit and not by execution.

Plaintiff obtained a decree against defendant on account of certain instalments due on a bond executed by the defendant. While this decree was in course of execution, defendant presented a petition to the Court executing the decree, setting forth the amount due on the decree with interest, and that for the total amount thus arrived at the petitioner agreed that the plaintiffs should receive certain specified half-yearly instalments from his jagir income to be paid to the plaintiff from the Tahsildar's office for a specified period, wherefore he applied that the said instalments might be paid half-yearly from the tahsil, and that the adjustment of the plaintiff's claim being approved, the necessary orders should be issued to the Tahsildar, adding that, until the plaintiff's claim was satisfied, the petitioner should have no claim on any grounds to receive the money either from the zemindars or from the Government. The petitioner's seal was attached to the petition, which was also signed by the decree-holder for the purpose of showing his assent to the terms set forth. The Court therefore recorded an order, stating the terms of the agreement as acknowledged by the judgment-debtor in person, an addition being made that the village should be hypothecated as security for the debt due to the decree-holder, adding that the decree-holder's consent was conditional on the money being paid to him from the tahsil, and directing that the instalments agreed to by the parties being approved, the case should be filed, and a proceeding be sent to the Revenue Officer asking that payment might be made through the Tahsildar after deducting the fixed charges for collection.

Held, that the agreement constituted an obligation which merged not only the decree, but other claims existing between the parties and which could not therefore properly be enforced in execution of the decree. SIRDAR AMAR SINGH v. BASWA MAL. 51 P R 1885

178. Sale of immovable property—Refund of purchaser's deposit when sale is not confirmed—Commission paid to Nazir.

On the auction sale of immovable property in execution of a decree, the property was knocked down to the petitioner and he deposited one-fourth of the price. The Nazir deducted his commission from this amount and deposited the balance in the Treasury. The sale was not completed, as a private arrangement was come to between the parties to the execution-sale. Subsequently, the petitioner applied to the Court executing the decree for the refund of his deposit, but was referred to a suit against the judgment-debtor.

Held, that under the last clause of section 315 of the Civil Procedure Code, there was no cause of action against the judgment-debtor, and it was doubtful whether the purchaser could have been referred to a separate suit against the Nazir, as the amount deposited was recoverable under the rules applicable to execution of decrees. Therefore the sale having been treated as incomplete, the Nazir's right to deduct anything for commission had not arisen, and the sale having been afterwards rendered unnecessary by the compromise entered into, the purchaser was entitled to the refund of his money, and the Nazir being an officer of the Court, the Court had authority to direct him to refund it. Mussammat Prem Vanti v. Mokand Lal (No. 183 P. R. 1883) cited. PALA SHAH v. SYAD HAMID SHAH.

68 P R 1885

179. Decree for payment of money in accordance with written compromise—Construction of decree—Security for payment of decree.

On 14th February 1883, the decree-holders obtained a decree which ran as follows:—"The defendants do pay to the plaintiffs the "sum of Rs. 15,000, including costs as agreed "upon, viz., Rs. 600 in monthly instalments, for "which 25 hundis of Rs. 600 each have been "given. If any hundi be not paid on due "date, the plaintiffs will be entitled to sue "on it." The indenture between the parties on which the suit was disposed of, and which is the one alluded to in the words "as agreed upon" in the decree, provided that the plaintiffs should be paid Rs. 15,000, by monthly instalments of Rs. 600 each, "and that the payment of the several instalments should be secured by 25 hundis." Fourteen of the hundis having been dishonored, the decree-holders moved the Court to execute the decree. The judgment-debtor objected that this could not be done, and that the decree-holders had no remedy but to sue on the hundis. The executing Court having rejected this plea, the judgment-debtors appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, that as the Court, by the language used in the decree, intended to pass a decree in accordance simply and fully with the compromise arrived at by the parties, as it was bound to do, and the deed showed that the parties agreed absolutely that the instalments should be paid, the hundis being merely given as further security for the same, the creditors could enforce this right as embodied in the decree in the appropriate form, namely, by way of proceedings in execution. Therefore, on its being proved that the hundis had been dishonored, and on their being delivered to the Court so as to protect the judgment-debtors from the risk of having to satisfy them in the hands of third parties, the decree-holders were entitled to execute their decree of the 14th February 1883. NAOBAT RAI v. TAJ MUHAMMAD. 84 P R 1885

180. Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), sections 311 and 314—Sale in execution of decree—Irregularity in conducting sale.

On an application to set aside a sale in execution of decree by a decree-holder, who alleged that the sale had not been properly conducted, having been held at 7 a. m., though the proclamation had fixed noon as the hour at which the sale should take place, and that he had in consequence suffered substantial injury, the Munsiff, after an enquiry, but without coming to any finding as to the facts alleged, held that no important irregularity was proved to have been committed, and after expressing an opinion that the Court was not at liberty to break a contract entered into by it, rejected the application and confirmed the sale.

Held, that on its being proved that material irregularities had taken place, and that substantial injury had been caused by reason thereof, the Court had jurisdiction to deal with the case under section 311 of the Civil Procedure Code without any reference to considerations arising from the law of contract, as under section 314 the sale does not become absolute until confirmed; that the irregularity in selling the property before the time fixed by the proclamation would clearly be material, and the allegations of injury resulting therefrom should therefore have been enquired into. RAM RATTAN v. MANJA. 96 P R 1885

181. Execution proceedings—Order releasing property from attachment—Finality of such order.

The decree-holder having attached in execution of decree a house, the property of the judgment-debtor, the house was on the latter's objection released from attachment on the 25th May 1883, under section 266 (c) of the Civil Procedure Code. No appeal was preferred from this order, but on 4th February 1884 the house in question was again attached in execution of the decree-holder's decree, an objection raised by the judgment-debtor was disallowed on 10th March 1884, and finally, on 19th May 1884, the sale of the house was ordered.

An appeal from this last order having been rejected by the lower Court, held, that the subsequent attachment was barred by the previous order of release, dated 25th May 1883, as that order not having been appealed against was final and conclusive between the parties on the points decided therein. Lakmi Das v. Gobind Ram (No. 105 P. R. 1882), cited. FAKIR BAKSH v. MAYADHARI. 4 P R 1886

182. Decree silent as to interest—Variance between judgment and decree—Power to realize interest in execution.

A decree-holder is not entitled to realize interest in execution of a decree which does not provide for the payment of interest, though the judgment in the case professes to be given in accordance with a confession of judgment which made the judgment-debtor liable for interest, so long as the decree is intelligible in itself and is capable of execution without reference to the judgment. CHANDA MAL v. BAKSHA. 13 P R 1886

183. Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), sections 287, 291, 315—Execution sale—Postponement of sale—Omission to issue fresh proclamation—Material irregularity—Sale set aside subject to auction-purchaser's right of refund—Refund of Nazir's commission.

Held, that the omission, after an execution sale has been adjourned, to issue a second proclamation showing the true time and place of the sale, as required by sections 287, 291 of the Civil Procedure Code, when the second proclamation is not waived, is so material a violation of the prescribed procedure that it vitiates the sale.

Where on an appeal by the judgment-debtor to set aside an execution sale on the above grounds, it appeared that the auction purchaser had paid the price and taken possession of the property sold, the Chief Court ordered that a refund of the purchase-money to the said auction-purchaser should be made a condition precedent to the appellant getting the relief he asked, and that the appellant must see that within two months the refund to which the auction-purchaser was entitled under section 315, Civil Procedure Code, was paid into Court to his credit, or the decree in his favour should be void, and his appeal stand dismissed.

It was further ordered in the above case (following Mussammat Prem Vanti v. Mokand Lal, No. 183 P. R. 1883, that the Nazir should be directed to pay back into the executing Court the part of the price which he had received as commission. NARANJAN DAS v. RAM RAKHA. 45 P R 1886

See also GHULAM SHAH v. GANPAT RAI. 45 P R 1886 Note

184. Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), section 326—Power of Collector to arrange for satisfaction of decree by temporary alienation of land—Duty of Collector to represent proposed arrangement to executing Court—Procedure to be adopted.

A decree-holder having applied for execution of his decree by sale of the judgment-debtor's land, a statement of sale was prepared and forwarded through the Deputy Commissioner for sanction of the Chief Court. The Commissioner declined to submit the statement until the Deputy Commissioner had reported whether any arrangement could be made for the payment of the decree by a temporary alienation of the land, whereupon the Deputy Commissioner, without being moved or authorized by the Court executing the decree and without consulting either the decree-holder or the executing Court as to the propriety of the arrangement, entered into an arrangement with a third party to take the land on payment of 18 yearly instalments until the judgment-debt was cleared off. On hearing of this arrangement, the executing Court ordered the case to be consigned to the record room. An appeal from this order to the Divisional Court having been rejected, held by the Chief Court, on further appeal, that the appeal must be accepted, and the orders of the lower Courts being set aside, the case be remanded to the executing Court with directions to re-open the case and pass orders thereon in accordance with law.

It is the province of the Collector, if he considers the sale of the land objectionable, and that the decree can be satisfied within a reasonable time by a temporary alienation of the land, to represent the arrangement he considers suitable to the Court executing the decree, which should then decide after hearing the decree-holder and the judgment-debtor whether or not effect should be given to the proposed arrangement. Such arrangement cannot be considered a final settlement of the decree until it has been accepted by the Court, and the Court has authorized the Collector to give effect to it. GUJAR SINGH v. MIT SINGH. 114 P R 1886

185. Sale of land—Sanction for sale—Procedure.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, following Bhagwan Das v. Baga (No. 96 P. R. 1882), that no option is left to the Deputy Commissioner or Commissioner as to whether or not they will forward on for the sanction of the Financial Commissioner applications for the sale of a judgment-debtor's immovable property in execution of decree. JAHAN KHAN v. AMIR BAZ. 1 P R 1887 Rev

186. Execution of decree—Non-existence of decree—Order in execution passed in ignorance—Admissions by judgment-debtors made under misconception—Validity of such orders.

An application being made for execution of a decree, it was objected that there was no decree to execute. The facts appeared to be as follows:—

The Deputy Commissioner originally dismissed the suit. The Commissioner remanded it for further inquiry. During the progress of the inquiry defendant confessed judgment on 27th November 1873, and agreed to pay a certain sum by instalments. Plaintiff accepted this settlement. The case was submitted to the Commissioner, whose decree, dated the 11th December 1872, was to the following effect :—" The appeal be struck off, the parties having come to an adjustment."

Applications for execution were made from 1877 to 1884, in each of which the decree sought to be executed was stated as that of the Deputy Commissioner, on some of these orders for attachment were issued, and on two occasions small sums were realized through the Court.

The judgment-debtor also admitted on two occasions the existence of a decree against him ; on these facts it was contended for the decree-holder that the confession of judgment should be read into the Commissioner's decree, and that the judgment-debtor should be held estopped by his admissions from disputing the existence of the decree.

Held, that there was no decree which could be executed, and its place could not be supplied by orders of attachment passed under mistake or by acts of parties done under misconception. RAM DHAN v. JALAL. 143 P R 1890

187. Execution of decree—Sale of agricultural land—Sanction of Financial Commissioner.

When the Financial Commissioner had refused to sanction the sale in execution of decree of agricultural land described as a garden, held that the Civil Courts were not competent either to sell the land, or to sell the trees upon the land. LEHNA v. DEVI DITTA. 59 P R 1891

188. Insolvent Estates' Court—Attachment of insolvent's property—Property already under attachment by District Judge.

Makhan Lal was declared an insolvent under the provisions of Act IV of 1872. The Insolvent Estates' Court issued a robkar to the District Judge, calling upon him to make over certain property of the insolvent which was then under attachment, or to withdraw the attachment. The District Judge declined to accede to this request.

Held, that the Insolvent Estates' Court was not competent to issue such a robkar, and that the District Judge was not bound to recognise it. In re-petition of MAKHAN LAL. 61 P R 1891

189. Sale in execution of decree—Absence of certificate of sale—Suit by purchaser—Title against party to the suit or his representative in interest.

The plaintiff sued, alleging that he was the purchaser of a house at an execution sale following decree against B. defendant No. 2 on account of a debt due from B.'s deceased husband. The defendant No. 1 was B.'s second husband, and defendant No. 3 her son. The plaintiff could produce no certificate of sale.

Held, that the non-production of a certificate was not fatal to the plaintiff's claim.

When the plaintiff is suing to eject not a third party, but the very person who was a party to the suit which led to the execution sale, or persons whose interests are identical with such party, the mere omission to produce a certificate of sale is not fatal to the success of the suit. A party to the suit, or his representative in interest, cannot, after the sale has been confirmed, dispute the purchaser's title, as the order confirming the sale completes the title as against the parties to the suit.

I. L. R. 12 Bom. 589, followed. BUDHU v. HIRA. 27 P R 1892

190. Joint Hindu family—Mitakshara—Liability of ancestral property in execution of decree against father alone.

The authorities governing the question as to how far in a joint Hindu family governed by the law of the Mitakshara, consisting of a father and sons, the ancestral property is liable in execution of decrees obtained against the father alone, collected and discussed. AMAR SINGH and SUNDAR DAS v. AZIZ-UD-DIN. 33 P R 1892

191. Interest on decree—Principle of calculation—Semble.

The correct method of calculating interest on a decree is to take each payment made: calculate the amount of interest due on the decree up to the date of this payment: credit the payment of this interest : and carry the surplus of the payment to the credit of the principal, and strike a fresh balance. BHAJAN LAL v. DELHI AND LONDON BANK, LD. 55 P R 1892

192. Decree for possession of land—Failure to obtain possession by execution of decree—Bar of second suit for possession.

The plaintiff sued to recover from the defendant possession of 480 kanals of land which had previously been decreed to her in accordance with a compromise in a suit brought against the present defendant upon 6th October 1881.

No execution of decree was ever applied for, but the plaintiff alleged that she had enjoyed possession of her rights under the decree until one and a quarter years before the present suit, when she was dispossessed by the defendant. Both the Courts below found that the plaintiff had never held possession of the land, but decreed the claim in the plaintiff's favour on the ground that there was nothing to prevent the maintenance of the present suit.

Held, following the decision of the Full Bench, No. 93 P. R. 1879, that the decrees of the Courts below could not be sustained on the ground on which they proceeded.

Decrees are ordinarily absolute and unconditional, and as to such decrees it is clear that, as a rule, they must be enforced by process of execution and not by separate suit, and that if they be not enforced within the period of limitation fixed by law for their execution the decree-holder has lost his remedy. HAFIZ BAHA-UD-DIN v. MUSSAMMAT FATTEH BIBI. 16 P R 1893

193. Indian Limitation Act, 1877, schedule II, article 179, clause 4—Application in accordance with law—Absence of Certificate under the Succession Certificate Act, 1889.

An application for exclusion by the heir of a deceased decree-holder may be in accordance with law within the terms of article 179, clause 4 of the Limitation Act, notwithstanding that at the date of the application no certificate under section 4 of the Succession Certificate Act, 1889, has been obtained, the latter section not forbidding the Court to entertain an application of a person claiming to be the heir of a deceased person without production of a certificate, but merely directing that the Court shall not proceed on such application except on the production of the certificate. SOBHA SINGH v. FATTA. 54 P R 1893

194 Application for execution of decree—Sale in execution thereof—Application subsequently set aside by Appellate Court on ground that it was time-barred—Effect of such reversal on sale—Suit by auction purchaser, not party to decree against decree-holder for refund of purchase-money.

Held, that where an application for execution of a decree by sale of the judgment-debtor's property has been granted, and a sale has taken place and been duly confirmed, the fact that the said application has subsequently to such sale been set aside by the Appellate Court on the ground that it was time-barred does not ipso facto, annul the sale, and there being no privity between the auction-purchasers and the decree-holders, there is no legal obligation upon the latter to refund the purchase-money received by them to the auction-purchasers, nor can the auction-purchasers recover the purchase-money from the decree-holders either upon the ground that they have not obtained a certificate under section 316 of the Civil Procedure Code, or possession of the property sold, or by electing to renounce their claims to the property.

I. L. R., X All., 166, I. L. R. XI Calc. 287, and L. R. XIII Ind. App. 106, cited. MUSSAMMAT MANSA DEVI v. RAHIM BAKHSH. 49 P R 1894

195. Execution of decree—Attachment—Objection to attachment dismissed for default—Power of Court to restore such application to the file—Remedy of objector—Procedure—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 103, 278, 623, 647—Revision in Civil Cases—Chief Court's powers of revision—Practice—Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 70.

Held, that the procedure prescribed for original suits by the Code of Civil Procedure does not apply to execution proceedings under Chapter XIX, and accordingly the remedy provided by section 103 of the Code is not open to an objector whose objections under section 278 to an attachment of certain property in execution of decree owing to his absence on the date fixed for hearing have been dismissed in default.

When a person making an application within Chapter XIX fails to prosecute it, the Court must dispose of it by dismissing it in default, and in such cases the objector is only entitled to make a fresh application to obtain his relief if he is not otherwise barred, but when such an application has been disposed of on the merits the Court cannot entertain another of the similar nature or can alter or set aside its order except on review under section 623 the provisions of which do apply to such proceedings.

Thakar Prashad v. Fakir-ulla (I. L. R. XVII All. 106 P. C.) and Dhonkal Singh v. Phakkar Singh (I. L. R., XV All., 84 F. B). followed. COATES v. KASHI RAM. 76 P R 1903

196. Execution of decree—Limitation—Starting point for limitation where an application for revision was admitted, Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 179.

A brought a suit against B for the possession of a house and obtained a decree on the 28th April 1898. The defendant preferred an appeal, which was dismissed by the Divisional Judge on 7th October 1898. He then filed an application for revision to the Chief Court, which was admitted as a further appeal, but was finally rejected on 29th July 1901. On an application on the 10th February 1903 by the decree-holder to execute the said decree an objection was raised by the judgment-debtor that execution was barred by lapse of time.

Held, that the order passed by the Chief Court rejecting the application for revision must be treated as the "final order or decree of the Appellate Court" within the meaning of clause 2, Article 179 of the second Schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, and that the application of the 10th February 1903 for execution was, therefore, within time. RALLA MAL v. MUSSAMMAT MALAN. 8 P R 1905

197. Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 179, clauses (4) and (5)—Application by the decree-holder asking for notice to be issued—Step in aid of execution—Limitation.

Held, that an application by the decree-holder under section 248 of the Code of Civil Procedure asking for notice to be issued to the judgment-debtor is an application to the Court to take a step in aid of execution of the decree within the meaning of Article 179 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act and the issuing of the notice contemplated by that section allows a fresh starting point for limitation under clause (5) of that article.

Dhonkal Singh v. Phakhar (I. L. R. XV All., 84), Behari Lal v. Salik Ram (I. L. R. I All. 675), Baness v. Turton (23 P. R. 1883) and Gopal Chander Manna v. Gosain Das Kalay (I. L. R. XXV Calc., 594), cited.

Gopal Sah v. Janki Kore (I. L. R., XXIII Calc. 217), referred to.

Provisions of section 373 of the Code of Civil Procedure are not applicable to proceedings in execution of decrees. MUHAMMAD NAWAZ-KHAN v. RAM DAS. 22 P R 1905

198. An order under section 545 of the Code of Civil Procedure refusing to stay execution of a decree is not appealable. CAMERON v. BULAKI MAL.

146 P R 1907

199. Execution of decree—Sale of third person's property—Liability of decree-holder to owner of property wrongfully sold by him—Estoppel by conduct—Measure of damages.

'A' rented a serai from 'B' for storing his machinery. 'C' with A's permission stored some goods in the same place. Some time after 'A' removed his machinery but 'C's' goods remained there. 'B' obtained an ex-parte decree for rent against 'A' and in execution thereof sold up 'C's' goods, who thereupon sued 'B' for their value.

Held, that 'B' was liable to make good the loss caused by such sale, although he may have acted unintentionally and may not have been aware at the time the goods attached were of plaintiff, yet he had committed a tort in selling the property of a stranger in execution of a decree against 'A.'

The mere fact that 'C' took no steps to notify 'B' that the goods were his did not amount to an estoppel by conduct which might afford a ground for refusing the relief sought for by 'C'. PREMESHARI DAS v. BASHESHAR NATH. 129 P R 1908

200. Execution of decree—Stay of execution pending suit between decree-holder and judgment-debtor—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 228.

Held, that a Court to which a decree is transmitted for execution is competent to act under section 243 of the Code of Civil Procedure and to stay execution during the pendency of a suit in such Court between the judgment-debtor and holder of the decree. BHAGWAN KOUR v. GAJINDAR SINGH.

130 P R 1908

201. Execution of decree—Surety under Chief Court Circular Order LVII, rule II (i)—Liability of such surety—How and when enforceable.

Held, that where a man stands surety under Chief Court Circular Order LVII, rule II (i), for a petitioner for revision to the Chief Court, the security must be limited to the security demandable under the rules of the Court, no matter in what terms the security bond is worded and must, therefore, necessarily be confined to the performance of the order under revision.

Held, therefore, that no liability could be attached to the surety in the case unless and until the decree-holder had failed to satisfy his decree by the sale of the properties attached under the order under revision. AGIA SINGH v. BALLA MAL. 66 P R 1909

202. Execution of decree—Attachment of salary of Assistant Surgeons in military employ Army Act, 1881, sections 136, 144, proviso 1, and section 190—Civil Procedure Code, 1908, sections 2 (17) and 60 (1) (i)—Procedure where Commanding Officer refuses to carry out attachment—Order XXI, rule 48 (3).

Held, that the pay of an Assistant Surgeon in military employ, not being a public officer within the meaning of section 60 (1) (i) Civil Procedure Code, 1908, is protected from attachment in execution of a decree

Held also, that where a Commanding Officer refuses to comply with an order of attachment, although the pay is attachable, the Court under order XXI, rule 48 (3), Civil Procedure Code, should proceed to recover from Government for the benefit of the decree-holder the sums which should have been stopped out of the judgment-debtor's pay, leaving Government to settle up as it pleases with its officer, the judgment-debtor. OAKES COMPANY v. J. P. DISCARCIE. 10 P R 1910

203. Execution of decree—Decree for possession—Resistance by a third party in possession—Procedure of executing Court—Difference between the old and new Code—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 331—Civil Procedure Code, 1908, Order XXI, rules 97, 99 and 103.

Held, that where in execution proceedings of a decree for possession the property is found to be in possession of a third party, who resists delivery of possession to the decree-holder, the executing Court should proceed under rules 97 and 99. Order XXI of the new Civil Procedure Code, 1908, and make a summary enquiry into the claim of the third party, that he is holding possession in good faith, and pronounce a decision, leaving the aggrieved party to his remedy by suit under rule 103.

The difference in procedure between the new Code and the old Code, section 331, pointed out. HAR NIHAL v. SHAMJI MAL.

14 P R 1910

204. Execution of decree—Continuation of previous application.

Where an application for execution of a decree was made on the 11th May 1906 by attachment and sale of movable property, which was fully attached and sold, but the money was not paid to the decree-holder owing to an appeal filed by the judgment-debtor nor had the application ever been definitely struck off the file or consigned to the Record-room, and other applications were made on the 10th March and 15th June 1908 for attachment and sale of houses not mentioned in the application of the 11th May 1906

Held, that the applications of 1908 were fresh applications and not merely continuations of the former application. HIRU v. GUR CHARAN. 17 P R 1910

205. Execution of decree—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 244 and 311—Application to have sale set aside by reason of defective attachment—Limitation—Indian Limitation Act, XV of 1877, Schedule II, article 166.

The decree-holder applied for execution by attachment and sale of the four shops 2115 to 2118 and filed a plan, correctly showing the boundaries of the shops. In the warrant of attachment the numbers were recorded as 2115, 2125, 2118, but the boundaries and measurements were accurately recorded and in the advertisement of sale the correct numbers were recorded. The sale was effected on the 10th May 1907. On the 14th August 1907 another application was filed under section 311-244 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1882, and was dismissed by the first Court on the ground that it was an application under section 311, and time-barred under article 166 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877. The lower appellate Court, following 76 P. R. 1890 (Lala Seva Ram v. Kanshi Ram) found that section 311 did not apply, the sale being void by reason of the attachment being imperfect. On appeal to the Chief Court—

Held, dissenting from 76 P. R. 1890 (Lala Seva Ram v. Kanshi Ram) and following Sheodhyan v. Bhola Nath (1899) I. L. R. 21 All. 311 that the error in the warrant of attachment constituted merely a material irregularity which could be the subject of objection to the sale under section 311, Civil Procedure Code, 1882, and did not render the sale void ipso facto, and thereby oust the provisions of section 311 and make section 244, Civil Procedure Code, 1882, applicable. The application must be treated as having been made under section 311, Civil Procedure Code, and was barred by limitation under article 166 of the second Schedule of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877. MADHO MAL v. JAWAHIR SINGH. 40 P R 1910

206. Execution of decree—Joint decree for possession of immovable property—Devolution of right upon judgment-debtor by inheritance—Decree extinguished pro tanto—Execution by one of several decree-holders.

Held, following Khudai v. Sheo Dayal (1888) I. L. R. 10 All. 570, that where subsequent to a decree a portion of the right to which the decree relates devolves either by inheritance or otherwise upon the judgment-debtor or is acquired by him under a valid transfer, the inheritance or decree does not become incapable of execution, but is extinguished only. This rule of law is sufficiently general to comprehend alike cases in which decree is for money only and where it is for immoveable property.

EXECUTION OF DCEREE—concld.

Held, also following Harrish Chunder v. Koli Sundere Debi (1882) I. L. R. 9 Cal. 482, P. C. that co-plaintiff can obtain execution according to the extent of his interest in the decree and that there is nothing in the former Code of Civil Procedure which bars such an application. FAZAL ILAHI v. HABIB BAKHSH. 61 P R 1910

208. Execution of decree—Application by judgment-debtor to set aside sale, after the auction sale had taken place—Refusal of such application—Appeal—Civil Procedure Code, Act V of 1908, Order XXI, rules 83 and 89, and Order XLIII, rule 1 (j).

Held, that an application made by the judgment-debtor to have a sale of immoveable property set aside, after the auction sale had taken place, without, at the same time, making a deposit, does not fall within the purview of either rule 83 or rule 89 of Order XXI of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908, and consequently under Order XLIII, rule 1 (j) an appeal does not lie from the order of the first Court refusing to set aside the sale. GHANIA LAL v. POHLO MAL. 72 P R 1910

209. Execution of decree—Attachment of land by Civil Court—Submission of record to Collector for intervention—No appeal, if Collector refuses.

Held, that where in execution of a decree after attaching agricultural land, a Civil Court sends the record to the Collector, it amounts to an order enquiring from the Collector whether he wishes to intervene under section 72, Civil Procedure Code, Act V of 1908, and that no appeal lies against the order of the Collector if he refuses to intervene. RAJA RAM v. DURGA DUT. 5 P R 1910 Rev.

EXECUTION SALE.

See SALE IN EXECUTION OF DECREE.

EXECUTORS.

See PROBATE.
PROBATE AND ADMINISTRATION ACT.
Succession Act.

1. Lower Court refusing to grant probate of will to executor but granting letters of administration without the will annexed to testator's representative—No appeal by executor—Locus standi of party interested in will to appeal against grant of letter of administration.

See APPEAL I.—CIVIL. 55 P R 1894

. Release of surety for an executor on ground of waste of estate by the executor—Appeal from an order refusing discharge—Probate and Administration Act, 1881, section 86.

See APPEAL I.—CIVIL. 52 P R 1902

EXECUTORS—concld.

3. Payment of debt to representative of deceased person—Discharge—Right of executors of the deceased to ignore such payment—Notice of claim—Duty of executors—Negligence, effect of.

See REPRESENTATIVE OF DECEASED PERSON. 72 P R 1903

4. Application by one of two executors for revocation of grant of probate—"Grant has become useless and inoperative through circumstances—Dissensions between co-executors—Indian Succession Act (X of 1865), section 234 (4)—Court referring question to arbitrators.

Held, on an application under section 234 of the Indian Succession Act, 1865, by one of two executors for revocation of a probate previously granted to both that the expression that "the grant has become useless and inoperative through circumstances" in clause (4) of the section did not apply to a case where the allegation was that the two executors appointed by the will to whom probate had been granted, found it difficult to work harmoniously in concert.

Semble: that, though under section 261 of the Act the proceedings in contentious cases are to take as nearly as may be, the form of a regular suit according to the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code, the Court before whom an application under section 234 of the Act is instituted has no jurisdiction to delegate the decision of the question raised to arbitrators, even with the consent of the parties. CAMPBELL v. MRS. SIMPSON. 72 P R 1894

5. Executor—Commission on collection of assets allowed where executor had no legacy for his trouble.

Held, that an executor in India is entitled to receive a commission on the assets collected by him where no legacy has been devised to him by the testator for the former's trouble and services. IN RE THE ESTATE OF THE LATE SARDAR DAYAL SINGH. 76 P R 1905

EX PARTE DECREE.

1. Competency of appeal from ex parte Decree.

See APPEAL II.—COMPETENCY OF. 105 P R 1880

2. Order refusing to re-hear exparte case—Order passed before Act XII of 1879—Appeal filed after Act XII of 1879.

See APPEAL II.—COMPETENCY OF. 75 P R 1881

3. Appeal from.
See APPEAL II.—COMPETENCY OF, 60 P R 1883

4. Appeal from an order setting aside an ex parte decree.

See APPEAL II.—COMPETENCY OF. 103 P R 1905

EX PARTE DECREE—concld.

5. Power of Appellate Court to order security to be given for satisfaction of decree before re-hearing of appeal decided ex parte.

See APPEALLATE COURT, POWER OF. 70 P R 1885

6. Death of judgment-debtor—Competency of the legal representative of the judgment-debtor to have the ex parte decree set aside.

See CIVIL PRPCEDURE CODE, 1908 O. IX, R. 13. 36 P R 1903 42 P R 1904 60 P R 1904

7. Setting aside decree ex parte against a defendant.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 13. 72 P R 1905

8. Transfer of ex parte money decree—competency of transferee to prosecute suit on original cause of action if the ex parte decree is set aside.

See CIVIL PROCEDDRE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R 16. 78 P R 1905
DECREE.

9. Application by respondent for re hearing appeal decided ex parte.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 164. 5 P R 1897

10. Application for rehearing of appeal heard ex parte—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 169 66 P R 1885

11. Value of, as evidence.
See RES JUDICATA. 78 P R 1883

12. Application for revision of order rejecting appeal from order refusing to set aside.

See REVISION IN CIVIL CASES. 114 P R 1883

13. Payment of decretal amount in executing Court on an ex parte decree by another Court is equivalent to paying into the latter Court and does not bar an application for setting aside the ex parte decree.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT 1887. 54 P R 1910

EX PARTE SUITS.

1. In an ex parte cause sufficient evidence must be taken to show completely upon what the claim is based, and the plaintiff must make out a primâ facie case, although slight evidence of what is not contradicted may be sufficient; but plaintiff must not leave any main portion of his case to be taken for granted. RADHA LALL v. MOHKUM DASS. 85 P R 1866

2. A case should not be decided ex parte when it is brought on, on the day appointed, at a place distant from that at which the defendant was summoned to appear. GOORDIAL SINGH v. MUHEED DASS. 61 P R 1667

EX PARTE SUITS—concld.

3. In an ex parte case, if the summons on defendant is not good in law, he is entitled to a new trial. GOORMOOKH SINGH v. KOORA. 79 P R 1868

4. When a defendant applies within 30 days after process for executing the decree has been executed, for an order to set aside an ex parte decree of a small Cause Court, he is not bound to deposit in Court the amount decreed, but the Court has a discretion to pass an order as to costs. MAMOOLA v. RAM GOPAL.

59 P R 1871

5. Ex parte decree—Application by defendant to set aside—Act XI of 1865, section 21—Act X of 1877, section 100—Sufficient cause.

Held, that a defendant who is absent at an adjourned hearing, the adjournment having been granted for his benefit, is not precluded from showing sufficient cause for setting aside an ex parte decree passed against him for default.

The question of what is sufficient cause, in a particular case, to account for the non-appearance of the defendant, is a question not of law but of fact, dependent upon the circumstances of the case. SHANKAR DASS v. CROHAN. 26 P R 1879

6. Application to set aside ex parte decree previous to plaintiff's suing out execution.

Where the lower Court declined to entertain defendant's application to set aside an ex parte decree obtained against him upon the ground that such application could not be entertained until plaintiff had sued out execution of his decree, the Chief Court, on the revision side, set aside the lower Court's order as erroneous, and directed him to dispose of defendant's application on the merits. SIRDAR GURBAKHSH SINGH v. HURBUNS. 152 P R 1879

EXTINGUISHMENT OF RIGHT.

See ABANDONMENT.

1. Decree whose execution has become barred by limitation—Extinguishment of right.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 28. 3 P R 1887

2. Letter intimating that plaintiff did not wish to purchase certain land—Abandonment—Extinction of right to immoveable property.

See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17. 58 P R 1890

EXTURPI CAUSA ACTION ON ORITUR.

See FRAUD. 42 P R 1883

F.

FAQIR.

1. Will by Udasi Fakir.
See CUSTOM—ALIENATION. 29 P R 1881

2. Succession of Byraghi Fakir to his natural family.
See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION.
W. MISCELLANEOUS. 24 P R 1880

3. Succession—Kadiri Fakir of Khangah Shahgadda.
See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION.
W. MISCELLANEOUS 57 P R 1880

4. Hindu becoming a fakir—Right of.
See HINDU LAW—INHERITANCE. 1 P R 1868
15 P R 1874

5. Sanyasi Fakir—Succession to occupancy right.
See TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 36. 82 P R 1883

FALSE PERSONATION OF DEFENDANT.

Where the defendant was falsely personated at the hearing, held that the decree passed in the suit for the plaintiff was ex parte. JAMAL DEEN v. NIHAL SINGH. 87 P R 1869

FALSE REPORT.

Damages, suit for—False and malicious report—Absence of reasonable and probable cause.

Plaintiff sued to recover from defendant's Rs. 320 damages, on the allegation that defendants had falsely and maliciously reported to the Police authorities that he, plaintiff, had poisoned his step-son, in order to get his land.

Held, that to entitle plaintiff to a decree for damages, it was incumbent on him to prove that the report was made by the defendants and was false in fact, that the defendants were actuated by malice, and that the report was made without any reasonable or probable cause for so doing.

It is not sufficient to prove malice. It is essential to the success of such an action that the plaintiff should also prove the absence of any reasonable or probable cause for making the imputation complained of. MOSALLI KHAN v. HABIB KHAN. 19 P R 1879

FALSE STATEMENT OF FACTS. SUIT BASED ON.

See VENDOR AND PURCHASER. 85 P R 1879

FARIDKOT STATE. STATUS OF.

1. Suit on foreign judgment—Status of Faridkot State.

Held, that Faridkot is not, by reason of being a Protected Dependent State, devoid of the power to prescribe the rules of civil jurisdiction for its own tribunals, e. g., a rule empowering those tribunals to hear and decide a cause against a non-resident alien, when the obligation sought to be enforced was one contracted by him while resident in the State.

Held, further, that the Faridkot State is situate beyond the limits of British India as defined in the Code of Civil Procedure, and that the Faridkot Court is a foreign Court within the meaning of section 2 of the Code. RAJA OF FARIDKOT v. BIR SINGH.

191 P R 1888

2. Foreign judgment, suit on—Status of Faridkot State.

Held, that Faridkot being a Native State, the Raja of which has been recognized by Her Majesty as having an independent civil, criminal and fiscal jurisdiction, the judgment of its Courts are, and ought to be, regarded in Her Majesty's Courts of British India as foreign judgments. SIRDAR GURDYAL SINGH v. RAJA OF FARIDKOT. 112 P R 1894

FARM.

See ADVERSE POSSESSION. 63 P R 1875

See LIMITATION ACT, 1871, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 44. 41 P R 1881

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 142. 36 P R 1885

See MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE. 10 P R 1867

FARMER OF OPIUM MONOPOLY

See OPIUM ACT 1878. 114 P R 1881
105 P R 1883

FATHER'S RIGHT TO GUARDIANSHIP.

Conduct of natural guardian—Application by father who had changed his religion for the guardianship of his minor sons who had been brought up with his acquiescence as Muhammadans—Waiver of right—Welfare of minor.

See GUARDIAN. 84 P R 1894

FEES.

See under ADVOCATE.
ARBITRATOR.
COUNSELS' FEES
CUSTOM CESSES.
LEGAL PRACTITIONER ACT, 1879, SECTION 28.
PLEADER'S FEE.
PLEADER AND CLIENT.
RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION.

FEES—concld.

1. Absence of agreement—Reasonable remuneration.

In the absence of any agreement between a medical man and his patient, the former is entitled to recover as fees for medical attendance whatever appears a reasonable remuneration under the circumstances of the case.

Held, in the present case, that the sum of Rs. 376 awarded by the Commissioner was not an unreasonable amount of remuneration for 73 professional visits paid by plaintiff to defendant. ADLARD v. CLIMO.
104 P R 1879

FEMALE.

1. Competency of a female prospective heir to control the acts of a daughter who had succeeded to her father's estate.

See CUSTOM I. C.—ALIENATION BY DAUGHTER. 61 P R 1906

2. Competency of a widow entitled to succeed collaterally to contest the validity of an alienation made by the widow of a collateral of her husband.

See CUSTOM VIII H.—SUCCESSION OF WIDOWS. 72 P R 1906

FERRY.

1. Ferry rights—Act of State—Jurisdiction.

See ACT OF STATE. 56 P R 1876

2. Suit for share of ferry income.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT, JURISDICTION OF. 51 P R 1887

3. Suit for ferry tolls.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT, ACT, 165, SECTION 6. 173 P R 1888

4. Suit by lessee of Government ferry for recovery of tolls.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 13.
48 P R 1887
80 P R 1898

5. Tort—Breach of contract—Cause of action.

The plaintiffs purchased the ferry lease of the Chenab and Phulku rivers at Wazirabad giving them the exclusive right to levy tolls on those rivers. The defendant conveyed materials and workmen from the north and the south side, to the middle of the bed of the Chenab by means other than the ferry bridge thereby causing an alleged loss to plaintiffs. Held, that the action of the defendant amounted to a tort, and not to a breach of contract.

Held, further, that to create a disturbance of the rights of an ancient ferry, there must be a carrying of passengers, &c., from point to point in the line of such ferry, whether directly or indirectly, and defendant not having thus invaded the plaintiffs' exclusive right, the plaintiffs have no cause of action. MAKHAN SINGH v. THE SECY. OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL. 30 P R 1877

FERRY—concld.

FINANCIAL COMMISSIONER.

See APPEAL VII.—REVENUE.
41 P R 1867

JURISDICTION OF SETTLEMENT COURT.
50 P R 1873
39 P R 1874

MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE.
79 P R 1870

REVIEW OF JUDGMENT.
38 PR 1869
16 P R 1871
1 P R 1872 Rev.
5 P R 1881

REVISION—REVENUE.
2 P R 1910 Rev.

FODDER.

—Agriculturist—Decree against—Fodder—Liability to attachment.

See ATTACHMENT. 93 P R 1904
82 P R 1907

FORECLOSURE.

See MORTGAGE—FORECLOSURE.

See PUNJAB ALIENATION OF LAND ACT, 1900.

1. Suit for pre-emption—Foreclosure of mortgage—Omission of mortgagee to take steps under section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806—Acquiescence by mortgagor in such omission—Right of mortgagee who had obtained decree for foreclosure to plead that such decree was illegal and gave no rise to pre-emption.

See ESTOPPEL. 155 P R 1882

2. Extinction of mortgagee's rights—Suit for foreclosure-form of decree.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 28
83 P R 1883

3. Foreclosure proceedings instituted more than 12 years after determination of mortgagor's right to possession.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 135. 35 P R 1899

4. Suit for—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 147.
151 P R 1888, F B

FORECLOSURE—concld.

5. Foreclosure proceedings—Suit by mortgagor for redemption after expiry of year of grace.

See MORTGAGE—REDEMPTION.
27 P R 1900

6. Suit for—Regulation XVII of 1806.

See MORTGAGE—FORECLOSURE.

7. Notice of—Gift of equity of redemption prior to the expiry of mortgage term—Places donee in shoes of donor—Notice of, to donee necessary though donor alive.

See MORTGAGE—FORECLOSURE.
86 P R 1910

8. Mortgage by conditional sale—Mortgagee's remedy since passing of Punjab Land Alienation Act.

See MORTGAGE—FORECLOSURE.
22 P R 1910

9. Notice to pre-emptors—Person proposing to foreclose.

See PRE-EMPTION—NOTICE.
35 P R 1881
155 P R 1882
90 P R 1887

10. Regulation XVII of 1806—Application to foreclose—Minor—Notice how to be served.

Held, that the copy of the application and parwana referred to in section 8, Regulation XVII of 1806 were sufficiently served on a minor mortgagee for whom no guardian had been appointed under the Act by service on his brother with whom he lived.

2. N. W. P. Reps., 444, followed. LAL SINGH v. GOPAL DAS. 94 P R 1892

FOREIGN JUDGMENT.

1. Suit for recovery of money misappropriated by Khazanchi of Native State—Defect of jurisdiction or other like cause—Suit based on void judgment of foreign Court.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 14.
34 P R 1898

2. Suit on a foreign judgment does not lie in a Small Cause Court. KANHYA LAL v. ALLA DITTA. 97 P R 1888

See also UDE RAM v. MUSSAMMAT DAYAN. 37 P R 1889

3. Suit on—A decree of a foreign Court (e. g. of Faridkot).

Held, to be a cause of action in a Court of British India KHETA MALL v. JAWAHIR MALL. 4 P R 1874

4. Suit on—Power and status of Faridkot State—Power of State to prescribe rules of Civil jurisdiction for its own tribunals—"Foreign Court"—Competency of Raja of Faridkot to sue in British Courts—Right to sue on foreign judgment—Judgment of Native State—Cause of action—Defence to suit on foreign judgment—Plea that Court was not of competent jurisdiction—Plea of want of notice by defendant—Other admissible pleas —Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), sections 2, 14, 430—433.

FOREIGN JUDGMENT—contd.

In a suit based upon judgment of the Civil Court of the Faridkot State held that that State is not, by reason of being a Protected Dependent State, devoid of the power to prescribe the rules of Civil jurisdiction for its own tribunals, e. g. a rule empowering those tribunals to hear and decide a cause against a non-resident alien, when the obligation sought to be enforced was one contracted by him while resident in the State.

Held further, that the Faridkot State is situate beyond the limits of British India as defined in the Code of Civil Procedure, and that the Faridkot Court is a foreign Court within the meaning of section 2 of the Code.

Held, also, that the Raja of Faridkot is competent to sue in the British Courts under one or other of the sections 430—433 of the Code, either as the head of a Foreign State, recognized by the Governor-General in Council (section 431), or as a Sovereign Prince, or Ruling Chief, in alliance with the British Government (as implied by sections 432, 433), or as an alien friend (section 430), or a subject of Her Majesty, in which latter case there can be no doubt of his competency to sue.

The "private rights" referred to in section 431 (b) of the Code are those private rights of the State which must be enforced in a Court of Justice as distinguished from its political or territorial rights which must, from their very nature, be made the subject of arrangement between one State and another.

Held, that a foreign judgment may constitute a cause of action in a Court in British India, and that the judgments of Courts of Native States in India do not form any exception to the general rule.

Held, also, that it may be pleaded in our Courts as a defence to a suit on a foreign judgment that the Court which made it was not a Court of competent jurisdiction.

Held, further, that, according to the law to be administered in our own Courts, a foreign Court may be a Court competent to try the case and pronounce the judgment, notwithstanding the defendant was not a subject of or resident in the State, or present when the proceedings commenced, if the obligation in respect of which the foreign judgment was pronounced was one contracted by the defendant during his residence in the State and intended to be there fulfilled.

Held, further, that it may be a good defence in our Courts, in an action on a foreign judgment, that the defendant had no opportunity to defend himself in the foreign Court and no notice sufficient to give him such opportunity as required by the principles of natural justice, but not that the notice was not served in strict accordance with the rules of the foreign Court in that behalf.

FOREIGN JUDGMENT—contd.

Held, further, that it may be pleaded to an action in our Courts upon a foreign judgment pronounced on the merits that it is, upon its face, founded upon an inaccurate view of the law of British India, or of International Law, or that it is contrary to natural justice or has been obtained by fraud, but not that the judgment is erroneous upon the merits of the questions decided. Kheta Mull v. Jowahir Mull (No. 4 P. R. 1874) cited. RAJA OF FARIDKOT v. BIR SINGH. 191 P R 1888

5. Suit on judgment of Nahan Court—Right to sue—Cause of action—Jurisdicton— Ex parte decree—Judgment not on merits of the case—Proper procedure where Court has not gone into merits owing to omission of defendants to appear and plead in foreign Court.

A judgment of a Civil Court in the Nahan State held to form a good cause of action in a Biritish Court, No. 191 P. R. 1888, cited and followed.

Though want of jurisdiction in the foreign Court which passed the judgment sued upon is a good ground for defending a suit brought on that judgment, held that a finding by the lower Court that the foreign Court had no jurisdiction, merely because the defendants were not residing in the foreign State when the suit commenced, held no property there, were not subjects of the State, and never recognized the authority of the Court which tried the case, is not sufficient to dispose of the question of jurisdiction in the absence of a finding as to where the cause of action arose. It is a good defence to a suit brought on a foreign judgment that it has not been given on the merits; when therefore it appeared that the judgment sued upon was not on the merits at all, and only professed to be so sufficiently to justify the passing of an ex parte decree (the defendant not having appeared, and defended the suit in the foreign Court, held that this was not enough, as even in an ex parte case, the judgment should be on the merits as far as they can be ascertained ex parte.

But held further, that it did not therefore follow that plaintiff's suit should be dismissed, but that the proper order to pass was that plaintiff should now be allowed to prove his case on the merits, and that there should be a full enquiry and a decision on the merits, as if the suit had been originally brought in the British Court. MR. F. R. JONES v. ZAHRU MAL. 66 P R 1889

6. Civil Procedure Code, 1882—Suit on foreign judgment—Enquiry into the merits of case in which the judgment was passed.

According to the Code of Civil Procedure, 1882, section 14, as amended by Act VII of 1888, when a suit is instituted in British India on the judgment of a Court of a Native State in India, the Court in which the suit is instituted is not precluded from inquiry into the merits of the claim. RAMJI DAS v. MOKANDI LAL. 102 P R 1892

FOREIGN JUDGMENT—contd.

7. Foreign judgment, suit on—status of Faridkot State—Decree passed "in absentem" and "ex-parte" by foreign Court—Jurisdiction of Court—"Actor sequitur forum rei" —Cause of action.

Held, that Faridkot being a Native State, the Raja of which has been recognized by Her Majesty as having an independent civil, criminal and fiscal jurisdiction, the judgments of its Courts are, and ought to be, regarded in Her Majesty's Courts of British India as foreign judgments.

Held further, that in a personal action in a Court to which the defendant is not subject at the time of suit, there being no exception in favour of the exercise of jurisdiction against a defendant not otherwise subject to it by the Courts of the country in which the cause of action arose, or (in cases of contract) by the Courts of the locus solutionis, a decree pronounced in absentem by a foreign Court, to the jurisdiction of which the defendant has not in any way submitted himself, is by international law an absolute nullity ; that the defendant is under no obligation to obey it, and that it must be regarded as a mere nullity by the Courts of every nation, except (when authorized by special local legislation) in the country of the forum by which it was pronounced. SARDAR GURDYAL SINGH v. RAJA OF FARIDKOT. 112 P R 1894, P C

8. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 13, 14—Decree of foreign Court—Kabul Court—Compromise.

Plaintiff sued on the allegations that defendant had entered into a sort of partnership with his Highness the Amir of Kabul in regard to the tolls to be levied on fruits leaving Kabul territory, one of the terms of such agreement being that defendant was to receive one-third share and His Highness the Amir the remaining two-thirds share of the said dues; that defendant had sold his one-third share to plaintiff, and that the said transaction had resulted in a profit. Plaintiff, therefore, claimed a settlement of accounts and a sum of Rs. 17,500 to be due to him. Defendant in reply pleaded that there was a loss and not a profit on the transaction, that nothing was due to plaintiff, and that the plaintiff had already sued him in the Kabul Court, which had found that a certain sum was due to defendant, that this claim had been settled, and that plaintiff's present claim was barred by the decision of the Kabul Court. Defendant further pleaded that as plaintiff had affixed his seal to the said decision and as it had been acted upon, it should be regarded as a mutual settlement and should stand as a bar to the plaintiff's suit. It was alleged that plaintiff in December 1894, filed a petition praying His Highness the Amir to have plaintiff's accounts with defendant settled, and that this petition was referred by his Highness to the officers in charge of the Panchayatkhana at Kabul "to be directed to decide according to the principles of equity and justice the case relating to partnership business between plaintiff and defendant." It appeared that some of defendant's witnesses were examined by the said Panchayat-khana, but on plaintiff asking for time to produce his witnesses from Peshawar, the Court rejected his application on the ground that if plaintiff could produce proof from Peshawar, he might bring this fact to the notice of His Highness, "so that His Highness may pass orders on his behalf." On the 20th January 1895 the Panchayat-khana submitted its findings to His Highness, and on the receipt of his orders upon them, the Court, on the 3rd February 1895, passed its judgment whereby plaintiff was directed to pay defendant Rs. 3,213 of Kabuli coin, and defendant was mulct in Rs. 1,150 Queen's coin. The seal of plaintiff and the signature of defendant were then taken upon the said judgment.

1333

FOREIGN JUDGMENT—contd.

The lower Court held that though the order of the Kabul Court, considered as the judgment of a Foreign Court, could not be pleaded as a bar to the present suit, it amounted to a compromise binding on the plaintiff, and therefore dismissed the suit.

Held, on the facts of the case, that the said order did not amount to a compromise binding on plaintiff.

Held, further, that the judgment pleaded in bar to plaintiff's suit had not been shown to be the order of a regularly constituted tribunal having jurisdiction to pass final orders in this case, and that it had not in fact passed any such final orders, the fact that the Panchayat-khana did not pass orders on its own authority, but before giving judgment referred the case for the opinion of His Highness, clearly showing that the Court was not one of independent jurisdiction capable of finally deciding the matter before it.

When the judgment of a Foreign Court is pleaded in bar, under sections 13 and 14 of the Civil Procedure Code, it must be shown that the judgment so relied on is the judgment of a duly and regularly constituted Court of law, having independent jurisdiction to decide the matter in dispute, and, so far as the Court itself is concerned, to decide it finally. SHAHBAZ KHAN v. NUR MUHAMMAD KHAN. 2 P R 1899

9. Suit on foreign judgment—Jurisdiction of High Court of Judicature in England over Indian British subjects residing in India, under contract made and broken in England —Interest.

Held, that according to English Law, it is the duty of the debtor to seek out his creditor and pay him wherever he may be, and therefore the fees of a solicitor residing in England for work done are payable in England, when no particular place of payment is named, and non-payment is a breach within the jurisdiction of the contract, which was to be performed in England.

Held also, that a defendant who has made and broken a contract in England, and who is a British subject, is amenable to the jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature in England, after he has been properly served with notice of action in accordance with the English rules of procedure notwithstanding that he is a native of British India and residing there.

1334

FOREIGN JUDGMENT—concld.

Held also, that a judgment passed in England against a defendant in India, who has been duly served with a writ of summons but who did not enter appearance or deliver a defence, when the proceedings have been strictly in accordance with the existing rules, must be considered as one passed on the merits.

Held further, that the English Statute as to judgments carrying interest does not apply to India nor does such a case fall within the scope of Act XXXII of 1839 and plaintiff suing on a foreign judgment cannot, therefore, recover more than appears on the face of the judgment.

See JURISDICTION.

RAM CHAND v. MR. JOHN BARTLETT.
75 P R 1909

FOREIGN STATE.

—Contract made in Foreign State—Application of law of British India.
See PRINCIPAL AND SURETY.
7 P R 1882 P C

FOREIGN TERRITORY.

See BRITISH INDIA.

1. Service of summons in foreign territory.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. V, R. 25, &c. 82 P R 1869

2. Cause of action in Foreign Territory—Intricate nature of enquiry.
See JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT. 55 P R 1872

3. Liability contracted in foreign territory—Right to sue in British India.
See RIGHT TO SUE.
4 P R 1885

FOREST ACT, 1878.

Sections 2 and 67.

—Indian Forest Act, 1878, sections 2, 67 —Contract made by Military Officer invested with certain powers as forest officer—Unauthorized contract—Principal and agent—Contract Act, 1872, section 237*—Continuing breach of contract—Limitation Act,* 1877, section 23 and 2nd Schedule, article 115.

A certain forest reserve containing valuable forest produce was made over temporarily by Government to a cavalry regiment for the purposes of supplying the regiment with grass, and the officer commanding the regiment was, by two notifications issued by Government, appointed to be a forest officer for the purpose of holding charge of the area in question and was given powers under section 67 of the Forest Act in respect of such area. Thereupon the officer commanding, under the impression that he had been given unlimited powers of dealing with all the produce of the reserve, entered into a contract with plaintiff whereby the latter, in return for a consideration which the Court held to be quite inadequate, was given the power of cutting down, removing and disposing of for his own benefit practically the whole of the forest produce. The term of the contract was for the year ending 31st December 1890, but the operations of the plaintiff under the contract was brought to an end by an order of the General Officer Commanding, dated the 23rd April 1890, which was communicated to plaintiff on the 24th or 25th idem. On the 2nd January 1894 (the 1st January being a dies non) plaintiff sued the Secretary of State for India in Council for damages for breach of contract. For the defendant it was pleaded that the suit was barred by limitation; that the contract was ultra vires the authority of the officer commanding the regiment; that it had never been ratified by defendant, and that the latter was in no way bound by it. For plaintiff it was contended that the suit was within time, and the officer commanding had authority to make the contract either under the general notification of the Local Government (No. 400 F., dated 6th November 1878) or under the special notification referring to this particular reserve and constituting the officer commanding a forest officer in respect thereof. It was also urged that even if the contract was unauthorized, the Secretary of State was bound by the obligation with reference to section 237 of the Contract Act, and was estopped from denying the authority of the officer commanding, whom defendant had held out as having authority.

1335

FOREST ACT, 1878—contd.
Sections 2 and 67—contd.

Held, that, assuming there was a valid and binding contract between the parties under which plaintiff had the right to remove the forest produce to the end of 1890, it was not within the power of defendant arbitrarily to terminate the contract before the period agreed upon had expired, and consequently the relation between the parties would continue in spite of defendant preventing plaintiff from carrying out his part of it, and the breach would continue so long as defendant prevented plaintiff up to the expiry of the period fixed.

Held, therefore, that though a cause of action arose in favour of plaintiff when his operations were stopped in April 1890 and he could have sued at once on that, plaintiff had a further cause of action in respect of loss sustained subsequently to that and up to the end of the period of contract, and that consequently plaintiff's suit, which was instituted within three years of the 31st December 1890, was within time.

But, held, that defendant was in no way bound by the contract in question. Punjab Government Notification No. 400 F., dated 6th November 1878, by which powers to contract within certain pecuniary limits are conferred on different grades of forest officers, is not applicable to the case of an officer of another Department who has been appointed a forest officer for the purpose of FOREST ACT, 1878—concld.

Sections 2 and 67—concld.
looking after some petty area, and the special notifications under which the officer commanding was appointed to be a forest officer were intended merely to invest that officer with certain powers under section 67 of the Forest Act.

Held, therefore, that the notifications referred to did not in any way affect the decision of the case, which must turn on the power of the officer commanding the regiment to bind the defendant in virtue of the former's position as such commanding officer and the position which he held, because the reserve had been made over to his charge for the purpose of being used as a source of grass-supply to the regiment.

Held, upon a consideration of the special circumstances of the transaction in question, that the officer commanding the regiment, whatever his powers of contracting in respect of the area might be, had no power or authority to enter into this particular contract, regard being had to its nature, and that defendant by merely making the area over to that officer's regiment for the purpose of supplying it with grass, had not in any way held out the officer commanding as having authority to enter into a contract of this kind.

Held, further, that the evidence, oral and documentary, did not show that there had been any subsequent ratification of the contract by the defendant. GURMUKH SINGH v. SECRETARY OF STATE. 16 P R 1899

FORFEITURE.
See ACT OF STATE.
CONFISCATION OF PROPERTY.

FORFEITURE, SUIT FOR.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 143.
180 P R 1883

FORFEITURE BY TENANT.
—Unauthorized alienation by tenant—Forfeiture.
See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 34. 138 P R 1883
54 P R 1884
74 P R 1884
See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1887, SECTION 38. 2 P R 1901 Rev.

FORFEITURE BY WIDOW.
1. Remarriage of widow—Forfeiture.
See CUSTOM—VIII. SUCCESSION 1. REMARRIAGE AND UNCHASTITY OF WIDOW.
137 P R 1883
123 P R 1884
80 P R 1885
81 P R 1885
25 P R 1888
117 P R 1888
171 P R 1888
90 P R 1889
46 P R 1891
100 P R 1891
74 P R 1893
143 P R 1893
144 P R 1893
145 P R 1893
88 P R 1900
115 P R 1900

FORFEITURE BY WIDOW—concld.

2. Unchastity of widow—Forfeiture.
See CUSTOM—VIII. SUCCESSION—1. REMARRIAGE AND UNCHASTITY OF WIDOW
158 P R 1883
118 P R 1884
105 P R 1885
75 P R 1886
2 P R 1888
90 P R 1888
107 P R 1888
25 P R 1891
34 P R 1893
40 P R 1899

FORFEITURE OF PROPERTY.

—Inheritance—Forfeiture of, by a murderer and his descendants where the sole object of the murder was to secure the property of the deceased—Public policy.

Held, that when a person has been murdered with the sole object of securing his property, both the murderer and his descendants are excluded from inheriting the property of the deceased as their succession is opposed to public policy.

Mussammat Shah Khanam v. Kalandar Khan (74 P. R. 1900), and Roda v. Harnam (18 P. R. 1895, F. B.) cited and followed. MUHAMMAD KHAN v. SIS BANO. 41 P R 1906

FORM OF DECREE.
See DECREE—FORM OF.

FORM OF SUIT.
—Relief prayed for not affecting each defendant equally.
See COMPANY.
46 P R 1911

FORMAL POSSESSION.
See RIGHT TO SUE.

FRAUD.

1. Agreement to refer to arbitration—Application to file such agreement—Plea that consent to agreement was fraudulently and improperly obtained—Power of Court to investigate such plea.
See ARBITRATION. 49 P R 1893

2. Suit to set aside award of arbitrators appointed by Revenue Officer in partition proceedings—Allegation of fraud, but no dispute as to title.
See ARBITRATION. 52 P R 1898

3. Promissory note—Consideration—Shares—Bank Directors—Fraud and misrepresentation—How far misrepresentation of a Director binding on the Bank.
See BANKS. 127 P R 1889

4. Fraud and misrepresentation.
See BANKS. 72 P R 1891

5. Rights of obligor in bond paper—Cancellation to prevent fraud.
See BOND. 8 P R 1869

6. Suit to set aside decree based on award—Fraud.
See CAUSE OF ACTION—IV. MISCELLANEOUS 124 P R 1880

FRAUD—contd.

7. Compromise of suit—Finality of decree—Allegation of fraud by party to compromise.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXIII, R. 3. 114 P R 1882

8. Setting aside decree passed on a compromise—Minor—Guardian at litem—Fraud in equity—Knowledge.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXIII, R. 3 24 P R 1893

9. Money paid for expenses of marriage afterwards found to be a nullity—Fraudulent misrepresentation.
See CONTRACTS. 107 P R 1879

10. Purchase of Bank shares—Fraud and misrepresentation.
See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 17.
117 P R 1879

11. Contract entered into with one person on his representation he was another person—Fraud.
See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 17.
63 P R 1884

12. Gift of land by husband to wife—Statement before Settlement Officer—Subsequent mortgage of gifted property by donor—Voluntary conveyance in fraud of creditors.
See CONTRACT ACT, SECTION 25.
38 P R 1899

13. Plaintiff alleging his own fraud.
See ESTOPPEL. 11 P R 1875

14. Party estopped from pleading his own fraud.
See ESTOPPEL. 131 P R 1890

15. Estoppel—Fraud—Defrauded assignee pleading fraud of his assignor.
See ESTOPPEL. 38 P R 1892

16. Fraudulent alienation by insolvent—Want of consideration.
See INSOLVENCY. 1 P R 1877

17. Bill of sale—Fraudulent transfer—Insolvent—Evidence of fraud.
See INSOLVENCY. 162 P R 1879

18. Suit for damages after avoiding sale on the ground of fraud—Jurisdiction.
See JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT. 49 P R 1904

19. Party kept from knowledge of his rights through fraud—Limitation.
See LIMITATION. 67 P R 1866

20. Fraud—Pre-emption—Omission to give notice of sale to pre-emptor—Concealment of sale—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1871, SECTION 19.
46 P R 1879

21. Fraudulent concealment of sale from pre-emptor.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 18.
32 P R 1881
3 P R 1882
120 P R 1883
73 P R 1885
12 P R 1898

22. Necessity for specific finding on question of fraud.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 18.
3 P R 1882

FRAUD—contd.

23. Suit for rectification of a deed on the ground of fraud—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 95. 62 P R 1901

24. Mortgage for valuable consideration—Intent to defeat and delay a particular creditor—Fraud.

See MORTGAGE. 6 P R 1901

25. Suit for pre-emption—Sale by vendee after institution of suit, to rival pre-emptor—Fraudulent transaction—Superior diligence.

See PRE-EMPTION, PURCHASE MONEY. 32 P R 1899

26. Gift or sale—Allegation that a certain transaction in the form of a gift was really a sale—Admissibility of evidence to prove the real nature of the transaction—Fraud.

See PRE-EMPTION, CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS. 117 P R 1890

27. Pre-emption—Construction of deed—Colorable mortgage for purpose of evading law of pre-emption—Fraud.

See PER-EMPTION, CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS. 45 P R 1895

28. Pre-emption on sale—Colorable transaction—Defendant alleging his own fraud.

See PER-EMPTION, CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS. 61 P R 1895

29. Pre-emption—Mortgage or sale—Right of mortgagee to plead that mortgage was colorable to avoid pre-emption—Fraud.

See PRE-EMPTION, CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS. 99 P R 1895
100 P R 1895

30. Pre-emption—Mortgage or sale—Colorable transaction.

See PRE-EMPTION, CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS. 20 P R 1899

31. Fraudulent concealment of sale—Pre-emption—Burden of proving when fraud first became known to the plaintiff.

See PRE-EMPTION—LOSS OR WAIVER OF 34 P R 1904

32. Agency—Merchant buying goods in a foreign market on behalf of another—Principal and agent—Vendor—Fraud.

See PRINCIPAL AND AGENT 21 PR 1897

33. Promissory note—Endorsement—Absence of consideration—Fraud.

See PROMISSORY NOTE 39 P R 1880

34. Mortgage deed relating to immovable property compulsorily registrable, but registered in wrong Registry office—Admissibility of deed in evidence—Fraud.

See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 49. 44 P R 1898

35. Registration Acts—Priority of registered deed of sale over unregistered deed of mortgage—Explanation to section 50, Act III of 1877—Deed executed before Act XVI of 1864 came into operation—Fraud.

See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 50. 95 P R 1893

36. Review of judgment—Sufficient cause allegation of fraud.

See REVIEW OF JUDGMENT. 47 P R 1880

FRAUD—contd.

37. *Suit for possession—Transfer of property without consideration—Fraud—*Ex turpi causa non oritur actio.

See VENDOR AND PURCHASER. 114 P R 1879

38. Refund of purchase-money of sale induced by fraud.

See VENDOR AND PURCHASER. 26 P R 1884

39. Transfers pendente lite.

Held, that transfers pendente lite raised a presumption of fraud which might be rebutted. NIHAL SINGH v. MEWA RAM. 14 P R 1866

40. Decree obtained by fraud.

A suit will lie to set aside a decree obtained by fraud. MALAK SHAH BAZ v. MOWAZ. 31 P R 1868

41. Disposal of property by an accused person pending trial.

While plaintiff was in jail under trial on a criminal charge, his wife deposited the property in suit with defendant. The result of his trial was that plaintiff was discharged. Held, that the deposit was not fraudulent. MUNNOO KHAN v. JOWALA SINGH. 5 P R 1869

42. A decree obtained by false personation of defendant is an ex parte decree under section 119, Act VIII of 1859. JAMAL DEEN v. NIHAL SINGH. 87 P R 1869

43. Plaintiff and defendant in pari delicto—Intention to defeat creditors.

The defendant, in order to defeat his creditors, executed a deed of mortgage in favour of the plaintiff, who was aware of the mortgagor's intention. There was no consideration for the mortgage. Plaintiff's suit upon the mortgage deed was dismissed the Court holding that the plaintiff was not entitled to the assistance of the Court as his claim was based on a fraudulent transaction. ANOOPA v. BHAN SINGH. 65 P R 1871

44. "Puffing"—Fraud.

No action will lie against an employer for remuneration where the customer, in ignorance of a secret agreement between the employer and the person employed to "puff," is led to suppose that the recommendation is made, not in consequence of the pecuniary reward that the "puffer" is to get for recommending his employer's wares, but with regard to the known character and reputation of the employer. Plaintiff was about to visit the Rajah of Ulwar, by whom he was held in confidence and esteem, and agreed with the defendant to exercise his personal influence with the Rajah to induce the latter to purchase some pictures belonging to the defendant in consideration of the defendant paying him (the plaintiff) a commission at the rate of ten per cent on the amount realized by the sale. The plaintiff succeeded in getting the pictures sold to the Rajah, whom he did not acquaint with the arrangement made with the defendant as to remuneration; and sued the defendant for the commission agreed upon. Held, that plaintiff was not entitled to recover the commission. KHUAJA BUDRUDDIN v. MAHOMED FAZUL. 40 P R 1873

FRAUD—contd.

45. By Hindu Law, as by English Law, when a voluntary transfer or settlement of property so reduces the means of the person making it as necessarily to defeat or delay creditors, the transfer or settlement is fraudulent and void, without proof of an actual intention to defeat or delay creditors. A gift by a defendant (a Hindu) pendente lite out of the ancestral estate, for the maintenance of his father's widow, is not altogether "voluntary"; there being a customary obligation to provide maintenance for a father's widow. SUKH DIAL v. MUSSAMMAT RAM DITTI. 31 P R 1874

46. Plaintiff alleging his own fraud.

Plaintiff sued to cancel a deed of a mortgage, alleging that the transaction was fictitious and effected for the purpose of depriving plaintiff's nephew of his rights.

Held, that the plaintiff's suit must be dismissed, as he could not be permitted to allege his own fraud. MUTSADDI v. BHAGWAN SINGH. 11 PR 1875

47. Held, that a judgment-debtor may sell his property at any time before seizure or until it is in custodia legis, although his intent may be to defeat or delay the judgment-creditor. Such an alienation can only be vitiated by proof that there was in truth no sale at all, and that the object was to put the ownership of the property into a state of concealment; and this is not dependent only on the payment of the purchase-money, for a sale is complete when the purchase-money is agreed to be paid. LAKHA MAL v. MULAH. 21 P R 1875

48. Gift by debtor of all his property—Fraud on creditors—Presumption.

D., being indebted to plaintiff, who held a decree against him for Rs. 640, gifted a house, which was all the property he possessed, to defendant. In a suit by plaintiff to establish his right to attach the house in execution of his decree, held, (confirming the orders of the Lower Courts) that he was entitled to such a declaration; and that the gift was void as a fraud on defendant's creditors, even though no attachment had been made at the time of the gift.

Punjab Record, Civil Ruling No. 31 of 1874, cited and followed. MUSSAMMAT GANGI v. MEHR CHAND. 86 P R 1879

49. Alteration of receipt tendered in evidence—Material alteration—Inability of plaintiff to explain alteration.

In a suit by plaintiff to recover the difference between the sums alleged to have been advanced on a written contract for the supply of kankar, and the value of the kankar alleged to have been delivered, it was contended that the plaintiff was not entitled to recover on one of the receipts tendered by him in evidence, as the document on the face of it appeared to have been tampered with while in the plaintiff's possession, and the plaintiff had offered no explanation of the altered appearance which the receipt when produced in evidence bore. An examination of the document in question showed that a large bit had been torn off the paper on which the receipt was written from the bottom left-hand corner, and a date inserted on the top of the paper at the right hand corner which was apparently written at a different time from the body of the receipt, with different ink, and in a different hand-writing. It also appeared that in all the other English receipts filed by the plaintiff the date was written on the bottom left hand corner, and not at the top of the document as in this instance.

FRAUD—contd.

Held, that the condition of the receipt was clearly such as to call for a satisfactory explanation from the plaintiff, more especially as the defendant had from the first denied its genuineness, but that as no opportunity had been afforded to the plaintiff of offering any explanation, such an opportunity should be given before the appeal was finally disposed of.

Per Barkley, J.—If the alteration merely expressed the date the receipt originally bore, it would be an immaterial alteration, and in that case, unless it were made fraudulently, it would not vitiate the receipt.

The plaintiff, at the hearing consequent on the above remand, being unable to give any reasonable explanation of the suspicious appearance of the document, or to give any independent proof of the alleged payment, was held to be not entitled to receive credit for such payment which was accordingly disallowed. SETH EDULJEE BYRAMJI v. ARJAN DAS. 22 P R 1883

50. Ex turpi causa non oritur actio explained—Suit for contribution—Suit to enforce obligation not arising out of fraud of parties.

Plaintiff, a lambardar and a joint proprietor with the defendant of the village of K., sued to recover from the defendant a moiety of certain revenue which had been realized from him as lambardar by Government. It appeared that the revenue of K. had been assigned at a former Settlement to two Jagirdars, and that one of these having died at the beginning of the new settlement the fact of his death was suppressed, and the revenue which lapsed to Government remained unpaid for several years, till Government realized the whole amount from the plaintiff, who brought the present suit to recover a moiety of the amount thus realized. The lower Appellate Court dismissed the plaintiff's suit, holding that both parties having combined to conceal the fact of the Jagirdar's death were participes criminis, and the maxim ex turpi causa non oritur actio applied.

FRAUD—contd.

Held, that even assuming the facts to be as stated by the lower Appellate Court (which the Chief Court found not to be borne out by the record) the above principle had not been correctly applied to the present case: that the obligation which the plaintiff was seeking to enforce did not arise from the fact of concealing the Jagirdar's death, and therefore as the Government realized the lump sum due by the defendant and plaintiff jointly from the plaintiff as lambardar, the plaintiff in suing for contribution from his joint proprietor was not suing ex turpi causa but upon an obligation arising against the defendant by his having lawfully paid money on the defendant's account not intending to do so gratuitously (section 70, Act IX of 1872). MOHAR SINGH v. SHER SINGH. 42 P R 1883

51. Material alteration of document sued upon—Dismissal of suit in toto.

In a suit on a balance of account which was proved to have been fraudulently altered in a material part by the addition of the words "with interest," held, that the plaintiff's claim could not be allowed to stand for even the principal sum admitted by the defendant. NIHAL CHAND v. LAKHAN. 103 P R 1883

52. Act IV of 1872—Pre-emption—Fraud—Section 18, Limitation Act, 1877.

In a suit for pre-emption, which was prima facie time-barred, the plaintiff relied upon section 18 of the Limitation Act as operating to save the claim. The specific allegations of fraud made in the plaint were found not to be substantiated, but the lower Courts held that the plaintiff was entitled to the benefit of the section upon the grounds:—

(1). That the purchaser was already in possession as mortgagee.

(2). That the witnesses to the execution of the deed of sale were Hindus, and were not taken before the Sub-Registrar.

(3). That the vendor now admits that he agreed with his purchaser to conceal the fact of the sale in order to defeat the right of pre-emptors.

(4). That the plaintiff had no knowledge of the sale.

(5). That great delay occurred in applying for mutation of names, the first intimation to the patwari being given in February 1889, and the proceedings even after that suspiciously hanging fire until August 1890.

Held, that as the plaintiff had failed to substantiate the specific acts relied upon in his plaint as constituting the fraud practised upon him, the Court could not feel satisfied upon the grounds stated that any active concealment of the sale had taken place, and that the suit therefore failed.

No. 46 P. R. 1879, No. 3 P. R. 1882, and I. L. R. 15 Calc., 533, referred to. ATMA RAM. v. MEHARDIL KHAN. 91 P R 1893

FRAUD—contd.

53. Pre-emption—Fraudulent concealment of sale—Limitation Act, 1877, section 18, knowledge of facts, presumption as to.

In a suit for pre-emption it appeared that the deed of sale, which was described in two places in itself as a mortgage-deed, was dated 12th December 1876, and was registered on the same date at the tahsil, three or four miles from the village in which the land in suit was situate; that the marginal witnesses were residents of villages other than that in which the vendor and vendee resided and where the land was situate; that from 1876 till 1895 the vendee continued to be recorded, as before as tenant of the said land; that on the 19th September 1894, a measurement clerk reported that a sale had taken place and that the vendee was in possession; that on the 1st October 1895 mutation of names was effected in the vendee's favour by order of the Tahsildar, and that the residents of the village in which the land was situate, as a body, were not aware of the sale. The plaint was filed in February 1896, concealment of the sale being therein alleged and the pre-emptor, when examined before issues were framed, pleaded fraud by which he had been deceived. The first Court decreed the claim, finding that the fact of the sale became known to plaintiff on the 1st October 1895, and that there had been frandulent conceal ment thereof, but the Divisional Judge on appeal dismissed the suit as barred by limitation calculating either from the date of registration or from the 19th September 1894.

Plaintiff appealed to the Chief Court, and in addition to the facts above-mentioned, on which his allegation of fraudulent concealment was based further urged in support of such allegation the fact that on the death of the vendor in 1881, his son was recorded as owner in his place.

Held, that though each of the facts above set forth when taken alone might be merely suspicious, yet when found to concur, they established fraudulent concealment within the meaning of section 18 of the Limitation Act.

Held, further, that, fraudulent concealment having been established respondent, upon whom the onus rested, had not proved that the appellant had knowledge of the sale more than one year before suit, which was therefore within time. ABDUL RAHIM KHAN v. MUHAMMAD YAR. 12 P R 1898

54. Pre-emption—Fraudulent concealment of sale—Limitation Act, 1877, section 18—Burden of proving when fraud first became known to the plaintiff.

Where an original transaction is tainted by fraud it lies on the party against whom fraud is found to prove that the want of knowledge was not caused by fraud or that the plaintiff had a clear and definite knowledge of the fraud for more than the period of limitation allowed.

Abdul Rahim Khan v. Muhammad Yar and others (12 P. R. 1898), cited. GORDHAN DAS v. AHMAD. 34 P R 1904

FRAUD—contd.

55. Fraud—Alleging or pleading fraud.—Defendant pleading joint fraud—Par delictum.

On 15th June 1896 the plaintiff, an occupancy tenant, mortgaged his land to the defendant. His landlord thereupon brought a suit for the cancellation of the mortgage, the present plaintiff resisted the claim, on the ground that the contract had been rescinded, and filed a receipt in which the present defendant acknowledged the repayment of the mortgage debt. In 1899 mutation of names as mortgagee were granted in favour of the defendant who has since then been admittedly in possession of the mortgaged property. In 1902 the plaintiff filed the present suit for possession of the land, on the allegation that the mortgage having been mutually rescinded, the defendant had no right to remain in possession. The defendant pleaded, that in order to avoid the landlord's suit, plaintiff and he had made a pretence of redeeming the mortgage which had never been actually redeemed. Both the lower Courts ignored the defendant's pleadings, on the ground that he could not plead his own fraud.

Held, that the defendant was not precluded from pleading the joint fraud of himself and the plaintiff and showing the real nature of the transaction. The fraud was concocted between the parties with a view to defeat the landlord's claim, and it did not prevent either of them from pleading it against the other.

Hafiz Abdul Karim v. Muhammad Yusaf (61 P. R. 1895), cited and followed. JIWAN SINGH v. JORA. 25 P R 1905

56. Fraud and misrepresentation—Defendant's reliance on plaintiff's representation—Estoppel by conduct—Equity.

One 'B' died in October 1900, leaving behind him an uncle aged 34, two minor cousins, and three sisters. The uncle took possession of the estate left by the deceased and managed it. On 25th July 1901 an agreement was executed by the uncle and the mothers of the two minor cousins, appointing one 'D,' the brother-in-law of 'B,' as an arbitrator for adopting one of the cousins named Bhagat Ram, aged 14 years, whom according to the agreement, the deceased had, during his lifetime, nominated to be appointed as his adopted son. This clause was subsequently added on the margin of the agreement at the uncle's request and was attested by him. The award was given by the arbitrator on 27th July. It contained that according to the desire expressed by the deceased during his lifetime his cousin Bhagat Ram should be made his adopted son, and provisions for charitable funds and for marriages of minor sisters of the deceased and maintenance of the uncle and others as required by the reference were reserved. Thereupon the uncle executed a deed of release whereby he and the other reversionary heirs acknowledged Bhagat Ram as adopted son of 'B', and agreed to abide by the settlement made by the arbitrator, which document was registered with the award on 30th July.

FRAUD—concld.

Immediately after an agreement was executed by the mother of the adopted son giving her son in adoption, and a power of attorney appointing the arbitrator as a general agent for managing his business. On 31st July the uncle handed over the estate and books of the deceased of which he had hitherto held possession as a manager and heir to the arbitrator.

On 26th July 1904, the uncle sued for his one-third share on the allegation that he was induced to execute the several documents described above in consequence of the fraud and undue influence of the arbitrator. As a fact, there was no proof to substantiate either of the allegation of misrepresentation, fraud or undue influence, but the Court decreed the claim on the ground that the transaction was not an equitable one, the adoption being invalid, and the plaintiff sustained damage in consequence thereof.

Held that the relative circumstances of the parties and the voluntary and deliberate actions of the plaintiff throughout the whole transaction negatived the slightest chance of any false inducement, representation or undue influence, and under no circumstances could he now recede from the position deliberately adopted by him in the matter, and that he was stopped from questioning the validity of the adoption which he himself had encouraged and concurred in.

Equity alone will not grant relief and avoid the deeds where the person executing is not only cognizant of the facts but had initiated the whole proceedings and had secured a personal benefit for himself to which he was not otherwise entitled. BHAGAT RAM v. GOKAL CHAND. 150 P R 1908

57. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 230—Execution of decree—Limitation—Continuation of previous application for execution—Fraud, question of, raised for the first time on appeal.

Held, that it is doubtful whether it is open to the decree-holder to raise questions of fraud for the first time in appeal and that the mere fact that the judgment-debtor filed an appeal in connection with the execution proceedings does not constitute fraud. HIRU v. GURCHARAN. 17 P R 1910

58. Pre-emption—Fraudulent over-statement of sale price—How far successful pre-emptor bound by.

Held, that though a pre-emptor who obtains a decree becomes in many respects identified in interest with the original vendee, he cannot be held a particeps criminis in a fraud perpetrated by the vendee, which he himself brought to light and succeeded in frustrating. DAN SINGH, &c. v. PHANGAN SINGH, &c. 83 P R 1911

FRUIT GARDEN.

1. Suit for possession of—value of, for purposes of Court-fee.

See COURT FEE, ACT, 1870, SECTION 7 V (e). 33 P R 1880

2. A suit for land occupied as a fruit garden is a land suit within the meaning of the Punjab Courts Act, unless such land be the courtyard or the compound of a house. JHANDA KHAN v FATEH DIN. 111 P R 1890

FRUIT GARDEN—concld.

3. A suit for possession of a half share in an orchard, that is, in the fruit trees, is not a land suit, within the definition of that term contained in section 3, Punjab Courts Act, 1884. DHANI DAS v. AYA RAM. 15 P R 1892

4. A suit for date trees, no claim being made in respect of the land upon which the trees stand, is not a land suit within the definition of that term contained in section 3, Punjab Courts' Act, 1884, as amended. YARU v. ADIL. 46 P R 1893

5. Right to future fruit crops and fruit on trees is a right in immovable property under the General Clauses Act, X of 1897, section 3, clause 25, but they are movable property for the purposes of Registration Act. ASA RAM v. NUR DIN. 66 P R 1900

FRUIT UPON TREES.

Moveable property.

See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17. 72 P R 1884

FURTHER APPEAL.

See APPEAL, SECOND.

PUNJAB COURTS ACT, 1884, SECTION 40.

FURTHER RELIEF.

See DECLARATORY DECREE.

Held, a plaintiff cannot bring a mere declaratory suit in respect of land, because it is not in possession of the defendant but in possession of tenants under the defendant. ABDUL GHAFFUR v. MUSSAMMAT MEHAR-UN-NISA. 101 P R 1909

G.

GAMING AND WAGERING.

See BADNI TRANSACTIONS.

—Raffles—Wagers.

The value of the property raffled was divided into shares of Rs. 4 each, defendant purchasing several shares for which he gave a promissory note. For every share certain throws with dice were allowed, and the person throwing highest was declared the owner of the property.

Held, that under Act V of 1844 and XXI of 1848, defendant was not liable on the promissry note. ORAM v. HAWKES. 16 P R 1868

GENERAL CLAUSES ACT (I OF 1868).

Section 2.

1. "Immoveable property," definition of—Benefit to arise out of land—Jagir income.

A suit was filed on the 4th January 1892, based on a bond, dated the 13th June 1883, hypothecating certain jagir income.

GENERAL CLAUSES ACT (I OF 1868)—concld.

Section 2—concld.

The lower Courts dismissed the claim as barred by limitation, according to the first Court under Article 75, and according to the Divisional Court, under Article 116 of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act.

Held, that looking at the definition of immoveable property given in section 2 of the General Clauses Act, jagir income is a "benefit to arise out of land" within the meaning of that definition and that, therefore, the suit was within time under Article 132 of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act. RAM PERSHAD v. KISHEN SINGH.

4 P R 1894

2. Pre-emption—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 9—Rights to use water of perennial stream—"Immovable property"—General Clauses Act, 1868, section 2 (5).

Held, that inasmuch as the water of a perennial stream comes out of land, the right to use such water is "a benefit arising out of land," and is, therefore, "immovable property" within the meaning of section 2 (5) of the General Clauses Act, 1868, so as to found a suit for pre-emption in respect of a sale thereof under section 9 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872. ALAM SHER v. RAM CHAND.

11 P R 1898

Section 3 (2).

Time within which a document should be registered—Within four months from its execution—Construction of "from."

In computing the period of four months provided for registration by section 23, Registration Act, the day on which the document was executed is excluded by force of section 3 (2) of the General Clauses Act, (I of 1868. MALIK PARMANAND v. KALA.

90 P R 1890

Section 6.

See REPEAL OF ACT.

121 P R 1879

GENERAL CLAUSES ACT (X OF 1897).

Section 3.

Right to future fruit crops and fruit on trees is a right in immovable property under clause 25 of section 3 of the General Clauses Act, X of 1897—though they are movable property for the purposes of the Registration Act. ASA RAM v. NUR DIN.

66 P R 1900

Section 6.

1. Effect of a new Act on the previous operation of the enactment repealed.

See APPEAL II—COMPETENCY OF

12 P R 1900

2. Applies to points of resjudicata.

See HINDU FAMILY. 97 P R 1910

3. Provincial Insolvency Act 1907, sections 27 and 43—Applicability of to proceedings

GENERAL CLAUSES ACT (X OF 1897)—concld.

Section 6—concld.

commenced under section 25 and 28 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872.

Held, that under the provisions of section 6 of the General Clauses Act, 1897, proceedings against an insolvent begun under the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, sections 25 and 28, and pending when the Provincial Insolvency Act, 1907, came into force, must be continued under the former Act. GANPAT RAI v. MALLA MAL.

11 P R 1910

KISHEN CHAND v. SASSOON.

12 P R 1910

Section 14.

Cantonments Act, 1889, section 4 (2)—Power of Government to define the limits of any cantonment so as to extend them—General Clauses Act, 1897, section 14.

See CANTONMENTS ACT, 1889, SECTION 4 (2). 24 P R 1910

GENERAL HYPOTHECATION.

See MORTGAGE.

GESTATION.

Period of gestation.

See EVIDENCE ACT, 1872, SECTION 2.

76 P R 1891

GHARJAWAI.

See KHANA-DAMAD.

GHAIR-MUMKIN LAND.

—Ghair-mumkin land outside the abadi and attached to a well upon which khurlis are built and bhusa is stacked is "land" within the meaning of section 4 (1) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. GHANDU SINGH v. NATHA SINGH. 12 P R 1907

GIFT.

See under CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION.
HINDU LAW, GIFT.
MUHAMMADAN LAW, GIFT.

1. Gift by Hindu Widow—Suit by daughter for possession of property gifted—Adverse possession by donee.

See ADVERSE POSSESSION.

15 P R 1879

2. Admissibility of unregistered deed of gift to prove collateral fact.

See CAUSE OF ACTION IV.—MISCELLANEOUS. 16 P R 1897

3. A paid money to B to be distributed for charitable purposes—Suit by A to recover such money from B.

See CHARITABLE TRUSTS.

43 P R 1867

4. Document described as will but giving specific shares to the heirs of the executant—Followed by possession.

See CONSTRUCTION OF DOCUMENT.

74 P R 1904

GIFT—contd.

5. Death-bed gift—Hiba bil iwaz.

See CONTRACT ACT, SECTION 25.

61 P R 1893

DEATH-BED GIFT.

15 P R 1895

LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 91. 52 P R 1895

6. Gift by debtor of all his property—Presumption—Fraud.

See FRAUD. 86 P R 1879

7. Gift to certain persons for purposes of a society not then in existence—Subsequent incorporation of such society under Act XXI of 1860—No formal written transfer of rights by original donees—Right of Managing Committee to sue in respect of such gift.

See INCORPORATED SOCIETY.

41 P R 1897

8. Suit by reversioner for possession of immovable property—Defendant in possession under an alleged gift or will—Reversioner not barred by reason of his having failed to contest such gift or will within the period prescribed by article 91 of the Limitation Act.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 91.

79 P R 1905

9. Gift of equity of redemption prior to the expiry of the mortgage term—Validity of such gift under Muhammadan Law.

See MORTGAGE—FORECLOSURE.

86 P R 1910

10. Gift by occupancy tenant without offer to landlord.

See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 34. 109 P R 1881

11. Oral gift of immovable property creating charitable trust—Indian Trust Act, 1882, section 5—Locus standi of third parties to contest gift.

Held, that a gift of immovable property creating a public charitable trust does not fall within the purview of the Trust Act, 1882 and that therefore it is not essential that it should be in writing signed by the author of the trust or the trustee and registered.

Held, also that when such a gift is upheld by the donor in Court, third parties cannot contest the donee's title. SANATAN DHARM SABHA, HOSHIARPUR v. MUSSAMMAT SOBHI.

75 P R 1903

12. Gift to two or more persons without specifying their respective shares—Construction and nature—Tenants in common—Share of each passes to his representative.

'A,' a Hindu widow, by a registered deed gifted one of her houses to her four married daughters without specifying the shares, upon which the donees were to hold the house severally. After the death of one of the daughters the other three sold the entire house. Thereupon the husband of the deceased donee sued to recover one-fourth share of the sale price in respect of her one-fourth share of the house. The defence contended that the gift was one in joint tenancy with right of survivorship, and that therefore on the death of one of the four donees the share of the deceased lapsed to the survivors; and that in any case the share of the deceased being her stridhan would go to her mother, and failing the latter, to her sister.

GIFT—concld.

Held, that a gift to two or more persons is not a gift in joint tenancy merely because the shares of the donees are not defined therein, and that in cases where the donees are incapable of forming a joint Hindu family, they should, in the absence of a declaration in the deed of gift to the contrary, be presumed to hold as tenants in common without benefit of survivorship, in which case the share of those dying passes to their personal representatives.

Held also, that the stridhan of a Hindu wife dying childless who has been married in one of the four approved forms of marriage devolves upon her husband and not on her parents or their heirs. MUNNI v. UMRAO SINGH. 39 P R 1909

GOMASHTA.

Appointment of one member of a joint Hindu Family gomashta and partner—All the family not thereby made members of partnership. HONDA RAM v. DESU RAM. 162 P R 1888

GOOD FAITH.

See PRE-EMPTION. 13 P R 1908

GOVERNMENT CURRENCY NOTE.

—Stolen currency note—Bona fide holder—Liability of.

See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 108. 18 P R 1905

GOVERNMENT—GRANT BY.

See GRANT BY GOVERNMENT.

GOVERNMENT OFFICERS.

See ACT OF STATE.

1. Compensation to house owners—Delhi Palace fortifications—Act of Government Officer binding on Government.
See COMPENSATION. 57 P R 1869

2. Suit against a Government Officer as representative of Government—Jurisdiction.
See JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT. 89 P R 1867

3. Public agent—Scope of authority—Liability of Government for unauthorized acts of agent.
See PRINCIPAL AND AGENT. 64 P R 1875

GOVERNMENT TENANTS ACT, 1893.

In matters of succession special tenancies created by this Act, are governed by the provisions of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. SAHIBZADA v. JAWAYA. 14 P R 1908

GRAIN PAYMENTS.

See JAGIR AND MAFI ESTATES.
OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.
PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 16.

GRAND-DAUGHTER.

—Gift to.
See under CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION A (1) (e)—GIFTS, &C., TO DAUGHTERS AND THEIR CHILDREN.

GRAND-MOTHER.

—Succession of—Re-marriage.
See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION. I.—REMARRIAGE, &C., OF WIDOWS. 171 P R 1888

GRAND-NEPHEW.

—Gift to.
See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION A (1) (c) (i)—GIFTS IN FAVOUR OF NEPHEWS AND GRAND-NEPHEWS, PROVED. 33 P R 1905

GRAND-SON.

1. Right of, whose father has pre-deceased the grand-father in the estate of the latter.
See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION. C.—OF SONS AND GRANDSONS. 50 P R 1904

2. Held, that by custom among Nigar Jats of the Jullundur tahsil, the widow of the grandson is entitled to succeed for life or until remarriage equally with the son of a deceased proprietor. ISHAR, &C., v. MUSSAMMAT BASANTI, &C. 19 P R 1911

GRANT BY GOVERNMENT.

1. Construction of—Joint and several interest—Survivorship.
See CONSTRUCTION OF DOCUMENT. 27 P R 1891

2. Lease of Government village on condition that if certain stipulations entered into by the lessee were fulfilled, propietary rights in the village would be conferred on him—Power of such lessee to alienate his rights without sanction of Government
See CAVEAT EMPTOR. 62 P R 1893

3. Jagirdar under grant from Sikh Government—Occupancy rights.
See JAGIR. 2 P R 1892, Rev

4. Grant of muafi originally made by Moghal Emperors—Jagirdar—Occupancy rights.
See JAGIR. 2 P R 1897, Rev

5. Pensions Act, (XXIII of 1871) sections 406—Crown grant—Certificate—Omission to obtain certificate before institution of suit.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURT. 17 P R 1882

6. Grant of shamilat land by Government—Succession to, on death of grantee.
See LIMITATION. 20 P R 1910

GRANT OF LAND REVENUE.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS. 36 P R 1874
9 P R 1875
10 P R 1875
1 P R 1876

GRAVEYARD.

—A suit for a portion of village graveyard is not a land suit.
See APPEAL VIII.—SECOND 20 P R 1892

GRAZING DUES.

See CUSTOM V.—CESSES AND DUES. 61 P R 1875
See JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT. 11 P R 1872
109 P R 1876
63 P R 1877
See LIMITATION ACT, 1871, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 6 3 P R 1875
See TIRNI. 142 P R 1879

GRAZING RIGHTS.

See COMMON LAND. 108 P R 1876
119 P R 1889
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 28. 106 P R 1883
See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS. 100 P R 1881

GROUND RENT—SUIT FOR.

See JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT. 177 P R 1882
166 P R 1883
See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 21 P R 1888
See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 8. 1 P R 1894

GROSS ANNUAL RENT.

—Includes house-tax payable by tenant to landlord.
See PUNJAB MUNICIPAL ACT, 1891. 46 P R 1910

GROWING CROPS.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 14 P R 1894
See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 27. 99 P R 1879
See VENDOR AND PURCHASER. 36 P 1883

GRUNTHEE AND GUDDEE NASHIN.

See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION.

GUARANTEE.

See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 23. 112 P R 1892
See PRINCIPAL AND AGENT. 98 P R 1869
See PRINCIPAL AND SURETY, Passim.

GUARDIAN.

See MINOR.

1. Parent making a betrothal contract for his child and then dying—Power of guardian to make another contract for such child.
See BETROTHAL. 21 P R 1868
7 P R 1880

2. Guardian of minor—Liability for breach of betrothal contract.
See BETROTHAL. 197 P R 1882

3. Suit to redeem property first mortgaged and afterwards sold during plaintiff's minority by guardian.
See BURDEN OF PROOF. 117 P R 18[illegible]0

4. Guardian of minor Widow.
See CERTIFICATE UNDER ACT XL OF 1858. 25 P R 1881

5. Guardianship of minor—Application by mother who had previously entrusted her children to a third party under an agreement not to take them back during their minority without repaying the outlay incurred—Mother's right to an unconditional order notwithstanding such agreement.
See CUSTODY OF MINOR. 15 P R 1887

GUARDIAN—contd.

6. Custody of minor—Division of guardianship between two guardians.
See CUSTODY OF MINOR.
44 P R 1887

7. Application by father for custody of minor girl—Defendant setting up marriage with the girl performed in absence of father by authority of her mother—Defendant's right to inquiry as to validity of marrige set up by him—Summary proceeding—Separate suit.
See CUSTODY OF MINOR.
113 P R 1888

8. Discretion of Court under Act IX of 1861—Principles on which such discretion should be exercised—Guardianship of minor for purposes of marriage.
See CUSTODY OF MINOR.
163 P R 1889

9. Suit for custody of minor—Jurisdiction of Court other than District Court—Munsif of first class—Guardian and Wards Act, 1880, sections 17, 48.
See CUSTODY OF MINOR.
10 P R 1897

10. Application by guardian for custody of minor—Appeal—Guardian and Wards Act, 1890, sections 12, 25, 47 (c)—Revision—Right of guardian to custody of minor.
See CUSTODY OF MINOR.
13 P R 1897

11. Hindu Law—Marriage of minor, minor given in marriage by person other than her guardians—Suit by guardians for custody of minor.
See CUSTODY OF WIFE.
24 P R 1897

12. Alienation by guardian—Validity of mortgage.
See CUSTOM I. G.—ALIENATION BY GUARDIAN. 58 P R 1891

13. Invalidity of sale of a Muhammadan minor's property—Gujar of mauza Daliwal, tahsil Hoshiarpur.
See CUSTOM II.—ALIENATION BY DE FACTO GUARDIAN.
65 P R 1893

14. Guardian of minor—Consent—Inablity of Guardian to contest his own acts.
See ESTOPPEL. 121 P R 1889

15. Girl of 6 years of age—Betrothal—Right of father—Hindu Law.
See HINDU LAW, GUARDIANSHIP.
101 P R 1866

16. Mother's right to select a husband for her daughter with the advice of the kinsman—Validity of marriage entered into without guardian's consent.
See HINDU LAW—MARRIAGE.
64 P R 1884

17. Marriage of a minor Hindu widow by chadar-andazi—Consent of lawful guardian

GUARDIAN—contd.

to such marriage necessary—Presumption of legality of marriage—Khatris of Lahore—Act XVI of 1856.
See HINDU LAW—MARRIAGE.
49 P R 1903

18. Of minor—Application by, during minor's infancy.
See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SECTION 7. 91 P R 1885

19. Suit by minor against guardian for an account and for possession of immovable property—Trustee.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 7.
33 P R 1897

20. Power of, to sign acknowledgment binding on minor—Duly authorised agent.
See LIMITATION ACT, (XV OF 1877), SECTION 19. 25 P R 1886

21. Acknowledgment—Duly authorised agent—Sale of goods to firm represented by minors—Appointment of two joint guardians by Court under Act XL of 1858—Power of one guardian to sign acknowledgment on his behalf and on behalf of his Co-guardian.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 19.
7 P R 1890

22. Acknowledgment of debt by Court of Wards as guardian of minor.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 19.
1 P R 1897

23. Suit by minor on attaining majority to set aside a sale by person purporting to act as guardian.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 44. 135 P R 1892

24. Suit by minor after attaining majority to recover land sold by his guardian—Nature of purchaser's title.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 44. 57 P R 1891
19 P R 1902

25. Suit against, for specified sums received during plaintiff's minority—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 62.
56 P R 1883

26. Suit by minor on attaining majority to recover land mortgaged by his guardian—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 91.
23 P R 1904
28 P R 1909

27. Guardian and ward—Suit by ward after attaining majority for account.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 120. 84 P R 1891

28. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 463—Suit on behalf of alleged lunatic not so adjudged—Appointment by Court of guardian ad litem—Practice—Act XXXV of 1858.
See LUNATIC. 31 P R 1905

29. Period of minority where guardian has once been appointed but appointment considered improper by Appellate Court.
See MINORITY. 45 P R 1900, F B

GUARDIAN—contd.

30. Pledge of joint family property by elder brothers how far binding on minor brothers—Presumption.
See MUHAMMADAN LAW—JOINT FAMILY.
66 P R 1899

31. Contract of marriage—Infant—Parent or guardians.
See MUHAMMADAN LAW—MARRIAGE.
53 P R 1875
157 P R 1879

32. Guardians for marriage—marriage contracted by mother in lifetime of father—Effect of delegation of his right by nearer to more remote guardian—Power of minor female whose marriage has been contracted by guardian other than father to repudiate the marriage on attaining puberty.
See MUHAMMADAN LAW—MARRIAGE.
51 P R 1888

33. Pre-emption—Guardian and minor—Claim of minor barred by conduct of guardian.
See PRE-EMPTION. 1 P R 1873

34. Liability of minor for the acts of the agent of his guardian.
See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17. 37 P R 1900

35. Suit to recover money spent in connection with the guardianship of a minor—Suit relating to a trust.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT, JURISDICTION OF. 58 P R 1902

36. Compromise of suit by guardian ad litem without sanction of Court—Competency of guardian to give away portion of property to which ward's title was in dispute.
See WITHDRAWAL OF SUIT.
3 P R 1905

37. Held, that Act IX of 1861 gave jurisdiction to the Punjab Courts as to the appointment of guardians, but that the Act did not apply to European British subjects. IN RE TWITCHEN. 23 P R 1867

38. Suit against minor—Appointment of guardian—Procedure.

Where plaintiff sued defendant, a minor, and obtained a decree against him, the Chief Court reversed the decree and ordered the suit to be tried by the Deputy Commissioner, with instructions to him to appoint a guardian or manager under Act XL of 1858, and to direct plaintiff to implead the person so appointed. FAZL BEG v. CHELA MULL.
45 P R 1872

39. Mortgage—Necessity.

A surbarah or manager of a minor's property can, without the intervention of the Court, mortgage the estate to meet pressing demands against it. ALLA DITTA v. HIMMAT.
52 P R 1872

40. Custody of Minor—Contract Act, section 23—Void contract—Act IX of 1861, discretion of Court under,—Principles on which such discretion should be exercised.

GUARDIAN—contd.

A contract by which the parents of a minor child who professed the Jewish religion made over their child to a clergyman of the Church of England for a certain period on certain conditions held (per THORNTON, J.) to be void under section 23 of the Contract Act, as being of such a nature that if permitted it would defeat the provisions of Act IX of 1861, and Act IV of 1872.

Per Curiam.—When a Court is called upon to exercise jurisdiction under Act IX of 1861, it has an absolute judicial discretion to make such order as it shall think fit in respect to the custody or guardianship of the minor. The exercise of such a jurisdiction is not fettered by any agreement entered into by a parent with another person as to the custody of the infant, though the fact of such an agreement having been made may properly be considered and may influence and direct the Court in its determination of the order to be made in a particular case.

The principles which should influence the Court in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Act IX of 1861 discussed. MURRAY v. SASSOON BIN SOLOMON. 140 P R 1879

41. Act XL of 1858—Certificate—Specification of property of minor.

It is incorrect for the District Judge to specify the property in respect of which a certificate is granted under Act XL of 1858, nor has he power to make any binding declaration as to the amount or description of the minor's property. MUSSAMMAT RAMBHAJJI v. HARNARAIN. 15 P R 1889

42. Suit against guardian of minor, instead of against minor under the guardianship of his mother—Power to rectify such error.

In a suit brought upon a foreign judgment it appeared that the plaintiff had committed the error of making the mother and guardian of the real defendant (a minor) the defendant, instead of making the minor the defendant under the guardianship of his mother. The Chief Court, while pointing out that the mistake could be rectified by striking out the name of the mother, against whom no cause of action was disclosed, and entering the name of the minor as defendant, refused to adopt the above course in the present case on the ground that the suit would primâ facie have to be dismissed as barred by limitation since limitation would run from the date of the judgment sued upon to the date of the order making the minor a defendant (Civil Procedure Code, section 32), and the period of limitation under article 117 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act had thus expired, and the appellant was unable to suggest any valid ground for an extension of the period. UDE RAM v. MUSSAMMAT DAYAN. 37 P R 1889

43. Creditor—Liability of minor on balance struck by de facto guardian.

Held, that a balance struck by a de facto guardian on behalf of a minor should be strictly examined. The minor will not be bound unless great care and caution are shown by the guardian and the transaction is proved to be for the minor's benefit. HIRA SINGH v. CHETU. 97 P R 1889

GUARDIAN—contd.

44. Act XL of 1858, section 3.

The mode of appointment of a guardian under section 3, Act XL of 1858, is by a certificate. MUSSAMMAT RAMBHAJJI v. HARNARAIN. 105 P R 1889

45. Act XL of 1858, section 21—Minor—Revocation of certificate granted to guardian—Making over the property to successor—Accounting for money received and disbursed.

A. a Hindu, died leaving as heirs a brother B. and a minor widow C. B. was at first appointed guardian of C. under Act XL of 1858. Disputes having arisen between B. and C., B. sued C. for possession of the entire estate of A. on the ground of survivorship, to the exclusion of C. C. asserted her own exclusive right to succeed to the whole. Arbitrators were appointed, D. being one of them, and the suit decided according to the award, which divided A.'s estate among his relations. On the same date the District Judge granted a certificate to D. in supersession of that previously granted to B. D. then applied under section 21 of the Minors Act, that B. be compelled to make over to him the entire estate of A. and also to account for moneys received and disbursed. The District Judge rejected the application. D. appealed to the Chief Court from both the last mentioned order and the decree based on the award. The Chief Court held in the appeal from the decree that the case should be remanded for an inquiry into the question, whether the compromise was for the benefit of the minor, and directed that in case this question were answered in the negative, the case be proceeded with on its merits. On the appeal from the order, held, that assuming that a Court, acting under section 21 of Act XL of 1858, can issue an order to a person whose certificate has been recalled, the order must be limited to property of the estate of the minor in the hands of the late grantee, and to account of moneys forming part of that estate. When the respective titles of the first grantee and of the minor (under the guardianship of the second grantee) to take the whole estate of a deceased person are in dispute and sub judice, it would be injudicious to direct a second inquiry under Act XL of 1858, as to what estate the minor was entitled to and the application should consequently be refused. This would not have the effect of excluding the petitioner, for he could sue the first grantee under section 19, or might on the termination of the pending suit apply again under section 21.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF MUSSAMMAT RAMBHAJJI, A MINOR, SETH DORABJI v. HARNARAIN. 117 P R 1889

46. Act XL of 1858, sections 7, 9, 10 and 12—Minor—Land-holder—Guardianship—Near relation—Collector.

The District Judge appointed a Tahsildar as curator of the property of a minor landholder under section 10.

Held, that the order was ultra vires. A Civil Court has no authority under the Act to appoint an official, virtute officii, as manager of a minor's estate except under section 12, which empowers the Civil Court to direct the Collector to take charge of the minor's estate when it consists in whole or in part of land or of any interest in land. MUSSAMMAT PAREMON v. HIRA. 124 P R 1889

GUARDIAN—contd.

47. Act XL of 1858—Power to appoint two managers of property of minor.

Held, that Act XL of 1858, though it provides that the manager of the minor's estate and the guardian of his person may be different persons, does not empower the Court to appoint different managers for different portions of the estate. MUSSAMMAT BAL KOUR v. GANPAT. 181 P R 1888

48. Act XL of 1858, sections 6, 7, 9—Guardianship of minor's property.

An application having been made to a District Judge for the appointment of a guardian to take charge of the property of certain minors, the latter officer made over the case for inquiry and report to a Tahsildar, and on receipt of a return to the order, summarily rejected the application. Held, that the District Judge was not justified in disposing of the case so summarily. Before passing orders in the case, he was bound to consider whether there was any near relative of the minors willing and fit to be entrusted with the charge of the property, and in the absence of such, whether it was necessary for the interests of the minors, that provision should be made for the charge of their property. CHARINJIT SINGH v. RAM SINGH. 202 P R 1889

49. Act XL of 1858, section 18—Sale by certificated guardian with sanction of Court—Nature of sanction.

The District Judge passed an order under section 18, Act XL of 1858, permitting an alienation of the minor's property if it be done in good faith for their benefit. The guardian alienated the property for the purpose of discharging ancestral debt. The minors impugned the sale on the ground (inter alia) that the permission given did not satisfy the requirements of section 18, Act XL of 1858.

Held, that the permission was legal and valid, and sufficient to render the sale binding if the conditions laid down were complied with. On the facts of the case, it was found that the sale was for necessary purposes.

A certified copy of the order granting permission to sell was produced in the case. The original could not be found. The copy was admitted in evidence, and presumed to be genuine under the provisions of section 79, Evidence Act (I of 1872). CHAUTH MAL v. GODHU. 56 P R 1890

GUARDIAN—contd.

50. Act XL of 1858—Recall of certificate—Summary order to account for moneys received and disbursed—Reference to a civil suit—Proper procedure.

An administrator appointed under Act XL of 1858, section 10, is bound to keep proper accounts and may properly be required by summary order under section 21 to furnish to his successor an account of receipts and disbursements. DAL SINGH v. RAJA HARBANS SINGH. 66 P R 1890

51. Hindu law—Powers of uncertificated guardians—Act XL of 1858, section 18.

Held, by the Full Bench, that a bonâ fide incumbrance, made by the de facto guardian of a Hindu minor for the benefit of the estate, and with due regard to the minor's interests, cannot be impeached by the minor on attaining majority, on the ground that the guardian who purported to act on his behalf was not a guardian legally constituted under Act XL of 1858. No. 83 P. R. 1889, overruled. MASTU v. NAND LAL.

73 P R 1890

52. Guardian and ward—Lease of ward's property to guardian—Introduction of outsider into management of ancestral holding.

The District Judge appointed L. S., a connection by marriage, guardian of the property and person of a minor on the ground, apparently, that he was willing to take the minor's land on a lease of Re. 1-3-0 per ghumao instead of Re. 1 offered by K. S., the minor's grand-uncle.

Held, that the appointment must be cancelled. Not only is a lease to a guardian of his ward's land most objectionable, but also the effect of the District Judge's order would be to transfer the control of a large share in an ancestral holding from the family of the co-sharers to the family of another tribe, i.e., to the husband of the father's sister. Such an order would only be justified if it were clearly proved that the members of the minor's own family were unfit to be his guardian. KISHEN SINGH v. LAHAB SINGH.

78 P R 1892

53. Guardian and ward—Appointment of guardian—Construction of will—Guardian and Wards Act, 1890, section 39.

G. M., a Khatri of the town of Rawalpindi, applied to be appointed under Act VIII of 1890, guardian of the property of a minor son of his widowed sister, and was opposed by L. C., paternal uncle of the minor.

L. C. relied upon the will of the grandfather of the minor, by which he alleged that he was appointed guardian.

Held, that before the true construction of the will L. C. had been validly appointed guardian, and that the application of G. M. could not succeed until L. C. had been removed by a proceeding under section 39 of the Act. LAKHMI CHAND v. GANDA MAL.

39 P R 1893

54. Guardian and Wards Act, 1890—sections 7, 8, 10, 11, 13—Appointment of guardian.

GUARDIAN—contd.

The District Judge, acting proprio motu, appointed as guardian of the property of a minor, J. B., the defendant, who had not only not applied to be appointed guardian, but whose appointment had been objected to by the appellant.

Held, that there is no authority in the Act to appoint a person guardian who does not claim by his own application, or a person who has not been proposed in accordance with the terms of the Act. BADR BAKSH v. JANGBAZ KHAN.

135 P R 1893

55. Guardian and Wards Act, 1890, sections 8, 25, 26—Person residing out of British territory, appointment of, as guardian—Heir of ward.

It is against the spirit, if not the letter of Act VIII of 1890, that a person who resides out of British territory should be appointed guardian of the person of a minor.

It is also objectionable that a minor should be made the ward of his own heir. SAMAND SINGH v. DUSANDI.

137 P R 1893

56. Guardian and Wards Act (VIII of 1890) sections 7, 8, 17—Conduct of natural guardian—Application by father who had changed his religion for the guardianship of his minor sons who had been brought up, with his acquiescence, as Muhammadans—Waiver of right—"Welfare of minor."

In 1884 one B. K. who was formerly a Muhammadan, became a convert to Christianity, whereupon a disruption of his family ensued, he and his wife ceasing to live together, and his sons remaining with their mother and being brought up, with the acquiescence of B. K., as Muhammadans. In 1893 B. K. applied, under section 8 of the Guardian and Wards Act, 1890, to the District Judge to be appointed guardian of his two sons, aged 9 and 11 respectively, and on his application being rejected appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, that the paramount consideration for the Court, under the Act, being what appears in the circumstances to be for the welfare of the minors consistently with the law to which they are subject, that is, in the present case, the Muhammadan Law as modified by any legislative enactment, and conceding that the father is the person primâ facie entitled to the custody of his minor sons, of the ages of the sons in the present case, the petitioner had by his conduct waived his right to the care and custody of his minor sons by his acquiescing for a long series of years in a course of education opposed to that which he now sought to impose upon them. I. L. R. XVI Bom. 307, referred to. BARKHURDAR KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT GHULAM FATIMA.

84 P R 1894

57. Guardian and Wards Act, 1890, sections 34, 39 (b)—Appointment of guardian of property—Appointment of person residing outside British India.

GUARDIAN—contd.

Respondent who resided in the State of Bikanir was appointed (though apparently not by will or other instrument) guardian of the property of a minor which was situate in the adjoining district of Hissar.

Held, that there was nothing in the Guardian and Wards Act, 1890, to suggest that respondent was not a fit person to be so appointed. AMAR CHAND v. BAHADUR MAL.

65 P R 1896

58. Application to remove guardian on ground of failure to furnish security—Ex parte order removing guardian—Application to set a side ex parte order—Procedure.

Appellant was duly appointed guardian and received a certificate, but the order of the Court appointing him, while directing him to file security, did not specify the amount thereof, or the time within which it was to be filed. Subsequently, on an application by respondent, the District Judge in an ex parte order directed that the guardian should be removed on the ground that he had not furnished security within a reasonable time. The guardian's application to have the ex parte order set aside was rejected on the ground that his only remedy was by way of appeal therefrom.

Held, that the District Court had erred in holding that the application to have the ex-parte order set aside could not be entertained, the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code as regards procedure being applicable to cases under the Guardian and Wards Act, unless the contrary is expressly declared.

Held, further, that the guardian should not have been removed for failure to give security, until a distinct order had been passed fixing the amount and the time within which it was to be filed, and the guardian had thereafter failed to comply with such order. MUHAMMAD AZIM v. MUHAMMAD JI.

7 P R 1898

59. Guardian and Wards Act, 1890, sections 12 (3) (b), 47—Preliminary order as to custody of property—Revision—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 591.

At the hearing of an application, under Act VIII of 1890, for the custody of the person and property of a minor at the time living with his step-mother, the Court by an interlocutory order issued a commission to a certain Munsif to make a list of the property of the minor and to lodge it in Court for safe custody, care being taken that the step-mother was given the necessary utensils, clothes, etc., for her support and maintenance. The step-mother applied to the Chief Court on the Revision Side to set aside the said order but it was objected on behalf of the respondent that, inasmuch as an appeal from the final order of the lower Court in this case lay to the Chief Court, the order in question was not open to revision. On behalf of petitioner it was contended that, the property affected being in her possession, no order passed in appeal could remedy the injury caused by the order, which was ultra vires with reference to the provisions of section 12, sub-section (3), clause (b), of Act VIII of 1890, and further, that the petitioner was not bound to appeal against an order appointing the respondent guardian, while, in the event of his application being dismissed, she could not appeal against the order in question, which in any event did not affect the decision of the case, in the terms of section 591 of the Civil Procedure Code.

GUARDIAN—contd.

Held, that the order in question being passed by the Court for the temporary custody and protection of the minor's property, and the custody of the Munsif being in effect the custody of the Court, did not violate the rule contained in section 12 (3) (b) of Act VIII of 1890, and that the words "any person" in the said clause could not be interpreted to include the words "the Court."

The Court being satisfied that this was not a case in which the revisional powers of the Court should be exercised, dismissed the application. MUSSAMMAT HEM KAUR v. RAI DAULAT RAM. 10 P R 1898

60. Guardian and Wards Act, 1890, sections 3, 7—"Will or other instrument"—Nuncupative will—Appointment of minor's heir as guardian of property.

Held, that the provisions of section 7 of the Guardian and Wards Act, 1890, do not apply to nuncupative wills.

Held, further, that inasmuch as a minor's heir is peculiarly interested in the good management of the property to which he hopes to succeed, there is no objection to the appointment of such a person as guardian of the minor's property as distinct from the minor's person. AMIN CHAND v. PHAGGU MAL. 54 P R 1898

61. Guardian—Competency of a married woman to represent a minor in an Appellate Court—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 445, 457, 582, 587—Quære.

Can a married woman who acted as next friend of a minor in an original Court legally continue to represent him when he becomes respondent in a Court of appeal. WADHAWA MAL v. WADHAWA. 8 P R 1908

62. Guardian and minor—Appointment of guardian of person of a minor—Joint Hindu family—Jointness—Separation.

Held, following Gharibullah v. Khalak Singh (1903) I. L. R. 25 All. 407 that the fact, that a Hindu minor and his uncle are joint in property as members of a joint Hindu family, does not bar the appointment of a third person as guardian of the minor's person, but does bar the appointment of such person as guardian of the minor's property.

Held also, that there is no inconsistency in a guardian of the minor's person being appointed without any appointment of a GUARDIAN—concld.

guardian of the joint property, of which he is a co-parcener. RAM KISHEN v. BELIRAM. 23 P R 1910

See CASES UNDER MINOR.

GUARDIAN AD LITEM.

1. Omission by Court to appoint for minor defendants—Effect of such omission—Appointment by Court to be formally made.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII, R. 3. 100 P R 1882

2. Guardian and Ward—Act XL of 1858—Guardian ad litem—Compromise.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXIII, R. 3. 105 P R 1889

3. Setting aside decree passed on a compromise—Minor—Guardian ad litem, —Fraud in equity—Knowledge.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXIII, R. 3. 24 P R 1893

4. Suit by next friend of minor—Absence of certificate, omission to record a formal order granting permission to sue.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII, R. 1. 166 P R 1889

5. Duration of authority of.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII, R. 3. 115 P R 1885

6. Suit against minor—No formal order appointing guardian ad litem—Informal sanction of Court.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII, R. 3. 67 P R 1897

7. Oaths Act, 1873—Offer to be bound by oath of other party—Power of next friend to bind.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII, R. 7. 186 P R 1889
18 P R 1891

8. Minor—Compromise of suit—Sanction of Court—Statement of minor at mutation proceedings.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII, R 7. 17 P R 1899

9 Suit against minor—Application for appointment of guardian ad litem not filed with the plaint—Suit when instituted.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 4. 18 P R 1901

10. Of person of unsound mind.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW, JOINT FAMILY. 91 P R 1887

11. Omission by guardian ad litem of minor to appeal against decree—Gross negligence on part of guardian—Effect of such decree.

See RES JUDICATA. 35 P R 1898

12. Suit by minors to set aside decree—Bonâ fides of previous guardian ad litem.

See RIGHT TO SUE. 72 P R 1887

GUARDIAN AD LITEM—concld.

13. Held, that a minor not having been represented by a guardian, could not be treated as having appeared, though actually present in Court. MUSSAMMAT IDO v. RULIA. 35 P R 1910

GUARDIAN AND WARDS ACT, 1890.

—Suit to establish right to betrothal and marriage of minor—Suit by collaterals against the natural guardian.

Held, that the provisions of the Guardian and Wards Act, 1890, do not bar a suit against the natural or appointed guardian for the establishment of the right to betroth or give in marriage a minor by the person who claims that right. There is nothing in that Act which deprives collaterals of their rights in these matters under Hindu Law, and the Act does not provide that these rights can be established only by proceedings under it.

Brohmomoyee and another v. Kashi Chundar Sen (I. L. R. VIII Calc. 266), Sham Kaur v. Mohanunda Sahoy (I. L. R. XIX Calc. 301), Harenda Nath Chowdhury v. Brinda Rani Dassi (II Calc. W. N. 521), Jairam Luxmon (I. L. R. XVI Bom. 634), Ghasita v. Wazira (10 P. R. 1897), and Khushal Chand Lal Chand v. Bai Mani (I. L. R. XI Bom. 247), referred to. MUSSAMMAT UTTAM DEVI AND OTHERS v. MAYA RAM AND ANOTHER. 10 P R 1904

Section 3.

See GUARDIAN. 54 P R 1898

Section 7.

See GUARDIAN. 135 P R 1893
84 P R 1894
54 P R 1898

1. An order made by a District Judge under this section refusing to appoint a guardian is not open to review. Section 623 of the Code of Civil Procedure which deals with reviews of judgments has no application to the proceedings under the Guardian and Wards Act, 1890. FARID v. MITHO. 143 P R 1906

2. Guardian of property—Power of Court to appoint guardian to the property of a minor who is a member of a joint Hindu family.

Held, that it is not competent to a Court to appoint a guardian of the property of a minor who is a member of a joint Hindu family. KURI MAL v. BHANA MAL. 43 P R 1909

See ALSO 23 P R 1910

Section 7 (1).

Where a de facto guardian of a minor applied for and obtained letters of administration under section 13 of the Probate and Administration Act, 1881, to an estate to which that minor was heir and described himself as wali of the minor held that the order thereupon of the Court granting the letters was not a declaration of guardianship within the meaning of section 7 (1) of the Guardian and Wards Act, 1890. GANESHI LAL v. SURAJ MAL. 89 P R 1906

GUARDIAN AND WARDS ACT, 1890—contd.

Section 7 (3).

—Guardian and Wards Act, VIII of 1890, section 7 (3)—Muhammadan Law—Appointment of guardian by will—Right of maternal grandmother.

Held, that under Muhammadan Law the father of a girl who has not attained the age of puberty is not her lawful guardian in the presence of her maternal grandmother, and is not entitled to appoint a guardian by his will in supersession of the grandmother, and that a guardian so appointed is not a guardian appinted by will within the terms of section 7 (3) of the Guardian and Wards Act, 1890. BAHADUR ALI v. MUSSAMMAT BIVI. 48 P R 1910

Section 8.

See GUARDIAN.

135 P R 1893
137 P R 1893
84 P R 1894

Section 10.

See GUARDIAN.

135 P R 1893

Section 11.

See GUARDIAN.

135 P R 1893

Section 12.

See CUSTODY OF MINOR. 13 P R 1897

See GUARDIAN. 10 P R 1898

—And section 48—Order of District Judge fixing the fee of a custodian of the property of the ward appointed under section 12—Appeal—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 588 (24)—Revision—Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 70.

See APPEAL—II. COMPETENCY OF. 48 P R 1901

Section 13.

See GUARDIAN.

135 P R 1893

Section 17.

See GUARDIAN. 84 P R 1894

—Guardian—Appointment of—Application by a Muhammadan maternal grandmother to be appointed guardian of her Muhammadan minor grandchildren who were in the custody of their father who had changed his religion—Father's right to custody—Act XXI of 1850, section 1—Interpretation of the expression "rights"—Equity.

See CUSTODY OF MINOR.

60 P R 1901

Section 25.

See CUSTODY OF MINOR. 13 P R 1897

See GUARDIAN. 137 P R 1893

Section 26.

See GUARDIAN.

137 P R 1893

Section 34.

See GUARDIAN. 65 P R 1896

Held, that a guardian appointed by Court under the Guardian and Wards Act, 1890,

GUARDIAN AND WARDS ACT, 1890—contd.

Section—34—concld.

even if he may be a testamentary guardian, is liable to give security under this section. SUKH DIAL v. KARAM CHAND.

99 P R 1908

Section 39.

See GUARDIAN.

39 P R 1893
65 P R 1896

Section 47.

See CUSTODY OF MINOR. 13 P R 1897

See GUARDIAN. 10 P R 1898

Section 48.

See SECTION 12 supra.

48 P R 1901

H

HANDWRITING.

—Comparison of handwriting by experts.

A comparison of handwriting by experts is generally an unsafe test if it has to stand by itself. JAGNA v. GAINDA. 62 P R 1897

HAQ BAKRI.

1. Right of Lambardar to levy haq bakri or marriage fees.

See CUSTOM—V. CESSES AND DUES.

50 P R 1869
20 P R 1884
30 P R 1888

2. Suit for haq bakri.

See JURISDICTION OF REVENUE COURTS. 1 P R 1876 Rev.

HAQ BUA.

1. Right to levy.

See CUSTOM—V. CESSES AND DUES. 53 P R 1881

2. Suit for haq bua—Jurisdiction.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 11 P R 1890 Rev.

3 Suit for declaration that occupancy tenants in the village are not liable to pay haq bua—Jurisdiction.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 33 P R 1908 F B

HAQ-I-DASTAR.

Held, that among Janjiana Sials of mauza Kharanwala in the Jhang district, the eldest son is entitled upon final partition to receive extra land, in addition to his share, by way of haq-i-dastar or haq-i-pagri. MIAN KHAN v. SARNAIL. 4 P R 1910

HAQ MAHSUL.

—Suit for land revenue—Haq mahsul—Cash assessment.

See JAGIR. 28 P R 1888

HAQ MALIKANA.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 125 P R 1888

HAQ SEP.

—Suit for recovery of haq sep—Jurisdiction.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 41 P R 1908

HAQ TORA.

1. Legality of cess—Haq tora or marriage fees.

See CUSTOM—V. CESSES AND DUES. 64 P R 1880

2. Right of Lambardar to levy on behalf of menials.

See CUSTOM—V. CESSES AND DUES. 80 P R 1890

3. Suit for haq tora—Jurisdiction.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT. 1865, SECTION 6. 33 P R 1887 F B

HAQIYAT, MEANING OF.

Held, that the word haqiyat means rights in immovable property and though used as a rule in connection with landed property, there is nothing to prevent its application to house property also. BAWA SINGH v. LACHMAN SINGH. 24 P R 1911

HAZARA CIVIL COURTS.

—Jurisdiction of Hazara Civil Courts over Upper Tanawal tract—Effect of Regulation II of 1900 on suits pending at the time the Regulation came into force.

Held by the Full Bench—

(i) That the Civil Courts of the Hazara District had jurisdiction over the Upper Tanawal tract prior to the enactment of Regulation II of 1900.

(ii) That Regulation II of 1900 has no application to a suit pending in the Civil Courts before it came into force.

Crown v. Fazal Nur (6 P. R. 1878 Cr.), referred to. SAMUNDAR KHAN v. ATTA MUHAMMAD. 73 P R 1904 F B

HAZARA SETTLEMENT RULES.

See CUSTOM—V. CESSES AND DUES 53 P R 1881

1. Hazara Settlement Rules—Suit to correct entry in Settlement Record—Jurisdiction.

Held, that under the rules made for the Hazara Settlement, a suit is not maintainable in a Civil Court to set aside an entry in the Settlement record.

The proper mode of correcting an entry (other than an entry made in accordance with a decree) would be either by suit in the Settlement Court, or by proceedings by way of appeal or application for revision. RAJA FIROZ KHAN v. RAJA MAHOMED KHAN.

111 P R 1879

2. Hazara Settlement Rules, section 60—Suit to correct entry in Settlement Record contrary to Settlement award.

Where plaintiff sued for correction of the Settlement Record of a village in the Hazara

HAZARA SETTLEMENT RULES —concld.

district on the allegation that the entry in the record was, as regards the land in suit, contrary to a Settlement award in respect of it, as contained in a judgment of the Superintendent of Settlement, held, reversing the orders of the lower Courts, that the suit as brought was not barred by section 60 of the Hazara Settlement Rules. SHAM PERKASH v. ILAHI BAKSH KHAN. 3 P R 1880

3. Rule No. 60—Finality of entry in Settlement Record.

Quære, whether the 60th Rule of the Hazara Settlement Regulation can be rightly construed so as to give finality to the decisions of a Settlement Superintendent on every point incidentally dealt with in preparing the record. SHER ALI v. MIRWALI KHAN. 17 P R 1887

HEREDITARY TENANTS.

See OCCUPANCY RIGHT.
TENANCY ACT, 1868.

HIBA-BIL-IWAZ.

—Gift made in consideration of services rendered.

See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 25. 61 P R 1893
DEATH-BED GIFT. 15 P R 1895
LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 91. 52 P R 1895
MUHAMMADAN LAW, GIFT, Passim.

HIGH COURT.

—Entry as advocate of any High Court—Court of the Judicial Commissioner of Burma not a High Court within the meaning of Stamp Act of 1879.

See STAMP ACT, 1879, SCHEDULE 1, ARTICLE 27. 14 P R 1889

HIGHWAY—DEDICATION OF.

See EASEMENT. 62 P R 1898

HINDU FAMILY.

—Hindu family—Partnership—Dissolution by death of partner—Indian Contract Act, IX of 1872, sections 238 and 253 (10)—Suit by widow of deceased partner for account and share in specific assets—Limitation—Indian Limitation Act, XV of 1887, article 106—Khatris—Presumption of jointness—Disruption and re-union of some members—Hindu Law—Status of widow—Self-acquired property—Res judicata—Application of old or new Code of Civil Procedure—General Clauses Act, X of 1897, section 6—Profits in land—Jurisdiction of Civil Court—Punjab Tenancy Act, XVI of 1897, section 77 (3) (k).

Held, that where the allegations for the plaintiff, the widow of a deceased member of a Hindu family (though not a joint family) were, that her husband's father was the sole proprietor of a business and had gifted to each of his two nephews (the defendants) a share in the business and they had allowed such shares to remain in the business ever since, and it was not denied that they were all entitled to a share in the profits of the business to the extent of their respective shares, the relationship thus created is a partnership as defined in section 238, Indian Contract Act, and not a " hereditary trading partnership " under Hindu Law.

HINDU FAMILY—contd.

Held also, that this partnership was dissolved by the death of plaintiff's husband in 1900 under section 253 (10) of the Act, and that this suit, instituted in 1906, which was in substance merely a suit for an account of a dissolved partnership, was consequently barred by time under Article 106 of the Indian Limitation Act.

Held also, that it was the duty of the Court suo moto to see, if, upon the allegations in the plaint, a suit was in time as a whole or in part, notwithstanding that the defendants pleaded limitation only in regard to part of the claim, and that this rule applied equally to a Court of appeal.

Held further, dissenting from Merwanji Harmasji v. Rustamji (1882), I. L. R. 6 Bom. 628 (635), and Sokhanada v. Sokhanada, (1905) I. L. R. 28 Mad. 344 and following Rivett Carnac v. Gocul Das, (1896) I. L. R. 20 Bom. 15, that the suit for a general account being barred by time, it was also barred in respect of specific assets of the business acquired within three years of institution of suit.

And that article 106, Limitation Act, applied to every suit in which plaintiff claimed an account of the general partnership property and his share in the same and its profits.

Held also, that among Khatris, residents in a town and in no way agriculturists, brothers were presumably members of a joint family.

And following Bala Baksh v. Rukhma Bai, (1903), I. L. R. 30 Cal. 725 P. C. that where one co-partner separated from the others, there was no presumption that the latter remained united, and, when upon such separation the shares of the other co-partners were fixed, there was a virtual separation of all and an agreement amongst the remaining members of a joint Hindu family to remain united, had to be proved like any other fact.

(The meaning of the ruling by their Lordships of the Privy Council in Parbati v. Naunihal Singh, (1909) I. L. R. 31 All. 412 P. C. explained.)

Held further, following Bala Baksh v. Rukhma Bai (1903), I. L. R. 30 Cal. 725 P. C. that " a re-union in estate" properly so called can only take place between persons who were parties to the " original partition."

Held also, following Balwant Singh v. Rani Kishori, (1878) I. L. R. 20 All. 267 P. C. that as regards self-acquired property a Hindu has plenary powers of disposition.

Held also, that where in a previous suit by the present defendants as plaintiffs for recovery of a book debt the defendants, while admitting the debt, pleaded that it was due to the firm in which the husband of the widow (present plaintiff) had a two-third share and the widow was added as a co-plaintiff under section 32, Civil Procedure Code, 1882, and an issue was framed, inter alia, as to what was her share in the amount claimed and the Court found that she was entitled to the share which her husband would have had if alive, that this was res judicata between her and her then co-plaintiffs (present defendants), and that it followed that she was equally entitled to a similar share in the rest of the property.

HINDU FAMILY—concld.

But, that a mere substitution as legal representative of her deceased husband in another suit had not the same effect.

Held further, that this question must be decided under the provisions of the old Civil Procedure Code of 1882, notwithstanding that the new Code of 1908 had come into force before the decision of the appeal in the Chief Court, as it involved a substantive and very real right to which the provisions of section 6 of the General Clauses Act, X of 1897, applied.

But also, that the rule enunciated in 20 P. R. 1891 F. B. (Shamas Din v. Ghulam Kadir) was applicable only to ordinary Courts established in this country and was not affected by the question, whether, having regard to the value of the two suits, a further appeal might be to the Judicial Committee in the one and not in the other, there being no appeal as of right in any case to His Majesty in Council.

Held also, that section 77 (3) (k) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, did not oust the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts from entertaining the claim for a share in profits of agricultural land, which had been realised by the defendants and entered in the books as part and parcel of the assets of the business. MUSSAMMAT NEHAL DEVI v. KISHORE CHAND. 97 P R 1910

HINDU LAW.

1. ADOPTION.
2. ALIENATION.
3. ANCESTRAL PROPERTY.
4. BETROTHAL.
5. GIFT.
6. GUARDIANSHIP.
7. INHERITANCE.
8. JOINT FAMILY.
9. MAINTENANCE.
10. MARRIAGE.
11. MINOR.
12. PARTITION.
13. STRIDHAN.
14. SURETYSHIP.
15. WIDOW.
16. WILL.

I.—ADOPTION.

See CUSTOM, APPOINTMENT OF HEIR.

1. Relinquishment of status—Disinherison.

Held, that, according to Hindu law, an adopted son cannot relinquish his status, nor be disinherited by his adoptive father. LATCHMAN v. HEMRAJ. 17 P R 1878
Following JHUNDA v. SAHIBA. 15 P R 1877

HINDU LAW—contd.

I.—ADOPTION—contd.

2. Wife's brother—" Reflexion of a son."
Held that, according to the Hindu Law, the adoption of a wife's brother is not prohibited. The rule recorded in the Dattaka Mimansa, that the boy adopted should be "the reflexion of a son," discussed.

Per BARKLEY, J.—The meaning of the rule simply is, that it excludes the sons of women whose original relationship to the adopter was such that they could not have been his wives. NUND LAL v. LAKHA.

125 P R 1880

3. Adoption of brother-in-law's son—Hindu Law or Custom—Sikh Khatris of Rawalpindi—Burden of Proof—" Agricultural tribe."

One K. S., a Sikh Khatri, of the Bindra section, having adopted G. S., his wife's brother's son, plaintiff sued for a declaration that the adoption was invalid by custom and would not affect his reversionary rights. It appeared that the families of plaintiff and K. S. had held land for at least two generations, and that the total ancestral land in the possession of K. S. was about 4 ghumaos 5 kanals. The lower Courts decreed plaintiff's claim on the ground that defendants had failed to prove that the said adoption was valid by custom.

Held, that though the primary rule of decision in a suit of the present character is custom, there is no necessary legal presumption that a particular custom bearing on the point in issue exists, section 5 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, only casting on the Court the duty of enquiring whether there is any such custom binding on the parties, and, if there is, to decide the suit in accordance therewith.

Held, further, that under Hindu Law, which was the personal law of the parties, the adoption in question was perfectly valid.

Held, therefore, that plaintiff, who was suing to set aside an adoption, which was valid by the personal law of the parties, on the ground that it was invalid by custom; must fail if the custom upon which he relied was not proved, and that he was accordingly bound by the rules of pleading to establish that custom affirmatively.

Held, further, that inasmuch as Khatris do not ordinarily form an agricultural but a trading community, the usages of agriculturists cannot be presumed to apply to them, and therefore that plaintiff could not claim the benefit of the presumption laid down by the Full Bench in No. 50 P. R. 1893, so as to shift the burden of proof from himself to defendants.

Found, upon the evidence, that plaintiff had failed to prove that by custom among the parties the adoption of a wife's brother's son was invalid. KARTAR SINGH v. MATHAR SINGH.

94 P R 1898

4. Adoption of daughter's son—Hindu Law—Banias of Jagraon—Burden of proof Omission to perform certain cermonies.

Plaintiff sued for a declaration that a deed of adoption whereby defendant No. 1, plaintiff's brother, adopted his daughter's son, was invalid, and would not affect plaintiff's reversionary rights. Plaintiff admitted the factum of adoption and contended it was illegal by " law and custom," and was, moreover, invalid owing to the non-performance of certain necessary ceremonies. The parties were Banias of Jagraon. The lower Courts dealt with the question as one of custom, and dismissed the suit on the ground that the adoption had not been proved to be invalid by custom among the parties.

HINDU LAW—contd.

I.—ADOPTION—contd.

Held, that the parties being Bania residents of a town, of the ordinary mercantile class, were governed by Hindu Law and not by custom, and that plaintiff had failed to prove that under Hindu Law a daughter's son was not a proper person to be adopted.

Held, further, that the factum of adoption not being disputed, and the daughter's son being a person who might legally be adopted, the adoption was not invalid on account of the omission of any particular ceremony.

I. L. R. XVII All., 294, followed. GANDA MAL v. THAKAR MAL.

97 P R 1898

5. Custom—Adoption—Adoption of sister's son—Acharjya Brahman of Goler in the Dehra tahsil of the Kangra District—Burden of proof.

One R. D., an Acharjya Brahman of Goler in the Dehra tahsil of the Kangra District, executed a deed of adoption in favour of " K.," his sister's son, reciting that K. had been adopted when two or three years old, and had ever since been treated as a son. Plaintiffs, collaterals of R. D., sued for a declaration setting aside the deed on the grounds that K. was, in fact, never adopted, and that the adoption was invalid by custom and Hindu Law. The first Court found that the adoption was not opposed to custom, but that there was in fact no adoption as recited in the deed, though K. had lived with R. D. for many years and assisted him in his business, and gave plaintiffs a decree that K. was not the adopted son of R. D. The Divisional Judge on appeal reversed the decree, on the ground that the factum of adoption had been clearly established; and, further that by custom the adoption was valid. The plaintiffs preferred a further appeal against these findings to Chief Court.

Held, that where the parties are not members of an agricultural tribe of land-holding group and where no ceremonies are essential and the adoption not opposed to custom, a declaration by deed, if coupled with previous and subsequent treatment as an adopted son was sufficient to constitute adoption.

Held, also, that in cases where the right of adoption is admitted or is found to prevail and the parties are not members of an agricultural tribe, or land-holding group, the burden of proof ought to lie on those who deny that a particular kind of adoption,

HINDU LAW—contd.

I.—ADOPTION—contd.

e. g., that of a daughter's or sister's son cannot be made.

Found, upon the evidence that plaintiffs had failed to prove that by custom among Acharjya Brahmans of Kangra (who are not members of an agricultural tribe or land holding group) the adoption of a sister's son was invalid.

Ralla v. Budha (50 P. R. 1893, F. B.) distinguished, and the subject of adoption, among non-agricultural twice-born Hindu classes in the Punjab discussed. SOHNUN AND OTHERS v. RAM DIAL AND OTHERS.

79 P R 1801

6. Custom—Adoption—Daughter's son—Hindu Jats of Hayatpur in the Garhshankar tahsil of Hoshiarpur District—Suit to obtain a declaration that an alleged adoption was invalid or had never taken place—Limitation from which period begins to run—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 118—Burden of proof.

On the 28th August 1884, one K. executed a deed of ad option in favour of his daughter's son. In 1894 after the death of K. his widow assented to mutation of names being effected in favour of the adopted son. In 1897 the plaintiffs, who are the male collaterals of K., instituted a suit to obtain a declaration that the alleged adoption was invalid, and that it never took place. The first Court found that the plaintiffs' claim was barred by limitation, that the defendant was adopted by K., and that the adoption was not invalid. The Divisional Judge reversed the decree of the first Court on the grounds that the suit was not barred, that the fact of the widow of K. allowing mutation in favour of the adopted son gave plaintiff a fresh cause of action, and that the defendant was not formally adopted, and that as a daughter's son he could not be adopted.

Held, that as the title of the adopted son to the property was created by the adoption and not by any subsequent admission on the part of the widow of the adoptive father that the title existed, such an admission did not give plaintiff any fresh cause of action, and as the plaintiffs had knowledge of the adoption more than six years previous to the institution of suit their claim was barred under Article 118 of the second schedule to the Limitation Act of 1877.

Held also, that although a presumption at the outset is against the power of an adoption of a daughter's son in a case where evidence such as an entry in a Wajib-ul-arz or Riwaj-iam or precedents are produced by the adopted son, the burden of proof is shifted to the party denying the validity of such an adoption.

Found, upon the evidence, that the defendant was formally adopted by K., and that his adoption was valid.

Parman v. Gian Singh (94 P. R. 1893) Natha Singh v. Sujan Singh (34 P. R. 1899), and Ralla v. Budha (50 P. R. 1893), referred to. HEM RAJ AND ANOTHER v. SAHIBA AND OTHERS.

116 P R 1901

HINDU LAW—contd.

I.—ADOPTION—contd.

7. Among non-agricultural Hindus a declaration by deed, coupled with previous and subsequent treatment without the performance of any ceremonies, is sufficient to constitute an adoption valid. MANGTU v. CHUNI LAL.
51 P R 1903

8. Suit by adopted son to contest alienation by Hindu widow—Possession of widow adverse to the adopted son—Suit by the adopted son more than six years after interference with his rights—Suit to obtain declaration of the validity of an adoption.

In 1900 the plaintiff, who claimed to have been adopted by A. in 1871, sued to obtain a declaration that certain alienations of immovable property made by the widow of his adopted father were invalid as against his interests. It was admitted that on A.'s death, which took place in 1879, his widow had contested and denied plaintiff's right as an adopted son and had insisted on her own succession, and that she had ever since been allowed to retain undisturbed possession of the property. The plaintiff's contention was that her possession was not adverse, as it was the result of a family arrangement by which his possession was postponed by consent, and that she had admitted the plaintiff's adoption and was allowed to hold as a widow for life.

Held, on the facts that the plaintiff has failed to prove an arrangement by which his alleged adoption was recognized by the widow and that she had been allowed to succeed to her husband's estate for life. Moreover, as the widow had no title to succeed as such in the presence of the plaintiff holding the character of an adopted son of her deceased husband, her possession was adverse to him to the fullest extent of ownership, which having continued for more than twelve years the plaintiff had no right of succession to the property belonging to her.

Held also, that the suit was barred under article 119 of the Limitation Act, as it involves the establishment of the validity of plaintiff's adoption as the basis of his title, the period of limitation having commenced to run from 1879, the date when his rights as an adopted son were interfered with. RAM NARAIN v. MAHARAJ NARAIN. 3 P R 1904

9. Kashmiri Pandits of the Delhi District are proved to be governed in matters of adoption by custom and not by the principles of the mitakshara form of Hindu Law, and that amongst the members of that tribe a widow has full power after her husband's death and without his express permission in this behalf to adopt any boy whom she selects provided he is of the same tribe. MAHARAJ NARAIN v. BANOJI. 34 P R 1907

10. Daughter's son.

Held, that though by strict Hindu Law a daughter's son cannot be adopted, this general rule may be, and often is in the Punjab, varied by family custom. RUP NARAIN v. MUSSAMMAT GOPAL DEVI.

HINDU LAW—contd.

I.—ADOPTION—concld.

93 P R 1909 P C

11. Adopted son—Succession of, to rozina dues.

Held, that an adopted son cannot succeed to rozina dues under the rules of the Darbar Sahib, Amritsar. The matter is not one to be decided under Hindu Law, but under the custom and practice of the institution. HIRA SINGH v. GUR BAKSH SINGH. 94 P R 1909

12. Hindu Law—Adoption, validity of—Bhabra Jains of Kaithal—Result.

Held, that the result of an adoption is to make the adopted son a co-parcener with the adoptive father in the joint family property, and that the latter was consequently incompetent to bequeatth or devise any part of that property in the presence of the adopted son. MUSSAMMAT AKI v. KUNDAN LAL.
74 P R 1911

II.—ALIENATION.

See CUSTOM—ALIENATION.

1. Brahmans of Lahore—Alienation of ancestral property—Liability of son's interest—Son's right to enforce partition in father's lifetime—Alienation of son's undivided interest in family estate—Hindu Law.

See CUSTOM II—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR, SALES AND MORTGAGES IN FAVOUR OF STRANGERS.
109 P R 1888

2. Alienation—Necessity.

Necessity, inter alia, exists where the alienation is for the preservation of the family credit, such as necessary marriage expenses. NARAIN v. DHUNNA. 63 P R 1866

3. Alienation.

By Hindu law, land cannot be sold without consent of heirs, except in case of necessity or for cogent reasons. Moheer Singh v. Hazara Singh (No. 36 P. R., 1866, Civil), Mussammat Kurm Kour v. Ramdhun (No 89 P. R, 1866 Civil) Luckhee v. Mussammat Bhoochee (No. 11 P. R., 1867, Civil) and MUST RAM v. MUSSAMMAT LOORINDEE. 40 P R 1867

4. Mortgage by father of ancestral property.—Right of son to a declaratory decree protecting his interest—Such decree granted in suit for cancellation of instrument of alienation.

Where the plaintiff's father mortgaged a portion of the ancestral property to a third person, held, that the plaintiff was entitled to a decree, by virtue of his inchoate right in the ancestral estate, declaring that his interest in the property should be unaffected after his father's death. Held, also that the plaintiff was entitled to such decree, notwithstanding that he sued for cancellation of the mortgage deed and not for a declaratory decree. RAMU v. KANH SINGH. 96 P R 1869

HINDU LAW—contd.

II.—ALIENATION—contd.

5. Under Hindu Law, a son has inchoate rights in ancestral real property distinct from those of his father's and the rights of the son are not saleable in execution of a decree against the father, unless the debt for which the decree was made was incurred for a purpose sufficient in law to justify alienation by a father without the consent of his son. RUGHNATH v. RUHEEM BUX No. 53 of 1869 Civil); and JANKI DAS v. SANCHI RAM.
11 P R 1871

6. Immovable and movable, acquired and ancestral property—How far chargeable for debts.—Debts contracted for immoral purposes.

By Hindu Law, a son takes joint immovable ancestral property by survivorship and not by inheritance , and such property is not answerable for the private or personal debts of the deceased fatber not incurred for the family benefit. Aliter as to acquired property movable or immovable and as to ancestral movable property. Money borrowed, and spent in drink or given to dancing women, may by Hindu Law constitute a debt for which the heir is liable. ARUR SINGH v. GUNESH RAI. 28 P R 1872.

7. Debts contracted by drunkard—Right of plaintiff to recover for, when no undue advantage taken by him—Necessary debt.

Plaintiffs, cloth merchants, sued the defendants, the son and widow of Sirdar Harnam Singh, for goods supplied to the deceased Sirdar. The claim was resisted on the grounds that the deceased, through his intemperate habits, was incapable of managing his affairs; that the goods supplied (dana and other muslins and dress pieces) were not necessaries, or for family use, and were in part given by the Sirdar as presents to prostitutes. Held, that as there were intervals during which the deceased was sufficiently sober to conduct his business, there was no ground for supposing that plaintiffs took undue advantage of his condition; and that as the goods supplied were not unsuited to his position and (with the exception of one item entered in the name of a prostitute and valued at Rs. 20) were not adapted to his mere personal gratification, apart from his position as head of the family plaintiffs were entitled to recover for all the goods supplied against all the property which had come into the possession of the defendants, whether by survivorship or inheritance. HUR NARAIN v. ARUR SINGH. 44 P R 1872

8. A decree was obtained against the manager of a banking business upon some dishonored hundis drawn by the manager. The business belonged to a Hindu undivided family. In execution of the decree, ancestral immovable property of the family was attached. Held, that the property was liable to be sold in satisfaction of the decree. KIRPAL SINGH v. LALLOO MULL.
64 P R 1873

9. Money borrowed for the purpose of starting a trade to be carried on for the support or benefit of the family, is by Hindu Law a legal necessity for the alienation of ancestral property. ACHRU MULL v. JAWALA DASS. 67 P R 1873

10. Personal and acquired immovable property—Suit by son.

Plaintiff, a Hindu, sued for a decree declaring that he had a right to share in the ancestral property in the possession of his father, who, it was alleged, had alienated a part of the property and committed acts of waste. Held, by BOULNOIS and CAMPBELL, J. J. (LINDSAY, J. dissenting), that as plaintiff could have obtained an injunction had he prayed for it, the suit for a declaratory decree would lie.

Held, by BOULNOIS and LINDSAY, JJ. that personal property of every description, ancestral or acquired, and immovable property acquired by the owner in occupation, might be used by him as he pleased, subject only to spiritual responsibility. BISHEN SINGH v. JIWAN SINGH. 70 P R 1876

11. Charge upon ancestral property—Nature of debt.

Upon objection taken by a Hindu son to the alienation or sale of ancestral immovable property to discharge a debt contracted by his father, the question is not whether the debt was incurred for the family benefit or a necessary purpose, but whether the debt was of an immoral nature. If the debt be not of such nature, the ancestral property is liable to be charged with it.

A debt incurred by a Hindu zemindar to speculate in trade, is not an "immoral" debt. GANGA v. KHUSHAL SINGH.

77 P R 1876

12. Ancestral and acquired property—Liability of, for father's debts contracted for immoral purposes—Suit against son as representative—Omission to plead that debts were contracted for immoral purposes—Estoppel.

In October 1875 the present defendants sued the present plaintiff and his brother as the legal representatives of the deceased debtor, Sher Singh, their father. They both admitted the debt, but the present plaintiff pleaded that he had no assets, and that he had been separated 20 years before from his father. The Court granted a decree against the brothers jointly, as representatives, recoverable from the property of Sher Singh, deceased, in their hands.

In execution of that decree, a house in the possession of the present plaintiff was attached. He applied for its release on the ground that it had been in his possession for 30 years and was ancestral property, and that the debt sued for had been contracted for an immoral purpose. His application having been rejected he instituted the present suit.

Held, that by Hindu law, both ancestral and acquired estates in the hands of a son are upon an equal footing, and not liable for the father's debts if contracted for an immoral purpose: and; therefore, that as the plea that the debts had been contracted for an immoral purpose would have been a complete answer to the former suit and the plaintiff had omitted to put it forward he was now estopped from doing so. JOWAHIR SINGH v. GUNGA PERSHAD.

13 P R 1878

13. Onus of proof—Liability of ancestral property for debts contracted for immoral purposes.

No inflexible general rule can be laid down, in a suit by a creditor against the son of a deceased Hindu, in order to declare ancestral property in the hands of the latter liable to sale in satisfaction of the debt sued upon, as to whether the plaintiff is bound to prove the nature of the debt or the defendant. Question discussed as to whom the onus would lie on under certain circumstances. MAMRAJ v. MUSSAMMAT BELASO.

16 P R 1878

14. Alienation—Hindu Tarkhans—Alienation of joint ancestral immovable property—Necessity—Form of decree where alienation is justifiable quoad part of the property.

According to the Hindu law, as interpreted in the Punjab, in the absence of proof of any custom to the contrary, a Hindu father cannot alienate joint ancestral immovable property without necessity, even to the extent of the father's own share.

Payment of a debt of the father, not contracted for an illegal or immoral purpose, may be a justifiable occasion for alienation.

In a suit by the son of a Tarkhan to set aside the sale by his father of the family dwelling house, and recover possession thereof from the purchaser, it was found that of the whole purchase money paid to the father, a portion, Rs. 50, had been applied in payment of the father's legitimate personal debts. Held, that the plaintiff was entitled to a decree that the sale was of no effect against him, save to this extent—that he would not be entitled to be put in possession of the house on his father's death until he had recouped the purchaser the sum of Rs. 50. But, inasmuch as by general custom in the Punjab, a son cannot compel his father to partition of joint ancestral immovable property, nor compel his father to give him a portion of the house for a residence, the plaintiff was not entitled to a decree for possession against the purchaser. MUSSAMMAT THAKURI v. GANDA MALL. 78 P R 1879

15. Ancestral Property, Liability of, in hands of sons for father's debt—Debt—Judgment debt—Decree.

D. C. sued his brother N. C. for a division of the ancestral property. Arbitrators decided that the brothers were in possession of equal shares of the immovable property and that D. C. should receive Rs. 3,500 from N. C. as his share of movable property. D. C. endeavoured to execute the decree, which followed the award, against N. C.'s immovable property: whereupon N. C.'s sons, (N. C. having died) after an objection made in execution of D. C.'s decree had been disallowed, brought the present suit for a declaration that N. C.'s share of the immovable estate was not liable to attachment and sale in satisfaction of D. C.'s decree.

Held, (reversing the orders of the Lower Courts) that the estate in the hands of N. C.'s sons was liable to satisfy D. C.'s decree; the principle being that ancestral estate in the hands of the son is liable for the father's debt, unless the nature of the debt be such as to free the son from the obligation to discharge it. ACHRU RAM v. MEHR CHAND. 98 P R 1879

16. Ancestral property, Liability of, in hands of son for father's debt—Illegal or immoral purpose—Compensation for illegal or immoral act.

One B. S. stole and converted to his own use certain property belonging to H. M. (the defendant in the present case), who sued and obtained a decree against B. S. for the value oi the property. In execution of this decree land belonging to B. S. was attached for the purpose of being sold in satisfaction of the decree. N. S. a son of B. S. brought the present suit through his guardian to set aside the attachment on the ground that the ancestral property was not liable for his father's debt, such debt having been contracted for an immoral purpose.

Held, that the property was liable to be attached and sold in satisfaction of plaintiff's decree.

Per PLOWDEN, J.—It is impossible to hold that the debt created by the decree is a debt contracted for an illegal or immoral purpose, merely because the act from which the obligation to make compensation arose was an illegal or immoral act, or both illegal and immoral. KARTAR SINGH v. HARJI MAL.

128 P R 1879

17. *Alienation by son of deceased father's estate—Lien of creditor—*Bona fide purchaser.

Held, that the son of a deceased Hindu may alienate his father's estate to a bona fide purchaser for valuable consideration, and that a creditor who has not acquired a legal lien on the property cannot follow the assets into the hands of a stranger who has acquired the property bona fide and for valuable considertion. SEWA RAM v. BODH RAJ.

135 P R 1879

18. *Alienation by father of joint ancestral property—Necessity—Suit by son to set aside the alienation—*Bona fide purchaser.

HINDU LAW—contd.

II.—ALIENATION—contd.

A Hindu father governed by the Mitakshara law has power to alienate joint ancestral property in order to raise money to pay off an antecedent debt, and his sons by reason of their duty to pay their father's debt cannot recover that property unless they show that the debts were contracted for immoral purposes and that the purchasers had notice that they were so contracted.

Where by the sale of such property a larger sum is raised than is necessary to pay off the debt, a son would not ordinarily be barred from suing to set aside the sale if the property sold was of very large value and the sale was effected for the ostensible purpose of paying off a comparatively small debt; but a sale is not liable to be impeached simply on the ground that a somewhat larger sum was realized by the sale than was necessary for the purpose in view, if the purchaser has satisfied himself by reasonable enquiry that the father as manager of the joint family property required money for a necessary purpose, and that the money was not forthcoming otherwise than by alienation of the property, and that a sale was the form of alienation which a prudent man would resort to for the purpose of raising the money. KANHYA LAL v. HAZURA SINGH.

44 P R 1880

19. Hypothecation by father of ancestral property—Necessity—Rights of mortgagee.

Held, that in a Mitakshara family consisting of the father and one minor son, where the father, being manager, raises money by hypothecating ancestral family property, and it is not proved on the one hand that there was any legal necessity for his raising the money, nor on the other that it was expended for immoral or illegal purposes, or that the lender made any enquiry as to the purpose for which it was required, the mortgage itself cannot be enforced, but the mortgagee, in a suit brought against the father and the son would be entitled to a decree directing the debt to be raised out of the whole ancestral estate inclusive of the mortgaged property. SUKH RAM v. GHASITA 166 P R 1882

20. Alienation by one co-parcener without consent of others—Voidable transaction—Ratification by co-parceners—Assent how established.

According to the Hindu law as interpreted in the Punjab, no member of a joint Hindu family can, in the absence of custom to the contrary, alienate even his own share in the undivided estate without the consent of his co-parceners: but such an alienation is an act which is not necessarily and ipso facto void, but is merely voidable by the co-sharers if they choose to repudiate it.

In order to prove that the co-sharers assented to the transaction, all that need be established is that, having the power to forbid the act, which implies that they knew of it, they neglected to exercise that power.

HINDU LAW—contd.

II.—ALIENATION—contd

Mussammat Zahro v. Lallu Mal (No 21 P. R., 1879, Civil) cited. BANKE RAI v. MADHO RAM.

153 P R 1883

21. Execution of decree—Sale of ancestral property in satisfaction of father's debt—Liability of son's shares.

Held, citing the decision of the Privy Council in Nanomi Babuasian v. Madhun Mohun (I. L. R. XIII Calc. 21) that under Hindu Law a son cannot object to the sale of ancestral property in satisfaction of a judgment-debt of his father, in the absence of proof that the debt was contracted for an immoral purpose. RAM CHAND v. GHOLU SHAH. 87 P R 1887

See ALSO HAZURA SINGH v. CHANDA SINGH. 87 P R 1887 Note

22. Mortgage—Decree—Sale in execution.

A. and B. who were members of a joint family mortgaged ancestral family property to the plaintiff to secure an advance made for payment of a debt due from a firm which was carried on by A. and B. and of which the present defendants, two minor members of the family, were also members. The mortgage deed recited that A. and B. were the sole owners of the property. Plaintiff obtained a decree against A. and B. on the mortgage and purchased the property at a sale in execution.

Held, by the Privy Council, that the sale in the execution passed the whole of property, and not merely the shares of A. and B. notwithstanding that the present defendants had not been parties to the former suit. DAULAT RAM v. MEHAR CHAND.

1 P R 1888 P C

23. Son's right to obtain a declaration that he is not bound by his father's mortgage—Debts contracted for immoral purposes—Notice to mortgagee that they were so contracted.

In cases governed by the Hindu Law of the Mitakshara, where a son sues for a declaration that a mortgage of the ancestral property made by his father and to which he is no party will bind the property only during the lifetime of his father and is void as against himself, the plaintiff cannot obtain such declaration, unless it be shown that the debts of the father, secured by the mortgage, were contracted for immoral purposes, and that the mortgagee had notice that they were so contracted.

Hurnarain v. Arur Singh (No. 44 P. R. 1872), and Mussammat Imarti v. Buta Singh (No. 144 P. R. 1884) cited. JAMNA DAS v. SARDAR BHANGA SINGH. 93 P R 1888

24. Son suing to set aside his father's alienation—Distinction between cases where consideration is by way of present payment and antecedent debt—Onus Probandi—Legal necessity—Immoral debt—Liability of son for father's debt.

In suits where a son, in a Hindu family governed by the Mitakshara law, seeks to set aside an alienation of ancestral property by his father, the rule of decision depends on whether the alienation in question has been made (a) in consideration of a loan, or of a payment made to the father on the occasion of his making the alienation, or (b) for the payment of antecedent debts.

HINDU LAW—contd.

II.—ALIENATION—contd.

In the former case, inasmuch as a Hindu father has, under the Mitakshara law, no absolute power of disposition over ancestral immovables, except for the purpose of meeting some urgent family necessity, the person who takes a mortgage of such property from the father, in consideration merely of a present advance, is bound to establish, in a suit brought by a son to challenge the validity of the alienation so far as it affects his interests, that the advance was made by him after a reasonable and fair enquiry which satisfied him, as a prudent man, that the money was required for the legal necessities of the family, in respect of which the father, as head and managing member, could deal with, and bind the ancestral estate.

In the latter case, the rule of law is, that the freedom of the son from the pious obligation to pay his father's antecedent debt, which is enjoined by the Hindu Shastras, has reference to the nature and character of the debt, and not to that of the estate sought to be charged with its payment; and it is not enough for the son to contend that the debt in question was not justified by any pressing family necessity, as the Hindu Law imposes upon him the duty of discharging his father's debt, and this duty he can only escape by showing the debt in question was tainted with immorality.

Jamna Das v. Sardar Bhanga Singh (No. 93 P. R. 1888) cited. CHARANJIT SINGH v. TELU. 152 P R 1888

25. Khatris of the city of Lahore—Joint Hindu family—Mortgage of a portion of the joint estate by one member—Mortgaged property purchased benami in name of mortgagor—Estoppel—Mortgage for value without notice.

H. D., now deceased, a Khatri, purchased a house in the city of Lahore in the name of his son, L. D., who mortgaged it to the defendants for Rs. 600. Prior to the mortgage H. D. had died, leaving considerable property which was inherited by his heirs as joint Hindu family.

H. D.'s widow and R. M. (a son) sued to contest the mortgage by L. D. to the defendant.

Held, that the purchase of the house by the father in the name of his son, L. D. was benami, the father being the real owner, and that his (the father's) heirs were not estopped from proving the true nature of the transaction even against a bona fide mortgagee from the benamidar.

Held, further, that under the circumstances of the case, the proper decree to make was one:

(1) that the mortgage should not affect the widow's lien for maintenance in respect of this portion of the estate of her late husband;

(2) that the property be regarded as now partitioned between R. M.

(the other son) and L. D. each taking a half share; and

(3) that R. M. recover possession of his half share unencumbered, the mortgage being valid only in respect of the remaining share belonging to L. D. DHARAM CHAND v. MUSSAMMAT KAMM DEVI.

6 P R 1893

26. Hindu Law—Joint ancestral property—Partition, proof of—Power of member of Joint Hindu family to dispose of his share in immovable property without consent of co-parceners—Succession of daughter's son.

Held, following the ruling of the Privy Council in I L. R. XVIII Calc. 157, that a member of a joint Hindu family, governed by the Mitakshara law, becomes sole owner of his share in the ancestral property and has the same power of disposal as if it had been acquired property, as soon as partition of such ancestral property has been made.

It is not necessary to show that the property itself has been actually severed or divided; a division of the right or title is sufficient without an actual partition of the property itself by metes and bounds. The test is the intention to be inferred from the acts done and the instruments executed by the parties themselves, and the Court must find in each particular case whether the parties have agreed that the property in question shall henceforth be the subject of ownership in defined shares, and have taken away from it the character of undivided property and joint enjoyment.

Held, also, that by Hindu Law a daughter's son succeeds in preference to grand-nephews (brother's grandsons).

I. L. R. XVIII Calc. 157; XI M. I. App. 75, and No. 2 P. R. 1892, cited. NANAK CHAND v. MUSSAMMAT DAYAN.

103 P R 1894

27. Hindu Law—Sale of ancestral dwelling house in execution of decree—Widow's right of residence.

After the death of a certain Hindu his family dwelling-house was sold in execution of a decree against him based on a mortgage of immovable property, including the said house. It was not found by either of the lower Courts that the mortgage consideration was immoral or for purposes other than those of the family, or that the whole of the family property passed at the auction sale above referred to. But the widow of the deceased judgment-debtor contended that she was absolutely, and under all circumstances, entitled to reside in, and be maintained from, the ancestral dwelling-house even after its sale as aforesaid.

Held, that the said house having been sold in execution of a decree based on a mortgage executed by the widow's late husband, who was presumably able and willing to maintain her in another house, and the mortgage consideration not having been shown to be immoral or unjustifiable, the widow was not entitled to continue to reside in it after its purchase even though the purchaser had notice of her alleged claim.

I. L. R. XII Mad., 260, followed; I. L. R. III All., 353, and No. 144 P. R. 1884, not followed. MUSSAMMAT KARAM KAUR v. MUSSAMMAT KISHEN DEVI. 39 P R 1896

28. Hindu Law—Liability of son for father's debt—Onus of proving that debt was incurred for immoral purposes—Minor son—"Antecedent debt," meaning of.

There being no reason why a minor son should not just as much as an adult son be under a pious obligation to discharge his father's debts, the onus of proving that a father's debts were immoral, when it is sought to set aside an alienation by the father, lies no less upon minor sons than upon adult sons, the former being in no better position than the latter.

In 1892 one G. C. mortgaged six houses to one T. D. for Rs. 5,500 by two deeds, and out of the consideration Rs. 3,000 was for the payment of an antecedent debt and Rs. 2,500 was taken by G. C. in cash. G. C. then rented the houses from T. D. and executed leases to him. In 1894 T. D. brought two suits against G. C. for possession of the houses, and obtained two decrees for possession with costs in the two cases amounting, respectively, to Rs. 329 and Rs. 327. On the 24th August 1895 T. D. executed the decrees for costs and attached the six houses, and further prayed that a sum of about Rs. 7,000 which was due to him under the mortgage-deed should be reserved and the houses sold, the proceeds being applied towards the satisfaction of the sums due on the decrees. The minor son of G. C. objected to the attachment, but his objection was dismissed. He accordingly filed the present suit on the 20th February 1896 for release of the houses from attachment, and it was contended on his behalf that G. C.'s debts were incurred for immoral purposes, and that the onus of proving that they were not so rested in this case upon T. D. because (a) the son was a minor, and (b) Rs. 2,500 of the original debt having been taken in cash by G. C, at the time of mortgage was not an antecedent debt.

Held, that the minority of the son was no reason why the burden of proof should be shifted from him.

Held, further, that inasmuch as there were decrees for Rs. 329 and Rs. 327 against G. C. at the time when plaintiff instituted the present suit, such decrees were antecedent debt which plaintiff was under a pious obligation to pay unless he could prove that they bore an immoral taint.

"Antecedent debt" means with regard to a mortgage a "debt antecedent to the transaction," and in the case of a proceeding by suit a "debt antecedent to the suit."

I. L. R. XX Calc., 328, followed.

As regards the contention that, though the amounts of the decrees might be antecedent debts, yet that this did not apply to the whole of the mortgage money due on the mortgages, held, that inasmuch as the decrees for possession and the order in execution for sale of the houses subject to T. D.'s mortgages substantially charged the whole mortgage-money on the property, plaintiff in suing to set aside orders passed against him in furtherance of T. D.'s remedy for his debt, was attempting to set up his right against the creditor's remedy for his debt, which, on the authority of I. L. R. XIII Calc. 21, he could not be allowed to do.

Found, on the evidence, that plaintiff had failed to prove that the debts of G. C. were for immoral purposes. JAGAN NATH v. TULSI DAS. 72 P R 1898

29. Power of female heir to alienate.

Held, that under customary law no less than under Hindu Law a female has merely a limited right of alienation in respect of inherited property, whether movable or immovable. SANT SINGH v. JOWALA SINGH.

58 P R 1899

30. Sale by a Sikh Jat without male issue at the date of the sale—Right of subsequently born male issue to object to a sale of land made prior to his birth.

Held, in the absence of special custom to the contrary, that as an heir takes a vested interest on birth only in that property which is his father's at the time of birth, he cannot object to a sale of land effected by his father prior to his birth. SHAM SINGH AND OTHERS v. SUCHA. 79 P R 1900

31. Hindu Law—Widow—Decree on mortgage entered into by a widow—Execution of decree against the widow's husband's representatives—Frame of suit—Necessity—Self-acquired property.

A Hindu widow mortgaged certain immovable property of her husband, the mortgagee having sued the widow for possession of the property and the rent without making the reversioners parties, obtained a decree. On the widow's death the decree-holder in execution endeavoured to execute the decree against her representatives, and asked to be put in possession of the property and for recovery of the money due under the decree.

Held, that the mortgagee had no charge on the estate, the action as brought was only a personal one, and even though the foundation of a decree be a liability which might bind the reversioners, that alone is not sufficient. The suit must be so framed as to show that it is not merely a personal demand upon the female in possession, but that it is intended to bind the entire estate and the interest of all those who come after her. The question of necessity for the mortgage in order to charge the heirs cannot be gone into in execution proceedings, but the execution Court was bound to enquire if the property sought to be attached was the widow's self-acquired property, and if so, have executed the money decree against it.

HINDU LAW—contd.

II.—ALIENATION—contd.

Hira Singh and others v. Sher Singh and others (29 P. R. 1898), approved; Liladhar v. Chatur Bhuj (I. L. R. XXI All., 278, Ramayya v. Venkatarantam (I. L. R. XVII Mad. 123), and Ariabudra v. Dorasami (I. L. R. XI Mad., 413) followed. TEKOO RAM v. KARAM CHAND. 105 P R 1900

32. Hindu Law—Alienation—Gift—Gift of immovable property without delivery of possession—Revocation of gift by a donor.

Held, that under Hindu Law a gift which the donor repudiated immediately after and which he did not do all in his power to perfect and which he did not give actual possession of the gifted property is not valid. CHAUDHRI LILA KISHEN v. CHAUDHRI HOA RAM. 45 P R 1901

33. Hindu Law—Alienation—Alienation by Hindu widow—Right of collaterals to question such alienation in presence of daughters and their sons—Burden of proof—Collusion—Mahrotra Khatris of Mooltan city.

Plaintiffs, the brother and nephews of one "P." sued for a declaration that the gift of a house formerly the property of P., made by his widow to the Sanatan Dharm Sabha for the good of her soul and that of her husband, being without necessity, was inoperative so far as it affected their reversionary rights. The defendant pleaded that by special custom she had the power to alienate the property at pleasure, that under an oral will she had authority to do so, that the gift being for spiritual benefit of her late husband was justified by Hindu Law, and that the plaintiffs were not the next reversioners under custom and that they could not sue in presence of daughters and their sons who would succeed after the widow. The first Court found all the points against the defendants and decreed the plaintiffs' claim. The Divisional Judge while agreeing with the first Court's finding on the first three points, disagreed with it on the fourth, holding that the plaintiffs upon whom the onus of proof lay have failed to prove that among non-agricultural Khatris of the Mooltan city the collaterals not members of a joint family succeeded to the self-acquired property of the deceased in preference to the daughters and their sons, and that, therefore, they as near collaterals had no locus standi in the presence of the daughters of the deceased and their sons, and cannot maintain a suit for a declaratory decree as sued for. On appeal by the plaintiffs to the Chief Court—

Held, that where the daughters and their sons are held to be the heirs of the deceased male proprietor, the collaterals cannot maintain their action unless they can prove that the abstention of their daughters and their sons who are heirs were in collusion with the widow, or did not sue for some improper and insufficient reasons.

Held, also, that where the daughters or their sons agreed to the widow making the gift of a portion of her deceased husband's property to a religious institution for the good of her oul and that of her husband, their agreement was an act of filial piety against their own interest, and was not collusion in the sense in which collusion would give collaterals a right to sue to set aside the alienation. Bona fide agreement in an act or recognition of the right of the person dealing with property to deal with it, as has been done in the present case, was not collusion, and does not give a more remote reversioner any right to sue for a declaratory decree that such act will not affect his rights.

Held, further, that no rule of custom governing the parties (who were Mahrotra Khatris of Mooltan city) being established the burden of proof being on plaintiffs, the personal law of the parties must furnish the rule under the provisions of section 5 of the Punjab Laws Act, under which law collaterals are excluded by daughters and their sons. WISHAN DAS AND OTHERS v. THAKAR DAS AND OTHERS. 119 P R 1901

34. Alienation of ancestral property—Bhabras of Rawalpindi City.

Held, that the Bhabras of Rawalpindi City in matters of alienation are governed by the ordinary Hindu Law. SOHNA SHAH AND OTHERS v. DIPA SHAH AND OTHERS. 15 P R 1902

35. The burden of proof that Khatris, who do not depend entirely on land, in matters of alienation and succession, follow Punjab Customary Law rests on the person making such an allegation. The mere fact that a Khatri family had held land for a long time is not ipso facto sufficient to shift the burden on the other side.

Nanak Chand v. Mussammat Dayan (103 P. R. 1894), Kartar Singh v. Mathar Singh (94 P. R. 1898), Harnam Singh v. Devi Chand (107 P. R. 1901), and Hassan v. Jahana (70 P. R. 1904), cited and followed. Ralla v. Budha (50 P. R. 1893, F. B.), referred to. ATAR SINGH v. PREM SINGH. 12 R P 1906

36. Accordingly the Khatris of Hasil, tahsil Chakwal in the Jhelum District, were found not to be governed by the ordinary agricultural custom of their neighbours but by their own personal law. ATAR SINGH v. PREM SINGH. 12 P R 906

37. And so were the Khatris of Bhagtana Talianwala tahsil Batala, in the Gurdaspur District. KAKA v. LABH CHAND. 106 P R 1906

38. But the Sikh Brahmans of mauza Chaowala, tahsil Jagadhri in the Ambala District, who have abandoned the Brahmanical thread, do not perform priestly functions and have for generations past followed agriculture and are mainly dependent on land, were held to be governed by the general rules of agricultural custom of the tract in which they reside and not by Hindu Law. GOPAL SINGH v. SUKHA SINGH. 58 P R 1906

39. Hindu Law—Family debt—Sale of ancestral dwelling house in execution of decree—Wife or widow's right of residence.

HINDU LAW—contd.

II.—ALIENATION—concld.

Held, that the right of a Hindu wife or widow to reside in the ancestral family dwelling house is, as a general rule, superseded by debts incurred by her husband in the ordinary way of business and living. NIHAL DEVI v. SHIB DIAL. 36 P R 1907

40. Alienation by Hindu widow of self-acquired property of her husband—Right of reversioner to question such alienation.

Held, that there is no distinction between ancestral and acquired property inherited by a Hindu widow from her husband and a reversioner has as much right to contest her alienation of the one as of the other. KIRPA RAM v. RAKHI. 114 P R 1907

41. Competency of father over self-acquisition—Joint property—Validity of a testamentary disposition of his share by a member of joint Hindu family—Effect of partition by testator before death.

Held, that a Hindu father is competent to dispose of all his self-acquired property at pleasure, and his sons cannot dispute the disposition even though it be in favour of a stranger.

Held, also, that a testamentary disposition of his share of the joint property by a member of an undivided family would not be invalid if the interest of the testator had been separated off by means of a partition before his death. SOHAN LAL v. LABHU RAM. 150 P R 1907

42. Hindu Law—Initial presumption—Custom.

Held, that the initial presumption in regard to Khatris is that they follow Hindu Law and not agricultural customs. PRABBH DIAL v. BASKHI RAM. 58 P R 1909

See ALSO 34 AND 79 P R 1909

43. Hindu Law—Self-acquired property; powers of disposal of.

Held, following Balwant Singh v. Rani Kishori I. L. R. 20 All. 267 P. C. that as regards self-acquired property a Hindu has plenary powers of disposition. MUSSAMMAT NEHAL DEVI v. KISHORE CHAND. 97 P R 1910

44. Custom—Alienation—Alienation by father—Suit to contest alienation by sons—Sodhi Khatris of mauza Thathi Khara, tahsil *Tarn Taran, district Amritsar—*onus probandi—Hindu Law.

Held, that the plaintiff, on whom the onus lay, had failed to prove that Sodhi Khatris of mauza Thathi Khara, Tarn Taran tahsil of the Amritsar District, in matters of alienation were governed by agricultural custom and not by Hindu Law. 79 P. R. 1909 (Sardar Singh v. Maharaj Das) followed. 28 P R 1911

45. Collaterals in 4th degree do not exclude daughters by Hindu Law.

Held, that it had not been proved that Sodhi Khatris of mauza Bhamipura, tahsil Jagraon, district Ludhiana, follow agricultural custom in connection with alienation of or succession to, sancestral immovable property and by Hindu Law collaterals in the 4th degree do not exclude daughters. 43 P R 1911

HINDU LAW—contd.

III.—ANCESTRAL PROPERTY.

See Hindu Law—Inheritance.
—Accretion from ancestral property.

The run of Hindu Law that, as accretions from ancestral property, the acquisitions are themselves ancestral cannot be applied to those who are governed by custom. Nawab-ud-din v. Mussammat Kami.
12 P R 1901

IV.—BETROTHAL.

See Hindu Law—Marriage.

V.—GIFT.

See under Custom—Alienation.
Hindu Law—Alienation.

1. Revocation.

By Hindu law a gift is revocable under circumstances which would invalidate a contract. Chujjoo v. Mussammat Beeba.
87 P R 1866

2. By Hindu law, a gift followed by possession cannot be revoked. Dewa Singh v. Kurm Singh. 50 P R 1867

3. Possession.

Quœre, whether by Hindu law, a gift effected by a deed requires possession to follow in order to perfect it. Possession is not necessary to make a bequest valid. Anokha v. Mohun Lall. 2 P R 1870

4. Gift by husband to wife of share of ancestral property and acquired property—Legality of gift—Right of succession to property gifted—Stridhan.

A gift by a husband to his wife, which was found to include ancestral property which was held in specific shares, and acquired lands and outstanding debts which were the exclusive property of the donor, held to be one which in the absence of any special custom, the donor, being sonless, had by Hindu law the power to make, and by virtue of which the donee became the absolute proprietress of the entire estate belonging to her husband.

According to the Hindu law of the Mitakshara school a donation of the above kind by a husband to his wife is regarded as the wife's stridhan, and although in the absence of an express power of alienation being conferred on the wife, which was given in the present instance, she has not a free power of disposal over the immovable portion of the property, the right of succession after her death passes to her heirs, and not to the reversionary heirs of her husband. Joti Ram v. Mussammat Surasti. 13 P R 1883

5. Gift to wife and mother—Power of revocation.

A gift to a wife and mother made from affection is by Hindu law irrevocable by the donor. Banke Rai v. Madho Ram.
153 P R 1833

6. Gift without possession—Validity.

HINDU LAW—contd.

V.—GIFT—concld.

Held, that when a donor has taken all possible steps to complete a gift the non-delivery of actual possession is immaterial and the gift is not invalid merely because the donee was not put in actual possession. Partab Singh v. Fatta. 45 P R 1906

7. Hindu Law—Gift—Necessity for exclusive possession—Irrevocable if completed.

According to Hindu Law the giving of actual and exclusive possession is not necessary for the completion of a gift, and therefore where a person executed and registered a deed of gift of his residential house in favour of his mistress, who was at the time living in it with him and gave her the power to receive the document after registration held that the gift was complete and binding upon the donor. Ram Charan Das v. Bhagwati.
52 P R 1908

8. Gift to Hindu female—Hindu Law—Interpretation of deed of Gift.

Held, following Suraj Mani v. Rabi Nath Ojha (1908) I. L. R. 30 All. 84 P. C. that a deed in favour of a Hindu female has to be interpreted in the same way as any other deed, and that if the wording of the deed, taken as a whole, points to an intention to confer full ownership, the full ownership is conveyed, just as if the beneficiary was a man.

Held also, that the dictum of their Lordships of the Privy Council must be taken as rendering obsolete the main principal on which the ruling in 27 P. R. 1898 was based. Gurmukh Singh v. Makhan Singh.
61 P R 1911

VI.—GUARDIANSHIP.

See Guardian.

By the Hindu Law where a girl of six years of age is betrothed, the father is still entitled to the custody of the child, as against the man betrothed to her. Ram Singh v. Bhugwan Singh.
101 P R 1866

VII.—INHERITANCE.

See Custom VIII.—Maintenance and Succession.
Remarriage of Widows.
Partition. 2 P R 1911 Rev.

1. Custom—Succession—Abandonment of worldly affairs—Gosains.

See Abandonment of worldly affairs.
93 P R 1898

2. Improvements effected by one of a joint undivided Hindu family do not confer on him a title to a greater share. Ameer Chand v. Mya Singh. 16 P R 1866

3. Held, in a suit between Hindus tha lineal descendants within the fourteenth decree excluded a sister's son. Goormookh

HINDU LAW—contd.

VII.—INHERITANCE—contd.

v. Goomanee (No. 30 P. R. 1866, Civil); and Mohunnee Ram v. Mohunna Ram.
35 P R 1866

4. If a Hindu widow be allowed to succeed to a life tenure, the sons' claims to the inheritanne run from the date of her decease. Gunesha v. Baree Mull.
55 P R 1866

5. The widow of a deceased son cannot inherit on the death of her husband's father, in priority of her deceased husband's sister living at the time of the father's death. Mussammat Roop Kour v. Mool Singh. 65 P R 1866

6. The widow of a first cousin in the male line, held to succeed to immovable property before the grandson (daughter's son) of a sister. Moola v. Mussammat Raj Devee. 76 P R 1866

7. Succession of Males—Whole and half-blood.

There was no distinction under the Punjab Civil Code in the case of Hindus between uterine brothers and brothers of the half blood. By Hindu law, when the claim is to succeed to property left by a brother, the sons af a brother who died previously to the devolution of the property cannot share in the succession. The dispute was as to the succession to K.'s property. There survived K. S. his uterine brother, and A. and B. half-brothers; C, also a half-brother, died before K, leaving a son. Held, that C's son had no claim; but that K's property must be equally divided between S, A, and B. Sahiba v. Ameer Chand. 82 P R 1866

8. A widow may alienate for cogent reasons, which the expressed wish of her husband that she should build a thakoordwara and sink a well, does not amount to. Mussammat Kurm Kour v. Ramdhun.
89 P R 1866

9. The son of a paternal uncle is not entitled to share the inheritance with another paternal uncle of deceased, except in the case of succession, to the estate of a grandfather. Sobha Singh v. Churut Singh.
16 P R 1867

10. A childless widowed daughter (Hindu) in the absence of custom, does not inherit property absolutely from her father, but only for life; and she cannot alienate any portion of it save for necessity. Must Ram v. Mussammat Loorindee. 40 P R 1867

11. Widow.

Where a Hindu widow in default of issue succeeds to her husband's estate as tenant for life, she cannot alienate or devise the estate, which on her death devolves on the legal heirs. If she re-marry her interests in the estate cease and determine as if she had then died, and the next heirs thereupon succeed. If after remarriage she retain the property beyond the period of limitation, the question whether the claim of heirs is barred will depend upon whether her possession was adverse or permissive. NARAIN DASS v. MUKHUN (No. 22 P R 1866) and BHOOLER v. MUSSAMMAT BHOOCHEE.

HINDU LAW—contd.

VII.—INHERITANCE—contd.

82 P R 1867

12. Whether the sister's son of a deceased Hindu can inherit ancestral land in the presence of remote kindred in the male line, is a question to be determined by the custom of the place to which the parties belong, if the existence of such a custom is established; although according to the Mitakshara he cannot so inherit. GUNPUT v. KANAH. 19 P R 1868

13. In the absence of any express agreement, the mere fact that in the division of joint ancestral property the eldest brother received a larger share than his younger brothers (even though they be sons of another mother), does not operate to deprive him of any right which may subsequently accrue to him to inherit the property of such younger brothers. GOPAL SINGH v. KHOSHAL SINGH. 62 P R 1868

14. Held, that by Hindu Law, brothers of the whole blood had a preferential right to brothers of the half blood; and similarly, the sons of uterine brothers took before the sons of half-brothers. GOLAB SINGH v. NEHAL SINGH. 112 P R 1868

15. Succession to the lands of a deceased Hindu proprietor, claimed by a daughter, having been judicially disallowed—held, that the daughter's sons (who claimed through their mother) had no right to the inheritance. Query whether, under some circumstances, the right of a daughter's son to inherit is not superior to that of his mother. NANUK v. RAM RAJ. 2 P R 1868 Rev.

16. Association and disassociation—four brothers. There were four brothers viz. B. S., R., G. S., and J. M. The eldest and youngest (B. S. and J. M.) separated in food and estate from the other two, and jointly acquired by their services and exertions certain villages from the Sikh Government. They did not confer any proprietary right on their brothers, and themselves held the villages in joint tenure. B. S. died leaving a son H. Held, that H, then succeeded to half these villages, holding them jointly with J. M. J. M. died leaving two widows. —Held, that as to J. M.'s half share, the widows were entitled to hold it for their lives, as J. M. was at the time of his death separated in food and estate from his two brothers; and that the reversion went to J. M.'s unassociated brothers (or their representatives) in preference to H., J. M.'s associated nephew. After the death of B. S.,

HINDU LAW—contd.

VII.—INHERITANCE—contd.

J. M. purchased certain villages. J. M. was then separated in food and estate from his brothers, R. and G. S., and was in a state of jointness with his nephew H. the son of B. S. Held, that the purchase was made out of the joint funds of J. M. and H.; and that H. was entitled on the death of J. M. to the exclusive proprietary right in these villages, the widows of J. M. having no claim to a life interest as the property was joint. The acquisition by one member of a family while living in coparcenary is not joint property, unless the acquisition was made with the aid of the joint funds. DEWAN SUPA CHAND v. DEWAN HEMRAJ. 59 P R 1869

17. Laik Beta.

Sirdar Bhag Singh was succeeded in his jagir by his eldest son, the plaintiff, and the rest of his sons, the defendants. No special order was made at the time of his succession in reference to the shares of the sons of Bhag Singh, but plaintiff sued the defendants for Rs. 140-4-5 in respect of the kharif crop of the year of their father's death as "huq sirdari," on the ground that he was his father's eldest and qualified son, or "laik beta." About seven years before his death, Sirdar Bhag Singh, with twenty-two other jagirdars in the same district, executed a document to the effect that being summoned by Government to make inquiries about the custom relating to succession to inheritance amongst themselves, the ancient and prevailing custom was to divide the jagir equally amongst the sons, the fittest son receiving double share on account of the sirdari; and they further stated that they desired this custom to be maintained, the "laik beta", where the jagir was more than Rs. 1,000 per annum, receiving a double share. Two years after this document was executed, Sirdar Bhag Singh divided his liabilities equally amongst his sons, to whom he gave equal shares of the jagir. Between this and his death, he became a Kooka, in which the plaintiff followed him. Held, that as Government was no party to the document signed by the twenty-three jagirdars, it being in fact a voluntary promise on their part unsupported by any consideration moving from the Government, and as Sirdar Bhag Singh had afterwards of his free will departed from the arrangement which he agreed to along with the jagirdars, in such case even assuming that Sirdar Bhag Singh had distinguished the plaintiff as his "laik beta" the inheritance would devolve according to Hindu Law, and not according to the principle subscribed to by the twenty-three jagirdars. SIRDAR SUJAN SINGH v. MAN SINGH. 63 P R 1869

18. A Hindu widow was held liable in Ramdhun v. Mussammat Kurm Kour (No. 85 P, R., 1868) to forfeither life interest for unchastity; but that case was over-ruled by Mamraj v. Bhola (No. 78 P. R., 1869), which proceeded upon Act XXI of 1850, and found no custom in point. MAMRAJ v. BHOLA. 78 P R 1869

HINDU LAW—contd.

VII.—INEERITANCE—contd.

19. Widow's right not accruing at husband's death, does not afterwards arise.

Upon the death of the plaintiff's husband, his brother, who had been jointly possessed with him of certain land, succeeded by survivorship to the entire property. The brother died childless ten years afterwards. The widow them preferred a claim to a life interest in the whole of the land against the collateral kindred, not having raised any claim against her husband's brother. Held, that the widow could not claim a life interest even in the share of which her husband had been possessed. Where no inheritance devolves upon heirs, but an additional joint interest passes by survivorship on the death of a co-parcener to another co-parcener, the widow cannot claim a life interest in the share of her husband: if the widow's right does not accrue at her husband's death, it cannot afterwards arise. GUTTEA v. MUSSAMMAT JOWALO. 92 P R 1869

20. Nephews—Disassociation.

A brother's son succeeds before a brother's son's son. An associated nephew, who had been re-united to his uncle and lived with him in a state of commensality and jointness for several years before the uncle's death, held entitled to succeed in preference to a disassociated nephew. KHURKA v. SOOJAN SINGH.
7 P R 1870

21. Mother's title to life tenure in estate of son to exclusion of others—Remarriage of the mother.

A mother is entitled to a life tenure in the estate of her deceased son, inherited from his father, to the exclusion of the son's uncle and step-father, who is also the husband of the mother, and in preference to the half-brother of the son; and this notwithstanding the mother's remarriage with the uncle. HEERA SINGH v. SOBHA. 11 P R 1870

22. Widows.

By remarriage a Hindu widow forfeits her rights,—Bhooler v. Mussammat Bhoochee (No. 49 P. R., 1866,); but her existing rights only; held, accordingly, that she was entitled on the death of her son to succeed to the property which he inherited from his father, her first husband. MUSSAMMAT ROOPAN v. HAKIM SINGH.
37 P R 1870

23. Succession of females—Daughter's son and cousins.

There being no proof of any custom in point, held, that a first cousin and second cousin once removed of the deceased were excluded by his daughter and her son. MUNSA RAM v. PUNNOO. 38 P R 1870

24. Apostacy.

A Hindu by becoming a Muhammadan does not forfeit his right or his son's right to inherit. Jabha v. Mehtaba (No. 67 P. R., 1867), Gurmukh Singh v. Malla (No. 12 P. R., 1872); and GOVARDHAN v. PIARA.
6 P R 1872 Rev.

HINDU LAW—contd.

VII.—INHERITANCE—contd.

25. A Hindu inheriting property from his mother, is liable for her debts to the extent of the property inherited. BISHEN DASS v. SIRDAR DIAL SINGH. 9 P R 1873

26. Widow and brother—Separation.

Plaintiff, as widow of C. S, sued defendant for half share of a sum of money paid to defendant for the redemption of certain land from mortgage. The property was mortgaged either to the father of C. S. and defendant or to C. S. and defendant. The evidence as to this was not clear. Held, that if the father was the original mortgagee, as C. S. and defendant, although separate in every other particular, remained joint as to the land mortgaged, C. S.'s widow had no claim to the half share of the said sum of money; the same also, if the mortgage was first taken by C. S. and his brother as, though separate in every other respect they re-united as to the mortgage. MUSSAMMAT CHATTI BAI v. DHALU MAL. 9 P R 1874

27. Faqir.

A Hindu who becomes a faqir loses by law all claim to his patrimony. Gopal Singh v. Jowahir Singh (No. 1 P R. 1868); and he cannot renounce his religious order, and return to the world. TEKU v. BUSTI. 15 P R 1874

28. H. S. had two wives: by the first, he had two sons, A. S. and P. S. and by the second, also two sons, J. S. and G. S. In 1856, A. S and P. S. separated from J. S. and G. S. In 1858, P. S. died leaving a widow, who took a life interest in her husband's property: A. S. also died leaving two sons, Achra Singh and Sampuran Singh. P. S.'s widow alienated a portion of her deceased husband's property. J. S. and Sampuran Singh sued for a declaratory decree protecting their rights as reversioners, and pronouncing the sale invalid as against them. The Lower Appellate Court decided in favour of the claim. On defendant's appeal to the Chief Court, Sampuran Singh withdrew from the suit:—

Held, by BOULNOIS and CAMPBELL, JJ., that as Sampuran Singh had joined in the suit, the sale must be declared void, whether or not J. S. had any locus standi as a reversioner, notwithstanding Sampuran Singh's withdrawal from the case. Held by LINDSAY, J., that J. S. was not entitled to sue, inasmuch as a disassociated half-brother has no right during the lifetime of the members of an associated family to question the alienation by the widow of a deceased member of that family unless the living members sanctioned his action and relinquished their rights. DEWAN KIRPA RAM v. SIRDAR JOWAHIR SINGH. 19 P R 1874

29. Custom—Daughter—Brahmins—Baraker Got residing in Nurmahal—Onus of proof as to custom—Distant collaterals.

Plaintiff, the daughter of one D. C. who died 14 years ago, and was succeeded in his estate by his widow, who recently died, claimed to recover from defendants a holding of 5 bigas 14 biswas in the town of Nurmahal in the Jullundur district. Defendants were the descendants in the 5th degree of R. R., the common ancestor, from whom D. C. was descended in the 3rd generation. The parties were Brahmans of the Baraker Got, and resident in the town of Nurmahal. Held, by the Chief Court, that the defendants, not being near male collaterals, the burden of proof lay upon them; that it was incumbent upon them to show that there was a locally prevailing custom which deprived plaintiff of her right of succession under Hindu Law; and that, not having discharged themselves of this onus, plaintiff was entitled to the land in suit, to hold the same for her life with an interest similar to that of a widow. MUSSAMMAT BHAGWANDEVI v. NIHAL CHAND. 73 P R 1879

HINDU LAW—contd.

VII.—INHERITANCE—contd.

30. Exclusion from inheritance—Insanity.

Held that by Hindu Law it is not necessary that insanity should be congenital to exclude from inheritance; insanity at the time the succession opens being sufficient to disqualify. LACHMI DHAR v. THAKUR DAS. 149 P R 1883

31. Will—Construction—Vested and contingent interest—Provision for maintenance of widow—Respective rights of succession of co-widow and son's widow.

B. S., who died in 1859, leaving three widows and a son, H. S., him surviving, made a will shortly before his death by which he left the property in dispute to one of his widows Mussammat S. K.—H. S. died in 1866, and on the death of Mussammat S. K. in 1886, the sole surviving widow of B. S. (the third widow having died in 1862) sued to recover the property left by Mussammat S. K. from Mussammat N. K., the widow of H. S., who left no children. The bequest to Mussammat S. K. was held, on the true construction of the will to be for maintenance only, and not to create an ordinary widow's estate.

Held, that under the above circumstances the property in question vested in H. S. on the death of his father, that the plaintiff had therefore no right to inherit as heir of her husband in preference to the defendant, the heirs of H. S., and consequently any claim she made upon that basis must fail, as she had no locus standi. Jusmaer Singh v. Mussammat Hur Kour (No. 40 P. R. 1869) referred to. SARDARNI RATTAN KAUR v. MUSSAMMAT NIHAL KAUR. 72 P R 1888

32. Adopted son—Natural mother—Adoptive mother.

By Hindu Law the widow of the adoptive father succeeds to her husband's property on the death of his adopted son without issue. The adopted son's natural mother has no right in the estate which devolved on her son from the adoptive father.

HINDU LAW—contd.

VII.—INHERITANCE—contd.

Quære.—Whether the Kritrima form of adoption prevails or has ever prevailed in the Punjab generally? MUSSAMMAT RUKMANI v. MUSSAMMAT SALUKHNI. 147 P R 1889

33. Hindu Law—Sister's grandson—Bandhu—Brahmans of Multan.

A sister's grandson is entitled to succeed as a Bandhu under Hindu Law, which presumably governs Brahmans, the enumeration of Bandhus given in the commentaries not being exhaustive but illustrative only. MULTANI CHAND v. LALU MAL. 180 P R 1889

34. Udasi faqir—Abandonment of worldly affairs—Loss of rights of inheritance.

By Hindu Law, if a man becomes an Udasi faqir, he abandons worldly affairs and loses his civil rights of inheritance in his natural family. But it is yet possible that a man may resolve to become a faqir of the Udasi sect and yet resolve not to abandon worldly affairs, and his civil rights of inheritance, the effect that such a course might have upon his status as a faqir in the eyes of other Udasi faqirs not being material.

The true issue in such cases is, did the man on becoming a faqir also intend to renounce, and did he renounce the world, the burden of proof that he did not being upon him. BADHAWA SINGH AND SOCHET SINGH v. ANAUKHA. 7 P R 1892

35. Hindu Law—Succession to right of realizing "birt" offerings—Acharaj Brahmins of Batala, Gurdaspur district.

Held, that among Acharaj Brahmins of Batala, Gurdaspur district, in the absence of any proof of custom to the contrary, daughter or a daughter's son is, by Hindu Law, entitled to succeed to the right of realizing "birt" offerings in preference to collaterals. NIHAL CHAND v. RAM SARAN. 75 P R 1894

36. Succession—Hindu Law—Whole and half blood.

Held, that the preference accorded by Hindu Law to the whole over the half blood is confined to brothers and nephews, and does not extend to descendants of the same grandfather and higher ancestor.

I. L. R. VI Bom. 394 and No. 156 P. R. 1883 and 36 P. R. 1890, referred to. HIRA NAND v. MAYA DAS. 83 P R 1894

37. Hindu Law—Custom—Succession of adopted son to share of "birt"—Panjzati Brahmins of Amritsar city.

Found, that no custom had been proved among Panjzati Brahmins of Amritsar city at variance with the rules of Hindu Law whereby an adopted son is entitled to succeed to a share of the family "birt." BHAGAT RAM v. SHIV DATT. 141 P R 1894

HINDU LAW—contd.

VII.—INHERITANCE—contd.

38. Suit for dissolution of partnership and for rendition of accounts—Suit by adopted son of widow of deceased partner—Joint Hindu family—Limitation Act of 1877, 2nd Schedule, articles 106, 120—Hindu Law—Devolution of ancestral trade—Power of Jain widow of Saraogi sect, Karnal District, to adopt son to her late husband—Ancestral property.

The parties were Jain Saraogis of the Karnal district, and plaintiff, who alleged that he was adopted to one M. L. by the widow of the said M. L., sued for rendition of accounts, dissolution of partnership existing between himself and the late M. L. and defendants, and for a decree for half the total assets of the said firm. The lower Court having decreed the claim, defendants appealed to the Chief Court, and contended that the suit was barred by limitation; that on the death of M. L. his estate devolved on the surviving members of the firm, and could not be diverted by the alleged subsequent adoption; and that, in any event, plaintiff's adoption gave him no right to the ancestral property of the deceased M. L.

Held that inasmuch as by Hindu Law an ancestral trade may descend, like other inheritable property, upon the members of a Hindu undivided family the partnership was not dissolved by the death of M. L.

Held, further, that a valid adoption by a widow to her husband has the effect of placing the adopted son in the position which he would have occupied had he been adopted by that husband or been a posthumous child of that husband, and that the adopted son must be received into the joint family partnership on adoption, and is entitled to all the rights of an ordinary member of that partnership, which has continued to exist in spite of the death of the deceased partner.

Held, therefore, that plaintiff's suit, which was instituted within six years of the date of adoption, was within time under article 126 or 127, Limitation Act, the partnership not having been dissolved by the death of M. L., and no dissolution subsequent to his death and before adoption having been proved.

Held, further, that the adoption by the widow, if valid, divested any estate which was not superior to that of the adopted son, and that plaintiff on adoption became ipso facto a member of the family partnership.

Found upon the evidence, without laying down a general rule, that the adoption was valid and had the effect of vesting in the adopted son the share of the deceased in the joint family property of every description. KAPUR CHAND v. NARINJAN LAL.

20 P R 1897

39. Succession of widow—Right of stranger in possession to plead that widow was disqualified by mental defect from inheriting.

HINDU LAW—contd.

VII.—INHERITANCE—contd.

On the death of one K. childless and without leaving any reversioners, a suit for the whole of his property was instituted on behalf of his widow, Mussammat J. a congenital idiot, by Kanhya, who had been appointed, under Act XXXV of 1858, manager of Mussammat J.'s estate. The persons impleaded as defendants were—(1) Mussammat B. who had lived with K. as his mistress, and (2) Kanshi, who was no relation of deceased, but in whose favour deceased had apparently made a will; which, however, it was alleged on plaintiff's behalf, was invalid. The defendants took a so-called "preliminary plea" to the effect that plaintiff, being a congenital idiot, was not entitled to succeed, and in reply thereto it was contended on plaintiff's behalf that by custom an idiot widow was not disqualified from inheriting. The Court, without considering the question as to the validity of the will, dismissed the suit on the ground that no such custom as alleged had been proved, and that the rule of decision must be taken from Hindu Law under which plaintiff, as a congenital idiot, must be considered as incapable of inheriting.

Held, that lower Court had erred in dismissing the suit on the ground that the plaintiff was disqualified by mental defect from inheriting. Defendants being admittedly strangers whose sole title to the property was based on a will, the validity of which was denied on plaintiff's behalf, the first question that necessarily arose in the case was as to the validity or otherwise of that will, for if it was valid, plaintiff's suit must fail, whereas if it was invalid, defendants would be mere trespassers and, as such, not entitled to take possession of the property and then plead that plaintiff could not succeed by reason of mental defect, a plea of such kind being open only to a person who had a valid title in the land. MUSSAMMAT JAINDI v. KANSHI RAM.

19 P R 1899

40. Inheritance—Custom—Inheritance—Widow of pre-deceased son—Gahi Khatris of Aklaba, Ludhiana district—Hindu Law—Mitakshara.

In a case the parties to which were non-agricultural Khatris of village Aklaba in the Ludhiana district, held, in the absence of a special custom, that succession was to be decided by the Mitakshara, under which law, as applicable to the Punjab, the widow of a pre-deceased son has no right to succeed to her father-in-law's property.

Held also, that the defendant upon whom the onus probandi rested had failed to prove that she (a daughter-in-law, whose husband had pre-deceased his father) was entitled by custom to succeed to her father-in-law's property.

Teja Singh v. Mussammat Atri (115 P. R. 1893), Mussammat Rup Kaur v. Kishen Singh (9 P. R. 1895), Sohna v. Mussammat Bhago (50 P. R. 1897), Bahadur Singh and others v. Mussammat Nihali (133 P. R. 1893), Ananda Bibee v. Nownit Lall (I. L. R. IX Calc. 315), Jagadamba Koer v. Secretary of State for India in Council (I. L R. XVI Calc. 367), Gauri Sahai v. Rukko (I. L. R. III All. 45) and Mari v. Chinnam Mal (I. L. R. VIII Mad. 107) followed. Lullubhai Bapubhai v. Cassibai (I. L. R. V Bom. 110) and Madhavram Manjutram v. Deve Trambaklal Bhawanishankar (I. L. R. XXI Bom. 739), disapproved. Mussammat Chand Kaur v. Ram Singh and others (20 P. R. 1895) distinguished. RADHA MAL v. MUSSAMMAT KIRPI AND OTHERS.

100 P R 1901

HINDU LAW—contd.

VII.—INHERITANCE—contd.

41. Hindu Law—Inheritance—Exclusion of nephews by daughter's sons—Custom—Hindu zargars of Dagshai.

Held, that Hindu zargars trading at Dagshai, having migrated from the Saharanpur district, in the absence of a special custom to the contrary in matters of succession were governed by the ordinary Hindu Law, and that daughter's sons were consequently entitled to succeed in preference to nephews.

Nihal Singh v. Hira Singh (98 P. R. 1889) and Radha Mal v. Mussammat Kirpi (100 P. R. 1901) referred to. BAROO, &c. v. MAKHAN, &c.

61 P R 1903

42. Hindu Law—Inheritance—Great-grandfather's daughter's son succeeds in preference to sister's daughter—Bandhu.

Held, that under the Hindu Law of the Mitakshara School a great-grandfather's daughter's son is entitled to succeed to the estate of his maternal grandfather's great-grandson as a bandhu in preference to the deceased's sister's daughter.

Query.—Can a sister's daughter succeed as a bandhu to her mother's deceased brother in Northern India.

Thakoorain v. Mohun (11 Moo. I. A. 386), cited and followed.

Bansidhar v. Ganeshi (I. L. R. XXII All. 338), Mari v. Chinnam Mal (I. L. R. VIII Mad. 107), Balamma v. Pullayya (I. L. R. XVIII Mad. 168), Lakshmanammal v. Tiruvengada Madalai (I. L. R. V Mad. 241), Nalonna v. Ponnal (I. L. R. XIV Mad. 149), and Venkatasubramaniam Chetti v. Thayarammah (I. L. R. XXI Mad. 263), referred to. MANGAT RAM v. DEVI CHAND. 20 P R 1906

43. In matters of inheritance the Aroras of Amritsar city are governed by Hindu Law and that collaterals are therefore excluded by daughters. RADHO v. HARNAMAN.

99 P R 1907

44. And similarly among Bunjahi Khatris of Rawalpindi city collaterals are excluded by daughter's sons and grandsons. BURA MAL v. NARAIN DAS. 102 P R 1907

45. Sarsut Brahmans of Gurdaspur are governed by the general rules of agricultural custom and not by Hindu Law. 3 P R 1908

HINDU LAW—contd.

VII.—INHERITANCE—concld.

46. Inheritance of stridhan—Marriage in approved form.

Held, that the stridhan of a Hindu wife dying childless who has been married in one of the four approved forms of marriage, devolves upon her husband and not on her parents or their heirs. MUNNI v. UMRAO SINGH. 39 P R 1909

47. Brahmins.

Held, that the initial presumption in regard to Brahmins is that they are governed by Hindu Law. MUSSAMMAT MAYA v. GURDIT SINGH. 1 P R 1910

48. Hindu Law—Succession—Tarkhans of Amritsar city—Custom.

Held, that Hindu non-agriculturists residing in a city are, in the absence of proof of a custom by special instance, modifying Hindu Law, presumably governed by that law, and that among Hindu Tarkhans of the Amritsar city a grand-nephew as a sapinda succeeds in preference to a great-grand-nephew and to the widow of a sapinda whose husband predeceased the widow of the last male owner. SARDUL SINGH v. KARM SINGH. 30 P R 1910

VIII.—JOINT FAMILY.

See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION. 166 P R 1882 153 P R 1883

See HINDU LAW—INHERITANCE. 20 P R 1897

1. Suit for partition of undivided estate—Death of defendant-respondent during pendency of appeal by plaintiff—Necessity for placing divided brother or widow of deceased coparcener on record.

See ABATEMENT OF APPEAL. 86 P R 1886

2. Join suit by alleged partners of joint undivided Hindu family in respect of leases made in the names of certain individual members of the alleged partnership.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 80. 67 P R 1894

3. Suit for recovery of a debt due to a joint Hindu family—Joinder of a coparcener as defendant after period of limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 22. 20 P R 1909

4. Mortgage in name of two members of joint Hindu family—Right of such members to sue alone—Non-joinder of other members.

See PARTIES. 15 P R 1902

5. Joint Hindu familly—Suit by the managing member for debt due to the family—Joinder of other members interested in the family as defendants after the period of limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, section 22.

Se PARTIES. 57 P R 1905 F B

HINDU LAW—contd.

VIII.—JOINT FAMILY—contd.

6. Joint Hindu family—Suit by the managing member for debt due to the family—Non-joinder of other members—Procedure.

See PARTIES. 69 P R 1906

7. Suit by son for pre-emption on sale of house property in presence of father.

See PRE-EMPTION ACT, 1905, SECTION 13. 35 P R 1908

8. Hindu Law—Joint Hindu family—Presumption of joint ownership—Necessity for certificate.

See SUCCESSION CERTIFICATE ACT, 1889, SECTION 4. 20 P R 1901

9. Houses erected on joint undivided land by one of the sharers, become, by Hindu Law, the joint property of all the sharers. AMEER CHUND v. MYA SINGH. 16 P R 1866

10. In a suit for the division of ancestral property of a joint Hindu family, the rule is that the right is not barred by limitation except where the shares have been actually severed and separately occupied, or the plaintiff has been absolutely excluded from possession and profits. ATTER SINGH v. KAN SINGH. 46 P R 1866

11. As between two Hindu brothers, joint in estate for some purposes, the presumption is that all the property in the possession of either of them is joint; and the onus is on him who claims a portion of it as separate to show that it is so. RAI KISHEN CHUND v. BISHESHUR SINGH. 85 P R 1867

12. The acquisition by one member of a Hindu family while living in coparcenary is not joint property unless the acquisition was made with the aid of the joint funds. DEWAN SUFA CHUND v. DEWAN HEMRAJ. 59 P R 1869

13. The burdens of proving separation of interests in a Hindu family rests with the member of the family asserting that a separation has taken place; and he is not relieved from this onus by the fact that the other members of the family have not enjoyed any of the actual proceeds of the particular property within the period limited for bringing the suit. HURBHUJ RAI v. BOODOO MUL. 17 P R 1870

14. The legal presumption is that a Hindu family is joint and undivided in business, as well as in other respects; and it rests with the party denying such jointness to prove that the family is divided as to trading or business operations. MUSSAMMAT KOONDAN v. RAMDYAL. 33 P R 1870

15. In the case of a joint undivided Hindu family, the possession of one member or more cannot be adverse as against an absent member. LALLA v. JEYGOPAL. 49 P R 1870

HINDU LAW—contd.

VIII.—JOINT FAMILY—contd.

16. Undivided family—Mortgage by co-sharer—Rights of creditors.—Res judicata.

One N. was joint in estate with J. father of R. C., defendant, and they owned in undivided moieties the house in dispute which was ancestral property. After J.'s death N. in 1868 mortgaged the whole property to M. C. for Rs. 1,500. After N.'s death M. C. in 1873 sued his widow M. M. on the mortgage. At her request L. M. and H. S. plaintiffs paid M. C. Rs. 1,200 in 1874, which with other monies discharged the property from incumbrances, and the suit between M. C. and M. M. was compromised.

L. M. and H. S. then sued M. M. for specific performance of an alleged agreement to sell the property to them for the Rs. 1,200 advanced, making R. C. and his grandmother and guardian M. Z. also defendants. That suit was dismissed on the ground that M. M. widow of N. had no power to convey the interest of R. C. whose guardian she was not.

L. M. and H. S. then instituted the present suit against the same defendants, seeking to recover Rs. 1,200 lent with interest and to bring to sale the interest of N. in the ancestral property for the possession of which they formerly sued, excluding the interest therein which devolved on R. C. through his father, J. Both the lower Courts found that L. M. and H. S. plaintiffs, did in fact pay M. C. Rs. 1,200 in order to discharge the mortgage created by N. and decreed their claim in its entirety.

In 1868, when the mortgage was made by N. to M. C. possession was given to M. C. and N. became his tenant. The tenancy determined on the mortgage to M. C. being discharged, and it was not continued or renewed as M. M. promised to convey the house to plaintiffs in a fortnight. The mortgage was not for legal necessity so as to bind the whole joint interest of N. and R. C., but was for a separate debt of N.'s, or to raise money on his own account.

Held, that according to Hindu Law, as interpreted in the Punjab, a Hindu co-parcener in undivided family property, not being a member of a village community, is in the absence of proof of custom to the contrary, incompetent to make a valid alienation by mortgage of his share.

Held further, treating the suit as in substance a suit by creditors of a deceased co-parcener to recover a separate debt incurred by him, by a sale of ancestral property, in which the debtor's interest had devolved by survivorship upon his surviving co-parcener, that such co-parcener was liable to the extent of the interest in the joint estate devolving on him by survivorship, unless it could be shown that there was separate property available.

Held further, that the present suit was not barred by the rule of res judicata. MUSSAMMAT ZAHRO v. LALLU MAL. 21 P R 1879

17. Sale by one sharer—Suit by another joint owner to cancel sale—Consequential relief—Partition.

HINDU LAW—contd.

VIII.—JOINT FAMILY—contd.

One of several sharers in joint ancestral property executed a deed of sale purporting to convey the whole interest in a portion of the joint property, whereupon plaintiff, another joint owner, sued for possession of the land sold in respect of his one-tenth share by cancelment of the sale.

Held, reversing the order of the Lower Court, that plaintiff was entitled to ask for the relief for which he asked, and that his suit was maintainable : and that he was not bound to sue for a general partition though it was competent to him to do so. LACHMAN DAS v. SUNDER DAS. 124 P R 1879

18. Joint property—Execution sale of share in undivided estate—Purchaser's right to compel partition—Purchaser's power to alienate—Hindu widow, power of, to dispose of immoveable property purchased with her husband's money—Waste.

Held, per LINDSAY and PLOWDEN, JJ. that the share and interest of one co-sharer in joint ancestral estate may be sold in execution to satisfy a decree obtained against him personally, even if he be incompetent to make a valid alienation of his share voluntarily, and the purchaser at such sale acquires a right to compel the partition which his debtor might have compelled had he been so minded before the alienation took place.

The purchaser at an execution sale of a share in joint undivided property does not occupy the same position in all respects as the co-sharer whose interest he has purchased. He does not become a co-sharer with the other co-sharers, and therefore the rule that prohibits alienation by a co-sharer of his own interest without the consent of his co-sharers does not apply to him, and there is no reason, such as may be conceived in the case of members of a joint family, why the purchaser of a co-sharer's interest at an execution-sale should not make a transfer of his rights as such purchaser.

Held further, per LINDSAY and SMYTH, JJ. (PLOWDEN, J, dissenting as to this), that a Hindu widow, though entitled to the absolute and uncontrolled possession of the moveable estate of her husband, and to the full enjoyment of the usufruct thereof may not waste the corpus, and if she converts it into immoveable property she may not dispose of such property otherwise than she might have disposed of it if it had descended to her in that form from her husband.

Per PLOWDEN, J. contra.—A Hindu widow is not subject to the control of her husband's reversioners in dealing with the moveable property of her husband, or immoveable property purchased therewith, unless her dealings amount to waste, or risk of waste. DHANPAT v. HAKU. 58 P R 1880

19. Partition—Separation of interest—Evidence of separation.

While the mere absence of commensality does not necessarily prove that a Hindu family has ceased to be joint, so on the other hand it does not follow that because there has been no physical separation of a joint holding that the persons entitled to that property may not be de facto separate in their interest. The question in all such cases is really one of intention, and if there has been a conversion of what was once a joint tenancy of an undivided family into a tenancy in common of the members of that family, the undivided family becomes a divided family with reference to the property that is the subject of such conversion, although not immediately followed by a de facto actual division of the subject-matter. GOPAL SINGH v. KHOSHYAL SINGH. 136 P R 1882

HINDU LAW—contd.

VIII.—JOINT FAMILY—contd.

20. Separation—Presumption—Partial disruption.

The ordinary rule is that when once a Hindu family is shown to have been joint, it is presumed to remain so until an actual separation is proved : but this presumption is not applicable where it is admitted that a disruption of the unity of the family has already taken place, and a presumption under such circumstances cannot arise as to whether the other members of the family remained joint or became separate. AMI CHAND v. GHASITA MAL. 143 P R 1882

21. Presumption of joint ownership—Rebuttal of presumption—Onus probanai—Modes of proving partition—Onus of proving self-acquisition.

It is settled law that the normal state of every Hindu family is joint, and, in the absence of proof of division, the presumption of law is that every such family is joint in food, worship, and estate : but this is only a presumption, and, although perfectly true as an abstract principle, the degree of weight to be attached to it, or the extent of proof required to rebut it, must depend on the circumstances of each case and the way in which the principle is sought to be applied.

Where, therefore, in a suit to recover possession of property alleged to have been held in joint ownership by the plaintiffs and their deceased uncle, and which it appeared was transferred by a registered deed of gift by the latter to his wife, it was established that some of the said property was ancestral, and it was not contended that it had ever been divided by metes and bounds, or that the plaintiffs had ceased to have a share in it, but what was contended was, that the shares in it had been so ascertained and so dealt with that it had ceased to retain its character of joint undivided property, held that the ordinary presumption must receive its full force, and the onus clearly lay on those who asserted that what was once the ancestral estate of a joint and undivided Hindu family had since become separate by partition or otherwise, to prove their allegation.

The modes of proving a contested partition, which are recognized in the Hindu law, discussed and explained.

HINDU LAW—contd.

VIII.—JOINT FAMILY—contd.

Held further, that where there is ancestral property by means of which other property may possibly have been acquired, it is for the party alleging self-acquisition to prove that it was acquired without any aid from the family estate. JOTI RAM v. MUSSAMMAT SURASTI. 13 P R 1883

22. Power of managing member to give discharge binding on minor—Act IX of 1872, section 251—Partner's power to bind co-partners.

Held, following Sadulla Khan v. Bhana Mal (No. 58 P. R., 1882, Civil), that the managing member of an ancestral business belonging to an undivided Hindu family can give a discharge without the concurrence of a member, who is at the time a minor, when a discharge under the same circumstances by an adult partner would bind a minor co-partner. In such cases the rule laid down in section 251 of the Contract Act applies, and the managing member can bind the firm by any act necessrry for, or usually done in carrying on the business, to the same extent as if he were an agent duly appointed for the purpose. RAM CHAND v. NIHAL CHAND. 63 P R 1883

23. Payment of father's debts by one son—Liability of other sons to contribute—Suit by creditor against one son barred as against others.

In a suit for contribution, it appeared that the present plaintiff had been sued by a creditor of his father, and having pleaded that a portion of the debt claimed was his father's and that his brothers who had shared equally in the paternal estate should therefore be joined, they were accordingly made parties, but it being found that on the date when they were joined in the suit, the creditor's claim against them was barred by limitation, the suit was dismissed as against them, but a decree was given against the present plaintiff for the whole debt.

Held, that the defendants were liable to contribute to the plaintiffs, and that the circumstances that they were impleaded at the instance of the present plaintiff, and the creditor's claim against them was found to be barred by limitation made no difference, as the whole claim had been decreed against one of the heirs, and had been satisfied by him. Mussammat Nurbhari v. Anwar Ali (No. 8. P R., 1883, Civil, F. B.) referred to. BHAGWAN SINGH v. PREM SINGH. 79 P R 1883

24. Suit for debt against elder brother without impleading minor members of family—Absence of proof that elder brother was sued in representative capacity—Power of decree-holder to adduce evidence in subsequent suit to show that the debt was a family debt and that the decree was binding on the minors' shares in the family property.

The question for decision was whether in a suit by the plaintiffs to recover their shares in a house attached by the defendant in exceution of a decree obtained against one M., the elder brother of the plaintiffs, and others, evidence could be received to show that, though the plaintiffs were not parties to the previous suit, the debt then claimed was a family debt binding on them, and the decree against M., who was at the time the only adult member of the family, should therefore be held to bind the plaintiffs' shares in the family property. There was nothing either in the previous proceedings, or the decree, to show that M. was sued as representing the interests of others as well as his own.

Held, that the decree-holder could not go behind the decree to show that the minors were interested in the matter in litigation in the former suit, in which they were not made parties or represented in any way, and that their property should be made liable for the satisfaction of the decree passed in that suit; but that the plaintiffs were entitled to succeed in the present suit. JASSU v. HAMIR CHAND. 70 P R 1883

See also DAULAT RAM v. MEHR CHAND. 70 P R 1883, Note

25. Liability of sons to pay their father's debts—Onus of proving that the debts were incurred for immoral purposes.

The house in dispute—the sole property of the family of one S.—having been attached in execution of a debt decreed against S. alone, the sons and the mother of the said S. (the latter claiming also in the capacity of widow of S.'s father) contested the attachment on the ground that the debt being for immoral purposes, and for no legal necessity, the sons' shares in the estate ought to be reserved and also a share for the widow's residence.

Held, that under the Hindu law of the Mitakshara (which was admitted to be the law applicable to the parties), it was incumbent on the sons to prove that the debt was incurred for immoral purposes, and that as they had failed to do so, even though legal necessity did not exist and no specific application of the money to family purposes was shown, still the duty of the son to pay the debts (which extended to the father's lifetime) made the whole property liable. MUSSAMMAT IMARTI v. BUTA SINGH. 144 P R 1884

26. Presumption that property continues joint—Rebuttal of such presumption—Evidence Act (I of 1872), section 114—Partial partition.

The presumptions as to the property of a Hindu family descended from a common ancestor remaining joint property until separation is shown, are presumptions of fact, such as are provided for by section 114 of the Evidence Act. Such presumption may be weakened or even rebutted by proof of facts which give rise to an inference that the property is held in separate ownership even though there is no evidence of a formal partition. There may, however, be a partial partition of the family property, while the other members remain united. BUDHA MAL v. BHAGWAN DAS. 86 P R 1886

27. Appointment of one member of family as gomashta and partner—All the family not thereby made members of partnership.

It is not a correct contention that when there is a joint Hindu family with a father at its head, and one of the sons is appointed a gomashta and partner, all the members of the family, father and sons, thereby become gomashtas and partners. The members of such a family do not constitute a single person to all intents and purposes to a person who enters into partnership with one of them, and though they are all joint inter se as respects ancestral and it may be other property, as regards a stranger who enters into partnership with one of them, the other members of the family are strangers to the partnership. HONDA RAM v. DESU RAM. 162 P R 1888

28. Ancestral trade—Business carried on by some members only of the family—Non-participation in profits—Partition implied.

A Hindu family carried on a trading business which was originally ancestral. No partition had been made of the ancestral property or the firm. A suit was brought agaist all the members of the family for price of goods supplied to the firm in its course of business. Of the defendants, two pleaded that for considerable time they had lived separate, and had not taken any share in the mangement of the firm. It was not shown that they had at any time received any share of the profits of the firm, or possessed any ancestral property. Some items of credit and debit in one year only were, however, shown in their names in the firm's book.

Held, that these were no evidence to show that they belonged to the firm or had any interest in it; that the point for enquiry in such cases is, how far the family is joint; that in Punjab the true and perfect joint Hindu family of the Mitakshara rarely exists, an d that disruptions of joint families frequently take place without express partitions.

Held, also, that looking to the acts and conduct of the appellants, they could not be made personally liable for payment of the firm's debts. RUP CHAND v. BASANTA MAL. 102 P R 1889

29. Hindu Law—Joint undivided family—Survivorship—Principles governing question, whether a partition has taken place.

Plaintiff sued to recover the amount of principal and interest alleged to be due on a bond executed by K. S., deceased, who died in 1884, leaving a widow and two brothers, all three being made defendants, in the suit.

The first Court decreed the claim against the two brothers only to the extent of the principal sum named in the bond, together with simple interest.

The two brothers appealed to the Chief Court, contending that they and the deceased formed a joint Hindu family, and that they consequently took the whole of the joint property by survivorship, and were therefore not liable for the present debt of the deceased.

Held, after enquiry upon remand, that the previous litigation which had taken place between the parties effected such a separation of interests as to have destroyed the jointness of the estate according to the principle enunciated by the Privy Council in Apporier's case and other subsequent decisions.

The principles and authorities governing the question whether a parition can in any case be held to have taken place, in fact or in law, stated and discussed. BISHEN SINGH v. KISHEN CHAND. 2 P R 1892

30. Joint Hindu family—Mitakshara—Liability of ancestral property in execution of decree against father alone.

The authorities governing the question as to how far in a joint Hindu family governed by the law of the Mitakshara consisting of a father and sons, the ancestral propery is liable in execution of decrees obtained against the father alone, collected and discussed. AMAR SINGH v. AZIZ-UD-DIN. 33 P R 1892

31. Hindu Law—Joint family—Partial disruption—Presumption.

The presumption in favour of a Hindu joint family remaining joint is no longer applicable when it is admitted that a disruption of the family has once taken place.

No. 143 P. R. 1882, referred to and followed. SAIN DAS v. MUSSAMMAT SAHIB DEVI. 140 P R 1892

32. Mortgage of a portion of the joint estate by one member.

Held, that a member of a Joint Hindu family is not competent to make a valid mortgage of part of the joint property without the consent of the other partners. DHARAM CHAND v. MUSSAMMAT KARAM DEVI 6 P R 1893

33. Joint Hindu family—Separation of one member—Presumption arising from—Powers of managing member of ancestral trading business—Liability of minor partner.

Of three brothers who had lived together as a joint Hindu family in Peshawar, and carried on for some years an ancestral business of a miscellaneous character, one, N. S., separated from his brethren, taking Rs. 600 in cash out of the firm, but retaining his share in the immoveable property. The other brothers, of whom S. S.

HINDU LAW—contd.

VIII.—JOINT FAMILY—contd.

was a minor, to continued to live together the business of the firm being carried on as before by the adult brother G. S. The plaintiff, who was the holder of a promissory note for Rs. 1,000 drawn in the name of the firm by G. S. sued both the brothers for recovery of the above sum. It was contended for S. S. that he had no concern with any business carried on after the father's death by G. S. that the latter had started an entirely new business of dealing in hundis on his own account; that after the partition with N. S. they were no longer members of a joint family, and that G. S. as guardian of the minor brother and manager of his property, was not entitled to pledge the minor's credit on this new business of his own.

Held, concurring with the findings of the lower Courts as to this, that the ancestral business of the firm J. S. G. S. continued to be carried on after the father's death, and after the separation of one of the sons, and that S. S. was one of the partners in such business.

Held, also, differing from the lower Appellate Court as to this, that although the business had gradually extended and developed, its character had not changed to that of banking, pure and simple; that the hundi in question had been drawn in the ordinary course of business and in the name of the firm by the managing member G. S., that the liability of the minor was not affected by any dishonesty on the part of G. S., of which the plaintiff was not shown to be cognizant; and that the plaintiff was consequently entitled to a decree against both the defendants. MUL CHAND v. SADHU SINGH. 59 P R 1893

34. Joint Hindu family—Burden of proving separation—Power of one member of family to bind the others—Contract Act, 1872, section 251—Limitation Act, 1877, section 21—"Only," meaning of—Account-books, relevancy of—Evidence Act, 1872, section 34

In the Punjab as elsewhere the normal state of a Hindu family is joint, and the burden of proving a separation between the members of such a family rests upon the party who so alleges.

Where one member of a joint family carrying on a trading business, struck a balance relating to the concerns of the partnership, held, that whether or not such member was the manager of the business, he was a partner therein, and his act, being one usually done in carrying on the business of the partnership, and having been done while the partnership subsisted, bound the other members of the family to the same extent as if he were their agent duly appointed for that purpose. (Contract Act, 1872, section 251).

Held, also, that the meaning of the word "only" in section 21 of the Limitation Act, 1877, is that the partner signing the acknowledgment must also be shown to have had the express or implied authority of the other partners to do so, and that in a going mercantile concern such authority is to be presumed as an ordinary rule.

HINDU LAW—contd.

VIII.—JOINT FAMILY—contd.

Held, further, that under section 34 of the Evidence Act, 1872, it is not a condition precedent to accepting entries in account-books as relevant that it should be proved how the accounts came to be written, and that they were regularly kept in the course of business, though it is necessary that there should be other evidence in support of the liability sought to be established thereby.

Where, therefore, the gomashta who kept the books and a member of the firm were examined as witnesses and testified that the books were regularly kept, held, that their evidence, though given by them as witnesses for the defence was, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, sufficient corroboration of the accounts as a whole. BICHHA LAL v. JAI PARSHAD. 45 P R 1899

35. Property acquired by members of a joint family by their joint labour—Father and son—Widow of son.

Where a father and his son, Hindus, governed by Hindu Law, worked in the same shop as goldsmiths, though in different branches of the same trade, and no partition had been effected between them, held, that the survivor of them was entitled to the joint property, the widow of the deceased member of the joint family being entitled only to maintenance. HARSA SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT GURDEVI. 71 P R 1899

36. Hindu Law—Mitakshara—Joint Hindu family—Alienation of ancestral property—Suit by son against his father and a mortgagee for declaration that the mortgage entered into by his father should not affect his rights—Present payment—Legal necessity—Liability of son for father's debts.

In a suit filed by a son for a declaration that a mortgage of ancestral property executed by his father for an advance which was made at the time of the mortgage and which was not for any family necessity should not affect his rights.

Held, that the mortgage not being for an antecedent debt was not binding on the son, who was entitled to a decree that the mortgage qua mortgage should not affect his rights, but that the decree would not bar the mortgagee from enforcing any decree which he might obtain against the father for the amount of the loan against the ancestral property, including the property mortgaged.

Semble. A money decree obtained against a father can be realised against both the father's and son's shares of any ancestral property which may be attached, as the pious obligation of a son to pay his father's debts arises in such a case.

HINDU LAW—contd.

VIII.—JOINT FAMILY—contd.

Charanji Singh v. Telu Mal (152 P. R 1888), Surja Prasad v. Gulab Chand (I. L. R XXVII Calc. 762), Sami Ayyangar v. Ponnan Mal (I. L. R. XXI Mad. 28), Kishen Lal v. Garuruddhwaji Prasad Singh (I. L. R. XXI All. 238), Badri Prasad v. Madan Lal (I. L. R. XV All. 75), Khalil-ul-Rahman v. Gobind Pershad (I. L. R. XX Calc. 328) and Ganga Prasad v. Ajudhia Pershad Singh (I. L. R. VIII Calc. 131) followed. Amar Singh v. Aziz Din (33 P. R. 1892), and Jaggan Nath v. Tulsi Das (72 P. R. 1898) referred to. BAHADAR SINGH v. DESRAJ AND PARMANAND. 53 P R 1901

37. Hindu Law—Joint family—Property purchased by father in the name of his two sons—Suit by one son for his share of profit against the other.

B., a Hindu with his two sons, constituted a joint Hindu family. He purchased a shop in the names of his sons during their minority. Subsequently one of the sons sued the other for half the accumulated rent recovered by the latter.

Held, that the defendant having assumed the office of a manager of a joint Hindu family, his position was that of a trustee in relation to the other members of the family and he was therefore liable to account for the accumulated rents and that the plaintiff was entitled to maintain his suit without necessarily asking for partition.

Pundit Bhawani Sahai v. Ganesh Das (65 P. R. 1884), distinguished.

Annammali Chetti v. Murugasa Chetti (I. L. R. XXVI Mad. 544, P. C.), referred to. RAM RATTAN v. PURAN CHAND. 24 P R 1904

38. Hindu Law—Joint Family—Right of a member over self-acquisitions—Burden of proof that other members of the family have a share in such acquisition.

Held that a member of a joint Hindu family who goes into trade himself or into partnership with strangers on capital which was not part of the family property is alone entitled to the exclusive possession and use of the whole of his acquisitions resulting from such business.

The presumption of Hindu Law, that the property belonging to a member of an undivided family is joint does not arise in such a case, whereas the burden of proof that other members of the family have also an interest in it lies on those who make such assertions. RIJHU RAM v. MOHAN LAL. 25 P R 1906

39. Joint Hindu family—Suit against a member of—Death of defendant pending suit—Decree against son as legal representative—Right of son to question the legality of the debt covered by the decree in execution proceedings.

Held, that the son of a member of a joint Hindu family who had on the death of his father been impleaded in a suit for the recovery of a debt due from the deceased as his legal representative is entitled in execution proceedings to question the legality of the debt in respect of which the decree sought to be executed was passed. NATHU v. AMIR CHAND. 147 P R 1907

40. Joint Hindu family—Suit by managing member for debt due to the family—Objection as to non-joinder—Joinder of other members after period of Limitation—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 27.

The managing member of a joint Hindu family in the name of their firm for a debt due to the ancestral business—On objection by defendant that all the members of the family had not been joined—the plaintiffs at once admitted their error,—and the omitted members applied at once to be joined as plaintiffs.

Held that all the members being comprised in the designation of the firm, the omission should have been regarded as due to a bonâ fide mistake and that under such circumstances the Court was bound to add, under section 27 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1882, the other members of the family as plaintiffs.

In cases where action is taken under section 27 the period of limitation counts from the date when the plaint is first presented in Court. BEHARI LAL v. RAM CHAND. 149 P R 1907

41. Joint family property—Liabiliy of, for debts incurred by father for liquor.

Held, that the property of a joint family governed by the Daya Bhag is not liable in the hands of a son for debts incurred by his deceased father for liquor supplied to the latter, who died before suit. KHAGINDRANATH DAS v. NANAK CHAND. 24 P R 1909

42. Joint Hindu family—Separation.

Held, that a suit by the uncle against his minor nephew, to establish the fact that a mortgage transaction effected by the minor's father was on behalf of the joint family, does not effect a separation. RAM KISHEN v. BELI RAM. 23 P R 1910

43. Hindu family—partnership, hereditary trading.

Held, that where the allegations for the plaintiff, the widow of a deceased member of a Hindu family (though not a joint family) were, that her husband's father was the sole proprietor of a business and had gifted to each of his two (nephews the defendants) a share in the business and they had allowed the shares to remain in the business ever since, and it was not denied that they were all entitled to a share in the profits of the business to the extent of their respective shares, the relationship thus created is a partnership as defined in section 238, Indian Contract Act, and not an "hereditary trading partnership" under Hindu Law. MUSSAMMAT NEHAL DEVI v. KISHORE CHAND. 97 P R 1910

JOINT FAMILY—concld.

44. Hindu Law—Joint family—Suit by managing members for recovery of a debt, without impleading the other membes—Court-fee on appeal, where only question is to whom the amount, admittedly due, is payable—Court-fees Act, VII of 1870, schedule II, article 17 VI.

Plaintiffs, 2 members of a joint Hindu family, sued defendant for recovery of Rs. 17,000 principal and Rs. 5,585 interest due on a bond in which the above plaintiffs alone were named as obligers—Defendant admitted execution of the bond and liability thereunder but pleaded that the money was due to all the members of the joint family and also that he paid the other members of the family Rs. 10,400 on account. The first Court held that the other members of the joint family were not necessary parties and payments made to them need not be accounted for by plaintiffs and decreed whole amount claimed—Defendant appealed to the Chief Court on a Rs. 10 Court-fees stamp alleging that the value for purposes of Court-fees could not be determined.

Held, that as regards the claim to have the decree of the first Court reduced by the payments amounting to Rs. 10,400, the appellant must pay ad valorem duty but as regards the claim for a declaration as to who was entitled to receive the balance due, i.e., the plaintiffs only or all the members of the family, a Rs. 10 stamp was sufficient under article 17 VI, schedule II, Court-fees Act.

Held also, following Kishen Parshad v. Har Narain Singh [(1910-11) 15 Cal. W. N 321 P. C.] that the plaintiffs suing merely on behalf of the family as the alleged managing members of one of the family shops were entitled to bring the suit in their name without making the other members of the family parties to the suit.

Held also, on the same authority, that if a contract is made on behalf of a joint Hindu family by the managing members no other member of the family is competent to interfere in that contract or to give receipts in connection therewith.

Held, however, that as defendant in this case was under the impression that he had contracted with all the members of the family and had no notice or reason to believe otherwise, plaintiffs must give credit for the amounts paid to the other members of the family on account. SIRDAR KIRPAL SINGH v. SANT SINGH, &c. 71 P R 1911

IX.—MAINTENANCE.

See HINDU LAW—WIDOW.

1. Sister.

A widow sister (Hindu), not otherwise provided for, is entitled to maintenance, while a married sister is considered as provided for; but where the latter is a discarded wife, and old and infirm, she is held to be in the same position as a widowed sister, not otherwise provided for and is entitled to be maintained by the heirs in possession. RUTTUN SINGH v. MUSSUMMAT CHUNDAN. 80 P R 1866

2. According to Hindu law a son of full age and married, living separately from his father,is entitled to maintenance out of ancestral property in the hands of the latter where the son has no other means of subsistence. But if there be no adequate cause for the separation, the allowance to the son should be on the lowest possible scale, and scarcely exceed what is sufficient for his support. SIRDAR FUTTEH SINGH v. SHERE SINGH. 84 P R 1868

3. Son.

A full grown able-bodied son of a Hindu is not entitled to maintenance. BUDAWA v. GURDIT SINGH. 65 P R 1870

4. Husband and wife.

The wife sued the husband for arrears of sums due for maintenance, on the ground that he had left and discontinued to support her. The suit was brought 2 years and 11 months after the alleged desertion or separation The lower Court decreed to the wife Rs. 175, or five rupees per mensem for the time the defendant had failed to support her. Held, that plaintiff's suit did not lie for the past time. JEEWUN RAM v. MUSSUMMAT PUTTOO. 67 P R 1871

5. Charge on property.

Defendant was mortgagee of a house belonging to A. R. who lived in the house with his wife and mother. Four years after the mortgage A. B. died; defendant obtained a decree for his debt against the widow of A. B. and proceeded to attach the house. This was objected to by A. R.'s mother.

Held, that whatever might be the claims of the female relatives of a deceased Hindu to maintenance as against ordinary creditors the house in question could not be charged with the claim so as to preclude the defendant from asserting all his rights as mortgagee. BANKI RAI v. MUSSUMMAT BILASO. 14 P R 1877

6. Mitakshara—Ancestral Estate.

Held, that under the Mitakshara, a son is entitled to claim maintenance from his father who has succeeded to an ancestral estate, and such maintenance cannot be withheld from a son for simple disobedience. The amount of maintenance may be reduced to the lowest if there be no just ground for the son's removing from the family dwelling house. SIRDAR SARDUL SINGH v. PARTAB SINGH. 46 P R 1877

7. Maintenance of wife—Sale of house by husband for purposes not binding on family—Wife's right to retain possession against purchaser where it is necessary for her maintenance and residence.

1417

HINDU LAW—contd.

IX.—MAINTENANCE—concld.

Held, that under Hindu Law, a wife is entitled to retain possession of a house against a purchaser from her husband, so far as may be necessary for her own maintenance and residence, there being no other property from which these can be provided, and the alienation not being for purposes binding upon the family; the purchaser in such case only taking the property subject to the wife's rights. FAKIR CHAND v. MUSSAMMAT CHIRANJI. 84 P R 1883

8. Hindu Law—Widow's right of residence in one of her husband's houses.

Held, that under Hindu Law, before the widow of a Hindu husband can claim a right of residence in one of her husband's houses, attached in execution of a decree against his representatives. She must prove that none of the other houses are suitable for her accommodation. MUSSAMMAT RAJJI BAI v. JESA RAM. 102 P R 1910

X.—MARRIAGE.

See CONJUGAL RIGHTS.

CUSTOM—IV. BETROTHAL, &c.

1. Hindu Law—Marriage of minor—Minor given in marriage by person other than her guardian.

See CUSTODY OF MINOR. 113 P R 1888

See CUSTODY OF WIFE. 24 P R 1897

2. The wife of an Independent Rajah is not amenable to the British Courts for breach of contract made in the Rajah's territory with one of his subjects. A Hindu wife is generally incapacitated from entering into a contract. A marriage under Act V of 1852, held lawful between a Christian and Hindu. MOOSTAK RAE v. LADY RUNDHEER SINGH. 54 P R 1870

3. Supersession of wife—Barrenness.

By Hindu Law a husband may supersede his wife for barrenness; but the marriage is not thereby dissolved, and the superseded wife does not forfeit her right to inheritance. MUSSAMMAT KHEM KOUR v. MUSSAMMAT JAI KOUR. 16 P R 1875

4. Consummation.

Consummation is not necessary under Hindu Law to validate a marriage. Held, therefore, where a marriage was solemnized between a man and a grown up girl aged 17 years and 9 months, that it was not open to her or her parents to repudiate such marriage. ARUR SINGH v. MANGAL SINGH. 85 P R 1877

5. Effect of betrothal.

It is opposed to all the best authorities in Hindu Law to treat the betrothal as giving the intended husband any rights over the bride. Betrothal is no necessary part of the nuptial rite, being merely a promise to give a girl in marriage. DYAL v. NARAIN DAS. 64 P R 1884

1418

HINDU LAW—contd.

X.—MARRIAGE—contd.

6. Marriage of daughter by mother without father's consent—Disqualification of father by reason of leprosy—Father's power to delegate his authority—Guardians in marriage—Mother's right to select a husband with the advice of the kinsmen—Validity of marriage entered into without guardian's consent.

In a suit by a father to set aside the marriage of his daughter, a girl about ten years old, as invalid, on the ground that it was made without his consent, though with the consent of the mother, the father was found to be a leper, though his leprosy was slight and not such as to make him helpless or imbecile, and the lower Appellate Court held that he was thereby disqualified from disposing of his daughter inmarriage. He considered, however, that the marriage by the mother, without the consent of the surviving relatives of the father, was invalid under the circumstances of the case.

Held that, assuming that the father's leprosy was of such a character as to incapacitate him from performing the religious ceremonies, he was not therefore necessarily unable to dispose of his daughter in marriage. Though a person afflicted with the virulent and aggravated kind of leprosy (which was not the plaintiff's case) is incapable of inheritance or of performing religious acts, he is not regarded as civilly dead. He does not cease to be the owner of property which has already vested in him; he may enter into contracts, be married and have a wife and children, and there appears to be no reason why he should be deprived of his paternal authority. It is not necessary that he should perform the religious ceremonies attending the marriage in person, the father's power to delegate his authority to others being recognized.

Held further, that though the mother is, next to the father, the natural guardian of her children for other purposes, she would not be entitled to dispose of her daughter in marriage, if the father were unable to do so, her right being postponed by the Hindu Law to that of the paternal relations, and though, their authority being less absolute than that of the father, the mother might, if they failed to make a suitable choice, be entitled, after consulting them, to select a suitable person as a husband for her daughter, she was not entitled to set them aside altogether, wholly ignoring their authority.

Held also, that the completion of the marriage ceremonies does not render a marriage made without the consent of a guardian, whose consent to the marriage was required by law, irrevocable. Though the want of the guardian's consent would not necessarily invalidate a marriage otherwise legally valid, the guardian may for any sufficient reason affecting the propriety of such marriage, obtain a declaration that it is void.

In the present case, the marriage having been celebrated by the mother in opposition to her husband's authority and without his consent, and being found to be unnecessary and unsuitable, was held to have been rightly declared void by the lower Appellate Court. Khushala v. Empress (No. 27 P R 1880, Cr.) referred to. DYAL v. NARAIN DAS. 64 P R 1884

1419

HINDU LAW—contd.

X.—MARRIAGE—contd.

7. Hindu Law—Marriage—Marriage of a minor Hindu widow by chadar andazi—Consent of lawful guardian to such marriage necessary—Presumption of legality of marriage—Khatris of Lahore—Act XV of 1856.

Held, that among high caste Hindus, residents of cities, where a Hindu widow remarries and the parties to such marriage (claiming to take advantage of the provisions of the law enunciated by Act XV of 1856), have gone through the form of marriage known as chadar andazi with the full intention of constituting their union into a full and complete legal marriage and do in fact thereafter live as husband and wife, no interpretation of Hindu Law or custom forbidding such remarriage can avail to prevent such persons from contracting a legal marriage or is relevant to show that such a marriage is invalid, but in this case where the widow was a minor when the marriage was alleged to have been contracted, and no proper consent by her legal guardians had been given, and she herself repudiated the alleged marriage, held, that the alleged marriage was not a legal and valid marriage binding her.

Although among high caste Hindus it is essential to the factum of a marriage that certain rites and ceremonies should be performed without which the relationship between the parties does not constitute a marriage valid, it is not necessary for the validity of a marriage by a Khatri widow that all the usual ceremonies which have to be performed in the case of a Khatri girl on her first marriage should be performed, and in such cases if the parties go through such ceremonies as they can reasonably arrange for, and clearly and unequivocally express their intention to enter into marrriage relation with each other, and as a fact thereafter live together as husband and wife, such a union is a valid marriage.

Bai Diwali v. Moti Karson (I. L. R. XXII Bom. 509), Lachman Kaur v. Mardan Singh (I. L. R. VIII All. 143), Brindabun Chandra Karmokar v. Chundra Kurmokar (I. L. R. XII Calc. 140), Fakir Ganda v. Gangi (I. L. R. XXII Bom. 277), Chanda Singh v. Mela (73 P. R. 1897), Hamira v. Sundar (13 P. R. 1898), Lachu v. Dal Singh (93 P. R. 1896), Hakim v. Jagat Singh (87 P. R. 1898), and Pirthi Singh v. Bhola (29 P. R. 1883), referred to. Khushal Chand Lal Chand v. Bai Moni (I. L. R. XI Bom. 247), Mul Chand Kuher v. Bhudia (I. L. R. XXII Bom. 812), Dina v. Karm Chand (52 P. R. 1899), Bhaoni v. Maharaj Singh (I. L. R. III All. 738), Brindawana v. Radhamani (I. L. R. XII Mad. 73), and Narain Das v. Mussammat

HINDU LAW—contd.

X.—MARRIAGE—concld.

Gur Devi (64 P. R. 1884), distinguished. LAL CHAND v. MUSSAMMAT THAKAR DEVI.
49 P R 1903

8. Hindu Law—Marriage—Wife's conversion to Islam—Dissolution of marriage.

Held, that apostacy of one of the parties does not in the case of Hindus per se dissolve their marriage, and a Hindu wife cannot therefore deprive her husband of the legal rights which accrued to him at marriage by simply renouncing Hinduism in favour of Islam. JAMNA DEVI v. MUL RAJ.
49 P R 1907

9. Marriage—Validity of marriage between a Rajput and a Khatrani—Legitimacy of children of such marriage.

Held that a marriage between a Vadhyar Rajput of the Kangra district and a Khatrani is valid and legal, and the offspring of such a marriage legitimate. HARIA v. KANHYA.
72 P R 1908

10. Custom—Hindu Law—Evidence of karewa after long co-habitation—marriage between a Jhabra Rajput and a Tarkhan woman—validity of.

Held, that when a woman has been living with her alleged husband for a period of nearly 40 years and until his death, marriage may be presumed without precise evidence of the actual karewa.

102 P. R. 1880, 48 P. R. 1890, 13 P. R. 1898, 50 P. R. 1900, and 51 P. R. 1900, referred to.

Held also, that a marriage between a Jhabra Rajput and a Tarkhan woman is valid and their offspring legitimate.

Lachman Kaur v. Murdan Singh, (1886) I. L. R. 8 All. 143, Inderun Valungy Pooly v. Ramasawmy Pandia (1869) 13 M. I. A. 141, 51 P. R. 1900, 72 P. R. 1908 and 57 P. R. 1909, referred to. 65 P R 1911

XI.—MINOR.

See MINOR.

XII.—PARTITION.

See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION.
HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY.
HINDU LAW—WIDOW.

1. Partition—Suit to obtain separate possession of admitted share in joint family property—Court-fee payable—Court Fees Act, 1870, section 7, clause (iv) (b)—Hindu Law—Suit on behalf of minor for partition of joint family property.

Plaintiff, a minor, aged 17, at the date of institution of the suit, sued through his next friend for partition of his one-third share of the paternal estate. The plaint, which bore a Court-fee stamp of Rs. 10, alleged that all the parties were in joint possession of the entire property, the first defendant, however, having the sole control as manager of the joint family; and, for reasons specified in the plaint, the plaintiff prayed to be put in separate possession of his admitted one-third share of the estate, which he valued at Rs. 53,227-1-1.

Held, that the suit was liable to an ad valorem fee as being one "to enforce a right to share in any property on the ground that it is joint family property" within the meaning of section 7, sub-section (iv), clause (b), of the Court Fees Act, 1870, and none the less such because plaintiff's share was admitted and merely his right to separate possession denied, the said clause having been so framed as to cover all cases within its general purview in which something more than a mere declaration of right is sought for, and consequential relief, whether it be in the form of joint possession, separate possession, an injunction or other appropriate relief is asked for.

HINDU LAW—contd.

XII.—PARTITION—concld.

Semble.—Even if the property did not fall under the category of joint family property, a suit for partition thereof would still be liable to an ad valorem fee under sub-section (iii) or sub-section (v) of section 7, according to the nature of the property.

Although no malversation on the part of defendant No. 1 had been proved, the Court, under the particular circumstances of the case, and with special reference to plaintiff's age at the date of institution of the suit, and to the fact that after attaining his majority he had elected to prosecute his claim, decided that at the date of suit it was sufficiently clear that it would be in plaintiff's best interest to order a partition instead of dismissing the suit. RAGHBHAR DIAL v. SALIG RAM. 104 P R 1895

2. Joint family—Disruption—Partition.

Held, that where one co-partner in a joint family separates from the others, there is no presumption that the others remain joint. MUSSAMMAT NIHAL DEVI v. KISHEN CHAND.
97 P R 1910

XIII.—STRIDHAN.

1. On the death of a widow, her peculium falls to the son of another widow (the step-son of the former), in preference to the widow of a step-son. SOWAYA SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT SHIB KOUR. 37 P R 1866

2. A house given to a wife after marriage by her father is her special property. AMEER SINGH v. KANH SINGH.
56 P R 1870

3. Alienation.

The husband of R. at his death bequeathed to her certain property. R. afterwards made a will disinheriting her son, and leaving all her property to her grandson. Held, that R. could not alienate the immoveable property left by her husband, whether that property consisted of land or houses. DYA SINGH v. RUGBIR SINGH. 38 P R 1873

4. Separate property of females.

The land in suit belonged to S. S., upon whose death his widow took the estate upon the ordinary life tenure. She made a gift of the property to her daughter, Mussammat D., a married woman, and after the widow's death litigation (to which plaintiff was no party) ensued between Mussammat D. and some relatives of S. S., the result of which was that in 1854 Mussammat D. was declared owner of the land by virtue of the gift to her, and her husband was appointed manager. Upon the death of

HINDU LAW—contd.

XIII.—STRIDHAN—concld.

Mussammat D. in 1873, who left no children, plaintiff, a relative of S. S., claimed the land as against the husband of Mussammat D. Held, that by Hindu Law the land had become the separate property of Mussammat D. and her husband was entitled to it upon her death. PREM SINGH v. BODH SINGH. 24 P R 1876

5. Acquired property of females.

The British Government granted a pension for life to Rani Rundhevi, the widow of Maharaja Sher Singh. Out of the proceeds of this pension the Rani advanced a sum of money to A. B. and took from him as security the mortgage of a house. Shortly before her death she made a will bequeathing the bulk of her property, including this mortgage interest, to her grandsons. The bequest of this mortgage interest was disputed by one who claimed to be the testatrix's adopted son, and by certain of his creditors who had attached the mortgage interest in execution of a decree obtained against him. The Lower Courts found the will proved, and that the adoption was by the Rani alone in her husband's life-time. Held, that the disputed bequest was valid under Hindu Law. MADDI MALL v. SHAHZADA KURM SINGH. 91 P R 1876

6. Benares school.

According to the Benares school of Hindu Law, the term stridhan includes property of every description belonging to a woman and would include gifts to a wife at the time of her nuptials and those posterior to the marriage from the family of her husband, as well as gifts made to the wife by the husband himself.

Ornaments "worn constantly" by women during their husbands' lives are considered their peculiar property, for from the constant wearing a presumption is drawn that they were intended to be treated as the wife's stridhan. But where ornaments are merely given to a wife to be worn on festive occasions, it is held to be a conditional gift which establishes no right of property. MUSSAMMAT RUKMAN v. GANGA RAM.
31 P R 1880

7. Inheritance of stridhan—Marriage in approved form.

Held, that the stridhan of a Hindu wife dying childless, who has been married in one of the four approved forms of marriage, devolves upon the husband and not on her parents or their heirs. MUNNI v. UMRAO SINGH. 39 P R 1909

XIV.—SURETYSHIP.

—Liability of son after his father's death.

It is a clear rule of Hindu Law, that when a father has become surety for payment of a debt, the son is liable after his death. BHAGWAN DAS v. SALIG RAM. 60 P R 1886

XV.—WIDOW.

See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION.
HINDU LAW—MAINTENANCE.

1. Remarriage of Hindu widow—Forfeiture of estate.

1423

HINDU LAW—contd.

XV.—WIDOW—contd.

See Custom—XIV. Remarriage or Unchastity of Widow.

46 P R 1891

2. Unchastity of widow—Forfeiture of Estate.

See Custom—XIV. Remarriage or Unchastity of Widow.

107 P R 1888

3. Widow.

A widow by Hindu Law is entitled to maintenance only when there are sons; and this will apply to Muhammadans who by custom follow Hindu Law. Nadu v. Mussammat Hafizan. 20 P R 1867

4. A childless Hindu widow is entitled to maintenance only where there are sons by another wife. Mussammat Kishen Devi v. Mussammat Gunga Devi. 22 P R 1867

5. Where the widow's husband and his brother (Hindus) had been in joint possession of the property sued for by the widow, held, that the latter was entitled to maintenance only. Hemraj v. Mussammat Hemkour.

50 P R 1870

6. Hindu Law—Widow's maintenance charge on property.

A Hindu widow's maintenance is not a mere personal right against the heirs of the deceased husband, but a charge on the ancestral property; and it defeats the right of a mortgagee of such property, when there is no other ancestral property which can be charged with the maintenance. Hurdyal v. Mussammat Radhan.

7 P R 1871

7. There is a customary obligation for a Hindu to provide maintenance for his father's widow. Sukhdial v. Mussammat Ramditti. 31 P R 1874

8. Suit for arrears of maintenance without rate having been fixed, or demand made—Hindu widow—Practice.

Held, by the Full Bench (Fitzpatrick, Plowden and Smyth, JJ.) that a suit by a Hindu widow for arrears of maintenance, in the nature of a suit for breach of an obligation to maintain, will lie notwithstanding that the rate of maintenance has not been fixed by agreement or by decree of Court.

Held, also, by the Full Bench (Fitzpatrick, Plowden and Smyth, JJ.) that where a maintenance allowance has been fixed no demand is required to be proved to sustain a suit for arrears of such allowance; but where no allowance has been fixed, and the suit is one for damages for breach of the obligation to maintain, it may, or may not, according to the circumstances of the case, be necessary to prove a demand in order to establish the breach of the obligation.

Held, by the Division Bench (Lindsay and Smyth, JJ.) that the amount allowed for the maintenance of a Hindu widow should be in proportion to her wants, that is, her own support and that of those dependent on her, regard being also had in fixing such amount to the means of the estate and the general circumstances of the particular case. Jiwana Mal v. Mussammat Saddan. 14 P R 1878

1424

HINDU LAW—contd.

XV.—WIDOW—contd.

9. Maintenance of widow—Widow's right of residence in the family dwelling house.

The house in dispute—the sole property of the family of one S.—having been attached in execution of a debt decreed against S. alone, the sons and the mother of the said S. (the latter claiming also in the capacity of widow of S.'s father) contested the attachment on the ground that the debt being for immoral purposes, and for no legal necessity, the sons' shares in the estate ought to be reserved, and also a share for the widow's residence.

With regard to the widow's claim held, following Fakir Chand v. Mussammat Chiranji (No. 84 P. R. 1883), that while dismissing the claims of the sons and the whole claim to release any share of the property specifically, a declaration should be made that when the house was sold for S.'s debt, it must be sold subject to the widow's right of residence for her life, the Court executing the decree having to determine before sale what part of the premises should be declared subject to the widow's right of occupation for her life. Mussammat Imarti v. Buta Singh. 144 P R 1884

10. Will—Construction—Vested and contingent interests—Provision for maintenance of widow—Respective rights of succession of co-widow and son's widow.

B. S. who died in 1859, leaving three widows and a son H. S. him surviving, made a will shortly before his death by which he left the property in dispute to one of his widows, Mussammat S. K. H. S. died in 1866, and on the death of Mussammat S. K. in 1886, the sole surviving widow of B. S. (the third widow having died in 1862) sued to recover the property left by Mussammat S. K. from Mussammat N. K. the widow of H. S. who left no children. The bequest to Mussammat S. K. was held, on the true construction of the will to be for maintenance only, and not to create an ordinary widow's estate.

Held, that under the above circumstances the property in question vested in H. S. on the death of his father; that the plaintiff had therefore no right to inherit as heir of her husband in preference to the defendant, the heir of H. S. and consequently any claim she made upon that basis must fail, as she had no locus standi. Jusmaer Singh v. Mussammat Rur Kour (No. 40 P. R. 1869), referred to. Sardarni Rattan Kaur v. Mussammat Nihal Kaur. 72 P R 1888

11. Alienation by sons of family residence for expenses of marriage of one of the sons—Eviction of widow by creditor with knowledge—Widow's right of residence.

In a suit by a Khatri widow to establish her rights to residence in, and maintenance out of a house in the town of Rawalpindi, it appeared that the said house was the sole piece of property out of which maintenance could be had, and, that it had been mortgaged without any reservation or provision for the widow by her two sons for its full value, the object being to raise a sum of money for the marriage of one of the sons, and the mortgagee having full knowledge of the widow's claim.

1425

HINDU LAW—contd.

XV.—WIDOW—contd.

Held, that the debt incurred by the mortgagors was not of such a kind as to override and claim precedence of the widow's rights, and that the creditor had no right to eject the widow in satisfaction of his claim. Jowahir Singh v. Mussammat Ram Devi.

112 P R 1888

12. Sale of dwelling-house—Self-acquired property—Right of widows of son and grandson of vendor to reside in the house sold without the consent of the vendee.

In a suit for possession of a dwelling house, it appeared that the plaintiff was the purchaser of the house in suit, which was the self-acquired property of the vendor, who had died at time of suit. The defendants were the widows of a son and grandson of the vendor who had predeceased him.

Held, that by Hindu Law, the property sold being self-acquired and not ancestral, the defendants were not entitled to reside in the house in suit without the consent of the plaintiff. Mussammat Harkour v. Moti Ram.

10 P R 1889

13. Maintenance of wife—Sale of land by husband—Wife's right to charge the property sold with her maintenance—Personal liability of husband to maintain wife—Property liable in case of his refusal and of its having been sold for immoral purposes—Onus probandi.

Plaintiff's husband sold a plot of land to the defendant. Plaintiff sued to have the property sold charged with her maintenance. It was found that the plaintiff and her husband lived together and that the husband had not refused to maintain the plaintiff, and it was not shown that the land had been sold for immoral purposes.

Held, that the property was liable to be sold for her husband's debts unless incurred for immoral purposes, the burden of proving which lay on the wife, which in the present case she had failed to discharge, and that consequently the suit failed. Mussammat Gomti v. Chuttan Lal.

190 P R 1889

14. Hindu Law—Hindu widow raising money by mortgage of husband's immoveable property—Burden of proof.

P. M. sued to contest a mortgage of house property effected by his brother's widow, the said house forming part of the deceased husband's estate of which the widow was in possession.

Held, that it was sufficient to defeat an alienation of this nature that, upon the whole case, there was no proof of the mortgagees having fulfilled the legal obligation to inquire and satisfy themselves that the HINDU LAW—concld.

XV.—WIDOW—concld.

widow, from whom they were taking a mortgage upon her husband's inheritance, had a proper justification for so mortgaging it.

I. L. R. XIV All., 420 (P. C.) referred to and followed. MUSSAMMAT BISHEN KOUR v. PHAGGU MAL. 137 P R 1892

15. Hindu Law—Custom—Primary rule of decision—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 5—Partition—Right of widow to share of her deceased husband's estate—Maintenance—Bhandari Khatris of Batala.

Held, that by Hindu Law, though a widow is not competent of herself to institute partition proceedings in respect of her deceased husband's property, yet when such proceedings have been commenced by an heir entitled to demand partition and the paternal estate is divided by the sons after their father's death, the widow is entitled for her life to a share equal to that of a son, and it is immaterial whether she is allotted a share as a defendant or claims it as a plaintiff.

In questions relating to inheritance, partition, alienation and the like, where the parties are high caste Hindus of good position, residents of a town and, though holding land, non-agriculturists, depending for their livelihood on avocations other than cultivation of land, while the Court should see in the first instance whether there is any custom bearing on the question in issue, no presumption in favour of the existence of such a custom should be made and its existence should be left to be established by the evidence of the parties. MUSSAMMAT PAL DEVI v. FAKIR CHAND. 60 P R 1895

XVI.—WILL.

See HINDU LAW—WIDOW. 72 P R 1888

See WILL.

HINDU WIDOW.

—Marriage by chadar andazi between a Khatri and a Khatrani widow—Legitimacy of children of such marriage—Act XV of 1856.

See MARRIAGE. 4 P R 1905

HINDU WILLS ACT, 1870.

See PROBATE AND ADMINISTRATION ACT, 1881, SECTION 2.

HOLIDAY.

Plaint may be received on a holiday.

See PLAINT. 43 P R 1870

1. Chief Court vacation—Civil petitions presented during—Limitation—Civil Procedure Code, section 283.

The order of the Divisional Judge refusing a certificate for a further appeal under section 40 (1) (d), Punjab Courts Act, 1884, was made on 31st July 1889, and the time prescribed for an application for revision to the Chief Court under section 40 (2), viz., HOLIDAY—concld.

30 days, expired on 30th August 1889. The plaintiffs presented an application for revision to the Chief Court on 7th October 1889. The Chief Court was closed for Civil business from 15th August to 15th October, both days inclusive, by a Gazette Notification issued by the Local Government.

Held, that the plaintiff's application for revision was within time. Either section 5, Limitation Act, 1877, or section 7, General Clauses Act, 1887, operated to permit the application to be presented on the day when the Court re-opened, and it would have been in time if presented on 16th October. All Civil petitions filed during the vacation must, as regards limitation, be taken as filed upon the day when the Court re-opens. GANPAT RAI AND MOTI RAM v. HIRA SINGH AND KHUSHAL SINGH. 29 P R 1891

2. Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 67—Hearing fixed for gazetted holiday—Obligation of party to appear on such day.

Proceedings held in a Civil Court on a holiday are not necessarily a nullity on that account, but if the Court wishes to hear a case on a gazetted civil holiday, it must do so with the consent of the parties concerned, and cannot make them appear before itself without such consent, the exemption from attendance in Court on a gazetted holiday being a privilege conferred by law, of which no Court can of its own motion deprive the person concerned in the absence of any waiver of such privilege on the part of the latter. Nor in this respect is there any distinction between one class of gazetted holidays and another class. MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, UMBALLA, v. BHAGWAN DAS. 55 P R 1898

3.—Hearing fixed for gazetted holiday—Obligation of party to attend on such day—Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 67.

Where a Judge at the request of the pleader of a party specially altered the date of hearing to suit his convenience from a working day to a close holiday, held that such party was bound to attend on the day so fixed and could not afterwards object to the jurisdiction of the Judge on account of his pleader's declining to appear at the last moment on the ground that the day was a holiday.

Municipal Committee, Ambala v. Bhagwan Das (55 P. R. 1898), and Jawanda Mal v. Muhammad Ali (82 P. R. 1901) referred to. BHAGWAN DAS v. HAR PERSHAD. 111 P R 1906

HONORARY SECRETARY.

—Unincorporated Club—Principal and agent—Honorary Secretary—Personal liability as Honorary Secretary and as a Member of Club.

See CLUB—PERSONAL LIABILITY OF SECRETARY OF. 15 P R 1891 11 P R 1892

HOUSE RENT.

See LANDLORD AND TENANT. 33 P R 1898

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 7. 80 P R 1893

HUNDI.

1. Suit on a Hundi by a holder and indorsee against the drawer, acceptor and subsequent indorsers.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 20. 57 P R 1900

2. Hundi drawn at Jammu in foreign territory, but payable in British territory—Jurisdiction of Court.

See JURISDICTION. 21 P R 1894

3. Suit on dishonoured—Suit on Hundi never presented for acceptance, but only for payment.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 14. 19 P R 1888.

4. Hundi—Siri Nishanee.

See PRINCIPAL AND AGENT. 13 P R 1871

5. Suit on, dismissed as premature—Subsequent suit after presentation and refusal of payment.

See RES JUDICATA. 72 P R 1885

6. Suit on, which has not been presented for payment.

See RIGHT TO SUE. 148 P R 1883

7. Not duly stamped—Inadmissibility in evidence—Admissibility of evidence of original consideration.

See STAMP. 4 P R 1881 73 P R 1886

8. Promissory notes—Impressed sheets bearing the word "Hundi."

See STAMP ACT, 1879, SECTION 34. 21 P R 1891

9. Suit by indorsee against indorser—Loss of hundi—Insolvency of drawer before loss brought to notice—Want of due diligence by plaintiff in ascertaining loss—Liability of defendant for amount of hundi.

Plaintiffs sued the defendant to recover the amount, with interest, of a hundi which the said defendant had indorsed to the plaintiffs, drawn on a Delhi firm by a firm at Cawnpore in favour of another Cawnpore firm. It appeared that the bill was payable after 21 days, and during the currency of this term it was indorsed by the defendant to the plaintiffs, who forwarded it the next day to a correspondent at Bhawani in payment of an account. When eleven months had passed, their correspondent forwarded his accounts, and the plaintiffs then discovered that the bill had not been credited to them, and inferred that it had been lost in transit. When nearly thirteen months had elapsed, plaintiffs called upon the defendant to get them a duplicate or to repay them the amount of the hundi. The defendant communicated with his immediate indorsers at Cawnpore, in order to procure a duplicate, who replied that they had communicated with the payees from whom they had received the hundi, but they replied that the term of the hundi was 21 days, and 14 months had elapsed, and no previous notice of loss or non-payment had been received, and the drawer of the bill had become brankrupt 4 months ago, and therefore no duplicate could now be obtained.

HUNDI—concld.

Held that, assuming the loss of the hundi to be proved, the defendant had done all that under the circumstances he was bound to do, and was not liable to the plaintiffs for the amount of the hundi, which could not now be recovered because the plaintiffs did not use due diligence in ascertaining that their correspondent had received it, and because the drawer became insolvent before the loss was brought to notice. HAIT RAM v. GANPAT. 159 P R 1882

10. Hundi silent as to interest—Separate oral agreement inadmissible—Evidences Act, 1872, section 92—Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, section 80.

Plaintiffs sued defendant for the recovery of the principal amounts due upon several hundis, together with interest due thereon at the rate of Re. 1-4-0 per cent. per mensem, alleging that, although the instruments were silent as to interest, the latter was recoverable under a separate oral agreement.

Held, that evidence as to the separate oral agreement was inadmissible under section 92 of the Evidence Act, proviso 2 to that section not being applicable to the case, and that interest could only be allowed at the rate of Rs. 6 per cent. per annum under section 80 of the Negotiable Instrutments Act, 1881. KISHOR CHAND, ETC., v. GURANDITTA MAL. 52 P R 1911

HUSBAND AND WIFE.

See CUSTODY OF WIFE.
CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, &C.
DIVORCE.
DIVORCE ACT, 1869.
DOWER.
HINDU LAW, WIDOW.
HINDU LAW, MARRIAGE.
MAINTENANCE.
MUHAMMEDAN LAW, DIVORCE.
MARRIAGE.
INHERITANCE.
RESTITUTION OF CONJUGAL RIGHTS. 82 P R 1908
RIGHT TO SUE. 27 P R 1887
WIFE.

1. Suit by husband for dissolution of marriage—Death of respondent—Abatement of suit.

See ABATEMENT OF SUIT. 60 P R 1906

HUSBAND AND WIFE—concld.

2. Separation deed between husband and wife—Allegations of misconduct on part of wife—question as to Burden of proof.

See BURDEN OF PROOF. 41 P R 1898

3. Declaratory decree—Marriage—Suit for a declaration that the defendant is not the lawful wife of the plaintiff—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain such a suit when an order for maintenance passed under section 488 of the Criminal Procedure Code is in force against the plaintiff—Specific Relief Act, section 42.

Held, that a suit by a person against whom an order for maintenance in favour of defendant has been made by a Criminal Court under section 488, Criminal Procedure Code, lies in a Civil Court for a declaration that the defendant is not his wife.

Mussammat Baji v. Nawab Khan (21 P. R. 1894, Cr). Subhudra v. Basdeo Dube (I. L. R. XVIII All, 29), Subad Domni v. Kateram Dome (20 W. R. 58, Cr.) Aunjona Dasi v. Problad Chandra Ghose (6 Beng. L R. 243) and Jagat Singh v. Jit Singh (41 P. R. 1876), referred to. MUSSAMMAT BAKHAN v. ALA BAKHSH. 26 P R 1903

4. Presumption as to legitimacy of child born after marriage.

Held, that on the birth of a child during marriage the presumption of legitimacy is conclusive, no matter how soon the birth occurs after the marriage. UMRA v. MUHAMMAD HAYAT. 79 P R 1907

IDDAT. I.

See MOHAMMADAN LAW—MARRIAGE.

IDENTIFICATION OF LAND.

See ALLUVION AND DILUVION.

IDIOT.

Succession of—Right of stranger in possession to plead that widow was disqualified by mental defect from inheritance.

See HINDU LAW—INHERITANCE. 19 P R 1899

IGNORANCE OF LAW.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 4. 43 P R 1889
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 5. 184 P R 1889 F B
See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17. 184 P R 1889 F B

ILLEGITIMACY.

See CUSTOM I.-A. 3.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETORS—SALES, &C., IN FAVOUR OF STRANGERS 40 P R 1880, 72 P R 1892
CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE. 84 P R 1889, 48 P R 1890, 49 P R 1890, 72 P R 1892, 57 P R 1893, 73 P R 1897, 13 P R 1899, 52 P R 1899, 50 P R 1900, 51 P R 1900, 54 P R 1900
See DIVORCE. 77 P R 1911

ILLEGITIMACY—concld.

Illegitimate children—Right to maintenance from natural father.

See EVIDENCE ACT, 1872, SECTION 112. 28 P R 1906

ILLICIT SALE OF OPIUM.

See OPIUM ACT, 1878. 114 P R 1881, 105 P R 1883

IMAM.

See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS.

IMMORAL CONTRACTS.

See CONTRACTS. 10 P R 1872, 81 & 86 P R 1875, 64 P R 1876, 22 & 26 P R 1877
See CONTRACT ACT, SECTION 23. 2 P R 1898

IMMORAL DEBTS.

See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION.
See HINDU LAW—WIDOW. 190 P R 1899

IMMOVABLE PROPERTY.

See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17. 136 P R 1894

1. Purchases effected with profits of ancestral immovable property.

See ANCESTRAL PROPERTY. 4 P R 1900

2. Order passed in execution of decree in small cause—Decree giving effect to compromise dealing with immovable property—Course of appeal.

See APPEAL III.—COURSE OF APPEAL. 55 P R 1887

3. Value of suit for purposes of jurisdiction—Suit for possession of immovable property—Suit by mortgagee against third party in actual possession—Course of appeal.

See APPEAL XI.—VALUATION OF. 1 P R 1896 F B

4. Suit for possession of immovable property situate in different districts—Joint suit by reversioners against person in wrongful possession.

See CAUSE OF ACTION V.—MIS. JOINDER 91 P R 1898

5. Jurisdiction—Suit for determination of right to or interest in immovable property.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 16. 39 P R 1891

6. Suit for immovable property situate in different districts—Sanction

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 17. 10 P R 1891

7. Forfeiture of deposit made by purchaser of immovoble property—Appeal.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 86. 120 P R 1891

8. Omission by auction purchaser to obtain delivery of immovable property under section 318, Civil Procedure Code—Right to sue.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 95. 14 P R 1893

9. Stay of sale of immovable property in execution of a decree against which an appeal is pending.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XLI, R. 6. 120 P R 1890

IMMOVABLE PROPERTY—contd.

10. Immovable property, definition of—Benefit to arise out of land—Jagir income,
See GENERAL CLAUSES ACT, 1868, SECTION 2. 4 P R 1894

11. Pre-emption—Right to use water of perennial stream—Immovable property.
See GENERAL CLAUSES ACT, 1868, SECTION 2.
11 P R 1898

12. Oral gift of immovable property creating charitable trust—Indian Trust Act, 1882.
See GIFT. 75 P R 1903

13. Jurisdiction of British Court to make decree affecting immovable property situate outside British India.
See JURISDICTION.
CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. VIII, R. 10. 59 P R 1892

14. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts—Suit by lessee of Government parade ground for money due on account of grazing dues—Estate—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77, clause (o) and Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 3—Jurisdiction of Small Cause Couri—Small Cause Court Act, 1887, 2*nd Schedule* (13)—"Interest in immovable property."
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 13 P R 1895

15. Suit by minor against guardian for an account and for possession of immovable property—Trustee—Parties to suit.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 7.
33 P R 1897

16. General Clauses Act, 1868, section 2—"Immovable property "—Benefit to arise out of land—Jagir income.
See LIMITATION ACT, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 75. 4 P R 1894

17. Suit for—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 91.
155 P R 1883
See LIMITATION ACT, (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 120.
88 P R 1882
See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 144.
122 P R 1883
94 P R 1884
112 P R 1884

18. Suit for possession of immovable property involving cancellation of a deed—Period of limitation applicable.
See LIMITATION ACT, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 91. 75 P R 1896

19. Suit for possession of immovable property against an alleged adopted son—Suit instituted more than six years after alleged adoption, but within 12 years from date of estate falling into possession—Period of limitation applicable.
See LIMITATION ACT, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 91. 55 P R 1897

20. Suit by a reversioner for possession of immovable property—Defendant in possession under an alleged gift—Time from which period begins to run.
See LIMITATION ACT, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 91. 23 P R 1902

IMMOVABLE PROPERTY—contd.

21. Declaration that an alleged adoption is invalid or never in fact took place—Suit for possession of immovable property—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 118.
73 P R 1894 F B

22. Suit by a reversioner for possession of immovable property—Defendant in possession under an alleged adoption—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 118, 20 P R 1902

23. Suit for possession of immovable property and for concellation of will—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 120. 56 P R 1894

24. Suit for money charged upon.
See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 132.
90 P R 1881

25. Application of Regulation XVII of 1806 to incorporeal rights connected with land—Immovable property.
See MORTGAGE, FORECLOSURE.
88 P R 1888

26. Instrument of exchange of immovable property—Document embodying previous oral contract.
See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17. 26 P R 1891
120 P R 1894

27. Deed of sale of right of pre-emption—Admissibility in evidence of unregistered deed—Right to or in immovable property.
See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17. 136 P R 1894

28. Instrument of operation to declare right to immovable property—Document addressed to Court embodying terms of contract and compromising suit—Admissibility of such document as evidence of oral contract.
See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17. 95 P R 1894
97 P R 1895

29. Is masani income "immovable property" within the definition of that term contained in section 3, Registration Act, 1877.
See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 49. 83 P R 1891

30. Subordinate Judge on appeal in small cause refusing to decide question relating to immovable property.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT—JURISDICTION OF. 78 P R 1887

31. Determination of question of title to by Small Cause Court.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT, JURISDICTION OF.
5 P R 1886
5 P R 1882
38 P R 1882
8 P R 1885
8 P R 1885 Note.
4 P R 1883

32. Government ferry—Immovable property—Suit by the lessee for recovery of tolls.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 13.
80 P R 1898

IMMOVABLE PROPERTY—concld.

33. Sub-mortgage of mortgage on immovable property,
Held, that a mortgage-debt as long as it is charged on immovable property is itself immovable property. SANT SINGH v. JAWALA SINGH. 58 P R 1899

34. Right to future fruit crops and fruit on trees is a right in immovable property under clause 25 of section 3 of the General Clauses Act X of 1897, though they are movable property for the purposes of the Registration Act. ASA RAM v. NUR DIN.
66 P R 1900

35. Attachment—mortgage-debt—movable or immovable property.
Held, that for the purposes of section 268 Civil Procedure Code 1882, [order XXI, rule 46, C. P. C., 1908,] a debt secured by a mortgage lien on land is not immovable but movable property. BANTU v. GANDA SINGH.
18 P R 1909

IMPRISONMENT.

1. Order by execution Court for imprisonment of judgment-debtor—Appeal—Revision.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 55. 100 P R 1894

2. Arrest and imprisonment in execution of decree—Subsequent application stating judgment-debtor's intention to apply to be declared an insolvent—Rejection of application—Illegal confinement—Duress.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 55. 59 P R 1898

IMPROVEMENTS.

See under ACQUIESCENCE.
JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT.
MORTGAGE.
PRE-EMPTION.

1. Suit for improvements by tenant.
See CUSTOM I. F.—ALIENATION BY NON-PROPRIETOR. 75 P R 1897
PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 40. 2 P R 1887 Rev.
PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1887, SECTIONS 65, 70, Passim.
JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 123 P R 1893

2. By mortgagee.
See CUSTOM I. F.—ALIENATION BY NON-PROPRIETOR. 75 P R 1887
INTEREST. 67 P R 1893
MORTGAGE—REDEMPTION.
123 P R 1888
55 P R 1890
67 P R 1896
18 P R 1898

3. Compensation for improvements—Erection of buildings by one man on the land of another.
See PRE-EMPTION—COMPENSATION FOR IMPROVEMENTS. 38 P R 1899

IMPROVEMENTS—concld.

4. Pre-emption—Compensation for improvements made by original purchaser—Form of decree.
See PRE-EMPTION—COMPENSATION FOR IMPROVEMENTS. 91 P R 1892

5. Compensation for improvements by non-proprietor.

See COMMON LAND. 37 P R 1890

CUSTOM I. F.—ALIENATION BY NON-PROPRIETOR. 75 P R 1897

6. Compensation for improvements by vendee.
See PRE-EMPTION—COMPENSATION FOR IMPROVEMENTS.

INAMDARI.

—Inamdari—Succession to inamdari—Heriditary claims—Rule No. 167 of the Rules, under Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887.

Held, that (1) the object of the words "regard shall not be had to any alleged hereditary claim" in rule No. 167 of the Rules under the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, is to secure to the local officers great and very necessary freedom in making appointments of zaildars and inamdars; and (2) there is absolutely no obligation to appoint a relative; but (3) the rule is not to be so construed as to prevent, in evenly balanced cases, considerable weight being attached to the circumstance that one of the claimants is the son of the deceased office holder.

Attar Singh v. Baghel Singh (3 P. R. 1902, Rev.) and Ralla Ram v. Amir Bakhsh (I. P. R. 1900, Rev.) cited. SURAIN SINGH v. JAGAT SINGH. 5 P R 1902 Rev.

INCONSISTENT PLEAS.
See CAUSE OF ACTION V.—MISJOINDER. 41 P R 1887

PLAINT—AMENDMENT OF. 161 P R 1888
106 P R 1893

PLAINT—FORM OF. 109 P R 1887
1 P R 1892 Rev.

PLEADINGS.

INCORPORATED SOCIETY.
See CLUB. 15 P R 1891
11 P R 1892

—Right to sue—Gift to certain persons for purposes of a society not then in existence—Subsequent incorporation of such society under Act XXI of 1860—No formal written transfer of rights by original donees—Right of Managing Committee to sue in respect of such gift—Interpretation of deed.

On the 2nd May 1885, one B. N. S. executed a deed of gift of certain property in favour of fifteen persons, including himself, named in the deed, and called in it the Managing Committee of a certain school which it was the purpose of the grant to establish. The Committee was empowered to add to its numbers, and to frame rules, draw up schemes to manage the gifted property and generally to do all acts necessary to carry out the purposes of the grant. The said Managing Committee registered itself as a corporate body, under Act XXI of 1860, on the 3rd November 1885, but no formal written transfer of rights was made by the original donees in favour of such corporate body. On the 1st December 1890, the President and Secretary of the incorporated institution sued on its behalf to enforce the terms of the deed of gift as against the donor, but their suit was dismissed on the grounds that the gift was made to a body and to an institution not legally in existence at the time, that it was in favour of specific persons, that the registration of the Committee did not take place till some seven months after the gift, that the school was not yet in existence, and that in consequence the President and Secretary of the Committee were not entitled to bring the present suit to enforce the said gift.

INCORPORATED SOCIETY—concld.

Held, upon consideration of the terms of the deed of gift and the facts of the case, that the plaintiffs, as representatives of the Managing Committee, were entitled to enforce the rights of the persons who formed the original Managing Committee, and who were the donees under the said deed of gift, the suit not being one to enforce a contract with the previous Managing Committee, but to recover property said to have been granted to it.

Held also, that it was not absolutely essential under the circumstances of the case, that there should have been a formal written transfer in favour of plaintiffs by the members of the original Managing Committee of all their rights under the gift. RAI GAGAR MAL v. BAWA KASUR SINGH. 41 P R 1897

INCORPOREAL RIGHTS.

Application of Regulation XVII of 1806 to incorporeal rights connected with land—Immovable property.
See MORTGAGE—FORECLOSURE. 88 P R 1888

INCUMBRANCES.
See CONFISCATION OF PROPERTY. 19 P R 1866

INDEMNITY (CONTRACT OF).

—Made in Foreign State—application of law of British India.

See PRINCIPAL AND SURETY. 7 P R 1882 P. C.

INDEPENDENT PRINCE AND STATES.

INDIAN COMPANIES ACT.

See CONTRACTS. 21 P R 1872
1 P R 1874 P. C.

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURT. 54 P R 1870
93 P R 1875

INDIAN BRITISH SUBJECT.
Who has made and broken a contract in England is amenable to the jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature in England, after he has been properly served with a notice.
See FOREIGN JUDGMENT. 75 P R 1909

See COMPANY.

INDIAN CONTRACT ACT.

See CONTRACT ACT.

INDIAN DIVORCE ACT.

See DIVORCE.

INDIAN EVIDENCE ACT.

See EVIDENCE ACT.

INDIAN LIMITATION ACT.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877.
LIMITATION ACT, 1908.

INDIAN OATHS ACT.

See OATHS ACT, 1873.

INDIAN RAILWAY ACT.

See PLATFORM TICKET. 36 P R 1911

See RAILWAYS ACT.

INDIAN STAMP ACT.

See STAMP ACT.

INDORSEMENT.

See BILL OF EXCHANGE.
See HUNDI.
See NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS ACT, 1881.

INFRINGEMENT OF PATENT.

See PATENT.

INHERITANCE.

See CUSTOM VIII—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION.
HINDU LAW—INHERITANCE.
MUHAMMADAN LAW—INHERITANCE. SUCCESSION.

1. Succession to Occupancy Rights.
See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS. 76 P R 1907
130 P R 1907
2 P R 1907 Rev.

INHERITANCE—contd.

1. Power of a reversioner to alienate his right of succession.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 60, CLAUSE (M). 58 P R 1894

CUSTOM 1—H—ALIENATION OF REVERSIONARY RIGHTS. 66 P R 1897

SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, SECTION 18. 13 P R 1889

2. Succession to houses held by non-proprietary residents on the village site.

See COMMON LAND. 37 P R 1887
76 P R 1888
71 P R 1889

3. Forfeiture of, in former husband's property by reason of remarriage or unchastity.

See CUSTOM VIII.—I. REMARRIAGE OR UNCHASTITY OF WIDOW.

4. Succession of Idiot.

See HINDU LAW—INHERITANCE. 19 P R 1899

5. Disqualification for Insanity.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW—JOINT FAMILY. 91 P R 1887

6. Forfeiture of inheritance by a person who has murdered or been instrumental in murdering another to the latter's estate—Public policy.

In 1891, plaintiff was convicted by the District Magistrate of Hazara of the abetment of the murder of his half-brother, Ahmad Khan, and sentenced to seven years' rigorous imprisonment and fine, &c. The defendant, the mother of the deceased, Ahmad Khan, succeeded to his property; the plaintiff on completion of his sentence instituted the present suit for possession of his half-brother's property, and based his claim on the ground of his being a customary heir to his murdered brother. The defendant contended that plaintiff was excluded from inheriting on the principle of Muhammadan law, which precludes the slayer inheriting from the person whom he has slain, and that she was as mother under the circumstances entitled to a life interest.

Held, that plaintiff was disentitled to succeed upon that principle of public policy and justice which demands that no criminal should benefit by the result of his crime, and that it is unnecessary to consider either the Muhammadan or Customary law on the point.

Held, further, that even if it could be shown (as admittedly it could not) that a custom expressly recognized the right of a person who had abetted the murder of his relation to inherit that relation's property, it would be contra bonos mores and therefore invalid. MUSSAMMAT SHAH KHANAM v. KALANDHAR KHAN. 74 P R 1900

INHERITANCE—concld.

7. Inheritance—Forfeiture of, by a murderer and his descendants where the sole object of the murder was to secure the property of the deceased—Public policy.

Held, that when a person has been murdered with the sole object of securing his property, both the murderer and his descendants are excluded from inheriting the property of the deceased as their succession is opposed to public policy.

Mussammat Shah Khanam v. Kalandar Khan (74 P. R. 1900), and Roda v. Harnam (18 P. R. 1895, F. B.) cited and followed. MUHAMMAD KHAN v. SIS BANO. 41 P R 1906

INITIALS.

—Sufficiency of signature with—Judge's parwana under Regulation XVII of 1806.

See MORTGAGE—FORECLOSURE. 16 P R 1888
185 P R 1889 F B
51 P R 1892

INJUNCTION.

1. Suit for damages for wrongful act—Previous suit for injunction restraining same wrongful Act.

See CAUSE OF ACTION I.—DISTINCT CAUSE OF ACTION. 190 P R 1888

2. Temporary injunction—Effect of alienation in contravention of injunction.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXIX, R.I. 144 P R 1889

3. Contract with Independent Rajah—Cession of territory to British Government—Effect of upon right of contractee—Right to injunction to restrain further injurious act.

See CONTRACTS. 1 P R 1874 P C

4. When to be granted—Discretion of Court—Damages.

See COMMON LAND. 91 P R 1901

5. Specific Relief Act, 1877, section 42—Suit for half share of property alleged to be joint ancestral—Question of possession and enjoyment—Plaintiff when entitled to further relief—Decree for delivery of possession of undivided share—Injunction.

See DECLARATORY DECREE. I.—DECLARATION OF TITLE 73 P R 1881

6. Specific Relief Act, 1877, section 42—Suit for declaratory decree dismissed in accordance with award of arbitrators—Appeal by plaintiffs on ground that first Court had no jurisdiction.

See DECLARATORY DECREE. I.—DECLARATION OF TITLE 1 P R 183

7. Specific Relief Act, 1877, section 42—Declaratory Decree—Consequential relief.

See DECLARATORY DECREE. 6.—MISCELLANEOUS. 125 P R 1886

8 Right of way—Defendants closing old and opening out new right of way over their fields—Actual damage—Allegation by plaintiff of probable prospective damage—Right to injunction.

See EASEMENT. 22 P R 1888

INJUNCTION—contd.

9. Light and air—Obstruction—Injunction or damages.

See EASEMENT. 2 P R 1893

10. Discharge of water and drainage—Removal of obstruction—Right of access for the purpose of supervision of the right to discharge water and drainage—Pecuniary compensation—Perpetual injunction.

See EASEMENT. 49 P R 1900

11. Obstruction to private right of way.

See EASEMENT. 64 P R 1901

12. Suit for damages for injury caused by wrongful injunction.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 42. 40 P R 1881

13. Suit to remove obstruction to plaintiffs' widow—Valuation of suit.

See JURISDICTION. 52 P R 1887

14. Injunction—Slaughter-house—Apprehended danger to health and interference with physical comfort and convenience—Diminution in value of property—Ground for relief—Statutory powers of Municipal Committee—Justification of nuisance—Infringement of private rights.

See NUISANCE. 106 P R 1888

15. Nuisance—Public latrine—Injunction—Statutory authority of Municipal Committee.

See NUISANCE. 103 P R 1892

16. Civil Court's jurisdiction to set aside Municipal Committee's orders—Municipal Committee's powers for recalling a sanction for the erection of a building once given—Perpetual injunction—Suit for.

See PUNJAB MUNICIPAL ACT, 1890, SECTION 92. 52 P R 1900

17. Suit for declaratory decree—Declaration of right to build a wall—Subsequent obstruction by defendant—Right of plaintiff to maintain a fresh suit for an injunction.

See RIGT TO SUE. 111 P R 1882

18. Temporary injunction to restrain partition proceedings in Revenue Court.

See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, SECTION 54. 57 P R 1899

19. Valuation of suit for purposes of jurisdiction—Suit for perpetual injunction—Juridiction of Munsif, 3rd class.

See SUITS VALUATION ACT, 1887, SECTION 11. JURISDICTION. 132 P R 1894

20. Jajman and Acharaj—Realization of virt from Jajmans.

In a suit for a permanent injunction to restrain defendant from receiving virt from the Jajmans on the ground that except the family of plaintiff no one within a certain area had any right to recover the same.

Held, that the property in virt being of uncertain and indefinite character depending on the good will of the Jajman, the latter being at liberty to prefer another

INJUNCTION—concld.

Acharaj, injunction to restrain other persons from acting as Acharaj would amount to trenching unduly on the rights of the Jajmans to employ whatever priest they chose.

Ram Rattan v. Gori (38 P. R. 1872), Gobind v. Sada (7 P. R. 1877), Mathra v. Kanhya (119 P. R. 1879), and Raja and another v. Krishna Bhat (I. L. R. III Bom. 232), referred to. GUR SAHAI v. KARAM CHAND. 8 P R 1901

21. The Specific Relief Act contains no prohibition against a conditional injunction being granted. HARI SINGH v. THE MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE OF PINDIGHEB. 78 P R 1901

22. Injunction—Trade mark—Right to injunction to restrain use of similar label.

The plaintiff, an inkseller, who had not taken out any patent for a speciality in ink sued for and obtained an injunction against defendant who was also dealing in the same trade from using a colourable imitation of his label, which he claimed to have had registered as his trade mark in the Trade Marks Branch of the Patent Office in London. The defendant's label had an almost identical appearance, but the name of the firm was different and the wording altered.

Held, that an injunction ought not to have been granted. The use of a similar label by a person under his own name does not show any design on his part to pass off his article as that of another unless fraud on his part is proved. The colour and size of a label cannot be regarded as a constituent part of a trade mark.

Badische Aniline and Soda Fabrik v. Maneckji Shapurji Katrak (I. L. R. XVII Bom. 584), Ralli v. Fleming (I. L. R. III Calc. 417), and Thomas Arthur Taylor v. Virasami Chetti (I L. R 6 Mad. 108), referred to. MUHAMMAD ISHAQ v. ALIF KHAN. 55 P R 1902

INSANITY.

1. Suit on bond—Plea of insanity of obliger—Burden of proving lucid interval where general condition is shown to be that of insanity.

See BURDEN OF PROOF. 87 P R 1883

2. Suit on behalf of alleged lunatic by next friend.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII, R. 15. 13 P R 1896

3. Application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis filed without schedule of pauper's property—Application filed by manager of idiot plaintiff's estate.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXIII, RR. 2 & 3. 19 P R 1899

4. Validity of marriage of a woman whose husband was alive though insane.

See CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE. 49 P R 1890

INSANITY—concld.

5. Exclusion from inheritance on ground of insanity.

See HINDU LAW—INHERITANCE. 149 P R 1883

6. Disqualification for inheritance.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW—JOINT FAMILY. 91 P R 1887

INSOLVENCY.

1. Appeal from order refusing application to be made insolvent.

See APPEAL, II.—COMPETENCY OF. 124 P R 1882

2. Appeal from order reversing on review previous order granting appellant priority in distribution of assets.

See APPEAL, III.—COURSE OF APPEAL. 66 P R 1883

3. Appeal from order passed in Insolvency proceedings under Act IV of 1872.

See APPEAL, II.—COMPETENCY OF. 33 P R 1883 62 P R 1886

4. Appeal from insolvency order.

See APPELLATE COURT, POWERS AND DUTIES OF. 58 P R 1901

5. Application to be declared insolvent—Rejection of application—Value of subject-matter over Rs. 5,000*—Appeal, Course of.*

See APPEAL. III.—COURSE OF. 98 P R 1908

6. Creditor attaching insolvent's property before judgment—Re-attachment after decree—Effect of such attachment and re-attachment—Priority—Release from attachment before order by insolvency Court for distribution of assets.

See ATTACHMENT. 93 P R 1882

7 Execution of decree—Attachment of property—Judgment debtor adjudicated insolvent and property vested in official assignee—Objection to attachment by judgment-debtor in interest of official assignee—Letter from official assignee praying for release of property.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 24 57 P R 1897

8. Liability of surety—Application by judgment debtor within one month to be declared insolvent—Application returned by Court as defective—Release of surety.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 55. 100 P R 1894

9. Arrest and imprisonment in execution of decree—Subsequent application stating judgment debtor's intention to apply to be declared an insolvent—Rejection of application—Illegal confinement—Duress.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908 SECTION 55. 59 P R 1898

INSOLVENCY—contd.

10. Of drawer of hundi*—Suit by indorsee against indorser—Loss of Hundi—Want of due diligence by plaintiff in ascertaining loss—Liability of defendant.*

See HUNDI. 159 P R 1882

11. Proceedings in—Test of jurisdiction.

See JURISDICTION. 62 P R 1886

12. Schedule of bankruptcy no admission of debt—Dividend in bankruptcy not a part payment to revive debt.

See LIMITATION. 25 P R 1870

13. Limitation Act, 1871, section 16*—Act IX, of* 1872, section 29*—Stay of proceedings by injunction—Proceedings in bankruptcy.*

See LIMITATION ACT, 1871, SECTION 16. 66 P R 1874

14. Application by registered creditor for balance of registered debt—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877) SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 178. 52 P R 1882

15. Partnership—Insolvency of firm—Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 109*—Contract Act,* 1872, sections 253, 254, 255*—Punjab Laws Act,* 1872, section 25*—Limitation Act,* 1877, article 106.

See PARTNERSHIP. 37 P R 1897

16. Proceedings under Punjab Laws Act no bar to subsequent proceedings under section 344, Civil Procedure Code.

See RES JUDICATA. 145 P R 1884

17. Suit by Insolvency Court for declaration of right to unexecuted decree obtained by insolvent.

See RIGHT TO SUE. 118 P R 1886

18. Regular suits.

Held, under the former Bankruptcy Rule (Punjab Civil Code and Circular of 28th February 1859), that proof of debts beyond mere registration was necessary; and all creditors should be allowed to bring regular suits to entitle themselves to a dividend or share of the assets. JUSWUNT v. HURBHUJ RAI. 23 P R 1866

19. Punjab Civil Code.

Held, that as to Bankruptcy the provisions of the Code had the force of law.

Held, also that when a large majority of the creditors were out of the province, the petition for adjudication should be at once dismissed. IN RE BICK. 64 P R 1867

20. Judgment-creditors—Priority.

Under the former law (i. e. before Act IV of 1872 was in force), held, that in the distribution of a bankrupt's estate judgment-creditors had no priority of claims over others, unless the decree had been sued out (i. e. unless property had been attached and sold in execution ef the decree) before adjudication of bankruptcy; or unless the sale of property attached in execution had been postponed by order of Court, and the period required by law between attachment and sale had expired. In such cases judgment-creditors were entitled to the sale proceeds of such property in priority of other creditors. IN RE A REFERENCE FROM JUDGE, SMALL CAUSE COURT, LAHORE. 63 P R 1868

INSOLVENCY—contd.

21. As to the procedure to be followed in attaching and realizing a bankrupt's estate situated out of the jurisdiction of the Court by which the adjudication of bankruptcy is made, the Chief Court under the former law prescribed the following: When a person petitions to be adjudicated bankrupt, he generally places the whole of his property at the disposal of the Court for the benefit of his creditors. If the property is situated out of the jurisdiction of the Court, It may be dealt with in two ways—

(1) It may be removed into the Court's jurisdiction; or

(2) If this would be too expensive, or the property is immovable, it may be sold where it is situated, and this would generally be done by the Deputy Commissioner of the district within whose jurisdiction the property may be, on the application of the Court by which the owner of the property was adjudicated bankrupt; or the Court might depute some other person to dispose of the property.

If the second course is adopted, the Court should transmit a list of the property, and a copy of any order for attachment and sale of the property that may have been passed, to the Deputy Commissioner of the district in which the property is situated, and the Deputy Commissioner, unless, there be any sufficient reason to the contrary, should cause the property to be attached and sold, according to the rules in force for the attachment and sale of property in execution of decrees, and the sale proceeds remitted to the Court by which the attachment was ordered.

If the property consists of decrees which require to be executed out of the jurisdiction of the Court by which they were passed, the procedure laid down in section 284 et seq. of Act VIII of 1859 should be followed. IN RE A REFERENCE FROM JUDGE, SMALL CAUSE COURT, LAHORE. 65 P R 1868

22. Act VIII of 1859, sections 236 and 265.—Attachment of debts payable by instalments under bankruptcy proceedings.

A was adjudicated bankrupt on condition that he paid his debts by monthly instalments. B subsequently obtained a money decree against C one of A's creditors. Held, that B was entitled to attach under sections 236 and 265 of Act VIII of 1859, as the right and interest of his judgment-debtor, the remainder of the instalments payable by A to C under the bankruptcy. SALIG RAM v. JALAL-UD-DEEN. 90 P R 1869

23. Pensions.

Held, that pensions not included in Act VI of 1849, were liable to attachment under proceedings in bankruptcy. NIZAKUT-UL-NISSA v. RAM SAHAI. 100 P R 1869

24. Sections 273 and 275, Civil Procedure Code, did not supersede the Bankruptcy Law as contained in the Punjab Civil Code. The Code gave jurisdiction in bankruptcy to the ordinary Courts with regard to the pecuniary amount involved. A petition in bankruptcy should be dismissed where an equal distribution of assets cannot be secured. RAM CHAND v. GUNGA BISHEN. 37 P R 1871

25. Jurisdiction—Act IV of 1872—Residence.

A debtor at the time of preferring his petition to be adjudicated a bankrupt must reside within the specified local area of the Insolvent Estates Court to which he applies. IN RE GURU JOWAHIR SINGH. 12 P R 1873

26. Act IV of 1872—Registration of judgment debt—Decree obtained out of the Punjab—Non-joinder of official assignee.

A was adjudicated an insolvent by the Lahore Insolvent Estates Court, under section 24, Act IV of 1872. Pending proceedings in that Court, B, a creditor whose debt the Court had refused to register on the application of the insolvent, sued the insolvent in the Court of Cawnpore, and obtained a decree for his debt. B then applied to the insolvent Estates' Court to register the judgment debt. The Court rejected the application on the grounds (1) that the official assignee was not a party to the suit in the Court of Cawnpore; and (2) that the debtor was under the protection of the Insolvency law at the time the decree was obtained.

Held, that the Insolvent Estates' Court was wrong in refusing to register the judgment debt for the reasons (1) that the officer termed the "official assignee" is merely a ministerial agent for the purposes of collecting and distributing the insolvent's assets, and does not represent the insolvent, no estate vesting in him as it vests in the official assignee under 11 and 12 Victoria, Chapter 21 the Indian Insolvent Act for the Presidency Towns); and (2) that the protection of an insolvent under Act IV of 1872 is confined to the Punjab. KUNHAYA LAL v. HARSUKH RAI. 46 P R 1874

27. Residence—Debt under Rs. 500—Act IV of 1872—Jurisdiction.

A, dwelling at Delhi, was adjudicated insolvent by the Delhi Court. His debts amounted to Rs. 8,395, due to 12 creditors, of whom three resided in the Punjab, and of these three one only resided within the jurisdiction of the Delhi Court, and his debt was only Rs. 115. Held, that the Delhi Court had jurisdiction. KHETAR CHUNDER BOSE v. DE MONTE. 51 P R 1874

28. Protection order granted prior to Act IV of 1872—Cancellation of order by Ludhiana Insolvent Estates' Court in 1873—Effect of Government Notifications, No. 2212, of 21*st June*, 1872, and No. 2648, of 7*th July* 1873—Validity of Rule 29 of Chief Court Circular IV, dated 5*th July*, 1872—Limitation.

Defendant who was in receipt of a pension and possessed other property, was adjudicated bankrupt by the Ludhiana Court in December 1864 and again in April 1869. On each occasion he received an order of protection and discharge in respect of registered claim, on certain conditions; in April 1869, one condition was that he should regularly pay into Court a portion of his pension for the benefit of his creditors. Upon the passing of the Pensions' Act (XXIII of 1871), he applied to the Court to be relieved from his agreement as to his pension under section 12 of the Act, and refused any longer to pay his pension into Court. The Court, upon being petitioned by plaintiff, who was a registered creditor upon a bond dated June 1862, revoked the bankrupt's certificates of December 1864 and April 1869, on the ground that he had broken the condition as to his pension. In February 1874, plaintiff sued for the balance of his bond-debt.

Held, that although the Ludhiana Court was not invested with Insolvency jurisdiction by Government Notification No. 2212 of 21st June 1872, that Court was empowered by Government Notification No. 2648 of 7th July 1873, to entertain the plaintiff's petition for cancellation of the bankrupt's certificates; and that the rule under which the Court cancelled the certificate (Rule 29 of Chief Court Book Circular No. IV of 1872) was not ultra vires, but conformable to the provisions of Act IV of 1872 relating to Insolvency.

Held, also, that with regard to the proceedings in the Bankruptcy Court plaintiff's claim was not barred by limitation. LALU MAL V. SULTAN SIKANDAR. 36 P R 1875

29. Composition deed—Trustee selling to himself for pre-existing debt—Several suits to establish right to attach property released under section 246, Act VIII of 1859—Splitting claims.

A was adjudicated bankrupt, and a composition deed was entered into between him and the majority of his creditors (plaintiffs not assenting to the deed) under which the bankrupt's property was to be sold and the proceeds rateably distributed. Defendants, who were creditors of the bankrupt, were with others appointed trustees, and the deed was sanctioned by the Bankruptcy Court. The trustees appropriated a part of the property to themselves in consideration of their dividend, leaving the rest to be distributed amongst the other creditors. Objection being taken to this by some of the creditors and the composition (8 annas and 9 pies in the rupee) not having been paid according to the covenants in the deed the Bankruptcy Court set aside the arrangement or deed, and cancelled the bankrupt's certificate. Thereupon plaintiffs sued for their original debt, and obtaining a decree, attached some of the ex-bankrupt's property in Lahore which the defendants had appropriated to themselves as above-mentioned. The defendants objected to the attachment, on the ground that the property had passed to them under the deed and by their appropriation. The objection was allowed and plaintiffs brought a regular suit which the District Court of Lahore decided in their favour, holding that the appropriation of the property by the defendants was a void transfer. Plaintiffs afterwards, for the balance of their decree, attached property at Amritsar which had similarly been taken over by defendants. The same objection was put forward and allowed, and plaintiff's brought a suit in respect of that property.

INSOLVENCY—contd.

Held, that the conduct of the trustees was a constructive fraud on the creditors generally, and the transfers or appropriations of the debtor's property to themselves were void; had they sold to themselves for cash to be distributed amongst the creditors, instead of in consideration of their pre-existing debts, the transfers might not have been objectionable. Held also, that plaintiffs' suit at Amritsar was not barred on the ground of splitting a claim; that they were not bound to sue once for all in respect of all the debtor's property, as each attachment when set aside gave in itself a cause of action, PERTAB SHAH v. FATTEH CHAND. 17 P R 1876

30. Fraudulent alienation by Insolvent—Want of consideration—Want of care in alienee.

A, being in insolvent circumstances, made a gift of certain houses at Mooltan to a lady whom he afterwards married, but the gift was not made by way of a marriage settlement. Five months afterwards, he, while still unmarried, applied to a Bank for a loan of Rs. 8,000, which was granted on the following security: (1) A's pro. note, payable 12 months after date and bearing interest at 12 per cent; (2) a mortgage of the houses which had been gifted as above-mentioned, the lady, the donee, joining in the mortgage; (3) a fixed deposit at the Bank in the name of the same lady, bearing interest at 6 per cent., to be retained by the Bank until the loan of Rs. 8,000 was paid, and if the house did not cover the debt. The money so put in deposit was the money lent by the Bank to A. The Bank obtained a decree of Court for the loan, with a declaration of their lien on the houses. Shortly after this A. was adjudicated bankrupt, one of his creditors, Bates, having previously attached A's. property in execution of a decree, and included in the attachment the houses gifted and mortgaged as above-stated.

INSOLVENCY—contd.

Bates applied to have the gift and mortgages declared invalid as against creditors; the gift, on the ground that it was a voluntary transfer made when the transferor was indebted to the extent of insolvency; and the mortgage, on the ground that it was a fraudulent or colourable transaction intended to place the property beyond the reach of the creditors. For the Bank it was replied that they acted bona fide in the matter and for valuable consideration. The Insolvent Estates Court, Lahore, set aside the deed of gift to the lady, but upheld the mortgage. On appeal by Bates to the Chief Court—

Held, that the mortgage must be set aside. A transfer by one on the verge of insolvency cannot be impeached on the ground of the transferor's fraudulent intent, if the transferee acted bona fide and for valuable consideration. There is a want of bona fides where the transferee has actual or constructive notice that the transfer is fraudulent, or acts without honesty or due caution: and under the peculiar circumstances of this case the Bank had not proceeded with proper care and caution, but should have made further enquiry as to A's object in mortgaging the houses. BATES V. BERTOLA. 1 P R 1877

31. Breach of agreement by Insolvent—Power of Execution Court to enter into question of—Revival of execution proceedings—Act IV of 1872, section 29.

Held, that an execution Court cannot enter into and decide on the fact of a judgment-debtor having broken the conditions of his discharge, granted by an insolvent Court, under section 29, Act IV of 1872, with a view to revival of execution proceedings.

Semble. The agreement signed by the insolvent under section 29 of Act IV of 1872 must be viewed in the light of a new contract, and if he breaks its conditions, the remedy as against him is by a regular suit on a breach of contract. AMI CHAND v. WILLIAMS, 44 P R 1877

32. Insolvent Estates Court—Residence of Insolvent—Act IV of 1872, sections 22 and 23.

P. in order to take advantage of the Insolvent Estates Court at Lahore, rented a house in Lahore and resided in it from time to time for the express purpose of bringing himself within the jurisdiction of the Lahore Court. His ordinary place of residence before he presented his petition was and continued to be Umballa, where his wife and children were, and he had never carried on business at Lahore. Held, that P's residence under the circumstances was not sufficient to give the Lahore Court jurisdiction. A debtor who does not reside or carry on business and who owes no debts within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Insolvency Court to which he applies under section 23 Act IV of 1872, is not entitled so to apply, and does not become entitled by coming to reside temporarily within the jurisdiction with the sole and express object of making such application. PARKER v. THE SIMLA BANK. 34 P R 1878

INSOLVENCY—contd.

33. Act IV of 1872, section 26—Bill of Sale—Fraudulent transfer—Assignment of future assets—Reputed ownership—Non-delivery of possession—Evidence of fraud.

A transfer by way of Bill of Sale, made by a trader, who afterwards became insolvent of certain stock in trade goods and chattels, present and future, which were found to be not the whole of the debtor's property, but the whole with a substantial exception, the consideration for such transfer being a secured antecedent debt with a further advance, held, under all the circumstances of the case, not to be a fraudulent transfer within the meaning of section 26 of Act IV of 1872.

Held, further, that a Bill of Sale is not void merely on the ground that it purports to assign after-acquired property.

The English rule of Equity applied, that an assignment by sale or mortgage of future property for consideration is valid, and when the vendor or mortgagor becomes possessed of property answering the description in the contract, such contract transfers the beneficial interest to the vendee, or mortgagee, immediately on the property being acquired.

There is no provision in Act IV of 1872 by which property which is not the property of the Insolvent-debtor is liable to be sold and administered by the Court through being ostensibly the property of the debtor and in his possession.

Held also, that in an absolute grant or conveyance of personal chattles by a trader to a creditor, non-delivey of possession may be strong, but is not conclusive evidence of fraud: and the circumstance loses much of its weight as evidence when the retention of possession is consistent with the terms of the deed. THE OFFICIAL LIQUIDATOR PUNJAB BANK v RICHARDSON.

162 P R 1879

34. Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877), sections 344, 351—Protection order—Burden of proving matters stated in section 351—Cancellation of protection order.

In the case of an application under seccion 344 of the Code of Civil Procedure by a judgment-debtor to be declared an insolvent and protected from arrest, it lies upon the petitioner to bring himself within the provisions of section 351 of the Code by satisfying the Court in respect of the various matters referred to in clauses (a) to (d).

1450

INSOLVENCY—contd.

Where, therefore, the judgment-debtor produced no evidence whatever and his own statements failed to satisfy the Court, that his dealings, at a time when he knew himself to be unable to pay his debts in full, were not reckless, that he had not acted in bad faith, and that he had not more property than was mentioned in his application, the Chief Court set aside the order of the lower Court granting the protection sued for. MIAN ASDULLA v. JAFFER NUN. 58 P R 1881

35. Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877), sections 344, 351—Onus of proving matters contained in section 351 of the Code—"Unfair preference."

Held, that in a proceeding under Chapter XX of the Civil Procedure Code, it lies in the first instance on the applicant who desires to be declared an insolvent, to satisfy the Court that he has not excluded himself from the benefit of such a declaration by committing any of those acts of bad faith which are specified in clauses a, b, c and d of the section. When the applicant has rendered a full and satisfactory explanation upon all the points referred to in that section, the onus would then be shifted on to the objecting creditor, who alleges any specific act of bad faith which is denied by the applicant, to prove his allegation.

The meaning of the expression " unfair preference " as used in section 351 (c) of the Code discussed and explained.

The term " unfair preference " may be fairly taken to refer to what in the English Bankruptcy law is called a " fraudulent preference, " and to aim at suppressing voluntary conveyances or dispositions of property, whereby one creditor is favoured to the prejudice of others. But in order to constitute a fraudulent preference the act must be the spontaneous act of the debtor, not bona fide originating in a demand or some other step of a creditor. Unless the debtor acts spontaneously without pressure, a conveyance in favour of one creditor to the prejudice of others, even if made when the affairs of the debtor were in a desperate state, whould not be impeachable as a fraudulent preference under English law.

Where however the insolvent was proved to have fraudulently transferred his property to defeat his creditors after the institution of the suit in which the decree was passed in execution of which he was arrested, held, that he had committed an act of bad faith within the meaning of clause (a) of section 351 of the Code, which disentitled him to an order of discharge. SHEIKH ALLAHDIN v. FAIZULLA. 142 P R 1883

1451

INSOLVENCY—contd.

36. Act X of 1877, sections 356, 357—Decree-holder omitting to register his claim—Right to take out execution against insolvent.

Where a decreeholder, whose judgment-debtor was adjudicated an insolvent under Chapter XX of the Civil Procedure Code, omitted to register his claim in the insolvency proceedings, but subsequently applied for execution of his decree, held, that the said decree-holder was entitled to take out execution, as the fact of his omitting to register his claim, while it deprived him of the benefit of sharing in any pro rata distribution under section 356 of the Code did not deprive him of his remedies under the general provisions of the said Code as an execution-creditor. CHAIT RAM v. DAMODHAR. 150 P R 1882

37. Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), section 344—Sale in execution of decree—Priority between decree-holder and other creditors.

K. S obtained a decree against A. dated 16th March 1882, in execution of which house property was sold by auction on the 7th July 1882 for a sum sufficient to pay off K. S.'s decree. The sale was confirmed on the 24th July, but on the 14th July A. had given in a petition of insolvency under section 344, Civil Procedure Code, and eventually the Court on the 30th October 1882 declared A. to be a bankrupt, and ordered the amount of K. S.'s decree to be included in the schedule of debts.

On appeal from the last named order, held, that K. S. was entitled to receive payment of his decree from the proceeds of the sale. KESAR SINGH v. ALAJOWYA. 46 P R 1884

38. Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of section 358—Parties entering into a composition arrangement outside the provisions of Chapter XX of the Code—Inapplicability of section 358.

Held, that the provisions of section 358 of the Code of Civil Procedure cannot apply to Insolvency proceedings in which the parties, instead of pursuing the measures contemplated in Chapter XX of the Code, have substituted for them a new arrangement made inter se of payment by instalments or otherwise. RURA MAL v. SARDAR JALAL-UD-DIN. 30 P R 1885

39. Act IV of 1872, sections 22, 25, 28, 31—Rules under section 31 of the Act—Validity of Rule No. 25—Refusal to entertain application under section 25 on ground that no notice had been given—Jurisdiction—Duty of Court to make enquiry under section 25 on its own motion—Failure of Court to make such enquiry—Ground for revision.

Where the Insolvency Court declined to deal with an application by a creditor for the imprisonment of the insolvent under section 25 of the Punjab Laws Act, on the ground that such application had not been filed at least 3 days before the day appointed for the meeting of the creditors, as required by No. 25 of the rules framed under section 31 of the said Act, held, per Elsmie, J. that the above rule was a valid and proper one under section 31 of the Act, the non-observance of which might well be a sufficient reason for refusal by an Insolvency Judge to take action on an objection to an insolvent's discharge preferred without notice by a creditor, though it did not follow that the omission to give the prescribed notice would take away from the Court jurisdiction to entertain an application of the kind.

1452

INSOLVENCY—contd.

Held, per Barkley, J. that the rule in question was not one falling under the power given by section 31 of the Act, the question whether the insolvent should receive his discharge or not, having no connection with the administration of his estate, though it did not follow that the Court would be bound to hear objections to an insolvent's discharge at any time. Buldeo Dass v. Dial Singh (No. 24 P. R. 1873, Criminal) referred to.

It being further contended that, even without an application from a creditor, an Insolvency Court is bound under the first part of section 25 of the Act to make full enquiry into the origin, nature, and circumstances of the debts and the conduct of the debtor, and that the procedure of the Judge had been defective in that such enquiry had not been made, held per Elsmie, J. (doubting the correctness of the above contention) that though in the present case there had been no formal enquiry under section 25, there seemed to have been full consideration of the insolvent's conduct prior to the sanction of a composition under section 28, and there had therefore been no such failure to exercise jurisdiction under section 25 of the Act, as called for the interference of the Court on the revision side.

Held, per Barkley, J. that by the fisrt clause of section 25 of the Punjab Laws Act, the Court was bound to make full enquiry into the origin, nature, and circumstances of the insolvent's debts, and his conduct in relation thereto, and if it disposed of the case without doing so, even though no creditor had given notice of opposition to the discharge of the insolvent, it must be held to have acted illegally in so doing. As therefore it appeared in the present case that no enquiry under section 25 had taken place when the Court refused to entertain the objections of the creditors to the insolvent's discharge, and, though the insolvent was examined on a subsequent date on matters falling within the scope of section 25 of the Act, there was nothing to show that the objecting creditors were informed that they would be allowed to give evidence on such matters, it was impossible to hold that the Court had made the full enquiry contemplated by section 25, and to this extent it had acted illegally.

But held also that, under all the circumstances of the case, Chief Court was not called upon to interfere under section 622 of the Civil Procedure Code. SIMLA BANK v. TAVENOR. 65 P R 1882

INSOLVENCY—contd.

40. Alleged debtor denying his liability—Stay of proceedings—Reference to civil suit.

One L. M. petitioned the Insolvency Court, under Act IV of 1872, praying that two brothers might be adjudicated insolvent, alleging that the said brothers constituted a firm, and that the firm was indebted to him in a sum exceeding Rs. 500. The brothers having appeared, one of them denied upon solemn affirmation that he was a member of the firm, and therefore by necessary implication denied that the alleged debt was due from him to the creditor.

Held, that the proper course to pursue under the above circumstances was to stay proceedings in Insolveney against the alleged debtor who denied the debt, and to refer the petitioner to a civil suit to establish the alleged debtor's liability. MOHR SINGH v. LAUKRA MAL. 181 P R 1883

41. Discharge of Insolvent from liability.

Held, that the proper construction to be put upon sections 357, 358 of the Civil Procedure Code when read together is that as soon as it appears that one-third of the aggregate of scheduled debts, including secured debts, has been discharged from the Insolvent's property, he is absolved from further liability. The sections cannot be read as entitling any creditor to take action through the Court under section 357, until the third of his individual debt shall be realized. HAKIM RAI v. MUSSAMMAT THAKRI. 14 P R 1887

42. Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1892), sections 344, 360—Power of District Judge to delegate his authority to Sub-Judge not duly invested.

It is not competent to a District Judge, on an application for a declaration of insolvency under section 344 of the Code, to delegate the whole of his authority over the petition to a Subordinate Judge who has not been invested with power to deal with it under section 360 of the Code, and then merely adopting his opinion to pass a final order on his proceedings without making any enquiry himself.

The Legislature evidently intended, in enacting section 344 and section 360 of the Code, that applications under section 344, which often involve difficult and intricate questions, should be disposed of judicially either by the District Judge, or by a judicial officer selected by the Local Government and invested with powers for that purpose. MUHAMMAD ALUM v. MOOLA SINGH. 45 P R 1887

43. Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), section 344—Ground for refusing application.

It is not of itself a reason for refusing an application for a declaration of insolvency under section 344 of the Civil Procedure Code that the assets as stated by the applicant in his petition exceed the liabilities to a considerable extent. HYDER v. RAM CHAND. 59 P R 1887

44. Applicability of Chapter XXXVII of the Civil Procedure Code to insolvency pro- ceedings under Act IV of 1872, composition—Act IV of 1872, section 28—Jurisdiction of Judge in Bankruptcy to make a reference under section 617, Civil Procedure Code.

INSOLVENCY—contd.

Held, that the provisions of Chapter XXXVII of the Civil Procedure Code are not applicable to a proceeding in insolvency under the provisions of the Punjab Laws Act, as between the creditors on one side, and the insolvent on the other.

If a majority of the creditors chose to say as between themselves and the insolvent that they will accept whatever arrangement or composition three arbitrators appointed by them may determine, and an arrangement is made by these means and brought into Court, this is no doubt an arrangement or composition, which may become binding on the whole body of creditors if sanctioned by the Court, but in such a case the arbitration proceedings are not taken under the Code or through the Court, and the Court must proceed under section 28 of the Punjab Laws Act to deal with the arrangement or composition on its merits, apart from the question of how the arrangement or composition has been arrived at.

Quære, whether it is competent to a Judge acting under the insolvency jurisdiction conferred by the Punjab Laws Act to refer a question to the Chief Court under section 617 (read with sectofn 647) of the Code of Civil Procedure. SIMLA BANK v. NARPAT RAI. 88 P R 1887

45. Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), sections 344, 345, 351, 352, 353—Creditor residing out of British India—Right of such creditor to prove his claim.

Where a creditor has a just claim, there is nothing in the circumstance that he is a foreigner and not resident in British territory to preclude him from coming into Court and proving his claim under sections 352 and 353 of the Civil Procedure Code, after a declaration of insolvency under section 351. An insolvent making an application under section 345 of the Code, who omitted from the list of pecuniary claims against him those of foreigners or others not residing in British India, would incur great risk of having his application rejected under section 351, as section 345, clause (e) requires him to set forth the amount and particulars of all pecuniary claims against him. MIAN GOMAN SINGH v. GANESHI LAL. 35 P R 1888

46. Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), sections 344, 350, 351, 360, 368—Jurisdiction of Sub-Judge invested under section 360 acting without order from District Court—Neglect to examine insolvent debtor—Necessity for careful observance of procedure laid down in section 350 of the Code—Death of one respondent member of insolvent firm pending appeal by creditor—Partial abatement of appeal—Survival of "right to sue."

Quære, whether, when a Court invested with powers under section 360, Civil Procedure Code, receives and entertains an application under section 344, Civil Procedure Code, without an order from the District Court from a person not arrested in execution of a decree of such Court, the proceedings are liable to be set aside in a Court of appeal, at the instance of a person who has not taken exception to the mode of institution.

INSOLVENCY—contd.

Per Plowden, J.—A careful compliance with the express directions of section 350, Civil Procedure Code, as to the examination of the judgment-debtor in insolvency proceedings, is of the first importance both to the judgment-debtor, and to the creditors, especially those who oppose the judgment-debtor's discharge. When specific allegations are made against a judgment-debtor which, if true, would justify a refusal to declare a petitioner insolvent, the fullest opportunity of explanation should be given to the petitioner, and to each party, the petitioner and the creditors, to establish by evidence the irrespective allegations.

Held, by the Division Bench, that in a case where two partners have applied together under section 344, Civil Procedure Code, to be declared insolvent they must be deemed to have applied separately, and when both have been declared insolvent under section 351, and one appeal is presented against the order as to both, and one of the respondents dies, the appeal must be considered as being an appeal against each separately, and does not abate as against one partner by reason of the death of the other.

But held, further, that the appeal as against the latter respondent must of necessity abate on his death, inasmuch as the right to sue does not survive within the meaning of section 308, Civil Procedure Code, on the death of a respondent insolvent in an appeal by creditors against an order made under section 351, such an order being purely personal to petitioner.

The death of such insolvent does not, however, affect the authority of the receiver, as the property of the insolvent vests in the receiver under a duly published order and is not divested by the death of the insolvent. HARDHIAN SINGH v. SHAM SUNDAR. 69 P R 1888

47. Civil Procedure Code 1882, sections 353 and 588—Insolvent—Schedule.

To entitle a creditor to appeal under sections 353 and 588, he must show that a schedule of the insolvent's creditors has been prepared under section 352—that his name is entered in it—that the names of his opponents are also entered in it, that he applied to the lower Court to alter the schedule as regards the amount, nature particulars of the debt of his opponents, and that the Court passed an order on his application adverse to his interests. In the present case no schedule having been prepared, held, that the appeal did not lie. RAM CHAND v. JOHRI MAL. 120 P R 1889

INSOLVENCY—contd.

48. Appeal in Civil Cases—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections, 351, 352, 588, 589—District Court—Punjab Government Notification No. 940, dated the 24*th October* 1886.

The appeal from an order under section 351 passed by the District Court in an insolvency case lies to the Divisional Court under section 589, Civil Procedure Code, whatever the value of the claim may be under Punjab Government Notification No. 940, dated the 25th October 1886. KAHAN SINGH v. GHULAM MUHAMMAD.

85 P R 1890

49. Insolvent Estates' Court—Attachment of insolvent's property—Property already under attachment by District Judge.

Makhan Lal was declared an insolvent under the provisions of Act IV of 1872. The Insolvent Estates' Court issued a robkar to the District Judge, calling upon him to make over certain property of the insolvent which was then under attachment, or to withdraw the attachment. The District Judge declined to accede to his request.

Held, that the insolvent Estates' Court was not competent to issue such a robkar, and that the District Judge was not bound to recognise it. IN RE PETITION OF MAKHAN LAL.

61 P R 1891

50. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, Chapter XX—Insolvency—Return of property in hands of Court after payment of one-third of schedule debts.

C. was declared insolvent under the provisions of Chapter XX, Civil Procedure Code, 1882, and was discharged with an order of protection under sections 357 and 358 of the Code. C. then claimed to be entitled to a return of the property in the hands of the Receiver, on the ground that his schedule debt had been satisfied to the extent of one-third, and that he was absolved from further liability in respect of such debts.

Held, that this contention was not well founded. Property vested in the Receiver is an exception to the rule prescribed in sections 357, 358, of the Code regarding non-liability of the property to attachment. IN THE MATTER OF G. E. COATES, INSOLVENT.

91 P R 1891

51. Insolvency—Chapter XX, Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 345—Decree-holder whose name has been entered as creditor by a judgment-debtor executing his decree.

Held, by the Full Bench (Roe.J. dissenting) that a decree-holder, whose name has been entered as a creditor by a judgment-debtor on an application to be declared an insolvent under section 345, Civil Procedure Code, 1882, but who has not come forward-to prove him claim under section 352, and whose name therefore does not appear in the schedule prepared under that section, is not debarred by the mere fact of his having held aloof from the proceedings under Chapter XX of the Code from executing his decree under the ther provisions of the Code

INSOLVENCY—contd.

Per ROE, J. contra.—The right to ignore proceedings under Chapter XX, and to bring a separate suit or to execute a decree separately stand on the same footing. This right which primâ facie exists, is taken away by the provisions of Chapter XX, which enable a judgment-debtor to bring his creditors before the Court and by the further provision that when their claims shall be determined in a certain manner.

No. 150 P, R. 1882, and I. L. R. XVI Calc. 592, referred to. KHUDA MAL v. SHIB DIAL.

96 P R 1891

52. And section 588—Insolvency—Order discharging insolvent, appeal from—Agreement to satisfy debts—Property vested in Receiver—Future salary of insolvent.

Held, that though an other discharging an insolvent from further liability under section 358 of the Civil Procedure Code is not appealable under section 588 of the Code as an "order," such order falls within the definition of a " decree" in section 2 of the Code and is appealable as such.

Held, further, that although an order of absolution from further liability contemplated by section 358 of the Code cannot affect property which has vested in the Receive under section 354 and is, or may hereafter become, liable for distribution under section 356, an insolvent's future salary which may or may not accrue due, is not " property " which under section 354 vests in the Receiver for an unknown and unlimited time the effect of the attaching order, in such case being to vest the salary in the Receiver as it accrues and not before.

I. L. R. V All. 258 and No. 91 P. R. 1891 referred to. HUKAM CHAND v. Robinson.

43 P R 1894

53. Discharge of insolvent—Suit by scheduled creditor for amount of debt—Rès-judicata.

Petitioner when applying to be declared an insolvent, mentioned respondent as one of his creditors, stating his claim at Rs. 300. Respondent thereupon became a scheduled creditor, and the Court afterwards discharged the petitioner, part of whose monthly pay was made over to the usual official for ratable distribution among the creditors. The respondent ignoring these proceedings sued for his debt in the Small Cause Court, and obtained a decree for the full amount and interest payable by monthly instalments.

Held, that the respondent's claim had become res judicata by the order passed by the Judge in Insolvency proceedings, and that consequently the decree of the Small Cause Court must be set aside. PENHEAROW v. PARTÁB SINGH.

76 1899

54. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, Chapter XX—Insolvency proceedings—Irregularities in procedure—Adjudication of insolvency by consent of creditors—Acquiescence.

INSOLVENCY—contd.

Appellant applied on the 2nd July 1894 to be adjudicated insolvent. In appeared that the Court to which application was made was one of competent jurisdiction, and that the conditions of cognizance under the provisions of the insolvency chapter of the Civil Procedure Code were also satisfied. The Court on the creditors consenting thereto, adjudicated the appellant an insolvent, but it omitted (a) to examine the insolvent with reference to the facts stated in his petition and itself find that they were substantially true, and that the other conditions specified in section 351 of the Code were fulfilled and declared him an insolvent on these findings; (b) to publish the fact of adjudication in the local Gazette as required by section 354 of the Code, and (c) to pass an order of discharge under section 351. Both parties accepted the order of the Court and acted on it, and acquiesced in the irregularities of the Court's procedure till March 1896, when the appellant petitioned under section 358 of the Code for his final discharge.

Held, by the Full Bench, that the omissions (a), (b) and (c) above referred to were mere errors of procedure, or omissions to follow the procedure prescribed by the Code, and were not such as to render the adjudication null and void.

Held, further, that the Court had erred in adjudicating the appellant insolvent simply on the creditor's consenting to such adjudication, there being no provision in the Code for a declaration of insolvency by agreement of the creditors or for giving effect to a composition between an insolvent and his creditors.

But, held, that inasmuch as the Court was one of competent jurisdiction and acted in the proper exercise of its functions, and as both the parties were instrumental in making the Court pass the order which it did pass and accepted and acted on it, and acquiesced in the irregularities or illegalities, the error was one of procedure only and not such as to render the adjudication null and void, and neither party could be allowed to challenge the validity of the Court's order.

The Court has to adjudicate on the question of insolvency with reference to the provisions of Chapter XX and section 351 of the Code, and as it cannot make a declaration of insolvency, by consent of the parties before it or in accordance with a composition between the debtor and his creditors, the mere recording of such an agreement and embodying it in the order of adjudication can have no legal effect in controlling the express words of a section of the Code. The language of section 358 of the Code admits of no exceptions in favour of such cases, and it must, according to the approved rules of construction, be given effect to in all cases covered by the words. GILLMORE v. BULAKI MAL.

19 P R 1900 F B

55. Res judicata—Insolvency—Applicability of the rule of res judicata to insolvency

INSOLVENCY—contd.

proceedings—Duty of Court to follow procedure laid down in section 336, Civil Procedure Code, on the re-arrest of a judgment-debtor after failure of his application under Chapter XX, Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 13, 336, 344

Held, by the Full Bench—

(i) that the rule of res judicata applies to insolvency proceedings under section 344, Civil Procedure Code, where successive applications are made on the same fact ; and

(ii) that when a judgment-debtor after failing in insolvency proceedings under the Civil Procedure Code is re-arrested, it is not the duty of the Court to inform him that he may apply under Chapter XX to be declared an insolvent or take the other steps indicated in section 336, Civil Procedure Code.

Bihari Lal v. Majid Ali, All. W. N. 1897, 29 ; and Ram Kirpal v. Rup Kuari I. L. R. VI All, 269 P. C. followed.

In re Chiranji Mal (145 P. R., 1884,) over-ruled. ARJAN SINGH v. GAMAN.
75 P R 1905 F B

56. Insolvency—Omission to frame schedule—Creditor not debarred from instituting suit—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 351, 352.

Held, that where in an insolvency proceedings no schedule had been framed as contemplated by section 352 of the Code of Civil Procedure a creditor is not, by reason of his debt having been entered in the schedule filed by the insolvent with his application for insolvency, debarred from suing for his debt.

Arunahala v. Ayyavu (I. L. R. VII Mad. 318) followed.

Penhearow v. Partab Singh (76 P. R. 1899) considered and distinguished. HARYA v. MUL CHAND. 64 P R 1907

57. Insolvency—order under section 25, Punjab Laws Act IV of 1872—Appeal—Revision under section 70 (1) (b) Punjab Courts Act, XVIII of 1884—concealment of account books—order under section 26, Punjab Laws Act not open to revision.

Held, that no appeal lies from an order by the Judge of the Insolvency Court under section 25, Punjab Laws Act.

65 P. R. 1882, 33 P. R. 1883 and 62 P. R. 1886, followed.

Held also, that no revision lies from such an order under section 70 (1) (b), Punjab Courts Act, inasmuch as it is not a decree.

70 P. R. 1904 and 65 P. R. 1905, followed.

Held, also, that section 25, Punjab Laws Act, is not limited to conduct in contracting debts but includes inter alia concealment of account books which is gross misconduct in reference to debts.

Held, further, that where a transfer has been annulled as fraudulent under section 26, Punjab Laws Act, the alleged transferee cannot apply to the Chief Court on the revision side instead of filing a suit. RAM CHAND v. BILLA MAL. 64 P R 1911

INSOLVENCY—concld.

58. Insolvency—appeal from order under section 25, Punjab Laws Act IV of 1872—Proper time for order of discharge, section 29 ibid.

Held, that no appeal lies from an order under section 25, Punjab Laws Act, unless the order amounts to a decree—62 P. R. 1886 followed.

Held, also, that no definite finding or order as to an insolvent's right to discharge should be made until the administration of the estate has been completed (vide section 29 ibid). MIR AMAN-ULLAH v. ABDUL GHAFUR.
85 P R1 191

INSOLVENCY ACT.

See PROVINCIAL INSOLVENCY ACT, 1907.

INSOLVENCY PROCEEDINGS.

—Applicability of Provincial Insolvency Act, 1907—Proceedings commenced under Punjab Laws Act.

See PROVINCIAL INSOLVENCY ACT, 1907.
11 P R 1910
12 P R 1910

INSOLVENT.

See ADMINISTRATION OF INSOLVENT'S ESTATE. 45 P R 1910 P C

INSPECTION OF DOCUMENTS.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. VIII, R. 10. and O XI, RR. 14 and 21.

INSPECTION OF JUDICIAL RECORDS.

—Rule II of Judicial Circular No. XCIII—Power of Court to make rule limiting period up to which record of pending case may be inspected—Ultra vires.

Held, that there is nothing in the rules issued by the Chief Court in Judicial Circular No. XCIII, which precludes a Judge of a Court from making a rule in the exercise of his power of general control, that files of cases pending in his Court shall not be inspected by a legal practitioner engaged later than two days before the date fixed for hearing. IN RE SUTHERLAND. 103 P R 1882

INSTALMENTS, BOND PAYABLE BY.

1. Suit on mortgage bond—Instalments—Default, successive waivers.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLES 63–75.
101 P R 1880

2. Whole to fall due on default of instalment fixed—Limitation—Waiver.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 75. 188 P R 1883

INSTALMENTS—DECREES.

1. Decree silent as to instalments fixed by judgment—Power of executing Court to go behind decree—Stay of proceedings to allow amendment of decree—Court ordering execution before any instalment had fallen due.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XX, R. 6. 61 P R 1887

INSTALMENTS—DECREE—concld.

2. Decree payable by.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XX, R. 11. 49 P R 1887

3. Execution of decree—Payment by instalments—Agreement to give time for satisfaction of judgment-debt.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XX, R. 11. 26 P R 1894

4. Application after decree for an order for payment by instalments—Contents of application.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XX, R. 11. 96 P R 1900

5. Execution of decree—Decree more than 12 years' old—Arrangement between parties in execution for payment of judgment debt by instalment—Validity of such arrangement.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 48. 200 P R 1889

6. Compensation for breach of contract to pay instalments.

See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 74.
106 P R 1887

7. Decree payable by instalments—Default in payment of instalment—Execution of a decree—Limitation.

See DECREE—CONSTRUCTION OF.
100 P R 1902

INSTITUTION OF SUIT.

1. Unregistered corporation sued through its manager—Names of members not specified—Plaint returned for addition of such names—Date of institution of suit.

See CORPORATION—UNREGISTERED.
29 P R 1896

2. Unstamped plaint—Presentation by post—Institution of suit.

See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, SECTION 28.
38 P R 1900

3. Suit for pre-emption—Plaint filed within one year of the date of the sale impeached—Return of plaint to be presented again when a clue to defendants could be found—Effect of such irregular return of plaint.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 4.
22 P R 1887

4. Insufficiently stamped plaint, when deemed to have been properly presented.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 4.
3 P R 1893

5. Plaint presented to the proper officer within limitation and returned to plantiff by such officer with order endorsed thereon to present it to Subordinate Court deputed to try the suit—No subsequent presentation within time of limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 4.
7 P R 1895

6. Suit by pauper—Application for leave to sue in formâ pauperis—Subsequent payment of Court-fees after period of limitation—Date of institution of suit.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 4.
59 P R 1903

7. Plaint insufficiently stamped—Payment of requisite Court-fee after the expiry of limitation allowed for the suit—Plaint when deemed to have been presented—Date of institution of suit—Civil Procedure Code, 1882,

INSTITUTION OF SUIT—concld.

section 54—Limitation Act, 1877, section 4, Explanation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 4.
74 P R 1903

8. Unstamped plaint—Conditional order admitting plaint—Plaint properly stamped after period of limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, section 4-explanation.
See PLAINT—PRESENTATION OF.
7 P R 1896

9. Date of—Not affected by a remand order directing re-trial de novo.
See SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT.
94 P R 1911

INTEREST.

1. Suit on bond for interest only—Subsequent suit for principal and interest.
See CAUSE OF ACTION VI.—SPLITTING CAUSE OF ACTION. 70 P R 1889

2. When interest agreed upon should not be looked upon as a penalty.
See CAUSE OF ACTION V.—MISJOINDER.
32 P R 1890

3. Interest on money taken out of Court in execution of decree—Separate suit.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 82 P R 1896

4. Future interest—Sum named—Penalty—Equitable relief.
See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 74.
25 P R 1879
51 P R 1879
99 P R 1891

5. Damages—Penalty.
See DAMAGES. 150 P R 1883
55 P R 1885

6. Decree silent as to—Power to realize in execution.
See EXECUTION OF DECREE.
13 P R 1886

7. Limitation Act, 1871, section 21—"Single bond"—Interest in kind.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1871, SECTION 21
6 P R 1874
74 P R 1874

8. Right to treat interest due under mortgage as a charge upon the estate.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 132. 57 P R 1888

9. Suit for redemption of mortgage—Interest treated as a charge on mortgaged estate—Limit to such charge.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 132. 35 P R 1899

10. Suit for balance of account—Account stated—Interest.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 19.
68 P R 1904

11. Stipulation in mortgage for fixed rate of, for period of mortgage—Implied agreement for continuance of same rate till payment of mortgage-debt.
See MORTGAGE. 68 P R 1883

12. Construction of document—Provision mortgage-deed regarding interest.
See MORTGAGE—CONSTRUCTION.
77 P R 1898

13. Surety's right to recover on moneys paid for principal.
See PRINCIPAL AND SURETY.
98 P R 1881

INTEREST—contd.

14. Succession Act, 1865 section 282—Distribution of assets—Mortgage lien—Interest of claim secured by decree.
See SUCCESSION ACT, 1865, SECTION 282.
11 P R 1878

15. A promise to pay interest in the course of execution of a decree cannot be enforced against the judgment-debtor, unless incorporated in the decree ; but it may afford a cause of action. THAKOOR DASS v. MAHOMED BAKSH. 15 P R 1866

16. A debtor mortgaged his house as security, and agreed to pay interest monthly at a fixed rate. Held, that the creditor was entitled to sue for arrears of interest without suing for the principal. RUTTAN CHUND v. BHAN SINGH 16 P R 1866 Ref.

17. The law does not imply a contract on the part of a debtor to pay interest on the sum he owes, although the debt may be of a fixed amount and may have been frequently demanded. SHADI RAM v HUR GOPAL. 51 P R 1866

18. Held, that where a contract to pay interest on a mortgage had not been adhered to for many years, there had been a waiver ; and the Chief Court refused to allow any interest at all. SOOKRAM v. HOOLASSA.
64 P R 1866

19. When an agreement is for interest on money lent, and agreed to be repaid on a certain date, the lender cannot, without a further arrangement express or implied, after that date, recover interest at the rate fixed for the definite period. DEVA SINGH v. DHURM SINGH. 98 P R 1866

20. Where there is no contract to pay interest, the Court should be guided by Act XXXII of 1839. RULLA v. SOONAM.
37 P R 1867

21. A Court cannot in execution of decree add to the decree by ordering interest when the decretal order does not provide for payment of interest. SHUFEE v. BRIJ RAJ.
81 P R 1868

22. Held, that though by section 11 of Act XXIII of 1861, questions regarding the amount of interest payable in respect of the subject matter of a suit can be determined by the Court executing the decree, and its order is open to appeal ; yet when the decree is silent as to interest, the Appellate Court cannot add to the decree by allowing interest. JUSSOO MULL v. AZIM JOO.
30 P R 1869

23. Equitable rate—Agriculturists.

Plaintiff sued defendant, an agriculturist, upon a bond, by the terms of which the latter bound himself to pay the former interest at the rate of Rs. 2-8-0 per cent. per mensem ; but the bond contained no stipulation as to interest being chargeable after the first year. Plaintiff claimed interest for several years at the rate of Rs. 2-8-0 per mensem, contending that upon the proper construction of the bond, interest at that rate accrued due so long as the defendant failed to meet his obligation. The Small Cause Court allowed plaintiff interest at the rate of Rs. 2-8-0 per cent. per mensem for the first year, and for every subsequent year at the rate of one rupee per cent. per mensem. Upon a reference to the Chief Court, it was held, that the Judge of the Small Cause Court had equitably and rightly disposed of the case, regard being had to the circumstances of the agricultural classes. DOWLA MAL v. SAWAN. 42 P R 1372

INTEREST—contd.

24. Act XXVIII of 1861, sections 10 and 11—Execution—Interest on costs—Decree of Privy Council.

Held, by the Privy Council that, in executing an order of Her Majesty in Council, a Court cannot award interest on costs decreed, where the order of Her Majesty in Council contains no direction for the payment of interest in respect of such costs. FORESTER v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL. 1 P R 1877

25. Debtor and Creditor—Money-lender, and zemindar—Bond—Usurious rate of interest—Act IX of 1872, clause (1), section 16, and section 19—Undue influence—Act I of 1872, section 114—Presumption.

Plaintiff, a village money-lender, sued defendant, a zemindar, for Rs. 700 principal and interest, due on a bond. Defendant admitted execution of the bond, but pleaded that the greater part of the claim consisted of interest at an usurious rate, and prayed for an examination of the accounts. It was found that the parties had had dealings as debtor and cereditor for a considerable time previous to the execution of the bond : and that of the amount claimed Rs. 145 only was principal, while the remaining Rs. 555 was charged for interest. The lower Court therefore decreed Rs. 145 and Rs. 197-1-3 interest, total Rs. 342-1-3.

Held, per Curiam, that the orders of the lower Courts should be upheld.

Per SMYTH, J.—Because, having regard to the fact that the bond was extortionate and unconscionable, and considering the relations between the parties, they were justified in the absence of rebutting proof from plaintiff in holding that the bond was executed under "undue influence" as defined in clause (1) section 16 of the Contract Act, and were therefore justified under section 19 of the same Act in treating the bond as void, and in decreeing to plaintiff only the amount equitably due.

Per PLOWDEN, J.—Because the bare facts, that the parties to a contract, the subject of litigation, are village money-lenders and a zemindar, may justify a Court in presuming (within the meaning of section 114 of the Evidence Act) that the zemindar did not give a free consent to the terms of the particular agreement, when such presumption is not inconsistent with the other facts disclosed, though there be no other evidence on the part of the zemindar to prove that he had been induced by the exercise of undue influence to consent to the terms of the particular agreement. RAMDHAN v. JIWAN KHAN.
110 P R 1879

INTEREST—contd.

26. Debtor and Creditor—Registered bond—Agriculturists—Rate of interest Undue influence—Presumption.

Where defendants, who were agriculturists, entered into a bond with plaintiffs whereby they agreed to pay interest on the principal sum at the rate of 24 per cent. per annum, which bond was duly registered before the Tahsildar of the locality, held (reversing the orders of the Lower Courts) that under the circumstances of the case and in the absence of evidence of the exercise of undue influence on the defendants, the lower Courts were not warranted in reducing the rate of interest agreed upon from 24 per cent. to 6 per cent. per annum. RADHA v. GOLAB SINGH.

145 P R 1879

27. Agreement to pay at rate of Rs. 36 per cent.—Immoral agreement.

Defendant borrowed Rs. 50 from plaintiff on a mortgage of his house, agreeing that rent should be equal to interest, and by a second deed of even date defendant took a lease of the house agreeing to pay Rs. 1-8 per month rent, that is to say, he virtually agreed to pay Rs. 36 per cent. per annum interest for his loan.

Held, that the agreemeut was not an immoral agreement, and bound the promisor, unless he could show that the circumstances under which he entered into the agreement rendered it void or voidable. BHORA MAL v. DEVI DIN 40 P R 1882

28. Cases in which it may be reduced

Excessive interest may be reduced when either undue influence may be presumed, or when the relations of the parties are such that it is irresistible to conclude that one was misled or taken in, or did not understand what he was agreeing to. But if a person fairly intelligent, and presumably knowing what he is about, agrees to certain terms, he must be held bound to them. HEMRAJ v. MALIK SIRDAR KHAN. 135 P R 1889

29. Redemption—Interest—Damages by way of compensation for breach of contract—Charges on property mortgaged.

On the 7th of August 1867, A. mortgaged certain immovable property to B. for Rs. 1,500. It was agreed that the principal money should be repaid in four months with interest at 2 per cent. per mensem, and that on failure of such payment, the mortgagee should be placed in possession. Payment was not made on the due date, nor was possession given to the mortgagee till he obtained it in execution of a decree in April 1891. The representative of the mortgagor having sued for redemption on payment of the principal only, the mortgagee claimed to retain the property until he received the principal and interest at 24 per cent. per annum to date of suit.

Held, that the plaintiff was bound to pay the interest for four months, constituting as it did a charge on the land under the agreement in the morgage deed. Had the mortgagee sued for possession at the expiration of four months he would have been entitled to hold possession of the land as security for the principal and four months' interest and there did not seem to be any reason why he should be put in a worse position merely by reason of his delay in suing. The remainder of the defendant's claim did not, however, constitute a charge on the mortgaged property. It might be a personal claim against the mortgagor, not as interest recoverable under the agreement, but as compensation for breach of contract to deliver possession. Such a claim had long been barred by limitation, and could not be enforced.

INTEREST—contd.

I. L. R., 4 All., 245, and I. L. R. 8 All. 142, followed. 57 P. R., 88, referred to. GHASITA MAL v. ISHAR DAS 8 P R 1890

30. Punjab Laws Act, 1872—Pre-emption—Money paid into Court by successful pre-emptor and withdrawn by original purchaser—Reduction of price by Appellate Court—Interest on excess in hands of original purchaser.

A pre-emptor paid into Court a sum of money in satisfaction of the decree passed in his favour which sum was withdrawn by the original purchaser.

On appeal, the pre-emptor obtained a reduction of the price to be paid for the land. The original purchaser withdrew from the Court the money allowed, knowing that the pre-emptor asserted that it was not due and that he had appealed, the original purchaser thus enjoying the use of the money for a long period.

Held, that under such circumstances there was no reason why the defendant (the original purchaser) should not be compelled to pay interest on the excess sum which he had enjoyed, which the Court allowed at 6 per cent. per annum.

L. R., 3 P. C., 465, and I. L. R., VII All. 432, referred to. ABDUL WAHAB v. GHULAM RASUL SHAH. 111 P R 1892

31. Mortgage deed—Interest—Rights of mortgagee—Charge upon mortgaged property.

Where there is a clear agreement that a mortgagor will pay interest year by year and that he will not be entitled to redeem without paying the whole amount of the principal and interest due by him, such principal and interest form a charge upon the mortgaged property to which effect must be given.

No. 57 P. R., 1888, and No. 8 P., R., 1890, referred to and explained.

I. L. R., 19 Calc. 19, referred to. BADRI v. KUNDAN. 28 P R 1892

32. Interest on decree—Principal of calculation.

Semble—The correct method of calculating interest on a decree is to take each payment made: calculate the amount of interest due on the decree up to the date of this payment: credit the payment of this interest: and carry the surplus of the payment to the credit of the principal and strike a fresh balance. BHAJAN LAL v. DELHI AND LONDON BANK, LD. 55 P P 1892

33. Mortgage—Absence of covenant to pay interest after due date—Allowance of, by way of damages—Charge.

INTEREST—contd.

A deed of mortgage contained no covenant for payment of interest post diem.

Held, that interest could notwithstanding be allowed by way of damages—in so far as such damages were within limitation (six years)—and be declared a charge upon the mortgaged property. SHEO CHAND v. CHUNNA.

73 P R 1892

34. Redemption of mortgage-money expended by mortgagee in possession on repairs and improvements to mortgaged property—Interest on such expenditure.

The plaintiff sued for the redemption from mortgage of a house and some shops, alleging that, on a proper statement of the account, it would be found that the rents realized had extinguished the debt due for principal and interest, leaving a balance in the mortgagor's favour. The question for decision arising out of cross-appeals before the Chief Court was what sum, if any, was to be allowed to the defendants under the head of repairs and additions, and, if anything were allowed, should the sum carry interest or not.

Held, upon a consideration of all the circumstances that the defendants were entitled to the whole of the money spent by them upon permanent improvements to the mortgaged property, the value of which had increased at least to the extent of the sum expended.

Held, also, that interest on the sum spent on improvements should not be allowed, chiefly on the ground that such sum with interest superadded might considerably exceed the present value of the improvements and also create a risk of the mortgagor being improved out of his estate.

The English and Indian authorities referred to and followed. PRABH DIAL SINGH v. BHAI SAWAYA SINGH. 67 P R 1893

35. Mortgage by conditional sale—Application for foreclosure under Regulation XVII of 1806—Separate suit for recovery of interest brought after expiration of the year of grace.

On 5th November 1889, the plaintiff applied under Regulation XVII of 1806 for foreclosure of a mortgage in his favour dated the 2nd June 1884, reciting that Rs. 10,000 were due thereon by the defendant as principal and a further sum as interest calculated up to the date of the application. Notice was served upon the mortgagor on 9th November 1889, and the year of grace expired without payment of the amount due by the mortgagor. On the 22nd January 1891, the plaintiff filed the present suit for recovery of interest due under the mortgage from 2nd June 1884—the date of the mortgage—to 2nd June 1891, alleging that interest, which was recoverable from the separate property of the mortgagor, had by mistake been included in the application for foreclosure.

Held, that the effect of the foreclosure proceedings under the Regulation was to discharge the whole debt secured by the mortgage, principal and interest, and that the second suit for interest was not maintainable.

I. L. R. IX All. 20 (P. C.) : S. C. L. R. 13 Ind. App., 113 ; S. D. A. Resp., 1856, 388, and I. L. R. XIV All. 405, referred to. HARNAM DAS v. KANWAR SINGH.

103 P R 1893

36. Interest—Implied agreement to pay interest—Act XXXII of 1839 and XXVIII of 1855.

Held, that Act XXXII of 1839 does not, and Act XXVIII of 1855 does, apply to a contract to pay interest implied from the dealings of the parties. The provisions of the latter Act are not limited to interest payable on an express contract, and do not deal with the right to recover interest, but prescribe rules for determining the rate at which interest, when recoverable, shall be calculated.

The law as to interest considered historically. RUKUN DIN v RIKHI KESH.

36 P R 1894

37. Bond payable be instalments—Interest payable on default from date of bond—"Penalty"—Compensation for breach of contract—Primary and Secondary obligations—Act XXVIII of 1855, section 2, and Indian Contract Act, 1872, sections 73, 74.

Held, in the case of a bond payable by instalments that when a promisor engages to pay each instalment on a specified date without interest, and in the event of a breach of his engagement, with interest from the date of his bond, the primary obligation is to pay the instalment on the date specified, and the subject of the promise is the secondary obligation to make compensation for the breach of the primary obligation, the right of the promisee to compensation being regulated either by section 74 of the Contract Act when there is an agreement as to the compensation to be made, and it satisfies the requirements of the said section, or by section 73, when there is no agreement or it does not satisfy the terms of section 74.

When a contract in the above terms fails to indicate, either expressly or by implication, a date up to which the interest is to be calculated, and the period therefore remains indefinite, it cannot be said that a sum is named within the meaning of section 74 of the Contract Act.

Section 2 of Act XXVIII of 1855 was not intended to override the general law of contracts, and compel the Courts to enforce any and every agreement which might be made as to payment of interest, and there is nothing in the said section to restrict, or in any way affect the power of the Courts to adjudicate upon the right to recover the interest claimed, or the operation of sections 73 and 74 of the Contract Act in respect to the compensation to be made upon breach of a contract to pay money with interest. What is recoverable in a suit upon a breach of a contract to-pay mouey with interest is compensation in money by way of damages and not interest eo nomine, though the stipulated rate of interest may be good evidence of the proper measure of the compensation.

I. L. R. IX Calc., 692 ; I. L. R. XIX Calc. 392 ; and I. L. R. XV All. 232. refered to. KANHAYA LAL v. NARAIN DAS.

99 P R 1894

38. Mortgage—Suit for redemption—Mortgage of undivided share of joint property—Consent of co-sharers—Interest post diem—Limitation.

Held, following I. L. R. XIX Calc. 401 that it is not open to an assignee of the equity of redemption to challenge the validity of a mortgage of an undivided share of joint property upon the ground that the mortgage was entered into by one only of the joint-owners without the consent of his co-owners.

Held, further, that the mortgagee's right to charge interest in answer to a suit for redemption, notwithstanding that the arrears would not be recoverable in a suit by reason of the law of limitation, cannot be extended to anything but interest which has accrued due under the terms of the mortgage-deed.

No. 8 P. R. 1890, 28 P. R. 1892, and 73 P. R. 1892, cited. HOSHNAK MAL v. SONHA MAL.

114 P R 1894

39. Pre-emption—Mortgage by way of conditional sale—Completion of purchase—Amount claimable by vendee from pre-emptor—Principal and interest—Regulation XVII of 1806, sections 7, 8.

Plaintiff sued for pre-emption on a mortgage by way of conditional sale on payment of the principal sum due on the mortgage. The vendee by conditional sale admitted plaintiff's right of pre-emption, but claimed to be entitled, in addition to the amount offered by plaintiff, to interest on the principal not only during the two years the land was under mortgage, but also during the five years subsequent to foreclosure of the mortgage. The first Court, holding that the vendee had by his own negligence deprived himself of interest during the latter period, decreed him interest only for the period during which the land was mortgaged, and this decree was confirmed, on appeal, by the Divisional Judge on the ground that the ordinary condition in deeds of the nature of that in suit is that the sale shall be for principal and interest up to date of sale, and that the special form of this particular deed seemed to exclude the interest that might be due from the price of the land. Defendant-vendee appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, that the stipulation in the mortgage deed that in default of payment of the principal sum the mortgaged land would be considered as sold in consideration thereof, was intended solely for the benefit of the mortgagee and not to relieve the mortgagor, if he wished to redeem, from the payment of interest as well of the principal.

Held, further, that the mortgagee was entitled in the absence of any contract to the contrary, to treat the interest due under the mortgage as a charge upon the land, and that a person claiming a right of pre-emption in respect of a mortgage by conditional sale is bound to pay as the price of the property the entire amount due on such mortgage at the time it became absolute.

Held, also, following I. L. R. VI All. 344, that, on the expiration of the year of grace allowed by Regulation XVII of 1806 the ownership of mortgage property vests absolutely in the mortgagee, even though he may not have obtained a decree establishing or declaring his right, and that, therefore, the vendee in the present case was entitled to claim interest up to the date upon which the said year of grace expired and the purchase by him was complete.

10 M. I. App. 340 ; I. L. R. VI All. 344, and No. 57 P. R. 1888, referred to. BUR SINGH v. SOHEL SINGH.

121 P R 1894

40. Foreclosure of mortgage—Notice—Regulation XVII of 1806, sections 7, 8—Limitation Act, 1877, 2nd Schedule, articles 135, 143, and section 23—Failure to pay interest under mortgage-deed—Continuing breach of contract—Waiver.

A mortgage-deed, which was executed on the 26th March 1878 for a period of six years provided that if interest for any year was not paid, the mortgagee might eject the mortgagor and take possession. Plaintiff contended that his suit, which was instituted on 4th December 1895, was within time under either article 135 or article 143 of the Limitation Act, 1877, on the ground that limitation ran from the last failure to pay interest in 1883 or 1884, and not from the date of the first default which was more than 15 years before suit.

Held, that the obligation to pay interest annually was of "a recurring kind," and that the failure to do so did not amount to a continuing breach of the contract within the meaning of section 23 of the Limitation Act, 1877.

Held, therefore, that plaintiff's cause of action arose on the date of the first default in paying interest, and that the suit was barred.

Held, further, following No. 123 P. R. 1894, that a notice of foreclosure which did not contain the words "in the manner provided for by section 7 of Regulation XVII of 1806," was not a valid notice of foreclosure within the terms of section 8 of the said Regulation. ACHHAR MAL v. HUKMAN.

28 P R 1897

41. Mortgage—Alleged waiver of right to demand interest—Stipulation that on breach of contract interest should be payable from date of execution of mortgage-deed—Penalty.

Held, following I. L. R. II All. 863, that the most cogent and conclusive proof must be demanded to establish that a party to a contract has abandoned a right accruing to him on breach and has entered into some fresh parol agreement condoning such breach and creating new relations with the party in default.

INTEREST—contd.

Found, on the evidence, that the original mortgagee, since deceased, had waived his right to demand interest in respect of the first three instalments due under the mortgage-deed, but that there had been no such waiver on the part of his representatives in interest in respect of the fourth instalment.

Held, therefore, that the mortgagee was entitled to claim interest from the date of default in the payment of the fourth instalment.

Under the terms of the contract interest was to be payable on default from the date of the execution of the deed and not from that of the breach of the contract.

Held, that such a stipulation was in the nature of a penalty and should not be given effect to. I. L. R. XIII Calc. 164, followed. LAKHMI DAS v. SARUP SINGH. 39 P R 1899

42. Method of taking accounts—Interest. The method of taking accounts between mortgagor and mortgagee should be in accordance with the principles laid down at page 550 (7th Edition) of Macpherson on "Mortgages." GANDA MAL v. THAKAR HARKISHEN. 3 P R 1900

43. Implied agreement to pay interest—No objection to notice on contract—Promise to pay.

Held, that the fact that a customer signed order forms and received bills headed with the printed words "Terms one month's credit, interest at 12 per cent. charged on expiry," was not sufficient evidence of a promise to pay interest. EDULJI AND CO. v. MCDONALD. 55 P R 1901

44. Contract Act, 1872, sections 16, 74—Undue influence—Penalty—Unconscionable bargain—Interest.

Held, that the mere fact that the rate of interest was high is insufficient to raise a presumption of undue influence such as is contemplated in section 16 of the Contract Act. When under the terms of a bond the interest chargeable cannot be regarded as a penalty, the term of the bond must be enforced. Indian Courts cannot interfere at discretion merely on the ground that a bargain is hard and unconscionable. BULAKI MAL v. ACRES. 96 P R 1901

45. Interest—Absence of express agreement to pay interest—Implied agreement—Suit for balance due at dissolution of partnership and the adjustment of partnership account—Acts XXXII of 1839 and XXVIII of 1855.

In a case for the recovery of the amount due on account of balance struck by the defendants, where no express or implied agreement to pay interest was proved, and in the absence of evidence that by usage interest was chargeable and where the requirements of Act XXXII of 1839 had not been satisfied, held, that interest should not be awarded as damages.

INTEREST—contd.

Kalmalammal v. Peeru Meera Levai Rowthen (I. L. R. XX Mad. 481), cited. Sheo Chand v. Chunna (73 P. R. 1892) and Rukun Din v. Rikhi Kesh (36 P. R. 1894) distinguished. BURA AND ANOTHER v. MAILIA SHAH. 104 P R 1901

46. Mortgage—Interest—Post diem interest—Absence of covenant to pay interest after a certain date when the mortgage if not redeemed was to become a usufructuary one—Damages—Construction of document.

On 16th June 1886 certain land was mortgaged to the plaintiff on the condition that the mortgagors will redeem in one year paying the principal debt and interest and in case of default the mortgagee will be competent to take possession of the land in lieu of the principal sum and interest. The mortgagors having failed to pay the amount due under the mortgage the plaintiff filed a suit in 1898 for possession of the land in lieu of principal and interest up to that date.

Held, that as the mortgage was to be a simple one for the period of one year and if not redeemed by that time was to be converted into a usufructuary one with possession, and that as there was no express indication in the deed that after the expiration of the year the mortgagee was to be at liberty to wait as long as he pleased before taking possession, the plaintiff was not entitled to any interest after due date.

Ghasita Mal v. Ishar Das (8 P. R. 1890), Sheo Chand v. Chunna (73 P. R. 1892), and Mathura Das v. Raja Narindar Bahadur (I. L. R. XIX All. 39), referred to. MOHAN LAL v. MUKIM AND OTHERS. 114 P R 1901

47. Mortgage—Suit for redemption—Interest—Post diem interest—Damages—Rights of mortgagee—Charge upon mortgaged property.

In a suit for redemption on a deed of mortgage which did not specifically provide for post diem interest or make such interest a charge upon the property mortgaged.

Held, that as a mortgagor's right of redemption only arises on payment of the mortgage money which includes both principal and interest, a mortgage can only be redeemed on payment of the principal, and the interest specifically contracted for, that post diem interest by way of damages (accrued within six years of suit) may notwithstanding the absence of any covenant for the payment of post diem interest in the mortgage deed be allowed and that such interest is also a charge on the property mortgrged.

Radha Kishen v. Muhamdu (57 P. R. 1888), Kamra v. Bishambar Das (147 P. R. 1890), Sheo Chand v. Chunna (73 P. R. 1892), Bur Singh v. Sohel Singh (121 P. R. 1894), Sardar Umrao Singh v. Sardar Thakar Singh (77 P. R. 1898), Muthura Das v. Raja Narindar Bahadur (I. L. R. XIX All. 39, P. C.), Moti Singh v. Ramohari Singh (I. L. R. XXIV Calc. 699), and Bikramji Tewari v. Durga Dyal Tewari (I. L. R. XXI Calc. 274), referred to.

INTEREST—contd.

Gudri Koer v. Bhubaneshwari Coomar Singh (I. L. R. XIX Calc. 19), Bhagwant Singh v. Daryao Singh (I. L. R. XI All. 416), Sri Niwas Ram Pande v. Udit Narain Misr (I. L. R. XIII All. 330), Ghasita Mal v. Ishwar Das (8 P. R. 1890), and Mohan Lal v. Mukim (14 P. R. 1901), not followed. JAWAHIR MAJ v. RAJA SHAH. 95 P R 1902

48. Interest—Compound interest—Penalty—Contract Act, 1872, section 74.

Held, that a stipulation in a bond for the payment of compound interest at the same rate as that payable on the principal is not necessarily a penalty within the meaning of section 74 of the Indian Contract Act.

Ganga Dayal v. Rachchu Lal and another (I. L. R. XXV All. 26), Janki Das v. Ahmad Husain Khan (I. L. R. XXV All. 161), and Rameswar Prosad Singh v. Rai Sham Kishen (I. L. R. XXIX Calc. 51), referred to and followed. MUL SINGH v. KISHAN GOPAL. 58 P R 1904

49. Contract—Power of Court to withhold interest simply because the debtor was a zemindar.

A suit for possession of certain land on two mortgage-deeds was dismissed by the first Court on the grounds that the deeds had been executed under undue influence and that there was no consideration for them. The Divisional Judge on appeal reversed the findings of the first Court and gave plaintiff a decree to the effect that he should have possession unless the principal amount advanced was paid to him by a certain date, but he disallowed interest simply because the debtor was a zemindar. On further appeal being preferred by the plaintiff it appeared from the evidence taken on remand that not only was there no undue influence, but the terms regarding the interest and the rates agreed upon were by no means unfair or extortionate.

Held, that although transactions between banias and zemindars require to be strictly scrutinised, yet in cases where it is not shown that the zemindar had been over reached or that he had agreed to terms merely because the bania had been able to exercise undue influence over him or where the terms of the contract are neither inequitable nor oppressive, the Courts in India are not competent to decline to enforce the terms of the contract in its entirety on the sole ground that one of the party is a zamindar. HEM RAJ v. KHUDA BAKHSH. 13 P R 1905

50. Interest—Agreement for payment of interest up to the date of repayment of the mortgage debt—Rights of mortgagee to claim interest at the stipulated rate after due date.

By a registered deed of mortgage it was agreed that the mortgage debt secured thereby would be repaid within a year, but that the mortgagor should be responsible to pay interest at the rate stated therein up to the date of the repayment of the mortgage money. Default having been made the mortgagee brought a suit some ten years after the date fixed for redemption and claimed payment of the principal with interest at the rate stated in the deed for the entire period of non-payment. The lower Courts on the objection of the defence held that under his contract the mortgagee was only entitled to interest at the rate specified therein up to the date fixed for redemption and post diem interest by way of damages for a period of six years.

INTEREST—contd.

Held, that as the covenant with regard to interest was independent of the covenant for the repayment of the mortgage money, and as there was a rate fixed for interest, the mortgagee was entitled to claim it at the stipulated rate for the entire period the mortgage debt remained unliquidated.

Sardar Umrao Singh v. Sardar Thakar Singh (77 P. R. 1898), cited. RADHA KISHEN v. KARIM-ULLA. 92 P R 1905

51. Interest—Vendor and purchaser—Purchaser bound to pay interest on purchase-money withheld by him.

Held, that a purchaser at a sale in insolvency proceedings of immovable property who is put into possession and fails to pay the purchase-money, is liable to pay interest to the vendor on the amount unpaid up to date of payment. SARAN AND COMPANY v. BASHESHAR NATH. 148 P R 1907

52. Interest—Express and implied agreement to pay interest—Promise to pay—Power of Court to interfere—Act XXVIII of 1855, section 2.

Held that when a certain rate of interest is agreed upon by the parties either by express or implied agreement, the Courts have no power to interfere with such rate and are bound to allow the rate as agreed upon if the contract is not otherwise invalid.

Held further, that in a suit relating to balance of accounts where no express agreement to pay interest at a stipulated rate had been agreed upon and where from the facts it appeared that even the accounts were not made up yearly but only two balances had been struck during the course of six years and where all dealings between the parties after the last balance had been discontinued, there was no implication that the debtor contracted to pay interest at the same rate which had been charged to him when the previous balances were struck. RAGHU MAL v. BANDU. 110 P R 1908

53. Held, that the English Statute as to judgments carrying interest does not apply to India, nor does such a case fall within the scope of Act XXXII of 1889, and a plaintiff suing on a foreign judgment cannot, therefore, recover more than appears on the face of the judgment. RAM CHAND v. BARTLETT. 75 P R 1909

54. Interest—Hundis silent as to interest—separate oral agreement inadmissible—Evidence Act, I of 1872, section 92—Negotiable Instruments Act, XXVI of 1881, section 80.

INTEREST—concld.

Plaintiffs sued defendant for the recovery of the principal amounts due upon several hoondees, together with interest due thereon at the rate of Rs. 1-4-0 per cent. per mensem, alleging that, although the instruments were silent as to interest, the latter was recoverable under a separate oral agreement.

Held, that evidence as to the separate oral agreement was inadmissible under section 92 of the Evidence Act, proviso 2 to the section not being applicable to the case, and that interest could only be allowed at the rate of Rs. 6 per cent. per annum under section 80 of the Negotiable Instruments Act. KISHOR CHAND v. GURANDITTA MAL. 52 P R 1911

INTERLOCUTORY ORDER.

1. Interlocutory order—Revision.
See ARBITRATION. 94 P R 1894
REVISION IN CIVIL CASES. 51 P R 1899

2. Review of—Application made to Judges other than Judge who passed original order.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XLVII, R. 2. 7 P R 1894

3. Revision of interlocutory order when appeal lies from final decree—Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 70 (a).
See REVISION IN CIVIL CASES. 31 P R 1902

4 Revision of interlocutory order where an appeal lies from final decree—Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 70 (1) (a).
See REVISION IN CIVIL CASES. 64 P R 1905

5. Interlocutory decision of lower Court not reversed on appeal, how far binding on appellate Court on appeal from a final order in same proceeding.

Held, that though a decision by a competent Court in an execution proceeding that an application for execution is not time-barred is, unless reversed on appeal conclusive between the parties in a subsequent proceeding for execution of the same decree, such decision is not binding upon an Appellate Court on an appeal from a final order in the same proceeding, merely because the interlocutory order was not appealed from immediately. IV B. L. R. (F. B.) p. 101; I. L. R. VIII. Calc. 51; and No. 200 P. R. 1889, referred to. SARDAR v. FATEH CHAND. 89 P R 1894

INTERNATIONAL LAW.

1. Suit for damages for malicious prosecution—Cause of action accruing in foreign State, but suit instituted in British India—Discharge of plaintiff in former proceedings.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 4. 4 P R 1897

2. Decree passed in absentum and exparte by Foreign Court.
See FOREIGN JUDGMENT. 112 P R 1894

3. Hundi drawn at Jammu in foreign territory but payable in British territory—Act of State—Jurisdiction of British Courts to take cognizance of an act done by a foreign State in the exercise of its sovereign powers and not professing to be justified by Municipal law.

INTERNATIONAL LAW—concld.

Plaintiff sued upon a hundi drawn in his favour at Jummu, Kashmir territory, but payable at Sialkot, the defendant being the drawer and the suit being instituted in the Court of the Subordinate Judge, Sialkot, The claim having been decreed, the defendant appealed to the Chief Court and contended that he had already discharged his liability under the hundi, inasmuch as before the suit was brought he had been compelled by the Kashmir Government, which had in its executive capacity confiscated all properties belonging to the plaintiff within its territory to pay over to it the amount due on the said hundi.

Held, per Rivaz, J. that as the defendant had been compelled by the Government of a foreign State, of which he was a subject acting purely in its executive capacity to pay over to it the amount due on the hundi, such payment was conclusive as between the parties and discharged defendant's liability.

Held, further, per Rivaz, J. that the British Courts had no jurisdiction to question the legality of an act done by a foreign State in the exercise of its sovereign powers and not professing to be justified by Municipal law.

Per BENTON, J.—Though the debt was a liability to be discharged outside Kashmir territory, viz., at Sialkot, the law applicable to it was the law of the Kashmir State, the lex loci contractus, and there was every reason to believe that the obligation was validly discharged according to the law and usage of that State in consequence of the order of the supreme authority in the State appropriating to itself the debt due from the defendant to the plaintiff.

No. 36 P. R. 1877 (reported on appeal to the Privy Council as No. 7 P. R. 1882), and I. L. R. V Mad. 273, cited and followed. GHOLU SHAH v. PANDIT KIRPA SHANKAR. 21 P R 1894

INTERPRETATION OF DOCUMENTS.

See CONSTRUCTION OF DOCUMENTS.

IRREGULARITY.

1. Immaterial.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, S. 15, O. XXVI, R. 10. 184 P R 1888

2. Material. 161 P R 1882
See MATERIAL IRREGULARITY.
REVISION.

3. In publishing or conducting execution—sale.
See under EXECUTION OF DECREE.
See also SALE IN EXECUTION OF DECREE. 47 P R 1905

IRRIGATION.

See CUSTOM XIII—WELLS.
NORTHERN INDIA CANAL AND DRAINAGE ACT, 1873.

1. Share in well for irrigating agricultural land—Land suit—Course of appeal.
See APPEAL III.—COURSE OF APPEAL. 62 P R 1891

1477

IRRIGATION—concld.

2. Right to use of water—Land suit—Appeal.

See APPEAL II.—COMPETENCY OF.
1 P R 1892 F B

3. Claim by one village to bring a Canal out across defendant's villages.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 114 P R 1888

4. Right of occupancy tenant to sink well without his landlord's consent—Wajib-ul-arz—Custom.

Plaintiffs, the proprietors, sued for a perpetual injunction against their occupancy tenants, the defendants, to the effect that they should not build a pakka well in their land without their consent. The clause in the agreement of occupancy rights was as follows:—"If any well is constructed at "our expense to irrigate the fields after "obtaining the consent of the owner of the "land, it will belong to us while the land "remains in our cultivation and possession, "but if we are ejected from the land for "any cause, we shall have no claim for the "cost of construction or for the well." It was not proved that any custom existed allowing tenants to sink wells without their landlords' consent.

Held, that the plaintiffs were entitled to a decree. The Wajib-ul-arz on its true construction did not contemplate that tenants could build wells without the landlords' consent, but the provision was intended to narrow to the smallest compass the rights of those tenants who build with consent, and it was unnecessary to provide for cases without consent which could not arise. C. A. No. 815 of 1869 (unpublished). C. A. No. 161 of 1874 (unpublished) and Puran v. Beja (No. 73 P. R. 1870, Civil) cited. WAJID ALI KHAN v. GOUNSA.
66 P R 1887

5. Right to use of water—Natural stream.

In the case of a natural stream flowing through several owners' lands, the persons through whose lands it passes are all entitled to a reasonable use of the water, and in the absence of evidence as to the exact shares enjoyed, the presumption is that they are equal. AHMAD ALI v. MALIK HASHU.
49 P R 1888

6. Irrigation—Sinking wells by persons other than owners of land—Mauza Bhukkar—tahsil and district Shahpur—Claim by owners of the fabric of a well to share in its water.

The plaintiffs in this case claimed a right to irrigate their lands from a certain well on the ground that they were assignees of certain sharers in the fabric of the well. Defendants denied their right to do so.

Held, that by the custom prevailing at mauza Bhukkar in the Shahpur District and the neighbourhood generally, persons other than the owners of the land irrigable by a well may contribute to the cost of sinking a well as a speculation on the understanding that they can let their share of the water to others who require it for lands irrigable by the well. TAHIR v. GHULAM.
168 P R 1889

1478

ISSUES.

1. Divorce Act (IV of 1869), Sections 12, 14—Omission by Court to frame issues—Defective investigation—Countercharges—Duty of Court before pronouncing decree nisi.

See DIVORCE. 130 P R 1879

2. Duty of Court to frame issues.

Plaintiffs sued defendant, a surety, the principal debtor not having paid. Defendant in the original court pleaded that the debt was barred by limitation; to meet this plea, plaintiffs put in evidence several letters written by defendant, which, plaintiffs contended, admitted his liability. The letters throughout also showed that defendant had pressed plaintiffs to sue the principal debtor, and that he continued to point out to them, that by their forbearing to sue, they were allowing their remedy against him to become lost by his departure from India, &c. The original court framed an issue only as to whether the suit against the surety (defendant) was barred by limitation, and treating his letters as admissions of liability, decreed for the plaintiffs. This decree was affirmed on appeal by the Commissinner. On appeal to the Chief Court, held, that it was the duty of a Court under the Civil Procedure Code to frame issues representing all the points really in contest; and that it was a question in the case, as to which an issue should have been framed by the original Court, whether the plaintiffs by their acts or omissions with regard to the principal debtor, had not discharged the surety. Case remanded. MORICE v. THE SIMLA BANK.
44 P R 1876

3. Case tried without proper issues being framed—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, Section 147.

Held, that the omission to frame an issue is not fatal to the trial of a case, especially where the parties had gone to trial well knowing what the real question between them was and had produced evidence in respect thereof. HOTI LAL v. MUSSAMMAT RAM PIARI. 77 P R 1903

ISTAMRARI ESTATE.

1. See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 1 P R 1876

2. Istamrari estate of Nawab of Karnal—Alienability of such estate—Interest of Istamrardar—Power to charge estate in hands of his successor—Such estate not assets by inheritance—Debtor and creditor—Father and son joining in charging istamrari estate for benefit of father—Consideration—Undue influence—Liablity of son—Free consent—Ratification.

Held, by the Full Bench, that the interest of an Istamrardar belonging to the Mandal family of Karnal, is such that he cannot make a charge on the Istamrari estate to take effect beyond his own life, as each istamrardar taking an interest in the estate granted by two Sanads of 1806, takes it under the grant itself, as a member of a class for whose benefit the grants were made, namely the heirs of the original grantees and not from his immediate predecessor in title.

1479

ISTAMRARI ESTATE—contd.

Held, further, by the Full Bench, that a charge specifically created by an istamrardar on the istamrari estate does not bind the estate after his death in the hands of his successor, nor is such estate in the hands of such successor assets by inheritance liable for the debts of the predecessor, though not specifically charged thereon, as each istamrardar takes the estate directly under the Sanad from the Government as grantee and not from the person whom he succeeds taking through that person but not from him.

Plaintiff, the present Nawab of Karnal, and son of the late Nawab, joined with his father in executing in 1878 an instrument in favour, of the defendant, a money-lender the amount secured by which was Rs. 13,400 bearing interest at 12 per cent. per annum, and which was assigned as security for payment of the revenue of the village of the part of the istamrari grant above alluded to, made to the plaintiff's ancestors, the annual revenue of which village was estimated at Rs. 1,960. Plaintiff claimed to be absolved from all liablity under this instrument on the ground of undue influence and other grounds. while the defendant denied that undue influence had been used, and alleged (inter alia) that plaintiff had ratified the instrument. It appeared that on the date when the plaintiff executed the instrument in suit, the sum of Rs. 13,400 was due to the defendant from the plaintiff's father, but not from the plaintiff, and that he was prior to be execution of the deed under no legal liability to pay any portion of that sum to the defendant. It further appeared that at the date of the execution of the said instrument, the plaintiff was a young man barely above the age of minority, and dependent on his father, after whose death, if he survived, he would succeed under a grant from Government to a life interest in the istamrari villages enjoyed by his father one of which was D., so that the plaintiff without any consideration either from the defendant or his father for his act, executed the instrument in question, in which he acknowledged Rs. 13,400 to be due from him and his father jointly, and assigned the revenue of village D. to liquidate the debt with interest at 12 per cent. per annum.

Held, by the Division Bench that plaintiff was entitled to obtain a declaration that the instrument in question was not binding upon him personally or against his interest in the village of D., the effect, if any, of the said instrument against him as the heir of his father not being affected as between him and the defendant by the foregoing declaration, unless it appeared that he had subsequently ratified and confirmed the instrument (which was found as a fact not to be established), as there was enough in the circumstance stated to warrant the inference that the plaintiff did not freely consent to the liabilities created by the instrument, and that his consent was due to undue influence of which the creditor had notice. PIARI LAL v. NAWAB MUHAMMAD AZIM ALI KHAN.

ISTAMRARI ESTATE—concld.

72 P R 1889 F. B.

J.

JAGIR.

See ISTAMRARI ESTATE. 72 P R 1889

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS. 13 P R 1896 Rev 1 P R 1897 Rev

1. Resumption of rent free land by the British Government in 1849—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts.

See ACT OF STATE. 1 P R 1875 P C

2. Liability of jagir income to attachment.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 60, CLAUSE (g.) 133 P R 1888

3. Right of Mafidar to share in shamilat.

See COMMON LAND. 45 P R 1867 44 P R 1868

4. Occupancy rights in common land—Jagirdar—Pattidari village.

See COMMON LAND. 1 P R 1899 Rev.

5. "Immovable property" definition of —Benefit to arise out of land—Jagir income —Limitation for a suit based on a bond hypothecating Jagir income.

See GENERAL CLAUSES ACT, 1868, SECTION 2. 4 P R 1894

6. Settlement of mafi tenure—Jurisdiction

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 25 P R 1872 36 P R 1874

7. Grant of land revenue—Suit for.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 9 P R 1875

8. Grant of land revenue—Alluvial Deposits.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 10 P R 1875

9. Suit by a jagirdar of a village for a declaration that he was entitled during the continuance of the jagir to levy from the proprietors a share of the produce in lieu of revenue in cash as fixed at settlement.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 53 P R 1890

10. Succession to jagir—Mutation—Appeal.

See PUNJAB LAND REVENUE ACT, 1887, SECTION 13. 12 P R 1891 Rev.

11. Suit for jagir income retained wrongfully by one of several shares—Course of appeal.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 11. 2 P R 1900

12. Suit to recover arrears of jagir by grantee from Government—Periodically recurring rights—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 120. 83 P R 1906

JAGIR—contd.

13. Assignment of land revenue for benefit of shrine—Pension.

See PENSIONS' ACT XXIII OF 1871. 27 P R 1878

14. Occupancy rights—Jagirdar—Mafidar.

See TENANCY ACT XXVIII OF 1868. 12 P R 1878

15. Rent in Cash and Kind.

In the absence of an order at time of settlement, the proprietors cannot insist upon paying revenue in cash to the jagirdar, when they have always before settlement paid in kind PUNDIT MOTEE LAL v. UTTRA. 7 P R 1867 Rev

16. Enhancement of revenue.

Suit by a jagirdar for enhancement of revenue, owing to new land being rendered culturable by the drying up of a jheel. Held, that as the land in question was recorded as unculturable, and no provision was made for such a contingency at the last settlement, the jagirdar could not during its currency demand increased revenue. The alluvion rules of Financial Commissioner's Circular No. 42 of 1860 held not applicable. NAWAB MAHOMED ALI KHAN v. ISHK LALL. 1 P R 1868

17. Consent of proprietors.

A jagirdar cannot enforce payment of his revenue in grain without the proprietor's consent. Orders as to payment of revenue held to be administrative and open to revision. MULLIK FUTTEH SHER KHAN v. MULLIK SHER BAHADOOR KHAN. 6 P R 1868 Rev.

18. Assignee of jagirdar—Consent of proprietors.

Defendant derived his title as mafidar from the jagirdar of the whole village, who drew his revenue in cash. Defendant drew it in kind up to the settlement of 1857, when cash rates were recorded. Held, that without the consent of the proprietors, the defendant was bound, as the jagirdar would be, to draw the revenue in cash. BALRAM DASS v. GUNGA RAM.

1 P R 1869

19. Where it was agreed between the parties that the proprietary right in the land claimed should follow the limitations of the mafi grant;

Held, that a limitation of the right, for the life of the mafidar only, was not a true construction of the agreement. AMEER BUX v. SOOKHA RAM. 2 P R 1870 Rev.

20. Jagirdar and Zemindar—Reclamation of forest land—Wajib-ul-arz—Construction of.

Within the area of plaintiff's jagir there was a tract of jungle which was not assessed. Defendants, the zemindars between whom and the jagirdar the settlement was made subsequently reclaimed and brought under cultivation a portion of the jungle. Plaintiff claimed a share of the value of the produce of this reclaimed land. The wajib-ul-arz provided that any one taking wood for sale from the jungle should pay tax to the jagirdar; that the residents of the village might graze their cattle in the jungle free of charge, and take dry wood therefrom for domestic purposes; that the zemindars had the right to cut down the forest and jungle for the purpose of bringing the land under cultivation without the consent of the jagirdar, in which case the proprietary rights in the land would vest entirely in the zemindars. Held, that in the absence of any custom to the contrary, the jagirdar, who was not a proprietor, could not claim a share of the produce of the land reclaimed from the jungle by the zemindars; that the zemindars were entitled to proprietary possession, and the jagirdar only entitled to the income from the jungle and forest tract so long as it existed. SIRDAR RUNJEET SINGH v. KHODA BUKSH.

JAGIR—contd.

53 P R 1870

21. Where a jagir was limited to A and "the heirs male of his body lawfully begotten," held, that sons made legitimate by acknowledgment under Muhammadan law, were included. MUSSAMMAT LALLI BEGUM v. NAWAB MAHOMED AZMAT ALI KHAN.

13 P R 1875

22. Suit for land-revenue.—Hak mahsul —Cash assessment.

Plaintiffs who were the jagirdars of mauza Mirzapore in the Mooltan District and also part owners (adna maliks) of the village, sued the defendants who were their kinsmen and the owners of the remainder of the estate for the sum alleged to be the land-revenue due for the year 1940 Sambat contending that they were entitled to take as the revenue the share of the batai known as "hak mahsul," which it appeared was the name in use for the portion of the crop which in Sikh days was taken by the State. It appeared from the assessment proceedings that a cash land revenue had been assessed on the village, which had been computed and arrived at in the same way that it would have been in a khalsa mauza.

Held, (upholding the orders of the lower Courts) that as between the jagirdars and the proprietors, the cash assessment, which was the true land-revenue of the village, was the measure of the plaintiffs' rights. NAWAB MUHAMMAD RABNAWAZ KHAN v. NAWAB HAFIZ ABDULLA KHAN. 28 P R 1888

23. Land Revenue Acts, XXXIII of 1871, sections 16, 19, 30, and XVII of 1887, sections 37, 44, 61—Jagirdars and landowners—Settlement with whom to be made —Presumption of correctness of entry in record as to who are the landowners—Power to alter entries in record—Correction of record and decision on claim of landowners to be settled with, not to be included in same proceeding.

Under section 30 of the Land Revenue Act of 1871 when land revenue is assessed, the settlement should be offered to the landowners; but neither under the Land Revenue Act of 1871, nor under the Act of 1887, does any Revenue Officer, engaged in making an assessment, possess any authority to decide the issue who are the landowners, independently, and without reference to the record of rights, in districts where a record of right exists. Both by section 16 of the Act of 1871 and section 44 of the Act of 1887, the Revenue Officer is bound to presume that those persons are the landowners who are entered as such in the record of rights.

JAGIR—contd.

Section 19 of the Land Revenue Act of 1871, and section 37 of the Act of 1887, which define the circumstances under which entries in the record of rights may be altered, do not give to the Revenue Officer authority to make an alteration converting a jagirdar into a landowner, and then refusing to allow the landowner, entered in the record of rights, to engage for the revenue, except with the consent of the parties, or pursuant to a decree, or in order to make the record agree with facts which have occurred since it was made.

The two operations of correcting an entry, in the record of rights or in the annual record and of deciding on the claim of a person as landowner to be liable for the revenue, cannot properly be included in the same proceeding; that person is liable for the land revenue (section 61, Act XVII of 1887; section 30, Act XXXIII of 1871) who is recorded in the records as landowner; if those records are to be altered, this must be done by a separate application and proceeding.

The rule laid down in section 61 of the Act of 1887 applies to all cases in which land revenue is assessed; equally to general re-assessments and to special assessments. MOUWAZ KHAN v. MAHANT GANESH DAS.

4 P R 1888 Rev.

24. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1877, section 5, sub-section (1) (a)—Occupancy rights—Jagirdar under grant from Sikh—Government.

Held, that the holder of a jagir granted in A. D. 1809 by an officer of the Sikh Government on behalf of that Government and resumed by the British Government at annexation was a "jagirdar" within the meaning of section 5, sub-section (1) (d), Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, which confers, under the circumstances specified therein, rights of occupancy on persons who have been jagirdars of the lands occupied by them. NATHU AND LALJI v. ATMA RAM.

2 P R 1892 Rev.

25. Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 48, sub-section (2)—Collection of land revenue in cash or in kind—Right of jagirdar when, and when not, an owner in the estate.

The Punjab Land Revenue Act, XVII of 1887, contains a provision, viz., section 48, sub-section (2), which did not form part of the old Revenue Law (Act XXXIII of 1871), to the effect that "land revenue may be assessed in cash or in kind, or partly in cash and partly in kind, as the Local Government may direct."

According to the instructions issued by the Local Government (cf. P. R. No. 2, 1889, Rev.) a Settlement Officer is bound to assess every estate to a cash assessment even when held in jagir, and to offer such settlement to the owners.

The only consideration which justifies the making of a settlement with a jagirdar is the fact of his being in some sense owner of the lands. The laxity which prevailed in the early days of Punjab administration in this respect is no longer permissible under the existing Revenue law, which provides that every estate is to be assessed and the settlement offered to the owners.

JAGIR—contd.

If the estate is held in jagir by a jagirdar who is not the owner, he is only entitled to the Government demand. If he has any rights of ownership, these rights are not affected by a re-assessment of the revenue. and under section 61 of the Land Revenue Act, 1887, the settlement may (subject to rule 208) be offered to him.

Collections of the Government revenue in kind are no longer permitted, but a jagirdar who is also proprietor, and who as jagirdar has permission (rule 226) to collect the revenue assigned to him, may without impropriety be permitted to continue collections in kind, where these have been customary.

A jagirdar who is not owner, even if permitted to collect his revenue, must collect it from the headman empowered to collect it from the landowners (rule 226) if such revenue is payable in cash.

Found, also upon the evidence, that the respondent (the jagirdar) had not established any title to be considered the owner of the estate. NANDU v. MALLA SINGH.

14 P R 1892 Rev.

26. Suit by occupancy tenants for commutation of rent—"Rent"—Village held in jagir—Dues in kind paid by tenants partly to landlords partly to jagirdar.

Previous to the recent settlement, plaintiffs, who were occupancy tenants in a village held in jagir, used to pay dues in kind on account of their tenancy partly to the landlords and partly (viz., that portion representing the revenue demand) to the jagirdar direct. At the settlement which was made with the defendants, the proprietors, the jagirdar was declared entitled to a cash assessment. Subsequently plaintiffs sued to have it declared that they were entitled to pay rent in cash instead of in kind as heretofore The proprietors refused to agree to this arrangement; but the Commissioner, on appeal, held that as regards at least that portion which represented the revenue demand, plaintiffs were entitled to pay in cash instead of in kind.

Held, that the whole payment made previously to the settlement by plaintiffs to defendants and the jagirdar was "rent,"—the—jagirdar's portion of such rent being received by him direct from plaintiffs only as a matter of convenience to all parties,—and that, therefore, no portion of such rent could be commuted without the consent of the defendants MOKHA v. NUR DIN.

3 P R 1895 Rev.

27. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 4 (15) and 5 (i), (d)—Occupancy rights—Continuous occupation of twenty years—"Jagirdar" and "Mafidar."

The definition of jagirdar in section 4 (15) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, includes a muafidar.

JAGIR—contd.

In a claim for occupancy rights the continuous occupation of twenty years, referred to in section 5 (i), (d), of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, may be partly occupation by a jagirdar as such, and partly occupation by the same person or his representative as a tenant when he has ceased to be a jagirdar. JODH SINGH v. KISHEN SINGH.

8 P R 1896 Rev.

28. Occupancy rights—Grant of muafi to ala-lambardar in virtue of his office—Ala-lambardar joint owner of such land—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 4 (7), (13), (15), 5 (1) (d), 10, 11—"Tenant"—Custom—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, section 5 (4), 9—Pattidari village—Impure Pattidari village.

In 1864 a grant of part of the shamilatdeh was made by an officer of Government in favour of J. S., father of H. S., in remuneration for his services as ala-lambardar. On the death of J. S., in 1880, S. H. succeeded as ala-lambardar and muafidar, but in 1891 the proprietors applied for partition, which was effected and duly sanctioned in 1893, whereupon H. S. instituted the present suits to contest notices of ejectment issued by the different proprietors into whose possessions the said muafis had come. J. S., and after him H. S., were joint owners of the lands in dispute, and it was proved that H. S., by himself and by his father before him, had continuously occupied the same since 1865. It was contended that H. S. was not liable to ejectment, inasmuch as he had acquired occupancy rights both under the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and under the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868.

Held, that inasmuch as H. S. was a joint owner of land, he could not, under section 10 of the present Tenancy Act, acquire occupancy rights in the land in suit otherwise than by virtue of a special custom.

Found, that no such special custom had been proved in the present case.

Held, further, that as there was nothing in the Tenancy Act of 1868 corresponding to section 4 (7) of the present Act, which defines "tenant" as including the predecessor in interest of the present tenant, H. S., who had not by himself been separately in continuous possession of the land for twenty years had not acquired occupancy rights therein under the said Tenancy Act of 1868 at the time when the present Act came into force.

When a son succeeds his father in the ala-lambardarship, the muafi and in cultivating occupancy, the father is the predecessor in interest of the son within the meaning of section 4 (7) of the Tenancy Act, 1887.

When an ala-lambardar, to whom a grant of muafi had been made in remuneration of his services, continues, after resumption of such muafi to hold on as cultivator, he is a "tenant" holding under the proprietors, and is also a "village officer" within the meaning of section 4 (13), and a "jagirdar" within the meaning of section 4 (15) of the Tenancy Act, 1887, if the land revenue has been assigned to him in whole or in part by the Government or by an officer of the Government. And if such ala-lambardar has, at the date of suit, continuously occupied for twenty years the land so allotted to him not being himself a joint owner of such land, he is entitled to occupancy rights under section 5 (1) (d) of the said Act.

1486

JAGIR—contd.

Section 9 of the Punjab Tenancy Act. 1898, must be strictly construed, and therefore does not apply to the case of a village which is pattidari ghair mukamal. LAHNA SINGH v. HIRA SINGH. 1 P R 1897 Rev.

29. Occupancy rights—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 4 (5), 5 (1) (d)—"Jagirdar"—"Government"—Grant of muafi originally made by Moghal Emperors—Financial Commissioner's Circular No. $\frac{13}{28}$ of 1865.

Plaintiffs claimed occupancy rights upon the allegations that they were jagirdars within the meaning of section 4 (15) of the Tenancy Act, 1887 of a certain muafi which they had held jointly with the descendants of one H., to whom the said muafi had been sanctioned in perpetuity by the British Government in 1887, and that they were therefore entitled, under section 5 (1) (d) of the Act, to rights of occupancy in certain other lands in the village which they had held continuously for not less than twenty years. It was proved that a share of the said muafi had originally been granted by the Moghal Emperors to plaintiffs' branch of the family, but at the settlement of 1889-90, when the question arose as to whether plaintiffs should be recorded as jagirdars or muafidars the Settlement Officer, acting upon the Financial Commissioner's Circular No. $\frac{13}{28}$ of 1865, refused to record to plaintiffs as such, on the ground that it was undesirable to increase the number of names in which muafis were shown. The lower Court having decreed plaintiff's occupancy rights as prayed for, defendants applied to the Financial Commissioner for revision of the said orders.

Held, that a share of the said muafi having been originally granted to plaintiffs' branch of the family by the Moghal Emperors who were predecessors of the British Government, plaintiffs were jagirdars within the meaning of section 4 (15) of the Tenancy Act, 1887.

Held, further, that it not being necessary that plaintiffs should be jagirdars of the particular land in the village in which the occupancy right was claimed, plaintiffs, as such jagirdars, were entitled to occupancy rights in the said land under section 5 (1) (d) of the Act, and could not be deprived of such rights by the said Circular, which was issued before the passing of even the first Tenancy Act. GANDU v. GANPAT RAI.

2 P R 1897 Rev

30. Jagir—Succession—Grant of Government revenue for life to parties' family in specific shares—Death of one sharer—Suit by the surviving sharer against the son of the deceased for certain instalments wrongfully enjoyed by the latter—Limitation Act,

1487

JAGIR—concld.

1877, Schedule II, article 131—Construction of such grant—Pensions Act, 1871, section 6.

A jagir was granted to the family of the parties for life without any express provisions for survivorship. The jagir was to be divided into ten shares in three separate groups, the defendant's father and the plaintiff being two out of five sharers in group No. 2. The former died in 1868 and his share was peaceably enjoyed by his son until 1898, when the plaintiff filed a suit against the defendant on the allegation that two annual instalments proportionate to the defendant's share had been wrongfully enjoyed by the defendant, who pleaded limitation, and argued that in his presence the plaintiff was not an heir to his father.

Held, that as no demand was made prior to those which immediately preceded this suit, the suit was within limitation under article 131 of the second Schedule of the Limitation Act.

Held, also, that the words ta hin hayat (for life) applied to each group collectively, and not to the members of the group individually, the effect being that the members of each group were entitled to take by survivorship on the death of any member of that group.

Gahna v. Ikhlak Khan (154 P. R. 1889) cited. MUSSAMMAT ZINAT v. MURTAZA KHAN.

108 P R 1901

JAGIRDAR.

See MAFIDAR.

1. Customary right of widow of Jagirdar to obtain maintenance from jagir income.

See CUSTOM VIII J.—MAINTENANCE.

19 P R 1880 Rev.

2. Occupancy rights—Ex-jagirdar—Representative—Continuous possession—Period of 20 years how calculated—Occupation as tenant.

See TENANCY ACT XXVIII OF 1868, SECTION 5. 83 P R 1882

3. Liability of jagir income to attachment.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE.

57 P R 1884

JAINS.

By special custom among Jains of Delhi adoption is a purely secular transaction, and a sonless widow may adopt without any authorisation of her husband.

See CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR —G.—ADOPTION BY WIDOW

95 P R 1909

JAJMAN.

See INJUNCTION. 8 P R 1901

See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS.

JANJRARA.

1. Validity of Janjrara form of marriage—Lalotra Brahmins of the Kangra District.

See CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE, DIVORCE.

113 P R 1885

1488

JANJRARA—concld.

2. Validity of Janjrara form of marriage—Rajputs of Sartora clan of Kangra.

See CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE, DIVORCE.

98 P R 1890

JATS.

Adoption of daughter's son invalid—Custom—Adoption—Muhammadan Jats—Gharhshankar tahsil, Hoshiarpur district—Adoption of daughter's son—presumption against its validity—Riwaj-i-am—consent of nearest collateral—Limitation in suit for possession—Indian Limitation Acts of 1877 and 1908, Schedule II, articles 118 and 144.

Held, following the interpretation in 96 P. R. 1908 of the Privy Council Ruling reported in Tirbhawan v. Rameshar, (1906). I. L. R 28 All. 727 that a suit for possession, where an adoption is set up in defence, is governed by article 144 and not article 118 of the Limitation Acts of 1877 and 1908, and that the Full Bench Ruling in 86 P. R. 1905 must be held to have been overruled by the Privy Council.

Held also, following 50 P. R. 1893 (F. B.) that the general presumption among Jats of the Garhshankar tahsil, Hoshiarpur District, is that the adoption of a daughter's son is invalid, and that no special custom in favour of its validity had been proved, the mere entry in the Riwaj-i am, unsupported by instances being insufficient for the purpose.

Held further, that the consent of the brother of the adoptive father (a sonless man) did not bind the more distant collaterals, the plaintiffs.

44 P R 1911

JIRGA.

—Resolution of—No restriction on jurisdiction of Civil Courts where the provisions of section 10 of the Punjab Frontier Crimes Regulation, 1887, are not acted upon.

See JURISDICTION. 26 P R 1909

JOINDER OF CAUSES OF ACTION.

See CAUSE OF ACTION—MISJOINDER.

1. Plaintiff claiming two kinds of relief in alternative.

See CAUSE OF ACTION V—MISJOINDER..

41 P R 1888

2. Suit against two defendants which united two distinct causes of action in which both the defendants were not jointly interested.

See CAUSE OF ACTION V.—MISJOINDER.

189 P R 1888

3. Multifariousness—Misjoinder of causes of action.

See CAUSE OF ACTION V.—MISJOINDER.

149 P R 1890

4. Misjoinder—Trespass—Separate and independent acts of defendants.

See CAUSE OF ACTION V.—MISJOINDER.

127 P R 1892

JOINDER OF CAUSES OF ACTION—concld.

5. Suit for sum payable as "dhart" and for marriage dues—Claims based on two causes of action, one cognizable by Civil Court, the other cognizable by Revenue Court—Power of Chief Court to deal with part of decree. BUTA v. FAUJA SINGH
See CAUSE OF ACTION No. 38.
28 P R 1894

6. Suit for specific performance of contract to sell and for pre-emption on sale—Distinct subjects.
See CAUSE OF ACTION No. 39.
96 P R 1895

7. Suit to cancel bonds executed in favour of separate parties in respect of the same transaction.
See CAUSE OF ACTION V.—MISJOINDER.
5 P R 1896

8. Misjoinder of parties and causes of action.
See CAUSE OF ACTION V.—MISJOINDER.
43 P R 1897

9. Misjoinder of causes of action—Dissolution of partnership—Partners and representatives of deceased partners are necessary parties to the suit.
See CAUSE OF ACTION V.—MISJOINDER.
62 P R 1897

10. Joint suit by reversioners for possession of undivided property wrongfully withheld by the defendant.
See CAUSE OF ACTION V.—MISJOINDER.
91 P R 1898

11. Joint suit by reversioner on death of widow against various defendants who raised different defences—Suit based on allegation that on the death of the widow the right to possession vested in plaintiff, who was entitled to eject all defendants as trespassers—Misjoinder of causes of action.
See CAUSE OF ACTION V.—MISJOINDER.
24 P R 1899

12. Misjoinder of causes of action—Plaint returned for amendment—Appeal—Suit against several persons each interested in part of the property.
See CAUSE OF ACTION V.—MISJOINDER.
79 P R 1899

JOINDER OF PARTIES.

See PARTIES.

1. Appeal from order rejecting application to set aside execution sale—Omission to implead auction-purchaser as respondent—Effect of such omission.
See APPEAL VI.—PROCEDURE IN,
188 P R 1882

2. Misjoinder of parties and causes of action.
See CAUSE OF ACTION V.—MISJOINDER.
43 P R 1897

JOINDER OF PARTIES—contd.

3. Devolution of interest pending suit.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII. R. 10. 29 P R 1887

4. Joint suit by alleged partners in respect of leases made in the names of certain individual members of an alleged partnership—Omission in plaint to specify grounds entitling plaintiffs to sue jointly in respect of such leases.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 80. 67 P R 1894

5. Suit by one of several co-heirs for his share in an estate—Dismissal of such suit—Subsequent suit by all the heirs for the whole estate—Res-Judicata.
See CO-HEIRS. 2 P R 1882

6. Joinder in suit of the full proprietary body—Rights to common land.
See COMMON LAND. 39 P R 1866
with 103 P R 1866
110 P R 1876
with 18 P R 1867

7. Ejectment—Suit by one of several co-sharers.
See COMMON LAND. 17 P R 1879

8. Suit by one proprietor to ejectment of common land—Joinder of proprietary body.
See COMMON LAND. 99 P R 1883

9. Right of majority of village proprietors to restrain permanent alienation of shamilat.
See COMMON LAND. 7 P R 1885

10. Right of minority of proprietors to maintain suit for ejectment from kothas erected on shamilat.
See COMMON LAND. 54 P R 1886

11. Appropriation by one proprietor of houses built for common purpose—Suit for ouster of such proprietor—Joinder of proprietary body—Will of majority.
See COMMON LAND. 74 P R 1888

12. Co-sharers—Exclusive possession of one—Dispossession—Suit for restoration of possession—Proper parties.
See COMMON LAND. 103 P R 1889

13. Suit on mortgage-bond by one of three persons jointly entitled—Right to sue.
See CONTRACTS. 175 P R 1882

14. Sale to three persons—Shares of vendors specified distinctly, but purchase money for all shares mentioned in lump—Joinder of parties—Indivisible contract.
See CONRACTS. 66 P R 1896

15. Non-joinder as plaintiffs of co-promisees.
See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 45.
159 P R 1889

16. Joinder of parties—After institution of suit—Limitation.

JOINDER OF PARTNER—contd.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877) SECTION 22. 58 P R 1882
104 P R 1882
8 P R 1886

17. Suit by one partner against another for sum alleged to be realized over his share in the outstandings—Omission to implead all the partners.
See PARTNERSHIP. 65 P R 1884

18. Joinder of parties having no joint interest—Single decree against 200 separate tenants—Reversal in appeal as regards some only of the tenants—Effect of modifying the original decree as to all.
See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1887, SECTION 80. 1 P R 1890 Rev.

19. Suit by certificate-holders for half of sum due on a bond—Certificate confined to half of deceased's property—Heirs to other half refusing to join as co-plaintiffs.
See SUCCESSION CERTIFICATE ACT, 1889, SECTION 16. 29 P R 1899

20. In an action for a wrong independent of a contract joinder of all the wrong-doers is not essential. MUKDOOM ALLI v. ISMAIL. 72 P R 1867

21. In a suit by a Hindu husband for a tort to himself and wife, held, that the non-joinder of the wife was an omission cured by section 350, Act VIII of 1859. MUSSAMMAT GOOJREE v. RUTTUN CHUND PUREE. 3 P R 1869

22 Where the rights of another person as well as those of the plaintiff have been contested in the Lower Courts, though the rights of the two are different, the Chief Court will, when no prejudice can occur, join that other person as a party to the suit to prevent further litigation. HEERA SINGH V. SOBHA. 11 P R 1870

23. Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877), section 34—Objection to parties not taken at earliest opportunity—Waiver.

In a suit on a written contract, purporting to be entered into by plaintiff as a principal and not as an agent, defendants objected (after issues had been drawn, and the plaintiff's evidence recorded) that the firm of which plaintiff was the agent should have brought the suit: and the lower Courts, allowing this objection, dismissed the suit, holding that plaintiff had in fact entered into the contract as an agent.

Held, reversing the orders of the lower Courts, that the objection as to parties, not having been made at the earliest opportunity, must be taken to have been waived under section 34 of the Civil Procedure Code. SAHIB RAM v. MUNSHI LAL. 64 P P 1881

24. Dispute about abadi of village—Principal of division.

In a suit brought by one out of three tarafs of the village against the second taraf and one patti of the third taraf, the contention relating to the principle upon which the abadi of the village (which was shamilat) should be divided, held, that the proprietors of all the tarafs were necessary parties to the suit, and that the proprietors of the remaining pattis of the third taraf should have been included as defendants. DALLA SINGH v. ALA SINGH. 92 P R 1881

JOINDER OF PARTIES—contd.

25. Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877), sections 32, 34—Objection on ground of misjoinder not taken at earliest opportunity—Power of Court to join necessary party on its own motion.

Plaintiffs sued for pre-emption in respect of certain property purchased by one M. S. and his brother jointly, the suit being instituted in the first instance against M. S. personally and as representative of his brother who had died before the date on which the suit was brought, the vendor also being joined as a defendant. At a hearing subsequent to the first hearing of the suit, M. S. for the first time objected that his brother had left a widow who, as one of his heirs, was entitled to one-fourth of his estate and who accordingly should be joined as a defendant in the suit. The first Court, considering that the widow shoul be made a party, passed an order to that effect, but the lower appellate Court, considering the order of the first Court upon this point wrong, directed that the widow's name should be removed from the record. On a further appeal by M. S. and the widow to the Chief Court it was urged on this part of the case that the lower appellate Court was wrong in directing that the name of the widow should be removed from the record. For the respondent it was urged that the objection for want of parties had been made too late by the defendant M. S.

Held, that though the objection for want of parties could not be said to have been taken at the earliest possible opportunity as required by section 34 of the Civil Procedure Code, and the original defendants might therefore be held to have waived it, still it was competent to the Court at any time, under section 32 of the Code, either of its own motion or upon the application of either party, to order the name of any person who ought to have been joined as a party to be added, and this was a case in which it was clearly proper that the Court should order the widow to be made a defendant on the fact coming to its knowledge that M. S.'s brother had left a widow.

Per Barkley, J.—The widow having been duly put on the record and having defended the suit, was as much interested as her brother-in-law M. S. was in the decree of the first Court dismissing the suit, and the lower appellate Court had no authority, by the expedient of removing her name from the record without her consent, to deprive her of the benefit of that decree without deciding the questions raised by the appeal as between her and the plaintiff. KHAN MUHAMMAD SHAH v. MUHAMMAD JAN. 104 P R 1882

JOINDER OF PARTIES—contd.

26. Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877), sections 30, 53—Amendment of plaint—Addition of parties—Sufficient reason.

In a suit to recover the amount due on a mortgage-bond, it appeared that the bond was in favour of three persons, of one of whom only the plaintiff claimed to be the representative. There was no allegation that the person whom the plaintiff represented was in fact solely entitled under the bond, nor did the plaintiff ask the permission of the Civil Procedure Code under section 30 of the Civil Procedure Code to sue on behalf of all the persons entitled on it, nor did the bond itself contain anything to indicate an intention that the right to claim performance by the mortgagor should not rest with the persons in whose favour the mortgage was made jointly.

Held, that there was no sufficient reason for allowing at the present stage an amendment of the plaint for the purpose of adding the other persons interested as parties to the suit, and so completing the plaintiff's cause of action which should have been fully disclosed in his plaint. JOWALA NATH v. RUPA. 175 P R 1882

27. Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877) sections 30, 34—Plea first raised in second appeal—Waiver.

In a suit for cancellation of a sale made by a non-proprietor of his house on the village site, held that a plea that the plaintiff was not entitled to sue without joining all the proprietors of the village, was one which could not be allowed to be taken for the first time in second appeal, as under section 34 of the Civil Procedure Code the defendant must be taken to have waived it, not having taken it at the earliest possible opportunity. JIT SINGH v. IMAM BAKSH. 151 P R 1883

28. Rent suit—Defendant setting up title of third party.

When a person sued for rent sets up the title of a third person, such third person ought not to be made a party to the case, so as to convert a simple suit for arrears of rent into a suit for the determination of a right to the land of which rent is claimed; nor has a person out of possession the right to come into Court and ask for a decree for rent with a view of bringing in a third party, and having tried under color of a rent suit a question of title between himself and that party. ALA HUSAIN v. ISMAIL. 66 P R 1886

29. Suit by 3 out of 4 joint lessors for rent—Joinder of 4th lessor as co-defendant—Right to maintain suit.

Three out of four joint lossors sued a lessee for the whole rent due under his lease, praying that the fourth lessor might be made a co-plaintiff, or failing that a co-defendant. The Court overruling the fourth lessor's objection to be made a defendant, made him a co-defendant, but referred the question whether the three plaintiffs were competent to maintain the suit.

JOINDER OF PARTIES—contd.

Held, that the plaintiffs were competent to maintain the suit in its present form with the fourth lessor as a co-defendant, though whether they were entitled to recover on the merits, and if so what amount, were independent questions not before the Court on the reference. Jamun Shah v. Ahmed Shah (No. 65 of 1879, Civil) referred to. ABDUL GHUFFAR v. SHAHABUDDIN, 87 P R 1886

30. Suit to restrain the proprietors of one patti from closing a pathway over the shamilat of the village—Necessity to implead the other proprietors of the village.

In a suit by the plaintiff to restrain the defendants, who were the proprietors of one of the pattis in the village to which the parties belonged, from closing a pathway, it was contended for the defendants that the plaintiff's suit was bad for non-joinder of parties, as the land over which the pathway claimed by the plaintiff ran was shamilat of the village, and therefore the plaintiff should have impleaded all the proprietors of the village.

Held, that as the act complained of by the plaintiff was one of obstruction on the part of a certain section of the proprietary body, it was not necessary for him to implead any other persons except those who were concerned in that obstruction, with reference to the rule of pleading that "no one is liable to be sued for any injury of which he is not the cause." KARM SINGH v. SARUP SINGH. 41 P R 1888

31. Joinder of vendor as co-defendant—Legal necessity for such joinder—Effect of non-joinder of vendor.

Held, that the joinder of the vendor in a suit for pre-emption (though such joinder is both usual and convenient) cannot be said to be in every case absolutely and strictly necessary in law, so that on account of the non-joinder of the said vendor the pre-emptor must lose all his rights in the suit. Kahna v. Dewa Singh (No. 62 P. R. 1879) and Wazira v. Shadi Khan (No. 67 P. R. 1881), referred to. SHIV CHARN SINGH v. SECRETARY OF STATE. 80 P R 1888

32. Where there is no dispute as to the land being shamilat, it is not necessary to make all the co-sharers parties to the suit. WAZIR SINGH v. MEHTAB SINGH. 108 P R 1889

33. All partners of a firm should be made parties to a suit on behalf of the firm. NAUBAT RAI v. SEWA RAM. 140 P R 1889

34. Non-joinder as plaintiffs of co-promisees—Contract Act, section 45.

Held, by the Full Bench, that an objection by a defendant that one of several co-promisees cannot sue alone to enforce payment of a debt due to them jointly, is an objection falling within and governed by section 34, Civil Procedure Code.

1495

JOINDER OF PARTIES—contd.

Per PLOWDEN, J.—When a plaint discloses that the suit is on a promise made to the plaintiff, or plaintiffs named in the plaint, jointly with others, who are not made parties to the suit, the Court can and ought to consider and decide whether it should be returned for amendment under section 53, Civil Procedure Code, or whether it should be received, leaving the question of parties to be dealt with by defendant under section 34, or by the Court under section 32, Civil Procedure Code. If the objection is taken in time by the defendant under section 34, he is entitled to an order of the Court under section 32, that any person who ought to have been joined as plaintiff be made a plaintiff, if he consent, and otherwise be made defendant, if practicable. If the objection is not made in time, the defendant cannot afterwards, either before or after judgment, take an objection founded solely upon the non-joinder of the other co-promisees either in that form or in the form of an objection that the plaintiff or plaintiffs alleged a promise to himself or themselves alone, and that there is a variance between this allegation and a proof of promise to him or them and others jointly with him or them.

Per POWELL, J.—The objection that where several partners lend money to the defendant and jointly receive a promise of repayment from him, section 45 of the Contract Act is as a matter of substantive as distinguished from Procedure Law, a bar to the right of any one of the parties alone to claim repayment of the whole debt is not valid in law. The joinder or non-joinder of parties must always depend on some rule of substantive law, and the procedure rule does nothing more than provide that certain rules of substantive law, certain rights and obligations arising out of such law, can only be enforced or given effect to in a particular way or under particular limitation.

Kendall v. Hamilton, L. R 4 H. L. 504 ; King versus Hoare, 13, M. and W. 494 ; 8 P. R., 1886, ; 175 P. R. 1882 ; I. L. R. VI. C. 815 ; I. L. R. VII. C. 242 and 594 ; I. L. R. V. B. 609 ; I. L. R. I. A. 453 ; I. L. R. VIII A, 264 I. L. R. VIIB, 257 ; I. L. R. II C, 26 ; I. L. R. IIIM. 235 ; I. L. R. XB. 32 ; IVB I. R. 118 ; I. L. R. XIC. 338 ; 87 P. R. 1880, 58 P. R. 1882,; 20 P. R. 1882, considered and discussed. KALA KHAN v. SEVA RAM.

156 P R 1889

35. Adding parties—Discretion of Court—Refusal to amend plaint as directed—Rejection of plaint—Obligation to appeal from orders—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 32 and 591.

The District Judge considering necessary that a third person should be joined as a defendant returned the plaint for amendment. This order was not complied with and the plaint was consequently rejected under section 54, Civil Procedure Code. The plaintiffs appealed.

1496

JOINDER OF PARTIES—contd.

Held, that plaint had been rightly rejected. The discretion conferred on the Courts as to the joining of parties was very wide, and the party who refused to carry out the order of the Court did so at his own risk, and was not entitled to any relief.

It is not imperative on a party to appeal from every interlocutory order, from which an appeal is allowed under section 588. He may impugn it in an appeal from the decree under section 591. THAKAR DAS v. PRESIDENT, MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, SIMLA.

36 P R 1890

36. Necessary parties—Rules under the Judicature Act—Order XVI, Rule XI—Power of Appellate Court to add a party as co-Appelant—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 32, 582, and 559.

Property belonging to plaintiffs was sold to appellants in 1884—having been resisted in obtaining possession, the appellant sued the plaintiffs, among others, for recovery thereof. They obtained a decree in the Court of first instance and recovered possession in execution. Shortly afterwards they sold the property in dispute to K. and R., and placed them in possession. On plaintiffs' appeal the Chief Court reversed the decree of the first Court, and dismissed the claim. The plaintiffs having failed to obtain restitution in execution sued K. and R. for possession. The appellants were joined as defendants in the suit at their own request. On plaintiffs objection to their joinder—

Held, that they were not necessary parties to the suit as laid. To justify the addition of parties under section 32 they must be persons immediately affected by the demands of the plaintiffs in the action. I. L. R. V Mad.. 52, not followed. I. L. R. V. Cal. 882 ; I. L. R. IV Cal. 355 ; I. L. R. II All. 738 ; I. L. R. IX All. 447 referred to.

An appellate Court has no power either of its own motion, or on the application of the party concerned, to direct that a party to the suit, who has not appealed, be joined as an appellant in an appeal filed by another party to the original suit. I. L. R. X Bom., 227, followed. MADAN GOPAL v. SHAM SUNDAR.

118 P R 1890

37. One co-sharer in a house is not debarred from instituting a suit to enforce a right of pre-emption based on vicinage on the ground that the other co-sharers therein refuse to join in such suit. RAM ASRA v. GURDITTA.

42 P R 1891

38. Cause of action—Joint promise to plaintiff and others—Right of plaintiff to sue alone.

The plaintiff sued for a money decree on a promise to himself alone : the defendants denied the promise alleged by the plaintiff, and pleaded that the promise was one made to the plaintiff and two others jointly. The plaintiff denied this allegation, and adhered to the claim as stated in the plaint.

1497

JOINDER OF PARTIES—contd.

Both the lower Courts found that the defendants' allegation was correct, and that the moneys claimed were due, if at all, to the plaintiff and two others. The lower Appellate Court further considered whether the plaintiff should be allowed to amend his plaint, and decided that it was useless to permit this, as the amended claim would be barred by limitation.

The plaintiff then preferred a further appeal to the Chief Court : he did not accept the finding as to the debt being due, if at all, to two other persons jointly with him, nor did he ask for permission to amend his plaint.

Held, by the Full Bench, that the Court, finding that the lower Courts had rightly held that the debt, if due, was not due to the plaintiff, but to the plaintiff and others jointly, the proper decree to make was one dismissing the appeal, thus confirming the decree dismissing the suit without going into the question whether the precise ground on which the lower Appellate Court refused to permit an amendment of the plaint was correct, or whether the plaintiff could be permitted to amend his plaint.

No. 156 P. R. 1889 (Full Bench), distinguished. BADRI DAS v. JAWALA PARSHAD.

86 P R 1891

39. Civil Procedure Code, Chapter III—Misjoinder—Trespass—Separate and independent acts of defendants.

Seventeen of the village proprietors sued thirty-six persons—co-sharers and non-proprietors—for a declaration that the defendants were not entitled to enclose certain lands of the village or to erect buildings thereon, and also praying for the demolition of the buildings so erected, and restoration of the land to its original condition.

The building by each defendant was his separate and independent act.

Held, on further appeal (the objection was taken in the Court of first instance), that the suit was bad for misjoinder.

[Cf. I. L. R. 14 Calc. 435]. MANGAL v. GIRDHARI.

127 P R 1892

40. Pre-emption—Suit by two plaintiffs each entitled to claim, but not having joint right of pre-emption—Misjoinder—Withdrawal of one plaintiff, effect of.

Held, that a suit by two individual plaintiffs, each entitled to claim pre-emption, but not having a joint right of pre-emption is bad for misjoinder, and that the Court should order the name of one of the plaintiffs to be struck out under section 32 of the Civii Procedure Code, 1882.

But held, further, that if one of such plaintiffs withdraws from the suit there is no legal impediment to the suit proceeding and a decision being arrived at on the respective rights of the remaining plaintiff and the purchaser.

JOINDER OF PARTIES—contd.

I. L. R. IV All. 259 and I. L. R. V All. 179, referred to. No. 10 P. R. 1884, distinguished. KHAWAS KHAN v. RASUL KHAN.
29 P R 1894

41. Order adding name of any person as defendant—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 32, 588, 591—Power of Chief Court to question order passed by lower Appellate Court under section 588.

Held (Stogdon J. doubting as to this), that although an order under section 32, Civil Procedure Code, adding the name of any person as defendant when passed on appeal is, by section 588 of the Code, final as an order, it is capable under section 591 of being questioned as supporting a decree when the decree is appealed against, and that objections may be taken on appeal to all orders passed by Courts in the exercise of their original or appellate jurisdiction.

No. 156 P. R. 1883, and No. 36 P. R. 1890, referred to. HIRA NAND v. MAYA DAS.
83 P R 1894

42. Custom—Pre-emption—Misjoinder of plaintiffs.

Plaintiffs, who were the occupancy tenants of the village of Muhammadpur, sued for pre-emption on a sale of a village by one Mrs. Ingram by deed, dated 31st March 1891, in favour of the remaining defendants who were bankers of Panipat. It was objected inter alia that those of the plaintiffs who were occupancy tenants had joined with them as plaintiffs certain tenants-at-will who had no right to claim.

Held, that there is a material distinction between the case of pre-emption claimants joining strangers with them in a purchase which the Court is asked to set aside, and the case of such claimants allowing persons, who are not entitled, and who retire from the suit when the mistake is discovered, to join with them in suing. The mistake in the latter case can be corrected by the authority of the Court duly exercised, whereas when a purchase has been effected by pre-emptors and strangers combined the mischief can only be remedied by setting aside the sale. HIRA LAL v. IBRAHIM.
102 P R 1894

43. Joint suit for pre-emption by numerous occupancy tenants.

In a joint suit for pre-emption by several occupancy tenants and others it was objected on appeal that (1) the occupancy tenants had joined strangers in the plaint, (2) that plaintiffs were not the whole body of the occupancy tenants and (3) that as individual tenants they could not combine their claims in a single suit.

Held, that the said objections were unfounded. If the list of plaintiffs included any persons who were not occupancy tenants, the proper course was to take the objection at the first hearing and have their names struck out, which could be done without altering the plaint generally or affecting the right of the remaining plaintiffs to claim the whole property. Moreover, as it was not disputed that each occupancy tenant could sue separately for the whole property, or that the whole property would be divided equally among those tenants who succeeded in obaining a decree, there was no reason why the plaintiffs could not sue jointly, even upon the assumption that they did not represent the whole body of the tenants. RAM SUKH DAS v. FAZAL-UD-DIN.

JOINDER OF PARTIES—concld.

19 P R 1898

44. Joinder of parties—Suit by representative of deceased mortgagee, who has obtained certificate under Act VII of 1889—Necessity of impleading mortgagee's other heirs—Act VII of 1889, sections 4, 16.

Plaintiff sued on the allegations that in 1883 defendant No. 1 mortgaged two houses to plaintiff's father for Rs. 2,000 and agreed to pay interest thereon at a specified rate, and the principal on demand; that plaintiff's father had died, and that plaintiff had obtained a certificate, under Act VII of 1889, for realisation of the debts due to the deceased, including the amount due on the said mortgage; that defendant No. 2 had purchased the said houses in execution sale with full knowledge of plaintiff's rights, and was now in possession thereof, and that defendant No. 1, despite demand, had failed to pay the principal money or any interest since Sambat 1945. Plaintiff therefore prayed for recovery of a sum of Rs. 3,192 and costs, with a lien on the property mortgaged and recoverable by auction sale, and that defendant No. 1 be made personally liable for the amount of the decree and future interest. For defendants it was contended that the suit must fail by reason of the non-Joinder as co-plaintiff of the deceased mortgagee's other son and co-heir, the latter being equally interested with plaintiff in the mortgage deed.

Held, that inasmuch as, according to the authorities, the relief sought in the present suit could not have been granted in its entirety, without a certificate under Act VII of 1889, the certificate-holder, who represented the estate qua the particular debt just as fully as an executor or administrator, was entitled to sue alone without impleading the other heirs of the deceased mortgagee. MEHR CHAND v. SYED MUHAMMAD LATIF.
99 P R 1898

JOINT ANCESTRAL PROPERTY.

See HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY.
JOINT PROPERTY.

JOINT CONTRACT.

See CONTRACT.

JOINT CONTRACTORS.

—Suit by one of several—Addition of other plaintiffs after lapse of period of limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 22.
8 P R 1886

JOINT FAMILY.

See ADVERSE POSSESSION.
49 P R 1870

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 80. 67 P R 1894
HINDU FAMILY. 97 P R 1910

See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION
6 P R 1894
103 P R 1894

See HINDU LAW—INHERITANCE
20 P R 1897

HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY, Passim.
MOHAMEDAN LAW—JOINT FAMILY, Passim.
PARTITION, Passim.
RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION.
4 P R 1870
38 P R 1872
119 P R 1879

SUCCESSION CERTIFICATE ACT, 1889, SECTION 4. 20 P R 1901

JOINT LESSORS.

See JOINDER OF PARTIES.
87 P R 1886

JOINT MORTGAGE.

—Joint Mortgage—Redemption of share of one of the mortgagors when admissible—Quære whether the mortgagor should first sue for partition.

Where plaintiff as one of the khewatdars sued to redeem the whole land originally mortgaged by its sole owner Fazla, which in 1869 (after the death of Fazla without leaving heirs) became shamilat-i-deh.

Held that, though the mortgage was originally indivisible, it ceased to retain its indivisible character when, in 1869, the mortgagee as a khewatdar became part owner of the equity of redemption and accepted that position, and that consequently each co-sharer could redeem his share separately, but not the whole.

Held also, that it was not necessary for plaintiff to have the shamilat partitioned before he could redeem his share of the mortgage. SHANKAR DAS v. GOBIND RAM.
62 P R 1911

JOINT PROPERTY.

See COMMON LAND.
HINDU FAMILY.
PARTIES.
PARTITION.

1. Joint proprietorship—Adverse possession.

See ADVERSE POSSESSION.
61 P R 1870

2. Joint owner—Erection of building by one, on common land—Absence of special damage to others.

See COMMON LAND. 54 P R 1882

JOINT PROPERTY—contd.

3. Grant by Government—Joint and several interest—Survivorship.
See CONSTRUCTION III.—OF DOCUMENT. 27 P R 1891

4. Joint property—Suit against proprietary body for share in such property—Confession of judgment by some of the defendants—Effect of such confession.
See CO-SHARERS. 5 P R 1883 Rev.

5. Power of one co-sharer to materially alter joint property.
See CO-SHARERS. 54 P R 1888

6. Right to sue—Suit by a sharer for possession of a portion only of the joint property—Right to maintain such suit.
See CO-SHARER. 43 P R 1906

7. Suit to obtain separate possession of admitted share in joint family property.
See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, SECTION 7 (IV (b). 104 P R 1895

8. Alienation by one co-sharer in joint holding.
See CUSTOM I. A. 3.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—SALES AND MORTGAGES IN FAVOUR OF STRANGERS. 167 P R 1888

9. Gift of undivided share of joint holding.
See CUSTOM I.B. (a)—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—GIFT. 91 P R 1894

10. Party wall—Easement.
See CUSTOM VII—EASEMENTS AND PROFITS. 82 P R 1888

11. Suit for half-share of property alleged to be joint ancestral—Declaratory decree.
See DECLARATORY DECREE 1.—DECLARATION OF TITLE. 73 P R 1881

12. Mortgage by one joint owner—Suit by other joint owner that the mortgage does not bind him.
See DECLARATORY DECREE 4.—ENFORCING OR REMOVING LIEN. 182 P R 1883

13. Hypothecation by father of ancestral property—Necessity—Rights of mortgagee.
See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION. 166 P R 1882

14. Alienation by one co-parcener without consent of others—Voidable transaction—Ratification by co-parcener—Assent how established.
See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION. 153 P R 1883

15. Power of member of joint Hindu family to dispose of his share in immovable property without consent of co-parcener.
See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION. 103 P R 1894

JOINT PROPERTY—contd.

16. Mortgage of undivided share of joint property—Consent of co-sharer.
See INTEREST. 114 P R 1894

17. Partition—Joint Estate—Mortgagee's claim to partition—Silence of Wajib-ul-arz.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 11 P R 1885 Rev.

18. Suit for winding up of partnership in land—Co-sharers in agricultural land.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 115 P R 1888

19. Suit for partition of joint family property—participation in profits.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1859, SECTION 1. 142 P R 1890

20. Suit for share in joint family property—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 127. 18 P R 1886
86 P R 1886

21. Pre-emption—Suit by owner of a distinct share in joint property—Court granting decree in favour of plaintiff jointly with another owner of a distinct share in the same property who did not sue.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II ARTICLE 120. 37 P R 1894

22. Devolution of estate upon several persons jointly—Entry of one on behalf of all.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 123. 97 P R 1890

23. Mortgage of part of joint property by some of the co-sharers.
See MORTGAGE. 81 P R 1883
149 P R 1884
78 P R 1885

24. Lands specifically mortgaged allotted on partition to co-sharers of mortgagor—Liability to mortgage lien of lands allotted to mortgagor.
See MORTGAGE—CONSTRUCTION. 101 P R 1894

25. Mortgage of share of joint holding—Part of mortgaged land already alienated at date of mortgage—Liability of mortgagor to make good deficit from remainder of holding to which he has subsequently succeeded.
See MORTGAGE—CONSTRUCTION. 32 P R 1900

26. Mortgage of undivided property by a joint owner—Partition—Remedy of mortgagee.
See MORTGAGE. 2 P R 1906

27. Pledge of joint family property by elder brothers, how far binding on minor brothers—Presumption.
See MUHAMMADAN LAW—JOINT FAMILY. 66 P R 1899

JOINT PROPERTY—contd.

28. Suit by one of two joint-owners of a house—mode of effecting partition.
See PARTITION. 29 P R 1882

29. Joint holding—Separate possession and enjoyment—Proof of partition.
See PARTITION. 44 P R 1894

30. Partition of widow's share in joint holding—Right of reversioner to object to such partition being allowed.
See PARTITION. 6 P R 1896 Rev.

31. Right of widow who has succeeded to her husband's interest in joint holding to claim partition—Grant of such prayer by Revenue officer—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain subsequent suit by co-sharers objecting that widow is by custom not entitled to claim partition.
See PARTITION. 82 P R 1898 F B

32. Partition—Suit to enforce a right to share in joint family property—Valuation for purposes of jurisdiction and Court-fee—Court Fees Act, 1870, section 7 (iv) (b)—Suits Valuation Act, 1870, section 8.
See PARTITION. 28 P R 1903

33. Mortgagee's right to partition—Jurisdiction of Revenue Court—Procedure—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, sections 111, 115, 117.
See PARTITION. 4 P R 1903

34. Suit for partition of joint property by one co-sharer—Right of other co-sharers to obtain possession of shares alloted to them.
See PARTITION. 23 P R 1905

35. Suit for possession of land and for damage by way of mesne profits—Joint holding—Amendment of plaint in the Chief Court into a suit for a declaratory decree only.
See PLAINT, AMENDMENT OF. 106 P R 1893

36. Possession of one co-sharer—Adverse possession.
See POSSESSION. 118 P R 1889

37. Suit for exclusive possession—Finding of joint ownership—Decree according to evidence.
See POSSESSION. 17 P R 1893

38. Pre-emption—Right of co-sharers.
See PRE-EMPTION, RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES. 16 P R 1881
54 P R 1882
56 P R 1882
107 P R 1882
6 P R 1883
See ib. WAJIB-UL-ARZ. 131 P R 1892

39. Suit for declaration of right to half share of joint undivided holding—Suit by co-sharer.
See PUNJAB LAND REVENUE ACT, 1887, SECTION 158 (2) (XVII). 12 P R 1899

JOINT PROPERTY—contd.

40. Suit for partition of a portion only of the joint ancestral property.
See RIGHT TO SUE. 77 P R 1887

41. Mortgage by co-sharer.
Held, under the Punjab Civil Code, that a co-sharer in joint undivided property could mortgage his share without the knowledge or consent of his co-sharers. GOORDIT SINGH v. OOTUM SINGH. 31 P R 1870

42. A co-sharer cannot make a gift of his share without the consent of the other co-sherers. JUGUT RAM v. LUCHMUN DASS. 48 P R 1870

43. Widow—Appointment of manager.
The widow of a deceased shareholder in an undivided estate, cannot appoint a separate manager for herself; at all events, she cannot do so where there is a provision in the wajib-ul-arz disallowing such an appointment. SOHNE KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT BEGO. 7 P R 1872 Rev.

44. Suit by sharer in a joint khata for recovery of particular lands.
Held, that a sharer in a joint khata cannot maintain a suit against his co-sharer for the recovery of particular lands unless he can show either that he has been forcibly dispossessed of those lands, or that he made them over to his co-sharer under a contract by virtue of which he is entitled to have them restored to him. JODH SINGH v. NATHA SINGH. 21 P R 1878

45. Landlord and Tenant—Ejectment—Suit by one of several co-sharers
A suit by one of several co-shares in a plot of land to eject a tenant of such land will not lie. All the co-sharers must join in the action. ATTAR SINGH v. DEWA SINGH. 17 P R 1879

46. Liability to, acquisitions by members of undivided Muhammadan family—Onus of proving separate acquisition—Managing member possessed of a considerable separate income purchasing property—Question whether such property was separate or family property.
In a suit for a share of certain family property (the parties to which were a Muhammadan family of the Gandapur tribe resident in the Kulachi tahsil of the Dera Ismail Khan district) it was contended that the plaintiffs had established a special family custom, under which, until partition, all property acquired by any member of the family, even without the aid of the family funds or the other members of the family, must be regarded as family property and liable to partition.
Held (by Plowden and Burney, JJ.), after a remand for further investigation of the question, that no such custom as above alleged had been proved to exist.
It appeared in the above case that the father of the parties to the suit left property which was not divided after his death, and which remained under the management of the defendant on behalf of the family, and that while this nucleus of family property was under the defendant's management, he had also a considerable separate income. On the question on whom the burden of proof rested as to whether property purchased by the defendant was purchased with family funds or from his own private means, held (per Barkley and Burney, JJ.), that it could not be presumed that all acquisitions were made by means of the family funds; that all that could fairly be held was that it was the defendant's duty, as manager of the family property, not to mix up the family income with his own so as to render it impossible to distinguish between them, and if he was unable to account satisfactorily for the income of the family property, and it appeared that he had made purchases with money in part derived from the family income and in part from his own private funds, it was for him to show how far such purchases had been made with his own funds, and so far as he was unable to do so, the property must be regarded as family property. It was for the defendant to prove that any property which he alleged was acquired by means of his private funds was so acquired (vide sections 102, 103 and 106 of the Evidence Act); and he might do so, either by proving that there was no surplus family income at all or by showing, if he could, how that income was applied, or in case he was by custom not liable to account for the expenditure of that income,* by direct proof that the price was paid from his private funds; or, if he could not show that any particular property was purchased wholly from his private funds, he might still show that it was in part so purchased, and so far as he was able to prove that this was the case, but no further, he would be entitled to be considered the owner of a corresponding share in the property.

JOINT PROPERTY—contd.

Per Plowden, J.—That the manager of joint ancestral estate should be liable to account to his co-heirs for the property by him as manager, and for investments of the income and accumulation, is proper and just; but that the mere circumstance that he is a member of the same family with the co-heirs should make him liable to account for all sums earned by his individual and independant exertions, and the investments made of income and accumulations is not in accordance with general usage, and is on the face of it not in accordance with the generally received notions of natural justice. MUHAMMAD KALU KHAN v. SAIFULLA KHAN. 91 P R 1887

47. Possession—Lease by widow, out of possession, of part of her share in joint undivided khata.

* No such custom was proved in the defendant's favor on the remand for further enquiry in the case.

JOINT PROPERTY—concld.

One Mussammat P. who was entitled to a widow's estate in a one-third share in a joint undivided khata, but was at the time out of possession, having on the 16th October 1889 leased part of her share to plaintiffs for 9 years, plaintiff sued her and other defendants for possession of the land, from which they alleged they had been ejected by defendants. The first Court dismissed the suit on the ground that Mussammat P. being out of possession at the time, was not justified in executing the lease, and the Divisional Court, on appeal confirmed the decision of the lower Court on the ground that as the khata was a joint undivided one, the lease was premature. Plaintiffs having appealed to the Chief Court:
Held, following L. R. XI Ind. App. 218, and I. L. R. IX Bom. 324, that the fact that Mussammat P. was out of possession at the time of the execution of the lease did not prevent plaintiffs, who had the same right of suit against her co-defendants as Mussammat P. would have had, but for the execution of the lease, from seeking to obtain possession of the land from defendants.
Held further, that the lease was not invalid on the ground that it disposed of a share in a joint undivided khata.
No. 148 P. R. 1882, cited. GANDU v. MUSSAMMAT PAREMI. 78 P R 1894

JOINT PROMISEES.

1. Non-joinder as plaintiffs of co-promisees.
See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 45. 159 P R 1889 86 P R 1891

2. Joint promise to plaintiff and others—Right of plaintiff to sue alone.
See JOINDER OF PARTIES. 86 P R 1891

JOINT RIGHTS.

1. Devolution of joint rights.
See CONTRACT. 175 P R 1882

2. Joint rights of pre-emption.
See PRE-EMPTION. 54 P R 1882 17 P R 1884

JOINT STOCK COMPANY.

See BANK.
PUBLIC COMPANY.

JOINT TENANT.

1. Right of occupancy—Succession—Survivorship.
See OCCUPANCY RIGHT
180 P R 1882
9 P R 1891 Rev.
109 P R 1894 F. B.

JOINT TENANT—concld.

2. Management of a Hindu religious or charitable institution is not on the footing of a joint tenancy.

See Religious Institution.

140 P R 1892

3. Joint tenants—Gift by one joint tenant of his share to another joint tenant—Suit by reversioners—Custom.

The plaintiffs, the sons of one brother, sued to set aside a gift made by a childless occupancy tenant of his occupancy rights in khatas A. and B. in favour of his nephews, the sons of another brother. It appeared that the occupancy rights in khata A. were held jointly by the defendants, whilst khata B. was held jointly by plaintiffs and defendants.

Held, that the plaintiffs' claim must be dismissed as regards both khatas.

As regards khata A., the defendants must be considered to represent a single tenant, each defendant having a right of survivorship, and the plaintiffs therefore were not the next reversioners and had no right to interfere.

Similarly as regards khata B., the defendants were also joint tenants with the donor, and there was nothing to show that one joint tenant could not gift his share to another joint tenant, or that such a gift was opposed to custom or to the provisions of the Wajib-ul-arz.

Gunda Singh v. Ghulab Singh (No. 159 P. R., 1879), cited.—Ahmad Din v. Haji.

56 P R 1887

JOINT WRONG DOERS.

See Contribution. 32 P R 1866
7 P R 1901

JUDGE.

See Disqualification of Judge.

—Power of Judge to decide case on evidence taken down by his predecessor—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 191, 198.

Held, that a Judge who has not heard any part of the evidence and before whom no part of proceedings have taken place is not competent to proceed to judgment until he has given the parties an opportunity of appearing before him and stating their respective cases. Judgments recorded without observing these essential rules of procedure are illegal and must be set aside.

Jagram Das v. Narain Lal (I. L. R. VII All. 857) Afzal-un-Nissa Begam v. Al Ali (I. L. R. VIII All. 35), Sirdar Mahtab Singh v. Mussammat Sobha Kour (110 P. R. 1886), referred to. Sher Khan v. Bahadur Shah.

91 P R 1904

JUDGE OF THE ZILLA DIWANI ADALAT.

See Mortgage. 55 P R 1883

JUDGMENT.

See Foreign Judgment.
Resjudicata.

1. Suit on decree or judgment.

See Cause of Action.—II. Fresh.

14 P R 1869
24 P R 1869
4 P R 1874
16 P R 1874
93 P R 1879

2. Want of knowledge—Review of Judgment—Informalities in presenting application for review.

See Cause of Action.—IV. Miscellaneous. 17 P R 1897

3. Judgment of Small Cause Courts—Contents of—Reasons for decision when question of law involved.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, O. XX. R. 4 78 P R 1895
57 P R 1901

4. Decree not in conformity with judgment—Application by decree-holder to amend decree rejected as time-barred.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, section 152. 12 P R 1897

5. Decree not in conformity with judgment—Application by plaintiff to amend decree after it has been upheld by the Chief Court.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, section 152. 59 P R 1900

6. Death of plaintiff after conclusion of case, but before delivery of judgment—Decree drawn up in favour of deceased plaintiff.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, O. XXII, R. 3. 20 P R 1898

7. Judgments of Courts of final appeal.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, O. XLI R. 31. 72 P R 1890

8. Judgment of a Collector in appeal.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, O. XLI. R. 31 2 P R 1893 Rev.

9. Review of judgment.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, O. XLVII. R. 1. 158 P R 1889

Civil Procedure Code, 1908, O. XLVII. R. 2. 57 P R 1892
62 P R 1895

10. Review of judgment—Application in forma pauperis.

See Court Fees Act, 1870, 1st Schedule, article 4. 91 P R 1895

11. Review of judgment.

See Review.

12. Erroneous construction of a judgment is not material irregularity within the meaning of section 622, Civil Procedure Code.

See Revision in Civil Cases.

60 P R 1891

JUDGMENT.—concld.

13. Judgments not inter partes are admissible in evidence when they relate to a question of custom which is a matter of a public nature within the meaning of section 42, Evidence Act. Bunyad Ali v Faiz Muhammad. 173 P R 1889

14. In a suit for pre-emption after examining the witnesses and hearing arguments the Judge recorded on order that the case was closed and that the judgment would be delivered on a certain day. Subsequently the Judge wrote his judgment a week previous to the date fixed for its delivery and dated it on the day on which it was written. Held, that the Judge was bound to wait until the date fixed and not to announce judgment at an earlier date, and that in neglecting to take this course his action was in flagrant violation of the provisions of law, and that therefore the judgment was a a nullity, Paras Ram v. Joti Parshad. 61 P R 1904

15. A judgment in a previous litigation which is not between the same parties and where there is no question as to the existence of a right or custom is not relevant either under section 13 or any other section of the Evidence Act. Sobha Singh v. Nand Singh.

56 P R 1906

JUDGMENT, ARREST BEFORE.

See Arrest.

JUDGMENT DEBT.

A judgment debt is joint and several and judgment-debtors are jointly and severally responsible. Kheta Mull v. Jowahir Mull.

4 P R 1874

JUDGMENT DEBTOR AND CREDITOR.

See Arrest.
Attachment.
Execution of Decree.
Insolvency. 75 P R 1905 F. B.

JUDGMENT DEFECTIVE.

See Appellate Court, Powers and duties of.

6 P R 1870
49 P R 1873
45 P R 1875

JUDGMENT—FORM AND CONTENTS OF.

See Appeallate Court, Powers and duties of.

24 P R 1881
91 P R 1882
28 P R 1886

JUDGMENT IN ACCORDANCE WITH AWARD.

See APPEAL IV.—IN ARBTRATION CASES.
33 P R 1881
70 P R 1881
72 P R 1881
4 P R 1882
48 P R 1882
184 P R 1882
17 P R 1883
47 P R 1883
109 P R 1883
130 P R 1883
170 P R 1883

See ARBITRATION.
50 P R 1881
134 P R 1888
55 P R1889
58 P R 1889
167 P R 1889
26 P R 1890
74 P R 1894 F. B.
60 P R 1896
98 P R 1900

JUDGMENT IN OTHER CASES—ADMISSIBLITY OF, IN EVIDENCE.

See EVIDENCE ACT, 1872, SECTION 43. 32 P R 1874
See JUDGMENT. 56 P R 1906

JUDICIAL ASSISTANT.

1. Jurisdiction of Judicial Assistant—Subordination to District Court.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908 SECTION 86. 51 P R 1886
See MORTGAGE. 55 P R 1883

2. Small Cause Court Judges—General Notification investing Judicial Assistants with powers—Transfer.

By a general notification the Judicial Assistant of Jullundur, Hoshiarpur, Ludhiana, Peshawar, and Simla were invested with the powers of Small Cause Court Judges. Subsequently a new officer was appointed Judicial Assistant of Jullundur. Held, that the terms of the notification were sufficient to invest such new officer with powers as a Small Cause Court Judge as soon as he became Judicial Assistant. HAZURI v. BUR SINGH. 52 P R 1877

3. Transfer without re-investment—Act XIV of 1875, section 3—Act XIX of 1865, section 11—Act XXVII of 1860, section 3.

By Notification No 3532, dated 24th September 1875, Captain M. was appointed Judicial Assistant at Karnal, and invested "under "section 3 of Act XIV of 1875, with the "powers of a Deputy Commissioner" subsequently he was transferred in the same capacity to Delhi without being re-invested with powers as above. At Delhi as Judicial Assistant Captain M. heard and disposed of a case under Act XXVII of 1860.

Held, by a Full Bench, that before the passing of Act XIV of 1875 the Civil jurisdiction of a Deputy Commissioner in the Punjab was two-fold, viz., that conferred on him by or under Act XIX of 1865, section 11, as Deputy Commissioner and that conferred on him by or under special Acts.

JUDICIAL ASSISTANT—concld.

That as regards the Punjab, the Court of a Deputy Commissioner was the Court indicated in a special Act, whether such Court was described as the principal or a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction.

That Act XIV of 1875 must be construed with reference to the system in force before it was enacted, and that therefore, the Local Government was competent to invest a Judicial Assistant, under section 3 of the Act, with power to exercise the jurisdiction conferred upon a Deputy Commissioner by or under special Acts at the date of the passing of that Act.

Held also, that as the Notification of 1875 contained no limitation indicating expressly that the power to exercise the special jurisdiction of a Deputy Commissioner's Court was not intended to be conferred it must be held that the Local Government intended by it to confer the power to exercise all such jurisdiction as a Deputy Commissioner could exercise as such or as a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction and, therefore, that Captain M. had jurisdiction to entertain an application under Act XXVII of 1860.

Held, further, by the Full Bench, that as the Notification transferring Captain M. from Karnal to Delhi described him as judicial Assistant, that expression sufficiently indicated the intention of Government that he should exercise at Delhi the powers with which he had been previously invested under the first Notification and therefore, that he had jurisdiction to exercise such powers at Delhi without being re-invested. ABDUL RUHMAN v. MAHOMED ISMAIL. 54 P R 1877

JUDICIAL DISCRETION.

See PRE-EMPTION. 178 P R 1882

—Under Act, XL of 1858.
See CERTIFICATE UNDER ACT XL OF 1858. 25 P R 1881

—As to costs.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XX, R. 6. 21 P R 1883

—In admitting appeal after time.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 5. 106 P R 1885
92 P R 1886

—Under Act, IX of 1861.
See MINOR. 42 P R 1882
26 P R 1886

JUDICIAL OFFICERS, PROTECTION TO.

1. Act XVIII of 1850—Protection to Judicial Officers.

A obtained, on appeal, a decree with costs against B, for possession of a house, valued at Rs. 1,750. A's pleader applied to C, Assistant Commissioner, for execution of the decree as a money decree. C ordered the application to be tested; the record-keeper pointed out some mistakes in the items for costs. C replied to the record-keeper that his report was obscure; the record-keeper wrote in answer that A's decree was for Rs. 1,750 and added a memo. of costs, the whole amounting to Rs. 2,113-8-0. C considerred these figures, and corrected the memo. of costs, the altered total being Rs. 2,489. C issued an order to D, a banker, to remit to Court Rs. 2,489, which were in deposit with D, to the credit of B. Before issuing the order, C. read the order of the Appellate Court decreeing possession of the house. D. paid the amount. Afterwards D discovered that the decree was for possession of the house and not for its value, and pointed out the mistake to C, but the money had by this time been paid away. In a suit by D against C, to recover the amount so paid, held, that C. had acted bonâ fide within his jurisdiction in treating the decree of the Appellate Court as a money decree and his mistake was protected by section 1 of Act XVIII of 1850.

JUDICIAL OFFICERS, PROTECTION TO—concld.

Per CUNNIGHAM, J.—The Act exempts Judicial Officers from legal liability in every instance, except when without reasonable excuse, they transcend the limits of their jurisdiction. BANK OF UPPER INDIA v. O'BRIEN. 57 P R 1870

2. Act XVIII of 1850—Protection of Judicial Officers.

Held, per BOULNOIS, J. (LINDSAY, J., concurring), that if a Magistrate honestly, though mistakenly, believes that a case is presented to him which calls for a decision, and which he has jurisdiction to entertain, and does not act in mere abuse of his office, he is protected by Act XVIII of 1850. The grounds of his belief mav be inquired into; but if it is found that he in fact believed in his jurisdiction bonâ fide, irregularities and illegalities in the exercise of it will not deprive him of the protection of the Act. Per CAMPBELL, J.—If the Court in which a suit against a Magistrate is filed finds that the defendant in good faith (that is after proper care and consideration) believed he had jurisdiction to do the act complained of, the suit must be at once dismissed, and no further inquiry can be made as to whether the defendant's proceedings showed irregularity or want of judgment, &c. O'CONNOR v. PARSON. 58 P R 1871

JUDICIAL SEPARATION.

—Jurisdiction of Court over parties living abroad—Cruelty—Charge of unnatural offence by wife without corroboration—Divorce Act, 1869, sections 3, 22.
See DIVORCE. 77 P R 1905

JURISDICTION.

See APPELATE COURT—POWERS AND DUTIES OF.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT—JURISDICTION OF.

JURISDICTION—contd.

1. Hostile seizure—Regulations III of 1793 and II of 1803—Jurisdiction.
See ACT OF STATE. 6 P R 1867

2. Resumption of rent-free lands by the British Government—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts.
See ACT OF STATE. 1 P R 1875 P C

3. Ferry rights—Jurisdiction.
See ACT OF STATE. 56 P R 1876

4. Jurisdiction of British Courts to re-open executive orders of foreign state.
See ACT OF STATE. 36 P R 1877

5. Jurisdiction of Civil Court to question act done in exercise of sovereign powers.
See ACT OF STATE. 105 P R 1908

6. Appeal—Remand—Dismissal for default without notice to appellant—Jurisdiction.
See APPELLATE COURT - POWERS AND DUTIES OF. 90 P R 1879

7. Appeal admitted from order of Lower Court—Review by Lower Court of order appealed from—Jurisdiction.
See APPELLATE COURT—POWERS AND DUTIES OF. 6 P R 1870

8. Objection as to jurisdiction raised after remand for fresh decision on specific issues.
See APPELLATE COURT—POWERS AND DUTIES OF. 54 P R 1883

9. Munsiff returning plaint on ground that case was cognizable by Small Cause Court—District Judge on appeal reversing Munsiff's order and directing him to try the suit—Munsiff refusing to proceed on ground that if the case was not a small cause the District Judge had no jurisdiction—Appealable order—Course of appeal—Revision.
See APPELLATE COURT—POWERS AND DUTIES OF. 36 P R 1887

10. Small cause under Rs. 500 in value—Claim involving property exceeding Rs. 500 in value—Further appeal.
See APPEAL—VIII. SECOND, 95 P R 1887

11. Share in well for irrigating agricultural land—Land suit.
See APPEAL - III. COURSE OF APPEAL. 62 P R 1891

12. Suit for redemption of mortgage.
See APPEAL—III. COURSE OF APPEAL. 63 P R 1891

13. Right to use of water—Land suit.
See APPEAL—II. COMPETENCY OF. 1 P R 1892 F B

14. Claim for share in an orchard, i.e. of the fruit trees.
See APPEAL—VIII. SECOND. 15 P R 1892 F B

15. Village graveyard—Land suit.
See APPEAL—VIII. SECOND. 20 P R 1892

16. Claim for date trees—Land suit.
See APPEAL—II. COMPETENCY OF. 46 P R 1893

17. Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section (40) (2) (a)—Pre-emption suit, further appeal.
See APPEAL—VIII. SECOND. 3 P R 1896

18. Value of suit for purposes of Court-fee and of jurisdiction—Suits Valuation Act, 1887, section 8—Court Fees Act, 1870, section 7 (iv) (e)—Further appeal.
See APPEAL XI. VALUATION OF. 50 P R 196

JURISDICTION—contd.

19. Failure to exercise jurisdiction vested by law—Revision.
See APPEAL—II. COMPETENCY OF. 54 P R 1896

20. Value of suit—Course of appeal.
See APPEAL—VI. PROCEDURE IN. 62 P R 1896

21. Unclassed suit of less than Rs. 100 in value—Appeal.
See APPEAL—III. COURSE OF APPEAL. 86 P R 1896

22. Suit for damages for wrongful seizure of cattle—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts.
See CATTLE TRESPASS ACT, 1871, SECTION 20. 92 P R 1877

23. Suit for possession of immovable property situate in different districts.
See CAUSE OF ACTION—V. MISJOINDER. 91 P R 1898

24. What constitutes a "dwelling" by a defendant to give jurisdiction.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 16. 63 P R 1870 17 P R 1871

25. Administration suit—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XX, R. 13. 68 P R 1881

26. Jurisdiction of Court to execute decree in excess of the limits of its pecuniary jurisdiction as an original Court.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 6. 9 P R 1901

27. Suit heard by Court other than the Court of the lowest grade competent to hear it—Irregularity—Reversal of decree.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 15. 184 P R 1888

28. Suit for determination of right to, or interest in, immovable property.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 16. 39 P R 1891

29. Suit for possession of land—Uncertainty as to the Court's jurisdiction.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 18. 1 P R 1901

30. Suits for debts and personal actions against military officers not residing within the jurisdiction of the Court where the cause of action arose.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 20. 93 P R 1900

31. Suit on a hundi by a holder and endorsee against the drawer, acceptor and subsequent endorsers.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 20. 57 P R 1900

32. Suit for immovable property situate in different districts—Sanction.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 17. 10 P R 1891

33. Suit instituted in Cantonment Small Cause Court for sum beyond the jurisdiction of the then incumbent of the Court—Transfer of case by District Judge to his own court—Finality of order of District Judge.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 24. 80 P R 1887

JURISDICTION—contd.

34. Jurisdiction of District Judge to re-open ex parte decree which was appealed against to the Chief Court by the plaintiff.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 13. 4 P R 1901

35. Application by plaintiff to amend decree after it has been upheld by the Chief Court.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 152. 59 P R 1900

36. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 25, 223, 244—Jurisdiction—Execution of decree—Sale of property outside jurisdiction of Court in execution of decree—Question relating to the execution of decree—Separate suit.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTIONS 38, 39, 41. 8 P R 1902

37. Power of Court to which decree has been transmitted to transmit to another Court for execution.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 42. 83 P R 1887

38. Jurisdiction of Court to execute decree in excess of the limits of its pecuniary jurisdiction as an original Court.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 70 P R 1897
N. B.—Overruling 31 P. R. 1887, vide UNDER C. P. CODE, SECTION 39.

39. Rateable distribution among rival decree-holders—Priority.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 73. 60 P R 1892

40. Suit for damages for malicious prosecution—Cause of action accruing in foreign State but suit instituted in British India.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 4. 4 P R 1897

41. Suit against ruling chief—Institution of suit without obtaining the consent of Governor-General in Council—Waiver by defendant of objection of consent—Effect of such waiver.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 86. 40 P R 1903

42. Place of suing—Contract with commission agent for supply of goods—Contract made by latter—Place where contract completed.
See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 4. 76 P R 1896

43. Jurisdiction—Suit for possession of land—Value of subject-matter—Court Fees Act, 1870, section 7, clause 10.
See CONTRACT ACT, SECTION 23. 37 P R 1901

44. Suit to wind up a partnership business—Jurisdiction.
See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 265. 35 P R 1878

45. Suit by mortgagee for possession of land—Foreclosure under Regulation XVII of 1806—Value of suit for purposes of jurisdiction.
See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, SECTION 7 (v) 20 P R 1893

46. Suit for removal of Mahant for declaration of right to appoint a successor and to enforce the provisions of a will—Value of relief sought—Jurisdiction.

JURISDICTION—contd.

See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, SECTION 7 (iv) (c). 58 P R 1893

47. Court Fees Act, 1870, section 7 (iv) (d)—Valuation of suit for purposes of jurisdiction and Court fee—Suit for an injunction where no damages are claimed—Suits Valuation Act, sections 8, 9.

See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, SECTION 7 (iv) (d). 63 P R 1902

48. Suit for custody of minor—Jurisdiction of Court other than District Court—Munsif of 1st class.

See CUSTODY OF MINOR. 10 P R 1897

49. To interfere and avoid unconscionable bargains and transactions obtained by undue influence, fraud, or misrepresentation.

See DEBTOR AND CREDITOR. 115 P R 1908

50. Libel—Publication—Document sent by post—Jurisdiction

See DEFAMATION. 33 P R 1874

51. Jurisdiction of Courts in British India to hear suits for dissolution of marriage when the parties were married in England and have an English domicile.

See DIVORCE. 64 P R 1900

52. Judicial Separation—Jurisdiction of Court over parties living abroad.

See DIVORCE. 77 P R 1905

53. Decision of a Revenue Court without jurisdiction—Subsequent suit by plaintiff before a Civil Court—Competency to question the jurisdiction of the Revenue Court—Equitable estoppel.

See ESTOPPEL. 126 P R 1906

54. Suit on foreign judgment—Decree passed in absentum and ex parte by foreign Court—Jurisdiction of Court.

See FOREIGN JUDGMENT. 112 P R 1894 P C

55. Suit for a declaration that the defendant is not the lawful wife of the plaintiff—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain such a suit when an order for maintenance passed under section 448 of the Criminal Procedure Code is in force against the plaintiff.

See HUSBAND AND WIFE. 26 P R 1903

56. Act IV of 1872, section 25—Jurisdiction of Court—Residence.

See INSOLVENCY. 42 P R 1873
51 P R 1874

57. Of Sub-judge invested under section 360, Civil Procedure Code, acting without order from District Court.

See INSOLVENCY. 69 P R 1888

58. Place of suing.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 115 P R 1883

59. Under the Land Acquisition Act.

See LAND ACQUISITION ACT, 1870. 140 P R 1888

60. Exclusion of time of proceeding bona fide in Court without jurisdiction—Meaning of term jurisdiction.

JURISDICTION—contd.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 14. 45 P R 1893

61. Exclusion of time of proceeding bona fide in Court without jurisdiction—Cause of a like nature with want of jurisdiction.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 14. 19 P R 1888

62. Defect of jurisdiction or other like cause.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 14. 34 P R 1898

63. Where error in partition proceedings is alleged.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 144. 116 P R 1900

64. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 244—Mesne profits—Application for recovery of mesne profits which accrued between the date of decree and of delivery of possession—Jurisdiction—Value of suit—Course of appeal—Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 39.

See MESNE PROFITS. 29 P R 1902

65. Suits against soldiers and military officers.

See MUTINY ACT. 1 P R 1871
58 P R 1872
83 P R 1875
33 P R 1879

66. Partition—Suit to enforce a right to share in joint family property—Valuation for purposes of jurisdiction and Court-fee—Court Fees Act, 1870, section 7 (iv) (b)—Suits Valuation Act, 1870, section 8.

See PARTITION. 28 P R 1903

67. Civil Courts' jurisdiction to entertain a suit which included a claim to muafi without a certificate required by section 6 of the Pensions Act, 1871.

See PENSIONS ACT, 1871, SECTION 4. 25 P R 1900

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 11 P R 1887
53 P R 1890
77 P R 1891

68. Jurisdiction—Objection as to, taken after investigation on merits.

See PLAINT. 126 P R 1881

69. Erroneous valuation of suit or appeal—Return of plaint—Practice.

See PLAINT, RETURN OF. 63 P R 1897

70. Of Probate Court.

See PROBATE AND ADMINISTRATION ACT.

71. Application for probate—Contentious proceedings—Courts competent to try and dispose of proceeding.

See PROBATE AND ADMINISTRATION ACT, 1881, SECTION 83. 44 P R 1893

72. Order for distribution of civil business within a district—Jurisdiction of Court directed to hear civil cases arising in a particular part of a district to hear other cases arising within the local limits of its jurisdiction.

See PUNJAB COURTS ACT (XVIII OF 1884, SECTION 35). 71 P R 1885

JURISDICTION—contd.

73. Jurisdiction—Suit for pre-emption—Value of suit—Course of appeal

See PUNJAB COURTS ACT, 1884, SECTION 39. 32 P R 1901

74. Business and functions of District Court—Power of District Judge to assign function of trying a case to additional District Court—Case in excess of pecuniary limits of latter Court's jurisdiction.

See PUNJAB COURTS ACT, 1884, SECTION 75. 46 P R 1898

75. Refusal of Municipal Committee to sanction re-erection of a projection—Discretion of Committee—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

See PUNJAB MUNICIPAL ACT, 1891, SECTION 91. 9 P R 1898

76. Civil Court's jurisdiction to set aside Municipal Committee's order.

See PUNJAB MUNICIPAL ACT, 1890, SECTION 92. 52 P R 1900

77. Jurisdiction of Hazara Civil Court over Upper Tanawal tract, effect of Regulation II of 1900 on suits pending at the time the Regulation came into force.

See REGULATION II OF 1900. 73 P R 1904

78. Jurisdiction of Civil Court to go into the question of a Mahant's conduct after it has held that a bhekh has power to depose a Mahant for misconduct and had actually deposed him.

See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION 3 P R 1899

79. Suits with respect to religious endowment—Power of Court to remove manager from the management of endowed property.

See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION. 95 P R 1900

80. Res judicata, plea of—Competency of inferior Court to enquire the jurisdiction of superior Court which passed the former decree—Consent to jurisdiction.

See RES JUDICATA. 37 P R 1903

81. Wrongful with holding of exercise of jurisdiction—Act XXIII of 1861, section 35.

See REVISION. 36 P R 1872

82. Court acting illegally in exercise of jurisdiction.

See REVISION. 64 P R 1885

83. Court exercising a jurisdiction not vested in it by law.

See REVISION. 46 P R 1886
70 P R 1886
111 P R 1886

84. Power of Chief Court on revision to consider lower appellate Court's findings on facts relative to question of jurisdiction.

See REVISION. 44 P R 1899

85. Jurisdiction over a soldier in active military employ in claims over thirty pounds.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT—JURISDICTION OF. 125 P R 1881

86. Suit for share of offerings received for a specified period.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT—JURISDICTION OF. 84 P R 1892

See SMALL CAUSE COURT, ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 188 P R 1888

JURISDICTION—contd.

87. Small cause of value exceeding Rs. 50 in value—Jurisdiction of presiding Judge limited to Rs. 50—Procedure.

See SMALL CAUSE COURTS—JURISDICTION OF. 74 P R 1896

88. Test of jurisdiction—Suit for share of offerings at shrine.—Money had and received—Defendant's plea raising title.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 188 P R 1888

89. Valuation of suit for purposes of jurisdiction—Suits Valuation Act, 1887, sections 8, 9—Court Fees Act, 1870, section 7, clause (iv).

See VALUATION OF SUIT. 6 P R 1904

90. Value for purpose of jurisdiction—Suit to set aside a sale of land assessed to Government revenue.

See SUIT, VALUE OF. 58 P R 1905

91. Suit for pre-emption of land—Value of relief sought—Finding of Court exceeding its pecuniary limits of jurisdiction—Effect of.

See VALUATION OF SUIT. 16 P R 1908 F B

92. Suit to establish right to attached property—Claim against judgment-debtor for declaration of title—Value of subject-matter.

See VALUATION OF SUIT. 94 P R 1908 F B

93. Judge trying a suit in which he has an interest.

In a case in which exception was taken to the jurisdiction of the Judge, Small Cause Court, Lahore, on the ground that he was a share-holder in a club against which the suit was brought, held, that as his was the only Court which had jurisdiction to try the case, the maxim Nemo debet esse judex in propriâ suâ causâ, could not be applied. KIRPA RAM v. THE SECY. AND MANAGER OF THE PUNJAB CLUB. 12 P R 1866 Ref.

94. Alien.

A transaction between aliens occurring in foreign territory, can be adjudicated upon by a British Court, when the parties happen to be for the time in British territory. If the lex fori clashes with the lex loci contractus, the former must prevail; if not, the latter is the rule of decision. SHAH GOOL v. IKRAM. 88 P R 1867

95. Rajah of Kapurthalla.

Held, that the wife of the Rajah of Kapurthalla was not amenable to a British Court for breach of a contract made in the Rajah's territory with one of his subjects. In assuming her husband's status, the lady, who was a Christain and an English woman, must be regarded, not merely as a Hindu, but as the wife of the Rajah, whose complete political independence the British Government had recognized. Whatever that political independence might mean, it must be taken to imply exemption from the jurisdiction of the British Courts in respect of causes of action arising between the Rajah and his own subjects. MOOSTAK RAE v. LADY RUNDHEER SINGH. 54 P R 1870

JURISDICTION—contd.

96. By the term "exceeding his jurisdiction" by a Judicial Officer, ought to be understood the officer assuming to do something which the Act under which he is proceeding could by no possibility justify (per CUNNINGHAM, J). BANK OF UPPER INDIA v. O'BRIEN. 57 P R 1870

97. Per LINDSAY, J.—The word "jurisdiction" does not merely mean the power of exercising authority, the right to determine a suit. It also means the limit within which such power and such right may be exercised. If the judge in his decree goes beyond that limit, he passes an order without jurisdiction. GIRDHARI LALL v. IMRAT MUL. 39 P R 1873

98. No Court of limited jurisdiction can give itself jurisdiction by a wrong decision on a point collateral to the merits of the case, upon which the limit to its jurisdiction depends. Matter of objection to the jurisdiction must be extrinsic to the adjudication impeached, and the objection cannot rest on the ground that the Court has erroneously determined issues or matters which it had generally jurisdiction to try. SURJAN SINGH v. NAJABAT KHAN. 83 P R 1874

99. In a suit between master and servant, the latter having entered into a contract in London for services to be performed at Simla, held, that the contract must be governed by the law of the country where performance was to take place (viz., India) and that by that law the period of notice would be one month. COX v. THE GOVERNORS OF BISHOP COTTON'S SCHOOL. 85 P R 1874

100. Courts have jurisdiction to administer bad law and to fall into errors: in other words, it is not simply an error of law or of fact, apparent in the order of a subordinate Court, that will justify the Chief Court in cancelling the order as made without jurisdiction (per BOULNOIS, J). MUSTAFA v. SHIBBU. 51 P R 1875

101. Rajah of Nahun—Trading in Umballa—Jurisdiction of British Courts over Independent Native Princes.

The Rajah of Nahun, the chief place of the protected Hill State known as Sirmoor, maintained an iron foundry at Nahun, and an agency (carried on by the plaintiff) at Umballa for the sale of things manufactured at Nahun. The plaintiff sued the Rajah in the Umballa Court for work and services, and money due on accounts. Held, that the Rajah was an independent or semi-sovereign prince, and not amenable to the jurisdiction of a British Court; and that he had not forfeited the privilege by his dealings at Umballa, at least as far as the plaintiff was concerned. There can only be a proceeding in rem against a sovereign; and there is no such proceeding under the law applicable to the Punjab. PHUMMAN LAL v. RAJAH SHAMSHER PARKASH. 93 P R 1875

JURISDICTION—contd.

102. Custody of children—Act IX of 1861.

The principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction, referred to in section I of Act IX of 1861 (relating to Minors), is the Court of the Deputy Commissioner: from whose decision an appeal lies direct to the Chief Court, and not to the Commissioner. FIROZ v. RAM DITTA. 106 P R 1876

103. Public thoroughfare—Suit to remove obstruction—Special damage—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

No suit lies in a Civil Court to remove an obstruction to a public thoroughfare, unless it can be shown that the person suing suffers special or extraordinary damage. HOSEIN SHAH v. HABIBULLA SHAH. 73 P R 1877

104. Nuisance—Public thoroughfare—Street—Suit to close a drain.

Plaintiff sued to compel defendant to close a drain through which the water from his mosque flowed on to the public street in front of plaintiff's premises. Held, that the suit was not maintainable without proof of special damage, differing not merely in degree but in kind from that sustained by the rest of the public. NUR ALI v. RAM GOPAL. 10 P R 1878

105. Valuation of pre-emption suit for purposes of jurisdiction.

Held, by the Full Bench, that suits to enforce a right of pre-emption must as a rule be valued according to the market value of the property in respect of which the right is claimed, for the purpose of determining whether the suit falls within the pecuniary limits of jurisdiction of a particular Court.

Held, by the Division Bench, where the Tahsildar, having jurisdiction up to Rs. 300, entertained a suit for pre-emption in respect of property the market value of which was found to be at least Rs. 800, that the suit was beyond the jurisdiction of the Tahsildar. NANAK CHAND v. SAINDITTA. 54 P R 1878.

RAM DITTA v. MAHOMED KHAN. 62 P R 1875

106. Limitation—Civil Procedure Code, section 622.

Held, that the plea of limitation is not a question of jurisdiction within the meaning of section 622, Act X of 1877, MEHTAB RAI v. NANAK CHAND. 59 P R 1878

But see GOPAL DASS v. RUTHER RAM. 92 P R 1867

107. Suit to eject occupancy tenant on payment of compensation—Valuation of suit for purpose of jurisdiction—Tenancy Act XXVIII of 1868), section 19.

Held, that in a suit to eject an occupancy tenant on payment of compensation

JURISDICTION—contd.

under section 19, Act XXVIII of 1868, the subject matter of the suit for the purpose of jurisdiction is the value of the hereditary right of occupancy, i.e, the price which the tenure would fetch if put up to sale, not the sum which the landlord has to pay to buy the tenant out under section 19. BUTA SINGH v. PUNJAB SINGH.
28 P R 1879

108. Hazara Settlement Rules, section 60 —Suit to correct entry in Settlement Record contrary to Settlement award.

Where plaintiff sued for correction of the Settlement record of a village in the Hazara district on the allegation that the entry in the record was, as regards the land in suit, contrary to a Settlement award in respect of it, as contained in a judgment of the Superintendent of Settlement, held, reversing the orders of the Lower Courts, that the suit as brought was not barred by section 60 of the Hazara Settlement Rules. SHAM PERKASH v. ILAHI BAKSH KHAN.
3 P R 1880

109. Suit by decree-holder to realize decree from debt due to judgment-debtor.

Where a decree-holder attached by prohibitory order a debt alleged to be due to one A, his judgment-debtor, but took no further steps in the execution proceedings to bring the debt to sale, or to get a receiver appointed, held, that (assuming that there was a subsisting debt due to A.) the decree-holder was not entitled to maintain a suit against A's debtors for the purpose of realizing his decree. TRIBENI SAHAI v. RAMAN LAL.
11 P R 1880

110. Suit against political prisoner—Alien —Act X of 1877, sections 10, 17, Clause (a) and Chapter XXVIII.

In a suit against a Cabul political prisoner detained in Lahore, held, that there is nothing in the Code of Civil Procedure to exempt such defendant from the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts of British India when sued at the place where the cause of action arose. KARAM BAKHSH v. SIRDAR SALEH MUHAMMAD KHAN.
115 P R 1880

111. Contract Act (IX of 1872), section 265—Partnership—Suit for accouunt and share of profits.

Held, that a suit for an account between the plaintiff and defendant as partners in a completed venture by way of purchase and sale of grain, and for payment of the plaintiff's share of the profits alleged to have been received by the defendant, is cognizable by Courts inferior to the District Court up to the pecuniary limits of their jurisdiction, there being nothing in section 265 of the Contract Act to debar the inferior Civil Courts from taking cognizance of such a case. Ragha v. Noranga (No. 76 P. R. 1876) followed. NARAIN DAS v. BHOLI.
71 P R 1881

JURISDICTION—contd.

112. Place of suing—Cause of action—Suit for damages for breach of contract—Place of performance of contract—Residence for purposes of jurisdiction—Act X of 1877, section 17—Return of plaint for presentation in proper Court.

In a suit brought at Rawalpindi against the Secretary of State for India for damages for breach of a contract by defendant's agent, the Forest Officer at Hazara, to purchase certain wood for conversion into charcoal, it appeared from the plaint, that the place of the performance of the contract was in the Hazara district where the plaintiff was to obtain the wood he contracted for and convert it into charcoal, and where the defendant's agent finally committed the breach of contract for which plaintiff claimed damages by seizing the wood, and withholding permission to plaintiff to manufacture the wood into charcoal.

Held, that assuming the plaintiff's cause of actin arose ex contractu, he could not maintain that a cause of action arose within the jurisdiction of the Rawalpindi Court (where it was alleged at the hearing of the appeal that the contract was made), and further, that if the plaintiff was proceeding in tort, it was equally clear that the wrongful act of conversion of which he complained took place in the Hazara and not in the Rawalpindi district.

Held also, that the term "reside" in section 17 of Act X of 1877 contemplates a personal residence, and as the defendant in the present suit could not be said to have "actually resided" in the Rawalpindi district at the date of the commencement of the suit, the Rawalpindi Court had no jurisdiction to hear and determine such suit.

The plaint was therefore ordered to be returned for presentation to the proper Court.

Lorinda Mal v. Sewa Singh (No. 57 P. R. 1874) and Shadi v. Mussammat Aishan (No. 55 P. R. 1878), cited. GANESH DAS v. SECRETARY OF STATE.
118 P R 1881

113. Pensions Act (XXIII of 1871), sections 4, 6—Crown grant—Certificate—Omission to obtain certificate before institution of suit.

Where some part of the property in suit consisted of land which the Courts below assumed to be held under a grant from the Crown which brought it within the Pensions Act, 1871, and it appeared that no certificate as provided by section 6 of the Act was obtained before the commencement of the suit, but that before the case was finally disposed of, and the final decree passed, the certificate was obtained and delivered to the Court, held, by the Privy Council, that assuming that the Court was right in considering the grant as one within the Pensions Act, it came to a correct decision in holding that, when the certificate mentioned in the Act was obtained, the suit might proceed. NAWAB MUHAMMAD AZMAT ALI KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT LALLI BEGUM.
17 P R 1882

JURISDICTION—contd.

114. Valuation of suit—Suit for redemption—Subject-matter.

Held, that in suits for redemption of mortgage where the plaintiff seeks to be put in possession of the mortgaged property upon payment of the mortgage money or such part of it as may be found to remain due, the suit is essentially a suit for possession of property, and the subject-matter of the suit is the property itself and should be valued for purposes of jurisdiction according to the value of the property. Nanak Chand v. Sain Ditta (No 54 P. R. 1878) cited. Budha v. Muhhmmad Khan (No. 20 P. R. 1879) followed. MUSSAMMAT BAKHT BHARI v. RAHIM SHAH.
82 P R 1882

115 Place of suing—Cause of action—Breach of betrothal contract.

Held, following Lorinda Mal v. Sewa Singh (No. 57 P. R. 1874), that a suit for breach of betrothal contract should be brought in a Court which has jurisdiction at the place where the failure to perform the contract occurred, which would ordinarily be the place of residence of the girl's father. BUTA v. JAGGA.
147 P R 1882

116. Valuation of suit—Suit by reversioner for cancellation of gift made by widow —Value of subject-matter of such suit.

Held, that in a suit by a reversioner to cancel a deed of gift made by a Hindu widow, the subject-matter of the suit must for purposes of jurisdiction be taken to be the future right of the plaintiff to inherit the property on the donor's death, and the value of the subject-matter the present value of the plaintiff's chance of outliving the widow. MUSSAMMAT CHUNI v. LALMAN DASS.
198 P R 1882

117. Place of suing—Cause of action—Act X of 1877, section 17.

A suit based on three hundis which were drawn at Multan by one B. M. on himself and his father, the appealing defendant, both of whom resided at Amritsar, and which were payable at Amritsar, was instituted in the Multan district, where it was heard and decided in the plaintiff's favour. It was contended by the defendant in both the lower Courts, and again in his appeal to the Chief Court, that the Multan Court had no jurisdiction to hear the suit, as neither the cause of action arose, nor did the defendants reside, within the territorial jurisdiction of the Civil Courts of that district.

Held, that the words "cause of action," as used in section 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure, could not be held to be satisfied by mere proof that the contract upon which the suit was based was entered into within the jurisdiction of the Court: that a "cause of action" depending on contract could only be deemed to arise at the place where the contract was to be performed and where a breach of such stipulated performance occurred, and that as in the present case the hundis were payable at Amritsar and were drawn on a firm, of which it was alleged the -drawer was a member, at Amritsar, and were dishonored at Amrisar and both the defendants were residents of Amritsar, the Multan Court had no jurisdiction.

The meaning of the words "cause of action" discussed and explained by Rattigan, J. Assa Nund v. Indian Carrying Co. (No. 10 P. R. 1866, Civil Ref.), Hamilton v. Punjab Bank (No. 104 P. R. 1866, Civil), Collector of Boolund-shahur v. Nanuck Chand (No. 29 P. R. 1867, Civil), Mussammat Dayawuntee v. Bhai Nundgopal (No. 2 P. R. 1868, Civil), Sahi Ram v. Golab Singh (No. 56 P. R. 1868, Civil), Lorinda Mal v. Sewa Singh (57 P. R. 1874, Civil), Ganesh Das v. Secretary of State (No. 118 P. R. 1881, Civil), and Buta v. Jagga (No. 147 P. R. 1882, Civil), cited. BANKA MAL v. CHUAH MALIK.

71 P R 1883

118. Place of suing—Cause of action—Act X of 1877, section 17—Suit on dishonoured hundis—Omission to raise objection as to jurisdiction in lower Appellate Court—Necessity for Court to decide whether it had jurisdiction—Joinder of cause of action which Court had jurisdiction to hear with one over which Court was without jurisdiction—Return of plaint—Dismissal of suit.

In a suit brought in the Ludhiana district, which was mainly based upon two hundis, but which also included an item of Rs. 27-0-9 for subsequent dealings, it appeared that the hundis had been written by the defendants' agent at Ludhiana upon a firm at Delhi, by whom they were dishonoured, and that the defendants were residents of Chandowsi in the district of Muradabad, in the North-Western Provinces.

Held, that so far as the claim rested on the hundis the Ludhiana Court had no jurisdiction to try it; that the true cause of action arose at Delhi. where the hundis were dishonoured; and the mere writing of the hundis by the defendants' agent at Ludhiana did not constitute a cause of action within the meaning of section 17 of the Civil Procedure Code. Banka Mal v. Chuah Malik (No. 71 P. R. 1883, Civil) followed.

It appeared that when the first appeal in the above case was heard, the lower Appellate Court remanded the case for fresh enquiry and decision remarking in the course of its judgment that the counsel for the defendants (respondents in that Court) stated that he had "no objection on the ground of jurisdiction." Held, that as the express consent of parties cannot confer jurisdiction on a Court which does not otherwise possess it, the omission or refusal on the part of defendants to raise the objection of want of jurisdiction could not relieve the Court, which was trying the suit, of the duty of determining whether it had or had not jurisdiction to hear it; and as in the present instance the lower Appellate Court which remanded the case did not decide the question of jurisdiction in any way, there was nothing to preclude the question being taken up by the first Court itself, and as there was no decision by the first Court upon it, it was competent for the lower Appellate Court, when the case was a second time before it in appeal, to have taken it and decided it, and it was undoubtedly open to the Chief Court to do so in the present appeal.

Held, further, that though the proper order to pass under the circumstances of the above case would ordinarily be to direct the plaint to be returned for presentation to the proper Court, yet inasmuch as the plaintiff had chosen to join a cause of action which did arise in the Ludhiana district (by claiming Rs. 27-0-9 for subsequent dealings as noted above) with one that did not, and as the Courts below had come to a final decision as regards that item, the Court was no longer in a position to adopt such a course, but the plaint must still remain on the file of the Ludhiana Court, as the foundation for the claim for Rs. 27-0-9 on a book account, in regard to which that Court had jurisdiction.

The Court, holding that the plaintiffs were not entitled to recover anything on this portion of their claim, ordered the suit to be dismissed so far as it related to the dealings subsequent to the date of the hundis, but with regard to the claim founded on the hundis, merely decided that the Ludhiana Court had no jurisdiction to hear it. NARAIN DAS v. KOTU MAL.

132 P R 1883

119. Place of suing—Test of jurisdiction in insolvency proceedings.

Held, following Parker v. Simla Bank (No. 34 P. R. 1878, Civil), that the test of jurisdiciion in insolvency proceedings is whether or no the insolvent, when the proceedings commenced, was residing or carrying on business within the local jurisdiction of the Court. RAM MAL v. LADHA SINGH.

62 P R 1883

120. Valuation of suit—Suit to cancel an adoption—Valuation of subject-matter—Course of appeal—Book Circular No. I of 1885.

In a suit for cancellation of an adoption, in which the value of the property involved was alleged to be over Rs. 5,000, and an appeal from the decree of the Court of first instance (the Subordinate Judge) was therefore instituted in the Chief Court, held, that under the rules contained in the Notification issued by the Chief Court and contained in Book Circular I of 1885, the appeal lay to the Divisional Court and not to the Chief Court, and that the fact that the case, which was pending in the Court of first instance when the Notification was issued was decided after the date of the Notification was no ground for holding that the Notification did not apply for the purpose of determining the course of appeal. BAZ v. FATTEH KHAN. 94 P R 1883

See ALSO INDAR SEN v. GOBIND JAS.

94 P R 1883 Note.

121. Valuation of suit—Suit by reversionary heir for declaratory decree—Value of subject-matter—Course of appeal—Punjab Courts Act (XVIII of 1884), section 39 (2).

In a suit by a reversioner for a declaratory decree cancelling, so far as his reversionary interest was concerned, a sale of immovable property for Rs. 6,500, held, that as it did not appear that the value of the plaintiff's interest exceeded Rs. 5,000, the appeal lay to the Divisional Court, and, not to the Chief Court. Mussammat Chuni v. Lalman Dass (No. 198 P. R. 1882, Civil) cited. JIWAN SINGH v. SANTOK SINGH.

93 P R 1886

122. Valuation of suit—Value of subject-matter—Punjab Courts Act (XVIII of 1884), section 3—Suit by second mortgagee for possession against mortgagor and prior mortgagee.

In a suit by a second mortgagee whose mortgage was for Rs. 440, to redeem the first mortgagee whose mortgage was for Rs. 155 and to get possession of the mortgaged land, the mortgagor as well as the first mortgagee being the defendants in the suit, held, by the Full Bench, that as the redemption of the prior mortgage was included in the subject matter of the suit for possession as mortgagee under the mortgage to plaintiff for Rs. 440, part of the consideration for that mortgage being the sum to be paid to redeem the prior mortgage, the redemption of which was a condition precedent to the plaintiff's right to possession under the mortgage for Rs. 440, therefore the value of the suit for the purpose of jurisdiction under the Punjab Courts Act, 1884, was the value of the plaintiff's interests as mortgagee, which could not exceed the sum secured by the mortgage to him.

The value of a suit for the purpose of jurisdiction under the Punjab Courts Act, 1884, with reference to the definition of "value," contained in section 3 of that Act, is not necessarily identical with the value of the property to which the suit relates, when it relates to any property. Butha v. Muhammad Khan (No. 20 P. R. 1879), and Mussammat Bakht Bhari v. Rahim Shah (No. 82 P. R. 1882) referred to. HARNAM SINGH v. KIRPA RAM

1 P R 1887

123. Valuation of suit—Subject-matter—Suit to close a doorway.

Held, in a suit for the closing of a doorway to a house, that the value of the subject-matter for purposes of jurisdiction must be taken to be the difference in the selling price of the plaintiff's premises before and after the door was opened. MULA MAL v. GURDIAL. 5 P R 1887

124. Valuation of suit for partition—Value of subject-matter.

In a suit to partition a house and award plaintiff his share therein held that the jurisdiction of the Court must be determined by the value of the entire property to be divided, and not by the value of the plaintiff's share. GULZARI MAL v. KANHAYA LAL.

8 P R 1887

JURISDICTION—contd.

125. Valuation of suit—Punjab Courts Act (XVIII of 1884), section 40 (a) Question respecting property exceeding Rs. 500 in value.

Plaintiff sued for the removal of a wall which he alleged that defendant had built on his land. Defendant pleaded (inter alia) that plaintiff had acquiesced in his (defendant's) erecting a three-storied building supported by the wall which plaintiff claimed to remove. This plea having been overruled, plaintiff eventually obtained from the Divisional Court a decree directing the removal of the wall. It appeared that the value of the land in suit and the wall taken together was under Rs. 500, but it was contended for the appellant in the Chief Court that a further appeal lay under section 40 (a) of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884, inasmuch as it being impossible to remove the wall without materially disturbing the three-storied building which was bounded by and partly supported by the wall, and further one of the questions for decision in the case being whether plaintiff had acquiesced in the building of these rooms, the value of the rest of the house which was not actually situate over the land claimed should be considered in calculating the value of the suit.

Held, over-ruling the above contention, that the decree sought to be appealed did not directly involve any claim to a question respecting property exceeding Rs. 500 in value within the meaning of the section of the Punjab Courts Act above quoted. DAYA SINGH v. RALIA RAM.

26 P R 1887

126. Valuation of suit—Suit for injunction against defendant to remove obstruction to plaintiff's window.

In a suit for an injunction against defendant to remove an obstruction built by defendant against a window from which plaintiff claimed to have an ancient right of light and air, held that the value of the suit for purposes of jurisdiction was the difference between the value of the plaintiff's room if the window was blocked up and the value if it was not blocked up. Daya Singh v. Rulia Ram. (No. 26 P. R. 1887) cited. AMIR SHAH v. PANDIT PYARI LAL.

52 P R 1887

127. Appeal—Punjab Courts Act (XVIII of 1884), section 40 (a)—Decree involving directly a claim to or question respecting property exceeding Rs. 500 in value.

Plaintiff, alleging himself to be a full proprietor and as such proprietor entitled to share in the offerings of a certain temple, sued the defendants for Rs. 43-1-0 as his share in the offerings for a specified year, and obtained a decree for Rs. 42-10-0, it being found that the plaintiff was a full proprietor in opposition to the plea of the defendants that he was only proprietor of his holding. Held that, assuming that the plaintiff's interest as a share-holder in the offerings of the temple was a property exceeding Rs. 500 in value, the decree which ordered the defendants to pay Rs. 42-10-0 to the plaintiff on account of his share in one year's offerings did not involve directly (and did at most only indirectly involve) a claim to or question respecting property exceeding Rs. 500 in value, within the meaning of clause (a), section 40 of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884. GOPAL SINGH v. TIRKHA RAM.

96 P R 1887

128. Punjab Courts Act (XVIII of 1884), section 35 Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), sections 223, 230, 263—Power of Court to execute decree in excess of the limits of its pecuniary jurisdiction as an original Court.

Held, by the Full Bench that a Court to which a decree has been sent for execution under the powers conferred by section 35 of the Punjab Courts Act, can in execution pass orders in regard to property in excess of the limits of its pecuniary jurisdiction as a Court of original jurisdiction, as sections 223 and 230 of the Civil Procedure Code show that there is no limitation on the power of an original Court to execute decrees of any value, section 223 (d). clause 2, allowing a Court which has passed a decree to send it for execution to any Court subordinate to it. Ram Lal v. Natha Singh. (No. 45 P. R. 1882) cited. GANGA RAM v. GUR SARAN DAS.

31 P R 1887

But see CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47, FOR 70 P. R. 1897.

129. Valuation of suit—Suit for redemption of mortgage.

Held, by the Full Bench, that in a suit in which the plaintiff sues as mortgagor to redeem immovable property in the possession of a mortgagee, the value of the subject-matter of the suit for the purpose of jurisdiction is the amount of the charge on the property and not the value of the property, Harnam Singh v. Kirpa Ram. No. 1 P, R 1887, F. B.) referred to. MUSSAMMAT RAJO v. DASU.

44 P R 1888

130. Act XL of 1858, section 29—Principal Court of original jurisdiction—Sub-Judge invested with powers of a District Judge under section 42, Act XVIII of 1884.

Held, that a Subordinate Judge who has been invested under section 42 of the Punjab Courts Act with the powers of a District Judge for the purpose of hearing Civil appeals, has no jurisdiction to dispose of cases under Act XL of 1858, as a principal Court of original jurisdiction within the meaning of section 29 of that Act. Larsick v. Buta Mal (No. 80 P. R. 1887) referred to. HAR NARAIN v. DORABJI.

47 P R 1888

131. Contract Act (IX of 1872), section 265—Court of Sub-Judge of 1st class "not inferior to the Court of the District Judge" within the above section.

Held, that the Court of the Subordinate Judge of the 1st Class in the Punjab is a Court not inferior to the Court of the District Judge for the purposes of section 265 of the Contract Act. AJUDHIA PERSHAD v. SURAT RAM.

55 P R 1888

132. Suit for partition—Value of subject-matter.

Held, by the Full Bench, that for the purposes of jurisdiction, the true test of the value of the "subject-matter" in a suit where one co-sharer sues for partition of his share of a joint estate, is the value of the share which is sought to be divided, and not of the entire estate. Gulzari Mal v. Kanhaya Lal (No. 8 P. R. 1887) overruled. BALLAH MAL v. BHUPA MAL.

110 P R 1888

133. Suit for removal of dams—Value of subject-matter.

In a suit for the removal of certain dams erected by the defendant, held that for the purposes of jurisdiction the "subject matter" of the suit was the right to have the ordinary flow of water, which plaintiffs contended used formerly to water their lands unrestricted by the erection of the dams in question, and that the "value of the subject-matter" for jurisdictional purposes was the depreciation caused to the plaintiffs' lands by the interference with their free right to such water. Mula Mal v. Gurdial (No. 5 P. R. 1887) cited. SHAHBAZ KHAN v. DOSA KHAN.

163 P R 1888

134. Suit for redemption of mortgage on payment of Rs. 300—Defendant pleading that the mortgage debt was Rs. 3,000—Valuation of suit.

Plaintiff sued for redemption of a mortgage of certain land, alleging the amount of the mortgage debt to be Rs. 300. Defendant pleaded that the mortgage debt was Rs. 3,000 and not Rs. 300. The first Court decided that the land was mortgaged for Rs. 300, and gave plaintiff a decree for redemption accordingly, which was upheld on appeal by the appellate Court, which also decided that the mortgage was for Rs. 300. Defendant then lodged a further appeal in the Chief Court, which he desired to maintain as of right, asserting that the value of the suit exceeded Rs. 500 by reason of his plea that the mortgage-debt was Rs. 3,000.

Held, that the value of the suit was not altered by the plea of the defendant, whether that plea were true or false; that the value of the suit was therefore only Rs. 300; that the decree for redemption on payment of that sum involved only indirectly, and not directly, a question respecting property exceeding Rs. 500 in value, and therefore no appeal lay as of right under clause (a) of section 40 of the Punjab Courts Act. Mussammat Rajo v. Dasu (No. 44 P. R. 1888) referred to. BHAG MAL v. MOHRA.

169 P R 1888

135. Valuation of suit—Set-off—Civil Procedure Code, section 111.

Held, that the value of the subject-matter of a suit, in which the defendant claims a set-off is for the purposes of jurisdiction the value of the suit as instituted by the plaintiffs, and not such value plus the set-off and where both the suit and the set-off are within the powers of the Court hearing the case, it can, as provided by section 111, Civil Procedure Code, adjudicate upon both cases. JIT SINGH v. MUTU SHAH.

69 P R 1889

136. Valuation of suit for redemption of mortgage—Plaintiff suing to redeem for Rs. 2,300—Defendants pleading that the mortgage money was over Rs. 5,000—Valuation of suit—Course of appeal.

Plaintiff claimed redemption of a mortgage, offering to pay Rs. 2 300, the sum for which the land was originally mortgaged. Defendant pleaded that Rs. 5,850 was due on the mortgage, and the land could not be redeemed until that amount was paid. Plaintiff did not offer to pay more than Rs. 2,300; but the first Court held that Rs. 5,240 was due on the mortgage, and decreed that plaintiff might redeem on paying that amount. Plaintiff appealed against this order to the Divisional Judge, urging that he was entitled to redeem for Rs. 2,300, and the Divisional Judge held that the value of the suit exceeded Rs. 5,000, and that the appeal lay to the Chief Court.

Held, that for the purposes of jurisdiction the valuation of the suit by plaintiff must govern the case. It could not be said that he had valued the suit at any sum over Rs. 2,300, and the fact that defendant alleged that a sum of over Rs. 5,000 was due to him, and that the Court had found this in defendant's favour made no difference. RANJE KHAN v. BIRBAL.

91 P R 1889

137. Judge of the Court of the District—Delegation—Acting without jurisdiction—Making inventory only ancillary to order declaring right to possession.

The application contemplated by section 1 of Act XIX of 1841, should be made to the District Judge in the Punjab, and he alone has power to make the summary investigation and pass the final order under the Act. No authority is given to him either in Act XIX of 1841, or in the Punjab Courts Act to delegate this authority to a subordinate Court. He acts without jurisdiction, if he directs a subordinate Court to make the whole of the investigation and report the result to him for final orders. Directing an inventory to be taken is merely an incidental proceeding under the above Act, the principal order in the case should be for determining the right to possession. GANPAT v. MUSSAMMAT MANKOUR.

203 P R 1889

138. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 111—Set-off—Jurisdiction of Court.

To enable a Court to set-off the defendant's demand against that of the plaintiff, the amount claimed to be set-off—not merely the difference between the two claims—should be within the pecuniary limits of the Court's jurisdiction. THAKAR DAS v. NAND LAL.

17 P R 1890

139. Suit to establish right to attach and sell property in execution of decree—Value of subject-matter—Punjab Courts Act, XVIII of 1884, section 3.

In a suit for a declaration that a certain house of the value of Rs. 6,000 was liable to attachment and sale in execution of a decree for Rs. 429.

Held, that the value of the subject-matter for purposes of jurisdiction was the amount of the decree sought to be realized out of the property, and not the value of the property itself. I. L. R. XVC alc. 101, followed. BHAI HARNAM SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT BHAGWAN DEVI.

50 P R 1890

140. Suit by a decree-holder to establish his right to attach certain property.

For the purpose of jurisdiction, the value of a suit by a defeated decree-holder to establish his right to attach certain property released from attachment is the value of that right to the plaintiff. Where the value of the property exceeds the amount of the decree, the value to the plaintiff is limited to the amount of his decree, but where the amount of the decree exceeds the value of the property, the value to the plaintiff is the value of the property. MAYA MAL v. BELA SINGH.

121 P R 1890

141. Pre-emption—Value of suit—Punjab Courts Act, 1884, sdction 40 (1) (a)—" If the " decree involves directly some claim to, or " question respecting property of the value of " one thousand rupees or upwards."

A, sued for pre-emption of certain property on payment of Rs. 400, the price stated in the deed of sale. The real value of the property sold was upwards of Rs. 2,000. The Courts below concurred in decreeing the claim. The defendant appealed and a preliminary objection was taken to the hearing of the appeal on the ground that the value of the suit was below Rs. 1,000, and therefore no further appeal lay to the Chief Court.

Held, that the appeal lay under section 40 (1) (a) of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884. as the decree involved directly a claim to property of the value of over Rs. 1,000. LACHMAN DAS v. HAKIM SINGH.

94 P R 1890

142. Jurisdiction—Valuation of suit—Suit by mortgagee for possession against mortgagor and certain third persons alleged to be trespassers.

The value of a suit by a mortgagee for possession of land mortgaged to him is the value of his interest therein as mortgagee, and not the value of the land.

The mere fact that the mortgagee joins certain persons as defendants, not upon the basis of the mortgage, but upon the allegation that they are in possession as trespassers, does not affect or modify this rule.

No. 1 P. R., 1887, followed. DHERU MALL v. THAKAR DAS.

1 P R 1891

143. Jurisdiction—Companies' Act—Fraud and misrepresentation—Repudiation.

The plaintiff Bank was registered under the Indian Companies' Act, 1882, on 10th June 1884, as a limited liability company with a capital of five lakhs of rupees, divided into 2,500 shares of Rs. 200 each.

On 1st September 1884, a general meeting of the share-holders was held, at which six directors, including one C. were elected, and one P. was appointed manager. These proceedings were confirmed at a subsequent meeting on 3rd October 1884.

Informal lists appear to have been in circulation in which persons entered their names for the shares they would take; but on 8th October 1884 only 1,111 shares had been formally taken and 1,389 remained in the hands of the Bank undisposed of.

Between the 8th and 25th October 1884, C. visited Jodhpur with the express purpose of inducing the Princes of that State to take shares in the Bank. He succeeded in inducing them to take 975 shares, giving for them Promissory Notes at the rate of Rs. 125 per share, viz., Rs. 100, the amount called up by the Bank, and Rs. 25 premium. In this way the present defendant-appellant, one of the Jodhpur Princes, took 400 shares and gave a Promissory Note for Rs. 50,000.

The remaining shares out of the 2,500 were disposed of by the end of December 1884, in the manner described in the judgment of the Chief Court, reported as No. 127 P. R. 1889 (pp. 438, 439), Upon a suit brought by the Bank to recover the amount due on the Promissory Note given by the defendant for Rs. 50,000, held that as decided in No. 127 P. R. 1889, the District Judge, Delhi, had jurisdiction to entertain the suit. MAHARAJA SIR PARTAB SINGH v. PROVINCIAL BANK OF DELHI, LIMITED.

72 P R 1891

144. Suit by mortgagee for possession—Suits Valuation Act, 1887—Value for purposes of jurisdiction.

A suit by a mortgagee seeking to recover possession of land under his mortgage is a suit falling within the rules made under the Suits Valuation Act, 1887, which provide that in suits for possession of land under clause 5, section 7, Court Fees Act, 1870, the value of the suit for purposes of Jurisdiction is thirty times the land revenue.

The ruling in No. 1 P. R. 1887, that in a suit by a mortgagee for possession, the subject-matter was not the land itself but the mortgagee's interest therein under the mortgage, must be deemed to be superseded by the passing of the Suits Valuation Act and the rules made thereunder. RAM KISHEN v. SAYAD BHAHIM SHAH.

56 P R 1892 F B

145. Jurisdiction of Court of Political Agent, Bhopal—Jurisdiction of British Court to make decree affecting immovable property out of British India.

In a suit for partition and possession of a one-third share of property, movable and immovable, including cash and choses in action, the Court of first instance (District Judge, Delhi) being of opinion that issues could not be properly settled until defendants

1, 2 and 3 produced their books, which the Political Agent of Bhopal reported could not be spared, directed defendant 1 to file a written statement setting forth in detail the entire joint property, movable and immovable, and in the case of trading firms, a balance sheet for each showing how they stood on the date of suit.

Held, that the Court of the Political Agent, Bhopal, whatever its jurisdiction may be, was not one of the nature referred to in section 12, Civil Procedure Code, not being established by the authority of the Governor-General in Council, and Bhopal not forming part of British India.

Quære.—Whether the District Judge, Delhi, had jurisdiction with regard to the immovable property situate and business conducted in foreign territory. HANS RAJ v. JHANDA MAL. 59 P R 1892

146. Suit for account—Value of relief sought—Jurisdiction—Course of appeal—Authority of Appellate Court disclaiming jurisdiction to order payment of additional Court-fee.

The plaintiff sued the defendant for an account valuing the relief sought at Rs. 100, and expressing his willingness to pay the Court-fee due upon any sum decreed in excess of this amount in accordance with the provision of section 11, Court Fees Act, 1870.

After the defendant had produced the books containing the parties' accounts and a commission had examined the same, the plaintiff filed a petition stating that he appeared to be prima facie entitled to recover a sum over Rs. 12,000 and praying that the matter might be fully investigated. No amendment of the plaint was, however, either asked for or ordered, and the suit eventually resulted in a decree in the plaintiff's favour for Rs. 2,343.

The plaintiff then appealed for a further sum of Rs. 1,716; and the defendant, against the decree in the plaintiff's favour, for Rs. 2,343.

Both parties presented their appeals to the Divisional Judge, who held that the appeals lay to the Chief Court.

Held, that the appeals lay to the Divisional Judge: under section 7, clause (iv) of the Court Fees Act, the valuation of the original suit for purposes of Court-fee fixed at the amount at which the relief sought is valued in the plaint. This, in the present case, was Rs. 100 and the amount was never altered by any amendment of the plaint: and under section 8, Suits Valuation Act, 1887, the value of suit for an account as determinable for the computation of Court-fees and the value for purposes of jurisdiction, shall be the same.

The value of the suit for purposes of jurisdiction was Rs. 100 and the appeal lay to the Divisional Court under section 39, Punjab Courts Act (as amended).

Semble.—If an Appellate Court has no jurisdiction to hear an appeal, it is not competent to it to pass orders for the payment of any additional Court-fee which it considers should have been levied in the first Court.

[Cf. No. 40 P. R. 1892].—FATTEH MUHAMMAD KHAN v. MOHAN LAL. 86 P R 1892

147. Jurisdiction—Small Cause Court—Withdrawal of suit pending in and determined by District Judge—Objection as to jurisdiction.

In a suit heard and determined by a competent Court the parties, having without objection joined issue and gone to trial upon the merits, cannot subsequently dispute the jurisdiction of the Court on the ground of irregularities in the initial proceedings, which, if objected to at the time, would have led to the dismissal of the suit.

Ledgard v. Bull, I. L. R. IX All. 191 (P. C.) referred to and followed—SETH RAM RATTAN AND RATHI RAM LAL v. SUNDER DAS 118 P R 1892

148 Hundi drawn at Jammu in foreign territory but payable in British territory—Jurisdiction of Court—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), section 17, Explanation iii—Act of State—Jurisdiction of British Courts to take cognizance of an act done by a foreign State in the exercise of its soverign powers and not professing to be justified by municipal law.

Plaintiff sued upon a hundi drawn in his favour at Jammu, Kashmir territory, but payable at Sialkot, the defendant being the drawer and the suit being instituted in the Court of the Subordinate Judge, Sialkot.

The claim having been decreed, the defendant appealed to the Chief Court and contended (i) that the lower Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the claim; (ii) that no presentment of the hundi had been proved; and (iii) that he had already discharged his liability under the hundi inasmuch as before the suit was brought he had been compelled by the Kashmir Government, which had in its executive capacity confiscated all properties belonging to the plaintiff within its territory, to pay over to it the amount due on the said hundi.

Held, as to the first contention that, as the amount due on the hundi was payable at Sialkot, the lower Court has jurisdiction to entertain the suit; as to the second contention that there was sufficient evidence on the record that plaintiff had duly presented the hundi at Sialkot and that it had been dishonoured by non-acceptance; but as to the third contention held per Rivaz, J. that as the defendant had been compelled by the Government of a foreign State, of which he was a subject, acting purely in its executive capacity, to pay over to it the amount due on the hundi, such payment was conclusive as between the parties and discharged defendant's liability.

Held, further per Rivaz, J. that the British Courts had no jurisdiction to question the legality of an act done by a foreign State in the exercise of its sovereign powers and not professing to be justified by Municipal law.

Per Benton, J.—Though the debt was a liability to be discharged outside Kashmir territory, viz., at Sialkot, the law applicable to it was the law of the Kashmir State, the lex loci contractus, and there was every reason to believe that the obligation was validly discharged according to the law and usage of that State in consequence of the order of the supreme authority in the State appropriating to itself the debt due from the defendant to the plaintiff.

No. 36 P. R. 1877 (reported on appeal to the Privy Council as No. 7 P. R. 1882), and I. L. R. V Mad. 273, cited and followed.

GHOLU SHAH v. PANDIT KIRPA SHANKER. 21 P R 1894

149. Valuation of suit for purposes of jurisdiction—Suit for perpetual injunction—Jurisdiction of Munsif, 3rd Class—Rules of the Chief Court Book Circular No. V of 1889—Suits Valuation Act (VII of 1887), section 11.

Plaintiff sued in the Court of a Munsif of the 3rd Class, with powers up to Rs. 100 only, for a perpetual injunction and in his plaint valued the suit at Rs. 35.

Held, that inasmuch as the valuation of a suit for a perpetual injunction has, for the purposes of jurisdiction, been fixed by the rules of the Chief Court sanctioned by Government at a sum between Rs. 100 and Rs. 500, the Munsif had no jurisdiction to try the suit, and that the defect of jurisdiction was not cured by section 11 of the Suits Valuation Act, 1887, which is limited to cases of " over-valuation or under-valuation " in which the valuation depends on the discretion of the parties or the Court. GANGA SAHAI v. SHEO LAL. 132 P R 1894

150. Jurisdiction—Suit for redemption of mortgage—Course of appeal—Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 39.

Plaintiff sued for redemption of an $\frac{11}{16}$th share of a mortgage of certain lands and houses for a total sum of Rs. 10,500, alleging that Rs. 2,000, more or less, were due upon the said share, and prayed for a decree for redemption on payment of any sum which might be found to be due thereon after proper adjustment of the accounts. Defendants pleaded that about Rs. 10,000 were due upon the said share, and the first Court decreed redemption upon payment of Rs. 7,558. Plaintiff appealed to the Divisional Judge, who entertained the appeal, and, in modification of the decree of the first Court, allowed redemption upon payment of Rs. 3,850. The question referred to the Full Bench was whether the Divisional Judge had jurisdiction to hear the appeal.

Held, by the Full Bench, that the Divisional Judge had jurisdiction to hear the appeal, there being nothing upon the plaint to show that the value of the suit exceeded Rs. 5,000, and the question of jurisdiction having to be determined with reference to the claim made and not the decision upon the claim.

No. 44 P. R. 1888 (F. B.) No. 169 P. R. 1888, No. 91 P. R. 1889, and No. 63 P. R. 1891, cited.

JURISDICTION—contd.

No. 56 P. R. 1892 (F. B.) explained. MUHAMMAD KHAN v. ASHAK MUHAMMAD KHAN.
106 P R 1895 F B

151. Value of suit for purposes of jurisdiction—Suit for possession of immovable property—Suit by mortgagee against third party in actual possession.

Plaintiff, who was already in possession as mortgagee, sued a third party who was in actual possession but, whilst admitting that he was only a tenant, refused to recognize plaintiff's title.

Held, by the Full Bench, that the suit must be regarded as one for possession of immovable property by a person out of possession against a person in actual possession whom the plaintiff sought to eject, and that the value of the suit for the purposes of jurisdiction was the value of the immovable property itself. JALAL v. MUHAMMAD BAKHSH.
1 P R 1896 F B

152. Course of appeal—Suit for pre-emption of a house valued by plaintiff at Rs. 804—Jurisdiction.

The plaintiff instituted a suit for pre-emption of a house and valued it, both for the purposes of jurisdiction and of Court-fee at Rs. 804. The District Judge dismissed the suit on the merits, but found that Rs. 2,000, the amount entered in the deed of sale, was actually paid. The plaintiff appealed to the Divisional Court and again valued his suit at Rs. 804. The Divisional Judge directed the plaintiff to pay Court-fees on Rs. 2,000 in the first Court and on Rs. 1,500 in his Court, which order was complied with but the appeal was rejected on the merits. On a further appeal being filed in the Chief Court the value of the claim having been fixed at Rs. 1,500 the respondent objected that no further appeal lay, as plaintiff had originally valued his claim for Rs. 804 and had not obtained a certificate under section 40 (1) (d) of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884.—

Held, that the value for the purposes of jurisdiction must ordinarily and in the absence of any special circumstances suggestive of mala fides on the part of the plaintiff be determined with reference to the claim made and not to the decision upon that claim, and that in the present case no further appeal lay without a certificate under section 40 (1) (d) of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884.

Mahabir Singh v. Behari Lal (I. L. R. XIII All. 320), Nilmony Singh v. Jagabandhu Singh (I. L. R. XXIII Calc. 536), Hazara Singh v. Lal Singh (63 P. R. 1891), and Muhammad Khan v. Ashak Muhammad Khan (106 P. R. 1895), approved and followed. Mrs. Parsick v. Mr. H. Parsick (72 P. R. 1899), distinguished. IMAM DIN v. GHULAM MUHAMMAD. 101 P R 1900

153. Jurisdiction of a Civil Court to entertain a suit for a declaration that a partition effected by the Revenue authorities was not binding on the reversioners of one of the parties—Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 158 (2).

JURISDICTION—contd.

A proprietor holding jointly with a widow having applied to the Revenue authorities for the partition of his joint holding and partition having been effected and sanctioned, the reversioners of the husband of the widow filed a civil suit for a declaration that they should not be held bound by the partition after the widow's death, as such partition was improper, the most valuable portion of the land having been fraudulently apportioned to the petitioner with the connivance of the widow.

Held, that as the presence or absence of fraud did not affect the jurisdiction, and that the object of suit being to strike directly at the formal proceedings of the Revenue authorities and to impugn the correctness of their method of partition, the Civil Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit.

Buta v. Mussammat Jiwani (82 P. R. 1899), distinguished. GULAB SINGH AND OTHERS v. MUSSAMMAT SUKHAN AND OTHERS.
104 P R 1900

154. Jurisdiction—Suit for declaration—Value of subject-matter—Suits Valuation Act, 1887, section 11.

Held, that a suit for a declaration that certain land was shamilat deh and liable to partition can only be adjudicated upon by a Court of competent powers with reference to the value of the entire estate, and that section 11 of the Suits Valuation Act is not applicable where the valuation has been fixed by rules having the force of law. The value of the land in dispute at thirty times the jama being Rs. 7,212-14-6, the first Court, a Subordinate Judge of the 2nd class, was not competent to try the suit. A question of jurisdiction has to be noticed and decided if it is patent on the record although the ground was not urged in the lower Appellate Court nor raised in the memorandum of appeal in this Court.

Ganga Sahai v. Sheo Lal (132 P. R. 1894) followed; Ballah Mal v. Bhupa Mal (110 P. R. 1888), distinguished; Dinesh Chandar Roy Chaudhury v. Sarnomoy Debi (1 Calc. W. N. 136), Gunamani Dasi v. Mahabharat Ghosh (1 Calc. W. N. XXIII). Krishnasami v. Kanakasabai (I. L. R. XIV Mad. 183), and Muthusami Mudaliar v. Nallakulantha Mudaliar (I. L. R. XVIII Mad. 419), referred to. KHUDAYAR v. WAHAB DIN.
35 P R 1901

155. Jurisdiction—Valuation of suit—Suits Valuation Act, 1887, section 8—Suit for the cancellation of an auction sale of a house sold in execution of a money decree not exceeding Rs. 100—Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 3.

The value, for purposes of jurisdiction, of a suit for the cancellation of an auction sale of a house sold in execution of a money decree is the value of the judgment-debtor's interest in the house in suit assessed by the auction sale, and not the value the plaintiff chose to assess it at.

JURISDICTION—contd.

Sheo Devi Ram v. Tulsi Ram (I. L. R. XV All. 378), Bhai Harnam Singh v. Mussammat Bhagwan Devi (50 P. R. 1890), Harnam Singh v Kirpa Ram (1. P. R. 1887, F. B.), Modhusudun Koer v. Rakhal Chunder Roy (I. L. R. XV Calc. 104) and Sohan Lal v. Gulab Mal and others (50 P. R. 1896) followed. RADHA RAM v. HIRA AND OTHERS.
42 P R 1901

156. Letters of administration—Grant by District Judge—Jurisdiction of Chief Court to extend the original grant—Succession Act, 1865, section 264.

Held, that the Chief Court has no jurisdiction to amend a grant of letters of administration granted by a District Judge so as to give it operation beyond the local limits of such District Judge's jurisdiction. IN THE GOODS OF ARTHUR JAMES GRANT.
1 P R 1902

157. Jurisdiction—Appellate jurisdiction—Jurisdiction of Divisional Judge to decide an appeal which under section 39 (a) of the Punjab Courts Act lies to a District Judge—Consent to jurisdiction—Acquiescence—Revision—Chief Court's powers of revision—Discretion—Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 70.

Held by the Full Bench-

(i) that there is a defect of jurisdiction if a Divisional Judge entertains an appeal direct from a Court of first instance which, under the provisions of section 39 (a) of the Punjab Courts Act, lies to a District Judge. The consent and acquiescence of the parties to a suit cannot give jurisdiction to a Court of limited jurisdiction;

(ii) that under section 70 (a) of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884, the Chief Court is not bound to interfere on the revision side even when there is a defect of jurisdiction unless failure of justice has directly resulted from such defect.

Minakshi Naidu v. Subramanya Sastri (I. L. R. XI Mad. 26, P. C.), Bibi Ladli Begam v. Bibi Reji Rabia (I. L. R. XIII Bom. 650), Ledgard v. Bull (I. L. R. IX All. 191, P. C.), Babaji v. Lakshmibai (I. L. R. IX Bom. 266), and Narain Das v. Kotu Mal (132 P. R. 1883), cited. Drabo Moye Dabee v. Biprin Mundul (10 W. R. 6), Teekum Lal Das v. Peter MacArthur (1 W. R. 279), Gopi Nath Chobey v. Bhagwat Parshad (I. L. R. X Calc. 707), Ooma Sunduree Dossee v. Bipin Beharee Roy (13 W. R. 292), distinguished. HANSA v. RAN SINGH.
36 P R 1902 F B

158. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 17—Place of suing—Contract with commission agent for sale of goods.

Plaintiff who resided at Kasur, in the Lahore District, sent bhusa from the Ferozepore District to the defendant who was trading at Jhelum for sale as a commission agent. Disputes having arisen between the parties with reference to the bhusa transactions, plaintiff filed a suit at Kasur to recover the amount due to him.

Held, that as under the Contract Act there is no liability for a commission agent to render accounts to his principal at his place of business unless there is an express agreement to do so, no cause of action arose in Kasur and that the Munsif of Kasur had no jurisdiction to try the case. DEVI DYAL v. HARI CHAND.

79 P R 1902

159. Jurisdiction—Place of suing—Suit to recover money paid in Delhi on hundis sent by defendants to Delhi and there accepted and paid by the plaintiff—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 17.

The plaintiff, a banker in Delhi, remitted Rs. 5,000 from Delhi to Ajmere at defendants' request, and received from the defendants hundis drawn on their firm at Bombay in satisfaction of this loan which were subsequently dishonoured and yielded no return. The plaintiff thereupon filed a suit in Delhi and claimed to be reimbursed. The Delhi Court declined jurisdiction, holding that as the hundis were made payable at Bombay the Court there alone had jurisdiction to hear the suit.

Held, that under the provisions of section 17, Civil Procedure Code, the Delhi Court had jurisdiction to entertain the suit. As the plaintiff expended money on defendants' behalf at Delhi he might with reference to the ordinary application of section 49 of the Contract Act naturally expect to be reimbursed there, and the fact that the defendants gave him hundis on Bombay which had been accepted in Delhi made no real difference.

Shivji Ram v. Hem Raj (57 P. R. 1900 F. B.) and Devi Dyal v. Hari Chand (79 P. R. 1902) distinguished. Muhammad Shaffi v. Karamat Ali (76 P. R. 1896) referred to. MINA MAL v. KANAK MAL.

10 P R 1903

160. Jurisdiction—Place of suing—Consent to jurisdiction—Waiver—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 17, 20.

Held, that where the cause of action in a suit had not arisen within the jurisdiction of the Court in which a suit was instituted and only one of several defendants resided within that jurisdiction and no permission for the institution had been obtained in accordance with the proviso to section 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the non-resident defendants, who objected to the jurisdiction in their written statements, could not be held to have acquiesced in that jurisdiction by reason of their failure to apply under section 20 of the Code.

Viraragava v. Krishnasami (I. L. R. VI Mad. 344) and Ismail Peer Ambalam v. Neelamegam Servai (8 Mad. L. J. 38) not followed. NAND LAL v. GOPAL SAHAI.

27 P R 1903

161. Review of judgment—Appeal—Jurisdiction of Divisional Judge to review his judgment after it has been upheld on appeal by the Chief Court—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 623.

A subordinate Court is competent to review his judgment on an application put in before an appeal has been preferred against his decree and is not prevented from proceeding upon it by the subsequent presentation of an appeal, but he cannot entertain or deal with any such petition after an appeal in the case has been decided by a superior Court although it might have been put in proper time and is still pending in his Court.

Bhurrut Chunder Mojoomdar v. Ram Gunga Sein (5 W. R. 59, F. B.), Thacoor Prosad v. Baluck Ram (12 Calc. L. R. 64), Bunkoo Lal Singh v. Basoomunissa Bibee (7 W. R. 166), Mussammat Jowala Devi v. Kanwar Sen (32 P. R. 1896), and Abdul Kasim v. Piyare Lal (59 P. R. 1900), referred to. JAGAN NATH v. DEVI DAS. 25 P R 1904

162. Review—Review by some only of several defendants—Power of Court to reverse decision as regards persons not parties to the review—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 544, 623.

One Phusa, a Jain Jat, died childless leaving immovable property which in default of heirs reverted to the proprietary body of the village. 'A,' also a Jain Jat of the same village, claimed to be a collateral of the deceased and brought a suit against all the khewatdars of the village for recovery of possession. The suit was decreed. Among the defendants four alone applied for a review of judgment on the ground that they have discovered the pedigree table of the Settlement of 1863, which conclusively proves that the plaintiff was not a collateral of the deceased proprietor. The other defendants were neither impleaded in the review proceedings nor did they take any steps to become parties to it. After enquiry the Court granted the review and reversed the decree as to the petitioners without disturbing decree as to those defendants who were not parties to the review proceedings. Thereupon the remainder of the khewatdars appealed to the Divisional Judge urging that the claim of the plaintiff should have been dismissed not only as regards the share of the four petitioners but as regards all the defendants. The Divisional Judge accepted this view and dismissed the whole claim.

Held, that the Divisional Judge had no jurisdiction to reverse the decree of the first Court against the appellants who being no party to the application for review, nor to the subsequent proceedings, had no locus standi to appeal to the Divisional Judge.

Section 544, Civil Procedure Code, has no application to applications for review; that section applies only to appeals and cannot be applied to reviews by analogy, for there is in effect no analogy between the two.

Poresh Nath Mundul v. Khettri Monee Debia (20 W. R. 284) and Chinta Monee Paul v. Pearee Mohun Mookerjee (15 W. R. 1, F. B.), distinguished. GULLA v. MOTA AND OTHERS. 47 P R 1904

163. Discretion of Municipality to take action under section 92 of the Punjab Municipal Act of 1891—Power of Civil Courts to interfere with such discretion.

Held, that the Civil Courts have jurisdiction to set aside and restrain all such acts of a Municipal Committee which do not fall within the scope of the authority given them by the Municipal Act. ALI MARDAN v. THE MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE OF KOHAT

45 P R 1905

164. Valuation of suit—Suit for settlement of accounts of an alleged partnership—Value of relief sought—Finding of Court exceeding its pecuniary limits of jurisdiction, effect of—Court Fees Act, 1870, sections 7 (v) (f), 11—Suits Valuation Act, 1887, section 8.

Held, that the value of a suit for settlement of accounts of a partnership where the plaintiff fixes an arbitrary value and prays for a decree for such sums as he might be found entitled to against the defendant is the amount which the Court subsequently finds to be due to plaintiff, and if in any such case the actual value is found to exceed the pecuniary limit of the Court's jurisdiction it is not competent for it to pass a decree in the case but should return the plaint for presentation to a Court having jurisdiction.

Bhag Mal v. Mohra (169 P. R. 1888), Maman Mal v. Abdul Aziz (58 P. R. 1902), and Gulab Khan v. Abdul Wahab Khan (I. L. R. XXI Calc. 365) approved. Rameswar Mahton v. Dilu Mahtom (I. L. R. XXI Calc. 550), dissented from. MANNA LAL v. SAMANDU. 46 P R 1906

165. Valuation of suit—Suit to establish right to attached property—Value of subject-matter for purposes of jurisdiction.

Held, that the value for purposes of jurisdiction of a suit to establish right to attached property is the value of the decree sought to be realised out of the property and not the value of the property itself

Gulzari Lal v. Jadaun Rai (I. L. R. II All. 799), followed. BISHNU v. LAL SINGH.

55 P R 1906

166. Jurisdiction—Loss of jewellery sent through Post Office—Suit against bailee for damages for negligence—Place of suing—Performance of contract—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 17.

Plaintiff, a jeweller of Lahore, sued there to recover from the defendant, a jeweller of Calcutta the value of certain jewellery sent by him to the latter for repairs and subsequently lost. It appeared that the parties' method of transacting business was that the plaintiff used to receive jewellery for repairs from customers and send it off by post uninsured to the defendant who after executing the necessary work returned the same uninsured, by V. P. P. the "value" being the sum due to defendant for the work. The plaintiff having sent defendant in the ordinary way a parcel of jewellery for repairs with a request for its return by first post, the defendant returned the articles duly repaired according to the usual practice by V. P. P. uninsured, the sum to be recovered from plaintiff being the amount of his charges for the work done. The parcel was received in the Lahore Post Office and a postal peon took it to the plaintiff's shop, but as the latter did not find it convenient to pay then, he refused delivery and asked the peon to keep it for him till he should send for it. Two days after the plaintiff sent an employee for it but the parcel could not be found and in fact it was discovered to have been lost. The defence contended that the Lahore Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit.

JURISDICTION—contd.

Held, that as a part of the performance of the contract between the parties consisted in the payment by plaintiff of a sum of money to the Post Office at Lahore for the behoof of defendants, the Lahore Court had jurisdiction to entertain the suit. BOSECK & Co. v. MANDLESTON. 70 P R 1906

167. Valuation of suit—Suit to establish right to attached property—Value for purposes of jurisdiction.

Held, that the value for purposes of jurisdiction of a suit to establish right to attached property is the amount of decree sought to be realized out of the property and not the value of the property itself. ZORAWAR SINGH v. DEVA. 142 P R 1906

168. Municipal Committee—Discretion of, to take action under section 120 E.—Suit by person aggrieved for injunction—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to restrain action of Municipality—Punjab Municipal Act, 1891, section 120 E.

Although under the powers given by the Legislature a Local Body may act perfectly bonâ fide and intra vires in issuing a certain order, still if that order injuriously affects the rights of any person the latter can undoubtedly appeal to the Civil Courts for protection, and to that protection he will be entitled if he can prove that the order in question was made wantonly or without any reasonable justification. Therefore, where a Municipal Committee, at the instance of a discontented neighbour, issued a notice under section 120 E of Act XX of 1891, directing the plaintiff to close his old drain and to make a new one in its place along a different alignment, without any proper enquiry as to whether the existing drain was a menace to the health of the people surrounding it or the general public,

Held, that the Civil Court should under such circumstances interfere by injunction to restrain the Committee from carrying out its order which was inequitable and pretended to proceed on an alleged danger to health which was in no way proved. GHULAM MUHAMMAD v. JANGBAZ. 58 P R 1907

169. Jurisdiction of Civil Court—Suit for removal of watercourse constructed with the sanction of a Canal Officer—Northern India Canal and Drainage Act, 1873, sections 21, 22, 24, 25.

JURISDICTION—contd.

Held, that a Civil Court has no jurisdiction to restrain a party, to whom permission has been granted under the Northern India Canal and Drainage Act, 1873, to construct a watercourse through the land of another, from such construction. MOHKAM DIN v. MANSABDAR. 74 P R 1907

170. Place of suing—Contract for supply of goods—Place where performance was to be completed—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 17.

A merchant at Lahore sent a certain sum of money as an advance to a firm in Cochin for certain goods, under a contract which provided that the firm would draw bills for the balance due to them under the contract upon the remitter's firm at Lahore and negotiate them with any banker, which bills the remitter undertook to pay and retire at maturity.

Held that a suit for the refund of the money advanced and damages due on the breach of the contract against the Cochin firm on account of the goods not being shipped lay at Lahore, where the payment of the balance was to be made, as that was the place where the performance of the contract was to be completed within the meaning of clause (ii) of Explanation 3 to section 17 of the Civil Procedure Code. PREMJI KHETSEY v. GHULAM SARWAR KHAN. 36 P R 1908

171. Sale of a house in foreign territory by a British Insolvency Court—Suit for the recovery of a share of the purchase-money on the ground of co-ownership—Suit for determination of an interest in immovable property.

